FARMERS' AID INSTITUTE

ADVISORY COMMITTEE

With Board of Trade

HAPPY SELECTION OF LOCAL MEN

Messrs. Keilholtz, Adams, Harbaugh and Fuss Appointed. - Women Invited to Attend Sessions Next Week, January 30 and 31.

The Frederick Board of Trade is getting things in shape for the Farmers' Institute to be held there on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 30 and 31. The sessions of the institute will begin at 10 a. m. each day, and will close at 4 p. m., with an intermission at noon. The day sessions will be held in the Opera House. The committee of leading farmers from all over the county, which will act in an advisory capacity to the Frederick Board of Trade, has been made up and contains well-known farmers in all the districts of the county. To the members of this committee will be entrusted the work of urging interest in the institute. It is the purpose of those interested in the work to have programs of the institute printed and to send a number to each member of the committee, so that farmers throughout the county may see just what subjects will be discussed. The sessions of the institute are open to women as well as to men. Many subjects will be discussed, which will probably be of greater interest to the women on the farm than to the men.

The farmers' advisory committee follows: R. Rush Lewis, T. B. Hayward, John W. Humm, Charles W. Zimmerman, Oliver Wren, R. C. Dutrow, G. A. T. Snouffer, D. Z. Padgett, Joseph Grinder, L. F. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the Chemistry Bureau of the Department of Agriculture, is exonerated in the re-port of the House committee that investigated the charges growing out of the food controversy that stirred Adminis-tration circles last Summer. The report was presented to the House Monday. The Republican members of the committee joined with the Democrats in making the report unanimous.

The report pays much attention to the Remsen board, to the activity of Solicitor McCabe, who was the principal opponent of Dr. Wiley in the department, recommends that Dr. Wiley have a free hand in the enforcement of the pure food and drug law, thus limiting very largely the power formerly exercised by Solicitor McCabe. limitation already has been put into effect under the action taken by President Taft shortly after the adjournment of the extra session brought the active Congressional investigation to a close.

Virtually the only dissent from the sweeping verdict for Dr. Wiley is based upon the irregular employment of Dr. H. H. Rusby of New York at $20 a day, a compensation which was not to aggregate over $1,600 in any one year, the amount authorized under the law. It was for this employment at that per diem rate, to get around the official limitation of pay for such services to $1,600, that the Personnel Board of the department first, and then Attorney General Wickersham, recommended the removal of Dr. Wiley from office.

Nevertheless, not a single civilized country ever disputed the right of another country to define for itself classes of undesirables, because under the principles of international law this right is the absolutely incontestable prerogative of every sovereign power. Guided there, by, the United States established exactly in the same way in immigration acts classes of undesirable aliens, determined by qualifications of an economic, sanitary, moral, social, and even religious character. American legislation, for instance, prohibited the entry into the United States of persons belonging to religious bodies tolerating polygamy, whereas Russian legislation does not see any cause for such restriction. #### FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scoth-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.-Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

A HOT FIGHT AHEAD.

The next presidential campaign will measure to the very extreme the power, acumen and finesse of the leaders in both parties. This early in the preliminaries it can quarter will be asked or given. The matter is in good hands and

THE Advertising Club of Baltimore is after the 1913 convention and ought to have it. The same conditions that make Baltimore the best convention city in the country apply to business as well as politics, and every large interest in Maryland's metropolis should join hands with the Advertising Club in its efforts to bring within her borders an association of clubs forming one of cial advancement in the country.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, Annapolis, has once more assumed its old air of hospitality. Under Governor Warfield this mansion was always open. Receptions, dinners and other social functions were the order of the day throughout that memorable administration, and it is evident that Governor Goldsborough also intends to let the people of Maryland enjoy with him the social side of his regime.

IT is understood that the new Governor is very much interested in the "back to the land" movement and that he intends to lend his influence to the plan as far as Maryland is concerned. FEEDING IN TUBERCULOSIS.

Dr. John R. Murlin, professor of Physiology at Cornell University, says that the theory of stuffing in tuberculosis has been exploded. "It should be borne in mind," he says in the official organ of the Society for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, "that diminution in the supply of gastric juice, and consequently reduction of digestive ability, is common among consumptives. Therefore the enfeebled stomach should not be overburdened with more food than it can take care of. Disregard of this fact brings about much of the digestive and intestinal trouble of the tuberculous individual." Dr. Murlin contends that a consumptive will do well and gain weight on three pints of whole milk, eight ounces of cream, five ounces of milk sugar, six eggs and two slices of buttered toast, as a ration for each twenty-four hours. I have frequently emphasized the belief in these Hints that the commonly accepted theory in regard to feeding in sickness in general and in tuberculosis in particular, is wrong. Any food taken above what the body can utilize imposes a drain upon the system to eliminate it and to antidote the noisons that must from the waste-and if milk or eggs fail to digest or if the quantity is excessive, the injury is greater than from vegetable foods. Dr. David R. Lyman of Wallingford and Dr. Paul B. Johnson of Washington, D. C., in addition to others whom I have quoted, hold that the stuffing theory is wrong. Both agree that the average person eats too much. The quantity of food that a consumptive should take varies as does the quantity required by the normal person and any such advice as can be given in this way must be adapted to the case by the physician.

A BAND OF PLUCKY EX-PLORERS.

By A. W. MACY.

That was a plucky little band of explorers who, on May 24, 1869, under the leadership of one-armed Major Powell, plunged into the canyon of Green river, where the Union Pacific railway crosses it, determined to follow the river to its junction with the Grand, and then follow the Colorado river until it emerges on the lowlands of southern California. They knew what it meant—a perilous journey of more than a thousand miles, through dark canyons a mile or more in depth, over whirling rapids, through raging torrents and past yawning It took them over chasms. three months to make the journey, but they made it; seven of the ten explorers and four of the six boats emerging in safety. To avoid that the utmost precautions are In the first place, the plant is located so far from a railroad track that a spark from a passing locomo entry from the Democratic string. tive can never reach it. The grass and weeds are not permitted to grow high enough around it so that when they become dry a fire could reach the plant by that means. Strangers are kept off the grounds. Famous Snuff Takers.

The eighteenth century was the age custom was general among all classes of people. It was an act of politeness for well bred men to offer their snuffboxes to well bred women. Women themselves carried their own boxes and interchanged pinches with the gentlemen. At fashionable dinner parties after the cloth was removed snuffboxes were passed around. Pope and Bolingbroke, Swift and Congreve, Addison and Steele, all indulged in the pleasures of snuff. Dr. Johnson carried his snuff in the capacious pockets of his waistcoat and would convey it to his nose without stint. He could not abide the narrow confines of a box. Frederick the Great resembled him in this respect. Both Napoleon and Wellington were prodigious snuff takers, but Washington indulged only moderately. Jefferson was fond of snuff, as his waistcoat and frill often showed. Henry Clay was another famous snuff taker and often needed the stimulus of a pinch when making a speech.-Pear-

Nothing to Wear. The fact is that women are uncomfortable if they are not fashionably dressed. No man understands the sub tle and complex significance of the phrase "nothing to wear." Witness the distressed but utterly puzzled expression that overspreads a man's face at the words. He knows that his wife or his sister looks charming in "the blue one" or "the lace one" or "the one with the jet." She has looked charming in it often enough for him at last to identify it, and that, unless he is an exception to his sex, is very often. He is cheerfully getting into his evening coat for the fiftieth time. No wonder he does not realize that some frock which the first time it is worn made for triumph should the tenth time make for humiliation. Suspended Animation. As we descend in the scale of animal life we find that what kills the higher animals does not injure the lower. Cut a polyp in two and you have two liv ing polyps instead of one dead polyp. Break off a lobster's claw and another will grow. You may, it has been said, freeze a fly, but you cannot freeze it to death. There are infusoria called "wheel animalcules." These rotifers have many curious qualities, among which is that of suspending animation for an indefinite period without ceasing to live. Colonies of rotifers may be desiccated and rendered apparently lifeless, and in this condition they may be kept for months and years and possibly centuries. A single drop of water will restore them to life, and the wheel bearers will instantly resume their functional activity precisely at the point where it was broken off .-Harper's.

Cost of a Silk Secret.

The development of the silk manuderer who wished to be arrested, as facture in England began some time related by a writer in Le Matin, Paris. in the seventeenth century, but was greatly extended through the enterprise of John Lombe of Derby, who in 1715 went to Leghorn, Italy, to as they proved their innocence they learn the secret of the Leghorn silk manufactures, a most difficult and danshelved. A few days afterward a man gerous adventure. Visitors were allowed to pass through the factories and see the machines in motion, but could learn nothing of their construction and operation. Finally, through the good offices of a priest, Lombe secured employment as a workman, slept in the mill, worked at a spinning machine and by night made measurements and plans. He worked at the mill until an English ship was sent on purpose to take him away. He had is not the way to get arrested. You scarcely sailed when an armed brig was sent after him, and he barely esoral statement made to us. Then we caped safely to England. It is said that he died at the age of twentynine, poisoned by the emissaries of his Leghorn employers, but the silk manufacture was securely established, became a great industry in England and has since been established all over the world .- National Magazine.

Trains Charged by Buffaloes.

In pioneer days the railroads crossing the plains were often delayed for many hours by buffaloes. Sometimes they caused more serious trouble. In 1871 and 1872 trains on the Atchison. Topeka and Santa Fe railroad were charged by the enraged beasts, cars were derailed and overturned and the lives of train crews and passengers enlike the squirrels. Under no condition dangered. Many tales of hairbreadth escapes were related by small parties of soldiers, frontiersmen and emigrants, and it is altogether possible that many an emigrant wagon with its occupants that left the Missouri river and was never seen again was overwhelmed by the buffaloes rather than wiped out of existence by the Indians, to whom all unexplained disappearances were attributed. Large buffalo bulls weighed 2,000 pounds or more, and cows weighed in the neighborhood of 1,200 pounds. Herds numbering many thousands were really irresistible and in a stampede carried all before them.-Outing.

Fatal Street Music.

In casting up the score against street musicians it must never be forgotten that to them was due the untimely death of one of England's foremost humorists, John Leech. The strain of ceaseless application to his work rendered Leech abnormally sensitive to street noises of all descriptions, and street music in particular drove him knew of his enmity toward them and ply to plague him. In a letter to Mr. for the suppression of street noises, Mark Lemon, the editor of Punch, declared that beyond a doubt Leech's ulor breast pang, was due to the disturbance of his nervous system caused by the continual visits of street bands and organ grinders.-London Chronicle.

The Senator's Sarcasm.

For many years there served in the United States senate a man of brilliant mind and many fine qualities, but who was forever estranging many with whom he desired to be friendly by reason of his incurably sarcastic manner both of speech and action. Once an intimate friend wrote the senator the appointment of another friend to a minor position in the government. The senator returned a most sarcastic reply, declining to recommend the appointment. It is said that he never forgot the merited rebuke he received from the friend who had suggested the appointment:

My Dear Senator-I think it would be well for you to reserve your sarcasm for the rapidly increasing number of your enemies, instead of offering it to creasing number of your friends, of whom Navajo Blankets.

Much unadulterated nonsense has been written concerning the symbolism of Navajo Indian blankets and the poetry, legend, tradition and history woven by the squaw into its fabric. It is true that some designs have a symbolic meaning, but Hopi, Zuni and Apache symbols are used quite as freely as those peculiar to the Navajos. The Navajo squaw is one of the least imaginative and least poetical of human beings, and it is quite safe to say that even when sympolic designs are employed in blanket weaving it is without the remotest reference to their true significance.-Argonaut

THE VALUE OF ADVERTISING

Case of the Trained Athlete and the Poor Foreigner That Illustrates Power of Publicity.

Provided an athlete, trained to the minute, fitted out with the best money can buy in the shape of specially prepared shoes, walking sticks, loose-fitting and comfortable clothing and refreshments, walks across the continent in anything like reasonable time, he is given wide publicity, is wined and dined and is proclaimed a being of great endurance, determination and self-will, a think-nothing-of-suffering, climb-over-a-barrier, set-all-obstacles-aside sort of person.

But a man in need of work and determined to get it, probably not in the best of physical condition, short of clothes and without knowledge as to where he is to get his next meal, can walk 3,000 miles, can undergo all sorts of hardships and self-denials, and he would not even be given credit for having done anything out of the

Aside from other features of the comparison, it all goes to show what advertising will do in any branch of numan existence or endeavor.

When the athlete starts out on his long tramp he is advertised far and wide and the eyes of the country are directed toward him. If he fails to complete his journey he is soon forgotten, but if he succeeds, he is a he-

But in the case of the other man, he is not advertised and nothing is heard of him from one end of the journey to the other, so it does not matter whether he fails or succeeds

And the same condition applies in other walks of life. The man who is wide awake, who directs attention to himself by advertising, by not only blowing his own horn but having others blow loud blasts on it occasion ally is more certain than is the man who starts out without a blare of trumpets or without an attempt to attract and keep the attention of the public.

Recently a New York fireman set out from the Atlantic coast city to walk to this coast. He was a trained athlete and made the trip in good time and got a whole lot of notoriety and considerable money out of the trip. He was advertised far and near Jpon reaching Redwood City he was at once employed.

The accomplishment of the needy tailor, comments the Oakland, Cal., Enquirer, is more worthy of notice than is that of the athletic fireman. But the tailor's long tramp was not advertised.

For that reason he has failed to attract much attention and but little applause for his exhibition of endurance and determination.

The Return Visit

'I understand that you have some visitors from the country at your house," said Mrs. Wilson, cheerily, when she met Mrs. Warburton waiting for the car on the corner. "That makes a pleasant change."

Mrs. Warburton coughed—one of those noncommittal coughs that may mean almost anything.

"Yes," she said, "they are relatives of my husband from down in the country where we stayed part of last summer. They came up to do some fall shopping and, of course, camped down on us.'

"Of course," chirruped Mrs. Wilson. "It's a case of turn about. Now you have a chance to repay them for your delightful stay on the farm. I think it's so nice to have a big house and-"

"You just try having a big house some time and see how you like it," suggested Mrs. Warburton, grimly. 'Not that these aren't the nicest people in the world," she said, hastily, recalling Mrs. Wilson's predilection for retailing gossip, "but it was rather unexpected, if the truth must be told. When I invited them last summer in a general sort of way I certainly never expected five of them to come piling in on me after telephoning from downtown.

"Five?" said Mrs. Wilson, elevating her eyebrows.

"Five," repeated Mrs. Warburton. "My husband's brother and his wife and the three girls. What do you think of that? And me just breaking in an immigrant maid that never saw a gas range until last week!

"You can talk all you like," went on Mrs. Warburton, "about paying up for visiting on the farm by entertaining your country relatives in town, but let me tell you they get the best of it." "Why, I don't see—" began Mrs.

Wilson. "Of course, you don't," retorted Mrs. Warburton, decisively, "because you've never been through it. When James and I went down to the country in June with little Bobbie these people never had to do a hand's turn for us. At least, they didn't seem to feel called upon to do anything to entertain us and we were satisfied to be let alone to wander around in the woods or sit in the shade while they went on with their work as though we weren't on earth. The only time they put themselves out was when they got up a picnic, and it would have been better if they had never thought of it. We went trailing off to some creek in a wagon without springs and sat down to a cold lunch in the damp woods, eating stuff overrun with ants and fighting mosquitoes, and little was in Poland, received word that Bobbie fell into the creek and was dried out behind a blackberry bush.'

"The idea!" said Mrs. Wilson, peering anxiously up the street for the missing trolley car.

"Yes, but when they come up here and pile in on top of us we have to turn everything upside down to entertain them," went on Mrs. Warburton, bitterly. "Oh, yes, bless you! Like most women from the country, the girls want to go trailing about gaping in at the windows of the big stores. So I have to pilot them around. You know how I detest shopping-I don't own town once a month. Honestly, I've been in some of those stores so often in the last few days that I believe the house detectives are keeping an eye on me, expecting to see me pick up a waist or a pair of shoes."

"Why, you poor thing!" said Mrs. Wilson, sympathetically. "But that isn't the worst," continued the indignant hostess. "Oh, dear, no! James has to come in for his share of it. After dragging me all over town every day until I'm tired out, they have to haul us both out to a theater nearly every night. Why, I need a rest

"You can hardly blame them.

"That's not my fault," snapped Mrs. Warburton. "Why should I be made and give dignity to the smaller ads to suffer for the shortcomings of the best investment. Other schemes that that city people live in a whirl of exrural districts? Country people think citement and have nothing on their but they seldom reach the public minds except racing down town to shop in the daytime, tearing home on crowded elevated trains to eat a picked-up dinner and dashing back tate." This is the conclusion advanced down-town again to the theater. I declare, as James says, I'm all in!"

"Why, you poor dear!" exclaimed Mrs. Wilson. "You must be really fagged out!"

"Well, I am," admittede Mrs. Warburton, "but don't mention a word to anybody, because they're James' relatives and really they're the nicest people in the world."

"When they are at home," suggested Mrs. Wilson, motioning to the motorman

"Exactly," said Mrs. Warburton.

The First Requisite.

Richard Watson Gilder had a dry wit of his own. He once received a call from a young woman who wished to secure material for an article of 3,000 words on "Young Women in Literature." "It was a fetching subject, full of meat," explained, the young woman afterward, "and I saw not only 3,000 words in the story, but The manner of it (its tone and tem- at least 6,000. But I never got any further than the first question. Mr. Gilder's answer took the very life out of me. I waited with bated breath. careless and infelleitous in its style. when he answered: 'Postage stamps.'

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish asmany personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. #### Fox Chase at Littlestown.

(Contributed.)

On Tuesday the 23rd, at Littlestown, one of the most exciting and best-attended fox chases held hereabouts in children's teeth. The treatment if years was pulled off much to the delight taken in time is practically painless of fully 300 persons.

After the fox was liberated and given a start the hounds were turned loose and finally caught Reynard as he was taking to cover. Some of the hunters estimated that the chase was fully sev. en miles and it was the most rapid course, say old fox hunters, that they ever witnessed.

Mr. Harry S. Boyle's trick bitch, 'Fashion," registered and full-blooded, caught the fox and Mr. Boyle no doubt porary and permanent teeth are erupted: feels amply repaid for all the trouble and time spent on the trip. ## In Kitty's Absence

Mrs. Emmons sighed deeply.

"What's the matter, my dear?" asked Emmons, looking a bit anxiously, across the breakfast table. "Don't you feel well?'

"Oh, yes, I'm feeling well. I was just wondering what I should do with myself. Now that the house is thoroughly cleaned and in order once again after all Kitty's sewing, I don't seem to have anything on hand.'

"You still have me," said Emmons, "I don't believe one sock of mine was darned all the time Kitty was at home. As an all absorbing occupation, Kitty certainly is a wonder. There never seemed to be a day all summer when you weren't doing something for Kitty. I don't see how there could have been anything left to mend, make or make over for her when the season ended.

"You don't apppear to realize that a girl going away to boarding school eeds a complete outfit," remarked Mrs. Emmons a little stiffly. "I'm sorry if you've found any holes in your socks.'

"Geraldine," he said in a pained tone, "do you suppose I've lived all these years and escaped an intimate acquaintance with mint in its various forms? It is just as easy to tell mint when you see it as it is to recognize a potato! This is mint!"

Mrs. Ampley dropped her golf clubs and sat down plump in the middle of the disputed green stuff. At the eighteenth hole they had wandered off the course into the inviting autumn woods bordering the links. Her cap was one sided and her face was flushed.

"You may know mint," she admitted crisply. "I've not the slightest doubt that you could tell it in a tall glass a mile away, but let me inform you that when it comes to catnip you've nothing on me. Why, I was brought up on catnip—almost! Haven't I gathered it by the bushel for the cats and kittens we always had at home? I——"

"Fine aroma," interrupted Ampley, twisting the sprig he held beneath his nose with the maddening air of a connoisseur. "I don't know when I've stumbled on a finer bed of mint, really!"

"You'd infuriate me if you weren't so silly," remarked his wife. "And you are so absurdly stubborn!"

CLEAN WATER FOR POULTRY

Drinking Fountain So Arranged That Hens Cannot Scratch Litter and Dirt Into Pan.

When the hens are shut up in the house, they are very apt to scratch dirt into the drinking pan and also to muddy up same, by standing in it with their feet. By using about twelve 11-inch lengths of heavy wire, the wire protector shown in illustration can be easily and simply made. The wire is joined together at the top by winding with a piece of malleable wire, and the wires are then bent outward in the form shown at the bot-

FORCING FOWLS FOR MARKET

Good Judgment and Proper Management Essential in Fattening Poultry-Keep Pens Dark.

To fatten poultry quickly and profitably requires good judgment and proper management in the care of the fowls and proper feeding. The best foods are bits of fat meat, mashes of meal or fine grits made from yellow corn, with skim milk; boiled potatoes, rice and oatmeal and milk. If anything, oatmeal is preferable because of its greater heating qualities and its effect on color or fat. The main point to keep in view is to fatten your fowls in the shortest all its intimate friends and sit out on time possible. To do this they should the back fence and yowl at you in be in a coop or pen, where they cannot take much exercise, for by exer-

Managing Willie

"I was over at Mrs. Kershaw's the other day," said the woman with the little boy who was calling on her next door neighbor, "and I must say that she has changed of late years! Why, when I knew her as a girl she had such ability and was such a manager -and you ought to see the way that house is run and the perfectly dreadful way she has with her children!
