ROOSEVELT ON HIS PARTY

ITS FIRST GREAT FEAT
Has Beaten One of the Old Parties

CONGRATULATES HIS FOLLOWERS

Colonel, Defeated for a Third Term, Issues Statement Saying Battle Has Just Begun.—He Intends to Continue the Fight.

Declaring that the Progressive party has come to stay and that the battle for the people's rights has just begun, Colonel Roosevelt made a statement bearing upon the election and the future of the movement he is leading.

He regards the party's showing in polling more than 4,000,000 votes, in the face of numerous obstacles naturally in the path of a new movement, as "literally unparalleled in the history of free government." The statement follows:

Col. Roosevelt's Statement.

"I congratulate the Progressives of the country; that is, I congratulate those good men and women, who, with sincerity of purpose for the common good, have had the vision to look into the coming years and see what the future demands from us who work in this present.

One of Old Parties Beaten.

"What the Progressive party has done since the theft of the Republican organization by the Republican bosses at Chicago last June is literally unparalleled in the history of free government, worked under representative institutions. Three months have gone by since some hundreds of earnest men and women gathered to found the new Progressive party. Without much money, without any organization, against the wealth of the country, against the entire organized political ability of the country, against the bitter hostility of 90 per cent. of the press of the country, against the furious opposition of every upholder of special privilege, whether in politics or in business, and with the channels of information to the public largely choked, the Progressive party has polled between four and four and one-half million votes; has hopelessly beaten one of the old parties, both in the electoral college and in the popular vote; has taken second place in the nation, and either first or second place in some thirty-seven of the forty-eight states. No task in any way approaching this has ever before been performed by any party in our country. Such a feat, performed by volunteers hastily brought together and without any previous co-operation with each other, against the trained veterans of the political arena—these trained veterans including the entire mercenary forces

MARYLAND WEEK IN BALTIMORE INTERESTS EVERYBODY

To Promote Agricultural Resources of State and Give Opportunity for Countries and City to Get Together.

"Maryland Week" has become an annual celebration in this State. It is the week when the Maryland State Horticultural Society, Maryland Crop Improvement Association, Maryland State Dairymen's Association, Maryland State Beekeepers' Association and the Farmers' League of Maryland hold their annual meetings and exposition at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore, November 19 to 23.

The aim of "Maryland Week" is to promote the agricultural resources of this State and furnish an opportunity for the county and city people to get together and discuss matters of common interest.

A special effort has been made by the officers of these Associations, in co-operation with the business men of Baltimore, the press and the transportation companies, to make the annual meetings this year an even greater triumph than last.

We are assured of having the largest and best exhibit of its kind ever held in the East. No fruit grower or farmer and his family can afford to miss attending the various meetings and show.

The Associated Boards of Trade of Maryland will hold their annual meeting in Baltimore during the week, and this will afford an opportunity for the business men in our towns and cities to become more closely affiliated with the farming interests of the State and to more fully appreciate the importance and need of their assistance in developing the agricultural resources of their communities; for it is self-evident that increased agricultural production will give a corresponding increase in industrial development.

ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER FOR EMMITSBURG ON THE WAY

After Many Years of Wise Planning and Waiting Project Has Now Become Assured.—Current Will be Furnished by Large Plant at Security and Sold to Residents of Emmitsburg and Vicinity by Local Stock Company.—Streets of Emmitsburg Will be Electrically Lighted.

When the project of an electric light and power service for Emmitsburg was brought up a year or two ago, it seemed as if the only way a service would be purchased was to build a small plant here of a size to meet the local demand for power and light as estimated. After careful consideration plans for a plant operated by an engine run by fuel, oil or gas produced from a cheap grade of anthracite coal, were figured on. The estimated cost of such a plant, taken together with the necessary poles, wiring and other accessories was about $7,500. Such a plant, running from late in the evening, with perhaps a short run in the early morning for six months in the year, it was thought would sell electric power for about 20c. a kilowatt hour or about 1 cent an hour for an ordinary light and still make ends meet and have a reasonable profit on the money invested.

It was hoped that as more people took the service and the amount of power sold was increased this price might be reduced somewhat. On this basis subscription books for stock in a local electric light and power company were opened and more than fifty of the citizens of Emmitsburg subscribed.

Just at this time, however, the plans for the construction of a large power house at Security, near Hagerstown, which would be capable of supplying all of Western Maryland included in Frederick and Washington counties, were apparently coming to be realized. In this connection it was pointed out that Emmitsburg could have a much better and cheaper electric service if it were supplied from such a plant instead of from a little local plant, which could not afford to run all day on any business now in sight here, and which would always be subject to the uncertainties of gas or oil engines in its operation. Power from the large plant would be on hand day and night and all the growth of business that might come to the local company would be taken care of.

Upon the assurance from responsible parties that electricity from the Security plant would be offered at a rate under what a local plant could provide it for and that such a service would be ready in a "few months." It was thought wisest to await further developments in that direction instead of putting hard earned dollars in a local plant which soon might be dispensed with.

All this was in 1910. Since that time many things have happened. Among them, and of immediate interest to Emmitsburg was the fact that the people interested in the building of the power plant at Security, struck many a snag and are only today getting their plans into realization. Without going into details as to how it all happened, it is a fact that from time to time the project was thrown out of joint, and it is only now that it may be safely stated that power from the plant will be ready for distribution early in the coming year.

Till this time it seemed as though the only thing for those interested in the local plans to do was to float along and wait until the situation was mended or ended.

It is now a pleasure to be able to report that it has mended. A contract has been made for supplying electric power to this community at a rate that will enable electric light and power to be at the disposal of local people at but little more than half the price that would have been necessary with a local plant.

In part the charges under this contract will be about the same as the present recently reduced rate in Frederick and will bring down the cost of an ordinary electric light to less than three-tenths of a cent an hour, and the cost of power to less than it can be produced with a gasoline engine at the present cost of gasoline. It will, moreover, be available all the time and in practically unlimited quantities.

The total investment cost of the new project which includes a transmission line from the substation of the Frederick Railroad Company, in Thurmont, will be about 20 per cent. less than that of the former plan and will be in every way more favorable to town operating cost.

It is felt that the advantage now to be obtained in this important feature of Emmitsburg's growth and development have been well worth waiting for although the waiting has been much longer than anyone connected with the project foresaw or intended. With the coming of a 2c. hour service at the rate outlined Emmitsburg will be in a favorable position electrically speaking, as any town of ten and twenty times its population.

It is understood that the citizens of Emmitsburg are invited to own the company that is to furnish this electric service and it will no doubt be a matter of local pride as well as of good business, to see that the ownership of a working majority of the stock of the company remains in the hands of local people.

It might be pointed out that, while promising a fair return on the money invested, the company proposes and has virtually contracted to furnish the town with an adequate system of street light at a rate quite as low as any obtained in Maryland.

THE FUTURE OF THE PARTIES

AS VIEWED BY BRYAN

Fine Democratic Chance For Permanent Ascendancy

OUTLOOK WITH WILSON BRIGHT

Under His Leadership a Record For Progressiveness May Be Expected.—Roosevelt As Leader Will Prove Dead Weight To New Party

After the showing made by the new party its members ought to have no difficulty in capturing the organization of the old party, if they desire to do so. This is the statement made by William Jennings Bryan, discussing the future of political parties, since the recent election. He went on to say: But they may prefer to wait and see what the Democrats are going to do, for the future of the new party as a separate organization must depend very largely on the manner in which the Democratic party meets the responsibilities of its new position.

Thinks Third Term Issue Settled.

As for Mr. Roosevelt himself, all depends upon the attitude he now takes toward the problems which confront us. If he still aspires to a third term, he will prove a dead weight to the new organization rather than an inspiration. In so far as human calculation is possible, the third term idea seems to have received its quietus, and the chances are that before the next election the States will be ratifying an amendment to the Constitution limiting the President to a single term.

If Mr. Roosevelt lays aside his ambition and determines to devote himself to the unselfish propagation of progressive ideas, he will soon recover what he has lost in public esteem and make himself a moral force in the nation. A man's moral force depends very largely upon the unselfishness of his efforts, and this rule applies to Mr. Roosevelt as well as to others.

The ex-President is a man of great ability and wonderful energy; he has an enthusiastic following—many of his supporters being almost idolatrous in their attachment. If he will give them a chance to believe that he is working wholly for the public, their admiration will know no bounds. Time will show whether Mr. Roosevelt is willing to enlist under the banner of another and fight in the ranks, or whether he will insist on carrying the standard himself.

Democrats Must Measure Up.

It is too early even to compare with accuracy the real strength of the parties. We do not know yet whether the Democratic party has made a material gain in the number of its voters or

CATHOLIC WOMEN TO ERECT BUILDING IN WASHINGTON

It Will Occupy a Site on The Catholic University Grounds and Is Expected To Be Completed In a Year.

The erection of a national church at the Catholic University in Washington city has been determined by the Catholic women of the United States. It will be built under the direction of the Right Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, rector of the university, who has had the project in mind for several years.

Owing to the annually increasing number of students at the university, it is the intention of the promoters of the movement to erect a much larger church than is now required.

An interesting feature of the movement is the fact that men will not be called upon to contribute to the building fund. Every dollar for the entire edifice, furnishings and equipment will come from women. As the number of Catholic women extends into the millions, it is stated that only a small contribution from each will produce the necessary amount.

Mgr. Shahan, rector of the University, has long desired to have a church erected on the university grounds, but as dormitory buildings were needed first, he decided to let the church wait until later. It will now be built under his direction and turned over to the university entirely free of debt.

Although the architect has not completed the plans, the structure will conform to the general line of architecture at the university. It will be a massive building of stone, and will occupy a commanding site.

It is the purpose of those back of the movement to form the Catholic women of the entire country into committees to receive contributions. These will be forwarded to the treasurer of the fund, who will be appointed by Mgr. Shahan. It is believed that the church will be completed within a year.

President Taft's Cabinet will remain intact until he goes out of office March 4, according to information obtained at the White House.

Radical changes in the sanitary equipment of trains are to be ordered by the United States public health service just as soon as practical remedies can be devised, according to officials of the service at Washington. Recently public health surgeons were ordered to inspect all trains.

Colonel Roosevelt returned to his office at the Outlook in New York for the first time since he was shot, at Milwaukee. He made the journey by automobile and train from Jersey Bay.

That the Bulgarians have captured most of the forts which constitute Constantinople's last line of defense was persistently reported on the strength of messages from Sofia and Belgrade.

Negotiations for the surrender of Constantinople to the Bulgarians have already begun, according to Lieut. Wagner, who is with the Bulgarian army.

Two hundred Zapatist insurgents have been killed in a battle with General Blanquet's federals at Cuernavaca, Mexico.

President-elect Wilson's mail these days amounts to considerably over 1,000 letters a day. The first mail Friday morning brought him 920 letters, mostly of a congratulatory nature. This is entirely aside from the thousands of telegrams that have been coming in almost continuously. The Governor answers each letter and telegram with a personal letter.

"Jem Mace, Champion of the World," is part of the inscription upon a marble cross which has just been set up by a few old friends in Norwich Cemetery to the memory of the famous pugilist, who was a Norfolk man born and bred, and for many years lived in London. The actual burying place of the old man is Anfield Cemetery, Liverpool.

Country Has Greatest Corn Crop in World

COMPARISON WITH PAST YEARS

November Crop Report Shows Notable Gains In All Farm Staples.—Corn Alone Was Worth $1,850,776,000

A corn crop of 3,169,137,000 bushels, or 281,921,000 bushels more than the greatest crop of corn ever grown in any country of the world, is the feature of the country's most remarkable agricultural year in history, according to the November crop report of the United States department of agriculture just issued. The report completed the government's preliminary estimates of the nation's principal farm crops. This great crop of corn was worth on November 1 to farmers $1,850,776,000.

The enormous sum of $4,171,134,000 represented the farm value on November 1 of the United States crops of corn, hay, wheat, oats, potatoes, barley, flaxseed, rye and buckwheat. With the value of the growing cotton crop and the crops of tobacco, rice and apples, the aggregate value of these principal farm products will mount well beyond $5,000,000,000.

The increase netted $515,057,000 over the value of last year's crops.

In Pennsylvania, the yield of corn per acre was 42.1 bushels the total production being 61,003,000 bushels; of potatoes, 106 bushels per acre, total 28,090,000 bushels; tobacco, 1450 pounds per acre total, 64,090,000 pounds.

Details of the report follow.

Corn—Total production, preliminarily estimated 3,169,137,000 bushels compared with 2,531,488,000 bushels last year and the record crop of 2,927,416,000 bushels in 1906. Yield per acre, 21.3 bushels, compared with 23.9 bushels last year and 26.7 bushels, the ten-year average. Average farm price, 58.4 cents per bushel, compared with 64.7 cents last year. Corn of 1911 crop remaining on farms November 1 was 64,764,000 bushels, compared with 123,824,000 bushels of the 1910 crop remaining.

No More Thirst On Great White Way.

The Caledonia, of the Anchor Line, docked in New York on Sunday. She came from Glasgow and brought 5,000 cases of Scotch whiskey, twelve quarts to a case. Any one can work out that sum—60,000 quarts. Now for the rub, or, as the talk is about liquid, now for the choke. How many drinks to a quart?

Some of the more conservative said a quart bottle should yield twenty drinks. One million two hundred thousand drinks! Others held that twelve good drinks ought to use up a bottle. Only 720,000, but think what whoppers they would be! Nobody seemed to know just the right amount, but all agreed that there was enough liquid refreshment on board the steamship to assuage the greatest thirst that ever came down the Great White Way.

of politics—should be a source of pride not only to those who performed the task, but to all believers in good citizenship and in the capacity of Americans for self-government.

Battle Has Just Begun.

"During the campaign I said repeatedly that this was in no shape or way a one-man movement, but a movement for a great principle—a movement which has sprung, as all healthy movements in our democracy must spring, from the heart and conscience of the people themselves. This truth must be kept steadily before the minds of all of us.

"The progressive party has come to stay. If either of the old parties will endeavor to put into legislation any one of our planks it can count upon hearty support in so doing; but we will not rest contented until the entire platform is enacted into law and becomes part of our political system, national and state.

"I am proud, indeed, that the great good fortune has been mine to fight shoulder to shoulder with the men and women who, in the ranks and various positions of leadership, have waged this great battle for social and industrial justice.

"So far from being over, the battle has just begun. We will not rest content until every feature of the Progressive program has been put into effect; and when this has been done, unquestionably there will have opened to us new avenues along which it will still be a duty to work for the moral and economic betterment of our people."

whether its success is due entirely to the division in the Republican party. If the complete returns show a large gain in the Democratic vote it will furnish encouragement to believe that the party has made a permanent advance. If, however, the victory must be credited wholly to a division in the Republican party, the Democratic party will have even more reason to be on its good behavior, for a failure to rise to the requirements of the occasion will not only disappoint the Democrats but will unite the Republicans.

Gov. Wilson showed remarkable wisdom and discretion in dealing with the problems that arose during the campaign; he has more than fulfilled the expectations of those who favored his nomination. His progressiveness has been more and more emphasized as he has taken up the questions with which he has had to deal, and he will enter the office with the confidence not only of his own party but of the opposition as well.

Hope of Democrats.

The party's hope for the future depends upon its fidelity to the progressive cause. Any turning back would be fatal. Expediency therefore will join hands with principle in compelling the party to advance to the fulfillment of its pledges.

Under the leadership of a man like Gov. Wilson who has demonstrated not only capacity but courage and conscience also, there is every reason to believe that the Democratic party will so discharge its duty to the public as to lay the foundation for permanent ascendancy in the Nation. Gov. Wilson has shown that he appreciates the fact that his Administration will mark an epoch—an epoch that can be made glorious by the vindication of the party's claim to the confidence of the public.

A New Election Analysis.

A contributor to the New York Times sums up the election result as follows: 1860—Democratic Party in power for years. Its bulwark, special privilege, (slavery.)

Breckenridge—Candidate of standpatters.

Douglas—Candidate of insurgents.

Lincoln—Candidate of regenerated people. Lincoln wins; minority candidate.

1912—Republican Party in power for years. Its bulwark, special privileges, (tariff-fed trusts.)

Taft—Candidate of standpatters.

Roosevelt—Candidate of insurgents.

Wilson—Candidate of regenerated people. Wilson wins; minority candidate.

Taft the Breckenridge of 1912.

Roosevelt—the Douglas of 1912.

Wilson the Lincoln of 1912.

And Roosevelt all through the campaign thinking himself the Lincoln of the hour, when in fact only the Douglas!

The New British Ambassador.

Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, now Minister at Stockholm, will succeed Mr. Bryce. Sir Cecil, now fifty-five years of age was created K. C. M. G. in 1906. He has served at Stockholm as minister since Sept. 1, 1908. In 1886 he was Acting Second Secretary at Washington, to act as Secretary to the British delegate to the International Marathon conference, Aug. 27, 1889. After serving for a time at Brussels and Tokio he was transferred to Washington in 1893. He was Charge d'Affaires at Teheran in 1900 and Minister to Persia in 1906-1908.

before the American people are all subordinate to this of the extension of the presidential eligibility beyond eight years. For the first time since the organization of the government your candidacy has intersected this, as so many believe, revolutionary issue into practical politics. To meet this every other issue must wait, and be it for one or many years, this issue will hold pre-eminence over every other until settled. This interferes with the natural progress of the nation and is all wrong.

It is seldom that mortal man has an opportunity to perform so great a service to his country and to the human race.

Not to embrace it may be to become the lost soul of American history. If I, with others, have misjudged you in the late campaign, I appeal to you by this act of exalted patriotism to prove it.

Very truly and respectfully yours,

Letters To The Editor.

(The Editor would have it understood that he is not responsible for the views expressed in communications addressed to him and published in THE CHRONICLE.)

No attention will be paid to anonymous communications.

To the Editor:

There has been much discussion during the past two months concerning the disease which has been causing such losses among the hogs in this part of the State.

It has been called hog cholera, swine plague, infectious pneumonia and many other names.

Last week I took the time to consult the senior bacteriologist, Dr. Adolph Eichorn, of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C. I went into the details of the disease as I had found it in this community. He informed me that very recent investigations had proved that it was the peccoral (affecting the lungs and pleura) form of hog cholera and that its ravages are widespread throughout the country. He informed me that the only possible way to prevent this disease was by the "hog cholera serum."

Dr. Riegler and I have used 1000 c.c. of the serum among several herds of hogs with most excellent results. In some cases whole herds have been kept from contracting the disease, while in affected herds the percentage of recoveries has been high.

As any farmer can get all the desired information about this disease by writing to the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., or the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, College Park, Md., it is obvious that it is to the best interest of farmers to decline quack remedies and "sure cures" no matter by whom offered. At the Experiment station the hog cholera serum may be secured at cost.

The Earliest Known Spectacles.

The earliest known pair of real spectacles was made by a Florentine in the early part of the fourteenth century. The Journal of the American Medical Association reproduces the inscription on his tomb in the Church of Santa Croce.

Here lies Salvino d'Armato degli Armati of Florence, the inventor of spectacles. May God forgive his sins. [He died] Anno Domini 1317.

Of course there had been "snow spectacles" from time immemorial, and Roger Bacon knew of magnifying lenses. But the earliest glasses for correcting the vision are comparatively modern. Drawings in the Ratisbon manuscript of 1600 show the comfortable style of huge circular lenses mounted in rings of black horn, not unlike the dark rims of gutta percha used to-day.

MOUNT ST. MARY'S 40; FREDERICK HIGH SCHOOL 0

Mountain's Second Team Shows Speed and Will Furnish Good Material For Next Year's Varsity.

With plenty of vim and spirit the second team of Mt. St. Mary's defeated the Frederick team here yesterday on Echo Field, by a score of 40 to 0. The local boys feel pretty well elated over the victory as this same team played the Western Maryland first team two weeks ago, and the second team here proved to be far superior in running up a larger score than the Westminster boys. This is the first game that the second team, or "scrubs" as they are familiarly called, has had. Most of their work has been in trying to get the first team in condition. From the work yesterday it is safe to say that many of the boys will appear in the line-up for the first team next year. So well pleased was Coach Thompson with the showing that he is trying to arrange a few more games for them before the season closes. Both teams were about equally averaged in weight, although the visitors had the age. The visitors practically comprised a combination of the High School, Y. M. C. A. and Frederick College. Frederick was unable to make any consistent gains at any stage of the game. Only twice did they make first down. Mt. St. Mary's with plenty of speed executed a number of well directed plays and especially did they hold to open style. Their forward passes worked well and the delayed pass was responsible for a great deal of the scoring. One remarkable feature of the line attack for the Mountaineers was that they were not called upon once in the entire game to punt, although they have in Casey a very reliable kicker. Kells, Larkin and Long, the back field men, put up a strong game and, as Coach Thompson said after the game, they look very good for him next year. The entire line played well and charged with force. Albaugh, Bopst and Brown did the best work for the Frederick team. The best of feeling prevailed during the game, and very little "kicking" or talking was noticeable. With this material to count upon for next year, the general student body is looking forward for better results upon the gridiron from the Varsity.

The line-up follows:

Mt. St. Mary's	Position	Frederick
Moeller	L. E.	Derr
Cogan	L. T.	Albaugh
Kelly, J. R.	L. G.	Knill
York	C. L.	Sponsel'r
Casey	R. T.	Young
Hannon	R. T.	R. Sponsel'r
Kelly, J. C.	R. E.	Branden'b
Larkin	Q. B.	Jamesk
Long	L. H.	Bopst
Kells	R. H.	Brown
Mahoney	F. B.	McHenry

Touchdowns, Mahoney 2, Long 3, Kells 1. Goals from touchdowns, Kells 3, Larkin 1. Substitutions, Mt. St. Mary's, Whetlie for Cogan, McKenna for J. C. Kelly, Quinn for Mahoney. Referee, Mr. Thompson, Mt. St. Mary's; Umpire, Mr. Tehan, Mt. St. Mary's; Head linesman, Mr. McHale, assistants Mr. Dowdle and Mr. Fisher. Time of periods, two ten- and two eight-minute periods.

M. J. Thompson, of Mt. St. Mary's College, will referee the game on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, on Saturday, between the University of Pennsylvania and the Carlisle Indians.

Get up a float and join with the others in the Big Parade next Tuesday night.

School Overcoats at $5.00.

For Boys of 8 to 18 Years.

And the best value obtainable at anywhere near that price. They're made of all-wool fabrics, in pretty fancy mixtures, cut roomy and comfortable, and tailored like the more expensive overcoats; the lining and trimmings throughout are of finest quality.

Double-breasted style, with convertible collar that can be worn two ways; the pockets are deep, and strongly reinforced. The boy of 8 to 18 years can be fitted in these overcoats at $5.00; and their good looks and quality will please both the boys and parents.

These Boys' Suits at $5.00

Have two Pairs of Pants.

Which means that the extra pair insures double service for the suit; for the active boy always wears his pants out long before the coat.

These suits are of all-wool fabrics, in pretty gray and brown fancy mixtures; Norfolk or double-breasted coats, cut on broad, graceful lines; the lining and trimmings are of splendid quality. The knickerbockers (two pairs) have full peg top, taped seams, riveted buttons, and are lined throughout. Sizes 8 to 18 years.

Boys' Rainproof Outfits, $5.00

The outfit consists of a guaranteed absolutely waterproof Raincoat and hat to match.

The coat is of double texture cloth, in tan or olive; shoe-top length, cut full, with loose back and broad shoulders, and large roomy slash pockets; the seams are vulcanized. The hat is in sou'wester shape—and the rain will not penetrate.

With an H. K. & Co. Rainproof Outfit your boy will be impervious to the most inclement weather. We have them in sizes 6 to 18 years.

Boys' Knickerbockers, 79cts. to $2.00

Of all wool fabrics—splendid blue serge and pretty gray and brown fancy mixtures; cut full, thoroughly well made throughout, with taped seams, patent waistband and riveted buttons. Sizes 6 to 18 years.

The Blue Serge Knickerbockers, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00.

Those of fancy mixed materials, 79cts., $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

Order your boy's suits and furnishings by mail from Baltimore's Best Store. If for any reason whatever, they are not entirely satisfactory, you may return them for exchange or refund of money.

Hagerstown will have a "Great White Way." Scores of ornamental light posts will be erected on West Washington street, the main business thoroughfare. The city will supply free current for light to the property owners who erect the light posts.

"Life Germ" Found at Last.

To those who would resist the ravages of old age and who would retain pink cheeks and sparkling eyes the Greeks recommend "yaiourt."

The art of preparing this concoction was learned by the Greeks from the Turks years ago and it is made according to the following recipe:

Yaiourt is made from cow's or goat's milk, and its preparation is a sort of endless-chain process, the new product being impregnated with the alleged life-giving germ from the old. The milk is first raised to the temperature of 120 degrees centigrade and allowed to boil for about ten minutes. Then it is about the consistency of clabber. It is then allowed to cool and is put in small cups and set in an airtight structure called a "dryer," where it is kept for some time at a temperature of 20 degrees centigrade. The preparation is then ready for the reception of the "life germ." The scum that has formed on the top is gently raised and a drop of the old, hard yaiourt that has been dissolved in water is placed underneath. The filament is dropped back in place and the cup set back in the dryer for several hours, after which the yaiourt is ready for consumption.

Success has attended the experiment of transplanting rubber trees in Brazil, where groves are being raised at more accessible points than the existing ones.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Lingular Hills and the Catocin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER PROPOSITION.

"Give us electric light!" This has been the cry in Emmitsburg for several years past.

"Will you take it, now that it is within reach?"—this is the question to-day.

Electric light could have been obtained two years ago; but at a price and at a sacrifice too great to come within the range of practicability.

Conditions at this time, however, are different—as will be observed by reading the middle article on the first page of this issue—and all that is necessary to obtain that which has been so much desired is for the people of this district to support the enterprise, subscribe for the stock and install the light and power.

HUMAN LONGEVITY.

Metchnikof, the sub-director of the Pasteur Institute, in Paris, tells us that an old age without infirmities or degeneration, nor the atrophy of organs, is not only greatly to be desired, but, with due observance of certain hygienic rules, is easily attained. The work of this celebrated biologist deals essentially with longevity; and yet, when we remember what Dr. Sinclair, the famous English writer, taught in his work on longevity, when we call to mind the principles laid down by Flourens in his work on human longevity, we cannot but conclude that very little, both in a physiological sense or a dietetic one, has been accomplished even in these days of vaunted progress.

The historical treatment of the question had long since been exhausted by Haller and Buffon. These writers discussed the matter in its historical bearings by the enumeration and comparison of facts and they concluded that between 90 and 100 years was the normal length of the life of man. Buffon, however, took up the physiological view and he concluded that the entire extent of life could be measured by the time it takes the human frame to be fully developed. Man grows in stature up to his sixteenth or eighteenth year, yet, the full development of all the parts of his body is not complete before his thirtieth year. "There was, however, a missing factor in Buffon's theory and that is when have we an infallible indication which marks the end of the full development of man's body? That factor was fixed by P. Flourens of the French Academy and a professor in the College de France; the details are fully given in his work on human longevity. He says: "As long as the bones are not joined to their epiphyses, that is to their proper articulations, the animal keeps on growing." He adds: "man attains that period of union at his twentieth year." Then Buffon holds that this period of growth, or what Flourens calls the soldering of the bones, measures the extent of man's life, which, says Buffon, is six or seven times the length of his growth. Flourens makes the ratio five times as being approximately correct. Now, taking five as the multiplier, a man should live five times the length of this soldering of his bones, which is about 100 years.

Then comes the dietetic view, which was so strikingly exemplified by Cornaro, who after a life of dissipation, suddenly betook himself to sobriety and temperance. He says, "a regimen of wise dietetics proved a most direct influence in prolonging my life; I have been most healthy," he adds, "since I took to sobriety." He took 12 ounces of solid food and 14 ounces of wine per day for nearly half a century. He began this system in his sixtieth year and, obeying the laws of temperance and abstemiousness which he calls the daughter of reason, the sister of virtue and the companion of a temperate and chaste life, he lived up to his 103rd year.

The modern principles carried out by Metchnikof embrace the practice of sobriety, but also the use of certain foods, such as sour milk, whey, clabber, buttermilk and similar producers of microbes that are the enemies of the more fatal microbes that attack the colon and, through this organ, the healthy action of the system. This great biologist advises the use of cooked fruit, as raw fruit, he says, is likely to be attacked by microbes which are evolved by the use of fertilizers intended to promote the growth of the fruit tree.

In fact, each man, listening to the promptings of a well regulated appetite, will soon learn what is beneficial and what is hurtful to his health and by a systematic observance of diet may span out his life which will make him the peer of Cornaro, who, as stated above, died at 103, and of Mme. Robineau, of Paris, who in 1906 was living at the age of 106, with her son who was then 82, and her daughter-in-law 72.

PROGRESS OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE

One of the noteworthy results of the recent election is the success achieved by the woman suffrage movement in the States of Michigan, Kansas, Arizona and Oregon. In these States women will henceforth be on an equal footing with men in the matter of suffrage. Counting the States in which this privilege had already been conferred, namely, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Washington, Idaho and California, the number of States in which this new factor in voting strength will have to be reckoned with aggregates ten—all Western States.

This proposition, slow in the beginning in gaining the support of the people, now bids fair to be adopted at a much more rapid rate.

When one recalls that it is now 43 years that the system was first given practical application in Wyoming, and 24 years later that a second State, Colorado, followed the precedent, it will be evident that the people were not unduly hasty or indeliberate in adopting the proposal.

With a solid foothold now obtained in ten States, with a militant, if at times violent, propaganda by its constituted leaders, with party managers ever eager to add to their political assets and anxious to capture additional votes from whatever source they may come, the cause is bound to make more rapid progress.

It is true that the principle sustained a serious set-back in Ohio on Sept. 3, when a large majority was registered against an amendment to the Constitution providing for woman suffrage, and also on Oct. 6, in Wisconsin, when a similar proposal was overwhelmingly defeated, but there can be no doubt that the question will soon enter in acute form into the political discussions and agitations of the Eastern States.

It has been stated in certain quarters that the suffragettes will find greatest opposition in Eastern cities where men are not inclined to think that they need the help of women to improve or save the State. Others think the greatest obstacle to the general success of this movement will be encountered in the South. In this section the question has hardly been mooted, except by way of furnishing amusement. So far few, if any, have taken it seriously. And yet there is no portion of the country where woman's influence is more highly respected and valued and where her dignity is more carefully and jealously guarded and honored.

But as with other social reforms, so with this. There will hardly be any serious retrogression, and it remains to be seen how long the old conservative standards will hold out against the powerful and increasing forces making for a radical change in our system of suffrage.

"WE'LL win," the captain shouted, "yes, we'll win with Billy Taft"—and a Wilson broadside hit the ship and raked it fore and aft. The captain scrambled to his feet, and, reaching for his hat, asked a Bull Moose clamoring o'er the side, "old sport where are we at?" Out came the red bandana and the sweat drops rolled away—"you're up Salt River, Captain, and we're second in the fray." "Westurdy, grim Bull Moosers put you fellers in the hole, and the Democrats have carried all except the old North Pole." The captain rolled his eyes aloft and to smile he vainly tried—and he sank with the Grand Old Party far beneath the rolling tide.

PRESIDENT-ELECT WILSON is to adopt the "open door" policy in the strict, literal meaning of the term, and he is to be congratulated on his willingness to give an audience to anyone "having business with the President."

The Result.

The returns on Wednesday morning indicated a sweep of the country by the democratic presidential and vice presidential candidates, the claims of the National Democratic Committee in its pre-election forecast of carrying not less than forty of the forty-eight States being almost realized.

The victory was a popular one of the people, who, protesting against the high-handed methods employed at the Chicago Convention by those in control of the party, in the selection of a republican nominee, and attempted at the Baltimore Convention by a similar element in the democratic party, administered a stinging rebuke, by repudiating the control of the forces that have long dominated the republican party and sought to dictate all legislation.

It has been the arrogance of this element, which has come to dominate politics through influence of the special interests, that has caused the political unrest of the times, and resulted in such a sweeping victory of a candidate who has the confidence of the people.

The revolt in the republican party at the present time, is similar to that gone through by the democratic party, which has finally reunited after purging itself of a similar reactionary element that has brought disaster to the G. O. P., and will eventually bring defeat to any party that allows itself to be arrayed against policies that tend to the best interest of the people at large.

The democratic party owes its victory to its determined fight made for the people's cause, behind a standard bearer who won his nomination after one of the bitterest struggles against predatory influences ever known in the history of party conventions.—Midland Journal.

Hon. David J. Lewis.

The people of the Sixth Maryland Congressional district have shown by their votes that they have unbounded faith in his integrity and a lively appreciation of his capacity as a legislator.

Few men have made so brilliant a career in public life in so short a time and still fewer ever received so magnificent an endorsement of their work in Congress than Mr. Lewis. The Times joins with the great masses of the people in extending congratulations to the hero of the hour.

The management of elections should not and will not in the future, be left to the corrupt machinations of men who make politics a trade and live by the price they can extort for their corrupt services on the dark side of politics.

Upon the subject of the party boss, the rotten machine and the corrupt manipulator the people have spoken, and we will surely have cleaner politics in the future—a result most devoutly to be hoped for. It will be a step forward in progress and civilization.

The national election which took place Tuesday, Nov. 5, if rightly interpreted, marks the passing away if not the absolute extinction of a character in politics that contributed nothing to its dignity or purity. We mean the party worker and the practical and professional politician. He was permitted to play but an humble part in the late campaign, and as he was not able to "force any blunt from Fagan" on either side his field of operations was exceedingly limited.

It is well that this is so.—Cumberland Times.

Won With Wilson.

For the vanquished we should have much more than the shout of a triumphant army. We do not hesitate to say that in our judgment the nation escaped a great danger by the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt, but we hesitate none the less to express the conviction that he has done much during recent years to produce a quickened national conscience and to start reform movements which he himself has not seemed adapted to consummate.

None need doubt that he will be a very active corpse in the future, probably to our profit if not to our pleasure.

Mr. Taft deserves and will generally receive the delicate consideration and the unquestioned respect of the American people. It is not the first time that the unexpected has happened, but it is singularly sad that an administration with every prospect of unusual success should have been beset with so many shoals and quicksands. We know of no man who can more truthfully say O tempora! O Mores! and curse the evil day when he fell into the hands of his friends. Had Mr. Taft four years ago begun a career on the Supreme Bench instead of in the White House, it is likely that today his sun would be at its zenith, and we hope yet to see him fill this highest judicial office, for which he seems to be admirably equipped.—Belair Aegis.

A Wilson Administration.

After all, all of the definite understandable promises made by all of the candidates were acceptable to almost all of the people. But, what is going to be done by the one man who is now to be our president, is another proposition, isn't it? The public's conception of Mr. Wilson is not belittling. He has impressed the people as an unusual man in many respects, and it is generally believed that his silent campaign was his best policy under the circumstances. We will learn to know the man better in the White House, where the awful responsibility of guiding the destinies of the greatest nation of the earth as well as a vast influence with other world powers, will bring into play whatever of statesmanship and backbone he may possess.

Probably more than any other man, he has attained to the office of Chief Magistrate with but few or no pledges to the people. That fact gives him but little advantage, for we as a people just coming into a knowledge of our independence can rebuke the unfaithful servant with sufficient efficacy.—Hampstead Enterprise.

The Result.

The Democratic party triumphed in the nation because of the split in the Republican party. The split was caused by the overmastering desire of Theodore Roosevelt to again occupy the presidential chair.

Woodrow Wilson becomes the twenty-seventh president of the United States by the greatest electoral vote in the history of the nation. This vote is due not so much to belief in Democratic principles as to the fear of a third-term president. The Republicans of the whole country were keenly alive to the danger that threatened the nation, and in order to make sure the defeat of Roosevelt voted for Wilson. The voters realized that Roosevelt from the beginning was trying to smash the Republican party, and feared that should he win, he would proceed to smash the republic and establish in its place an autocracy, with Theodore at its head.

And patriotism, triumphing over partisanship, the people chose Wilson and effectually put a quietus to the dreams of the man on horseback.—Cumberland Daily News.

People Want Results.

Woodrow Wilson has been elected President by a vote large enough to show that the people of this country are tired of the Republicans and all their works. The last Democratic President was Grover Cleveland, who was elected just 20 years ago on the tariff issue, which has not yet been settled. Governor Wilson will go into office next March knowing that the country is back of him and will hold up his hands in the great reforms which he plans.

The tariff should be settled one way or the other, and settled for good, if such a thing be possible. It should not constantly be fretting the people, and business men should know what they are to expect. A way also should and must be found to deal with great industrial combinations, usually called the trusts.

In every good work that Mr. Wilson as President undertakes he will find the people back of him; nor will the millions of voters stand any quibbling. They have had too much of that from the Republicans. They demand and will have results.—Catonville Argus.

The Future is Safe.

It will stand forever to Woodrow Wilson's credit that in all of his hundreds of addresses during the late campaign he uttered not a disparaging word of his competitors.

There were provocations, but he heeded them not, exemplifying to the final and complete degree the Master's policy, taught and practised, of "returning good for evil."

It seems unlikely, therefore, that a man whose character is thus indexed, will be an unsafe custodian of the country's honor and the people's welfare.

Moreover, he is a scholar in all the branches of political, commercial and civic learning, that go to make a Chief Magistrate truly great.

Hence, without the slightest derogation of his competitors—all or singly, the Journal independently feels that for four years the country will be not only "safe," but "progressive" in the highest and best sense.—Frostburg Mining Journal.

Mr. Lewis' Victory.

The remarkable majority given Congressman David J. Lewis in the Sixth Congressional District, must be most gratifying to him. This result can be looked at in only one way and that is, his unbounded popularity as a result of his untiring efforts in Congress. It must be admitted that Mr. Lewis made an astonishing record in Congress and won the highest praise from the press, regardless of politics. His persistence and untiring labors resulted in putting through the Parcels Post bill, while his efforts to have Frederick's war debt paid, were all that any man could do. It has been proven that Mr. Lewis is the people's Congressman and that he is ready to do anyone a favor, regardless of party. All during his past term he was "on the job" continuously, living right in Washington and staying there. It is predicted that he will be one of the star members of the next House.—Valley Register.

The victories of everybody else in the late election are qualified by some regret or imperfection, but the triumphs won by the woman suffragists are all clean advantage. Even the defeat in Wisconsin was far from overwhelming good. Michigan, Kansas, Arizona and Oregon on Tuesday admitted women to the ballot on equal terms with men. In ten states women now have the full suffrage. The gain has been very rapid of late. For many years Wyoming, Colorado and Utah were the only states where women had the full suffrage. Then came Idaho, Washington and California. The suffrage zone now extends by Michigan's admission into the eastern half of the country. It is a snowball sort of a movement, gaining in size and force in an increasing ratio, and rolling toward the East like a beneficent and golden-edged cyclone.—Cumberland News.

One of the greatest upheavals in the political situations of this county took place on Tuesday, when Wilson, the Democratic Candidate for President, defeated Taft, the Republican Candidate, and Roosevelt, the Progressive Candidate by such an overwhelming majority as to leave no doubt as to the desire of the people for a change in the management of the government affairs in the interest of the people, and not in the interest, as heretofore, of a favorite few.—Easton Ledger.

Whatever may be said of the underlying reasons for the returns in other sections of the State, one thing is certain, and that is that Montgomery and each of the other counties of the Sixth Congressional District has shown what the Democrats of Western Maryland can do by united effort in support of candidates who measure up to the high standard of excellence exemplified by the official records of Judge Worthington, Congressman Lewis, and Governors Wilson and Marshall.—Montgomery County Sentinel.

The victory for David J. Lewis in his congressional district is certainly a vindication of his two year career in the halls of congress and of his legislation in the interest of his people. He had the united support of his party and the support of many good Republican friends to whom is due much credit for his victory. His majority in his district is simply amazing.—Garrett Journal.

The expected happened in the election of Tuesday. Careful observers of politics knew for some time before the election, that Governor Wilson would be elected, and that it was only a question of the size of his plurality and his vote in the electoral college.—Oakland Republican.

Now that we have won, it is up to every Democrat whether in office or out of office to "make good." Democrats have the opportunity of their lives and a solemn obligation rests upon each and every Democratic office holder to give the country the Square Deal.—Annapolis Capitol.

Roosevelt did the trick. His ambition to be President again rent asunder the party that had honored him and as the militant leader of the opposition to President Taft aided in bringing to the President a defeat so overwhelming as to be without parallel in the history of the nation.—Bel Air Times.

The Taftites being routed, horse foot and dragon in Tuesday's battle, are crying aloud peace, peace. The Bull Moose replies, there can be no peace until the last Taftite throws up his hands.—Hartford Democrat.

We just got tired of the job, anyway, and wanted a change.—Westminster Sentinel.

CURRENT COMMENT FROM LEADING JOURNALS.

Immediate Tariff Revision.
The country is interested to know
when the Democrats will revise the tariff, and how they will revise it.
Both questions may be readily answered.
They have been answered already.
The Democrats have promised that the revision will be immediate. The Democrats have made their campaign
upon the tariff issue, they have denounced the Payne-Aldrich schedules
for the burden they needlessly impose upon the people. Neither Mr. Wilson nor his party can afford by inaction to withhold from the people relief from those burdens a single day longer than
is required by the necessities of legislation. It may be assumed that Gov.
Wilson will convene Congress in extraordinary session very soon after, he takes office. For a double reason the country could justly complain of postponement of revision to the regular session. The consumers expect relief, immediate relief, and it is better for
the business of the country that prompt action should be taken. Delay and suspense are harmful to industry. They would be more harmful to the moderate revision that the Democrats will undertake. * * *

If President Wilson calls an extra session, the composition of the Democratic House will be very much what it is now, but the party majority will be greater. There is no present reason to suppose that revision will be undertaken in a spirit different from that which was reflected in the bills already passed and vetoed. They may probably be accepted as a fair measure of what the Democrats will do. Having this light upon the important schedules affecting wool, metals and cotton,
the country already knows a good deal
about Democratic tariff revision. There remain among the other important
schedules chemicals, pottery, lumber,
sugar and molasses, agricultural products, silks and silk goods, flax, hemp,
and their manufactures, and pulp and paper.

We think it safe to assume that Chairman Underwood and his committee have already made substantial progress in most or all of these schedules. As a project of legislation, yet awaiting debate and enactment, it may be said that the tariff is already pretty well revised. What need is there of protracted hearings? For the most part they have been had already. The committee is informed as to all the schedules, it knows what the country
wants, it knows what it intends to do.
We see no reason why, without haste,
without slipshod work, with due consideration, bills revising all the schedules, or so many of them as it is the Democratic purpose to take up at once,
should not be reported and sent to President Wilson in a session lasting
not more than three months.—New York Times.

When, Mr. Wilson?
Our neighbor the Sun professes to find many Democrats of the more conservative sort who are opposed to an extra session of Congress in March. It is said that they fear hasty tariff legislation, believing that it will 'upset
business.'"

The country is well acquainted with Democrats of this type. They are the men who put the stigma of perfidy and dishonor upon the party in 1894. They are the men who managed the disastrous Parker campaign in 1904. They are the men whose representatives in the Baltimore Convention this year were told by a large majority of the delegates that they were not wanted.

If there is to be no extra session the Democratic Congress will not meet until a year from next December. In that case there can be no tariff legislation until the spring or summer of 1914
when another Congressional campaign will be under way. If measures reducing the cost of living and removing monopoly from the tariff will upset
business in the spring of 1913 they will upset business also in the the spring of 1914.

There is room for wide differences of opinion as to the effect upon business
of honest and judicious tariff legislation, but no one acquainted with the temper of the people can question the fate of a political party which palters
with this issue. Business that is worthy of consideration will not be upset in any case. That the Democratic party will be upset if it acts tardily and inefficient-
ly is certain.

Men study public opinion in this country in vain if they do not learn that the strongest of its impulses now is toward direct popular government toward the fullest popular responsibility,
with insistence upon prompt obedience
to its will. It has been put off a good many times of late. It will not be put off forever.

Regular sessions of new Congresses
were fixed thirteen months after their election under other conditions than now exist. It is these delays and obstacles
which selfish interest have used to confuse the people's representative and to defeat their worthiest purposes.

There is not a tariff glut in America, Republican or Democrat, who does not know that the voice of the people
as heard last Tuesday will grow fainter
and fainter with each passing month.
This is why they advise delay. They cannot beat the people at the polls.

They hope to beat them in Congress.

President-elect Wilson does well to keep his own counsel as to policies and appointments, but he might properly
give the country a word of assurance on this one point at an early day. He has advised the people to break into their own house and occupy it. He has promised the people that he would free
their government of private control and corrupt entanglements.

When?—New York World.

Political Education.
Chairman McCombs, announcement
that the Democratic national committee will be continued as an active
body for the next four years to educate
the people in Democratic doctrines,
follows close upon the previous statement made by Chairman Dixon that the Progressive national committee will be used to forward an educational campaign. The Republican party, apparently, still has the feeling that comes with the "morning after," and doesn't want to be bothered about such things as education. But after a while, when the cigar stumps and empty seltzer bottles
are removed from the scene, and a little
fresh air is let in, the grand old party
will probably get out of bed and join
with the Progressives and Democrats
in the decision to educate the public
even if it should become necessary to use an ax to do it.

Unfortunately for the political managers, the public has something of that headachy feeling itself. The voters have gone back to work after their exciting debauch of last Tuesday, and
don't want to be bothered with picture
postal cards sent out by Democrats Republicans or Progressives. They want to forget politics for a while.
Once every four years is enough. An occasional "I told you so" is about as far as the political talk is permitted to go in the aftermath of the political avalanche that swept the Republicans
out and the Democrats in.

But there is food for thought in the plans of Chairman McCombs and Chairman Dixon. It would be far better for the country if the process of education were continued throughout the
four years and not confined to the brief
period before the quadrennial election.
Under the present system, the people
wake up to the fact that an election
is approaching some time about September, and then they are bombarded
with literature, postal cards, letters,
and canvassers from then on until November. A great many false statements are made in haste, and the truth
hasn't time to catch up.

Political education should be spread over four years. Then the people could digest the arguments sent out by the leaders. In a four-year campaign, conducted without hurry or fuss, truth and justice would surely prevail, and the excitement and deception of the election period would be minimized.—Washington Post.

Victory of William Sulzer.

The Congressman who as chairman of the Foreign Relation Committee of the House, made so enviable a record
for himself, has added one more honor
to the long list of his gratifying achievements by his selection to the chief magistracy of the Empire State. To defeat a man like Oscar Straus in itself
was a brilliant success, but to outrun
the Presidential candidate of his party
is vastly more to his credit.

Mr. Sulzer always has fought the people's battle despite ridicule whenever the people were sorely in need of a friend or a champion of their cause. It is his boast that he has never had a boss, and remains to be seen whether as Governor
of our greatest State he will remain
free from boss rule and Tammany.

Almost the first thing Mr. Sulzer will be forced to do will be either repudiate
Murphy and all the interest that back
him, or take his orders from the Tammany boss. It must not be forgotten that on the ticket which has been swept in with Mr. Sulzer are scores of men who acknowledge Murphy as their boss,
and that this same man "bossed" the Legislature. What is Mr. Sulzer going to do? It is either "crawl" or "war."

He is confronted by a very difficult
problem, and we shall interestedly
watch the new Governor's actions if he is still desirous to retain his cognomen
of "champion of the people."

Another thing. The Democratic party
now is absolutely committed to a single term for President. Mr. Sulzer, on the record he has made in this campaign
and in his public career, may be Democracy's choice for 1916, providing he stands the test for the next two years
at Albany.—Washington Herald.

Another very delightful fact about Wilson is that he is allowed no one individual set of financiers to pour the water into that pump of his. The campaign fund came from the people in small amounts and to them alone is he under obligation.—La Plata Times-Crescent.

President Taft's scarecrows and
calamity howls failed to affect the result and the people have said in no uncertain tones that they are willing to trust Wilson and Marshall.—Garrett Journal.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

DELAYED MACHINES CAUSE OF LATE OPENING OF FACTORY

Much Regret on Part of Manager—Machinery in Transit Between Philadelphia and Emmitsburg.

There is as much disappointment in the ranks of the directorate of the Union Manufacturing Co. as there is among the applicants for positions in the Emmitsburg branch, over the failure to open the knitting mill long before now.

Everything has been made ready, but unfortunately the machines necessary for the operators have not yet been received at this end. It is understood that they are on the cars—in transit—between Philadelphia and Emmitsburg.

Words of assurance, having come from the manager of the Union Manufacturing Co. and it is confidently expected that in a very short while the local plant will be in full operation.

Of course you intend to decorate for the Big Parade. Joseph E. Hoke can supply everything for that purpose.

Come in on horseback, muleback—come in a sleigh, in a buggy, a surrey, a sulky or an automobile. Wear a unique costume and form a part of the Big Parade next Tuesday night. Everybody welcome.

For washing dishes a Maryland man has invented a rack to hold them while boiling water is sprayed over them from a faucet, to be caught and carried off by a sink beneath.

BIG TIME HERE TUESDAY NEXT

Emmitsburg Will Celebrate With Big Parade.—Lots of Music, Grotesque Floats, Fireworks.—All Are Invited to Participate.—Everybody Will Be Welcome.

Next Tuesday night Emmitsburg will be aglow with color. Red lights and blue lights, lanterns and bunting will give a festive appearance to the town, and the music of the bands and the prancing of gayly caparisoned steeds and the laughter of the children will proclaim that a big jollification is on.

The occasion is the celebration of the Victory won on Nov. 5th, and the nature of the celebration will be a Monster street parade in which EVERYBODY is invited to participate, Democrats, Bull Moosers, Republicans and Suffragettes. Everyone who owns or can secure a team, a horse or mule is welcome, and an opportunity is afforded to originate floats or grotesque features that will lend variety to the pageant.

The old time gig, the ancient coach, the sulky, the hay wagon, the sled—any and all of these, decorated with bunting, strung with lanterns and flags and hung with bells will be effective.

Every household is requested to illuminate and to share in the festivity of the event. It will be a big family affair and a source of real hearty amusement to all.

The older inhabitants will remember how they, in their younger days, took part in jollifications of this nature.

MARTIN A. STOUTER.

Mr. Martin A. Stouter died at his home near Emmitsburg on Tuesday. His death was the result of injuries received on September 5, in an auto accident near Pen Mar, when his wife and sister who accompanied him escaped with minor injuries. The car being driven by Mr. Stouter, was running down a steep grade near Lake Royer in the vicinity of Pen Mar. Probably mistaking the road in the glare of the auto lights, Mr. Stouter directed the machine over a 100-foot embankment, which was covered with rocks. The car, with the occupants, plunged down the side of the hill and was demolished. Mr. Stouter was caught beneath the car and seriously injured, and the ladies were shaken up, cut and badly bruised.

Two physicians, who were passing, were attracted by the cries of the injured below and went to their assistance. Mr. Stouter was found to be suffering from what was thought to be fatal injuries and was at once removed to the Hagerstown hospital. Several weeks ago he was brought home near Emmitsburg. At first he rallied, but his complete recovery was not looked for as his spine was badly twisted and injured, and on Tuesday the end came.

Mr. Stouter was an enterprising man, and although young was prominent in the lumber and implement business. He leaves a widow and five small children, whose ages range from eight to two years, their names being William, Mary, Stanley, Irene and Bernard. Three brothers and two sisters survive: George and Joseph, near Emmitsburg, and Felix, of Los Angeles, Cal., who is on his way east, and Mrs. William McDicord, West River, Md., and Miss Marie Stouter.

The funeral was held on Thursday morning at St. Anthony's church at nine o'clock, Rev. G. H. Tragesser officiated. The interment was made in the Cemetery on The Hill.

Everybody is going to join in the Big Parade. Illuminate and decorate your house and get your flags, bunting and Colored Fire from JOSEPH E. HOKE.

IN MEMORIAM MARTIN A. STOUTER.

At a special meeting of the Emerald Beneficial Association, held at Emerald Hall on Nov. 12, 1912, to take suitable action upon the death of Martin A. Stouter, the following minute and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His Infinite Wisdom to remove from our midst our brother, Martin A. Stouter, whose death severs another link of our fraternal chain.

Resolved, That in recording our high appreciation of his standing in and his services to this organization of which he was a faithful member, we cannot forget his many high qualities of character and his kindly and generous nature which made him beloved by all with whom he came in contact, and which made it a pleasure to be associated with him in this organization. His death is an unspeakable loss to his family, to his friends and to the Emerald Beneficial Association and one which we, his associates, will ever deeply deplore.

Resolved, That the foregoing minute and resolution be spread on the minute book of this organization and that a copy, suitable engrossed, be sent to Mrs. Stouter as an expression of our deep sympathy with her and the family in their sad bereavement.

By order of the Committee,
JOS. W. BRECHNER,
P. F. BURKET,
JAMES R. SELTZER.

Nellie, an Irish terrier of New York, ran into the cafe of the Waldorf-Astoria with an eel in her mouth. Many patrons thought they were seeing things and swore off.

Emmitsburg is famous for the parades held in years gone by. They are talked about now, and their memory is a source of pleasure still.

The younger generation—the present generation—should have similar enjoyment. It is new to them, and they, in their turn, will look back upon the coming Rally with an enjoyment equal to that in which their elders joined in the olden days.

Delegations from neighboring towns who have already heard of the parade are coming, and to those who until now have not been apprised of the festivity that is to take place, no matter where they live, a cordial invitation is extended.

Emmitsburg will benefit by the affair and Emmitsburg should put her best foot foremost on the night of the 19th—next Tuesday. The invitation, the appeal, can hardly be made more general, more cordial. It is embraced in this: "Come one, come all—join with everybody else and make next Tuesday a pleasant, a happy, a memorable occasion in the history of Emmitsburg."

And should the weather be inclement, bear in mind that the affair will be postponed until Thursday, the 21st, or the first clear night following.

Dr. Smith Left Estate Valued $150,000.

The will of Dr. Franklin Buchanan Smith was filed for probate in the Orphans' Court, Monday. The value of the estate is estimated at, from $125,000 to $150,000. He gives Mount Olivet Cemetery $1,000 in order to keep the family lot in repair. He bequeathes $5,000 to each of his daughters, Miss Charlotte Patterson Smith and Miss Alice McPherson Smith, in lieu of any claim they might have by reason of any trust estate. Miss Emma Pearl Prevost, his office nurse and secretary is given $5,000. To Benjamin Lowman, a colored employe, he gives $100 and a note for $100 and to Cora Cross, a colored domestic, he also gives $100. The residue of his estate is divided equally between his widow and two daughters. George William Smith, his half brother is named as executor. The will is dated June 19, 1911, and is witnessed by Charles C. Waters and C. Herbert Kreh.

Pension For Telephone Employees.

An elaborate system of pensions, sick benefits and life insurance for the employes of the American Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company and associated companies, the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Western Electric Company, to become available on January 1, was announced Saturday. The object provides for a fund of $10,000,000, the income from which will be used in making the payments established in the plan. In no case shall the pension be less than $20 a month. In case of accident received while in performance of work for the company the employe shall receive full pay for 13 weeks and half pay for the remainder of disability up to six years. In case of death resulting from accident in and due to performance of work for the company an insurance amounting to three years' salary will be paid to the family of the employe.

No invitation is necessary—put bells on your horses, decorate your vehicles and take part in the Big Parade next Tuesday night.

Dr. Shorb Gets Returns by Wireless.

On his private wireless apparatus in the tower at Pigs Misery, Dr. Dan Shorb received the election returns. With the assistance of Dr. Glass he manipulated the intricate machine to a nicety, and long before the telegraph instruments of the country had ticked the news, Prof. Bushman, who had his air ship anchored on the prairie dog house nearby, was on his way to Emmitsburg with bushel baskets filled with correct information. Dr. Shorb declared that owing to his splendid eyesight it was not necessary to use his wireless apparatus for returns from Thurmont, Harney and Jimtown. He simply looked over the shoulders of the clerks, from his private office at Pigs Misery, and wrote down the result. Some slight difficulty was experienced in reading the tally sheet at Poplar Ridge owing, the Doctor said, to a bad wick in one of the lamps at that place. Dr. Shorb confidently expects an appointment as Minister to the Rocco Islands under the new administration.

RUGGLES—SAYLER.

Miss Mary C. Saylor, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Saylor, of Motter's, and Mr. Ralph R. Ruggles, only son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Ruggles, of Queen Annes, were quietly married Tuesday, November 12th, by the bride's pastor, Rev. Hammersly of Thurmont, at the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church. Although there were no invitations, many costly presents were received from their many friends. Their attendants were Mr. Newell Kite, of Motter's and Miss Fay Linn, of Emmitsburg, cousin of the bride. The happy couple left on the 2 40 train for an extended trip to Baltimore and Washington, thence to Queen Annes, where they will make their future home. Miss Saylor is very popular in this community, and her friends, while wishing her the greatest success, sincerely regret that her presence will no longer be felt in her former abode.

You will need Japanese Lanterns, Flags, Streamers and Rosettes for your vehicles in the Big Parade. Joseph E. Hoke has just received a big supply for the occasion. Prices right.

Put bunting on your buggy and rosettes on your horse and fall in line next Tuesday night.

The Wonderful Palindrome.

Undoubtedly the most wonderful specimen of a palindrome on earth is one in Latin. It not only reads backwards and forwards alike, but the initial letters of each word spell the first word, the second letters of each word spell the second, and so on. It is in Latin—doubtless such a wonder could not be produced in English. Here it is: "Sator arepo tenet opera rotas."—London Chronicle.

Another Monster Hostelry.

Plans for what is to be the largest hotel in New York are being prepared by McKim, Mead & White for the Pennsylvania Terminal Realty Company. The new hotel is to be erected in Seventh Avenue, opposite the Pennsylvania Railroad Terminal, and is to have more than 1,500 rooms. Vice President McRae, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and head of the realty company, has promised to make public the details in due time, but will not discuss them just now.

Millions in Postal Deposits.

The latest available figures show that the depositories have now reached the sum of $28,000,000. The system was inaugurated Jan. 3, 1911, but most of the deposits have been made within the last year.

The deposits represent 290,000 individuals, making an average of $86 per depositor. The system is now operated in 12,773 Post Offices, in every one of the forty-eight States, including 644 branch Post Offices and sub-stations.

Rheumatic Pains

are quickly relieved by an application of Sloan's Liniment. You don't need to rub—just lay on lightly. It penetrates at once to the seat of the trouble.

Here's Proof

MISS ELSIE MANTHEY, 4229 Talman Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes:—"About two years ago my mother broke down with rheumatism. The doctors didn't do any good. My mother was persuaded to try Sloan's Liniment, and in three weeks was entirely well—and I believe she is cured forever."

Relief From Rheumatism

MISS H. E. LINDELEAF, Gilroy, Calif., writes:—"My mother has used one 50c bottle of Sloan's Liniment, and although she is over 83 years of age, she has obtained great relief from her rheumatism."

Rheumatism Entirely Gone

MISS EVELETTA MYER, of 1215 Wyoming St., Dayton, Ohio, writes:—"My mother was troubled with rheumatism and her friends advised her to get Sloan's Liniment and her rheumatism is entirely gone. At the same time the family was troubled with ring-worms—there were five ring-worms between my sisters and I and Sloan's Liniment cured every one of us in a week's time."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is the best remedy for neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, chest pains, asthma, hay fever, croup, sore throat and sprains.

THE MAN WHO WAS PEART

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.

The old possum hunter of the Tennessee mountains was sixty years old,
but was so strong and hale and hearty
that I knew he must have been a wonderfully tough man in his younger days. I tried several times to draw
him out, and one evening as we sat
smoking, with his good wife on the other side of the fireplace, he began:

"When I got married I thought I was jest the peartest thing on the face of the airth. I could outjump, outoller and outfight anything I cum across on these yere mountains. I had never been licked by b'ar or man, and if any critter was shoutin' when I hove in sight he shet up mighty sudden. Yes,
I was the hull thing, and it kinder makes me lonesome to think back to them days."

"To the times when you was makin'
a fule of yo'self!" said Mrs. White without raising her eyes from her knitting.

"Arter I had got married," continued Zeb, with a wink at me, "I thought to steady down, but folks wouldn't let me.
If I didn't have a fuss with somebody about so often they talked that I was losin' my sand. Mind yo', I didn't go howlin' around like a ragin' lion lookin'
fur trouble, but the critters who were achin' fur lickin's cum to me. I had to tackle six different men right yere to home in one week."

"And you was glad to do it!" said
Mrs. White.

"Waal, I was no man to run for the
bresh when a man cum along and sed
he was most dead fur want of a whoopin'. I took it to be a kinder way to turn to and give him what he wanted. One night in the summer, as I had just got to sleep, a yellin' starts up about a half a mile away. It was a noise betwixt the roarin' of a lion and the growlin' of a bulldog, and as it drawed nigher the old woman sot up
and asks:

"Zeb White, but what in the name
of all creashun is that?"

"It's a bullgine got off the railroad tracks and makin' its way across the kentry," says I.

"It's nuthin' of the kind," says she.
"It's Gabriel soundin' his trumpet for the judgment day!"

"We was both mistaken, however.
The noise came nigher and nigher, and bimeby we made out that it was a man. He had come to lick me. He had come fifty miles. It was a moonlight night, and I got up and looked out the window at him. The sight made my hair curl. He was nigh
seven feet high and as broad as a barn. He was as big as a giant in a sideshow. When he saw my head at the window he gives a roar that goes
echoin' over the mountin' and says:

"Come down, Zeb White!"

"I hain't got no furse with you,"
says I.

"But come down and obleege me
and make me feel that life is worth livin'!"

"I'll come down," says I, and notwithstanding the old woman hung on to me with tears and said I'd be killed I went down.

"Ar this Zeb White?" he asks in a purrin' voice.

"It ar."

"Then I am the thankfulest man in all Tennessee! Zeb, I'm goin' to squash yo' all to squash!"

"I made up my mind that I was a dead coon," continued Zeb, "but would do the best I could. We squared off
and went at it, and in about two minutes I was a surprised man."

"So was the stranger. He was nuth-in' but a windbag. He was as flabby
as a goose and as soft as wax, and I believe I could have licked him with one hand tied behind me. It was over in five minutes, and he was hollerin' for mercy. When I let him up he said:

"Zeb, it was squar' and fair, and I hain't no complaint to make. Did you ever see a circus?"

"I never did."

"Then go down to Bristol on Wednesday and see one. Thar's all sorts of animals, and one is called an elephant. He kin lick you in two minutes."

"Me'n the old woman had a deal of curiosity about that elephant, as we had never seen one, and so we got ready and went to town. The circus and the elephant was thar, along with a heap of other things. We pays our money and goes in, and I says to the feller inside:

"What's that critter they calls the elephant, if you please?"

"He p'int the way, and we go over and look at him. He was the biggest livin' thing I ever saw, but arter look-
in' him over I says to the old woman:

"I reckon he's achin' to be walloped,
and I reckon I'm the critter to do it."

"She begs and pleads with me not to try it on. She p'int out the fact that he's bigger'n our new shed and that I don't stand no show, but I differed with her. The stranger had put me on my mettle."

"And how did it end?" I asked as Zeb made a long pause and Mrs. White giggled in her throat.

"Whar was I when I come to my senses again, ma?" he asked.

"Right yere to home."

"And how many days had passed?"

"Five."

"And how long did I haft to lay
a-bed?"

"Six weeks, but you was poorly for three months."

"That's all, stranger," said Zeb as he turned to me and then refilled his pipe for another smoke.

ENGLAND'S GUINEA HABIT.

They Have No Such Coin There, Yet
Still They Use It.

Strangers in foreign countries always find some difficulty in getting used to the current coinage. In England they find themselves up against quite a number of problems, not the least of which is the guinea, and the difficulty is not lessened by the fact that the guinea is practically obsolete
as a coin of the realm. The English physician's fee is always calculated as
so many guineas, and the same thing
holds good at a sale of pictures or whatnot at Christie's salesrooms.

The guinea is a gold coin current for 21 shillings sterling, or about $5, but it has not been coined since the issue of the sovereign in 1817.

The guinea habit has been defended
by some subtle dealers on the ground
that it obfuscates the "foreign visitors to British salesrooms." On the other hand, those astute cambists have been known to growl at a few thousand and sterling added to the price of a valuable picture by the adhesion to the guinea style of bidding. The story runs that the guinea was so called from the pieces struck from the bullion captured
by Sir Harry Holmes in 1696 from 169
Dutch sail in Schelling bay, the bullion
being from Guinea. But Shakespeare has an earlier play on the word when he mentions "guinea hen" in "Othello"
as regards the auction usage of the guinea. There can be little doubt that it is a survival of the times when the extra shilling was treated as a five per cent commission, payable by the buyer.
Double commissions are, however, now obsolete.—Chicago Record-Herald.

SOURCE OF SHELLAC.

East India Insects and Trees That Produce the Substance.

India is the home of the Coccus lac-
ca, the insects that produce the resinous substance known as shellac. The females puncture the twigs of several different kinds of trees, among them
the bo, the bihar and the butea, and the twigs become incrustated with a hard, nearly transparent, reddish, resinous substance that serves the double purpose of protecting the eggs and finally furnishing food for the young insects.

The incrustated twigs are broken from
the trees before the young insects escape and are thoroughly dried in the sun. These dried twigs are called
"stick-lac" and from them shellac and a dye analogous to cochineal are prepared. "Seed-lac" is the resinous con-
cretion separated from the twigs,
coarsely pounded and triturated with water in a mortar, by which nearly all of the coloring matter is removed.

To prepare shellac the seed-lac is put into oblong cotton cloth bags and warmed over a charcoal fire. When the resin begins to melt the bags are twisted, and the pure clear resin is allowed to flow over fig wood planks
or the smooth stems of the banyan tree
and cools in the thin plates or shells
which constitute shellac.

Pure shellac is very valuable. It is much harder than copalophony and is easily soluble in alcohol.

They Have an Arbor.

A member of the London county
council was regretting the lack of art
sense displayed by his fellows when they placed an open space at the disposal of the people. He pleaded elo-quently for fountains, goldfish in ornamental basins, lions and unicorns in stucco and emerald green garden seats.
"Why," said he, in a splendid perora-
tion, "we want something homely
and countrylike—a little arbor here and there. If a foreigner came to this country and asked to see one we've never an arbor worth showing to show him."

Then up and spake another member,
who, prior to attaining the height of his civic ambitions, had been a petty officer in the navy.

"Oh, we 'aven't, 'aven't we? And wot about Portsmouth 'arbor?"—London Strand.

And He Got That Wrong.

Ernst Thalman, the international
banker, was greatly liked by newspaper men in Wall street. He spoke as an authority on all banking questions—
in a strong German accent, however.
Shortly before his death a reporter—
one of his friends—interviewed him in regard to European finances.

The next day he met Mr. Thalman in Broad street and was halted by the banker, who made a great show of anger.

"I saw you yesterday," he said. "I told you nothings, and you got that
wrong in your paper."—New York Mail.

Not Reciprocated.

"How many children have you?"
"Three. Two grown up daughters and a son in college."

"How proud you must be of them!"

"I am, but somehow or other I don't seem to be able to act so that they can bring themselves to feel proud of me."

—Detroit Free Press.

Deceiving.

Minister—I'm sorry to find you coming out of a public house again. Hamish, after all you promised me. Hamish—Aye, sir. It's wonnerful what an awfu' deceivin' thing this mist is.
D'y'e ken, I went in there the noo
thinkin' 'twas the butcher's shop.—London Tit-Bits.

She Hated Flattery.

"I hate flattery," she said.
"Of course you do," he replied.
"Every pretty girl does."

Then she drew a long, deep sigh and permitted him to press her cheek
against his own.—Chicago Record-Herald.
