MOUNT SAINT MARY'S BRILLIANT COMMENCEMENT

RT. REV. MONS. J. J. TIERNEY.

HIS EMINENCE JAMES CARDINAL GIBBONS.

VERY REV. B. J. BRADLEY
PRESIDENT MOUNT ST. MARY'S COLLEGE WHO AWARDED THE HONORS

The Games of The Week.

In the last two games of the season Mount St. Mary's split even, winning from Westminster and suffering defeat at the hands of the Maryland Athletic Club. Mt. Washington was scheduled to play on Monday, but the nine missed the train and Westminster was substituted. The game was a walk away for the Mountain boys who won handily 15 to 7. The home runs of Rice and Sutton and a three bagger by Sebold were the features. The game was called after the sixth inning on account of rain.

On Tuesday, Maryland Athletic Club, in the annual commencement game, defeated Mount St. Mary's 11 to 3.

King Lear was a bit too much for the local boys, and they could do very little with his delivery. Both Higgins and Sutton had a poor day and their errors were responsible for the majority of the visitors' runs. Maryland Athletic Club had the best team seen on the local field this year, its fielding being snappy and accurate.

McCoy did the twirling for the Mountaineers and pitched a very good game and had his support been better he would have held the visitors to a closer score. Maryland Athletic Club, in the third and fourth innings, bunched hits and by the aid of errors managed to cross the plate for eight runs. Deal, Franke and Worthington made home runs.

The Elocution Contest.

The annual contest for excellence in elocution—the winner of which is awarded the Watterson gold medal—was held in the Gymnasium on Tuesday night and as in former years drew a large crowd.

The programme was as follows:

March, "The Crusader," J. Ph. Sousa Orchestra.
Joseph R. McGee, "Mother and Son."
Hayne R. Martin, "The Death of Front-de-Boeuf."

Daniel A. Tierney, "On Woman Suffrage."
Daniel John Boyle, "The English Buccaneer."
John A. Kelly, "The Unknown Speaker."
Ralph Keating, "Opportunities of the Scholar."
March, "Spirit of Independence" Holzmann, Orchestra.

The Ordinations.

Wednesday morning at six o'clock one of the most impressive ceremonies of the week took place when Rt. Rev. Owen B. Corrigan, elevated to the priesthood three students of the seminary, Rev. Messrs. Albert L. Cahill, of Providence, R. I.; Joseph N. Whalen, of Harrisburg, Pa., and Joseph M. Sheridan, of Mobile, Alabama. Quite a number of visiting clergy and invited guests attended the solemn exercises.

The Commencement Proper.

When on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock the strains of the Grand March from Kretschmer's "Folkunger" by the College Orchestra ushered in the opening number of the one hundred and fifth annual commencement, every seat in the spacious gymnasium building was occupied and standing room was at a premium.

The hall was most tastefully draped with bunting of the Papal, the Cardinal's and the College Colors; crossed flags and United States shields adorned the walls, while potted ferns at the foot of the rostrum lent a pleasing touch of nature to the setting.

On the Cardinal's right on the dais sat Very Rev. Monsignor John J. Tierney, on the other side was Very Rev. Bernard J. Bradley, LL. D., president of the College. Others who occupied chairs on the platform were Rev. Stephen A. Walsh, who delivered the address to the graduates; Rev. Philip J. Gallagher, of the College Faculty; A. V. D. Watterson, Esq., of Pittsburgh, president of the Alumni; Judge Peter

A. O'Boyle, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. John Francis Whalen, Pottsville, Pa.

The graduating class occupied places on the East side of the dais, the college orchestra, under the able leadership of Prof. Frederic A. Braun, was on the West. The Gleé Club, also directed by Prof. Braun, which rendered selections that were heartily applauded by the audience, was seated on the right of the hall, in the front of the orchestra.

The exercises were presided over by His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons. Although not a graduate, the Cardinal has ever taken advantage of an opportunity to express his pleasure in referring to the old "Mount" as his adopted Alma Mater, and is always very much gratified to lend the dignity of his presence to any important event held at that institution, so well known throughout the Catholic world as "the Cradle of Bishops."

The order of the exercises follows:
Grand March—From "The Folkunger," Kretschmer, Orchestra.

Opening Prayer—His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons.

Overture—"Nabuccodonozor," Verdi, Orchestra.

Speech—"The Foreign Missionary Movement in America," Michael J. Laughlin.

Chorus—Barcarolle from "Les Contes D'Hoffman," Offenbach, Glee Club.

Speech—"The Advance of Socialism in the United States," Thomas F. Mulhearn.

Operatic Potpourri, arr. Bodenwald, Orchestra.

Speech—"College Athletics," Arthur H. Malloy.

Chorus—Gavotte "Rosalie," R. De-Koven, Glee Club.

Conferring of Degrees.

Grand Fantasia—"Home Sweet Home the World Over," Lampe.

Valedictory, John A. McCormick.

Chorus—Serenade "Blush Roses," Wachs, Glee Club.

Awarding of Honors.

Address to the Graduates, Rev. Stephen A. Walsh, A. M.

Blessing—His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons.

Exit March—"National Spirit," Hager Orchestra.

The address to the graduates was made by Father Walsh. In an eloquent and scholarly manner he spoke of the great opportunities that were before the graduates in the life upon which they were about to enter, and urged them to aspire always to the noble purposes and high ideals which their education had established.

The Cardinal's Remarks.

Cardinal Gibbons, speaking in a reminiscent mood, said: "I have been coming to 'the Mountain' since 1866. Therefore I am more familiar with the work and progress of this institution than any of you that are here at present. With men that have attained such promise as Chief Justice White, Judge Burke and Michael Jenkins as its graduates you might well be proud to call this your Alma Mater. You should be proud of your education, for there is no greater blessing than a schooling at the hands of men who devote their lives to the upbuilding and uplifting of the Christian youth.

"You do not measure success in terms of wealth nor in political preferment. You measure it in the development of your intellect and in your mental and moral worth. You measure it in the testimony of a good conscience and the respect of your fellow-men."

The Degrees Conferred.

By a decree of the Faculty of Mount Saint Mary's College the following degrees were conferred:

The honorary degree of Doctor of Law on:

The Honorable James Washington Logue, M. C., Philadelphia, Pa.

FIVE GIRLS GRADUATE

St. Euphemia's Interesting Exercises

LARGE AUDIENCE IN ATTENDANCE

Special Prizes Awarded for Essays.—An Excellent Programme Rendered.—Mother Margaret Present.

An annual event that is always looked forward to with keenest anticipation by the friends as well as the scholars of Emmitsburg's splendid parochial school is the commencement of St. Euphemia's.

For years this flourishing institution, in charge of experienced and ever faithful Sisters of Charity, has well supplied the educational needs of the large parish of St. Joseph's, and the thoroughness of the work done within its classrooms, as exemplified by the high standard of this year's essays and valedictory, is ample evidence that St. Euphemia's is in a marked degree fulfilling a noble mission.

The exercises of Tuesday morning afforded the large audience more than mere entertainment; they were edifying, inspiring—representative, quite, of an institution with a more pretentious and extended curriculum.

The prettily set stage of the commodious and well appointed auditorium was a bower of ferns and field daisies, while in the gracefully twined streamers, extending from the motto surmounting the proscenium arch to each side, blue and white, the school colors, prevailed. Precisely on the stroke of ten the graduates gowned in white and each carrying a cluster of roses and ferns, headed the stately procession which entered the hall to the measured tones of an appropriate entrance march, spiritedly played by Miss Mary Welty and Miss Lillian Long.

As a musical prelude to the excellent "Salutatory" by Miss Bernadette Kemper the entire school sang with dignity and feeling the chorus, "Our Lady of Good Counsel," the minims followed with an amusing song entitled "What Would You Take for Me Papa" by Westendorf. A very pretty musical number was Danse Ecossaise by F. T. Baker, played by the Misses L. Long and M. Mitchell. The prize essay which followed this number was listened to with rapt attention and keen interest by the appreciative audience. The writer, who read his paper with a fervor befitting the subject, was Master J. Albert Saffer who had for his subject "Frederick County During the Revolutionary War." "A Jolly Good Laugh," the Boys' Chorus, made a decided hit. It was a contagious number so to speak, the "good laugh" being indulged in by every one in the room. A musical number of merit was William Dressler's "Honeysuckle March," which was brilliantly played by Misses Marguerite Saffer, Alice Dukehart and Rose Hopp.

The next essay which also won a first prize was one with "Culture" for its subject. The writer was Miss Marguerite Mitchell. Although wide in scope it was most comprehensive and exceptionally well treated. These two essays with the remarkably fine "Valedictory" by Miss Ruth Harner would make many college students envious. "Joan of Arc" was the title of Miss Harner's paper, which was remarkably well handled and read with a dignity due the subject, and with excellent enunciation.

This part of the programme was interspersed with two charming numbers the one being a chorus by the smaller girls of the school entitled "The Little Waiters." In appropriate costume and with prettily decorated cups and saucers against which were rattled with childish abandon many tinkling spoons, a bevy of pretty young misses announced to those present that they were ready to serve them, furthermore, guaranteeing that each dainty utensil would be properly cleansed and dried.

Suppe's Poet and Peasant is always an attractive musical number and as played by Miss Mary Welty, who has a fine touch and a rare knowledge of technique proved to be as entrancing as ever.

With much feeling the seniors sang their "Farewell Dear School," and with expressions of pleasure and pride received their diplomas, joining with others in sharing honors which follow.

For having completed the prescribed course of study, of St. Euphemia's Parochial School, Diploma of Graduation and Gold Medal awarded to: Miss Ruth Elizabeth Harner, Miss Bernadette Mary Kemper, Miss Mary Margaret Chrimer, Miss Marguerite Mary Mitchell, Miss Caroline Rosalia Baker.

Prizes for Compositions—Donated by a friend of the school, for best Essay on Culture—First prize, $5.00 in gold, awarded to Miss Marguerite Mitchell; second prize, $2.50 in gold, awarded to Master J. Albert Saffer; third prize awarded to Miss Mary Chrimer; fourth prize awarded to Miss Bernadette Kemper.

Prizes for Composition—Donated by Mr. J. Frederick Welty, of Philadelphia, for best essay on Frederick County during the Revolutionary War—First prize, $5.00 in gold, awarded to Master J. Albert Saffer; second prize, $2.50 in gold, awarded to Miss Ruth Harner; third prize, $2.50 in gold, awarded to Miss Caroline Baker.

Prizes for Latin—Donated by the Rev. Pastor, awarded to Miss Bernadette Kemper, second year class; Miss Gertrude Sebald, first year class.

Prizes for Scholarship—Ninth grade, first prize, Master J. Albert Saffer; second prize, Miss Gertrude Sebald; eighth grade, Master Edward Eckenrode; seventh grade, Miss Loretta Mullen; sixth grade, Miss Naomi Bowling; fifth grade, Miss Adele Wivell; fourth grade, Master Bernard Walter; third grade, Miss Bertha Wachter.

Diplomas for proficiency in rapid, legible, business writing awarded to Misses Mary Chrimer, Irene Wivell, Lillian Long, Agnes Cotilus, Madeline Frizell, Rose Gelwicks and Master Harry Scott.

Teacher's Diploma for business writing, awarded to Miss Bernadette Kemper.

Certificates in Music awarded to Misses Mary F. Welty, Lillian Long, Marguerite Saffer, Alice Dukehart, Rose Hopp, Helen Rider.

At the close of the exercises the Rev. Pastor J. O. Hayden, C. M., congratulated the graduates and scholars and thanked the good Sisters for their untiring efforts in making St. Euphemia's School such a high grade institution.

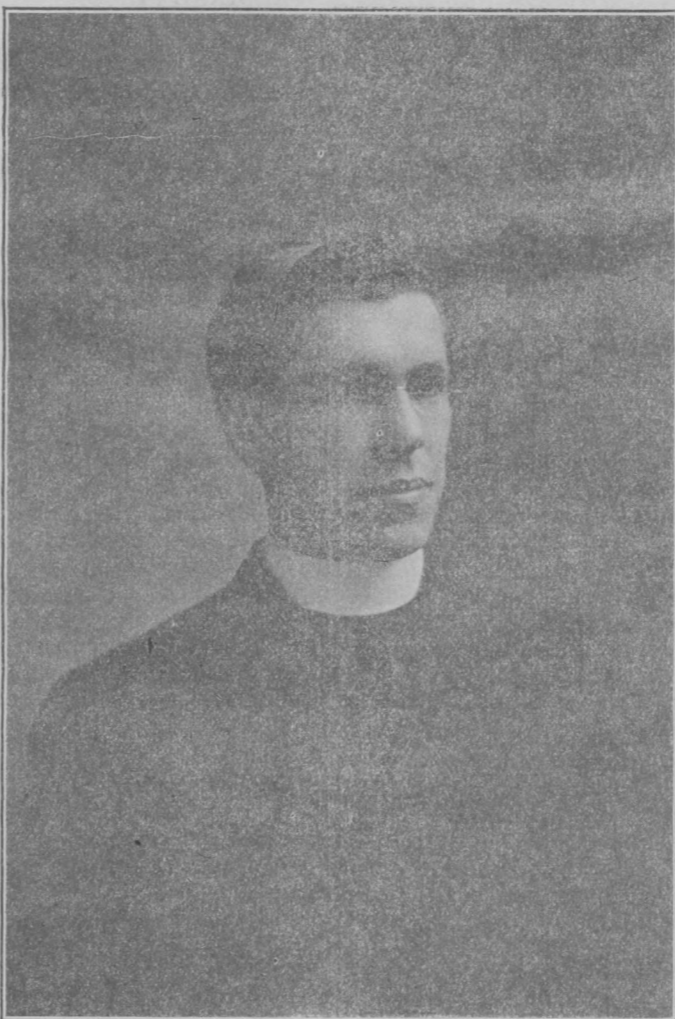

In the same order in which they entered the graduates and the members of each class filed out of the auditorium to the "Exit March" impressively rendered by Misses L. Long and M. Saffer and the 1913 commencement of St. Euphemia's passed into local history.

An honor which was very greatly appreciated by the entire school was the presence on this occasion of Mother Margaret and Sr. Blanche of St. Joseph's College and Academy.

The following young ladies were graduated this year: Miss Ruth E. Harner, Miss Bernadette M. Kemper, Miss Mary M. Chrimer, Miss Margaret M. Mitchell, Miss Caroline R. Baker.

The attractions at the Firemen's picnic this year will be bigger than ever. Emmitsburg will be the place to spend the Fourth.

"If you suppose two young men with equal endowments, both fitted for college, one whom goes directly into business and the other takes a college course, it is certain that the graduate at the time of his graduation would not be so valuable in a given concern as the one who had had four years of experience. The same might be true three years later, but at the expiration of ten years I should expect to find that the college graduate was of more value in the settlement of difficult questions and in dealing with men than the one who had had no college education."

Vice-President of Mount St. Mary's, and Faculty Member of the Athletic Association.

Studebaker

Your confidence is what Studebaker seeks to keep Possessing this confidence, we have never tried to produce a cheap wagon. We could, but we don't dare try the experiment. Our constant aim has been to produce the best wagon.

And in living up to this highest standard, we have won and hold—the confidence and good-will of hundreds of thousands of farmers all over the world.

Studebaker wagons are built to last, to do a day's work every day, to stand up under stress and strain and to make the name Studebaker stand for all that is best in vehicles.

Don't accept any other wagon represented to be just as good as a Studebaker. The substitute may be cheaper, but it isn't up to Studebaker standards, and you can't afford to buy it.

For business or pleasure, there is a Studebaker vehicle suited to your requirements. Farm wagons, trucks, business wagons, surreys, buggies, runabouts, pony carriages—each the best of its kind. Harness also—of the same high Studebaker standard.

THE 1913 BASEBALL SEASON AT MOUNT ST. MARY'S COLLEGE

After a Good Start The Nine Was Handicapped By Loss of The Cream of the Pitching Staff.

The athletic progress of a college can always be told by a comparison of the schedules of two successive seasons. St. Mary's took a decided step forward in the baseball season of 1913, playing stronger teams than ever before. Coach Mike Thompson, who has refereed many intercollegiate matches and is well known in the world of sport, had good material at his disposal when the season opened, and but for hard luck should have had a championship team.

With a good pitching staff and a nine that worked like a well oiled machine St. Mary's got a running start. Some of the strongest teams on the schedule were met and defeated in the earlier games, with the home team playing in mid-season form. Then the hard luck started. Coach Thompson had developed a string of mound artists, the best of whom when they had rounded into form, for one reason or another went elsewhere or dropped out of college and thus the pitching staff, the most important part of any team, was shot to pieces.

In spite of this severe handicap the team played good, consistent ball, although games were lost while new pitchers were being developed. Men who were new to the pitching game were taken from their accustomed positions thus weakening the regular line up and slowing up the team work which was so noticeable earlier in the season. With a crippled team, the Mountaineers finished the season, playing very creditable ball when their disadvantages are considered.

Coach Thompson and the whole squad deserve all sorts of praise for the plucky way in which they met difficult situations and for the hard work and splendid fighting spirit they showed at all times. There is very little doubt but that under normal conditions the nine would have made a clean sweep, but St. Mary's rather than feel discouraged over the outcome of the season, should feel proud of a team composed of men who have been true sportsmen from the first game to the last.

THE ANNUAL SENIOR CLASS BANQUET HELD AT THE MOUNT

Takes Place At The College Instead of Being Held Elsewhere as in Former Years.—A Grand Success.

The annual banquet of the Senior class of Mount St. Mary's College was held on May twenty-second at The Mountain, and was pronounced successful in every detail by all those present. It has been the custom in former years to hold the banquet at some place other than at Emmitsburg; a departure from this rule was made this year, the banquet being held at the "Mount" with a result highly gratifying to all concerned.

The responses to the toasts were unusually good and the whole affair went through without a hitch. The toasts and those who responded to them follow. Toastmaster, Michael J. Laughlin; Our Absent Ones, Leo Fesenmeier; Our Undergraduates, Joseph G. Sebald; Our Sisters of St. Francis, Thomas F. Mulhearn; Our Faculty, Hubert J. Burke; Our Future, James B. Rogers; Our Alumni, John A. McCormick; Our Athletes, Arthur H. Malloy; Our Alma Mater, Patrick J. Purcell; Our Classmates, Martin J. Jordan; Our President, John P. McGuire; Our Monsignor, Benedict J. Leonard; Our Seminarians, Patrick J. Phelan; Our College Days, Daniel T. Killroy, Jr.

The following menu was served: consommé, olives, salted nuts; planked shad, butter sauce, potatoes a la creme; boiled spring chicken, potato croquettes, French peas; roast lamb, fresh asparagus, lobster, mayonnaise salad; fancy ice cream, assorted cake, pumpkin pie a la mountain, college puffs; roquefort cheese, crackers; fruit, cafe noir; cigars, cigarettes.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

I hereby announce my candidacy for County Treasurer, subject to the Democratic Primary Election of 1913.

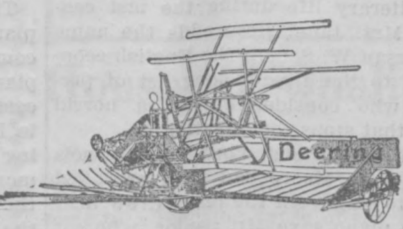

Since taking charge of the office on July 1st, 1912 I have become personally acquainted with most of the taxpayers and gained an experience which should better qualify me to perform the duties of County Treasurer if I am nominated and elected. I have been giving the office my undivided personal attention and have tried to conduct it in a progressive businesslike way in the interest and for the accommodation of the people generally.

I shall appreciate the assistance of every voter and cheerfully abide by the decision of the voters as expressed in the primary election.

Respectfully,
FREDERICK W. CRAMER.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Fredrick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

MOUNT SAINT MARY'S—MAY SHE PROSPER.

Another gala week in the Commencement history of Mount Saint Mary's College and Seminary. A week of pleasure, pride and satisfaction that marked the one hundred and fifth anniversary of the founding of this splendid institution which, recording a fact and giving expression to a term of endearment, is known far and wide as the "Cradle of Bishops."

The same feeling of esteem and the same pleasurable anticipation that leads the parent or friend of some happy student to the Mount at this June time also guides the loyal alumnus to share in the delight of the young graduate, to applaud the success of a medalist, and to meet again the kindly preceptor and the fellow-student of the years ago.

alumnus. There is a welcome awaiting him, and mayhap a friend or two whom he has not seen for years—a jurist, a prelate, a railroad magnate, or a man of affairs in government or mercantile life—all returning to do honor to the college that honored them.

This year was no exception to the years that have past. For days before the one all-important day, train after train brought visitors, friends, old students and prospective scholars—a carefree coterie, albeit fully mindful of the dignity that should grace the occasion. And Wednesday's Commencement at Mount St. Mary's was characterized, as commencements always have been here, by a dignity befitting the seriousness of a time like this which marks the era in the lives of those who go forth to meet that sterner life so full of responsibility, so fraught with opportunity for the exercise of those natural faculties which have been conserved and developed by their Alma Mater.

One cannot fail to be impressed by the exercises incident to commencement at the Mount. The evidence of systematic training, the result of the carefully planned college course is here apparent, and one is convinced, not only by the perusal of its curriculum, but by the outcome of it, that a diploma from Mount St. Mary's means preparedness.

Here the student is not a mere acquaintance of his professor; nor is he lost in the midst of a vast student body among whom he can have only a limited number of friends. His instructors are his monitors, his constant advisors, his daily companions, if he will, and representatives from every class may be his close, his intimate friends.

The very location of the Mount, its environment, its customs, and reasonable restrictions—all these are productive of that camaraderie that obtains in this institution; conducive, also, to health, study, preparation and an equitable mental and physical development.

His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons honored this Commencement by presiding—a gracious courtesy which this noted prelate has often shown before; bishops, monsignori, prominent priests and distinguished laymen were here, and with these many an alumnus, friend and visitor contributed to the marked success of this year's event at old Mount Saint Mary's College, the second oldest Catholic college in the United States.

With these and the myriad friends scattered far and wide throughout the world, we join in the wish that Mount Saint Mary's may prosper still more abundantly as the years roll on.

A BEAUTIFUL OLD AGE.

In this community which has always been noted for the longevity of its people many have passed the Scriptural allotment of three score years and ten; some with the attendant ills and infirmities of age, many without; but to few has been granted the honor of reaching the century mark—every faculty unimpaired.

Mrs. Phillipina Halm was among those thus blessed. To the very last she remained young in spirit; nor did she allow the past of her long life, so full, so rich in pleasure and experience, to keep her from a close touch with current events. In thought, in reading, in conversation she was conversant with all that happened, and when her summons came her faith still found her true.

Only a few days since, as though responding to the beckoning of some minor theme of memory, the dear old lady sought the instrument which had been so long a cherished and familiar friend, and played what was to prove her swan song—the last number in life's repertoire. And scarcely had the melody ceased, so it seemed, when she laid her down to rest—contented, unafraid.

RELATION EDUCATION BEARS TO BUSINESS

College Training and Discipline Places the Faculties of Mind in Working Order.

Education is always beneficial to all persons under all circumstances. But the question is narrowed to the point of collegiate education being essential or beneficial to young men entering business. As mankind lives by his labor, and his labor is his business, the question becomes a most important one, and can be answered generally by the single little word. Yes?

What is business? Many, and far too many, think that business means simply the procedure of getting money from the pockets of others into their own. Such persons know from experience that a collegiate education is not absolutely essential for a young man entering business, and doubt very much if it is even beneficial. They know that some knowledge is valuable, particularly knowledge of human nature and knowledge of the ignorance of those with whom they deal, and knowledge enough to write a little.

College training enables the mind to solve properly the great business problems, for the masterful comprehension of underlying principles and the right understanding of the details of any calling. The discipline places all of the faculties of the mind in perfect working order and under control. Nothing but severe training accomplishes this results, and the best training is had in the methods of education adopted by our colleges. A college education is capital. A man may go into business without capital, but he does harder work with poorer results, than if he were properly equipped.

If the chief end in a business career is to make money it is possible that the one not going to college might develop a sharpness of method and a keenness of accumulation which would keep him in advance of the college graduate. But for what the best business men owe to the community, largeness of view and fidelity to engagements in the Church or State, the college graduate would doubtless be of greater service.

UTILITY THE MOST INSIDIOUS ENEMY OF EDUCATION

View of Educator Who Criticises the Purely Commercial Trend in Schools.

Felix E. Shelling, L. L. D., professor of English Literature in the University of Pennsylvania, in a lecture making an appeal for liberal studies in the universities of to-day, deplored the invasion of the utilities or so-called practical subjects into the college curriculum when they crowded out the humanities.

"Utility," Dr. Shelling said, "is the most insidious enemy there is of education. By utility I do not mean the broad idea of service and usefulness to others. I mean the so-called practical subjects—the purely commercial, the ones which it is said will fit youths for business or for their profession; the idea of utility which hurries the boys to business and professional schools before they have grasped a vision of life and all it means and holds for them. This is what I mean by utility. Utility destroys the very ideal for which our universities exist to-day."

Dr. Shelling was careful to point out that he did not aim his criticism at science, which, if taught on liberal lines, had the broadening influence of the humanities.

"The technical schools," Dr. Shelling said, "are the pride of our country, and they need bow to none. But they cannot fill the place of a liberal education."

"The professional man, unless he has had the liberalizing influences of the study of the humanities as a foundation, becomes a mere pettifogging lawyer or a narrow-visioned divine."

"Anything is beneficial which teaches a man to think for himself and to grasp principles, and this a college education does. Apart from the question of success in business, I think it best to consider the broader question of the success of the man in a broader sense. A man is more than his business, and a good college education will help him, in any case, to see things from a broader point of view, to be a better man and a better citizen."

Value of Foods.

A well meaning meal containing the proper combination of foods is not difficult to prepare. The essential ingredient, a repairing material, is protein, found abundantly in meat, eggs, cheese and nuts. The starches and sugars, technically known as carbohydrates, are required also, together with fats for fuel for effort. These two fuel furnishing foods can be used alternately, thus securing a variation. Scientists who have given the question of food values special attention report that a diet of protein, fat and carbohydrates alone would cause starvation more quickly than if all food were withheld. There is the necessity of introducing some mineral salts that yield iron, calcium, magnesium, phosphorus and potassium.

A supply of iron is obtained from raisins, whole wheat, dried beans, prunes and meats or the yolks of eggs. Calcium is contributed by milk, dried peas and beans, celery and citrus fruits. In meat, peas, beans, milk and prunes there is magnesium. Phosphorus forms a quality in meat, milk, egg yolks, whole wheat, dried peas and beans. Potassium is furnished in potatoes, parsnips, cabbage, turnips and apples.—Leslie's.

The Baron's Order.

A worthy Welsh baronet, a member of one of the parliaments of William IV., was asked by one of his constituents who chanced to be in town at the time for an order of admission into the house. With his characteristic disposition to oblige, Sir — immediately complied with the request and wrote an order in the usual terms and addressed it thus: "To the Door Keeper of the House of Commons." The person for whom it was intended discovered the error in the spelling after he had gone ten or twelve yards from the worthy baronet and, turning back and running up to him, said: "Oh, Sir —, there is a slight mistake in your order. Two letters have been transposed. You have spelled 'keeper' with a 'k' instead of a 'k' and 'commons' with a 'k' instead of a 'c.' 'That's all right,' was the answer. 'The doorkeeper will see to it. He is sure to know which is which.'"

A Legend of the Forgetmenot.

The blue bloom of the forgetmenot was christened on the banks of the beautiful Danube. There is a legend that two lovers once walked there. The girl admired some flowers, blue as her eyes, that grew upon an islet in the stream. The boy promised that she should have them, sprang into the river and swam to the island. Returning with the blooms, he had nearly reached the shore when the chill of the water and the strength of the current overcame him. With eyes fixed on the white face of his beloved, he flung the blooms at her feet, cried "Forget me not!" and was swept away beneath the icy waters to his doom. The legend says the girl, in memory of him, wore forgetmenots in her hair until she, too, died of a broken heart. Henry IV. of England in his exile translated the forgetmenot to his friends to mean "Remember me."—Boston Post.

A Natural Query.

In the office window of a certain street railway company there is a sign which reads:

MOTORMEN AND CONDUCTORS EMPLOYED ONLY ON MONDAYS AND THURSDAYS.

A typical Irishman from the old sod happened along, and the sign struck his eye. Pausing, he slowly spelled out the words, while an expression of bewilderment overspread his face.

"Only worruk Moonday an' We'n'sday, is it?" he was overheard to mutter to himself. "Thin phwat th' divil do th' byes do all th' rist av th' wake?"—Lippincott's.

Split Infinitives.

During an examination in grammar and composition an inspector was questioning the highest class of the school, and he presently said:

"What is meant by the saying, 'You should not split the infinitive?'"

One determined looking boy, rather than give no answer at all, hazarded the reply:

"It means that you should not try to divide space."—Exchange.

A Jocular Convict.

"We're starting a circulating library for the use of the inmates," said the prison missionary. "Is there any particular book you'd like to make use of?"

"Why, yes," replied the convict. "If I could only use it right I'd like to have a railway guide."—London Tit-Bits.

Tactful Toast.

At the close of the wedding breakfast a gentleman noted for his lack of tact arose, causing keen anxiety to the bridegroom, who knew his falling.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he cried genially, "I propose the health of the bridegroom. May he see many days like this."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Too Envious.

"I have read three novels by your cousin, Amanda, and in not one of them do the lovers marry. Now, that is peculiar!"

"Oh, not at all! She is much too envious to give others such happiness!"—Fliegende Blätter.

A New Time Table.

"When does this ferry run, Uncle?" asked the would-be passenger.

"Dis ferry, Marce," said the old man, "she runs at quarter arter, half arter, quarter to and at."—Lippincott's.

A slip of the tongue is worse than that of the foot.—Spanish Proverb.

Grossmith and Irving.

Mr. Weeden Grossmith in "From Studio to Stage" tells how he very nearly spoiled his chances with Sir Henry Irving at the outset of his acting career. Mr. Grossmith in his studio days was in demand for his "imitations," and at the rehearsal of this play he was told that in his part of Jacques Strop he must "imitate" the gestures and so on of his master, Maccaire.

I rushed at it, hit the table and gave them my regular, conventional back drawing room imitation of the great man himself. Jogging my head and waving my hands in the air, I shouted, "Hi, hi—er—er—landlord—er—er—why the devil—er—er—don't you bring—er—er—some—er—er—refreshment—er—for—myself and—er—er—er—I never got any further. Fifty people on the stage collapsed, some with fear, others with laughter. Never had such a thing been known within the sacred walls of the Lyceum. The late Harry Loveday, the stage manager, turned pale with fright. The great chief glared at me for a moment with eyes dilated and then gave me a push, saying, "Stupid fellow!" He practically pushed me off the stage.

Enduring It Calmly.

In "The Fourth Generation," her volume of reminiscences of English social and literary life during the last century, Mrs. Janet Ross adds the name of Nassau W. Senior, the English economist, to the already long list of persons who consider music "a horrid noise that stops conversation."

Once at Bowood, Lord Lansdowne's place, Tom Moore had been prevailed upon to sing. All the party drew near to the piano save Mr. Senior, who sat at a small table and began to write with a quill pen on Lord Lansdowne's very ribbed paper. He was compiling an article on statistics or something of the sort.

Moore began, but he was so much worried by the persistent scratch, scratch, that he stopped to see who was making the odious noise.

Senior raised his head. "Oh, you don't disturb me, I assure you," he said innocently. "Pray, go on; I rather like it."

Insolence of Wealth.

A southern negro put up a sign on his place, "For Sale." He was ridiculed and changed it to "sell" and finally tried a third time, his sign reading "sall." It had not been up an hour when an old colored man came along and queried:

"Does you mean dat dis place am fur Sally? What yer gwine to giv' de place to Sally fur?"

"Am you findin' fault wid dat sign?" asked the other.

"Well, I doan' quite cotch on to de spellin'."

"You doan', eh? Has you got seben hundred dollahs to pay cash down fur dis place?"

"No, sah."

"Den you pass on an' shet up! Maybe I doan' spell just de same as you do, but I's got prospect of handlin' seben hundred dollahs, while you go' boaf knees out to de weddah. Go 'long, ole man; yo' too fly on jogerfy."

Weather Reduced to Prose.

The weather was once a picturesque and poetic thing. It came up in the night with a boom and a bang through the trees. It was a sort of mystic king that asked no questions, but just swung a scepter. It was grand in "red sky at night, the sailor's delight; red sky in the morning, sailors take warning." It was a wholesome lesson to proud man that he always had a master, and it made us more reverent toward nature and the Creator. There was such a difference in receiving our weather direct from heaven and receiving it by wire direct from Washington.—New York Mail.

Sounded Funny.

An individual of considerable importance, by name Tootle, once attended a reception, accompanied by his wife. The announcement was made, "Mr. Tootle!"

"And Mrs. Tootle," was suggested sotto voce in corrective tones.

"And Mrs. Tootle, too!" resounded like the blast of a horn through the room, to the evident amusement of the large assembly.—London Answers

Weighing the Baby.

"How many stamps will this baby take by parcel post?"

"It weighs fourteen pounds," announced the clerk. "The number of stamps required depends on where you want it to go."

"I don't want it to go anywhere, thank you. I just wanted to ascertain its weight."—Kansas City Journal.

Definition of Drunkenness.

The following definition of being drunk has been given by a laborer in a Melbourne police court, writes our Sydney correspondent:

"I go on drinking till I think I'm drunk. Then I drink more till I be levee I am sober. Then I am sure that I am drunk."—London Mail.

Very Often the Case.

"Yes, but the trouble is he also wants to act as umpire," added the simple mug.—Philadelphia Record.

Modern "Antiques."

There is a class of traveling American who put not their trust in the dealers in antiques in European cities, but go prowling about in castles and peasant houses seeking to discover for themselves rare and ancient bits of furniture, pottery and the like. So persistent and large has this class grown that the dealers, feeling the trade in spurious antiques was falling off, have resorted to the plan of stocking some of these chateaux and peasant houses with modern "period stuff." And they say that the amateur discoverers are perfectly happy in their ignorance.

One of these collectors had "discovered" and bought from a farmhouse in the Elfeld, that picturesque volcanic plateau in western Prussia, a wonderfully carved cabinet. The farmhouse was at the top of a steep hill, and the American walked close to the husky porter as he carried the cabinet carefully down. The "treasure" was heavy, the day was warm, and the porter grunted at every other step.

"That's a pretty heavy load—to carry that cabinet down the hill," said the American.

"Yes," agreed the porter, stopping to rest a moment, "but it was heavier still when I took it up the hill a week ago."—Harper's.

The Castor Oil Plant.

The rapid growth of the castor oil plant has become proverbial. Some commentators have declared that the plant known as Jonas' gourd was the castor oil plant. There are vast plains in Bengal covered with the oil producing vegetable. Immediately after the monsoon, when the water has receded, the peasant rakes the mire and puts the oil plant seeds in the ground two by two. The plants rapidly develop their great leaves and produce their fruit, which grows in groups of capsules, acquiring a coppery green color mottled with purple and rich carmine. When the hot sun has dried the pods they burst. The women and children watch the pods, and when the first crack appears they are ready to catch the precious seeds within. When the seeds have dried a few days the natives toast them, crush them in a mortar and plunge them in boiling water, when the oil rises to the surface.—Exchange.

Jade.

Jade is regarded by the Chinese as the most precious of precious stones. You can buy a small piece in white for $10, but a similar specimen in emerald green would cost you from $35 to $50. The value of the stone depends on the coloring and especially on transparency, luster and brilliance of the beautiful emerald green, usually distributed in splashes through the matrix, which may be white or greenish, or even tinted with lavender. Rarely indeed does it occur in sufficient quantity to furnish a large example. Sometimes small pieces are selected to be made into beads of the purest emerald tint, free from those flecks which depreciate their worth. In the sunlight, if you examine such beads, you will find that they approach the emerald in purity of tone.—J. F. Blacker in London Opinion.

England's First Coffee.

Coffee, like tea, was from an early date welcomed as a rival to alcoholic liquors. Writing in 1650, shortly after its introduction into England, Howell makes the comment "that this coffee bath caused a great sobriety amongst all nations. Formerly clerks, apprentices, etc., used to take their morning drafts in ale, beer or wine, which often made them unfit for business. Now they play the good fellows in this wakeful and civil drink. The worthy gentleman, Sir James Muddiford, who introduced the practice thereof first in London, deserves much respect of the whole nation."

Between Girls.

"Why the cogitation?"

"I dislike to take my engagement ring to a jeweler, and yet I should like to know what it cost. But it would embarrass me to take it to a jeweler."

"You needn't. There are at least two girls in our set who have had it valued."—Kansas City Journal.

The Human Voice.

A contributor to the Paris Gaulois claims that the human voice is becoming lower. He says that ten generations ago our ancestors hardly knew what a bass voice was. Today the average male voice is a baritone. A lowering of pitch is also noticeable among women. Sopranos are becoming rarer.

They Do Not Speak Now.

Kate—I want to have some pictures taken. Can you recommend a photographer?

Marie—Well, there's Tripodd. They say he has a wonderful way of making plain people look handsome.—Boston Transcript.

Had Good Sense.

Father—That young man of yours has more brains than I gave him credit for. Daughter—Oh, papa! You don't really mean it? Father—Yes. Instead of coming to see me he called me up on the telephone.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Patient Suffering.

Mere pain is not education, does not bring growth. It is the suffering of willing submission to God that softens and spiritualizes and blesses us.—Phillips Brooks.

Only a cheap person will try to make another person feel cheap.—Youth's Companion.

IN SCIENTIFIC
AGRICULTURE
TENTH ARTICLE — CORN CULTIVATION.
By C. P. HARTLEY, Physiologist in Charge of Corn Investigations, United States Department of Agriculture.

THE methods of corn cultivation in general use in one section of the country differ greatly from those in another section.
That certain kinds of cultivators or plows or methods of planting have been in use in Georgia or Iowa for many years does not prove that implements or methods found successful in other states might not be used there to advantage.
Fall plowing cannot be recommended for all soils and localities, but should be more generally practiced than at present. If a cover crop or sod is turned under in the autumn decomposition will increase the amount of plant food available for the crop next summer. This is true to some extent even though sod is not turned under, inasmuch as the simple loosening of the soil admits atmospheric oxygen and increases chemical action upon vegetable and mineral matter. Fall and winter plowing is one of the best methods of combating insect pests.
Because the surface of ground plowed in the fall is drier at planting time in the spring than that of ground not so treated, it does not necessarily follow that there is less moisture in fall plowed ground. The fall plowing has enabled the rainfall better to penetrate the subsoil, thus relieving the surface of its excess of moisture. In the spring fall plowed fields usually contain much more moisture, but at the same time have a drier surface than fields which remain unplowed until spring. In sections where there is much rain during the winter it is better not to harrow
the fall plowed land in the autumn.

furrows every eight feet. On each side and two feet from each end furrow shallow rows are marked off, and in them the corn is planted.
The labor saved by the use of planters is so great that for profitable corn growing their use is indispensable.
Every spring the planter should be thoroughly tested and adjusted.
The proper depth to plant must be governed by the quality and moisture of the soil. If it is a stiff, heavy clay, containing plenty of moisture at planting time, one inch is sufficiently deep, but if it is a light, open, dry soil three or four inches is a satisfactory depth.
Fortify against dry weather by planting the seed in a furrow, covering it slightly, and then gradually cultivating the furrow full of soil as the plants grow. This method of planting is especially well adapted to deep soils where dry weather is likely to prevail during the middle or latter part of the growing season. The lister fulfills the requirements of this method.
The lister is used for planting fields that have been thoroughly plowed and also for planting directly in last year's cornfield or stubble field without previous preparation. This latter practice, however, is not recommended for shallow or stiff clay soils.
Perhaps more corn is now planted by means of a check rower than by any other device. Some successful growers of corn have found it profitable to use two row markers set the same width as their checkrowers.
A proper number of stalks evenly distributed constitute the best stand for the production of ear corn. If planted thicker than this the weight of stover increases and the production of good ears decreases. If planted thinner the weight of stover, as well as of ears, decreases. Small growing varieties should be planted thicker than varieties producing tall stalks. The distance for planting in a particular soil should be decided upon and the planter adjusted to plant accurately and regularly. Spots missed by the planter, as well as those depleted by crows, insects, etc., greatly decrease the yield per acre. The custom of planting many times thicker than the stand of stalks desired is not a good one. If the seed germinates poorly it should not be planted, for, although a stand may be obtained by very thick planting, the stalks will not be thrifty, and a reduced yield will result from using the poor seed. If the seed shows a germination of 97 per cent or more in a thorough germination test and it is then properly planted the stand will be almost perfect unless very adverse weather ensues, in which case all the plants will be so injured that the planting of the entire field again will be preferable to replanting the missing hills and will be more easily accomplished. If a field has been drilled in one direction and for any reason a poor stand is obtained it can be replanted with a checkrower set to drop one kernel at a time and operated without the tripping chain. The checkrower is driven at right angles to the rows of the first planting and is operated so as to plant just as it crosses each row.
For this purpose two men will be required, one to drive and one to trip the checkrower as it crosses the corn rows.
The most successful corn growers realize the importance of thorough early cultivation, thus preventing any check in the growth of the plants because of weeds or crusted soil. Thrifty corn plants are thick, strong and of dark green color.
Horse weeders and harrows should be used when needed to break a surface crust, check insect depredations or kill young weeds that start before the corn is up or large enough to be worked with other implements. During the first cultivation, or while the plants are very small, narrow shovels that throw the soil but very little should be used, and fenders are usually found desirable to prevent the covering of the plants.
Many comparative experiments of deep and shallow cultivation have been made, and, on the whole, the results are in favor of shallow cultivation. If excessive rains have packed the soil and kept it water soaked deep cultivation will help to dry and aerate the soil. Breaking the roots of the plants must be avoided so far as possible.
After the plants have reached a height of two or three feet the soil even in the middle of the rows should not be cultivated deeper than four inches, and usually a shallower cultivation will prove better. For retaining soil moisture a loose soil mulch two or three inches in thickness is advisable.
Corn should be cultivated often enough to keep down weeds and to maintain constantly a loose soil mulch till the corn has attained its growth.
To this end a greater number of cultivations will be necessary when rains at intervals of about a week cause the surface soil to run together and crust.
This crust must be broken and the soil mulch restored or evaporation will soon rob the soil of its moisture.
It is a mistake to think that the longer the drought the more frequent should be the cultivations. After a fine mulch of about three inches in depth has been produced its frequent stirring is not necessary, except in so far as it is required to keep weeds from starting. Many crops are cut short by stopping the cultivation, because the corn is too tall for use of a double cultivator without breaking down the stalks. If the condition of the soil demands it shallow cultivation should continue, even though the corn is tasseling.
It is sometimes profitable to remove weeds by the costly process of hand hoing and even at as late a date as the silkling time of the corn.
With a good riding or walking double cultivator one man can cultivate as many acres as two men with a one horse cultivator.

WEDDING RECEPTION.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. James O. Harbaugh on Wednesday evening from seven to ten in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Troxell, who had just returned from their honeymoon.

About a hundred guests called during the evening. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. Refreshments were served.

What's July 4? The day of days in Emmitsburg—the date of the Firemen's picnic. You'll miss something if you don't attend it.

Two Weddings Solemnized.

Mr. George Wantz and Miss Luella Mondorff, and Mr. Russell Whitmore and Miss Julia Turner, all of this place, were married on Monday June 17. Mr. Wantz and Miss Mondorff were married by Rev. Father Hayden, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, and Mr. Whitmore and Miss Turner by Rev. H. P. Fox, pastor of the M. E. Church in Thurmont. Both couples will reside in Hagerstown.

Rocky Ridge Station Entered.

Another attempt at robbery, which failed to be a success only because there was nothing of value in the place, was made at the station of Rocky Ridge on Tuesday night. Miscreants got into the building by forcing a window on the West side, and ransacked all the papers and contents of drawers. Nothing of any value was found missing.

Make no engagement that takes you out of Emmitsburg on July 4. The Firemen's Annual picnic will furnish you and your friends the best kind of a time.

MOUNT ST. MARY'S ALUMNI ENDORSE PROF. LAGARDE

Urge His Appointment as Minister to Salvador.—Resolution Adopted Furthering His Candidacy.

At the annual alumni banquet at Mt. St. Mary's College on Wednesday, one of the most important matters to come before that body was the matter of Prof. Ernest Lagarde's application as Minister to the Republic of Salvador, Central America.

RESOLVED, That the Alumni of Mt. St. Mary's College at its one hundred and fifth annual Reunion, unanimously endorse the application of our esteemed and worthy Professor, Ernest Lagarde, for appointment to the Mission of Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Republic of Salvador, Central America.

We are led, not only by our love and affection for our Professor, but we urge his appointment because of our knowledge of his proficiency in French, Spanish, Italian, Portuguese and German and also his familiarity with International Law.

Moreover, Professor Lagarde is peculiarly equipped for a mission of this character by reason of his even and agreeable temperament and graciousness of manner that have won the respect and love of the entire student body of our College for upwards of forty years.

The Alumni Banquet.
 The alumni association held its annual banquet in the afternoon. Dr. A. V. D. Watterson, of Pittsburgh, Pa., president of the association, acted as toastmaster. Short addresses were made by Judge O'Boyle, Bishop Corrigan, Dr. Whalen and Dr. Bradley.
 Announcement was made that another building to be erected by the alumni would be added to the present group, two of which, the college church and the seminary hall, have only recently been completed. During the reunion and merry-making, Father Bradley, Father Walsh and Prof. Edward J. Ryan were celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation from college, and Dr. Watterson was celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of his election to the presidency of the alumni. He has held the office continually during that period, and with the other officers, was re-elected to serve for the ensuing year.
 Probably the most important feature of the alumni meeting was the unanimous indorsement of the application of Prof. Ernest Lagarde for the appointment to the mission of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the republic of Salvador, in Central America. A resolution in regard to this was adopted, and copies will be forwarded to President Wilson, Secretary of State Bryan and many others who are concerned in the filling of the Salvador ambassadorship.

ANNOUNCEMENT

ALL successful business men will tell you that ADVERTISING PAYS. Do you want to be successful?
DO not think for a moment that you are wiser than they—ADVERTISE and be classed with successful men.
VERY skeptical people have been convinced that ADVERTISING PAYS. If you are skeptical try the cure.
EVEN pastors of churches have seen the wisdom of it. They advertise all the time. Result? Better congregations.
REASON it out for yourself and try advertising—just one thing for a while. The effect will prove that ADVERTISING PAYS.
THE public has been educated to read advertisements. Many people read newspaper and magazine advertisements before they glance at the "reading matter."
INTELLIGENT advertising is the kind that Brings Results. It appeals to people who have money to spend.
SYSTEMATIC advertising, the kind that makes the buying public look for the change, the news in your advertisement each week is the kind of advertising to make use of.
EVERY advertisement you insert in THE CHRONICLE makes your name and your business more familiar to the public. Can you afford not to advertise?

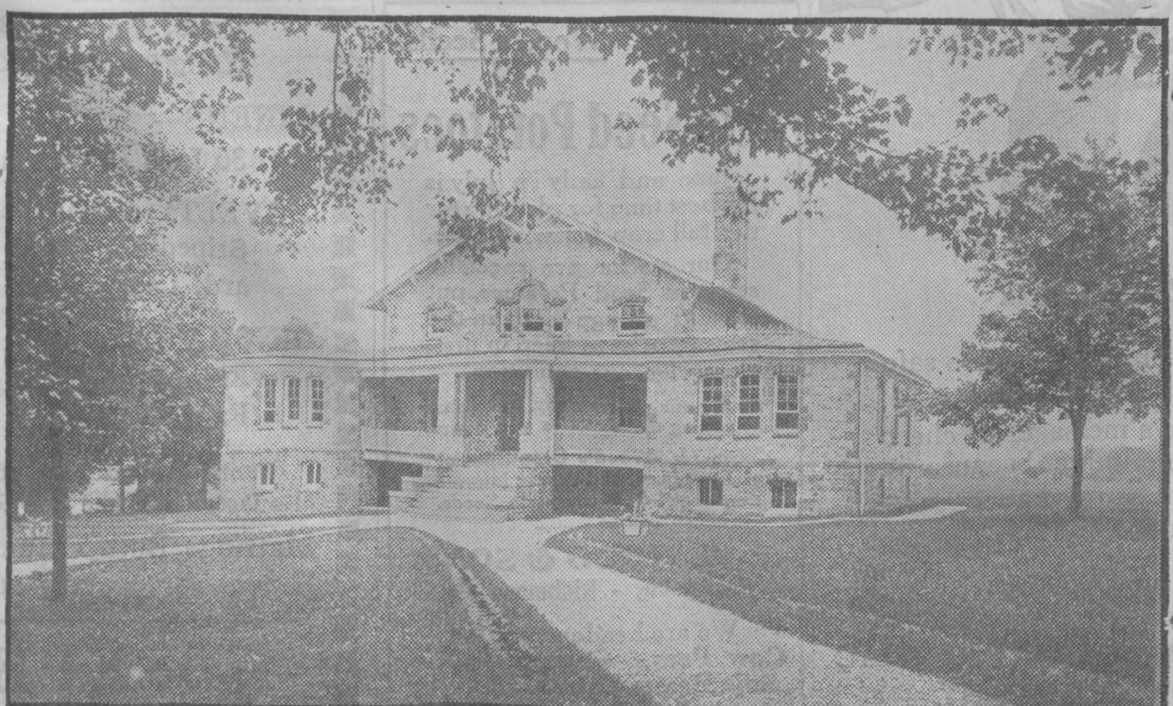

Perfectly Simple--Simply Perfect

We "harp" on Blue Serge Suits, because there's nothing like them to put you "in tune" with spring. Every "Twist" of fashion is in our "HIGH-ART" Blue Serges, but the fabric is twistless.
 If "HIGH-ART" is on your suit, it "bonds" the style and tailoring in it. Being made by artists, each garment is signed by the author. A "HIGH-ART" is ready-to-wear, but doesn't look it.
 These clothes have these perfectly simple body-lines that Fashion applauds as simply perfect. Not a curve or stroke that reminds you of "factory clothes."
 Not a hint of the "power-knife"—each suit is individually taped, shaped and draped with you in mind.
 Our Spring Suits reveal glints and tints new to tailoring. When you say "HIGH-ART," "all wool" says itself.
 When you say "Get the Habit" go to DORSEY'S, you have already said "Wear Better Clothes for the same money or Less Money for the Same Clothes."

Quality of Challenge Flour Appreciated

During the past year the cost of manufacturing Spring Wheat Flours has been very much less than that of CHALLENGE FLOUR, due to the price of Spring Wheat being less than Winter wheat. This has resulted in many flours being introduced to housekeepers as being Just as Good as Challenge Flour.
 In spite of these conditions the sales of Challenge Flour have been the largest ever experienced during a like period, proving that the quality of Challenge is appreciated. We are making Challenge Flour today as we have always made it
The Best Winterwheat Flour Made in America.
