PREPARING FOR WORLD SERIES

WINNERS UNCERTAIN

Wind-up of Season Will Be Exciting

SOME IMPORTANT CHANGES MADE

Umpires Will Receive $1,000 Each.—Tie Games Will Not Disarrange Schedule.—Applications For Tickets Already.

Just at this point in the baseball season when there is a rest up, so to speak before the final spurt of the race, speculation is rife as to which teams will be first in their respective leagues and which of these will eventually capture the much-coveted pennant in the world series. In neither the American or the National league is the pennant yet secured by any particular club, but already plans are being made for the world series of 1913.

According to Ban Johnson, president of the American league, interest in the world's title play will be keener this year than ever before. He stated that applications for series seats are already being received from many parts of the states and foreign countries. One letter upon which Johnson laid particular emphasis was from five Americans, now living in Chile, who wrote that they were planning to spend their vacation as spectators at the world series, provided they could be assured of seats. Johnson said that he had personally written them to make their plans for the trip in September, and that the tickets would be ready for them on their arrival.

In the major leagues several teams in each are very much in the race and the first placers will have a run for their money. The second division clubs have a habit of becoming quite annoying during the latter part of the season and they often start disastrous winning spurts.

There are a few important changes in the matter of holding the series for the world championship. Should the winning teams be separated by too great a traveling distance, then the series would be played two games at home and two abroad. In case a game results in a tie the schedule will be adhered to and the tie game played on the next return to the city in which it occurred. Another announcement is that hereafter all umpires in the world series shall receive $1,000 each for the work.

It is interesting to note how the top notchers are strengthening their teams for the final onslaught and how already other managers are beginning to build up their teams for next year. Many members of the smaller clubs will report to the big leaguers within the next few days and deals are on that will place many of the major league players in uniforms of this year's opponents.

Jefferson's Head on Postal Cards.

On October 2nd, bids will be opened for four billion post cards—a four year supply. The cards are to bear the portrait of Thomas Jefferson in place of William McKinley.

The present contract is held by the Government Printing Office. The plates for these cards are furnished by the Postoffice Department. They are to be colored instead of white, in keeping with the designs of the International Postal Union.

Increase in Produce Sent by Mail.

Postmaster-General Burleson reports that there is a steady increase in the use of the parcel post system for forwarding by mail, fruit, eggs and other farm products from the country to consumers in towns and cities.

The parcel post system, likewise, is being increasingly used for the transportation of manufactured articles, and postoffice department officials expressed their pleasure at the manner in which the public is taking advantage of the innovation.

Trading Stamp Millionaire Dead.

Thomas A. Sperry, who made a fortune out of trading stamps, died at his city residence in New York Monday night.

Mr. Sperry was president of the Sperry & Hutchinson Company and a pioneer in the trading-stamp business. His fortune is estimated at $10,000,000.

Hamilton Fish, Jr., one time Harvard football captain and son of Hamilton Fish, has been nominated for a member of the Assembly by the Democrats of Putnam county, N. Y.

Joseph Fisher, of Indiana, who says he is 107 years old, declares he uses tobacco in every form, drinks liquor, and never was sick.

STATES ATTORNEY LEWIS CRITICISED BY SEC'Y DANIELS

Head of the Navy Condemns Action of Allowing Boy, Convicted of Larceny, to Enlist in Navy.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels, in a letter to Governor Goldsborough, condemned the action of State's Attorney Samuel A. Lewis, of Frederick county, for allowing Daniel Webster Mercer, of Clifton, this county, to enlist in the navy to escape punishment for petty theft. According to Secretary Daniels, Mercer was arrested in Frederick on April 18 last on the charge of larceny and State's Attorney Lewis is said to have told him that he would either have to join the navy or go to jail. Mercer, it is said, decided in favor of the former.

On April 21 he was taken to the United States Naval Recruiting Station, Baltimore, by Robert Cramer, deputy sheriff of this county who represented himself as a friend of the boy's mother, who requested him to take her son who was 18 years and 1 month old to Baltimore and have him enlisted in the navy. Cramer, however, did not tell the officers, according to their statement, that he was a deputy sheriff of Frederick county, which fact had they known would have caused a careful investigation into the case.

The boy after being kept at the naval headquarters in Baltimore for two days was then transferred to a training ship. According to the letter of Secretary Daniels, however, he will be dismissed from the navy and sent back to stand trial for the theft in the Maryland courts.

State's Attorney Lewis at Frederick, issued the following statement in regard to the charges of the Secretary of the Navy:

"When the boy was arrested he represented himself to be 17 years of age at my office in the presence of Justice George R. Dennis, Robert A. Kemp and George Ross. Mercer confessed to entering the cottage of Mr. Kemp. He said he wanted to join the navy and had planned to leave the day after he was caught. We all thought it best not to press prosecution. I agreed to let him join the navy if he could, telling him he would be indicted by the grand jury, but the case would not be tried while he behaved himself in the navy."

BOY SCOUTS ENJOY THEIR VISIT TO EMMITSBURG

Home People Give Little Fellows Warm Reception and Provide for Their Entertainment.

It was a band of sturdy little Scouts—Troop 27—that came into Emmitsburg on Friday afternoon and there is not one among the number had been asked, who would not have said that Emmitsburg is about as nice a place to camp as any in Maryland.

The spot allotted them, Firemen's Field, was ideal for this purpose and the entertainment afforded them by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Lutheran Church left nothing to be desired.

Soon after their arrival these gentlemanly little fellows, "put their house in order," and then gave themselves up to innocent enjoyment. This of course included a plunge in the old swimming hole and various sight-seeing expeditions and to neighboring points of interest.

It was an exceedingly warm night for a lecture but the large audience that filled Emerald Hall on Friday evening were too interested in Mr. Graham's and Mr. Kline's talks to mind the temperature.

These men told all about the training given the Boy Scouts, the aim of the organization and the good work that has been accomplished by it throughout the world, as well as many personal experiences in "Rescue Work in the Underworld."

A liberal collection was taken after the lectures. This amount being applied to the fund which enables these little fellows—most of whom are sons of parents who could not afford to send them on an outing—to enjoy such an interesting vacation.

Marylands Lumber Output Gains.

Maryland's lumber output for the year 1912 shows a big increase over the years 1911 and 1910, according to a statement issued by the census bureau. In 1912 the Maryland lumber mills turned out 174,320,000 feet; in 1911, 144,078,000 feet, and in 1910, 154,554,000 feet. Maryland ranks thirty-first in the list of lumber states.

In the 176 days since Postmaster General Burleson assumed the duties of his office he has appointed 5,765 postmasters.

From January until July of this year 18,972 visitors inspected the great work of constructing the Panama Canal.

Friday

A band of 150 gypsies attacked the inhabitants of the town of Lunel, France with guns and revolvers and had a fierce pitched battle with soldiers, in which many were killed and wounded.

While John C. Lalor a New York bond salesman, was writing a letter his satchel containing $50,000,000 in bonds was stolen.

The steamer Burgomeister Hackmann, with 600,000 gallons of crude oil and benzine in her hold caught fire at Bush Docks, Brooklyn, Thursday night and was sunk to avoid an explosion.

Federal irregulars commanded by General Felix Terrazas were surprised by Francisco Villa and 1,200 rebels at San Andreas, Chihuahua, and routed.

A typhoon which swept the coast of Japan in the district around Tokio caused enormous loss of life and property.

William Laubenstein, who while a member of the Forty-eighth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, personally prepared the magazine and aided in exploding it under the rebel forts at Petersburg, Va., preceding a Union advance, died at Shamokin, Pa.

J. Carroll Vance was nominated by the President to be postmaster at Clarksburg, W. Va., to succeed Sherman S. Denham, a Republican, who has been asked to resign.

Saturday

"I am definitely a candidate for the office of President of Mexico" Gen. Felix Diaz declared.

Company F, State Militia, stationed at the Wolverine mine at Calumet, Michigan, was called out to protect a party of deputies at No. 3 shaft, South Kearsarge mine, from attack by copper mine strikers and women.

Fire believed to have started from a passing engine caused a loss of $125,000 at Creston, Ia., and for more than an hour threatened the residence section. The blaze started in an icehouse and spread to a poultry, butter and egg plant, which it completely destroyed.

Prof. Orta, of the observatory of the University of Santa Clara, San Jose, Cal., announced that he had discovered that the activity of the sun in phenomena known as sun spots is intimately related to the proximity of comets.

Sunday

Jewels valued at $5,000 were stolen from Colonel Roosevelt's home at Sagamore Hill, a discharged negro butler, confessing to the theft.

Vincenzo Molinaro and his son, James of Pleasantville, N. J., were killed.

BERNADETTE SOUBIROUS IS BEATIFIED BY THE HOLY SEE

Peasant Girl to Whom Appeared Apparitions of the Virgin Mary, Honored by the Catholic Church.

The Congregation of Rites at Rome last week issued a decree announcing the beatification of Bernadette Soubirous, the peasant girl to whom appeared the apparitions of the Virgin Mary at Lourdes, which were followed by the first of the extraordinary cures that have made that place so famous.

The apparitions appeared in 1858, and a new town quickly sprang up around the spot. L. C. R. Cameron says in a recent article regarding Lourdes:

"Upon the evidence adduced it is impossible for any one to doubt either that Bernadette saw the appearance of Our Lady against the rocks of the grotto of Massabielle, or that she was directed by the apparition to the spot from which at her touch broke out the spring of water that has since exercised such healing properties. Bernadette's unshaken testimony during many subsequent years bears witness alike to the vividness of her visions and the probability of its reality."

"Although she might have become a rich woman from the gifts of those who were grateful for the cures vouchsafed them, she would never take any such gifts, and preferred to live the quiet life of a Sister of Charity at Nevers until the day of her death there. Even her mother, poor though she was, refused the alms offered her, a tradition one could have wished her family and remote kinsmen had continued; since, when the present writer visited Lourdes in 1899, the appeals for custom and patronage made in the form of advertisements by persons who claimed some kinship with Bernadette, proved the most repellent feature of the little Pyrenean town."

M. Nierne writes as a devout Catholic convinced of the truth of the apparitions that Bernadette Soubirous claimed to have seen, and of the fact of miraculous cures having taken place at the spot where such apparitions appeared, as also of the divine origin of the whole. He also believes, as he writes in his "Conclusion," that the events at Lourdes were "a providential manifestation designed to strike an incredulous and wandering generation who were becoming insensible to the action of God in the world."

GRAND JURY TO PROBE TRAIN RIDING CASES

Investigation Will Be Made of Conditions Which Were Called To Attention of Governor as Irregular.

When the September term of Court convened at Frederick, on Monday, Chief Judge Hammond Urner instructed the grand jury to investigate the charges made concerning the trial of train riding cases. What the grand jury may ascertain as a result of its investigation, is a mere conjecture, but at all events, a thorough probing from Frederick county's standpoint is assured upon the explicit instructions from the chief judge of this court. Judges Urner and Worthington were on the bench.

Judge Urner's remarks concerning train riding cases, were as follows:

"You are probably aware that an investigation has recently been conducted by the Attorney General of the State at the instance of his Excellency, the Governor, in reference to charges of irregularities in the prosecution of alleged violators of the statute prohibiting the riding by trespassers upon the engines and cars of public carriers. The report of the Attorney General, as published in the newspapers, refers to certain practices in this county in connection with arrests and commitments under the statute I have just mentioned which suggests very strongly the advisability of your making an investigation of the conditions to which the report refers, with a view to ascertaining whether there have been any acts or abuses in such cases which amount to violations of the law and justify criminal prosecutions."

Bill To Force All Steel Equipment.

A bill before the New York House of Representatives compelling all railroads to use steelcars, not only for passengers, but for baggage, express and mail cars, will likely be pushed for passage. Since the Connecticut wreck wherein wooden cars alone were responsible for the great loss of life. The bill is not an emergency measure, but will be pressed vigorously. It is favored by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The French Army persists in the use of carrier pigeons, although more than any other military institution it has availed itself of the aeroplane and wireless telegraph.

21 KILLED IN BIG TRAIN WRECK

REAR-END COLLISION

Third Serious Accident on
New Haven This Year

ENGINE TELESCOPES PULLMANS

Due to Antiquated Signals.—Express Trains Filled With Wealthy Excursionists.—Sections Crash in Fog.—Wooden Cars Crumble.

Twenty-one persons were killed and 50 injured, some of whom may die, when the first section of the White Mountain Express crashed into the rear end of the second section of the Bar Harbor express, about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, six miles north of New Haven.

The White Mountain engine cleaved through the two rear Pullman cars, both of wood, splitting them in two and tossing their wreckage and three score mangled human beings, some alive and some dead, on each side of the track.

The third car, also of wood, and occupied by 40 boys on their way from a summer camp at Monmouth, Maine, was lifted into the air and almost completely off the track. The car fell on its side crumpled up, two of the boys being crushed to death and several others injured.

Some of the victims of the two rear Pullmans were hurled from their berths over a fence paralleling the track 50 feet distant, while mattresses, bedding and clothing found lodgment in the telegraph wires.

It was the third serious wreck which the New Haven has suffered within a year, and inaugurated the first day of the regime of Howard Elliott, the newly elected head of the road. Mr. Elliott, returning from his summer home in New Hampshire to assume his duties, passed over the scene of the disaster on an earlier train, less than an hour before.

Practically all the passengers on both trains were returning home from summer vacations, and all but two of a camping party of nine, guests of S. Crozer Fox, of Elkins Park, Pa., coming back from Maine, were wiped out. Fox was among those killed.

No one was hurt in the White Mountain train.

Under the "banjo" system, as soon as a train passes a signal, it sets red and automatically opens the signal in the previous block, allowing a train following to enter.

Both trains, more than an hour late, passed Wallingford, three miles north of the scene of the accident, eight minutes apart shortly before 7 o'clock. Eight minutes ahead of them was the first section of the Bar Harbor express, and a local train, due to stop at North Haven, three miles south of the wreck, led them all.

According to the officials an engineer may pass a "banjo" signal set at red after he has brought his train to a stop. This according to the railroad officials, the engineer of the Bar Harbor express did, and then came to another stop about 100 feet on the other side of the signal, a mile north of North Haven.

This opened the signal in the previous block, a mile away, and down a stretch of track, straight as an arrow, plunging through the thick fog, came the White Mountain Express, with the impetus of seven cars—baggage, day coach and five sleepers—behind the engine.

Meantime Flagman C. H. Murray, of the Bar Harbor train, had gone back with the torpedoes a distance, it was said, of 400 feet. The torpedoes went off, according to officials of the road and some of the train crew.

Frederick's Small Timberland.

A table issued by the State Tax Commission shows the wooded area of the standing timber of each county in Maryland based on all species of trees 10 inches and over in diameter measured at breast height, 4½ feet from the ground, to be 35 per cent. of its total area. It is interesting to note that Frederick county is greatly below the average being only 22 per cent. wooded, while Garrett heads the list at 64. Carroll county is at the bottom of the list with a percentage of only 13.

Charles F. Stewart has just taken charge as the new passenger agent of the Western Maryland Railway. Mr. Stewart is a railroad man of wide experience, and has studied the passenger systems of a number of the largest railroads in the country. His first official visit over the lines was made last week with a party that visited the Green Ridge orchard, near Cumberland.

OF INTEREST TO GROWERS AND SHIPPERS OF FRUIT

B. & O. Railroad Issues a Booklet Showing List of Growers of Fruits and the Principal Markets.

In order to assist the growers and shippers of fruit located in the communities reached by its lines in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, in finding a profitable market for their crops, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad has published a booklet containing a complete list of the leading fruit dealers of Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston. The list of growers of fruit is arranged alphabetically according to the shipping point used and information is also given as to the variety of fruit grown and the postoffice address of each person engaged in the industry. The list of apple shippers, brokers and wholesale dealers in the principal markets of the east is separated from the list of growers.

Commission merchants and other dealers are also informed as to the fruit grown in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. A copy of the booklet has been mailed to each grower and shipper in the states and cities and have also been sent to Baltimore and Ohio agents who will mail a copy upon application.

The compiling of the fruit growers' list is a further effort on the part of the Baltimore and Ohio to encourage horticulture in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, where climatic conditions are so well adapted to the enterprise and where it is possible to grow such high-grade fruit. The list also serves to supplement, in a way, the co-operation extended to horticulturists by the operation of Educational trains from which lectures on the care of the orchard, packing fruit for market and combating fungus growth are delivered by leading authorities.

FUMES FROM WHISKEY OVERCOME 112 FIRE FIGHTERS

Firemen Have Narrow Escape In Chicago Fire.—Some May Not Recover.

One hundred and twelve firemen were overcome by smoke and fumes from burning whisky in Chicago, Tuesday, which originated in the basement of Rothschild & Cohen's saloon and spread to the Central Hotel occupying the upper floors. Next door to the saloon is the New Century Hotel of the Salvation Army. All the guests were driven from their rooms.

For hours the firemen worked in relays in fighting the basement fire, only to be overcome and rescued by their comrades. Many were revived by the aid of pulmotors, while it was necessary to take others to hospitals.

Many of the firemen were hurried off to hospitals, where it was said that a number might die.

COMMITTS SUICIDE IN COURT HOUSE PARK

Citizen of Frederick Drinks Poison and Dies Almost Instantly.—Drink Said to be the Cause.

Harry A. Lambright, a pressman, of Frederick, committed suicide in the presence of a number of persons in the Court House Park about 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. He drank strychnine and died a few seconds afterward. Drink and worry about domestic troubles are said to be responsible for the man's act.

Mr. Lambright was about 45 years of age. He is survived by his wife and three children: Arthur B., Mrs. Prudence M. Alton, Westport, Md., and Harry A. His stepmother and one brother, Phillip, also survive. He was the son of the late Phillip H. Lambright.

The Newspaper And The Book

One man in a hundred reads a book; ninety-nine in a hundred read a newspaper. DR. JOSHUA W. HERRING RETIRES FROM PUBLIC LIFE

Resigns as Member of the Public Service Commission of Maryland.

Dr. Joshua W. Herring, of Westminster, has resigned as a member of the Public Service Commission of Maryland.

Dr. Herring has been ill at his home for some time and announced several weeks ago that if he did not get better he would give up his public offices. Then he improved and it was thought that he would be able to again attend to his duties. About a week ago he suffered a relapse and is now confined to bed.

It is presumed that the Governor will proceed to fill the vacancy as soon as possible. There have been several names mentioned for the place.

CIRCUS WANTS TO HIBERNATE IN FREDERICK

Frank A. Robbins Show, Well Remembered Here For Near Riot, Asks For Proposition.

Mr. O. C. Warhime, secretary on the Frederick County Agricultural Society, has received a communication from the Frank O. Robbins Circus, asking for a proposition whereby the show could go into winter quarters in Frederick. The matter will be taken up by the Frederick Board of Trade. The above information recalls the near riot which attended the last appearance of this circus in Emmitsburg several years ago, when the sheriff was summoned from Frederick at midnight, though fortunately the fatalities were only one seriously injured.

It may be a mistake of the publisher in thinking he has been done a favor, but as a rule whenever a newspaper loses one subscriber on account of pique there are usually two or three others gained for the very reason that the one feels aggrieved.

The broad-minded and intelligent subscriber will recognize the fact that it is only the negative quality in life that never crosses the feelings of anybody.—Jennings (La.) Herald.

Nautical Terms.

Terms used aboard ship are interesting and might, in collision, be useful. Toward the ship's head is forward (pronounced for'ard). The opposite direction is aft.

Looking for'ard and to the right is starboard; to the left is port. The quarter from which the wind blows is windward; its opposite is to leeward (pronounced loo'ard).

A scuttle is a window on board ship; a stairway is a companion ladder; a bed is a bunk; a kitchen range is a galley. This term is also applied to the captain's own boat. The forecabin (pronounced fo'e's'e) is any covered in place in the bows. A knot is a speed of one sea mile per hour, 6,080 feet. The ship wears a flag; that is the correct term. Passages are gangways.

Bollards are stout pillars round which run the hawsers—steel wire ropes. The bridge is sacred to the captain and officers.—London Tit-Bits.

Perpetual Motion Cranks.

Judging from the applications for patents, one a week, all Great Britain apparently is trying to invent a perpetual motion machine. Only Great Britain calls it a "self moving engine." The wires and bones of models may be found bleaching in hundreds on the shelves of the patent office. It goes without saying that not one shows the slightest inclination to move itself.

Varied and often pathetic are the histories of the inventors. Not a few of them have spent the years of their prime in the chase of this unattainable will of the wisp; others have dropped thousands of pounds in the quest; still others have trailed the quarry into the insane asylums. If all the wasted energy spent in seeking the solution of this problem had been converted into the beaten channels of endeavor there would be few problems of mechanics left today unsolved.—New York Sun.

A Railway Across the Open Sea.

The Florida Keys railway runs from the mainland for a distance of 124 miles over what is practically open sea. Imagine a string of tiny islets stretching like the broken off piers of some Titanic bridge right out into the great salt ocean and you have the Florida keys. Most of them are only a few rods in extent. Here and there is one that reaches its area in acres, while four or five among them are islands rather than islets, covering several square miles. Big or little, however, they serve merely as stations for the railway, which runs over and upon them with the open sea on either side of it. Moreover, the viaducts and embankments that carry the trains, although immensely strong, are so narrow and steep that the passengers look out upon ocean only. There is no land whatever in sight during the greater part of the trip.—Exchange.

The Blacking Would Not Come Off.

SOMETIMES Jack was not very particular about keeping his shoes shined.

"It isn't nice to wear muddy shoes in the house," daddy said soberly.

"Yes, he had on the most horrid shoes at school yesterday," said Evelyn, "and I saw the principal looking at them. She stands at the head of the stairs, you know, as we march into the hall from outdoors."

"I trust, Master Jack," said daddy, "that after this you will go to school with neat looking shoes, so that the teacher will not need to look at them reprovingly."

"You are not nearly so particular as our little friend Ruthie. She is very careful to keep herself looking nice. Her hair is always neatly tied with a bright ribbon, her little frock clean and fresh and her shoes and stockings all they should be."

"There are different ways of shining shoes, you know, but the way Ruthie's mamma does it is to polish them with some black stuff out of a bottle. Ruthie has often watched her mother brightening the shoes by dipping the sponge, which is fixed to a wire, one end of which is fastened in the stopper of the bottle."

"When Ruthie asked to be allowed to polish her own shoes her mother would always say, 'Wait till you are a little older.'"

"One morning Ruthie's mother was ill, and she had to get ready for school alone. Her sister Hannah buttoned her dress and combed her hair, tying the ribbon in place, but hardly suiting Ruthie."

"Then Ruthie looked at her shoes. She went into the bathroom, where the bottle of polish was kept, and took it down from the shelf. Then she began to blacken the shoes."

"It was not so easy as it looked. Ruthie got too much of the liquid on the sponge, and it ran all over the shoes and dripped off on to her dress."

"Just then Ruthie's papa came along. 'Whatever are you doing?' he asked. 'Blackening my shoes,' Ruthie answered, with her funny little lisp. 'The teacher is going to expect them today.'"

"Ruthie meant that the teacher would inspect the shoes. Her father was so much amused that he begged Ruthie's mamma not to scold her for soiling her frock."

"And when she went to school Ruthie had soiled hands, because, scrub as hard as she would, the stain of the blacking would not come off."

"And what do you think? The teacher did not inspect the shoes that day at all, but she did look very hard at Ruthie's black hand."

What Happened.

"Are you the man who writes all this jocular advice about scattering sunshine and giving everybody that seems worried a glad hand and a word of encouragement?"

"Yes," said the man with scarce hair and lanky fingers. "I am one of the professional optimists who do that sort of thing."

"Well, I'm not going to sue you for damages or false pretenses or anything of that kind. I just want to let you know that I tried to heed your lesson. I went to one of our great cities and tried to speak words of cheer and comfort to the overburdened souls that I saw rushing past me."

"What happened?"

"Before I had cheered up four people I got arrested for being a confidence man."—Washington Star.

The Flying Frog of Java.

The Java flying frog is a creature measuring between fifteen and twenty-five inches. The skin of its back is pale blue and by night looks dark green or olive brown. The frog remains motionless during the day, with eyes sheltered from the light and with belly up, clinging to its support by adhesive cushions and by its belly, which is provided with a sticky covering, and it is hardly distinguishable from the objects that surround it. At nightfall it begins its hunt for the mammoth crickets on which it feeds, making leaps covering seven feet of ground. During the leap the play of lungs filled with air swells its body. To descend from a height it spreads wide its claws and, dropping, rests upon its feet.—Exchange.

Benefits of Olive Oil.

Not every one realizes the medicinal properties of olive oil. It is quite true that the machinery of the body needs oiling occasionally, like any mechanical machine which is constantly in use, and olive oil taken internally is exceedingly beneficial. A tablespoonful will aid digestion and ease liver trouble. Olive oil should be served frequently as a dressing. Taken either with salads or alone it is beneficial for catarrh either of the stomach or throat.

Making It Easy.

Man (on docks)—What in the mischief are you rowing with that trunk in the bow of the boat for, Pat? Pat—Sure, an' if it was in the stern of the boat wouldn't I be rowin' uphill all the time? An' this way I'm rowin' downhill all the time.—Yale Record.

Getting On.

"How's that young son-in-law of yours getting on?"

"Great! Last week he made within $150 of my daughter's actual expenses."—Detroit Free Press.

The youth who does not look up will look down, and the spirit that does not soar is destined perhaps to grovel.—Disraeli.

Pretty Lazy.

"Nodules is positively the laziest man I know. He has an invention fixed so that by merely pulling a wire in bed he can light the fire, but that doesn't seem to improve matters."

"Why not?"

"He's too lazy to pull the wire."

No Difference.

"Papa, what does being disappointed in love mean?"

"Why, either marrying or being filted by the girl you are in love with."—Houston Post.

Fact.

"The one thing that we had better put off until tomorrow we seldom do."

"What is that?"

"Worry."—Boston Record.

DECISIONS OF SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES AS TO NEWSPAPER SUB- SCRIPTIONS.

Few readers of newspapers fully and clearly understand the laws governing subscriptions. Following are the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States on the subject:

Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.

If subscribers order a discontinuance of their periodicals the publisher may continue to send them until all dues are paid.

If the subscriber refuses to take the periodical from the postoffice to which they are directed, he is responsible until he has settled his bill and ordered the paper discontinued.

If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, the subscriber is held responsible.

The courts have held that refusing to take periodicals from the postoffice, or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intention to defraud.

If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it and the subscriber will be responsible until express notice with payment of all arrearages is sent to the publisher.

The plan of electing the "governing body" of the party at the same time and by the same votes which name the candidates, is not conducive to fair play, or judicial determination of party affairs by its State Central Committee or governing body.—Cumberland Allegan.

THE stores which do the largest business are those which keep their names constantly before the public. Advertising is just as great a necessity to an active business life as food and drink are to healthy physical existence. If you stop eating you die for want of sustenance, if you stop advertising, your business dies for want of publicity.—tf.

Dignity of Senatorial Visiting.

There is something impressive in the way one senator generally calls on another in the office building at Washington. A representative dignity precludes the old time free and easy method of "dropping in to see Tom" or Jim or Jack—kicking in the door and sitting down on the table or desk and "smoking" without invitation. Today there is a sedate step, measured and regular, as the senator sets out to call, with a manner and bearing that at once suggest senatorial dignity and courtesy. Such a bearing and dignity must perforce take the place of the impressive senatorial toga of the old days, and a visiting dramatist (a lady, to be sure) has suggested that it would be most fascinating to come to the senate on some holiday and find the distinguished gentlemen who now wear tweed and business suits attired in the Caesarian toga and mantle—a mise en scene that would leave Shakespeare's Julius Caesar at its best presentation hopelessly in the background.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

WESTERN MARYLAND WRECK BUDGET FOR PAST WEEK

Pittsburgh Express and Chicago Flyer
Leave Track and Cause Much Damage—Westminster Loses Circus.

Last week was a busy one for the W. M. wrecking crews.

While proceeding at a high rate of speed shortly after 10 o'clock, Wednesday morning, the Chicago Express, the new all steel through train to Chicago, on the Western Maryland Railroad, suddenly plunged from the tracks just east of Patapsco Station, about 4 1/2 miles east of Westminster, injuring the engineer and badly shaking up the passengers. The locomotive, tender, two express and a baggage car, together with the forward truck of the first passenger coach, left the track. The wreck is said to have been caused by a spread rail.

By the accident Westminster was deprived of the circus, all shipment of freight and express delayed and many shipments were lost, including milk, chickens, fruit and a number of calves. It must have been pretty rough, even for a Wild West Show, after being prevented from reaching Westminster from the West by a wreck near Sabillasville to be kept from showing at that place, after going around by Emory Grove, by Wednesday mix-up.

On Thursday evening, as the Pittsburgh Express was going at a fast rate of speed near Union Bridge, the rear wheels of a coach jumped the top of the rail and rode for a distance of a half mile on the inner flange. The heads of the spikes, which holds the rails to the cross-ties, were sheared off by the wheels.

Sunday morning the Baltimore end of the line ran out of coaches, and regular trains were delayed until they could be made up. The second section of No. 3, due at Walbrook at 9.49, arrived at that station at 1.15. Passengers on this train reached Emmitsburg at 1.30 o'clock, P. M.

Would Amend Law to Have Good Roads For County Towns.

According to plans of Chairman O. E. Weller, of the State Roads Commission, relief is in sight for Maryland towns in the counties which are barred under the present laws from receiving financial assistance from the State in construction of roads and in improvement of streets.

Mr. Weller, has stated that under certain restrictions, he is in favor of helping the incorporated towns in their efforts to get better highways. The subject has not yet come before the commission for action, but it is understood that it will get behind Mr. Weller and will urge desired changes in the law by which state aid, where needed, may be forthcoming. It is also understood that Governor Goldsborough is favorable to the proposition, and in his message to the legislature will urge enactment of necessary legislation.

Pope's Plan to Fight Feminism.

Pope Pius, in his world-wide fight against feminism, is hereafter to use the women themselves as his principal combatants for stamping out what he believes to be the evils of the movement.

As the first step to this end his Holiness has officially approved the prospectus for a world-wide international federation of the Catholic Women's Leagues. National federations of this society already exist in the United States, England and nearly all of the European countries, especially where the feminist movement is strongly pronounced.

As a matter of fact this fight on the part of the church is already one of long standing, but up to the present moment most of its efforts have resulted in signal failure. In the face of these failures, his Holiness has now asked the new International Federation to take up the fight at once and this will be done.

Don't disturb me for a trifle like that."

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoclin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION.

On Monday, the 8th, the polls will be open for the selection of candidates for the next general election in November. Practically, the votes act as a direction as to which of the candidates that have filed their applications for the various offices in the gift of the people, will be the nominees of the respective political parties. This is where the voice of the people, undirected by the influence of "bossism," should be heard.

We have stated that the names of the various applicants represent the candidates for office to be chosen by the respective parties; as a fact the names of Democratic candidates alone will appear on the primary ticket; for, neither the Republican party nor the Republican Progressive party has a contest and therefore their candidates will not appear on the ticket.

The offices to be filled are as follows—House of Delegates, 5 members; County Commissioners, 3; State Central Committee, 5; County Central Committee, 5 from each precinct in Emmitsburg district, and one Sheriff for Frederick County and one County Treasurer.

Several contestants have entered for Sheriff; so for the House of Delegates there are several candidates. There is no candidate for the State Senate as we do not elect a senator at the November election.

It is important that each voter acts not only with discrimination but with a sense of duty to his party as well as to his candidate. Each voter should select the man he knows to be worthy; fit for the office, unhampered by questionable pledges and promises. In making his choice let the voter remember that now, if ever, is the time to be governed by the principle, "measures not men." Judgment must be exercised also in the number of candidates to be selected for each office, for example in voting for candidates for the House of Delegates, let each voter remember that he is to vote for five members from this county, no more, otherwise he will lose his vote for members of the House. So, in voting for County Commissioners, the choice should fall on three candidates and no more; for, if the voter selects more than three, his vote will not be counted. Similarly in his choice of State Central Committeemen, he should vote for five and no more; while for County Central Committeemen he must vote only for the number indicated on the ballot. Where there is no contest and hence the voter finds no competitor for the office to be filled, as a consistent Democrat, if that is his party, he should vote for the party nominee.

The press, if not the people in any other representative character, have been clamoring for the right of the people to select their own candidates free from the direction of the "bosses." Here, now, is the opportunity to do so.

If it be true that direct choice should govern the selection of candidates without the intervention of conventions, this primary election is the occasion for this preliminary voting. Its importance is evident; every one entitled to vote should do so; whoever fails to avail himself of the opportunity to indicate his choice of candidates, will have no right to complain should the result not reach his expectations.

PUBLICITY AND THE WORST MANAGED.

Just why the W. M. (Worst Managed) Railway should deem it advisable to employ a man and pay him for giving this road publicity through the press, when every paper in Maryland, without compensation, is doing it daily and weekly, is hard to understand. However, nine-tenths of the actions of the W. M.'s management (?) are inscrutable, and one bit of non-action in particular "passeth all understanding"—it is this: Why does not this company buy a few new ties and a keg or so of spikes and put its road-bed in order?

On the other hand why does not the Public Service Commission investigate the innumerable wrecks that occur on the W. M. week after week?

What is the use of equipping deluxe all-steel fast flyers and through express trains and then—on account of spread rails, rotten ties, etc.,—spilling these trains over embankments, thereby delaying traffic, running up expense accounts and causing all sorts of inconvenience to its patrons?

Where is all that "Safety First" business? On second thought we should not have asked that question; that scheme, we believe, starts on October 1st. Until then we may be pardoned for assuming that wrecks on this road will be as regular as heretofore.

Incidentally we are glad to be able to state that there will not appear in the W. M. time-table anything to the effect that there is a wreck on this road "Every hour on the hour."

DONATION DAY AT FREDERICK CITY HOSPITAL.

There will be another "Donation Day" at the Frederick City Hospital in November and, judging from the interest manifested last year, the people of the entire county, all of whom are proud of this splendid institution, will respond very liberally. The contribution asked of each family is very modest—a jar of pickles, a jar of preserves, a few potatoes, a few eggs; any of these. If every scholar in our schools would donate just one egg or one potato the aggregate would be astonishing.

Will not the people of Emmitsburg take an interest in this donation this year also? The Frederick City Hospital is the pride of Frederick county; its doors are wide open to all, and the service and treatment rendered to every patient is the very best. This Hospital ought to be in the mind of all Frederick countians on Donation Day.

BEWARE, MEXICO!

In 1859, Miramon borrowed $700,000 from the Swiss banker, Jecker, on condition that the latter should receive $15,000,000 in return. When France intervened with England and Spain to collect their subjects' debts from the Mexican Government, Napoleon compelled that government to pay up this claim. German and French bankers are higgling now as to rates for sums to be advanced to Huerta. The usurper, bred in iniquity, will agree to usury; but how about the Mexican people when pay-day comes?

THE Interstate Commerce Commission, if it does its whole duty, will leave no stone unturned in its investigation of the disastrous wreck on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Railroad on the "go-as-you-please" standard is not popular with the traveling public. A little more regard for life and limb, and a little less insistence on "dividends first, passengers second" is more in keeping with their idea of the proprieties.

WHEN the Congress of Governors was inaugurated six years ago, many thought it a sort of good intention, but ephemeral plan. On the contrary it has proved a great power for good. No subject that has come before that body for consideration has attracted as much attention as farm credits and the betterment of farming conditions. This is a vitally important question and much needed legislation in its behalf is bound to follow.

ON THE SUN'S PART?

"More Muddle-Mindedness."

"An advertisement on the front page of The Sun yesterday announced that at the Casino meeting last night the speakers would be Mr. Preston, Mr. Straus, Mr. Goldsborough, Mr. Goldstrom and "all the candidates endorsed by the Democratic organization of Baltimore."

"What is the organization, anyhow?"—Baltimore Sun, Sept. 3.

Here it is in a nutshell. The Sun has been and is fighting something which it openly acknowledges it knows nothing about.

EMINENTLY fitting is the idea of a celebration, in Frederick City, on "Old Defenders' Day," in honor of Francis Scott Key, author of the "Star Spangled Banner." Frederick should be proud of the opportunity and should celebrate in true Frederick style.

THE oyster lover may forget all else, but he'll remember, that bivalves coax his palate, in this lovely month, September.

THE surest sign that we are really now approaching fall, is that the college coaches are preparing for football.

FOOLISH Question: "Mail late? Was there a wreck on the W. M.?"

Editorials From Maryland Exchanges.

Life.

Take life like a man, take it just as though it was as it is—an earnest, vital essential affair. Take it just as though you personally were born to the task of performing a merry part in it—as though the world had awaited your coming. Live for something and something worthy of life and its capabilities and opportunities, for noble deeds and achievements. Every man and every woman has his or her assignments of daily life. We are in the world to make the world better, to lift it up to higher levels of enjoyment and progress, to make the hearts and homes brighter and happier by devoting to our fellows our best thoughts, activities and influences.—Caroline Sun.

The Pary Affiliation Clause.

The people of Baltimore county are so determined to remedy the condition of their local affairs that some 20,000 Democratic voters in that county have signed a pledge to not participate in forthcoming Democratic primary, in order that they may be "free to vote for independent candidates, if it should seem advisable to do so." The purpose and principle involved in this action are, of course, altogether admirable from the stand-point of good citizenship; but it hardly seems to us that the primary law necessitates such a course. People do not seem to understand that when the primary law requires a voter to state his party affiliation before voting at the primary, it does not call upon him to pledge his support to the ticket that may be nominated by his party. If it did such a thing as that, it would be a most vicious law, because it would be a deadly blow to independence in political affairs and therefore to good citizenship. As a matter of fact it does nothing of the kind and election officials are guilty of misconduct when they attempt to make the voter at the primary think it does. Indeed the law most emphatically imposes upon election officials the following mandatory instructions: "It shall be the duty of the board of registry to explain to each voter that the statement of such party affiliation does not bind him to vote for the candidate of such party at any given election."

This quotation from the Primary Law itself (Ch. 347, 160 E, Acts 1912) ought to make plain to every official what is his duty and to every primary voter what is his privilege.—Cecil Whigg.

Will Make Election Legal.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, and a sub-committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee are at work on a measure intended to forestall all future disputes as to the election of United States Senators under the Seventeenth Amendment to the Constitution.

This bill, which will be introduced as an emergency measure and rushed through both the House and Senate, will settle any controversy that may exist in Maryland as to the legality of the writ of election issued by Governor Goldsborough for the election of a short-term Senator from this State.

At the same time it will provide a safe means whereby other States may proceed with the election of Senators without the expense and delay of calling the legislature into special session.

The sub-committee is using the Poin-dexter bill, offered two weeks ago, as a basis for the measure that is to be reported to the Senate. The original bill providing that Senators may temporarily be elected in the same fashion that Congressmen are elected will be so amended as to provide that the existing election machinery in the individual States, such as are used for the selection of Governors, may be employed.—Montgomery County Sentinel.

CURRENT COMMENT FROM LEADING JOURNALS.

The Federal Bird Law.

Hunters throughout the country are beginning to realize that the Federal government has curtailed their sport for the season, which in many states opens with the 1st of September, by taking migratory birds under its protection. For after October 1st, when the new regulations go into effect, all shooting during the hours after sunset and before sunrise which the hunter always has considered the best of the day. The regulations, according to the Bureau of Biological Survey, have been framed on the principle of protecting the birds, and not in the interest of the hunter. But they also provide for an open season reasonably long, and at a time of the year when game birds are most abundant.

A great many of the protests against this Federal ruling are based upon the ground that it amounts practically to a closed season to have no shooting before sunrise and after sunset for those whose only time for hunting is early in the morning or after work is over.

But it is important to allow the birds to roost and feed to prevent their extinction. Fourteen states have no restriction at all on night shooting and the Federal law is intended to bring about uniformity in the provision. The most far-reaching by far is the prohibition of spring shooting in order to protect the birds while on the way to their nesting grounds and while mating, which means a great increase in numbers by fall. All hunters on the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri rivers are absolutely prohibited to provide for waterfowl a safe route from their winter feeding in the Lower Mississippi Valley to their nesting grounds in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The friends of our feathered denizens will be glad to learn that in Europe also a committee has been formed for the protection of birds. The movement, therefore, to save rare birds from extinction in the quest for feathers to decorate women's hats and hair probably is to have an international impetus. This is well, for America cannot save all the birds by herself, excepting the white heron. Women, knowing nothing of the conditions under which tropical plumage is collected, and delighted with the finished work of the milliner, rely upon osprey, paradise birds, and other fowls for their ornaments.

A great part of the work would be accomplished were women to understand the cruelty of it all. They are not to be deprived of beautiful feathers by the suppression in the trade in aigrettes. There will always be ostrich plumes. Besides the rhea of South America is being domesticated, and other fine South American birds which shed their rich plumage are to be raised here. But to continue the trade in aigrettes means the cruel extinction of the whole species, for it is the mother birds that are taken and killed for their feathers, leaving the young to starve.—Washington Herald.

An Insult to Authority.

The brutal assault by two harridans upon Premier Asquith while he was golfing in Scotland will doubtless be taken by many persons who can read and write, and have the gift of speech highly developed, as further proof that women should have the right to vote. It has long been known that there are many queer people in every community, and observation convinces us that the varieties of queerness are increasing. From any sane point of view two vicious criminals like these should never have the right to vote. Mr. Asquith is afflicted with the inherited indisposition of a gentleman not to strike back at a woman. Is the time near at hand when that will no longer be regarded as a virtue? If such women as these detestable British militants are not to be held in check by law, the man who resists their assaults with all necessary force will not thereby endanger his reputation as a gentleman. It is not customary to treat either thugs or their female accomplices politely. Why should any two strong-armed, vulgar women be so treated when they assault a gentleman?

The Scottish mob which surrounded Mr. Asquith's assailants after arrest vociferously expressed its desire to "duck them in the sea." It would have been a fitting and effective punishment. The British government provides no proper punishment for crimes of violence committed by callous, low-minded harridans of this sort. They are imprisoned briefly and then quickly released for fear they will starve themselves to death. What harm would it be to society if they really committed suicide? But, as a matter of fact, they have no idea of killing themselves. There is too much fun in the world for them. Touchstone marveled that "breaking ribs" should be considered "sport for ladies." But Touchstone lived in the dull old days. The ladies are not content to be spectators at rib-breaking these days; they do the breaking themselves, and are accounted heroines, leaders of the new movement for universal freedom, which is to say, smashing everybody who does not agree with you. It is worth noting that this assault was committed on the leader of a Government which has crippled the authority of the aristocracy, and placed huge pecuniary burdens on the thrifty and solvent to provide free pensions and free insurance for the poor. The assault upon him is, of course, an insult to all British authority.—N. Y. Times.

No Criminals for the Navy.

Secretary Daniels does not want any thieves in the navy. He has a perfectly natural dislike for them, and it is strange that the State of Maryland, through its Attorney General, should try to man our warships with them.

The Secretary of the Navy has felt constrained to send a letter to Maryland's Governor calling attention to the case of a young man charged with theft who was advised by the State's Attorney that he might take his choice of undergoing punishment or applying for enlistment at the Navy recruiting station in Baltimore.

Maryland is suffering, it seems, from the cankers of a calm world and a long peace. Falstaff avouched that his doughty company of prison birds would "fill a pit as well as better" men. The idea of impressing slaves and convicts is ancient as war itself, and has a curious survival in this Maryland case. Is it in the line of precedent, and has Maryland given its criminals a chance to join the ranks of patriotic soldiers and sailors? Secretary Daniels will do away with it. Such men are not fit to represent this country on board its ships. "The self-respecting men who compose the navy cannot be expected to live with men of low character," he says. The nation can fight its battles without them.—New York Times.

Farm Products are High.

The forecast of "dollar wheat, dollar corn and dollar potatoes," is a disconcerting answer to the windy assertions of Democratic tariff revisionists that the Underwood bill would reduce the cost of living. Farm products were to be cheapened in some miraculous way while the farmer was to remain just as well off as ever before.

But even a Democratic caucus is powerless to repeal the laws of Nature. The prices of farm products are dependent upon what Nature does for the world in distributing bounteous crops. This great fact, beyond the reach of legislation or party politics, dictates the economic law of supply and demand.

This year the American farmer is blessed with what is expected to prove the best and largest wheat crop on record. The farmers of other countries, however are less fortunate, as their wheat crops are but normal or below the average. Consequently the demand for American wheat will keep the price at or above the dollar mark.

The American corn crop at the last report was far from satisfactory. Here again the law of supply and demand operates to justify the prediction of dollar corn. The great draught has wrought havoc with the potato crop, so that an unprecedented price is predicted for that staple food.

Thus nature makes a cardonic commentary on the fluent and airy promises of Democratic tariff tinkers to reduce the cost of living by caucus action.—Philadelphia Press.

Convicts as Road Makers.

Illinois is to try the experiment of using convict labor in road-making, the law passed at the last session of the legislature taking effect September first. It appears that organized labor offered no serious objections, probably because union men are not looking for work on the roads. Outdoor employment for men serving sentences is better than idleness within prison walls; and as the Illinois law applies only to prisoners who have not more than five years to serve there is no opportunity for escape of the men convicted of the most serious crimes. That the state should receive some equivalent for the cost of keeping convicts is not disputed, and the principal objection against employing them upon the public roads is the custom of clothing the prisoners in striped suits.

But why should it be necessary to retain striped clothing? Some kind of khaki uniform, while less conspicuous is different from the clothing ordinarily seen on the country roads. Stripes are not pleasant to look at; and they are employed for the purpose of making escape difficult. Men who are not hardened criminals can be managed without this precaution, and the fact that in other states the parole system has given good results is an argument for a change in the garb of convicts.—Providence Journal.

Chicago is a wicked city, but even a wicked city cannot stand for the turkey trot and other such one step rag dances. Chicago has nailed on the Tango lid and all cafe revelers have had to forego this and other licentious dances.

The lid closed at minnigh Friday night on the tango, turkey, bunny and bear dances, which have figured in the revelry in certain restaurants and cafes in Chicago.

The new ordinance forbidding this kind of entertainment became operative then. The frolic prevailed up to the last moment.—Annapolis Capitol.

MANUFACTURERS are of
two kinds—the honest

The honest manufacturer

The dishonest manufactur-

Journalism In Russia.

"The style of Russian journalism,"
says Stephen Graham, in "Changing Russia," "is most refreshing. The brevity of the sentence and the paragraph has been developed to the absolute. I opened Satirikon one day to find heading the first article on the first page: 'Spit in my eye, reader!'
Spit right in my eye!"

"There is nothing in English or American journalism equal to that.
But such a sentence is not exceptional.
It sets the tone of the paper, and Satirikon is read by every one, from the student to the grand duke. Every one who would not miss something essential in the Russian soul should look at Satirikon.  It is horrible, but it is instructive. It is even powerful and refreshing if you can enter into its spirit without losing your own. It is forceful, brutal, cynical, Rabelai-
sian.  Despite its monstrous pictures and its style, which permits all things, it is yet a family journal. There is nothing in it that the Russian woman finds objectionable."

Daniel O'Connell's Blarney.

Daniel O'Connell, says the British Weekly, spoke once to over 100,000
persons at an open air meeting in Birmingham. In those days women worked in the mines, and two or three rows
of grimy, stalwart damsels, black and robust, with a blackness and robustness hardly ever seen now, formed
themselves in front of them.

O'Connell rose and began, "Surrounded, as I am, by the fair, the gentle and the good"—Up went the grimy
arms, and the grimy threats roared applause.

The fair, the gentle and the good cheered every sentence after that, and
as they almost alone in the vast audience could hear what was said, their cheering was of some importance, because when they applauded the people
behind applauded, and so on, till the outermost ring was reached, which rendered its tribute to the concluding sentence of the speech some time after it was over.

Merry Moving Time In Quebec.

May day is scarcely a merry one in the province of Quebec. Yearly leases prevail and expire April 30, so that the 1st of May is removal day. In Montreal and other large centers of the province many quaint scenes are to be witnessed, and it is held that you will see more furniture knocking about the streets May 1 than you ever saw in any second hand dealer's emporium. Many peculiar customs have come into being
through this habit of the Quebec Canadians of fitting or removing at the same time. One of the most remarkable is that for the first three days of the month houses are held in common—
that is to say, if the people into whose house you are moving have been unable to get away before your arrival
you may all live together until May 3,
when you can compel your predecessors to make their final exit.—London
Spectator.

Good Pay For Hermits.

Hermits were a century or more
back regarded as a picturesque feature of country houses. Samuel Rogers records that "Archibald Hamilton, afterward Duke of Hamilton, advertised
for a hermit as an ornament to his pleasure grounds, and it was stipulated that the said hermit should have his beard shaved but once a year, and that only partially." Mark Powys, the squire of Marcham, in Lancashire,
offered £50 a year for life to any man
willing to live as a hermit on his estate
for seven years. He was to be well supplied with provisions and books
and other comforts and in return had
to abstain from straying beyond his
hermitage and from cutting his hair,
beard or nails. The offer was accepted by a man who abode by the conditions for four years and then threw up
the job.—London Chronicle.

A Chinese Umbrella

By REGINALD D. HAVEN

I was dining the other day with my friend Alan Bonbright. Mrs. Bon-bright is the daughter of a missionary whose field was in China, and she had spent most of her girlhood there. Her husband had been to China on business, met her there and brought her
home with him as his wife.

Mrs. Bonbright, a girl at this time
was with her father at his missionary station in the province of Shantung. After dinner I was taken to a room where a collection of souvenirs of the Flowery Kingdom was kept. Among them was an umbrella
made of bamboo wood and paper, covered with the customary pictures of men and women, birds and flowers.
Across it when expanded were Chinese characters which, of course, I could not read. Bonbright directed my attention to the umbrella, and Mrs. Bon-bright said, "If you're going to tell that story I'll go elsewhere." She went out with a look indicating that I was about to hear something unpleasant.

"You know," said Bonbright, "that China is full of persons who live by highway robbery. They cut off their heads whenever they capture them,
but this doesn't seem to deter others.
for life is cheap there and only the better classes care much about their own
or others' terrestrial existence. Well,
one day I was traveling on horseback
through the province of Shantung. I had no mind to be set upon by the highwaymen and had armed myself.
There is not much fight in even the robbers in China unless they have every advantage, and I didn't feel in much danger so long as I could defend myself.

"I was not attacked myself; but, hearing a shouting ahead of me, I pressed forward and found a Chinaman in
the dress of a mandarin being set upon by a gang of robbers. I fired shots at them, and they left their prey in a
sorry plight and took to their heels.
I picked him up and set him to rights.
I had come up just in time to save
his pocketbook, and he offered me a portion of its contents as a reward.
This, of course, I declined, whereupon
he talked his thanks—so I supposed for I did not understand a word he said. Just before I left him he took a writing stick and wrote those characters you see there on the umbrella
and gave it to me. There was nothing to do but accept it, and as the day was hot I used it.

"Every Chinaman I met looked at the umbrella, then at me, and their indifference was at once turned to reverence. Some of them stopped and salaamed as I passed. I wondered if they mistook me for the governor of a province or an executioner. Singularly enough, I didn't catch on to the fact that it was the umbrella that was drawing forth such respect.

"I stopped that night at the missionary station presided over by my wife's father and found them in great trouble. They had got wind through some of the Christian natives, servants
and others attached to the mission of the Boxer movement that was about to break forth. My wife was then a girl of nineteen and the oldest of a family of seven. The converts were in a terrible state of fear, which naturally communicated itself to the white family.

"Drowning persons will cling to a
straw, and this family clung to me.
True, I was only one man, but I was well armed, and even one man might be of some protection. I suppose I would have remained anyway, but I could not leave the girl who struck my fancy. When she looked appealingly
at me with those blue eyes of hers I could not resist and said I would remain with them till the trouble was over.

"Remembering how easily I had put
to flight the robbers, I really thought that with my two revolvers and some fifty cartridges I would be a protection, but when I heard the shrieks of the Christian converts as the crowd approached the mission house I didn't like the prospect. The yells of the brutes who were murdering them were equally appalling. What could I do against an infuriated mob?

"However, I stationed myself at an upper window, laying my ammunition and extra pistols beside me. I called upon Ethel to stay beside me and load
them for me as fast as I fired, and she nerved herself to do so. I put my head
out, and seeing the mob coming reeking with blood, my heart sank. Wishing something to conceal me from them, I took up the umbrella the mandarin had given me, opened it, fixed it
before me at the window and poked
holes through it so that I could see where to fire.

"The mob had broken into the next
house and killed every one there, they were ready to storm the mission. Already an ax had fallen on the door below me when I saw a man look at my umbrella and become much excited.
He ran forward, then back with the man who wielded the ax. A knot of rioters gathered, all looking at the umbrella. Not another blow was struck.
I did not need to fire a single shot.
The mob seemed disappointed, but passed on.

"As soon as it had gone I withdrew
the umbrella. Ethel, who could read Chinese as well as English, clasped her hands, raised her eyes to heaven and gave thanks. Then she interpreted the characters to me. It was an order from the greatest mandarin in the province
to "respect this man and all that belongs to him."

OBVIATE EYE TROUBLE.

The greatest evil in connection with eye trouble is due to the fact that the faulty organ does not generally betray itself until the damage has made serious headway.

If you have any trouble with your eyes—difficulty in seeing distinct or reading, aching eyes, tired eyes. If you suffer from headache, if the child cannot see well at school, or if the child's eyes soon become tired, call and have them examined.

You can prevent this risk by consulting our Optometrist Dr. O. W. Hines who will be at Spangler Hotel Emmitsburg, September 10, 1913.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

I hereby announce my candidacy for County Treasurer, subject to the Democratic Primary Election of 1913.

Since taking charge of the office on July 1st, 1912 I have become personally acquainted with most of the taxpayers and gained an experience which should better qualify me to perform the duties of County Treasurer if I am renominated and elected. I have been giving the office my undivided personal attention and have tried to conduct it in a progressive businesslike way in the interest and for the accommodation of the people generally.

I shall appreciate the assistance of every voter and cheerfully abide by the decision of the voters as expressed in the primary election.

Respectfully,
FREDERICK W. CRAMER.

DONATION DAYS FOR
FREDERICK CITY HOSPITAL

General Response to Last Year's Innovation—Will be Held Again This November.

Donation Days, which were inaugurated last November for the Frederick County Hospital with much generous responses from many sections will be observed again this November and it is believed that a large quantity of supplies will be secured for this worthy institution in this way. It will be remembered that a special day was set apart for the children who were given an opportunity to give some little gift to the hospital such a potato or an egg. The entire plan worked admirably and the amount received by the institution was most gratifying.

An enthusiastic member of the Board of the Frederick Hospital, who was largely instrumental in having these Donation Days, says:

"Will our friends in the city and county send us in November a jar of pickles, one of preserves and one of jelly for the annual November contribution to the Frederick City Hospital? The generous gifts of last year were so much appreciated, and we trust every boy and girl will not forget the potato and egg souvenir.

We will have a better system this year, as we did not realize what a generous response would come throughout the county."

WILL COST $7,032 TO RESTORE
BATTLEFIELD MONUMENT

Government Will Replace Statues Defaced by Wanton Vandals on March 4 Last.

To replace and restore to their original condition nine fine monuments on the battlefield of Gettysburg, which were damaged with a chisel and hammer by an unknown vandal late in the afternoon of March 4 last, will cost the government $7,032.

The vandal attacked one monument after another, with apparently no other motive than pure maliciousness, as he took none of the broken pieces away.

The appropriation of the amount named has been recommended by the House Appropriation Committee in the Deficiency Appropriation bill. This is the only time such vandalism has been perpetrated on a national battlefield under the control of the government, with the single exception of a previous case at Shiloh battlefield. Assistant Secretary Breckenridge thinks it was "the result of an outburst of a crazy man." Special agents of the Department of Justice have been investigating the matter since March without finding a single clew.

The monuments at Gettysburg have cost more than $1,000,000, nearly every organization and regiment having erected one. The vandal knocked off the nose and foot of one statue, and in various ways made the nine monuments unsightly.

Yes Paint

may be high next year, so much work has been put-off and more will be.

Men don't know that it costs more money to wait than to paint; it costs about 10 per cent to wait, and not over 5 for the extra price.

What is it? About $2.50 on the average job 3000 (square feet); 10 gallons Devco, 15 of average paint, yes 20 of some.

Suppose there's plenty of oil next year, won't paint go down? Yes, a little; there can't be plenty of oil; the demand settles that. Half the work of last year and this is waiting; so stupid we are.

PUBLIC SALE.

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Frederick County, as a Court of Equity, passed in a cause in said court, being No. 8993 Equity, wherein Carrie H. Ferguson and others are complainants and Emma Colliflower and others are the defendants, the undersigned, trustees, will sell at public sale, on Saturday, September 27th, 1913,

at the hour of 11 o'clock, A. M., at the Hotel Spangler, in the town of Emmitsburg, Maryland, all that Real Estate, of which Sarah J. Miller died, seized and possessed, situated in the mountains about four miles in a westerly direction from said town and near the Winebenarian Church, adjoining the lands of the late David Turner, Arthur Ferguson and others and containing 58 acres, 3 roods and 4 square perches of land, more or less, conveyed to the said Sarah J. Miller by Vincent Sebold, Committee, by his deed dated November 5th, 1907, and recorded among the land records of said Frederick County, in Liber S.T.H., No. 230, folio 462, improved with a Dwelling House, Stable and Hog Pen, with some timber, fruit trees and a spring of mountain water.

Terms of sale as prescribed by the decree—one-half the purchase money to be paid in cash on the day of sale, or on the ratification thereof by the Court, the residue in six months, the purchaser or purchasers, giving his, her or their note with approved security and bearing interest from the day of sale, or all cash, at the option of the purchaser or purchasers. When all the purchase money has been paid the deed therefor will be executed by the said trustees, but all the expenses of conveyance to be borne by the purchaser or purchasers. A deposit of $25.00 will be required on the day of the sale.

Fire Proof Roofing

CORTRIGHT METAL SHINGLES

What could be better for town or country buildings than a roofing that won't burn—won't leak—that is lightning proof—lasts as long as the building itself, and never needs repairs? Cortright Metal Shingles meet every one of these requirements. Beware of imitations—None genuine without the words "Cortright Reg. U. S. Pat. Off." stamped on each shingle.

Asbestos Has Many Uses.

Asbestos is the most important fire-
proofing material known. Its fibrous structure adapts it to a wide range of applications—from woven fabrics, such as theater curtains and articles of clothing to asbestos shingles, stucco,
plaster, asbestos "wood" and various other forms of building material that render structures thoroughly fireproof.
Its lightness, strength, durability and insulating properties against heat and electricity give it special advantages
for use in constructing cars and electric motor subways. The most common uses of asbestos are for asbestos paper, millboard, pipe covering and lagging to inclose heat pipes, furnaces
and locomotives in order to prevent loss of heat in transmission. As a nonconductor of heat it may be used
not only in the preparation of fireproof
safes and vaults, but also for cold storage and cooling structures. Houses
made of asbestos materials or coated
with asbestos throughout are not only warmer in winter, but cooler in summer.

Deodands.

If it were customary or possible for
the king of Great Britain and Ireland
rigidly to exercise his royal prerogatives he would in the course of a few months become the owner of many vehicles, especially motorcars, that traverse the streets and roads of his kingdom, since he is entitled to all deodands.
A deodand is "an article which
has proved the immediate and accidental occasion of the death of any reasonable creature." This right was for hundreds of years enforced as a means of swelling the royal exchequer
and, legally speaking, could still be enforced. If a man were killed by being run over the vehicle and its contents,
as well as the horse, became the king's property. The number of "reasonable creatures" (and dogs might be included
by some within this category) run over by motors in England would keep the king in automobiles until he would be obliged to construct many garages.—
Harper's Weekly.

A Plea For the Kitchen.

The kitchen should be the refinery,
the laboratory, the factory of the home
and the pivotal point about which the activities of the home revolve. Costs
should be considered thoughtfully; no
scrap of food should be wasted. It all
can be and should be used again in various ways. By buying staple food supplies in large quantities from 15 to 30 percent can be saved. Any one wishing to do so may economize in this way.
Housewives must not look upon their art as mere drudgery; they must bring
education, intelligence and concentration into practice. They should learn as manufacturers have, that the best results are to be obtained in a workshop that is well lighted, properly ventilated and comfortably large, suitably furnished and sanitary in all its equipments.—Dr. Adeline G. Soule in Leslie's.

Rowing and Morality.

From the moral standpoint there is no branch of athletics which is such a character builder as trying for a place
in an eight oared shell. I've heard a wide variety of college critics say that rowing gets out the finest class of men who try for any team. Certainly the long period of training offers little to the flashy type of man who must have
the prospect of immediate reputation.
There is no branch of athletics which
so truly teaches the lessons of life.
Steady, consistent effort, cheerful work
under discouraging conditions, good
comradeship and good sportsmanship
when the race goes to another college.
these are the habits which working for a place in the varsity shell instill into
the American undergraduates.—James Rice in Outing.

Uses For Quartz.

In the manufacture of soaps and polishing powders quartz is preferred to silica sand on account of its whiteness
and angularity. Quartz crushed and graded to various sizes is used in the manufacture of sandpaper and sand
belts as a scouring agent, for "frost-
ing" glass with sand blast apparatus,
etc. Blocks of massive quartz and quartzite are used in the chemical industry as a filler for acid towers and as a flux in copper smelting. Ground
quartz is also used in filters and in tooth powders and by dentists as a detergent.

A Ready Retort.

A Glasgow professor always had the
back benches in his classroom arranged on a higher level than the lower.
On one occasion a student entered
when a lecture was in progress and marched noisily to a seat on the top
most tier. "Gentlemen," remarked the lecturer, as he fixed his eye on the offender, "the scum always rises to the top." "Yes, and the dregs always sink
to the bottom," was the retort of the ready student.

Going Too Far.

"Ma, ma," sobbed Willie, "do my ears belong to my neck or my face?"
"Why, what is the matter?" was the temporizing reply.
"Well, you told Mary to wash my face, and she's washing my ears too."
Manchester Guardian.

Tantalizingly Accurate.

She—There's such a thing as too much accuracy. He—No, no; it cannot be! She—Yes. I told Jack he could have just one kiss, and he only took
one.—Princeton Tiger.

Liberal.

"I absolutely don't know what to give my cook for a wedding present."
"Then simply give her money."
"Oh, no! It mustn't cost as much as
that!"—Ulk

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

Striped suitings are charming this summer, and here is a costume made from one of the new ratines with the collar and bands showing bits of bright color that is still noticeable. The coat
has the empire effect that is found in the best models, and the skirt is of three pieces.

For the medium size the coat will require four and a half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with

one-half yard for collar and cuffs.

These May Manton patterns are cut in sizes for the skirt from 22 to 32 inches
waist measure and for the empire coat
from 34 to 40 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents each for these patterns to this office, giving numbers—skirt 7795, coat 7794
—and they will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an addi-

This transfer design is charming for use on a girl's linen dress. The edge of the tunic is scalloped, also the tops
of the turned back cuffs, and a floral
design is given for the front of the little waist. The flowers, leaves and dots can be worked solid or as eyelets. The stems are to be outlined and the scallops buttonholed. When working solid embroidery pad the stamped figure by darning backward and forward lengthwise and then cover closely with over

and over stitches worked in the opposite direction from the padding. To outline the stems take short stitches,
keeping the needle toward the right,
and work upward. To make the leaves as eyelets first run a thread
around the stamped line.

This May Manton pattern is made in several sizes. Send 10 cents to this office,
giving number, 683, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

ANNOUNCEMENT

ALL successful business men will tell you that ADVERTISING PAYS. Do you want to be successful?

DO not think for a moment that you are wiser
than they—ADVERTISE and be classed with successful men.

VERY skeptical people have been convinced
that ADVERTISING PAYS. If you are skeptical try the cure.

EVEN pastors of churches have seen the wisdom of it. They advertise all the time. Result? Better congregations.

EASON it out for yourself and try advertising—just one thing for a while. The effect
will prove that ADVERTISING PAYS.

THE public has been educated to read advertisements. Many people read newspaper and magazine advertisements before they glance
at the "reading matter."

INTELLIGENT advertising is the kind that Brings Results. It appeals to people who have money to spend.

SYSTEMATIC advertising, the kind that makes
the buying public look for the change, the news in your advertisement each week is the kind of advertising to make use of.

EVERY advertisement you insert in THE CHRONICLE makes your name and your business more familiar to the public. Can you afford not to advertise?

WE DON'T MEET COMPETITION!

But We Beat It!

Don't Take Our Word for It!

But try it yourself, in this way: Go to any store you wish.
Buy a suit at whatever reduction, or inducement you may be given. Then bring the suit to our store, compare it with a suit marked in plain figures at the same price you paid for your suit. We will not say a word, but will let the quality and price of our suit do our talking and show you plainly
what we mean by "Get the Habit," Pay Less and Dress Better.

Note.

Why do we say go to another store and buy, then come to us?

Simply because if you would look first then buy from us
you would soon forget you had saved several dollars. But when you plainly see you have actually saved several dollars more than our price, you will remember it in the future and will say, too.

Quality of Challenge Flour
Appreciated

During the past year the cost of manufacturing Spring Wheat Flours has been very much less than that of CHALLENGE FLOUR, due to the price of Spring Wheat being less than Winter wheat. This has resulted in many flours being introduced to housekeepers as being

Just as Good as Challenge Flour.

In spite of these conditions the sales of Challenge Flour have been the largest ever experienced during
a like period, proving that the quality of Challenge is appreciated. We are making Challenge Flour today as we have always made it
