MUCH LIKE THE FORTIES

SITUATION IN MEXICO

History Continues to Repeat Itself

THE U. S. LACK OF PREPARATION

The Total Cost of the Mexican War Under President Polk Reached $88,500,206.—The War Department Finds Parallel.

Officers of the War Department having a taste for historical research have found the "deadly parallel" between conditions of the present time and as they were before the Mexican war of the '40's.

They have found that "history repeats itself," and that, allowing for the advance which has been made in matters of transportation and communication, the situation now and before hostilities of 1846 are very much the same. And they also find that the parallel in regard to preparation for war is carried out, as a navy strong enough to take care of every Mexican seaport is available now, as then, while a mobile army, an actual fighting force of infantry and field artillery, is not developed so as to meet the emergency if it should come.

The army, such as it is, will be ready at once, but as for a second line and reinforcements, much time will be required for organization drill and making them an effective force. These facts are very interesting, in view of the recent publication of Gen. Meade's memoirs, showing the unpreparedness of the United States at the beginning of the Mexican war.

The War Department historians have gone further, and briefly given the principal events of the war with Mexico, showing that the first battle, at Palo Alto, was fought May 8, 1846. That same month Congress was called upon by the President to make provision for the war with Mexico. Anything like an adequate force would have settled the contest speedily, but then, as now, there was no such adequate force available. The first battle was fought with 2,208 men. Before the war was ended, early in 1848, there was a total of 104,284 United States troops engaged, of which 31,024 were regulars, 12,601 militia, and 60,659 volunteers. The total cost of the war for the army was $88,500,206.

"If there should be a war with Mexico," said an army officer, "history would continue to repeat itself in regard to the management of the war, just as we find parallels in the events which lead up to hostile demonstrations. The history of that war shows how the United States suffered by lack of preparation, both with regard to loss of life and heavily increased expenses. The raw troops were not fit for service, and it took a long time to drill and equip them. It takes a longer time now to make a soldier than it did in those days. We will, no doubt, see, whenever we go to war, the soldiers of the regular army standing the brunt of battle and their ranks devastated, while we organize, drill, and equip volunteers. It will be the same old story of extensive loss of life and immense expense because we have not taken the precaution to prepare for just such emergencies."

France's Mexico Policy Explained.

The Paris Temps differs from the other organs of the French press in its report of the attitude of France toward Mexico, says the Monitor. It states that while France has given General Huerta the advice to come to terms with the United States, it has not stated that it approved of the demands of the Washington government. The position of France in the whole affair is identical to that of Great Britain, Germany and Japan. Owing to the recognition which France has given to General Huerta, it will be impossible for her to receive the Mexican envoy, Senor de la Barra.

English Language Leads.

The English language leads all others. More people speak it, as the following figures will show: English is spoken by 160,000,000; German is spoken by 130,000,000; Russian is spoken by 100,000,000; French is spoken by 70,000,000; Spanish is spoken by 50,000,000; Italian spoken by 50,000,000; Portuguese is spoken by 25,000,000.

Albert H. Putney, of Chicago, has been appointed chief of the near Eastern division of the State Department succeeding John Van MacMurray, appointed secretary of the legation at Peking.

SECRETARY HOUSTON DESIRES TO HELP FARM WOMEN

Fifty Thousand Letters the Vehicles to Bring the Necessary Information. The Department Interested.

The needs of farm women will be taken up in a very practical way by the Secretary of Agriculture. It is his intention to mail letters to 50,000 farm houses throughout the United States, requesting information as to how the Department can best meet the needs of this large female contingent.

The farm woman has been the most neglected factor in the rural problem, and she has been especially neglected by the national department of agriculture.

This statement, contained in a letter to Secretary Houston, is responsible for the move. It started Mr. Houston thinking and he determined that the best way for the department to learn how to give these women the fullest possible aid and service which their important place in agricultural production warrants, was to write to the women themselves and ask them.

Their answers, which are to be in by November 15, it is expected, will represent the views and opinions of upward of 500,000 farm women.

Mrs. Pankhurst and the Law.

Commissioner General of Immigration Caminetti, in a statement regarding the entry of Mrs. Pankhurst into the United States said:

"Mrs. Pankhurst is to be treated by immigration officials just as if she were Jane Doe, an alien applying for admission to the United States. Mrs. Pankhurst, as would Jane Doe, will be given all the advantages of the law, but she still will be amenable to the law in every detail.

"The law must be carried out to the letter by Ellis Island officials. If it is not, these officials must answer to me and I will see that the law is obeyed. I hear that great pressure will be brought to bear in favor of Mrs. Pankhurst, but that pressure will be resisted for Mrs. Pankhurst must be treated like any other alien."

Minor Offenders Reentering Army.

Following Secretary Garrison's decision to permit the reenlistment of minor offenders among enlisted men at the expiration of the terms they may be serving in army disciplinary barracks, applications for such reenlistment are being received by the score at the war department.

It is estimated that fully 80 per cent of the Ft. Leavenworth men will reenlist, and like results are expected among enlisted men in the barracks at San Francisco and Governors Island, N. Y.

A Falling Off in Crops.

With the exception of wheat, American crops this year will show a tremendous falling off as compared with last year, on account of abnormal weather conditions the past month. The falling off is heavy in apples, potatoes, corn, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, flax, cotton and vegetables. Rice and wheat are the principal crops showing an increase, and the wheat crop promises to be the largest the country has ever produced. A serious shortage in hogs is also reported, due to cholera.

Two Wrecks on Western Maryland.

Fourteen large battleship cars were derailed on the Western Maryland near Virginia Mills Sunday and tied up traffic for several hours. A piece of iron dropping from the truck of one of the cars caused them to leave the track and pound along for about a hundred yards on the ties and then piled up. Many were overturned, some thrown on end and the coal scattered about. The wrecking crew was at work from eight in the morning until nine at night clearing the tracks.

A large freight engine jumped the track at Gladhill Station on Saturday and it was some time before it could be placed on the rails and traffic resumed. —Gettysburg Star and Sentinel.

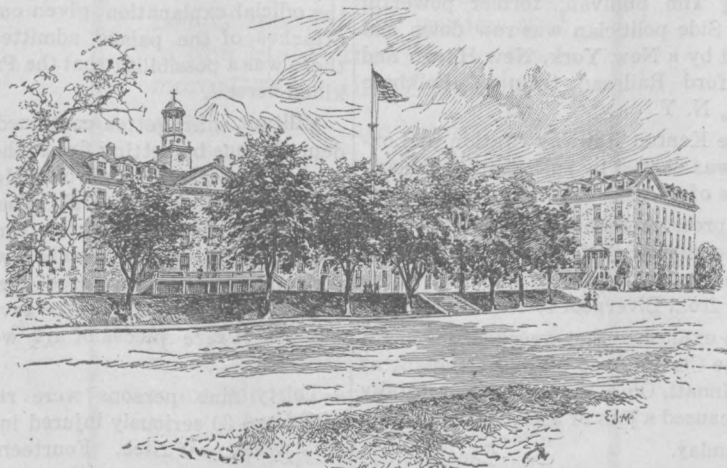

Government to Help Save Fish.

Complaints are being made of excessive catches of fish by fertilizer factories which line the shores of Chesapeake bay, and considerable correspondence has passed in regard to it.

Official reports say the fishing industry of Chesapeake bay is in danger unless the federal government in co-operation with the States of Maryland and Virginia can enforce existing laws and regulations governing fish nets and traps in those waters.

The Argentine Senate has recently voted favorably on the proposition to expend $300,000 for a permanent home for the Argentine legation in the United States.

MOUNT SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

Terrace Talk

Under John L. Day, who succeeds Mike Thompson as coach, things look very bright for athletics at Mt. St. Mary's this season. Mr. Day is a graduate of Syracuse, 1912, and played end on the memorable 1911 team of that University, the only team which defeated the Carlisle Indians that year.

Studies at The Mount were resumed Friday morning, September 12, the students returning the night before.

The large number already enrolled—a decided increase over last year's registration—indicates that the coming sessions' attendance will be a record breaker.

Last year's contingent returning to the Mountain found many improvements and changes. Noticeable among these is the substantial granite drinking fountain which takes the place of the old wooden structure on the back terrace. The benches on the mountain side opposite the Music Hall fill a long felt want.

During the summer all the buildings of the College were thoroughly renovated. Paint and kalsomine were used wherever it was needed, and the hall and corridor at the entrance to the Study Hall frescoed.

Acetylene gas has been adopted as the illuminant for rooms and all indoor lighting.

Football practice started on Monday when in addition to the five veterans who reported, there were thirty candidates to answer to the first call. This number has since been increased.

Rice, Joseph and Leo Mannans, Carroll, Sheridan, John D. Kelly, Sutton and Haltigan are the last season's "M" men who will be seen in this year's line-up.

Leo McManus, 1915, will lead the squad this year. McManus was the star quarter-back on last year's eleven.

The football schedule has not been completed, but in the coming games several Mt. St. Mary's rivals will figure, notably Gettysburg and the Catholic University, St. Johns, Frederick and Delaware. Manager Costello, '14, will announce his list of games in the near future.

A number of promising looking men are noticed among the new gridiron material.

Mexico, Porto Rico and Nicaragua have as usual a good representation. Several students from Mexico spent the summer at the College.

Augmented by many new students the Pittsburgh contingent contains the largest number of boys from any one place.

The little old chapel on the back terrace, which served as the place of worship before the building of the present magnificent church, has been completely remodeled and is now used for the classes in the physical sciences. A fully equipped laboratory and the latest scientific instruments for experiments have been installed in the building. The old "lab" in the main building has been converted into a recitation room.

Several members of the class of 1913 spent a few days with former acquaintances at the Mount.

The kindly place the old Mountain church held in their hearts is attested by the large number of boys who have visited the ruins of the Old Church on The Hill which was destroyed by fire on the night of July 4th last.

Under the editorship of Mr. Ralph Keating, '14, the Mountaineer—the student publication of Mount St. Mary's—is expected to regain the high place it formerly held and for so long a time in college journalism. No one will dispute the fact that Mr. Keating—by the way the third brother to become editor of the publication—is pre-eminently the one to accomplish this end. His literary taste and ability, his liberal viewpoint and his clarity of thought and expression qualify him to guide the Mountaineer's destiny throughout the coming year. Before a house meeting the other day Mr. Keating appealed to the students for moral and financial support for the publication. The other members on the staff of the paper have not been announced, but it is understood that the Editor will have back of him a corps of able assistants.

Miss Eleanor Wilson, playing the star role in a pastoral masque symbolizing the protest of the naturalist against the slaughter of birds for millinery purposes, had as her most interested spectator, her father, President Wilson. The play was given at Meridan, N. H.

On a catafalque brought from Westminster Abbey the body of William Jay Gaynor lay in state at the foot of the grand stairway of the Town Hall of Liverpool. It was an unprecedented honor that Liverpool paid the dead executive of the American metropolis, for never had anyone lain in state in the historic edifice.

$50,000 is the estimated loss of the fire in the plant of the Gordan Hat

Company and M. Stein's clothing shop, in the Ingram Building, Hanover and Lombard streets, Baltimore.

Capt George Curry, former Rough Rider, Governor of New Mexico and member of Congress, eloped from Washington with Miss Martha Cora Gans, of Uniontown, Pa., to Rockville, Md., where they were married by Rev. Samuel R. White, a Baptist minister.

$100,000 as an emergency appropriation to be used for the relief of destitute Americans in Mexico was passed in a joint resolution by the House.

Commissioners from Maryland and Virginia met to fix the boundary line between the States along the lower Potomac river.

COUNTIES PUT IT OVER ON THE CITY AT CONVENTION

Vandiver Remains Chairman.—Wilson Is Indorsed.—Hon. John Walter Smith Takes Hold.

Harmony reigned at the Democratic State Convention in Baltimore Tuesday and General Murray Vandiver won, hands down. The City had its platform cut and dried and Mayor Preston and Isaac Lobe Straus were on hand to put it through but they struck a snag and Senator John Walter Smith with the county organization forces aided by the Lee men formed the platform of the convention and generally took things in hand.

"The convention," said the Sun, "was really managed and the platform drafted by the Smith people. Concessions were made to Senator Lee, who, as the candidate for the United States Senate, was entitled to have the platform express his views and contain his ideas. A sop was thrown the city people in the way of and emasculated and modified endorsement of the city administration from a Democratic standpoint after Preston's name had been taken out of the plank, but the thing for which the city machine fought hardest and had nearest its heart were squelched by the county leaders."

Predicts a Very Severe Winter.

A man who has been a close student of climatic conditions and who is therefore somewhat of a weather prophet says:

"I am positive that this will be an exceptionally cold winter, for I have formed my opinion after carefully studying certain natural conditions that always precede a cold winter. The first thing that I have noticed is that there has been an abundance of wild fruit this year, while the cultivated varieties have not been up to what they usually are. I have also noticed that there will be an abundance of nuts, and still another sign that I have noticed is that the rabbits and other animals with fur have unusually heavy coats this year."

Government Owns Millions of Acres.

There remain 682,000,000 acres of public lands. More than half of these are in Alaska, but there are in the old United States enough to make ten States the size of New York.

Rather more than enough land to make a Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island was patented in the fiscal year 1911-1912.

The remaining land, if it were all available, would support a sparse grain-growing population of 15,000,000, not counting some millions more in the cities created thereby; or a denser farming population of 60,000,000.

Secretary Bryan Resents Criticism.

Hon. Wm. J. Bryan thinks that he is "an added attraction" on the chautauqua circuit and objects strenuously to being considered or pictured as an acrobat, a Swiss yodler or a member of a vaudeville team.

The Secretary of State also denies unequivocally that he is a mountebank, a vaudevillian, a peanut Secretary of State or that he has made a travesty on diplomacy, as has been alleged editorially by many leading newspapers of the United States as well as in England and on the Continent.

Magnificent Park for Washington.

Work is just about to begin for what will eventually be one of the most beautiful parks in the United States. It is to comprise twelve city squares in Washington.

The new park will be as wide as the north front of the capitol grounds, and it will continue those grounds, with paths, driveways and trees, to the union station plaza.

It will so connect the capitol and the union station as to give a beautiful outlook to visitors entering the city by railway trains.

To Provide Horses for Army Use.

"Horses are not as plentiful in this country as formerly," says an artillery officer of the United States Army "and what the War Department intends to do is to educate farmers all over the country in horse raising, and persuade them to breed horses so that the supply in this country can be kept up."

"The problem is not how to furnish horses for the standing army, but to provide enough horses in this country so in time of war the War Department will be able to get enough to mount troops and use for transportation in the Quartermasters' Department."

In an interview in Philadelphia, Vice-president Marshall said: "We shall certainly lose some seats. This is only to be expected, as the present Democratic representation in the House is unquestionably abnormal, the result, of course, of last year's triangular campaign."

MORE CURES AT LOURDES

MANY FIND A RELIEF

Ten Thousand Pilgrims Are Gathered There.

DUMB SPEAK—CRIPPLES WALK

Daily Mail of London Sends Medical Correspondent to Celebrate Shrine. He Reports Authentically of the Cures.

All Lourdes is palpitating with excitement, according to the medical correspondent of the London Daily Mail, on account of some miraculous cures that have taken place at that celebrated shrine.

The first case is that of a woman 51 years old, who for four years had been completely crippled by rheumatism of the leg, being able to crawl about only with great difficulty and the aid of crutches. On returning from a visit to the shrine she suddenly felt power returning to her leg, threw away her crutches, and walked easily and painlessly for the first time in four years.

The second case is that of a girl of 9, who was deaf and dumb and afflicted with St. Vitus' dance from an attack of scarlet fever three years ago. Yesterday (Saturday) morning, 'I've lost my shoe.' Afterward, when medically examined, she was able to speak, and showed none of the typical twitching of St. Vitus' dance. Her hearing is still somewhat defective in the right ear, but is apparently normal in the left ear.

The third case is of a boy of 7 who suffered from advanced tuberculosis disease of the hip, being barely able to hobble about with crutches. After a visit to the shrine he suddenly declared that he no longer needed the crutches, and walked without their aid.

All the cases previously described by the correspondent continue to show further improvement.

Grace Maloney, who a few days ago suddenly regained the use of a knee that had been deformed and useless for nine years through paralysis, now joins all processions, walking unaided by crutches, and without any limp. Michael Downey, of Belfast, who, after being a complete cripple with sciatica, and unable to walk without crutches, suddenly threw them away, continues to enjoy the use of his legs.

Photography and the Art of War.

The camera and the lantern slide appear to be coming into play more and more as a means of conducting warfare, according to the Army and Navy Register. The army board of ordinance and fortifications has recently allotted the sum of $500 to enable the chief signal officer of the army to procure and experiment with the necessary equipment and to develop a suitable method of photography in the field whereby the results obtained may be enlarged and projected on a screen for the benefit of the commanding general. It is proposed that a tent shall be constructed in such a way that these enlargements of photographs, especially those taken of territory from above by an aviator, may be shown with the least possible delay. The objection to this system would be that it adds to the equipment of the signal corps in the field, and it is a question whether the results would justify the acquisition of this equipment.

Pay Honor to "Big Tim."

With an escort of twenty members of the House of Representatives and followed by thousands of people, the hearse bearing the remains of "Big Tim" Sullivan was driven through the old Bowery, in New York, on Monday, on its way to St. Patrick's Cathedral, on Mott street.

The casket was covered with a floral blanket of 2,000 roses and 2,000 chrysanthemums. Scores of business houses and humble dwellings—and even the dime-bunk houses—were draped in mourning, and in the "movie" theatres pictures of the dead leader were flashed on the screen with the unvarying sentiment—"We mourn our loss."

To Honor Four Hundredth Anniversary.

The General Council of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, held in Toledo, Ohio, adopted a resolution to raise two million dollars for the ministers' pension fund and missionary work. The jubilee committee of the council will co-operate with other general Lutheran bodies in this country to unite in making a total fund of ten million dollars. This fund is in honor of the celebration in 1917 of the four hundredth anniversary of the Reformation.

IT may be a mistake of the publisher in thinking he has been done a favor, but as a rule whenever a newspaper loses one subscriber on account of pique there are usually two or three others gained for the very reason that the one feels aggrieved.

The broad-minded and intelligent subscriber will recognize the fact that it is only the negative quality in life that never crosses the feelings of anybody.—Jennings (La.) Herald.

DECISIONS OF SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES AS TO NEWSPAPER SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Few readers of newspapers fully and clearly understand the laws governing subscriptions. Following are the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States on the subject:

Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.

If subscribers order a discontinuance of their periodicals the publisher may continue to send them until all dues are paid.

If the subscriber refuses to take the periodical from the postoffice to which they are directed, he is responsible until he has settled his bill and ordered the paper discontinued.

If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, the subscriber is held responsible.

The courts have held that refusing to take periodicals from the postoffice, or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intention to defraud.

If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it and the subscriber will be responsible until express notice with payment of all arrearages is sent to the publisher.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Lingamore Hills and the Catoc-tin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

CHARLES. H. BAUGHMAN.

A pall of heartfelt grief lowered upon the City of Frederick when it became known that death had claimed Charles H. Baughman, one of Frederick's most prominent and beloved citizens. And well it might, for there was not a more popular man in the county than Mr. Baughman or one better known than he. Modest, unassuming, yet genial and kindly, Charles Baughman drew to him and by his personal magnetism held the respect and love of hosts of true friends whose grief at their loss is truly genuine.

He was a man of strong convictions, but he possessed that quality of broad charity that made him tolerant of others' fidelity to theirs. His was the helping hand, and his heart ever beat in unison with the hearts of those who mourned. Nor did he withhold the word of sympathy where sympathy was needed, and many a load on the shoulders of those who struggled against odds, was made the lighter because of his interest and his thoughtfulness.

As editor of The Citizen, Mr. Baughman ever expounded the views of Democracy—an uncompromising Democracy. But he did it without resort to personalities or invective. His journal, the Democratic organ of Frederick county, expressed his own belief, and, by direct argument, sought to convince rather than combat.

In the death of Charles H. Baughman, Frederick City loses a citizen it can ill afford to part with, and the Democracy of the county and the State a noted factor in fair politics.

SPEAK THE GOOD WORD.

Two men from a certain town—they were not traveling together—happened to be at their county-seat on the same day and to be questioned separately by the same man as to how things were "at home." The one replied apologetically, "Oh, things are about the same; there's nothing doing—there never is." The other, with an expression betokening pride in the place he lived, unhesitatingly responded: "We can't complain about anything up our way; our people are making a living, some improvement is going on all the time; everybody seems to be busy."

The one, to do him justice, was not a chronic groucher or a calamity howler; he was just a type of individual who, living entirely to himself and for himself, took no interest in the things that interested others, had no public spirit, and was not an observer of what was going on about him. Moreover, he was that type of person unwilling to be thought uncivilized and consequently averse to being credited with any participation in the affairs of a small place.

Neither was the other—and thank Heaven for the many like him—a perfunctory booster, or a magnifier of little things. He was just an honest, an interested, unselfish, broad-minded citizen—proud of his town and its people and therefore willing and ready, on all occasions, to speak the good word for both.

Busy people, in a county-seat or anywhere else, are always glad to hear the "good word" from the smaller town; they always welcome the one who has it to say. They admire the spirit of pride that actuates its utterance, and they know full well that the cheery tone and the confident manner in which the "good word" is spoken betokens more of truth as to actual conditions than the pessimistic report.

No matter where you go, speak well of your town and its people. Cultivate the habit. It will benefit your town, and whatever helps your town helps you.

MAY MR. BUSH BE CORRECT.

Referring to B. F. Bush, formerly president of the W. M. Railroad, the Baltimore American said:

"A few evenings ago over the walnuts and the wine, he told some western business men that the days of the public be damned in railroading are past in this country, nevermore to return.

In his talk he owned up that the past theories of handling big railroad systems have not always manifested that regard for the rights and welfare of the public which the public has a right to expect from service corporations which are to an extent monopolies."

Let us hope that Mr. Bush is correct, and that the W. M. (Worst Managed) Railway, over which he once ruled, is included in his statement. For several years the W. M. has damned the public with a big D. The public, it must also be confessed, has incessantly damned the W. M., and in true piratical style, but not without warrant. Yet, if Mr. Bush's confession also embraces the feelings of the present W. M. management (?), why, then,—well, let us await developments.

THE WORLD'S SERIES.

The baseball season's near its close, and it has been a daisy—and all the fans and followers of this great game are crazy. They're doping out the chances of the only baseball team, and half the time when reading up the dope they're in a dream. And many "wise ones" loiter 'round to see how things will go, their only pleasure being to exclaim, "I told you so." The "bookies" they are on the job, much "kale" is on the town, and everybody's looking out to get the money down. And soon the fans will rubber-neck to see the final score; they'll stand around and view the boards for fifteen blocks or more. And when the games are over all the sore-heads they will squeal lots of stuff about a "frame up" with the umpire in the deal.

The New York Times says "The Democratic party has not in the past had much inclination to meet the needs of the army." It hasn't had a chance to meet anything but defeat for a number of years—until Wilson got in.

Now comes a man who writes about "Kentucky's drinking water"—just as if they had such a commodity in Kentucky.

Support the Ticket.

The Democrats interested in the selection of men to represent the Democratic party by a referendum vote decided that the successful men in the primary should represent the party—it is now incumbent upon the Democratic party, as a party, to stand behind the men nominated. The time to discuss and decide on their merits or virtues, shortcomings or incapacity, was before last Monday—the time to object to any one man or set of men was before the primary. The vote of each nominee shows that a majority of Democrats, interested in the county's welfare, recommended these men.—Democrat and Journal.

A Word About Schools.

It is a mistake to teach children a little of everything and nothing thoroughly. About all education can do for a man or boy is to set him to thinking for himself. The germ of originality in the individual needs cultivation, needs stimulant. The head crammed with other people's ideas has little room for its own thought. Many a boy is so thoroughly schooled that the common sense, the will power, the self-reliant manhood is driven out of him. A load of facts with no education in their use is of little value. The most successful business men in the cities are those whose scanty education embraced a very thorough knowledge of simple rules and studies, but whose necessities have since demanded vigorous thought, incessant industry and the best use of every resource of mind and body.—Havre de Grace Republican.

If it were possible to secure the Associated Press service for another paper in Baltimore, the Sun would unquestionably have a live Democratic competitor, as Mr. Grasty stands in anything but a loving relation to the old-liners. As we understand the situation the present papers in the field have a monopoly of the telegraphic news service, without which a new paper could not place itself in the competing class with general readers.—Carroll Record.

An Ohio judge suggests that women should furnish samples of their cooking when applying for marriage licenses. Good idea. And let the prospective groom present a bank book showing a substantial deposit or a certificate from a trustworthy source that he is industrious and has remunerative employment.—Valley Register.

The sort of political hatred that some men are regularly accorded, fits the calibre of little guns very nicely.—Carroll Record.

"OYSTERS IN EVERY STYLE."

There is no greater delicacy than a properly prepared oyster, and the recipes given below will appeal to all who enjoy this succulent bivalve.

Scalloped Oysters.

This is a delicious supper or lunch dish when prepared according to this old New England recipe. Drain the liquor from a quart of salt oysters. Strain and reserve the liquor. Free the oysters from bits of shell and grit. Crush a pound of Boston crackers, or fresh soda crackers, not too fine. Butter a good-sized pudding or baking dish and put in a layer of crackers, then a layer of oysters, seasoning of salt, pepper, bits of butter, and bits of lemon (many omit the lemon); then put in another layer of crackers, oysters, and so on, until all the oysters are in. Pour the oyster liquor over the whole, add a cup of sweet milk, and let stand a few minutes to soften crumbs; then bake in moderate oven for about forty minutes.

Oysters au Gratin.

This is sometimes called scalloped oysters. Procure about four dozen good-sized oysters. Drain off the juice and strain it. Remove every particle of shell from the oysters. Put a layer of oysters in a well-buttered baking dish, sprinkle lightly with a little seasoning a la creole. That is three sprigs of parsley, a sprig of thyme, small bay leaf, small blade of mace, and four whole cloves chopped together very fine; cover with a half-inch-thick layer of buttered bread crumbs, season with little salt and pepper. Add another layer of seasoned oysters, another layer of bread crumbs, and so continue until the oysters are all in. Mix half a cup of the oyster liquor with half a cup of rich cream and milk, and pour over the oysters and cover with a layer of the buttered crumbs. Bake a nice brown in a quick oven about fifteen or twenty minutes.

Bachelor's Banquet Oysters.

Take the tender centers of four stalks of celery; chop fine and cook thoroughly in fresh butter; then add a cup of rich cream, seasoning of salt and pepper and paprika. Then add a dozen freshly opened Rockaways, a glass of old Madeira, and serve as soon as steaming hot.

Broiled Oysters with Celery Sauce.

Take a dozen large Shrewsbury's, roll lightly in bread crumbs, and place on a fine wire oyster broiler; baste with butter, and brown lightly over a clear hot fire. Season thoroughly and serve on toast with celery sauce.

Celery Sauce.

Boil the celery until tender, then make a cream sauce with stock and the celery water, or use the strained oyster liquor for the stock. Season to taste with salt and pepper, a dash of nutmeg, a little lemon juice. Add the well-beaten yolks of two eggs. You may also use the white leaves of the celery, but these should be strained from the stock before sauce is made.

Baked Oysters and Spaghetti.

Break a quarter of a pound of spaghetti into small pieces and boil in plenty of salted water for twenty-five minutes or until tender. Drain and blanch. Butter a baking dish and put in a layer of spaghetti, then a layer of oysters. Season with salt and pepper. Continue until all the spaghetti is in, having the last layer of the spaghetti. Pour a cup of cream sauce over it, cover the top with bread crumbs moistened with butter or mixed with a little grated cheese. Bake in a quick oven for fifteen minutes.

Maryland Pepper Roast.

Pick over a dozen large oysters, freeing from shell and grit; strain and measure the oyster liquor; there should be a quarter of a pint or half a cupful. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a flat baking dish, earthenware or aluminum, and when it melts over the pan put in two tablespoonfuls chopped green or sweet red pepper, a tablespoonful tomato catsup, level teaspoonful salt and dash of celery salt. Place in a hot oven to cook until the edges or gills of the oysters curl. Have buttered toast arranged on a platter and pour the mixture over this, and serve very hot.

Oysters a la Newburg.

Drain the liquor from twenty-five oysters and pour over them a cup of cold water. Put the liquor over the fire, bring to a boil and skim; add the oysters and cook until the gills curl; then strain. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, but do not brown. Stir into it a tablespoonful of flour and half a cup of cream mixed with the hard-boiled yolks of four eggs. Stir until it begins to thicken, then add the oysters cut in three or four pieces; season to taste with salt, a pinch of mace, dash of cayenne, and add four tablespoonfuls of sherry.

CURRENT COMMENT FROM LEADING JOURNALS.

English Railroad Wrecks and Ours.

There was a tragic coincidence that on the day of the New Haven disaster a similar railroad wreck, attended by great loss of life, occurred in England. This, too, was a rear-end collision, one train which had been spaced fourteen minutes behind another, crashing into the latter in the dark hours before the dawn.

The London Newspapers have devoted columns to explaining the cause of the accident and the moral of all these accounts is that the best precautions are valueless against inattention. The engineer of the second express ran by a block signal that had been set for the first train, but which, for lack of steam power, had become stalled temporarily. There has been negligence somewhere. And a lesson to be drawn from this wreck is that coaches should be lighted by electricity only instead of by gas, for the wreck caught fire, many of the dead clearly being victims of the flames.

But they have wooden cars in England, just as they had on the New Haven road. Had the Pennsylvania-St. Louis flyer, which was ditched by a spreading rail this week, been composed of such coaches, the fatality might have been very great, for it has been ascertained that the engineer was speeding his heavy train at the rate of eighty miles an hour. He was fifty minutes late and endeavoring "to make up time."

If this be true and the Pennsylvania Railroad—the finest equipped road run by intelligent, well-disciplined men—actually hazarded the life of its many patrons by allowing such high speed, the engineer certainly was remiss to the point of carelessness.

Is it a wonder that rails give away when a heavy train, weighing hundreds of tons, thunders over them at such speed?—Washington Herald.

Railroad Car Service.

As the population of the country grows from decade to decade, the business of the country increases at least in proportion, and one of the greatest drafts made by business is for transportation. As the interior waterways have gone out of use, the burden falls on the railroads. While it is the policy of the government, in harmony with the disposition of the people, to keep down the railroads with an iron hand, there should be some regard shown for the necessities of business by asking the railroads to meet those necessities. There has been little railroad expansion in recent years and the car service of the roads has been pushed to the utmost and made to feel its lack of equipment. According to records on the subject of the railroad car supply, at the beginning of 1913 there was a surplus of 30,000, which fell to 20,000, rose to 55,000, dropped to 45,000 and rose again to 65,000, which was the June 15 position. Now in September, the influence of the movement of crops is being felt, and the line is declining toward its usual November depression. Recently published figures show that the net surplus of cars has declined about 10,000 cars from the June figures. The subject of the car service is . . . of the greatest economic importance to our commerce and industries. According to the reports, during the 16 years, from 1895 to 1910, inclusive, the total supply of cars in the United States increased from 1,200,000 to over 2,100,000, which indicates that by this time there must have been an increase of fully 100 per cent, and this in itself speaks the need for the roads to keep pace with the demands made upon them.—New Orleans Picayune.

Skilled Men are in Constant Demand.

When the readiness with which men graduated from the technical schools find employment is considered, an explanation is supplied for the constant and great increase in demand for admission to schools of the technical sort.

An instance is that of the class graduated this year from Thayer school of engineering at Dartmouth College, every member of which was actively engaged in professional work within a fortnight of graduation. There are as many other examples as there are engineering schools to furnish them, possibly not all of them as marked as this, but all giving convincing proof that the special schools are wisely chosen by young men who are looking for profitable and certain occupation.

Any conclusion that the technological schools were the ones to be chosen in all cases would be beyond the evidence that even the entrance of their graduates into employment would seem to give. The broader and sounder one is that men of actual skill are not lacking in prospect of occupation. Not alone in the trades but in the professions, generally speaking, the opportunity is seldom denied the well-prepared men. It may be that a contributing factor in the success of graduates from the trade schools in finding their places waiting is that the training here is thorough. None pass the exactions of their courses without acquiring a good equipment. Not alone the extension of the field through development of new activities but the readiness with which the graduates can fit into it has to do with the result.

Truer now than ever before is it that

Timothy Sullivan.

Humane feeling prompts an obvious word of regret for the sad and miserable end of the career of a politician until recently powerful and rich. In the history of our local politics few men have exerted a stronger influence over the minds of large numbers of their neighbors than Timothy D. Sullivan. In the view of many of his constituents Sullivan was a great man, who sometimes gave them food, drink, and clothes, who had always a cheering word for the humblest of them. Though he despised no means, however contemptible, that would give him political power and a chance to enrich his coffers, there is no doubt that he was the real choice of a majority of voters in his district when he ran for the State Senate of the National Congress. At Albany he had been a power for many years, and he held his power firmly until lately.

But his career ended in poverty, with painful disease and weakened mental faculties. He was struck by a railroad train while aimlessly wandering about in Westchester, and his body lay for nearly a fortnight in the Morgue unrecognized. A few months ago he was cheered wherever he went; dead, his neglected body waited for identification by a chance policeman. Surely the climax of his career will not convince any young man that the Sullivan kind of politics leads to earthly glory.

It is consoling to think that there will never be another district leader of this type who can wield influence in State as well as local politics, and even further the interests of his clan and its following at Washington. "Graft" will not be exterminated quickly but the audacious and domineering grafter of the Sullivan type has passed into history. He lived according to his lights. He derived his idea of politics from his teachers, and proved so apt a pupil that he bettered his instructions. Every man has his good points. Sullivan was true to his convictions and to his friends.—New York Times.

Mrs. Pankhurst.

We have felt from the first that Mrs. Pankhurst would not be molested by the immigration officers on her arrival in this country next month. The phrase "moral turpitude" covers a great deal, to be sure; smashing windows, destroying the public's mails, knocking the hats of Cabinet Ministers over their eyes, inciting street disturbances, savor of "moral turpitude," nor are all the offenses of this troublesome woman and her silly or vicious followers justly to be regarded as "political."

Property of private citizens who have no views whatever in regard to woman suffrage has been burned by the incendiary militants; while Mrs. Pankhurst has publicly proclaimed her responsibility for all crimes of violence committed in the name of the cause.

Nevertheless, we are inclined to believe that the Federal Government will find a way to avoid needless advertisement of Mrs. Pankhurst's arrival. It is best to ignore her, unless she commits some crime, when she can be locked up and left to "hunger strike" to her heart's content. There is no militant suffragism here, and the sensible women in the suffrage party deplore Mrs. Pankhurst's tactics. Any attempt to put her in the light of a martyr for her cause would be mistaken. She is, after all, an elderly woman, and she can do no harm without a riotous following. As for her talk, it is no wilder or sillier than we hear in this country every day or so, frequently from personages in high place. It does not hurt.—New York Times.

The Songs of To-day.

Where is the present day "popular song" that may be compared with Annie Laurie, or My Old Kentucky Home, or Sally in our Aale! Nay, where is the present day popular song that has more than an off chance of being remembered or sung a single year hence, let alone remaining a favorite for a generation.

Nowhere. In songs as in so many other matters, the one desire just at present is to get the applause—and dollars—of the moment. If a "bearcat" dance or a sloppy sentimental ballad attracts attention to itself and income to its inventor, nothing more is asked or expected. So of "cubist art," which is merely lunacy on canvas; so of tenderloin plays. The one thing required is not that they shall be true, or beautiful, or thoughtful, or enduring; but that they shall make money.

It is strange that an age like the present, which has so many superb achievements to its credit, and which is more deeply imbued with the sense of human brotherhood than any preceding time in history, should have come to this sorry pass in matters of art and recreation.

DEATH OF J. FRANK ELINE

Electrician of Baltimore, Well Known in Emmitsburg, Killed by Train.

J. Frank Eline, 52 years old, 225 East Lafayette avenue, Baltimore, was instantly killed Saturday night, when the automobile in which he and three companions were returning to Baltimore was struck by a Western Maryland train at Smyser's Crossing, near York, Pa.

In the car at the time of the accident were Frank D. Rogers, Frank L. Habright, also of Baltimore, and Harry Gerwig and Thomas Grimes, of Pine Orchard, Ellicott City. These escaped injury.

Describing the accident, Mr. Rogers said:

"There was an old sign at the crossing," he said, "denoting that it was a train crossing and an old bell was attached. The sign was obscured from view by a telegraph pole and was not more than three feet from the track. There were no lights there and the bell did not work. After the accident I commented on the fact that I had heard no sound denoting the approach of the train and the bell was tested. It would not ring. The automobile was being run not faster than 15 miles an hour and had there been any signals the accident would have been averted."

Rogers drove the car to Pine Orchard, Ellicott City, last Friday and met Mr. Eline. They then began a trip to Frederick, Harper's Ferry, Charles Town, Antietam and other points in Maryland and Virginia and were concluding the trip at the time of the accident.

Mr. Eline was president of the Electrical Commission, appointed by Mayor Preston, and had been in the electrical supply business for many years at 208 East Baltimore street, Baltimore, under the name of the J. Frank Eline Company. Mr. Eline was well known in Emmitsburg, having installed many electrical devices at Mt. St. Mary's College. He had charge of the illumination at the memorable centennial celebration in 1908.

In the year 1880 he is said to have installed the first incandescent electric light in New York. The lights were placed in the window of a drug store on Broadway. The bulbs cost $6 apiece.

He was a pioneer in electrical stage effects, his 24 years in that profession giving him the advantage over other electricians in that work. He was associated 24 years with Lewis Morrison, the actor, and in 1900 was commissioned by him to design the electrical effects for several new operas.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning from his home, 225 East Lafayette avenue. Services were conducted by Rev. B. J. Bradley, D.D., of Mt. St. Mary's College, and Father Ennis of St. Ignatius' Catholic Church, at the church. Burial was in the new Catholic Cemetery. The pallbearers were C. R. Klosterman, John Jacobs, J. Albert Cassidy, W. J. Cardell, Harry Hanaly, and Daniel Garnies. At the cemetery after a short service by Father Ennis and Dr. Bradley, services were held by the Baltimore Lodge of Elks. Mr. Thomas F. McNulty sang "Flee As a Bird" and "Our Absent Brother." The funeral was attended by delegations from the Elks, Knights of Columbus and Theatrical Association.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE-ACADEMY

Valley Echoes

The outlook for the Fall and Winter session at St. Joseph's College and Academy is very encouraging.

Nearly all the pupils of last year have returned, and a number of new ones have registered.

Among the new students are some from Havana, Cuba; New Orleans, La.; Louisville, Ky.; Roanoke, Leesburg and Lynchburg, Va.; Woonsocket, R. I.; Washington, D. C.; Charlotte, N. C.; Cannonsburg and Pittsburgh, Pa.; Cumberland and Westernport, Md.

The already large faculty has been supplemented by several very capable instructors.

In his testimony before the arbitration commission Friday A. B. Garretson, of the Railway Conductors' Union, stated that an employee was killed every hour and seven minutes of the day.

Wu Ting-fang, who as Minister from China to the United States was one of the most popular diplomats at Washington, is now a promoter of athletics among his countrymen.

During the past vacation the buildings underwent a complete renovation. Many improvements were made and when the pupils returned they were delighted with what had been done for their comfort and pleasure.

The Art Department has been removed to more commodious quarters and a gymnasium has been provided in a more desirable location.

The grounds at St. Joseph's, always beautiful and immaculately kept, are most attractive just at this season of the year.

Forty Hours Devotion will commence on Sunday, September 21st and will close with Solemn High Mass the following Tuesday.

Warning to postmasters for greater care in handling parcel post packages was issued by Alexander M. Dockery, third assistant postmaster general. Many complaints were received of careless handling.

On her last trip over, the Imperator, had 5,019 passengers, the largest number of persons ever on board a single ship.

A special meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Emmitsburg was held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Annan, Saturday afternoon, Sept. 13, 1913. No Discord in Republican Convention.

Republicans, augmented by those Bull Moosers who joined in the amalgamation movement, yesterday held their State convention at the Auditorium Theatre, Baltimore, and formally adopted the platform agreed upon by the joint committee of thirty, together with a few additions desired by the leaders.

The attendance at the convention was fair, and there was a general spirit that the party's outlook was encouraging. Few of those present had hope that victory could be won this fall, but they felt that the distinct Bull Moose flavor of the platform ought to bring back to the fold a considerable number of the rank and file who left last fall and thereby establish a foundation for future fights.

At the opening of the school Bishop Corrigan, of Baltimore, visited the various class rooms and blessed the scholars. Of the entire enrollment over sixty are in the primary department.

A new rule has been adopted whereby two grades, instead of three, are assigned to each class room.

CHAS. H. BAUGHMAN

Died Suddenly Yesterday Morning

EDITOR OF FREDERICK CITIZEN

Death Due to Heart Failure.—Prominent Socially and Politically.—

Brother of Late Gen. L. Victor Baughman.

Charles H. Baughman, brother of the late Gen. L. Victor Baughman, died suddenly early yesterday (Thursday) morning, at his home in Frederick of angino pectoris, at the age of 62 years.

Mr. Baughman was a life-long resident of Frederick and was widely known in the political life of the State. As a citizen and editor of one of the oldest newspapers in the county, The Citizen, he occupied the most prominent position in the social, business and civic life in his community.

Mr. Baughman's illness first manifested itself about a year ago. He seemed to recover at that time and resumed an active interest in his affairs. About three weeks ago the old malady reappeared and at times his condition was serious. The night before his death, in company with Mrs. Baughman, he took a walk, returning about 10 o'clock. About four hours later his wife and son, C. Francis Baughman, found him in great distress and beyond aid.

For years Mr. Baughman has been prominent in State and county politics. While he never held public office, he has given his party yeoman service in Western Maryland. At the last primary election he was elected a member of the State Central Committee by a large majority, notwithstanding that owing to poor health he was unable to make a canvass.

He was personally known by nearly every voter in the county, and while staunch in Democratic doctrine in politics, in social life he was a delightful and generous host. He was a gentleman of the old school and his manner attracted hosts of friends.

Besides his wife and one son, he is survived by one brother, J. William Baughman, of Norfolk, and two sisters, Mrs. Carlos DeGarmendia, of Nymphenberg, Germany, and Miss Louise Baughman.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from St. John's church, Frederick. The interment will be in the Catholic cemetery.

The Johns Hopkins University

State Scholarships in Engineering Course.

Applications for scholarships in the Department of Engineering, established in The Johns Hopkins University under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland Chapter 90, 1912 should now be made.

Entrance examinations for all students will be held in McCoy Hall, the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore on Sept. 30th, Oct. 2nd, 1913, beginning at 9 A. M.

If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship a competitive examination will be held at the University immediately following the examinations for entrance.

In addition to certain collegiate scholarships the Act provides for 6 scholarships at large and 102 scholarships, each for one year, to be apportioned among the Counties and Legislative Districts of Baltimore City, the same number of awards so far as possible to be made each year. The undergraduate courses in Engineering will extend through four years and it has been determined to offer 35 of the scholarships in the year 1913-14. Allegany, Baltimore, Frederick and Washington Counties and the four Legislative Districts of Baltimore City will each be entitled to two scholarships, and each of the other Counties to one scholarship in October 1913. The six Scholarships at large may also be awarded at that time.

Applicants for scholarships should address the Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University for the blank forms of application and for further information as to the examinations and the award of scholarships. sep19-2ts

Buying Versus Observing.

To buy wisely has its true satisfaction, but just "buying" seems to have irresistible attraction for the human mind. We were spending a golden hour at the top of a great headland.
 Far below the sea showed opal color and violet light. The clay of the cliff ranged in tone from black, through red, blue and yellow, to a creamy white; patches of sweet fern and delicate grasses grew in the crannies, glowing green, giving accent and harmony to the whole. Far below, the line of the golden beach, the white curl of the surf, were like poetry and music, and yet among the people who journeyed that day to enjoy a fair place only a few had time to go out on the cliffs and revel in color and beauty.
 because at a neat little stall there was a collection of perishable souvenirs for sale, and so great was the demand for them that the buyers had no time to feast their eyes elsewhere—a proof that purchasing is more interesting to the majority than observing.—Elizabeth C. Billings in Atlantic Monthly.

Daredevil Photography.

A naval photographer gets many duckings and, after a time, takes them as a matter of course. Being thrown into the sea isn't considered by him at all a serious event. It is during battleship practice that he encounters grave dangers, for much of the work done at this time is from the tops of the fighting masts, which are at an elevation of 120 feet above the sea.
 During different practices I have taken my position in these masts in order to get detailed pictures. Once in these basket-like tops the question is how to "stick." The gunfire photographs itself. I suppose you wonder what I mean, but it is just this: Every time
 the big twelve inch guns fire the awful concussion they cause invariably gives the snap to the shutter of the camera, and the exposure is made.—

Odd Bankruptcy Proceedings.

They had a peculiar way of going into bankruptcy among the Marawaris in India, now unhappily giving way to the less picturesque method of the white man. When a man could not pay his bills he would summon his creditors. They were ushered into a room in which the thakur, or household god, was enshrined, but covered up with a cloth and with the face turned to the wall in order that it might not witness the scene that was to follow. The insolvent would then,
 in garb of mourning, lie on the floor,
 presenting his back to his creditors,
 who on a given signal would fall on him with shoes and slippers and belabor him till their wrath was exhausted. The beating finished, honor was declared to be satisfied all around.—

Quaint Signs In Peru.

An Indian custom which adds a picturesque touch to the roadides between Cuzco and Machu Picchu, in Peru, is the presence of quaint signs indicating what is for sale in the Indian huts. A small bunch of wheat or barley tied on the end of a pole and stuck out in front of the hut indicates that there is chicha (a native corn beer for sale within. A bunch of flowers on the end of a pole also has the same significance. A green wreath means that there is bread for sale, while a piece of white cloth or white paper waving in the breeze indicates that the wayfarer may here purchase aguardiente, a powerful white rum made of cane juice and containing a large percentage of raw alcohol.—Argonaut.

"Galley West."

The phrase "he knocked everything galley west" is credited to the United States by Webster's Dictionary. It has really a far wider extent, and there is no reason to credit it to this or any other solid land. It had its beginning in sailor English, essentially a migratory dialect of extent as wide as the unending sea. Galley west, or, in its full form, galley west and crooked, means higgledy piggledy, all in confusion. It has the same sense of dis-ordered direction as appears in other locations in sailor English, such as "Paddy's hurricane—straight up and down the mast"—and "Tox Cox's traverse—twice around the scuttle butt and once around the mast."—St. Louis Times.

Quite Willing.

Kirby Stone—I hate to mention it,
 dear, but I must tell you that business has been awfully poor lately. If you could economize a little in dresses—
 wear something plainer—Mrs. Stone—Certainly, dear! I shall order some plainer dresses tomorrow.—

His Protest.

The Dentist—Let me see! I'll have to treat four teeth—eight teeth—eight-teen teeth—
 Mr. Pildo—Hold on! Four teeth, eight teeth, eighteen teeth! What do you think I am—a comb?—London Telegraph.

His Ignorance.

"I don't suppose you know what becomes of all the pins?"
 "I should say not. I don't even know what becomes of all the battleships."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Hard Loser.

"Whatever became of that woman who was married on a bet?"
 "She is now giving her time to a crusade against gambling."—Judge.

DON'T TAKE CHANCES.
BUY GOODS
OF KNOWN
QUALITY

By HOLLAND.

HISTORY is full of warnings about buying a pig in a poke. This is only another way of saying that one should buy articles of known merit—articles that will bear inspection.

The manufacturer who advertises his goods thereby shows his confidence in them.
 He would not spend money to tell of their merits unless they had merits. His advertisement is an invitation to you to test his sincerity by testing his goods.

You take no chances in purchasing goods advertised in this paper. The advertisement is a guarantee of quality. Insist on having the genuine articles. Something said to be "just as good" is never so good. Get the genuine—the kind that is advertised.

Mongolian Lamas.

Every third man in Mongolia is a lama. Some live in tents with and on their relatives, while others live in the temples. The temple lamas are of the lower type. They are coarse and filthy and much inferior both morally and physically to the tent lamas. They are not unlike those sometimes seen by travelers in the Lama temple at Peking, China. The lamas living in tents among the people are of a better class and are much respected and looked up to all over Mongolia. Some, which consists of the two temples and their outbuildings, forms one of the largest and most important lamaseries in outer Mongolia. There are about 2,000 lamas living here, some quite young, as Sume is an important theological school. This lamaserie or monastery is a town in itself and very interesting. Lamas may be seen here of all ages and degrees.
 On the tops and corners of the temples are prayer wheels covered with gold leaf. These contain long prayers written on rolls of script, and the wheels revolve in the wind.—National Geographic Magazine.

Effect of an Explosion.

It seems incredible that an explosion could be of such force as to cause an ordinary steel rail to wrap itself twice round the trunk of a large tree, yet there was just such a result from the discharge of gelignite at Nainaimo, B.
 C. Twelve workmen lost their lives by this explosion. The rail was lying on the ground fully thirty feet from the spot at which the explosion occurred, yet it was lifted into the air, sent in the direction of the tree and twisted round the trunk thereof, just as if it had been a piece of piano wire. It was so tightly wrapped about the trunk that it cut deeply into the green wood and caused great splinters to start out on all sides. The explosive responsible for this unique occurrence is one of the most powerful preparations known, composed of nitroglycerin, nitrocotton, sodium nitrate, sodium carbonate and wood pulp.—St. Louis Republic.

Involuntary Fasting.

A remarkable feat of involuntary fasting was performed twelve years ago by a corporal in a regiment of French colonial infantry. On his way to work one morning a man heard cries proceeding from a disused mine near Brest. At the bottom of an excavation nearly 100 feet deep Corporal Andre Desrats was found in so weak
 a condition that he could scarcely articulate a word. When he recovered his rescuers learned that after accidentally falling into the mine Desrats had been imprisoned for twenty-eight days without anything to eat or drink.
 But a pig can beat a man. Dr. W. B.
 Carpenter in his "Manual of Physiology" records that a pig weighing 160 pounds was entombed by the fall of a portion of the chalk cliffs at Dover.
 It was dug out 160 days later and found to be still alive, but reduced in weight to forty pounds.—London Mail.

Smallest Deer In the World.

The "mousedeer" of India and Africa is the chevrotin, one of the smallest hoofed animals. It stands less than twelve inches in height at the shoulder.
 The prevailing color of the fur is brown, finely speckled with yellow.
 The spots are large and sometimes run into each other and form stripes. The underparts of the body are white. It possesses the peculiar habit of walking on the tips of its hoofs. This lends a stiffness to the legs which has gained for the chevrotin the reputation of having no knee joints. It has no horns or antlers. But, as in the case of the musk deer, the male is provided with large canine teeth or tusks in the upper jaw. It is of exceedingly timid disposition and lies hidden in the jungle throughout the day and only ventures to feed in the early morning and after dusk in the evening.

Quality of Challenge Flour Appreciated

During the past year the cost of manufacturing Spring Wheat Flours has been very much less than that of CHALLENGE FLOUR, due to the price of Spring Wheat being less than Winter wheat. This has resulted in many flours being introduced to housekeepers as being

Just as Good as Challenge Flour.

In spite of these conditions the sales of Challenge Flour have been the largest ever experienced during a like period, proving that the quality of Challenge is appreciated. We are making Challenge Flour today as we have always made it
