There Are No Contests In The Republican Camps

DEMOCRATIC FIGHT FOR SENATE

Frederick County Has Been Put to a Heavy Expense on Account of The New Registration of All Voters—New Books are Costly.

The closing of the primary lists and the meeting of the Republican State Central Committee last Wednesday, made the primary line-up for the various offices complete.

There is no contest anywhere in the Republican ranks. In the First and Second Congressional district the nominations have gone begging. It may be that, as suggested at the meeting of the Central Committee, the committee, in each district will name a candidate.

In the Third district the Republican candidate for Congress is John A. Janetzke, Sr.; in the Fourth Thomas T. Hammond; in the Fifth, Sydney E. Mudd, and in the Sixth, Senator Frederick N. Zihlman. In the two latter districts there were fights, but Oliver Metzgerott, who opposed Mudd, and Brainerd H. Warner, Jr., who opposed Zihlman, withdrew a few days ago.

There is a contest in the Democratic ranks for the Senatorial nomination, Senator John Walter Smith and Isaac Lobe Straus being the opponents. There are also contests for the Democratic Congressional nominations in the First and Fifth districts.

In the First the candidates are State Senator Jesse D. Price, of Wicomico; James T. Bright, of Queen Anne's, and Albert W. Sisk, of Caroline. Price has the support of the Smith organization on the Shore, speaking generally. There have been some defections, mostly in favor of Sisk.

In the Fifth district Congressman Frank O. Smith, of Calvert and Richard A. Johnson, of Howard, are opposing candidates. Smith has strong support in his own county and in Charles, with friends in other counties and the city wards. Johnson, however, has the organization with him except in the two counties mentioned.

In the Second, Third, Fourth and Sixth districts Congressman Talbott, Coady, Linthicum and Lewis, respectively, have no opposition for renomination in the Democratic primary.

The Bull Moosers will not enter the primary. They expect to hold their State convention in Baltimore about September 25. On September 15 a large party of the leaders will go to New York to see Theodore Roosevelt. After they have conferred with him they purpose to come home and lay out their lines in accordance with his general plans. They hope to have him come in to the State during the fight.

The primary will be held on September 15. On September 24 the Democratic State Convention will meet on September 29 the Republican Convention. These conventions will ratify the Senatorial nominations and frame platforms. The new general registration will be held in the counties on September 22 and 23 and October 6 and 7, with October 13 as revision day.

Approximately $2500 will be required to be expended by Frederick county this fall for the registration of the voters of the county.

The indications are that much more than this will be spent for election, that all told the expense to the country and to the parties at the close of the election will be between $15,000 and $20,000.

There are in Frederick county 41 precincts and at each place two registers will sit at $3 per day for five days. In addition one register will be paid $3 for coming to Frederick for the registration books and also a like amount for bringing the books to Frederick at the conclusion of the registration. A rental of $1 per day for a room is paid in the county, and $2 per day in Frederick. There are 33 registration places in the country and eight in Frederick. In addition there will be one deputy sheriff at each registration place on the days of sittings.

Added to this cost, must be new registration books. Only a few years ago Frederick county purchased new books and had the names of the voters transcribed at a heavy cost. These books would have been sufficient to have met the needs of the new registration and have lasted for some years, but the attorney general, in a letter to the Frederick County Supervisors, stated that new books must be secured, and it is estimated that they will cost about $300.

Four persons were prostrated by the heat in Baltimore.

NEARLY READY FOR BOOSTER WEEK

Emmitsburg's Big Festival, September 14, 15 and 16, Promises To Be The Greatest Event In The History Of The Town.—The Monster Parade.

BURGESS MAKES APPEAL.

"I am heartily in favor of Booster Week. I believe that affairs of this kind are of great benefit to communities like ours, and I appeal to the people of Emmitsburg and Emmitsburg district to co-operate and make this occasion a most successful one.

"Every house in town should be decorated and I appeal to all to make liberal use of flags and bunting, and to have it displayed not later than Friday, September 11th.

"JOHN A. W. MATTHEWS, 'Burgess.'"

Ten days from today the Booster Week celebration to which everybody has been looking forward, will begin. It is being advertised far and wide and the greatest interest is being manifested in what should prove one of the biggest events in the history of Emmitsburg.

The Official Programme.

The official programme has been published—a programme that offers entertainment for everybody, a programme containing educational, social and musical features decidedly above the average. Each day's amusements occupy a full day and the price of admission is practically nominal. No one living within a radius of ten miles from Emmitsburg can well afford to miss this rare opportunity for pleasure and profit.

A Town and District Affair.

Booster Week is but another name for Chautauqua under the auspices of the people of the entire town and district. EVERYBODY is included; no one is excluded. This cannot be over-emphasized. There is no valid reason, therefore, why anyone should refrain from taking an active part—in helping to make Booster Week an eminent success.

Its Origin.

Booster Weeks have been held in many towns. Similar celebrations are being held in towns in this county at this very moment. The opportunity was presented to Emmitsburg and a handful of men, believing that many advantages would be derived from a celebration of this kind, guaranteed a sum sufficient to bring these instructive entertainments here. That's all there is to this feature.

Co-operation.

Having made Booster Week possible—having provided the events that should be of interest to all—it is only natural to expect that EVERYBODY will patronize the many attractions, and liberally.

Emmitsburg has never done anything "by halves." This town has the reputation, well deserved, of doing things right when it does them. This reputation cannot afford to be lost or minimized in the present instance. Therefore cooperation of the heartiest kind is most essential.

The Time is Short.

The various committees—and they are to be commended for the magnificent work they are doing—realize that much is yet to be accomplished before the opening day. They realize that the time is short and in order to have everything in readiness at the appointed hour every member of each committee must offer the most practical assistance and the heartiest encouragement.

With a view to properly systematizing the many plans required for the undertaking, small committees were originally formed. These—as it was announced they would be—have been enlarged until the complete town committee, as will be seen from the names published below, embraces every household in Emmitsburg.

The Big Parade.

That the big parade, scheduled for the first day, may be an effective and diversified as possible everyone who owns or who may procure a team, an automobile or a horse is asked to be in line. Floats, decorated vehicles and original, emblematic and grotesque creations will be most welcome. This will afford an opportunity to advertise one's business or vocation and gives a wide latitude to individual ingenuity. Some idea of what can be done, and at little expense, may be gleaned by recalling the last parade held in Emmitsburg in which everyone took such pleasure and from which everyone derived enjoyment.

The Farmers' Committee.

The Executive Committee of the Farmers is composed as follows: D. H. Guise, Chairman; Mahlon Stonesifer, Ernest R. Shriver, Howard K. Martin, Thomas Baumgardner, Frank Orndorff, Daniel F. Roddy, J. E. Zimmerman.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF EMMITSBURG.

John Bollinger, Merle Moritz, C. F. Smith, Walter Hess, William A. Snider. This committee has appointed sub-committees, but the full list is not yet available.

Decorations.

As Booster Week will be a gala week it is naturally desirable that the town present a gala appearance. Everybody therefore is asked to display flags and bunting. Each building in Emmitsburg thus decorated will add to the effectiveness of the scene and the result will be splendid—will show that the people here have the right spirit and that they believe in showing it by entering into the gaiety of the occasion. All are asked to decorate not later than Saturday, Sept 12th.

Guarantors.

The guarantors—those who have pledged the amount necessary to bring the paid features of Booster week here are: J. Stewart Annan, chairman, Dr. D. E. Stone, Dr. J. McC. Foreman, C. F. Rotering, John Rosensteel of Jas. H. M. Warrenfeltz, Sterling Galt, John A. Horner, H. D. Orr, A. M. Patterson.

The Baby Show.

One of the most interesting features on the programme will be the Baby Show. There are already many entries, but the list is by no means filled. The ages for entrance are from 6 months to 3 years. Valuable prizes will be awarded in this contest—prizes worth contending for. All who have not sent in names are requested to do so at once, addressing Mrs. E. L. Annan.

Season Tickets.

Season tickets for Booster Week are now on sale at the following places: Joseph E. Hoke's, R. M. Zacharias, C. C. Rotering and Son's, J. M. Kerrigan's, Zimmerman's Drug Store, Matthews Bros., R. L. Annan's, C. J. Shuff and Co's, J. D. Caldwell's and H. M. Ashbaugh's.

AMERICAN RED CROSS BUSY.

Chartered Steamship to Carry Doctors and Nurses To The War.

America is ready to do her part in alleviating the suffering attendant on the present war in Europe. For a long time preparations have been underway to send a corps of American Red Cross physicians and nurses to Europe.

Ten of the hospital units, with a large quantity of surgical equipment and hospital supplies, will sail from New York for the theater of war, on the Hamburg-American liner Hamburg, which was chartered by the American Red Cross, after it had been learned from European belligerents that they would recognize its neutrality.

The name of the boat will be changed to the Red Cross and it will be officered and manned by retired United States naval officers and a strictly American crew. The vessel will be completely altered in appearance, being painted white, with a red band encircling the hull and red crosses painted on the stacks. By authority of a special act of Congress, approved several days ago by the President, this chartered vessel will fly the American flag and, of course, the Red Cross flag. It will sail direct to Southampton, where Rear Admiral Aaron Ward, United States Navy retired, will take supreme command of the expedition.

THE WAR CLAIMS RACE HORSES

In Winston Churchill's Statement of England's Position He Warns America That She is Next in Line if Britain Goes Down to Ruin.

A dispatch from the London Daily Mails Antwerp correspondent states that the military governor of Brussels has taxed Baron Lambert Rothschild for $2,000,000, and Ernest Solway for $6,000,000. The governor has ordered the two men held as hostages for the payment of the war levy of $40,000,000 against the city.

The Brussels burgomaster declares that he has not paid the tax and the Germans have threatened to seize the pictures and works of art in the Brussels museums.

Ernest Solway is described as Belgium's Carnegie, and is one of the richest men in Europe.

Alfred A. Vanderbilt, who recently returned from England, where he has been coaching since June, reported that the British government had seized his famous stable of 37 coach and saddle horses, many of which had been prize winners.

The value of the horses ran high into the thousands and the government had agreed to pay $250 apiece. Mr. Vanderbilt said that under the circumstances he couldn't say that the price was bad.

Since the war began British cruisers have captured 225 German ships in all parts of the world and more than 200 ships are now held in various ports, and about twoscore others are at the bottom of the sea.

In an interview on the European war, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, said:

"If we go down and are swept into the past, the United States is the next in line."

"If Germany wins it will be the victory of the blood-and-iron military school, whose doctrines and principles will then have received a supreme and terrible vindication."

"The French, English and American systems of government by popular election and parliamentary debate, with the kind of civilization which flows from such institutions, are brought into direct conflict with the highly efficient imperialistic bureaucracy and military organization of Prussia."

"We recognize the consequences and, the issue being joined, England must go forward to the very end."

It is reported that Prince Albert, King George's son, is suffering from a severe attack of appendicitis. He was landed at a port in Scotland by the British hospital ship, Rotulls. Prince Albert has been seeing active service with the English fleet in the North Sea.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg recites a daring act credited to Prince Eristoff, a colonel in the Russian Horse Artillery.

When the Germans were retreating from Stallupoenen, a town of East Prussia, the Prince ordered his men to unhitch their horses from their own guns, mount them and gallop after the Germans. Under a heavy fire the Russian cavalry went forward, captured the German guns and brought them back to their own lines.

Emperor Nicholas has conferred the Cross of St. George upon Prince Eristoff.

"Take Paris or die," is the order of Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, to every soldier and officer in his armies.

The London Daily News in an editorial, denounces England's policy of secret diplomacy and says:

"Secret diplomacy belongs to the traditions of autocratic and personal government; it has no place in a democratic world and the example of the United States must become the model of the civilized world on this vital matter if Europe is to be free from menace in the future."

The Maryland horse is now worth $119 per head, according to a report just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, while a year ago his average value was $116. There are 165,000 horses on the farms in this State and they are valued at $19,635,000. In 1910 the number of horses in this State was 156,000 and had an aggregate value of $16,848,000. In the entire United States there are 20,962,000 horses and they are worth $2,291,638,000 or $109.32 each.

Four persons were killed at an ungated crossing on the Long Island Railroad between Central Park and Farmingdale, when an eastbound Amagansett express struck an automobile.

Twelve persons were injured, none fatally, when Kansas City Southern passenger train No. 1, southbound, was derailed near Marble City, Ok. A broken rail caused the accident.

LAW GOVERNING SUBSCRIPTIONS

Most readers of newspapers and many publishers are not familiar with the laws governing subscriptions. Here are the decisions of the United States court on the subject. They will be interesting to publishers and many will undoubtedly be glad of the opportunity to print them for the benefit of delinquent subscribers:

"Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.

"If subscribers order a discontinuance of their publication the publisher may continue to send them until all dues are paid.

"If the subscriber refuses to take the periodical from the postoffice to which they are directed, he is responsible until he has settled his bill and ordered the paper discontinued.

"If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, the subscriber is held responsible.

"The courts have held that refusing to take periodicals from the postoffice, or removing and leaving them uncollected for is prima facie evidence of intention to defraud.

"If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the subscriber is responsible until express notice with payment of all arrearage is sent to the publisher.

ALFALFA The Profitable Hay Crop

Yields Four to Six Cuttings a Year of Easily Cured and Most Nutritious Hay Wonderful Increases in Yield Each Successive Year.

ALFALFA "GOLD" BRAND

"Its long, branching roots penetrate far down, push and crowd the earth this way and that, and thus constitute a gigantic subsoiler. These become an immense magazine of fertility. As soon as cut, they begin to decay and liberate the vast reservoir of fertilizing matter below the plow, to be drawn upon by other crops for years to come."

Alfalfa seed sown during August or September will yield four to six cuttings next season. Frequent cuttings thicken out the stalk and makes it stool out and grow off better. Alfalfa ranks higher than Timothy in feeding value. In fact, it might be termed both corn and hay, as it is almost a complete food. Experiment stations place the feeding value of Alfalfa hay at $20 per ton, as against Timothy hay at $12 per ton. This, with the fact that Alfalfa will easily yield, on good land, 6 to 16 tons of splendid hay per year, shows what a valuable crop it is. Lands in the Western States that are well set in Alfalfa sell readily at from $100 to $200 per acre. The acreage of Alfalfa is increasing very largely all over the Middle and Southern States; our farmers are fast beginning to realize what a valuable crop it is. Alfalfa will succeed and do well on any good loamy, well-drained soil, but the land must be well and thoroughly prepared for its roots.

It should never be used for pasture; it is too valuable as a hay producer to risk injury from stock. A heavy application of lime is of decided benefit—20 to 5000 pounds per acre. Alfalfa is usually sown broadcast at the rate of 20 to 30 pounds to the acre. Our Alfalfa seed is the highest grade, strong germinating seed of the best and cleanest quality possible to procure.

We offer American Dry Land Non-Irrigated Alfalfa Seed, Boligiano's "Gold" Brand Fancy, 99.75 per cent. pure. If you want the best field seeds of any kind, always insist on getting Boligiano's "Gold" Brand Standard Alfalfa Seed, Grasses, Cow Peas, Winter Vetch, Timothy Seed, Red Clover, Crimson Clover, Alsike, Red Top or Herd's Grass, Orchard Grass, Winter Oats, Tall Mow Oats Grass, Millet, Permanent Pasture Mixture, Dwarf Essex Rape, all varieties of Turnip Seed, including Cow Horn, Southern Seven Top, Yellow Globe, etc. Cabbage, Kale, Spinach, Winter Radish. There will also be vacancies in the scholarships awarded to the graduates of Loyola College, Maryland Agricultural College, Mount St. Mary's College, Rock Hill College, St. John's College, Washington College and Western Maryland College, and in the scholarships "At Large," which may be filled in October 1914.

Railroads Will Soon Raise Rates.

Railroad passenger rates are to be increased. Also the European system of different charges for different classes of service is to be introduced to the extent that special tickets, for which higher charges will be made, are to be required from all those who desire to ride in Pullman sleeping and parlor cars.

Tariffs covering the proposed new and higher rates are now being completed. Details of the changes in passenger rates intended are not yet available.

The theory upon which two fares are charged the passenger traveling alone in the drawing room in a Pullman car is that he takes for himself space which could accommodate at least three people, and very comfortably two. Now it is intended to give the first application to this proposition as well as to establish generally higher passenger rates.

What extra charge will be made by the railroad to the passenger who elects to ride in the Pullman car has not been learned, but from all that has been gathered it seems likely that the rate will be a quarter to a half more than for the regular ticket good only in the regular coaches.

NEW PONTIFF ELECTED

Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa, Archbishop of Bologna, is One Chosen.

The Sacred College of Cardinals yesterday elected Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa, archbishop of Bologna, supreme pontiff to succeed the late Pope Pius X. His coronation as Benedict XV. will take place September 6.

The conclave of the Sacred College had been in session since the evening of Monday, August 31, and the final vote was not taken until yesterday morning. When the name of Cardinal Della Chiesa was cried out by the Cardinal Scrutineers as having received the prescribed two-thirds vote, there was much excitement among the members of the conclave.

Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa was created a cardinal in May, 1914.

He is the Archbishop of Bologna, Italy.

He was born at Pegli, in the Diocese of Genoa, on November 21, 1854, and was ordained a priest on December 21, 1878. He served as secretary of the Nunciature in Spain from 1883 to 1887, in which year he was appointed secretary to the late Cardinal Rampolla. He was appointed substitute Secretary of State in 1901, and in 1907 he was elected to the post of adviser to the Holy Office.

In 1907 he was appointed Papal Nuncio of Madrid, in succession to Mgr. Rinaldini, but this appointment was canceled three days later. This incident had occurred just before he was made Archbishop of Bologna.

It was on December 16, 1907, that Mgr. Della Chiesa was appointed Archbishop of Bologna by Pius X. He was consecrated archbishop by the Pope himself on the 22d of the same month in the Sistine Chapel and was enthroned on February 23, 1908. Seven years of prudent administration of the Archdiocese of Bologna, which contains 389 parishes, 1,171 churches, chapels and oratories, 837 secular priests, 118 regulars and 311 seminarians, with a total population of 565,489, won for him a place in the Sacred College, to which he was appointed last May, when not 60 years of age.

The full title of the new Pope, in addition to Benedict XV, will be Pope Bishop of Rome and successor of St. Peter, Supreme Pontiff of the West, Primate of Italy, Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman province, sovereign of the temporal dominion of the Holy Roman Church.

Parade of Protest Is Impressive.

Two thousand women, clad in sombre black, paraded up Fifth Avenue, New York, on Saturday as an impressive protest against the European war and the immense sacrifice of life. There were no blaring bands, but the women marched to the sound of muffled drums while 100,000 persons looked on, much impressed and in utter silence.

Never before has New York witnessed such a spectacle as was presented in this procession, comprised chiefly of women of middle age, the mothers of such men as are now sacrificing their lives upon European battlefields. There were scores bent and gray under the weight of years who patiently trudged in the wake of the banner of peace, registering their silent protest against the slaughter of lives given to the world by the women of other nations.

There was practically no cheering or applause as the silent host moved by. Tears welled up in the eyes of many; men unconsciously removed their hats in the presence of the army of peace. The faces of the thousands of onlookers were a study. The sight of aged women, probably taking years from their lives by the exertion of the long march, moved the crowds first to sympathy and then to the realization of what the demonstration really meant.

"Is it patriotism for women willingly to offer up the sons they have given the world to slaughter upon the battlefield?"

War Will Make Best Oysters Cheap.

The finest oysters grown along the Long Island shores, which have always been held for the European and steamship trade, will this season be put on the domestic market, according to growers who predicted that the crop would be the biggest in the history of the country and that prices would be low.

For many years Europe has taken the finest oysters produced by this country. There are numerous beds along the Long Island shores that have produced oysters for the European market exclusively, but now the owners are unable to make shipments and these oysters must be sold in the home markets. Comparatively few of these oysters have been supplied to the large hotels and restaurants of this country. The prices have always been high in this country. Aside from the fact that the war has made oysters cheap, the supply is so plentiful that they would have been cheaper than usual if there had been no war.

A LEGAL RUSE

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Winterfield had a chief clerk, Wingate, who was meaner than his employer. The old man knew that if he left his fortune to his daughter she would either spend the most of it or give it away. He willed it to her on condition that she marry Wingate. The only way Mildred could inherit without fulfilling this condition was that Wingate should refuse to marry her. In this event the fortune would belong to Mildred.

Mildred loved Edgar Corneal and, even if she had not, would rather have married an ogre than Wingate. The problem was how to force him to release her, which was the only way by which she could inherit her property. She treated him scornfully, but did not secure any response. Wingate bore it without retort. By the terms of the will if Mildred did not marry him within two years he was to hold the property in trust so long as he lived, to have the income for himself.

One day Mildred disappeared. When Wingate learned of this move he was disquieted. He feared some game, but could think of no way by which she could secure her fortune. What he most desired was that she would withhold her consent to marry him till the two years' grace had elapsed, after which he would enjoy the income of the property and manage the business so long as he lived. The will read "in case the said Samuel Wingate shall refuse to marry my daughter Mildred Winterfield, at any time within the said two years," etc. Wingate read this over and considered the matter safe. The will did not say how he was to refuse, but this made no difference. He would not refuse in any form.

Wingate had no desire to marry Mildred Winterfield. Indeed, he had nothing to gain by a marriage with her, for in that case she would inherit the property and might make it unpleasant for him. He had seen her only once, when she was about fifteen years old, an awkward girl, who was changing to womanhood. At the time of her father's death she was a fine looking woman, with golden hair, fair complexion and dark brown eyes.

One day a young woman called at Wingate's office and applied for a position as typewriter and stenographer. There were no vacancies, and she was refused. A few days later Wingate received a note signed Elizabeth Darrow, asking him if he would favor her with a call since she had something to tell him to his advantage. This request, taken with certain glances Miss Darrow had given him, made him suspicious that she had designs upon him. Then suddenly he was struck with an idea.

"I do believe," he said to himself, "that she is a decoy of Mildred Winterfield and her lover. The object is to get me in a position where it can be proved that I have made love to this woman and asked her to marry me. That would not be refusing to marry Mildred, but they doubtless have hit upon a plan to twist evidence so as to make it appear that in making love to their decoy I have refused to marry Mildred. There are plenty of lawyers smart enough to do that. All I have to say is if they catch me napping they must get up early in the morning."

After considerable deliberation he determined not to let it appear that he suspected their game till he had elicited more of it from the decoy. He made no reply to Miss Darrow's communication, confident that he would hear from her again. He did hear by note, in which references were made to love passages between them which had never occurred. This confirmed Wingate's suspicions. But he did not know what action to take, or, rather, he decided that he had better take no action at all.

In time another letter came from Miss Darrow, hinting at proceedings for breach of promise. Wingate congratulated himself on his foresight in laying down the scheme in advance. A trumped up case of breach of promise to Miss Darrow was to be turned into a refusal to marry Miss Winterfield. It did not appear to Wingate that he should pay any attention to these notes. By doing so he might get caught in the trap being laid for him. All he did was to give orders that if "the Darrow woman" came to see him she was to be told that she could not see him. Notwithstanding this order, one day he looked up from his desk and saw his unwelcome visitor standing near him.

"I have called," she said, "to ask if you intend to do me justice."
"I don't know you, madam."
"You do know that you have asked me to be your wife."
"I have not."

"I give you your choice either to marry me or stand suit for $100,000 damages."
"I will neither marry you nor pay a cent."

Wingate's desk was at one end of a long room, filled with clerks, and he spoke the words purposely loud enough for all to hear. No sooner were they uttered than the woman turned to those present and said:

"I call upon you all to witness that I, Mildred Winterfield, have been refused in marriage by Samuel Wingate."

Mildred had made her complexion an olive and dyed her hair, but in a legal contest that followed the court decided that Wingate's refusal, though he did not know her identity, held good.

HOME MADE GRAPE JUICE IS HEALTHFUL

Makes Use Of Waste Grapes And Furnishes An Inexpensive Table Dainty.

L. L. BURRELL.

Maryland Agricultural College.

On many farms large quantities of grapes go to waste each year, because they cannot be kept long in the fresh state. House wives who put up unfermented juice during the grape harvest, not only utilize much fruit now lost, but also add a healthful and appetizing product to their winter stores.

For this purpose, use only clean, sound, well ripened grapes. If a light colored juice is desired, put the grapes in a clean cloth sack and tie up. Then hang up securely and twist it, or let two persons take hold of the ends of the sack and twist until the greater part of the juice is pressed out.

Next gradually heat the juice in a double boiler, or a stone jar in a pan of hot water, so that the juice does not come in direct contact with the fire, at a temperature of 180 to 195 degrees Fahrenheit. It is best to use a thermometer, but if there is none at hand, heat the juice until it steams, but do not allow it to boil. Put it in a glass or enameled vessel to settle for twenty-four hours; carefully drain the juice from the sediment and run through several thicknesses of clean flannel. After this, fill into clean bottles, or ordinary glass fruit jars. Do not fill entirely, but leave room for the liquid to expand when heated again.

Fit a thin board over the bottom of an ordinary wash boiler. Set the filled bottles in it, fill in with water to within about an inch of the tops of the bottles, and heat gradually the same as before. Then take out the bottles and cork or seal immediately. It is well to cover the corks with sealing wax or paraffin to prevent mold germs from entering.

Care should be taken to not heat above 200 degrees Fahrenheit as the flavor of the juice is likely to be injured. Also do not put the juice in large bottles. If properly made and bottled it will keep indefinitely, if not exposed to the air or mold germs; but when a bottle is opened it should be used at once like canned goods to keep it from spoiling.

GETTING A NEW COAT.

ROY H. WAITE.

Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Most hens are moulting now and will need as good treatment as you can give them so that they will be in condition to lay as soon as possible.

The method of forcing the moult by withholding the feed for a time and then feeding heavily has largely gone out of use because it was found that the hens would lay no sooner, if as soon, as where they were allowed to moult naturally.

In order to promote the growth of feathers, be sure the feed contains plenty of protein. If you have been feeding pretty heavily on beef scraps you perhaps will not need to change the feed much. Some add about 10 per cent. of linseed meal to the ration in order to aid the growth of feathers. Sunflower seeds, when available, make a fine addition to the feed at this time.

HAIRY VETCH PROVIDES FIRST CLASS FEED.

NICKOLAS SCHMITZ.

Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Hairy Vetch, also known as sand or winter vetch, is an annual legume, that is, like clover, cowpeas, and soybeans, it has a power of utilizing and storing up in the soil the free nitrogen of the air.

It is therefore an excellent crop to plow under as a green manure, and for this purpose it may take the place of, and be handled the same as crimson clover.

It is well adapted to all sections of Maryland as far as climate is concerned, seldom winter killing even in the coldest sections of the State if sown early enough in the fall.

As a green manure crop it will be found most valuable in sections where crimson clover winter kills frequently. Owing to the cost of seed, however, it can hardly be recommended for green manuring in sections where crimson clover succeeds well.

The greatest returns from vetch will be secured when it is used as a hay plant. It yields large crops of excellent hay, but owing to its habit of viney growth it is best to sow with it wheat, rye or winter oats to hold it up.

While it may be sown in corn at the last cultivation, vetch succeeds best when seeded on land prepared the same as for wheat.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Lingular Hills and the Catoc Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

ARE YOU READY?

The time is nearly here. Are you getting ready? Strangers will be here Booster Week and there will be much for them and for you to enjoy. It is to be a town affair, a district affair, and one that should be profitable to all. Read the official programme; see how much is offered for your delectation. Enter heartily into the spirit of it all and not only derive pleasure from it yourself but help others to enjoy it to the fullest extent.

AMERICAN POISE.

The attitude of our people during the stupendous war now raging across the water is indeed admirable. Mr. Wilson's appeal, sane and timely as it was, is being heeded by all classes. What makes this calmness of spirit noticeable and what commends it to the world is that it is being evinced by a populace that is essentially heterogeneous. We are the offspring of all nations, but the dominant feature of the poise exhibited is the fact that this the United States of America, a neutral country, pledged to justice, is, in effect, the land of all who dwell within its border. We are a nation at peace with all the world.

PARCEL POST EFFICIENCY.

The parcel post system, though only in its infancy, has more than proved its right to exist, and its very existence is directly attributable to Hon. David J. Lewis of this Congressional district. "An analysis of reports received," says the Monitor, "shows that the underlying idea has appealed alike to producers and consumers, and that the service rendered has been proportionate to that required." Some idea of the efficiency of the service despite certain unsatisfactory conditions which will eventually be improved upon—may be gleaned from the report of the Postmaster-General in which it is stated that the average of damage to shipments is figured at less than one-tenth of one per cent.

Parcel post—David J. Lewis.

SLOVENLY ENGLISH IN COLLEGES.

"The punctuation, spelling and expression of ideas in many a letter written by a man who holds a college degree should bring the blush of shame into someone's cheeks," is the comment of the New Haven Journal-Courier on the subject of the English used by upper classmen in institutions of learning to-day. To counteract this the College of the City of New York will this year give demerits to those students who, though they may be eminently proficient in their various departments, fail to express their knowledge in language, spoken or written, that is free from slovenliness and inaccuracies. Education that lacks polish is an education with a handicap. In its application it is jarring, and likewise minus its full effectiveness; it is not harmonious. The plan of the College of the City of New York deserves thoughtful consideration by other colleges. But the idea should not stop here. There is need in every institution for a censorship over what may, for want of a better name, be called campus English—the English of the student at leisure, in sport, in his fellow student's den. There is where the slip, the inaccuracy, the slovenliness in every day speech is unconsciously and insidiously moulded into habit.

Here is the challenge:

"Until every teacher in every school and in every higher institution of learning is able and willing to teach English in addition to his special subject, graduates of those institutions will go out with inadequate equipment, essentially uneducated.

To be educated, to be equipped to the point of full efficiency, to be welcome and at ease, one must have more than a diploma. How soon will all institutions of learning realize this?

THE dates for registration of voters—they appear in another column—should not be overlooked. No one will be allowed to vote in November or at the County and State primaries next summer unless he be registered.

How can one train the sleek falcon and never expect him to soar? How can a nation teach carnage and refrain from an entrance to war?

Now for the county fairs and the countless candidates.

AND the Germans are still "retreating forward."

African English.

An extraordinary jargon, which is claimed to be the English language, is spoken by many of the natives on the African continent. Mrs. Mary Gaunt in her book "Alone in West Africa" says:

"Listening very carefully, it took a great deal of persuasion to make me believe the words were English. When I bought bananas from a woman sitting under the shade of a spreading cotton tree and the man behind her came forward and held out his hand, saying, 'Make you give me been, voman coppa all,' I grasped the fact that he intended to have the money long before I understood that he had said in the only English and probably in the only speech he knew, 'Give me her money.'

"Some of the words, of course, become commonplaces of everyday life, and I am sure the next time I call on a friend who is rich enough to have a manservant association of ideas will take me back, and I shall ask quite naturally, 'Massa lib?' instead of the customary 'Is Mrs. Jones at home?'"

Bush Negroes of Guiana.

The bush negroes (bush negroes) of French Guiana are magnificent specimens of physical manhood. To the numerous cues of their braided hair are often attached nickel bicycle clips and to their ears rings of gold. Gaudy colored breechcloths "made in Germany" are practically their only clothing. They are pagans and worship the cotton tree to propitiate a bad spirit. Obeah is the name they give to anything about which they may be superstitious, applying it to all evil influences, to their fetiches or charms in general. Many resented a camera as a bad omen.

Their language, called taki-taki (talk-talk) is a most remarkable linguistic compound of their original Cromanti coast dialects, with a good measure of pidgin English and Dutch and spiced with a few derivatives from French and Spanish.

Dilemmas of Welsh Postmen.

The postal departments of certain districts in Wales are in a well nigh chaotic condition owing to the preponderance of families bearing the name of Jones. For example, the poor, unfortunate Swansea Valley postman is to be pitted when he finds that he has to deliver correctly seventeen letters, all addressed confidentially to "Mr. Jones," where there are nine different families of the name within a radius of 500 yards in a district where the houses are erratically numbered and most of the streets are nameless. So numerous are the Joneses in this part of the principality and so rapid is the growth of the places in the valley that it is now almost impossible for a postman—probably a Jones himself—to give the right letters to the right Joneses every time.—London Cor. Washington Post

A Thundering Yarn.

A year or two ago, in a North of England city, writes Mr. J. H. Elgri, F. R. S. A., in the Yorkshire Weekly Post, a man told me that during a very violent thunderstorm all the windows of his club were thrown wide open. "To let the lightning in!" I remarked. "Not exactly," he replied, "but to let it out again if it did get in." As a fact, it accepted the invitation to enter the club with alacrity, and though it magnanimously spared the foolhardy people responsible for the invitation, it wrecked a large safe in an adjoining room. The person who related this to me said he would ever after look upon lightning as the "cutest thing in creation." It is the flash that murders; the poor thunder never harm'd head.

England's Oldest Theater.

The village theater at Little Easton may be the oldest theater in use in England, but it is not the oldest in existence. Visitors in Dorchester can find there a wonderfully preserved Roman theater, designed, it has been estimated, to seat about 13,000 people and artfully arranged to have the sun behind the majority of them for the greater part of the day. And this theater has been used in comparatively modern times, for in 1705 10,000 people (alleged to be civilized) gathered there to witness the burning of a woman who had poisoned her husband.—London Spectator.

A Red Spider Gone Wrong.

The chigger is really an embryo that never got out of the chrysalis stage. He started out to be a red spider and stopped at becoming a pest. His papa and mamma are red spiders, about the size of a pinhead and bright red. They inhabit old stumps and logs in the woods and feed on vegetable diet. But their offspring are divided into two classes—the bloodthirsty and the non-bloodthirsty. The nonbloodthirsty, like a well behaved child, heeds mother's advice and dines on grass and leaves and old woods. He grows up to a red spider. But the bloodthirsty little cuss hunts up a quadruped or a biped when he feels hungry and burrows. He has no control over his appetite. says the entomologist, and gorges himself. Ergo, he dies. He is the chigger. He is so small that he can scarcely be seen by the naked eye. Of course he doesn't rear a family, in consequence. But his nonbloodthirsty brothers and sisters will reach years of maturity and acquire offspring. And among their children will be chiggers. So the race is kept up.—Kansas City Star.

Debt.

Debt is the one thing which goes contrary to the laws of nature, because you can contract and expand it at the same time. Nothing exceeds like debt. Every one is always in debt to some one else. Every debtor is a creditor, every creditor is a debtor. There being no clearing house of humanity the thing goes on from day to day, getting more complicated. Everybody starts by owing the government his part of the interest on the national debt. As this is increasing all the time, the fatal habit some people have of putting off the day of their birth counts against them. Debt is a poor sleeping companion. He won't stay hitched. If you put him off in a room by himself and draw down the blinds he always breaks loose and interrupts you just when you are beginning to enjoy yourself. If you fail to pay his board and lodging he grows larger and eats more. And what a witless companion he is!—Life.

Out of His Way.

Mrs. Long—You're going out, are you not? Mr. Long—Yes, my dear, Mrs. L.—Well, I wish you'd drop into Brown & Co.'s on your way and match the—Mr. L. (hurriedly)—I've got to see Jones, and that will take me some distance from Brown & Co.'s. Mrs. L.—Well, Mr. Jones' office is only a short distance from the Finery Bazaar, and that will do just as well. Take this and ask—Mr. L. (hastily)—After leaving Jones I must see Smith, who lives in the opposite direction to the Bazaar, you know. Mrs. L.—No matter! Green's will do. They are near Smith's. Mr. L.—But I've got to take a roundabout way to Smith's in order to see Brown, my dear. Mrs. L. (impatiently)—H'm! Where are you going after you leave Smith's? Mr. L. (helplessly)—I'm going up in an aeroplane!

Peculiarities of Charles Reade.

Charles Reade was peculiar in many ways. Here is the reason he gave to Henry Watterson for never visiting America. "I dare not think about it," he exclaimed. "In the first place, I can't drink or smoke, and I should not get on very well with the natives. Next, I have a weakness for high living, and you Americans have such an awfully jolly lot of things to eat that I'm afraid I should cram myself to death." One of Reade's peculiarities, says J. H. Harper in "The House of Harper," was that he failed to keep copies of the manuscripts he sent. Once, after a long period of illness, he forwarded an installment of a story having the names blank, as he had forgotten what they were.

Outspoken.

Mrs. Smith's four sons made the life of her old colored servant a burden. One day Uncle Andy was busy in the garden hoeing corn and for half an hour Tom, the most mischievous of the quartet, had amused himself throwing clods of dirt at him. At last Andy threw down his hoe and stamped indignantly down to the house.

"Mis' Ella," he said to the little culprit's mother, "Ah jes has to tell yu dat dat boy Tawm am de meane's chile yu got; an' Ah tells yu fo' yo' face and tells yu beeline yo' back!"—New York Post.

The Followup Method.

"Why do you get the pretty girls jobs first? Is that fair?" "Best for all concerned," declared the head of the school of stenography. "The pretty girl soon marries her employer, and then there's a permanent job for one of the plainer young ladies."—Pittsburgh Post.

A Person to Be Avoided.

"Palanquin is certainly a man to avoid. People have told me a great many stories about him which are not edifying." "Really? You do well to tell me, for I need not now give him back the money he loaned me."—Paris Figaro.

Bridging a Difficulty.

Arranging a Party.

Jack—Our hostess was really the most beautiful woman of all present. Flo (not invited)—I dare say. She took good care to arrange for that when she sent out her invitations.

Diamond Saws For Stone.

In the four fields of stone cutting—hard, soft, cast stone and terra cotta—new methods have wrought great changes of late. In the large cutting plants limestone is handled like so much wood and is cut by circular saws, smoothed by planes and bored into with much the same sort of tools as are used by woodworkers. By all means the most interesting machine used in this work is the diamond saw. The word "diamond" is not fancifully applied, for the device actually includes a huge circular saw set around the edge with real diamonds. They are not the clear, white stones that are used in jewelry, to be sure, but for all that they are real black diamonds, said to be worth about $5 a karat. These stones are about the size of dried peas and are set in pairs in interchangeable steel teeth. One of these saws will eat its way through limestone at the rate of twelve inches in a minute. At the end of a month the diamond teeth are taken out and sent away to be recut and reset. A new set of diamond teeth is then put in place at a cost of about $600.—Argonaut.

The "King of Rome."

What became of Napoleon's son is a question often asked, as little mention is made in history of the young prince, the desire of his father's life, who was born March 20, 1811, amid great rejoicing in Paris and hailed as the "King of Rome." In January, 1814, Napoleon embraced his wife and child for the last time, and this really ended the reign of the little king "who never saw his kingdom." He was reared in the Austrian court under the name of the Duke of Reichstadt and grew to be a handsome young fellow and quite a brilliant scholar. He had one short year of military life and then contracted pulmonary disease, from which he died in his twenty-second year. He worshiped the memory of his father and always spent the anniversary of his death, July 22, in his own rooms. He is buried in the Carthusian monastery of Vienna, which is the Austrian Westminster abbey.

The Bottle Tree.

The Sterculias is a genus largely represented in Queensland and widely distributed. To it belongs the bottle tree of the west of Queensland. Blacks eat the seeds of one of the species of the coast, and in the Philippines those of apparently a closely allied species are considered wholesome when roasted or boiled, though eaten in large quantities. The tree belongs to a good family, being related to the Theobroma (food of the gods), which supplies the world with cocoa and chocolate. When the fruit splits open it is a brilliant scarlet with an orange tinted interior. Along the parted edges are the seeds, oval and black, covered with a rich purple bloom. The fruit, being tough and leathery, remains on the tree a long time, forming a most effective display in the gloom of the jungle.—T. P.'s London Weekly.

A Fish Story.

"The inns of dear old England are picturesque," said Richard LeGallienne, "but the food they serve is something terrible."

"After a visit to Blenheim palace I entered an inn in the quaint village of Woodstock. As I lunched—or tried to lunch—my landlord said to me:

"The great duke of Marlborough once set in that chair you're settin' in, sir."

"Is that so?" said I.

"And the duke once drunk 'is beer out of' that same mug you're a-drinkin' out of."

"And I bet," said I, "I bet he refused to eat this fish too. Well, take it away, my man. I don't want it either!"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Mighty Capella.

The star Capella is a hundred times brighter and hotter than our sun. If the earth were as near to Capella as it is to the sun the thermometer (if an instrument could be made capable of bearing such a temperature) would rise in July not merely to a hundred, but to 10,000 degrees F.! The oceans would fly off in puffs of steam. The forests and fields would kindle and burn like matchwood. The mountains and hills would melt like beeswax in a red-hot oven! The earth in the rays of Capella would be as a moth in a candle flame.—New York Journal.

Insulted.

Here is an amusing instance of histrionic conceit. An interviewer, having obtained access to the presence of a famous actor, asked the great man if he would be kind enough to describe some of his early failures.

"Sir," snapped the tragedian, "I never had any! James—the door!"

Where It Pinched.

"Don't it aggravate you that I ask you for twenty-five louis?" "No, that does not aggravate me; it is the giving of it to you."—Paris Pages Folles.

All Labor Is Worthy.

There must be work done by the arms or none of us would live, and work done by the brains or the life would not be worth having.—Ruskin.

Reason For Hate.

"I'm going to marry her at once." "What's your hurry?" "My salary isn't large enough to stand an engagement."

Kangaroo Sinews.

The sinews of the kangaroo are especially desirable for use in surgery for sewing wounds and binding broken bones together.

Beggars on Horseback.

Horses are cheap in Chile. According to Francis J. G. Maitland in "Chile: Its Land and People," you can buy a horse in Santiago for $25 or $30 and for less in the country. In illustration, he quotes a little happening witnessed by Miss May Crommelin in Mendoza: "Up rode a gaucho, dressed in white, if I remember rightly—no worse than his fellows, at any rate. He bestrode a nag, sorry enough, yet still capable, and wore a medal round his neck. Off came his hat with a bow of much grace, but he stretched out his hand toward the window grating imploring alms. 'It's all right; he's one of our beggars. The town has so many licensed ones who are allowed to come round,' said my hostess, looking out over my shoulder. So, instead of dismissing him with a little 'Pardon, little brother, for not giving you anything,' some small coins were placed in his palm. 'Dios lo pagara' (God will repay it), was the dignified response, and with a farewell bow of perfect politeness this beggar on horseback rode on."

Carlyle's Amenities.

Carlyle had his flings against science, but they were not very virulent. Nevertheless in regard to literature he placed himself in the position of the ill bird that fouled its own nest, as witness the following amenities: Keats is a "curried dead dog," whatever that may mean; Shelley is "aghastly object," Coleridge, "a puffy, obstructed looking old man talking in a maddled sleep an infinite deal of nothing;" Lamb, "a purr cratur, with a thin streak of cockney wit, nothing humorous but his dress;" Walter Scott, "a toothless retainer of old wives' fables;" Brougham, "an eternal grudge of commonplace;" Wordsworth, "stooping to extract a spiritual ketchup from mushrooms that were little better than toadstools;" Sir Robert Peel, "a plausible fox;" J. W. Croker, "an unbalanced hound;" Lord John Russell, "a turnspit of good pedigree;" Lord Melbourne, "a monkey."

Lighthouse Lenses.

In the latter half of the eighteenth century one of the members of a little scientific society in Liverpool told a brother scientist that he could read a newspaper by the light of a small candle at a distance of thirty feet. The second scientist said the thing was impossible. To prove his contention the first scientist coated the inside of a shallow wooden box with sloping pieces of looking glass so as to form a concave lens, placed it behind a farthing candle and readily deciphered the small print at the stipulated distance.

The experiment was witnessed by a Liverpool dock master. He was a thinking man and saw great possibilities in this learned jest. He straightway adapted the principle to lighthouse requirements, and forthwith the modern reflected light, with its miles of reflected range and untold life saving powers, sprang into being.

Betrothals in Germany.

There are many curious betrothal customs in Germany that are found in no place else in the world. As soon as a German girl is betrothed she is addressed as "bride" by her fiancé. The betrothal is a more serious affair than in England, and is not so easily broken. The girl is called "bride" until the wedding, when she assumes the title of "wife." Immediately upon the betrothal the lovers exchange rings, which, if the course of true love runs smooth, are to be worn ever afterward. The woman wears her betrothal ring on the third finger of her left hand until she is married, and then it is transferred to the third finger of her right hand. The man continues to wear his ring just as the wife wears hers when she was a bride.

Men and Fools.

A man can be as big a fool at thirty as he can be at twenty or, for that matter, at sixty, with this difference, that at twenty he doesn't know that he is a fool. He thinks that he is a god and enjoys the experience. At sixty he knows well enough what he is and thanks his stars that he has yet another chance before going down to the grave. But at thirty-five he has neither the illusions of youth nor the consolations of age. He is young enough to feel foolish and old enough to know better.—"Curing Christopher."

The Split Infinitive.

Mme. Sarah Grand writes to the London Express:

"The split infinitive is a somewhat sore subject with me, for I believe it is to be found in my own early work, with other errors of my youth of which I have long repented. When I come across the 'split' in my reading now it pulls me up with a horrid jar, and I believe that must always be the case once the ear has been tuned to the rhythm of the best English authors."

Heavenly Match.

Husband (irritably)—It isn't a year since you said you believed our marriage was made in heaven, and yet now you order me around as if I wasn't anybody. Wife (calmly)—Order, you know, is heaven's first law.—New York Weekly.

Abstemious.

"I'm not eating very much of late." "What's the matter, old man? Lost your appetite?" "No; my credit."—Boston Transcript.

Not Literary.

Jail Visitor—You say that a love for books brought you here, my poor man. Prisoner—Yes, sir; pocketbooks.—Exchange.

The envious will die, but envy never.—Moliere.

HERE AND THERE

IN THE STATE

Springfield.—Many residents of Queen Anne, Kent, Bowie and Laurel districts of Prince George's county attended the annual tournament and carnival here on Sunday for the benefit of the fund for the erection of a Town Hall. Richard A. Johnson, of Howard county, and Congressman Frank O. Smith, of Calvert county, candidates for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fifth district, were present.

Annapolis.—Three midshipmen have been asked by the Naval Academy authorities to resign on account of delinquencies in conduct during the cruise which has just been completed. They are Simon J. Loneragan, of Nebraska, of the first class; Thomas L. Chalmers, of New Hampshire, and Manuel J. Jemal, of Rhode Island, members of the third class.

Rockville.—The county public school commissioners have announced the appointment of T. W. Darnell, of Westminster, principal of the high school at Darnestown, this county. He succeeds Prof. William Nelson, who was at the head of the institution several years.

Laurel.—George Curley, a well known man in this section of the county, died on Sunday night from the results of a fall from a bridge some days ago.

Ocean City.—The largest crowd in the history of this resort visited here on Sunday. Hotels and cottages were compelled to use cots in the halls to accommodate the visitors whose number was estimated at 15,000.

Boonsboro.—The Trinity Lutheran Church, which was struck by lightning and badly damaged and which has been extensively repaired, was reopened on Sunday with services.

Cumberland.—Dr. Ed. L. Smith, a Bedford county, Pennsylvania, physician, was assaulted on Sunday by a negro whom he had assisted the day before. The negro, it is alleged, went to an unimproved part of the road, where he knew the Doctor would have to slow down his automobile, and when Dr. Smith came along the negro sprang out and hurled a rock at the physician. Dr. Smith fell from his car unconscious. The negro was arrested by Sheriff Andrew Dodson.

Hagerstown.—Seventeen milk dealers out of a total of 31 supplying milk in Hagerstown, were before Justice John Ankeney here on various charges of violating the new milk ordinance. The officers who swore out the warrants claimed that some of the milk was swarming with bacteria, while other milk was extremely filthy.

Elkton.—Evans Boulden, aged 15 years, son of David Boulden, a farmer of the Leeds section in the upper part of Cecil County, killed his uncle, Joseph Boulden, aged 18 years, Sunday evening at a festival held by the Elk Mills Baseball Club at Elk Mills.

REIGN OF TERROR IN CHINA.

Government Troops Are Unable To Suppress Brigandage.

Conditions of disorders in interior China, such as did not characterize even the revolutionary period preceding the Manchu's overthrow two and a half years ago, were reported by foreigners who have arrived at Shanghai from Hankow and other up country points.

Throughout Honan, Tuh, Shansi, Szechuan and Anhwei provinces, they said, brigandage is rampant on such a scale that cities even of 200,000 and 300,000 population are unsafe from attack. Scores of smaller towns have been sacked. Frightful massacres have perpetrated and loot worth millions has been carried off.

Bodies of troops aggregating 20,000 or 25,000 in number are in the field against the outlaws and there have been dozens of skirmishes and a few tolerably respectable battles, in which the bandits have held their own as often as they have been beaten. No quarter is shown on either side, the victors invariably beheading their prisoners and in some cases torturing before killing them.

Opponents of President Yuan Shi Kai's government are said unquestionably to be encouraging the activity of the bandits, to be supplying quantities of arms and ammunition, and to be doing their utmost to weld the numerous bands into a single force for another revolution.

In Southern China revolutionary agents are busy in the vicinity of Canton, and piracy on the West River has reached such proportions that even foreign shipping is endangered.

New Dormitory For Hood College.

The contract for the new dormitory to be built for Hood College, Frederick, has been let to contractor Lloyd C. Culler, of Frederick.

The building will be 150 feet long by 50 feet wide and three stories in height. The plans call for the accommodations for 100 students. The building will cost $55,500 and is the first of four dormitories which will be erected. The building will be completed by August 15, 1915 and be ready for occupancy in September of that year.

Elkton.—The annual Teachers' Institute for Cecil county convened Monday with a large attendance of teachers from all sections of the county. The institute is under the supervision of Dr. M. Bates Stephens, State Superintendent.

Cumberland.—William Pettitt, motion-picture operator at a local theatre, is in a critical condition at the Western Maryland Hospital from swallowing two bichloride of mercury tablets on Sunday afternoon. He was found at the theatre, where he had taken the poison. His kidneys are badly affected, and Dr. J. Homer Wilson, who is attending him, holds out no hopes for his recovery.

Baltimore.—Robert Johnston McCuen, 59 years old, for nearly 14 years Superintendent of Lamps and Lighting for this city and the last surviving official of the Hayes administration, died Monday morning at his home, 311 Warren avenue.

Annapolis.—Prof. Charles G. Eidson, of the chair of physics and drawing at St. John's College, has sent his resignation to the board of governors. Professor Eidson will become general manager of a company which is engaged in the manufacture of a compressed air starter for automobiles, with headquarters in Baltimore.

Rockville.—The County Public School Commissioners have announced the appointment of T. W. Darnell, of Westminster, principal of the high school at Darnestown. He succeeds William Nelson.

Cambridge.—Miss Viola Gootee, 20 years old, is at the Cambridge Hospital in a critical condition from taking two bichloride tablets, swallowed after her mother refused to allow her to go Baltimore. After taking the poison she became frightened and ran to the hospital.

Cumberland.—W. Buckey, arrested on a charge of libel, was held for the October term grand jury in $500 bail. Buckey is a former newspaper man, former principal of a Cumberland school, a son of Prof. J. E. J. Buckey and the charge of libel is based on a letter alleged to have been sent the Allegany County School Board, in which County School Superintendent John E. Edwards is called a perjurer.

Salisbury.—Riding a motorcycle rapidly, Monday, Frank Wells, of this city, struck a dog and was thrown, breaking a leg and bruising him about the face and body. His condition is pronounced serious. The machine was demolished.

Hagerstown.—The plant of the Montross Metal Casket Company, this city, which recently went into the hands of receivers, will be sold. The company had a capital stock of $3,000,000. The assets at the time of the receivership were said to be $448,846, and the liabilities approximately $400,000. The plant was formerly owned by the Pope Manufacturing Company.

A BIG FAIR FOR FREDERICK.

Premium List Issued.—$12,000 Awarded In Prizes.—Dates October 20 to 23.

The catalogue of the Frederick County Agricultural Society, just issued, for the 54th annual fair of the association to be held October 20 to 23, shows that nearly $12,000 will be paid out in premiums.

The races this year will be quite an attraction. In order to make this feature especially strong, the association has set aside $5,600, to be offered in purses for the four days. This year the association has changed its rules to enable better racing, by allowing a horse which has had two consecutive starts in any race, in the Pen Mar Racing Circuit, and which has remained outside the money, to start in a race two seconds slower. This time allowance will be as great as four seconds, subject to certain conditions and restrictions.

Entries in the various departments close as follows: Cattle, horses, sheep and swine, October 13; poultry, October 7; household department and pomological departments, October 19; races, October 14.

The buildings have been enlarged during former years, and with the extension of the grounds, preparations have been made for the handling of the largest crowds in the history of the association. Besides this the additional ground will give an admirable space for the exhibition of stock.

Peach Crops Breaks All Records.

Large shipments of peaches are being made from all points in the South Mountain fruit belt. The peach crop is a record-breaker. Peaches are selling in the orchards from 20 cents to $1 a bushel. Twenty-five carloads of peaches were shipped on Tuesday, from Smithsburg alone. The Hagerstown market is glutted. Late varieties are now coming on the market, and the quality is superior to that of the earlier varieties. There is also a record-breaking crop of cantaloupes.

The European war has for the present at least, totally closed the European market to American radium ores.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Mrs. Morton Baxter, of Catonsville, and Miss Bessie Doyle, of Walbrook, are visiting Mrs. Joseph Warthen, of Mt. St. Mary's.

Miss Helen K. Hoke made a business trip to Baltimore on Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Rowe left for Baltimore on Monday. They left for State College, Pa., Thursday where Dr. Rowe has accepted a professorship.

Annapolis Streets Inundated.

As a result of the most terrific rain, electrical and wind storm that has visited that section for years, the works of the Annapolis Water Company, four miles from the city, were damaged to such an extent that President Melvin of the Company issued warning notice to consumers to be sparing with the water to prevent famine, as the supply has been greatly depleted.

One of the large reservoirs and two smaller ones were washed out, flooding everything in the vicinity. Two small bridges also were washed away. Superintendent Brady describes the storm as a cloudburst. It will require a week or more to repair the damage.

MRS. CHARLES F. SMITH.

Mrs. Charles F. Smith died suddenly at her home in Freedom township, Adams County, Pa., last Thursday. The cause of her death was an acute attack of indigestion.

Before her marriage to Mr. Smith, twenty-four years ago, Mrs. Smith was Miss Frances Marion Elder, daughter of the late James A. Elder and Mary Tyson Elder. Mrs. Smith was organist in St. Joseph's Catholic Church for eighteen years and enjoyed a large circle of friends who regret her untimely death.

Besides her husband she is survived by one son, Joseph Roger Smith, a student at St. Vincent's Seminary, Germantown, Pa., two brothers—James B. Elder, of this place, and Bennett T. Elder, of Baltimore; and three sisters—Mrs. Cornelius Gelwicks and Mrs. Bernard Welty, of this place, and Mrs. Mary Pampel, of Norfolk, Va.

Quick Work By Telephone Men.

The C. & P. Telephone Exchange which, since the advent of the Company in Emmitsburg, fourteen years ago, has been in the property, now owned by Mrs. C. M. Welty was moved to the home of Mr. Pius Felix last Monday night. It took nine days for a force of the company's expert mechanics to "shoot" a new cable, install a protector frame and make the necessary connections. Nine and one half minutes was the time required to move the board but it was nearly thirty minutes before all the lines were connected up. All the subscribers were notified early in the evening and no inconvenience was experienced. Misses Nellie and Mary Felix will be the operators.

High School To Remain.

There is no truth whatever in the report that the Emmitsburg High School will be discontinued. Official notification has been received to the effect that "It has been decided to retain the High School at Emmitsburg with the same grades and conditions as last year."

The good offices of these ladies who are past masters in the art of preparing things that delight the inner man have been sought on so many occasions and they have made such a success of everything they have undertaken that no public function is quite complete without their generous and unselfish services. The fact they are in charge of this important booth is an assurance that everything coming under their management will be of the very best.

Paint Better

Better isn't enough; paint best. A man bought "cheap" paint; saved 20c or 30c or 40 or 50c a gallon, didn't he?

Yes, and bought 40 or 50 or 60 or 80 percent more gallons; how much did he make on his paint?

And he paid for painting those gallons—a fair day's work is a gallon—how much did he make on the labor part of his job?

He lost a quarter or third of his money.

How long will it last? not his money, the paint?

Perhaps half as long as Devoe. How long will his money last, if he buys other stuff as he bought that paint?

Better buy the best paint; it makes the least bill and least-often.

TAKE HIS ADVICE.

The highest salaried editor in the world, Arthur Brisbane, says:

"As a friend talking to another about a certain kind of goods can influence a friend more than a stranger, so a country newspaper, standing on a footing of friendship with its readers can talk to them about goods for sale or any other topic, and impress upon them more strongly than the big metropolitan newspaper, which is really a stranger."

The judgment of an authority like Brisbane amounts to something. Take his advice, then, and advertise in THE CHRONICLE, the paper that is your friend.

Government May Tax Soft Drinks.

A stamp tax on soft drinks, as well as beer and patent medicines, is contemplated by members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which is preparing an emergency internal revenue bill to offset treasury losses due to curtailment of imports. It is urged that soft drinks are as much luxuries as wines or beer, and that an equitable distribution of the tax burden among all consumers would be accomplished by this plan.

Another suggestion is a stamp tax of 5 or 10 per cent. on railroad tickets and admission to theaters, baseball parks and other licensed amusements. It is estimated that from $50,000,000 to $80,000,000 could be raised in this way.

A doubling of the present tax on beer, it is estimated by Treasury experts, would produce $65,000,000. Some committee members, however, feel that taxation of commodities other than beer and patent medicine would cause less popular friction.

FABLES IN SLANG

GEORGE ADE

The New Fable of Everybody's Friend and the Line-Bucker.

In a sequestered Dump lived two Urchins, Edgar and Rufus, who went to the Post with about an equal Handicap.

They got away together down the broad Avenue of Hope which leads one Lad over the hills and far away to the United States Senate Chamber and guides another unerringly to the Federal Pen near Leavenworth, Kansas.

When Edgar was a Tootsey he received a frequent dusting with Extreme Violet Talcum Powder and was allowed to play with a flaxen-haired Doll named Celeste.

About the same time, Rufus began to take Cold Baths and was propped up to look at Pictures of Napoleon and John L. Sullivan and Sitting Bull.

At School each was a trifle Dumb. If Edgar fell down on an Exam, his Relatives would call a Mass Meeting to express Regrets and hang Crape all over the Place.

If Rufus got balled up in his Answers, his immediate Kin would pat him on the Back and tell him he was right and the Text-Book was wrong.

Edgar would emerge from the Feathers every morning to find his Parents all lined up to wish him a new set of Police Regulations.

They held up the Rigid Forefinger and warned him that he was merely a Grain of Dust and a Weakening and a poor juvenile Mutt whose Mission in Life was to Lie Down and Behave.

Rufus would be aroused each Sunrise by a full Military Band of 60 Pieces playing "Hail to the Chief who in Triumph Advances."

Between the Buckwheats and the Sorghum, the two Family Boosters would slip him the pleasing Information that never since the Morning Stars pulled their first Harmonies had there bounded into the Arena another such Prodigy of Intellectual Brilliancy and Physical Valor.

Consequently when Rufus hit the Fresh Air, with the McGuffey under the Arm, he wore his Chest about a foot in front of him.

He acknowledged with a Slight Nod the Salutation from some Member of the Town Board.

Edgar, staggering under a Ton of Restrictive Advice, would spot Rufus

Smeared and Disarranged.

at a Distance and sneak into an Alley, because he didn't wish to get Blood all over his Clean Waist.

Whenever Edgar was forced into a Battle and came home smeared and disarranged, his Mother would go to her Room and Cry softly and Father would Paint a vivid Word-Picture of a Wretch standing on the Gallows with a Black Cap over his Head.

Then Edgar would crawl to the Hay-Mow and brood over his Moral Infirmities and try in a groping way to figure out his Relation to Things in General.

But, when Rufus appeared all dripping with Gore, his Seconds would cool him out and rub him with Witch Hazel and pin Medals on him and indicate to him on a Chart the exact latitude and longitude of the Solar Plexus.

His Parents made the Grave Mistake of backing him to the Limit. They pumped him full of Courage every Morning and set him out to Lick all Comers.

No wonder he became as pugnacious as U. S. Grant, as conceded as a Successful Business Man and as self-assured as a Chautauqua Lecturer.

Everyone disliked him intensely but just the same they stepped off into the Mud and gave him the entire double width of Cement Sidewalk.

Edgar, on the other hand, was one of the most popular Door-Mats that ever had "Welcome" marked up and down his Spinal Column.

All those who scratched Matches on him and used him as a Combination Hall-Tree and Hitching Post used to remark that he didn't have an Enemy in the World.

They had corralled his Goat, so he had to play the Part himself.

It had been dinged into him that True Politeness means to wait until everyone else has been Served and then murmur a few Thanks for the Leavings.

Besides, his Parents had convinced him that if he went Fishing he wouldn't get a Nibble, and if he climbed a Tree he would fall and break his Leg, and if he tried to manipulate more than Two Dollars at one time, he would go Blink.

Therefore, when he was in College, Rufus acted as plunging Half-Back, with Blue Smoke coming from his Nostrils, and achieved the undying Distinction of being singled out by Walter Camp.

Edgar sat up on the Bleachers with 2,800 other Mere Students and lent a quavering Tenor to a Song about Alma Mater.

Even the Undergrads could not take the Tuck out of Rufus.

He was fresher than Green Paint and his Work was Raw, but he was so Resilient that no one could pin him to the Mat and keep him there.

When a Boy has been told 877 times a Day for many Years that he is the Principal Feature of the Landscape, it takes more than ordinary Doctoring to Cure him.

He left College thoroughly convinced that the World was his Oyster and that he had an Opener in every Pocket.

He began grabbing Public Service Utilities by Strong-Arm methods, whereupon a lot of Uplifters became excited and wanted some one else to head him off.

He put things Across because when he tucked the Ball under his Arm and began to dig for the Goal of his Immediate Ambition, all the Friends of Public Weal were scared Blue and retired behind the Ropes.

Edgar took his Degree out into the Cold World and began to make apologetic Inquiries regarding Humble Employment which would involve no Responsibilities.

He became an Office Lawyer of the dull gray Variety with a special Aptitude for drawing up Leases and examining Abstracts.

He could not face a Jury or fight a Case because the fond Parents had put the Sign on him and robbed him of all his Gimp.

But a Nice Fellow?

You know it.

Anyone who had a Book to sell, or a Petition to be signed, or a Note that needed endorsing came dashing right into Edgar's Office and hailed him as the Champion Patsy of the Universe.

Not one of these ever ventured into the Lair of the Street Railway Czar, for he knew that Rufus might jump over the Mahogany Table and bite him in the Arm.

Even Edgar, when he made a Business Call on Boyhood Friend and loving Classmate, was permitted to wait in the Outer Room, resting his Hat on his knees, and mingling on terms of Equality with the modish Typist and the scornful Secretary.

And when they went away to look at some Properties, Rufus took the State-room while Edgar drew an Upper.

Any great big Brute of a Man with a Tigerish Instinct for pouncing on each Good Thing and then hanging on to it like Grim Death, never can win the Esteem of the envious but anaemic Gallery.

Everyone at the Club referred to Edgar as a Good Old Scout, but when all the Push gathered at the Round Table and some one let fall the Name of the High-Binder, they would open up on Rufus and Pan him to a Whisker.

Then Rufus would enter in his Fur Coat, upsetting Furniture and Servants as he swept through the Loun-ling Room.

Immediately there would be an Epidemic of Goose Pimples and a Rush to shake Hands with him.

Rufus was sinfully Rich, but nevertheless Detestable, because his Family had drilled into him the low-down Habit of getting the Jump on the Other Fellow.

Edgar may live in a Rented House, but he will always have the inward Satisfaction of knowing that he is a sweet and courteous Gentleman with Pink Underwear, and a Masonic Charm on his Watch Chain.

When Edgar answers the Call, the Preacher will speak briefly from the Text, "Blessed are the Meek."

If the Death Angel succeeds in pulling down Rufus, the same Minister will find a Suggestion for his Remarks in those inspiring Words, "I have fought the Good Fight."

MORAL: The Scrapper is seldom beloved but he gets a Run for his Ticket.

Useful on Occasion.

"You mean to say Crimson Gulch has an anti-gambling law?"

"Yes," replied Three-Finger Sam.

"We had to have some way of breaking up the game when a tenderfoot come along and gets to winning all the money."

Proper Time for Seeding Hairy Vetch

Should Be Sown With Wheat Or Rye In Well Prepared Seed Bed.

NICKOLAS SCHMITZ.

Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Hairy Vetch should be sown the latter part of July or fore part of August in the mountain sections. Between the mountain section and the coastal plain it should be seeded the last of August or fore part of September. In the coastal plain section it may be seeded between the middle of August and the first of October. It should never be seeded in the spring.

VETCH BREAST HIGH.

The seed should be sown at the rate of 25 to 30 pounds per acre, and if a hay crop is desired a bushel of wheat, or one-half bushel of rye should be sown with it. It should always be sown broadcast. It may be sown through the wheat compartment of the wheat drill and if small grain is sown with it, the seed may be mixed and sown together.

Unless either vetch or garden peas have been sown on the land it is not safe to attempt growing it without inoculation. The best way to inoculate is by the use of soil from where either native or hairy vetch has grown successfully.

There is on the market a variety known as spring or common vetch. Many claim it to be equal to hairy vetch, but this is not true. Common vetch is an absolute failure in Maryland and farmers should always demand hairy vetch when buying seed.

SOWING CRIMSON CLOVER WITH GRAIN FOR HAY.

NICKOLAS SCHMITZ.

Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Where it is desired to mow crimson clover for hay it is a good practice to sow with the clover a small grain crop. On the Eastern Shore and in Southern Maryland winter oats is best suited for this, but wheat is nearly as good. The grain prevents lodging to a considerable extent, facilitates the curing of the clover hay, in that the mixture dries out quicker than the clover alone, and if cocked the small grain sheds the water better. The total yield is also increased and while the hay is lessened a little in feeding value the mixture is better suited to horses than the clover alone. The best time to cut the mixture is when the blossoms on the clover begin to fall.

The rate of seeding for the mixture is the usual amount of clover as when seeding it alone, but the small grain should be seeded at about half the normal rate or a little less.

WELL-PACKED PEACHES BRING BEST PRICES.

How To Put Them Up To Insure a Firm Pack.

W. R. BALLARD.

Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Peaches should be carefully graded, putting only the largest, well-colored and unblemished fruit in the first grade. The proper placing of them in carrier baskets makes all the difference between a good pack and a poor one and between a good price and a moderate price for fruit of the same grade. The best method is that followed in making the diamond pack. The general principle of this pack is that no peach rests directly on top of any other peach, but rather above and between two other fruits, or one fruit and the side of the basket. The number of fruits per basket in this pack depends upon their size, but the general scheme of arranging them is the same and the tip ends should all point the same direction. With medium sized fruit the first row across the basket in the bottom tier has two fruits, the second row has two, alternating with the first two, the third row has two alternating with the second, and the fourth and fifth rows alternate similarly. The fruits in the middle tier alternate with those of the bottom tier and those in the top tier alternate with the middle tier, being exactly above the bottom tier. This pack requires 30 peaches. With large fruits it requires only two layers to fill a basket instead of three. The size will determine the number of tiers and how the fruits must be arranged in the basket.

Mixing this slacked lime with fine earth before spreading will make it less disagreeable to handle.
