LORD ROBERTS' LAST ADVICE

APPEALED TO ENGLAND

To Take Up Arms to a Man And Save Country

DEAD GENERAL IDOL OF ARMY

Born in India and Had a Notable Military Career.—Won African War for England.—Died at the Front on a Visit.

Field Marshall Lord Roberts, England's oldest general and popular hero of the South African war, who died at the front at 8 o'clock last Sunday evening, had for years been preaching the doctrine of British military unpreparedness, and when he retired from active service in 1905 he devoted his time to attempting to arouse all England to the urgent necessity of adopting compulsory military training and service. His earnestness in this regard caused him to be looked upon by opponents as a fanatic upon the subject.

"I maintain unreservedly," he said, in speaking of the present war, "that the conflict has been forced upon us by the action of the Pan-German advisers of the German emperor. The whole resources of the German nation, naval, military, financial, political, journalistic and educational, have been prepared with Teutonic thoroughness for this struggle.

"There is but one duty for the British citizen at the present time—men and women, young and old, rich and poor, all alike must place everything at the service of the State. Nothing must be kept back—time, energy, money, talents, even life itself, must be freely offered in this supreme crisis.

"As to our own reasons for going to war, they were given officially by the Foreign Office in the following terms:

"Owing to the summary rejection by the German Government of the request made by his majesty's Government for assurance that the neutrality of Belgium would be respected * * * his majesty's Government has declared to the German Government that a state of war exists between Great Britain and Germany as from 11 P. M. on August 4."

"The Prime Minister on Aug. 6 explained in the clearest terms our reasons for going to war. 'If I am asked,' he said, 'what we are fighting for, I can reply in two sentences. In the first place, to fulfill an honorable obligation. * * * Secondly, we are fighting to vindicate the principal that small nationalities are not to be crushed, in defiance of international good faith, by the arbitrary will of a strong and overmastering power.' No nation which has been constrained to draw the sword could wish for a better cause than is here set down. How proud a thing it is for a nation to stand up as a defender of its own faith and as a champion of the oppressed, especially when there is the clearest proof that those responsible for its foreign policy made every conceivable effort to secure a peaceful solution of the difficulties which had arisen.

"These, then are the spiritual ideas which underlie this terrible conflict, and they should lead every British citizen to devote all his means, energy and even life itself, to bring the war to a successful conclusion.

"These aspects of the war, strong in themselves, are reinforced by material considerations. The struggle, commenced in support of high ideals of honorable obligations, of a noble resolve to succor and protect a brave but feeble State, has resolved itself into a struggle for self preservation. For let there be no mistake on this head, if Germany wins in this war, it means the downfall of the British empire.

"Two years ago, at a crowded meeting in Manchester, I said to my fellow-countrymen: 'Arm and prepare to quit yourselves like men, for the time of your ordeal is at hand.' I claim a hearing, therefore, when I say to day: 'Arm

Coffee Consumption Has Increased.

Statistics just published show that the consumption of coffee in the United States has increased from 2.98 pounds per year for each person in 1830, to an estimated 10.31 pounds per person in 1914. The yearly consumption for each person, averaged by periods of 20 years, and compiled from reports of the United States Department of Commerce shows: 1854-1873, 5.786 pounds; 1874-1893, 8.118 pounds; 1894-1913, 10.256 pounds. The production of coffee in the crop year 1913-1914 is estimated at over 18,000,000 bags as compared with a production of 16,373,000 bags in the crop year 1912-1913.

$1,500,000 FOR FOOTBALL GAMES

Enormous Proceeds From Gridiron's Short Season And Few Big Games.

"Receipts $125,000." This will be the statement after the Harvard-Yale game, to be played tomorrow.

In other years football attendance was made up largely of students or graduates of the universities engaged in the battling. That part of the public which had no alma mater and which got all its learning in the grammar schools or in the schools of business didn't patronize the games to any extent. But this year it is different.

Football has made a strong appeal to all the classes in the past two years. The adoption of the open-style game that permits the spectators to see what is going on and which simplifies the game from the spectator's viewpoint has enabled tens of thousands of persons to grasp the intricacies of football and these thousands have become enthusiastic rooters.

The receipts of the Harvard-Michigan game were in the neighborhood of $50,000. The Harvard-Princeton game receipts were over $70,000. The Yale-Princeton receipts were $70,000.

The receipts for the three big games would have been larger had the accommodations for spectators been greater. The Yale Bowl will seat 70,000. When it was in the course of construction it was said by some that the stands never could be filled. Yet requests for more than 125,000 seats were made for that game. The requests for seats for the Yale Princeton game were thousands in excess of the ticket supply.

It is estimated that when the season closes more than 1,000,000 persons will have witnessed the big games and that at an average of $1.50 per head $1,500,000 will have been the outlay.

Ireland Claims Woodrow Wilson.

Several towns in County Down, Ireland, confer upon Woodrow Wilson the Homeric honor of claiming him as a grandson. The President's grandfather, James Wilson, is known to have been a printer in County Down. He was the first of the immediate family to emigrate to America and, perhaps in consequence of the political troubles of 1798, which led to a large emigration from the north of Ireland, he came to America and early in the nineteenth century established a newspaper at Steubenville, O. The fact is abundantly established that President Wilson is of North of Ireland ancestry—his mother was a Woodrow, born in Carlisle, England—but the President's family, in common with many other American families which have achieved distinction here, has an uncertain geographical origin. The Wilsons are scattered all over the North of Ireland and tourists in Belfast are told by the enterprising hotel porters that the President's grandfather was born in that part of Belfast now occupied by the great shipyards.

Signs of Returning Prosperity.

Five thousand men, who have been idle since the outbreak of the European war, returned to work today at the mills of the United States Steel Corporation at Gary, Ind. The force, it was announced, will be increased as business conditions warrant.

Bank clearings for last week, the country over, were larger by more than a hundred million dollars than they were the week before.

The New York Cotton Exchange opened yesterday without any untoward incident. Everything went along about as it had been expected to.

The New York Metal Exchange was opened yesterday and the Curb Market has likewise been in successful operation for several days.

Money rates in New York have fallen below six per cent. Clearing house certificates and emergency currency are being retired rapidly. The savings banks have discontinued the practice of requiring sixty days' notice of withdrawal of deposits.

Dangerous Counterfeit Note Appears.

A United States $5 silver certificate bearing the number E72113791 and considered by Federal officials to be the most dangerous counterfeit of recent years has made its appearance in Baltimore. The notes passed there have been rumpled and subject to sufficient handling to give a better impression of genuineness and are said to be so nearly perfect as to deceive anyone except the most expert money handler. It is said to be the best work of counterfeiters since the spurious $100 silver certificates of half a dozen years ago.

Pope Benedict has appointed a committee composed of Cardinals Merry del Val, Bisleti and Gagliano to prepare plans for the erection of a sepulchral monument to the late Pope Pius X in the crypt of St. Peters.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

In has long been the honored custom of our people to turn in the fruitful autumn of the year in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for his many blessings and mercies to us as a nation. The year that is now drawing to a close since we last observed our day of national thanksgiving has been, while a year of discipline because of the mighty forces of war and of change which have disturbed the world, also a year of special blessing for us.

It has been vouchsafed to us to remain at peace, with honor, and in some part to succor the suffering and supply the needs of those who are in want. We have been privileged by our own peace and self-control in some degree to steady the counsels and shape the hopes and purposes of a day of fear and distress. Our people have looked upon their own life as a nation with a deeper comprehension, a fuller realization of their responsibilities as well as of their blessings and a keener sense of the moral and practical significance of what their part among the nations of the world may come to be.

The hurtful effects of foreign war in their own industrial and commercial affairs have made them feel the more fully and see the more clearly their mutual interdependence upon one another, and has stirred them to a helpful co-operation such as they have seldom practiced before. They have been quickened by a great moral stimulation. Their unmistakable ardor for peace, their earnest pity and disinterested sympathy for those who are suffering, their readiness to help and to think of the needs of others, has revealed them to themselves as well as to the world.

Our crops will feed all who need food; the self possession of our people amidst the most serious anxieties and difficulties, and the steadiness and resourcefulness of our business men will serve other nations as well as our own.

The business of the country has been supplied with new instrumentalities and the commerce of the world with new channels of trade and intercourse. The Panama canal has been opened to the commerce of the nations. The two continents of America have been bound in closer ties of friendship. New instrumentalities of international trade have been created which will be also new instrumentalities of acquaintance, intercourse and mutual service. Never before have the people of the United States been so situated for their own advantage or the advantage of their neighbors or so equipped to serve themselves and mankind.

Now, therefore, I Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday the twenty-sixth of November next as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and invite the people throughout the land to cease from their wonted occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks to Almighty God.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this twenty-eighth day of October, in the year of Our Lord One thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-ninth.

WOODROW WILSON.

By the President:
ROBERT LANSING,
Acting Secretary of State.

SIX DAY BICYCLE RACE ON

World's Leading Riders on Long Grind In New York.—New Rules.

To-morrow night at 10.05, the annual six day bicycle race at the Madison Square Garden, New York, will come to a close. Eighteen teams, made up of the world's leading bicycle riders, started the race a few minutes past midnight last Sunday.

As heretofore, the contests are of 142 hours' duration, but this year the leaders, at the conclusion of the one-hundred-and-forty-first hour, will spend the final hour in a series of sprints, during which the team making the greatest number of points by leading at intervals of 15 laps will be declared the winner of the first money prize of $1,500. Five other teams will receive cash prizes according to their point standing at the expiration of the time limit.

Some of the European riders who took part in this event in former years have been killed or wounded in the war but many familiar names are among the 36 competitors who make up the teams. These include Walthour, Moran, Fogler, Root and the Bedell brothers, all American riders who have either won the principal prize or shared in the money awards in the previous years. France has four representatives—Seres, Dupuy, Cousseau and Parent, the latter having been discharged only a few weeks ago from the French army after he had recovered from a bullet wound in the leg which he received during the battle at Charleroi.

According to the reports of the College Christian Association, 261 actively engaged in some form of community service last year in the towns or cities where their institutions were located.

European nations, on account of the war, will not take part in the opening of the Panama Canal.

CONCRETE THE ROAD OF FUTURE

Chairman Weller So Predicts After American Roads Congress.

That concrete roads in coming years will be the general roads throughout America, was the prediction of Chairman O. E. Weller, of the State Roads Commission, upon his return from the American Roads Congress in Atlanta. Mr. Weller was especially enthusiastic over the road congress and the benefits it will bring to road building throughout the country. Of all his impressions, however, that dealing with the apparent future of concrete roads stands out most prominently.

"When we began to build concrete roads," said Mr. Weller, "there were many experts who were doubtful about the success and worth of such roads. We encountered much doubt and some criticism, but today conditions are different. From every section of the country reports were made to the congress of the success and practicability of concrete roads, and such highways are no longer a success in theory only. Based on the views expressed last week, I believe that concrete will gradually, with practical limitations, replace waterbound macadam and that concrete roads will become the general highways throughout the country. Of course, at all times every variety of roads will be built. In some places only dirt roads will be practical, and at other places only water-bound macadam, and I base my predictions on the future of concrete as a general proposition."

Maryland is one of the pioneers in concrete roads, nearly 200 miles of such highways having been completed throughout the state.

The states which prohibit the sale of liquor are: Arizona, Colorado, Georgia, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee, Virginia, Washington, and West Virginia.

MGR. SHAHAN MADE BISHOP

Many Mobile Prelates Take Part in Consecration at Baltimore Cathedral.

Cardinal Gibbons, three archbishops and many bishops, monsignori and clergy of high rank participated in the elaborate and impressive service Sunday morning at the Cathedral, Baltimore, to mark the consecration of Mgr. Thomas J. Shahan, president of the Catholic University, Washington, as a bishop, and thus to signify his elevation by the Pope to a place in the hierarchy of the Catholic Church.

In the number of distinguished clergy present, in the gorgeousness of the robes worn, in the beauty of the music of the mass, the length and solemnity of the procession, and in the deep and fervent singing of the mass itself, the ceremony has rarely, if ever, been surpassed, at the Cathedral. This event will rank with those of importance in the history of the church that have occurred at the historic Cathedral. Rain marred some of the outdoor features planned.

Members of the faculty of the Catholic University in cap and gown, national officers of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, a delegation of priests from the Hartford diocese, of which Monsignor Shahan was formerly a member before called upon to undertake his important work at the Catholic University, and other visitors were in line and given special seats at the ceremony. The students and faculty of St. Mary's Seminary were in attendance, and thus showed their pride in the honor paid to the head of a neighboring Catholic educational institution.

The three archbishops in their striking robes were Edmond F. Prendergast of Philadelphia, Henry Moeller of Cincinnati and James H. Blenk, of New Orleans. The bishops were from dioceses nearby.

Old Church Formally Reopened.

Old Trinity Church, Church Creek, one of the oldest churches in Maryland, which has recently been put in thorough repair by popular subscription, was formally reopened Sunday afternoon when services were conducted by Rev. Borden Smith, of Trappe, assisted by Rev. C. S. Hinks, rector of Christ Church, Cambridge. Music was furnished by the choir of Christ Church. The church was built of brick brought over from England, and was erected in the time of Queen Anne, who presented it with a communion service, and the cushion on which she knelt for her coronation. The churchyard contains about two acres fronting on Church Creek, to which it gave its name. The church has a seating capacity of about 150. The floor was formerly of brick and was a step below the pews, but the tiles were covered with a plank floor some 60 years ago.

Long Drought Broken.

The inch and three-quarters of rain which fell on Sunday last brought to an end one of the worst fall droughts that Frederick county has experienced for years. The day's precipitation was heavier than for the entire month of October. The situation had become very serious for the farmers. The wheat had begun to suffer for want of moisture. On account of the dryness of the fodder corn husking had to cease and plowing was impossible because of the hard, dry soil.

The rain effectively checked the forest fires which had been raging on Catocin mountain for ten days, destroying thousands of dollars worth of timber.

Palmer Memorial Stadium, Princeton.

The magnitude of the Palmer Memorial Stadium at Princeton—in which the Yale-Princeton game was played last Saturday—can be waged from the amount of material used. The items are as follows: 78,000 bags of cement, 6,000 cubic yards of sand, 11,000 cubic yards of stone, 450 tons of steel reinforcement, 374,400 square feet of wire mesh, 8,000 gallons of crude oil, 1,670,000 feet of lumber and 1,200 kegs of nails. The seating capacity of the stadium is 41,527.

Big Income From Our Islands.

The National Geographic Society reports that the United States now owns exactly 8,000 islands, supporting a population of 10,000,000. The commerce of these islands exceeds $300,000,000, or more than that of the United States in any year prior to 1850. American capital invested in the islands aggregates approximately $400,000,000 and from there is shipped to the United States $100,000,000 worth of products every year, and they take in exchange products of about equal value.

It has been estimated that the steel rails mills of the country have a capacity for turning out more than 5,500,000 tons of rails annually.

THE OCTAGON HOUSE

HOME OF A PRESIDENT

First of a Series of Historical Markers to be Dedicated

PRESIDENT WILL UNVEIL TABLET

To Commemorate Its Use as Executive Mansion After British Wrecked Washington in 1814.—Treaty of Ghent Ratified There.

At noon on the second of December President Wilson will pull a string that will unveil a marble stone set in the wall of Octagon House. These words cut in it will then be revealed:

"This building, known as the Octagon, built in 1800 for Colonel John Tayloe of Mount Airy, Virginia, was occupied by President Madison after the burning of the President's house by the British on Aug. 14, 1814. Here the Treaty of Ghent was ratified by Madison Feb. 17, 1815."

The unveiling of this tablet will take place under the auspices of the American Institute of Architects which will be in convention in Washington at that time. President R. Clifton Sturgis of the institute will introduce Mr. Wilson.

The tablet thus formally presented to the world is one of the first of a series of historical markers for which Congress made appropriations a couple of years ago. The stone, therefore, bears the great seal of the United States of America—its only decoration. Some member of Congress yet to be selected will be present at the unveiling.

Octagon House is one of the show places in Washington. It is a fine brick Colonial mansion standing at the corner of New York avenue and Eighteenth street, half a block from the Corcoran Museum, and so within three good stones' throw of the White House. Its chief title to historical fame is its service as President's House during the year or so that followed the burning of the White House by the British. Today it is the official headquarters of the American Institute of Architects.

Octagon House faces the angle of the corner on which it stands. The material is brick, trimmed with Aquia Creek sandstone. The lot is triangular, and is bounded by high brick walls. The interior is well finished and in an excellent state of preservation. There is fine mahogany woodwork downstairs. In the circular hallway two quaint black iron stoves catch the eye, while in the rooms the large fireplaces, particularly that in the parlor, are surmounted by mantels of great beauty.

The Treaty of Ghent was ratified in the circular room on the second floor, now used as an office by the secretary of the institute. It is a handsome room, facing southwest, full of sunshine during the working hours of the day. In the middle of it stands, protected by a glass cover, the circular table used by President Madison when perforce the executive offices of the republic were moved over to Octagon House. On the many drawers of this table there are little ivory labels, marked with the letters of the alphabet, sometimes as many as three letters on each label. This was the presidential filing system of a century ago!

The house has secret doors and passages, and tunnels, now ruined, lead out of the cellars in several directions.

During the lifetime of Colonel John Tayloe and undoubtedly for many years thereafter, Octagon House was a social center in Washington. Tayloe himself was a millionaire for those times, having at the age of twenty an income of nearly $60,000 a year, and when he built the Octagon he is reported to have been worth $75,000 a year. He was an intimate friend of George Washington, upon whose advice he built his winter house in Washington City. "At this period," declared an official description of the house written by Glenn Brown, "Colonel Tayloe was distinguished for the unrivaled splendor of his household Collections From Panama Canal.

Total collections of tolls for passage through the Panama Canal from the date of its opening to Nov. 1 amount to $735,182, according to official advices received here. In addition $11,610 was collected for the passages of barges through the canal before the waterway was opened to general traffic on Aug. 15, making the grand total earned by the canal $746,792. From Aug. 15 to Aug. 31 $88,333 was collected; September yielded $269,763, while October brought in $377,086, showing an increase of 40 per cent over September. A monthly increase is expected to continue as shipping adapts itself more and more to the canal routes.

Farmers Should Raise Well-Bred Horses

Should Plan To Meet European Demand—Fall Breeding Recommended.

R. H. RUFFNER,
Maryland Agricultural College.
To meet the probable European demand for horses during the next few years, Maryland farmers may well turn their attention to the possibilities in raising well-bred horses, although they are not advised to undertake the business too hurriedly or at too great an outlay of capital for breeding stock. It is urged, however, that the farm work should be done whenever possible by good mares which should be bred to good stallions. Only horses of first quality may be profitably raised today. Inferior horses are a drag on the market, and their production is to be discouraged as much as the production of good horses should be encouraged.

There is no better time than the present for the ambitious farmer to breed his good mares with a view to supplying the market that the next few years will open up to him. Some may no doubt object to fall breeding. As a matter of fact, the fall is a better time for breeding a work mare than the spring. The colt dropped a year from now will not, it is true, be on pasture for some months. On the other hand, he will be suckling his dam at a time when she is not as hard worked as she is in the open season. The colt also during this time depends far more on its dam for its nourishment than on what feed it can pick up. By the time he is ready for grain and hay feeding the winter will be well over and the spring pasturage will be coming on at the very time when the growing colt needs it the most in making growth. The dam at this time also is needed for heavy farm work, yet the colt will not suffer as he would when still a few weeks old if his mother is overworked or not quite up to her best condition.

Most of our horses must be produced by the small farmer rather than the owner of a breeding farm. Such a farmer cannot always afford to give the dam as good a chance as she should have for giving her offspring the very best of nourishment. This plan avoids to a great degree any setbacks to the colt or loss of the use of the mare at a busy time. It also enables many farmers whose main business is grain production to breed a few well-bred workers, that will pay well for the time and effort expended on their raising.

GET RID OF ROUP IN YOUR FLOCK

ROY H. WAITE,
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

A number of cases of roup have been reported recently. The immediate cause of this disease is one or more of a number of different bacterial organisms. It is probable that most of these germs are present and available to the fowls at all times. As a rule, however, they cannot get a foot-hold and a chance to put in their deadly work until the birds become weakened in some way so that they cannot ward off the attacks. Drafts, dampness, sudden changes in temperature, faulty feeding, uncleanness, lice, and mites, in fact, anything which depresses the birds, tends to weaken them and at the opportune time, the germs get in their work. After the bacteria have gone through a few birds they gain virulence or strength and are then able to attack stronger birds. The symptoms of roup are not very clearly defined. It is hard to tell where colds leave off and roup begins, but when your birds are coughing and sneezing, having inflamed mouths, nostrils or eyes, a running at the nose or swollen eye socket, it is time to see what is going on. Look for the cause and remove it, separate and isolate all affected birds and keep them in a dry, clean place. Get rid of all weak birds, and if you simply must give some medicine, give the whole flock a dose of Epsom salts—a teaspoonful to each two birds. The whole amount of salts can be dissolved in water and the water used to moisten a feed of mash. Put a few drops of carbolic acid in the drinking water. Birds can stand a good deal of carbolic acid.

CATTLE ON FUSS FARM KILLED

Government Experts Supervise Work.—No Hunting With Dogs Until Quarantine Is Lifted.

On Tuesday afternoon two government experts, attired in gum coats, gum boots and gum caps, supervised the work of killing the 39 head of cattle, 22 shoats and 10 head of hogs on the farm of Mrs. Mary M. Fuss, near Emmitsburg, where about 10 cases of the hoof-and-mouth disease were discovered.

Onlookers were not allowed to be near where the work was done. The trench, in which the carcasses of the stock are buried, was 82 feet long, 7 feet deep and 7 feet wide. The animals were shot and then buried and covered with quick lime.

After the killing the premises were thoroughly disinfected. Since the disease was discovered on the place, the poultry has been penned up, in accordance with the instructions of the government men, but it is not thought that it will be necessary to kill the turkeys and chickens.

Governor Goldsborough has made the quarantine to prevent the spread of the foot-and-mouth disease more rigid by publishing a proclamation that makes it unlawful to allow dogs to run about, with hunters or otherwise, until the quarantine is lifted.

There are nearly a dozen counties to which this proclamation applies, as follows: Frederick, Allegany, Washington, Carroll, Howard, Harford, Cecil, Baltimore, Montgomery, Prince George's and Anne Arundel. Sportsmen will have to go some distance now if they want to enjoy hunting, for in the neighboring counties as well as in this county the ban against hunting applies.

The State authorities feel that dogs, if allowed to run from one place to another, would spread the infection and make the work of exterminating the disease harder than it really is. Those interested in the health of livestock and are anxious to see this scourge promptly wiped out will observe the order of the State officials to the very letter.

State and Federal officials who are fighting the epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease among the cattle of the State expect to have it licked at the end of this week. They have been going night and day since the outbreak started and now have the situation well in hand.

Dr. W. C. Seigmund, of the Federal Bureau of Animal Husbandry, has 11 men at work in Maryland. Three of these are in Washington county, three in Frederick, two in Baltimore, two in Montgomery and one in Howard. In addition to these and the State inspectors, veterinarians all over the State have been asked to assist by every means in their power in stamping out the disease and in tracing sick animals.

Connecticut and Montana were Tuesday placed under Federal quarantine because of the outbreak of the disease in those States. This brings the number of States under quarantine up to 16. In Connecticut it was found that 16 herds within a radius of 15 miles of Hartford were infected with the disease.

The second outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease in Frederick county was discovered Tuesday on the Clark farm, near Dickerson, tenanted by William H. McKimsey. Several head of cattle and some hogs are suffering with the dreaded disease. There are about 30 head of cattle, 100 hogs, many ready for slaughter, and 50 sheep on the place. All the stock will be killed, in all probability, although there may be some question about the killing of the sheep.

It is thought that the infected cattle on the McKimsey place came from either Chicago or Buffalo. It was found that the cattle passed through the stockyards in Baltimore. After an investigation, some cattle purchased by a New Market dealer were found to be free from the disease.

Rheumatism

Just put a few drops of Sloan's on the painful spot and the pain stops. It is really wonderful how quickly Sloan's acts. No need to rub it in—laid on lightly it penetrates to the bone and brings relief at once. Kills rheumatic pain instantly.

Mr. James E. Alexander, of North Harpswell, Me., writes: "Many strains in my back and hips brought on rheumatism in the sciatic nerve. I had it so bad one night when sitting in my chair, that I had to jump on my feet to get relief. I at once applied your Liniment to the affected part and in less than ten minutes it was perfectly easy. I think it is the best of all Liniments I have ever used."

Hagerstown—Dr. J. McPherson Scott has started his boom for the Republican nomination for Governor. His skill as a vote-getter is attested by his being elected three times as Mayor of Hagerstown. The Scott boom is highly pleasing to the Washington county Republicans. It is well known that the Governorship has been a cherished goal with Colonel Schley in the past, but his friends believe that he will not be enticed into any fight unless there is a good chance to win.

Hagerstown—Liberal contributions are being made by citizens of Hagerstown for the fund being raised to send a shipload of provisions, clothing and other necessities from Baltimore to the starving residents of Belgium.

Hagerstown—The Standard Oil Company is erecting a large fireproof three-story brick storage building in Hagerstown to replace the building burned some months ago. The new stables of the company will also be fireproof.

Hagerstown—The Western Maryland Railway Company is erecting a two-story brick building 20 by 40 feet just south of the shops in this city for use of the electrical department of the road. A short distance north of the electrical building a paint shop will be erected by the company.

Cumberland—Residents of Allegany county are raising a fund to build a road from Frostburg to St. John's Rock, a short distance above Frostburg, the highest point in the Allegany Mountains in this vicinity, 3,980 feet above sea level.

Cumberland—Fire destroyed the house of Henry Wiegand Sunday afternoon at La Vale, two miles from here. The loss amounts to $6,000, covered by insurance. Everything was consumed, house, furniture, clothing and personal effects, there being no means available to fight the flames, which soon gained rapid headway.

Elkton—Carroll Quimby, while gunning Monday was shot and painfully wounded by a fellow-hunter who in firing at a rabbit failed to notice Quimby in his path.

Cumberland—The proposition submitted by J. C. Mayer & Co., of Cincinnati, for the buying of $150,000 worth of city paying bonds was rejected unanimously Monday morning by the City Council. The company offered to take the bonds at the rate of five per cent. providing they were allowed $5,250 as a commission.

Thurmont—The postoffice, which has been located in the Thurmont Bank Building for some years, will be moved to the lower floor in the Masonic Temple building, that place. A heating plant will be installed, a safe placed in the building and other improvements made, which will total in cost about $1,500. Mr. Gernand at present occupies the room as a harness store but he will vacate.

Hagerstown—William T. West, who sued the County Commissioners for $5,000 damages for personal injuries sustained while riding horseback across a county bridge at Yarrowburg, was awarded $50 by a jury.

Hagerstown—At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, Hagerstown had 76 industrial establishments, employing 1,938 persons, who made manufactured products valued at $3,197,242. Of the men employed in the industries, 79 were proprietors and 46 salaried superintendents and managers. The wage-earners totaled 1,718. The capital invested in industries is $2,969,580. Officials drew for their services $45,234; clerks, $70,754, and wage-earners, $582,585. The raw materials cost $1,741,235; fuel, power and rent, $56,674; taxes and internal revenue, $31,033, and $47,666 was paid for contract work. Other expenses were $178,144.

Rockville—The town council has awarded to the Warren F. Brienzier Company, of Washington, the contract for the construction of the sewerage system and to the Capital Construction Company, of Philadelphia, the contract for the construction of the disposal plant for this place. The contractors were given 10 days in which to prepare their bonds. The bonds have been sold to a New York firm at par. It is understood the contractors are ready to begin work at once. It is thought it will require about four months to complete the work. The entire cost, it is estimated, will be in the neighbor of $40,000.

Denton—A citizens' meeting has been called at the courthouse next Monday night to receive the report of a committee now soliciting contributions to the Baltimore Belgian relief fund. The committee was named by Rev. J. Gibson Gantt, chairman of a preliminary meeting which authorized him to appoint it.

Easton—The grand jury for Talbot county, after having been in session but two days, the shortest session on record for 20 years, after investigating 19 cases, examining 50 witnesses and finding eight presentments, came in court Wednesday and was discharged. In its report the jury recommended the strict enforcement of the vagrant law. The jury attributed its short session to the Antishipping Law. There was no violation of the Local Option Law brought before them, a thing that has never been known since the Local Option Law was passed, in 1875. The jury also recommended that it would be better to build five or six miles of road, at $2,000 per mile, than one mile of public road at $10,000 to $12,000 per mile, as it would benefit the greater majority of people of the state rather than the few.

Cumberland—The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Koon and City Commissioners Hummelshime, Eyerman, Eichelberger and Shriver were guests Tuesday on the Edison Electric Illuminating Company at the new generating station on the Potomac river. The plant, which will cost $360,000 is nearing completion.

Rising Sun—The large flour, feed and saw mill of H. J. McCreary, about three miles northeast of this town, was burned Monday night. A quantity of flour, feed, grain and the machinery also were lost.

LORD ROBERTS'
LAST ADVICE

and prepare to quit yourselves like men, for the time of your ordeal has come." Earl Roberts left London Friday with the announced intention of visiting the Indian troops at the front and some of his friends among the officers.

He contracted a chill near the battle line in France which resulted in pneumonia and his death followed shortly after. His age—he was 82 on September last—was a contributory cause of death, although he had been in his usual health lately.

His death will have a sentimental effect upon the situation. Since the outbreak of the present war he had been working hard imploring young men to realize their country's danger and to offer their services in the present war.

Lord Roberts was in active service for nearly 60 years. He was the son of Gen. Sir Abraham Roberts and was born in Cawnpore, India, September 30, 1832. After a school course in England he obtained a commission in the Bengal artillery December 12, 1851. The next year he joined a field battery at Peshawar and was aide-de-camp to his father. At the outbreak of the mutiny in 1857 he was a staff officer, and thereafter for 22 years he had part in all the military operations of the British in India.

He won the Victoria Cross in 1858 by capturing a native standard single-handed from two Sepoys. He was mentioned seven times for gallantry in dispatches during the mutiny, and in 1860 he had won a captain's epaulet and a brevet as major.

In 1867 his services in the campaign in Abyssinia won for him frequent mention in dispatches and medals. In 1871 he fitted out an expedition into Burma and cut his way into the enemy's country through 100 miles of jungle. In 1878 he had command of the frontier field forces and invaded Afghanistan through the northern passes.

His service in South Africa began in 1881, after the Majuba Hill disaster. Order was promptly restored in that district, and in 1885 he was back in India, where distinguished active service for several years, with uniform success, won him various titles and other military honors. He became field marshal in 1895 and Queen Victoria knighted him in 1897.

In 1900 he took command of the English forces in the Boer War in South Africa, prosecuted the campaign with his usual vigor and won the war for the British. For this service he was made commander in chief, and in 1901 Queen Victoria bestowed upon him the Order of the Garter.

An evidence of the high esteem in which the departed general was held by friend and foe alike is given by a German paper, the Lokal Anzeiger, which in an editorial on the death of Lord Roberts, says:

"On the occasion of the death of Lord Roberts the whole German press expresses itself alike, appreciatively, about the fallen enemy. Even in war moments occur when the fighter salutes the enemy with the sabre instead of striking him with it. Such a moment has arisen with the departure of Roberts."

How to Detect Cattle Disease; How to Handle it.

Symptoms and treatment of foot and mouth disease as outlined for the New York World by Dr. H. D. Gill, Dean of the New York Veterinary School, who is in charge of the New York City quarantine for the State Department of Agriculture.

SYMPTOMS.

The disease begins with a very red and angry-looking sore between the two toes. This soon becomes ulcerated and then incrusts with dirt.

Drooling from the mouth follows. On lifting up the lips the mucous membrane will be found to be ulcerated in irregular lines, running often up into the nostrils.

The animal frequently smacks its lips. There is a falling off in weight and in the amount of milk the animal gives.

TREATMENT.

Isolate at once the animals in which the disease appears and those who have been anywhere near them.

Establish an absolute quarantine of the farm.

Do not go near or touch the cow unless you are wearing a rubber coat, rubber boots, and rubber gloves. Disinfect them as soon as you leave with a 6 per cent. solution of carbolic acid.

Communicate by telegraph or telephone with the Maryland State Department of Agriculture or with the United States Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington.

If the disease is found the animal must be killed at once, as well as those which have been exposed to it. The ones that have not contracted the disease may be used for food.

Everything that has been near the cow or may have been a possible source of infection must be disinfected.

"The Thinkers of the Country Are the Tobacco Chewers" said one of the greatest thinkers this country ever produced.

Says the Ball Player:

"There wouldn't be many double plays pulled off, if we players didn't think pretty straight and quick and right. We need snap judgment but it's got to be good judgment too.

"We can't afford to get up in the air except when the ball's up there.

"That's why we use PICNIC TWIST instead of a dark, heavy tobacco. PICNIC TWIST is mild and it's better than water for keeping you from getting dry."

Men everywhere are finding that there's all the tobacco satisfaction in a mild, sweet, long lasting chew of PICNIC TWIST without the "comeback" on the nerves, found in strong tobacco.

Try one of these soft twists of the mild, mellow part of the leaf and see for yourself.

THE OCTAGON HOUSE.

and equipages, and his establishment was renowned through the country for its entertainments, which were given in a most generous manner to all persons of distinction who visited Washington in those days, both Americans and foreigners.

"In the list are included such names as Jefferson (Washington passed away before its completion), Madison, Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Deatur, Porter, Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Randolph, Lafayette, Steuben and Sir Edward Thornton, British minister, and many others of less distinction than the ones named. Colonel Tayloe died in 1828, and his death to a certain extent terminated the splendid hospitalities of the Octagon, which had covered a period of nearly thirty years."

The architect of Octagon House was Dr. William Thornton, born in 1761, died in 1828. He was the successful competitor for the United States Capital, and at Jefferson's request he made designs for the University of Virginia. He designed and supervised buildings for General Washington, Montpelier, the residence of James Madison, the Tudor Place in Georgetown, and many other works of interest. He was one of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, and had charge of executing the plan of the city from 1794 till 1802. He was the organizer of the Patent Office, of which he was superintendent from 1802 till his death.

President Wilson will undoubtedly make his speech the occasion for saying something complimentary about the peaceful relations which exist today between Great Britain and the United States. One curious historical fact, often overlooked, however, is worth pointing out in this connection because the president is not likely to mention it. This fact, vouched for by a recent Federal census, is that the period of the embargo and the War 1812 marks the birth of the factory system in the United States, and thus sets off the years following 1812 from those that preceded it as a brand new industrial era for the country.

The Goose Led Her to Church.

Daddy's Bedtime
Story —

Some Geese
That Were Not Silly.

"NOW, then, silly goose!" Jack had cried as Evelyn jostled him in her eagerness to be first to reach daddy.

"How do you know geese are silly?" daddy asked.

"I read a story the other day about a poor blind woman who lived in a part of Germany where the people keep a great many geese.

"This old lady had a pet goose that followed her about everywhere. She had brought it up from the time it was a tiny gosling and was very fond of it.

"As she grew older the little old lady's eyes began to fail.

"Every Sunday the old lady went to church. When she could no longer see, the goose, which had been used to following her there and waiting outside until she was ready to go home, would come cackling up to her when the church bells began to ring, taking her dress in his bill and starting off with her to the church. When he reached the church door he would let go, and some of the people going inside would lead the old lady to her pew.

"After the services were over she would come out to find her goose waiting for her.

"As soon as it could reach her it would again take hold of the old lady's dress and lead her safely home again.

"I have heard another story of a king who one day took a book and went out in the royal park alone to read. As he walked home after a pleasant afternoon spent outdoors he suddenly remembered that he had left his book under the trees.

"A little boy was minding a flock of geese not far away, and he called him. 'My boy, I will give you this'—and the king held up a gold coin—'if you will run back and fetch my book. I will mind the geese while you are gone.'

"You must be very careful," the little boy warned him. 'You gray goose is the leader of the flock, and if you do not watch out he will lead all the geese away, and then I will get into trouble.'

"The king smiled. He thought if he was clever enough to take care of all the people in his kingdom he could surely manage an old gray goose.

"He found out his mistake. No sooner was the boy gone than the old gray goose began honking to his fellows and marching and countermarching, so that try as he would the king could not head them off.

"When the boy came back with the book the geese were gone, and the king, very red and much ashamed, had to help the boy hunt up his geese.

"And when people flattered him too much and told him what a fine, clever king he was, after that the king always told them of what a failure he had made of minding geese."

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liverys, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

THANKSGIVING.

Next Thursday, in conformity with a time-honored American custom and pursuant to the proclamation of President Wilson, all classes, all creeds will render thanks to Almighty God for the blessings and benefits which He in His infinite mercy has vouchsafed to them throughout the year that has passed. Surely have these blessings and benefits been many and great. To be thankful for them is but natural; not to be most devoutly thankful for them under the extraordinary conditions which prevail in other countries and which set apart these United States as a nation signally blest of God, would be ungrateful indeed.

To be at peace with all nations when almost each but ours is grappling with the other in a death-grip for supremacy—for this alone we owe gratitude incapable of being computed; to have as the head of this Christian nation a Christian leader who, during the many dark hours of doubt and anxiety through which this country has passed within a twelvemonth, has stood for principle, for justice, for national good faith and for peace, is a blessing inestimable.

But in addition to these happy circumstances our crops have been bountiful; the stores in our barns and warehouses are large—food for our own people, sustenance for others less fortunate than ourselves.

If, as the President says, "Our people have looked upon their own life as a nation with a deeper comprehension, a fuller realization of the responsibilities as well as their blessings, and a keener sense of the moral and practical significance of what their part among the nations of the world may come to be," ought we not to be thankful that we have learned the necessity for poise, the value of self-possession, the wisdom of neutrality and the privilege of charity?

If we as a nation have been given so much, from us as a nation, if we realize the full meaning of our responsibility, will much be expected. Let us then thank God, not that we are better or more favored than our brothers, but that we are in a position and are eager to help all who need our help, still willing to aid in any honorable endeavor to bring about universal peace.

CHEER UP.

It is hard often times when all seems to go wrong, to keep cheerful and plod your own way; it is no easy task when you're gloomy and blue to persuade your own self you are gay. But the sooner you learn that most troubles, like eggs, by brooding upon them will hatch, the sooner for every old kind of despair you will find that your nature's a match. Just take a firm hold on your nerve, old pal, and hark to the "cheer up" call, it will help if you heed it, and furnish you strength to back gloomy thoughts to the wall. Ill-health and the Devil and Death ever wait for him who ne'er laughs or grins, so don't be a "gloom" or a "grouch," old man, it's the cheerful fellow who wins.

PREPAREDNESS.

The assertion by General Wotherspoon that this country is unprepared to resist invasion by a first-class power comes as a clinching climax to the many similar assertions repeatedly made by prominent authorities on military affairs. Even to a layman the reasonableness and the practicability of and the necessity for plans such as the retiring Chief of Staff outlines in his report, are apparent. Prate as we may of our prowess, the United States is, from the viewpoint of preparedness, almost helpless. With the armed world in eruption, as it is today, this situation ought to appeal most forcibly to our national lawmakers.

"The individual selfish point of view is the biggest trouble with Americans," says Dr. Lovejoy Elliot, head of the Hudson Guild in New York. Personal happiness, pocket interest, individualistic considerations, self-centeredness—these will never build up a good community nor furnish the requisites for good citizenship. What is best for all should be the uppermost thought of every American, and especially with reference to the individual community in which he lives.

THAT the smaller colleges this year have beaten the big elevers in football or tied the score is a surprise to many. Yet, considering the open play that now obtains, to expect just this result was quite reasonable. It used to be beef and muscle that triumphed. Now it is speed and brains, and the larger colleges have not yet monopolized these two commodities.

THE resourcefulness of both the Germans and the Allies is indeed wonderful; but neither of these contestants seems to have given thought to the possible efficacy of the moth-ball as a projectile. Incidentally, facing a fusillade of high balls would not be considered the worst hazard by the majority of enlisted men.

A thought for those who vote: "Character is formed in the home long before man goes to legislative halls to make laws, and the home makes the man who makes the laws."

COL. ROOSEVELT says: "I am a private citizen of the privatest sort, and I haven't a thing to say about anything." Let us all rise and sing, "Oh Happy Day."

THIS "holy war" appellation is about as appropriate and convincing as "holy murder."

OPEN season in Maryland for gubernatorial candidates.

Money and Talk.

"I want you to tell me what this paper means when it says in its market report that money is cheap," said Mrs. McFee to her husband, who, like all husbands, is supposed to be encyclopedic.

McFee laid down the sporting sheet. "It's simply putting in a brief form the statement that money talks," he replied, "and that talk is cheap."—Judge.

Great African Lake.

Lake Victoria Nyanza, in which the river Nile has its source, measures 230 miles from north to south and 220 from east to west. Its coast line, which is very irregular, is about 2,000 miles. Its water area is estimated at 27,000 square miles, and its islands have an area of some 1,400 square miles.

Woman's Way.

When a good looking neighbor woman begins to sit around the porch when father is home, mother tells father that she is a cat. But if a homely dame comes around when father is home mother says she is "such a dear girl."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Speech.

Speak not at all in any wise till you have somewhat to speak. Care not for the reward of your speaking, but simply and with undivided mind for the truth of your speaking.—Carlyle.

Courage.

We can't help admiring the courage of an old maid who makes a suitor propose twice before accepting him, although she knows he's her last chance.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Ominous.

"Yes, I am going to run for office." "Your friends seem pleased." "So do my enemies. And that looks kind of ominous, don't you think?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Great Generals, but Bad Shots.

Curiously enough, although good shooting on the part of the rank and file is all important for success in warfare, two of the greatest generals in history were notably bad shots. The only time Napoleon went out game shooting he killed one of the dogs, and Wellington's record on a similar occasion proved even worse.

Lady Shelley records in her diary on Sept. 8, 1819, when the duke was staying at her place in Sussex, that she accompanied the guns in the afternoon. "The hero of Waterloo was a very wild shot. After wounding a retriever and later on peppering a keeper's gaiters he sprinkled the bare arms of an old woman who chanced to be washing clothes at her cottage window. 'My good woman,' I said, 'this ought to be the proudest moment of your life. You have had the distinction of being shot by the Duke of Wellington.'  Her face was wreathed in smiles as the contrite duke slipped a gold coin into her hand."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Easily Settled.

"Coming over on an ocean liner from England a few years ago," said a New Yorker, "an argument had arisen among us as to which was the more simple of the two currency systems, dollars and cents, or pounds, shillings and pence. At last, the captain arriving, we decided to refer the matter to him and surrender our judgment to his arbitration.

The captain, an Englishman of the very stolid sort, after a period of reflection replied very slowly and with all the gravity of a judge:

"Pounds, shillings and pence is the simpler system, for don't you know that when you are told the price of a thing in dollars and cents you always have to convert it into pounds, shillings and pence."

There was a little objection to this theory, but in general it was perfectly satisfactory so long as the voyage lasted.

Submarine Cables.

The first cable successfully laid extended from Valentia island, off the coast of Ireland, to Heart's Content, Newfoundland, about 2,000 miles. The cable was landed on the American side on Aug. 5, 1858, but was not ready for use till Aug. 16. About 700 short messages were sent through it, but it entirely failed within a month. The fact was demonstrated, however, that direct communication under the ocean was possible, although few persons at that time believed that a submarine telegraph could be used for business purposes. Cyrus W. Field, to whose enterprise was due the laying of the first cable, thought differently. Not discouraged by this and other failures, he continued the work he had planned, interested London capitalists in it, and in 1863 succeeded in establishing submarine communication, which has never been interrupted.

The Candle Wick.

When the old fashioned dips were in common use great annoyance was caused by the burnt wick standing upright as the fat disappeared, making a smoky flame, which necessitated a constant use of the snuffers. This trouble is avoided in the modern candle by the simple expedient of plaiting one side of the wick a little stiffer than the other. When it is left free, owing to the wax having burnt away, it naturally bends over to one side. Now at the extreme edge of the flame the gaseous products of the candle are mixed with excess of oxygen from the air, which attacks the solid substances in the wick and speedily changes them into oxides. This always keeps the wick the right length.

Dickens at the Bar.

The English courts once had a real Dickens trial scene. It was in 1883, in the course of a case before Baron Huddleston, that Mr. Dickens, counsel for the defendant, astonished the court by announcing that he proposed to call Mr. Pickwick as a witness. And the gentleman called was a descendant of the Moses Pickwick whose name on the coach filled Sam Weller with a desire to "whop" some one for taking liberties with the name of his master.

Long Hours.

"How's the new man? Industrious?" "Why, yes. He's a sixteen hour a day man."

"It can't be possible!"

"Oh, yes, it is. He works eight hours a day, and I put in eight hours more trying to keep him on the job."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Exacting Standards.

"I am afraid Bliggins hasn't a powerful sense of humor."

"Oh, yes, he has. The only trouble is that when Bliggins makes a joke he isn't satisfied to get a laugh. He thinks it's a failure if it doesn't hurt somebody's feelings."—Washington Star.

The Cult of Fashion.

Young lady at the theater to her friend, "What do you think of this play, my dear?"

"Why, it's absurd. Three months are supposed to pass between the first and second acts, and the heroine's still got the same hat on!"

Why He Likes Wagner.

"Do you like Wagner?"

"Better than I used to," replied Mr. Cumrox. "There's a lot of his music that no one would attempt to dance to."—Washington Star.

Many people do not know how much they must know to know how little they know.

Stephenson's First Locomotive.

The first locomotive was completed and put into operation in 1814 by George Stephenson, who was born in Wylam, England, June 9, 1781. He was engineer at a colliery when he invented a traveling engine to draw wagons along a tramway. Stephenson's first locomotive attained a speed of six miles an hour. Improvement after improvement was made, not only in the locomotive, but in the rails, and in 1822 Stephenson opened the first railway, which was eight miles in length. In 1829 his locomotive, the Rocket, reached a speed of thirty-five miles an hour, winning the prize of $2,500 offered by the Liverpool and Manchester railway company. The entire system of railway locomotion, with stations, signals, tenders and carriages, was completed with the inauguration of the Liverpool and Manchester line in 1830. Stephenson was largely instrumental in establishing all the English and foreign lines during the first period of railroading. He died in 1848.

Saved by Ready Wit.

The late Emperor Alexander of Russia tried hard to put a stop to alcoholism in his army, especially among his officers. Whenever a case of inebriety came to his notice he ordered summary punishment of the offender.

One evening an officer of the guards decidedly the worse for liquor was driving home in an open droshky. Suddenly, to his utter terror, he saw the czar in his open carriage coming from the opposite direction. Motioning the officer's driver to stop and stopping his own carriage, the emperor exclaimed in an angry tone:

"Major X., what are you doing here?"

Pulling himself together, partly sobered by the czar's presence, the officer stood up, saluted and replied, with shaky voice:

"Your majesty, I am just taking a drunken officer to the guardhouse."

This presence of mind and ready wit pleased the emperor so much that he pardoned the officer there and then.—London Strand.

Moods of Musicians.

Before the moods of genius the world must ever bow in awe, for is it not to the wayward wanderings from the normal that inspiration itself is due? says a writer in the London Lady. The gloomy moods of Beethoven are traditional, but every time they enveloped his spirit there flowed from his pen the most noble of scores. Turning to Schubert, we find that it was in the gay moods of the German that his genius worked. Under their sway the "Serenade" and many other immortal themes were penned on a tavern table, tiny scraps of paper being used that came to hand. Paganini was so wholly the victim of moods that it was no unusual thing for an audience to wait in vain for his contribution to a concert program. When due to appear some fantasy of the moment would impel him to remain in his poverty stricken room, grimly toying with the instrument which should have been moving his hearers to tears.

Heat Lightning.

When the distant horizon is brilliantly illuminated with flashes of light on warm summer evenings old residents will explain that it is caused by "heat lightning."

Heat lightning is really the reflection of ordinary lightning. Afar off there is a thunderstorm. Light travels at something more than 186,000 miles a second, while thunder travels slowly through the air and soon becomes inaudible to our ears. It is this light reflected upon the clouds or mist near the horizon which we see and call heat lightning. Sometimes vivid displays of northern lights, or the aurora borealis, are erroneously called heat lightning.

There is, therefore, no such thing as heat lightning, and this should properly be called "distant" lightning.—New York World.

Where Pepys Was Buried.

The church of St. Olave's, in Hart street, London, is one of the eight that escaped the great fire of 1666, as well as one of the most ancient of London. It is a small building with a tower that is surmounted by a vane in the form of a crown, which is said to commemorate Queen Elizabeth's visit in 1554 to give thanks for her release from imprisonment in the Tower of London and make a present of silken ropes for the bells. One of the most interesting associations is the fact of its being the burial place of the great diarist, Samuel Pepys.

Up to the Author.

"I am thoroughly ashamed of this composition, Charles," said the teacher sternly, "and I shall certainly send for your mother and show her how badly you are doing."

"All right," said Charles cheerfully. "Send for her. Me mudder wrote it."—Exchange.

Age of Discretion.

Willie—Paw, what is the age of discretion? Paw—That's when a man gets old enough to keep his face closed when he has nothing to say, my son.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

One Difference.

Examiner—Now, children, what is the difference between "pro" and "con"? Bright Boy—Please, sir, they're spelt different.—London Punch.

Johnny—Papa, what is a "philosopher"? Pa—A man with a good liver, heart, stomach and bank account!—Chicago News.

Bluffed Savage King Mtesa.

When the well known African traveler Dr. Robert Felkin was staying with the bloodthirsty King Mtesa of Uganda many years ago the king, out of gratitude for his visitor's medical treatment, wished to cut off his head. On Dr. Felkin representing that the treatment was not finished and that if interrupted it would cause Mtesa's death the latter granted him a reprieve until he was quite recovered. Then the execution was determined upon. Emin Pasha, who was a friend of Dr. Felkin, had instructed him most accurately about the state of affairs in Uganda and had revealed to him an important state secret—namely, where Mtesa's powder store was hidden. Dr. Felkin remembered this at the right moment and as a last resort threatened that if Mtesa killed him he would bring down a flash of lightning upon his powder store. Mtesa replied incredulously, "Tell me where it is," whereupon Dr. Felkin whispered in his ear, "It is concealed under your harem."

Mtesa turned pale and allowed Felkin and his companions to live. The "lightning makers" authority increased when next day a flash of lightning happened to strike near the harem.

A Frank Philosopher.

Charles Eliot Norton in his Harvard lectures on the history of art used often to describe a meeting between Thomas Carlyle and the philosopher Mallock.

"Mallock was a wise man," he would say, "but his views differed from Carlyle's, and hence, though they were true views, Carlyle deemed them false and pernicious. We should all cultivate a broad outlook, so as to escape from the narrow intolerance of a Carlyle. When Mallock called on Carlyle he talked in his fluent way for two straight hours. Then he rose to go. At the door Carlyle, who had smoked the whole time in grim silence, took his pipe from his mouth and said mildly:

"Weel, goodby, Mr. Mallock. I've received ye kindly because I knew yer mither, but I never want to set eyes on ye again."

Steel Points.

The expression "well tempered" or "finely tempered" steel is generally misused. It is usually taken to indicate steel of extra hardness, whereas the reverse in the case, though very few people are aware of the fact.

The greater the degree of tempering the softer the steel. The steel worker measures the degree of tempering by the color of the metal. Thus the hardest—namely, the least tempered—steel is light straw in color, while the softest kind is white.

Between these extremes, commencing from the hard end of the scale, are the following shades: Straw, dark straw, light bronze, bronze, dark bronze, light blue, blue, dark blue.

Tempering steel is a very delicate business and one calling for that sense of what is "just right," which is found in good cooks.—London Answers.

Brutalities at Sea.

Naval punishments were brutally severe in the seventeenth century. They marooned—that is, they set a man ashore alone on a desolate coast or island and left him to starve, to be destroyed by savages or wild beasts. They keelhaunched—that is, they dragged a man naked by yardarm whips under the bottom of the ship and drew him up raw and bloody with the harsh wounding of barnacles and spikeline adherences only to be submerged afresh ere the unhappy miscreant could fetch a full breath. They nailed a man to the mainmast by driving a knife through his hand. For murder (that was often manslaughter) they tied the living to the dead, back to back, and threw them overboard.

Push.

"Push," says a modern philosopher, "should be the big word in the vocabulary of every beginner. There is no such thing as 'pull' applied to bodies. The engine never pulls a train, but pushes it. The coupling of the engine always extends behind that of the car following and does actually shove it forward." But the pessimist will not be silenced. He only shifts to "Who's back of him?"—Pittsburgh Sun.

Dancing.

The art or exercise of dancing can be traced back to the early Egyptians, who ascribe that invention to their god Thoth. Beyond a doubt dancing is much older than history. It began in connection with religious rites and was performed in honor of the deities that were worshipped.

Thoughtfulness.

Little Maud was suffering from an aching tooth. She called her mother to the sofa on which she was lying and said:

"Mamma, if I should die please don't forget to put my dolls in mourning."—Chicago News.

Fatal Flattery.

Art Connoisseur—Where did you get hold of this daub? Friend—I picked it up in a studio, said something nice about it out of politeness, and the artist gave it to me. Art Connoisseur (sadly)—You can't be too careful.—Judge.

A Ready Compliment.

She—Some day I want to show you our family tree. He (looking at her admiringly)—I should like to see it. I am sure it must be a peach.—Somerville Journal.

Beware so long as you live of judging people by appearances.—La Fontaine.

Moving Picture Crook Works Waynesboro.

A man representing himself as a moving picture photographer appeared in Waynesboro last week and after obtaining a goodly sum of money from several firms on contracts to film various departments while the workmen were busy, left the town and has not been heard from since.

The pictures to have been taken of the industries were to have been shown in one of the local moving picture theatres.

Those who lost money on the deal were: Waynesboro Sanitary Milk plant, Waynesboro Steam Laundry, M. L. Wyand, baker, and J. Omar Frick, of the J. Omar Frick garage.

THE WEEK AT THE COUNTY SEAT
Chronicle of Happenings at Frederick City and in the Courts.

Fifteen hundred barrels of flour, the product of the Mountain City Mills, of Frederick, were shipped on Monday to New York, it being the consignment on a special rush order from an exporter. It is supposed that this flour will be sent to Belgium. The order required the flour to reach New York not later than Wednesday. No sales are made by the local concern direct to European dealers.

Union church services will be held in Frederick every month in which the fifth Sunday occurs, the first service to be held in the armory on the evening of the last Sunday in January. This was decided at a regular meeting of the Ministerial association held Monday morning in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. There are four months of the year having five Sundays and because of preparations being made for the bazar, it was impossible to hold the first meeting this month. All of the meetings, it is thought will be held in the armory.

That the question of a bond issue for the purpose of building a storage reservoir or impounding dam to conserve the city's water supply will not have to be voted on by the people, is the opinion of City Attorney Edward J. Smith. This opinion practically puts the matter of erecting a storage reservoir or impounding dam squarely up to the Board of Aldermen, and whether the bonds are to be issued is up to the Board to say. In 1912 an act was passed by the Maryland Legislature giving to the city the right to issue bonds to the amount of $60,000 for the purpose of building a storage reservoir or impounding dam on the water-sheds of Tuscarora and Fishing Creeks.

Not satisfied with the adjustment of the intra-state express rates, Secretary Lloyd T. MacGill, acting for the Board of Trade, has communicated with the Public Service Commission, asking that the rates be adjusted as promised months ago. If the rates are not adjusted the Board of Trade will file a complaint against the express companies. The trouble is that the intra-state rates, as adjusted, are lower on packages under one hundred pounds. Above this amount intra-state rates are higher than inter-state rates. The Board of Trade anticipated a rate that would compare with the inter-state fees of Maryland.

MACKLEY-EIGENBRODE.

The dome, side walls and floors of the drill shed of Company A's Armory will be one mass of colors for the big bazar which will be held during Thanksgiving week. Decorations have been ordered from Baltimore and Cincinnati and are being put into place. The bazar plans are rapidly taking shape. It will be educational as well as amusing. Manufacturers are showing much interest in "The Made in Frederick Exhibit." These firms will have displays: Ox Fibre Brush Works, Union Manufacturing Company, Morris Iron and Steel Company, Economy Silo Company, American Foundry and Manufacturing Company.

One hundred and twenty-five delegates, representing the various Christian Endeavor organizations of the county, held a conference in the First Baptist Church Tuesday. State officers were present and delivered addresses. Miss Mamie Bowers was elected president of a new local organization.

With the assurance that Chambers will enter the baseball league, which was started last summer with only Hagerstown, Frederick and Martinsburg represented, local baseball fans are looking forward with much enthusiasm to next season. The Frederick managers are already considering prospective players for the nine. Although there were only three towns in the league this year, it was a success in every way, which was a surprise to many followers of the sport. It has convinced Chambersburg of the feasibility and desirability of independent league baseball. Gettysburg and Hanover will probably also be interested.

The Federal Government will draw from Frederick city banks more than $2,000 in war taxes. The last war tax Frederick paid was about 50 years ago when Jubal Early collected $200,000 on his threat to apply the torch to the town. The city is now paying annually about eight thousand dollars interest on this.

The approximate amounts that will be paid by the banks of Frederick are: Citizens' National Bank..... $535.00 Farmers and Mechanics' National Bank..... 255.00 Franklin Savings Bank..... 130.00 Central Trust Company..... 420.00 Fredericktown Savings Institution..... 285.00 Frederick Trust Company..... 125.00 Frederick County National Bank 250.00 Commercial State Bank..... 100.00

The institutions are taxed one dollar on every thousand of the capital stock, surplus and undivided profits.

RIFLE FIRES 200 SHOTS A MINUTE

Rochester Man Invents Shoulder Gun Which Approaches Capacity of a Gatling.

A one-man gun, invented by a Rochester man, and guaranteed by him to increase a soldier's fighting efficiency twenty or thirty times, is for sale. Its inventor, Harry W. Sweeting, says he has begun negotiations with Germany for the sale of the invention, which he has protected by American patents.

The new gun weighs only nine pounds half a pound more than the present standard rifle. It will fire from 165 to 200 shots a minute, Mr. Sweeting said, ninety shots consecutively without being taken from the shoulder. He says the velocity is 2,700 feet a second.

"By holding the trigger back," Mr. Sweeting said, "ninety shots are fired. The ejector is on the under side. The sight is only three inches from the eye, giving a quicker and more accurate aim than in the present rifles, in some of which the sight is thirteen inches from the eye."

"My gun has only one-third as many working parts as the present rifle. There is not a flat spring in the gun, and all the parts are enclosed, which protects them from the weather. It has safety locks which make it impossible to fire after the gun misses fire, and a self-cleaning device. Give me the gun to bring down a man a mile away who is six feet from a tree and I will get him before he gets to the tree. If I should fail, I can shoot him through the tree if it is not more than eighteen inches in diameter."

The inventor has been working on the invention for more than a year. His thirty-eight pages of specifications are registered with the Patent Office.

The second game of interclass basketball was played in the Gymnasium on Wednesday evening between the Sophomores and Preps. The Preps were victorious 16-3. The game was close throughout and enthusiasm was at high pitch during the contest.

On Thursday afternoon the annual interclass track meet was held on Echo Field. A large number of men were entered in the events and some very good records were made by the contestants.

The Sophomore Class won the meet with a total of 34 points. The preps were second with twenty points followed in order by the Juniors and Freshmen. The two gold medals were given to Francis G. Rodgers of Baltimore who was easily the star of the meet scoring 15 points for the winning class also registering the highest average in the meet. Emmet Gallagher of Tamqua, Pa., won the bronze medal as he was the second highest individual scorer.

From all indications the college will be represented by a strong team at the indoor meet at Baltimore this winter. Aside from Rodgers and Gallagher, Rice, Cahill, Haltigan, Mahoney, O'Brien and Miley showed rare form in the meet.

The summary follows:
100 yd. dash: Mahoney of Preps 1st, Haltigan of Juniors 2nd, Rodgers of Sophomores 3rd, Time 11 seconds. One-half Mile Run: E. Gallagher of Sophomore, 1st, Farley of Juniors 2nd, Jones of Preps 3rd, Time 2 minutes 6 seconds. Broad Jump: McGonagle of Preps 1st, O'Brien of Preps 2nd, Rodgers of Sophomores 3rd, Distance 17.8 feet. High Jump: O'Brien of Preps 1st, Rodgers of Sophomores 2nd, Grimes, Haltigan and Crouch tied for 3rd, Height 5 feet. 440 yd. dash: Gallagher of Sophomore 1st, Rodgers of Sophomore 2nd, Mahoney of Prep 3rd, Time 56 seconds. BOLGIANO'S Perfect Seed Potatoes

The United States Agricultural Department places their Tag of Inspection and Approval on every sack of SEED POTATOES Purchased From J. BOLGIANO & SON.

CERTIFICATE OF QUALITY.
This is to certify that I have had charge of all the Seed Potatoes grown for J. Bolgiano & Son, during this growing season. I have been with them since April 15th; looked after the selecting of their seed and the treating of the same, have also had charge of the spraying during the growing season. There was nothing planted but the very best selected seed, and nothing has been left undone to have them right. The crop is now being harvested, and the results of my work are most satisfactory. We are harvesting one of the largest crops ever grown in Annapolis County, Maine, and of the finest quality, free from any disease and true to name. I spent some time in Washington, D. C., with the Horticultural Board before coming here and their ideas of producing FIRST CLASS SEED have been carried out to the letter for J. Bolgiano & Son.

Home Maker Clubs For Farm Girls

State and National Demonstration Workers Plan Home Demonstrations For Maryland Daughters.

What is known as the Girls' Demonstration Work, began in 1910, with the organization of Canning Clubs in two States. Today there is an organization of more than 40,000 girls under the supervision of nearly 400 women agents. In 1913, 4,202 girls belonging to the Canning Clubs of the Southern States, according to their reports, canned 1,032,115 cans of tomatoes, and 522,147 cans of other products, in all, valued at $180,420. They also formed Poultry Clubs, there being now 2,096 Poultry Club members. Bread Clubs have also been organized and in some counties some home improvement work has been done.

MARYLAND FARM GIRL.

In all of these activities, the women on the farms have given much help. Frequently, they have enrolled to receive the instructions, and have regularly attended the meetings and demonstrations. They have eagerly followed the instructions of the county women agent and have urged that a special work be organized for them. This work is now being extended into some Maryland counties and should be well understood by farm women and girls.

Wherever possible the women of the neighborhood will be enrolled in the Home Division of the State Demonstration Work, and under the direction of the County Woman Agent, they will join in the work of the Girls' Clubs and help teach their daughters the preparation of attractive dishes from the products of the Canning, Poultry and Garden Clubs. This will soon grow into demonstrations in the preparing of other foods, such as breads, etc., which are necessary to make up a wholesome meal.

In addition to the use of these products, the women will have demonstrations in the use of labor saving devices and conveniences, many of which shall be home made. The first one of importance will be a fireless cooker in which many new dishes will be prepared. As rapidly as possible, these conveniences will be added so as to cause both a saving of labor and improved sanitary conditions in the farm home. Farm women interested in these plans should write in to the Director of Extension, Maryland Agricultural College, College Park, Md.

STORING WINTER VEGETABLES PROPERLY.

T. H. WHITE, Vegetable Gardener
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

If a cellar like this is not handy for use and you have only a small amount of vegetables to be stored, the kiln method should be used. The kiln is simply a hole dug in the open ground, circular in shape and less than a foot deep. Into this the roots are poured until they form a conical pile a couple of feet high. A layer of straw or covering material should be placed directly on the vegetables and the roots are poured until they form a conical heap as a final cover. White potatoes, turnips, and beets will all keep perfectly this way. Carrots and salsify should be laid away more carefully. These will last much better if instead of being dumped into the pile they are placed in alternate layers with sand between. All vegetables that are to be stored should be kept in the garden as late as possible. Do not, however, let them become very severely frozen. Parsnips and salsify will keep very well in the garden where they have grown, but are some times very difficult to reach when snow is on the ground.

CONDITIONS MAKE ECONOMICAL POULTRY FEEDING NECESSARY.

ROY H. WAITE, Poultryman.
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

The economical use of feed for poultry should be practiced at all times, for in the poultry business, a penny wisely saved is better than a penny earned. During the present high price of feed, there is more reason for being economical, but being economical does not mean cutting down on feed, unless the fowls are too fat. It does mean balancing the amount of feed fed and the eggs or meat produced, so that the largest returns in the shape of profits will be realized. I have known people who have fed their hens only the cheapest feed, thinking they were being economical and who could have, by adding a small amount of some high protein feed, turned their total loss into at least a small gain.

NEW CORSET WILL BE LIKED

Better Adapted to the Figure Than Any That Has Been Designed Recently.

The new high bust corset, which comes four inches above the waist line and is just high enough to form a support for the base of the bust, is the corset to be worn with the new style bodices. The top is just full enough for the flesh to rest easily inside the corset. Then there will be no pushing up of the bust, no compressing of the diaphragm.

There is a great difference between the old and the new style of high-bust corsets. To preserve the large waist, which is still fashionable, these new corsets are made with a full back. Some also have small gussets underneath each shoulder blade, while others have sufficient fullness to form a ripple at the top. The skirt of these corsets is long over the thighs in the back, with a slightly shortened line in front, the flat back and the large waist with a slight curve at the side-fronts. The materials are soft and pliable and the boning light.

The reason for the change of cut of corsets is the semi-fitting character of the fashionable dresses and waists, which makes necessary corsets which hold the bust in a slightly higher position. These dresses are not tight, but they are semi-fitted, with a dart over the bust to accentuate the curve, whether the garment fits snugly or otherwise.

These bodices are in several styles. Some are buttoned straight in front, with plain front sections which are darted and have under-arm gores. Others are in surplice effects, the crossover pieces being drawn tightly over the bust. High girdles are also in fashion, which are of the same height all around, reaching a point even with the base of the bust. Sometimes the girdle is drawn in at the front. Again it may have buttons from the top of the lower edge. Over these fitted girdles the bust would fall loosely if it were not supported by the corset.

There are also low-bust corsets for the slender and compact figures, which will wear garments suitable for them. There are also models designed especially for dancing, which have a shorter skirt in front and elastic inserts in the back. The tops of these are low, and there is an elastic band around the top edge from side to side. For the schoolgirl there are low and medium-sized corset waists with long corset skirts and front steel fastening. These corset waists so closely resemble the regular corset that young girls feel quite satisfied with them.

SMART FALL COAT

This model by Grunwaldt, is made along the lines of the summer coats. It is of broadtail, cut very full, with short ruffled skirt. Collar and cuffs of chinchilla.

The Barefoot Hour.

Have you a barefoot hour in your day? This is one of the essentials of a beautiful foot, and should not be neglected.

In the morning, while dressing, do not put on your shoes and stockings until the very last thing, and at night make them the first articles to come off.

Disdain bedroom slippers, hose or any other covering, and let your feet remain unclothed for as long a period as possible. Do not sit or lie still, however, for any but a small fraction of time. What your feet need is activity while unrestricted by shoe or hose.

Exercise of the toes will strengthen the arch and give you that high instep which makes almost any shoe fit superbly. And what is more, no barefoot enthusiast will ever be afflicted with aching muscle-worn feet.
