SEEKING PARDON FOR LEO FRANK

Condemned Man's Only Hope Is Executive Clemency.

COURT SAYS TRIAL WAS FAIR

Manager of Pencil Factory, Convicted of Murder of Fourteen-year-old Employee, Exhausts All Legal Actions Without Avail, but Still Remains Hopeful-Nation Watching Case.

Atlanta, Ga.-Although the highest court in the land has decreed that he must pay the death penalty for the murder of little Mary Phagan, Leo Frank has not given up his fight. His attorneys are now busy on new plans, and the young man, condemned to the gallows, is still hopeful. The supreme court of the United States in deciding that his trial had been fair, that the jury had not been influenced by public sentiment, apparently blasted his last

There was one ray of light, however. He could appeal to the governor of Georgia for clemency, but there was no further legal action apparent.

All the nation watched this case closely. Friends of Frank held that race prejudice entered into the trial. Frank is a Jew. Hundreds of letters are pouring into the office of the governor of Georgia asking for a pardon or for commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment.

Frank was manager and also a shareholder in a pencil factory at Atlants.

Mary Phagan, fourteen years of age, was employed in the factory. She called on a holiday to collect her wages and failing to reappear at her home, search was instituted and at 3 o'clock the following morning her body was found in a remote part of the plant, showing evidence of murder and as-

Suspects were taken in by the police, and then suspicion attached to Frank. He was convicted mainly on the testimony of Jim Conley, a negro, who said he had helped Frank to dispose of the body after the murder. Local sentiment was against the prisoner almost from the start. Remarkable stories of his alleged immorality were told.

The defense tried to fasten the crime on Conley, the negro, who was an employee of the factory. A note which purported to have been written by the murdered girl just before her death was a link in the testimony. It was HUNGRY CHICKS PROVE CASE. found torn in scraps near her body and purported to be addressed to her mother, in which she charged the crime on a negro without naming him.

The handwriting bore a slight resemblance to Frank's writing, but Conley after first denying that he wrote the note or that he was in the factory on the day of the murder, finally confessed that he wrote the note, but at the direction of Frank.

Leo M. Frank is a native of Brooklyn, a graduate of the Brooklyn high school, who won a scholarship in Cornell university and is also well educated along technical lines. He has a family in Atlanta and up to the time of the murder had a reputation generally in the community of being a successful business man of good moral reputa-

The courtroom was crowded in anticipation of a decision in the Frank case and many people stood in line outside unable to gain admission. Since the case has been before the supreme court a nation wide agitation has been carried on in favor of the prisoner, and it was evident that his friends were many and influential and that money was not being spared in an effort to influence public sentiment in favor of the prisoner.

PAYS AN OLD DEBT.

Tennessee Farmer Sends Check For $3.50 Plow Bought In 1896.

Little Rock, Ark.-In 1896 J. Milton Williams, a Tennessee farmer, bought a plow from H. S. Speck, a hardware dealer at Morristown, Tenn., on credit. Recently Mr. Speck, who long ago left Tennessee and is now a resident of Little Rock, received a check for $3,50, the price of the plow. The letter accompanying the check read as follows: "Dear Sir—You remember some years ago I bought of you a turning plow. I have always intended to pay the debt, but it seemed that I had so many things on me that I had to put what little money I could get into other places. I hope you will pardon me for keeping you out of your money for so long. I trust you are well and prosperous."

MONTHS IN PRISON "HAPPIEST OF LIFE"

Also Most Useful, Says Ex-Convict, a Galifornia Millionaire.

Atlanta, Ga. - When Frederick A. Hyde, sixty-seven years old, millionaire land dealer and former president of the board of education of San Francisco, left the federal penitentiary here, after serving sixteen months, his first statement was that those months had been the most useful of his whole life. He added that he would return to his home in California, where his wife, daughter and three sons are waiting for him, not afraid to look any man in the face

"Not only have these sixteen months been the most useful in my career," said Hyde when interviewed in his apartments at the Piedmont hotel, "but this period has been the happiest of my life, and I have derived more good from my work at the prison than at any other time.

Hyde was imprisoned in December, 1913, after one of the most sensational court battles in the history of the country. He was sentenced to serve two years for alleged conspiracy in land frauds, but the sentence was commuted by President Wilson.

At the penitentiary Hyde was known among his fellow prisoners as the "angel convict" because of his work to better the conditions of the other prisoners, especially those who were poor. He was assigned to the prison newspaper, Good Works, and in the performance of his duties was allowed to go to all parts of the prison and mingle with all the convicts.

From the first he took an interest in their welfare. He found that baseball and a few wornout movie films were the only amusements in the prison. He laid out plans for a complete athletic field which, with money furnished by himself, was constructed by Hyde and his fellow prisoners.

Hyde's greatest work in the prison was with the unfortunate men who finished their terms but looked upon freedom with no pleasure because they were without friends or money to make a new start in life. To hundreds of these Hyde gave encouragement and money, in many cases furnished them with sufficient funds to re-establish themselves in business.

One of Hyde's philanthropies in the prison was the establishment of a library. He bought hundreds of valuable books with his own money and donated them to the prison.

Come Home With Quantity of Neighbor's Corn and a Few Messages.

Stevens Point, Wis.-Frank M. Sackett, after a great deal of difficulty, has convinced H. K. West of this town that his chickens are a lot of bandits at heart. He told him about it long ago, and now Mr. West, blushing, admits it.

Mr. Sackett complained that his seeds were being dug up faster than he could plant them. Mr. West spoke about Missouri, and Mr. Sackett agreed to "show him." He scattered corn in his garden, but first ran a thread through each kernel, and on the far end he tied Hanging from each chicken's beak when they went home were the evidences of guilt. No jury's verdict was ever more damning. Here are a few of the inscriptions on the cards: "I have just been scratching in Mr.

Sackett's yard." "I am a naughty chicken."

"I have been trespassing."

"I am a feathered bandit."

FARMERS' BIG PROFITS.

War Demands, It Is Said, Added $200, 000,000 to Growers' Gains.

Chicago.—Europe's war has enriched middle west farmers approximately $200,000,000, the money going chiefly to growers of grains. What speculators have made by the war perhaps never will be known.

A prominent grain merchant said the $200,000,000 "extra" received by farmers for their bumper wheat, corn and oats crops can be readily accounted for by citing the one instance in regard to prices for cash wheat. He pointed out that wheat now is selling and has been for months at from 35 cents to 50 cents more a bushel than it would have brought but for the war.

$10,000 For Kind Act.

Manitowoc, Wis.-Because he cared for him while sick William Gatterman was left $10,000 by Robert A. Wilson. Wilson came from Monroe and lived at the Gatterman home until taken to Milwaukee for treatment. Gatterman remained with him until he died. The two men were unknown to each ether until five months ago.

WAR MAKING MAN OF ENGLISH HEIR

Prince of Wales Serving at Front With His Regiment.

MUST NOT BE CAPTURED.

Life In the Open With Responsibilities Is Rapidly Developing the Slight, Rosy, Boyish, Twenty-year-old Prince. Lithe and Young, He Has Done His Twenty-five Miles a Day.

London.-The Prince of Wales, the twenty-year-old future king of England, faced Earl Kitchener in the war office one day last November and demanded that he be allowed to go to the front at once. Three months previously, at the very outbreak of the war, within a week of receiving his commission as a lieutenant in the First same request. but the secretary of war had refused it on the ground that the prince's military training had only just

For a second time the lithe and slender subaltern stood before the great into his work with such enthusiasm and patriotic fervor that now, after only twelve weeks, he was fit and ready fo active service. He had been so report ed by his commanding officer.

Earl Kitchener listened to what the young man had to say. The Britisl war lord is stern and unbending, but human. He knew the prince's spirit and talked with him as one soldier with another, not from a personal but from a national point of view. It wen without saying that the prince was eager to fight and would do his duty just the same as any other officer, taking his chances of being killed o wounded with the rest.

That was not what was worrying Kitchener. He would mourn if any thing happened to the Prince of Wales. but he knew that if the heir apparent did get killed there were plenty of Agricultural impleother people to come to the throne of England. What concerned Lord Kitchener was this:

If the Prince of Wales were taken prisoner and held as a hostage by the Germans very serious embarrassment Electrical machinery... 171,600,000 121,300,000 might be caused to the alliest of the the alliest might be caused to the allies, and their plans for the final settlement of the war would be gravely hampered. This Earl Kitchener pointed out in his usual and forcible m young prince was not to be denied, Difference In Expenses of Richest and and when he left the war office it was with the promise that he would be attached to Field Marshal French's staff at the headquarters of the British expeditionary force in France. On Nov. 16 the Prince of Wales crossed over from Folkestone to Boulogne and proceeded at once to St. Omer, where the headquarters' staff was then located.

From that day till April 10, when the Prince of Wales arrived in London bearing dispatches from the British commander in chief, he has regularly performed the arduous and dangerous duties of a dispatch rider.

The Prince of Wales is a slightly built and very high strung youth who looks two or three years younger than he really is. There is nothing in his uniform to distinguish him from any other staff officer.

Nearly four months elapsed from the day the prince reported for duty till Field Marshal French gave him twenty-four hours' leave. This was early in March, and instead of spending his time in the big white house in which he lives the prince ordered his car and, leaving the noncommissioned officer behind, took his brother officer and was on his way to Paris as fast as his car could carry him.

On his arrival he went to an old fashioned hotel in the Rue de Rivoli, facing the Tuileries gardens, and sent word of his presence to the British embassy in the Faubourg St. Honore. When the Right Hon. Sir Francis Bertie, the ambassador, heard about it he at once wired over to Buckingham palace, but the king and queen evidently decided not to interfere. So the ambassador called upon the Prince of Wales and took him round to lunch with President Poincare.

Larder Empty, Horses Unshod, Dogs Filled the Gap.

Camden, Tenn.-John Hundley, a farmer, awoke one morning recently to be advised by his wife of a serious deficit in the pantry-neither flour nor meal. Hundley's horses were not shod, the sleet and ice were too rough for the animals, the family's strong box was empty, and the farmer resided six miles from town.

But John met the emergency. He constructed a large sled, hitched nine fox hounds to it, loaded on five bushels of stock peas and hit the trail for Camden. After a couple of hours' rest Hundley returned home, the dogs pulling a bag of meal and a barrel of flour | covering them when there is no need through the snow.

EXPORTS OF COTTON DECREASE 50 PER CENT

Wheat and Flour Nearly Trebled In Last Fiscal Year.

Washington.-The value of American cotton exports has been cut in half and the shipments of wheat and flour have nearly trebled during the eight months of the present fiscal year, ending with February, which period embraces the first seven months of the European war, when compared with the corresponding period of the year before.

The value of the cotton exports for the eight month period ending with last February was $243,900,000 against $498,900,000 for the same months of the year previous, showing a loss of $255,000,000. The wheat and flour ex-$11,600,000, increasing from $102,700,-000 to $114,300,000. The value of Grenadier guards, he had made the horses showed a big gain in comparison with the year before, the increase being from $1,800,000 to $32,600,000.

SENIORS SPENT $1,079,111.

Poorest Yale Students.

New Haven.-The members of the Yale class of 1915 will get their diplomas in June at a total cost of $1,079,-111, according to the expense accounts of the men who gave the figures in their personal statistics published in the Yale News.

The figures show the great difference in the financial resources of the men who go to Yale and testify to the continued existence of democracy there. In freshman year, which is the most expensive, the most affluent man spent $4,500, while the most frugal got his education for a cash outlay of $200.

Perhaps due to parental conferences over freshman year's expense accounts or to the financial depression, the richest man in sophomore year spent but $2,800, while the poorest man spent $200 cash. The average for the year was $1,076 a man. Last year the average expenses a man were $1,106, individual expenses varying from $4,000 to $200. This year the richest man expects to spend a total of $3,100 and the poorest man $250.

PIED PIPER ENOUGH "PIE."

Quits Rat Catching When He Buys a Boat.

Galveston, Tex.—Charles Bertolina, the Galveston Pied Piper, has turned in his badge and will not be seen catching rats along the water front and the beach for some time. Charles is the champion rat catcher of Galveston. For the past several months he has been taking the rodents at the rate of 2,000 per month.

For this service he received the regular price paid for rats and in ddition was given a bonus of $10 provided he caught as many as 1,000 in thirty days.

When Charles began his career as a rat catcher he said he would quit when he had made enough money to buy a boat and a gasoline engine. Recently he made the purchase and then appeared at the health office and laid down his commission.

The latest record made by Charles was 1,028 rats in sixteen days. For $10,000,000 ship Aquitania of the Cuthese he was paid at the rate of 8 and | nard line is a converted cruiser, and 10 cents each and given a bonus of $10.

OCEAN PATHWAY DESERTED.

Great Passenger Liners That Formerly Carried Thousands Back and Forth Now Doing Duty In the War or Tied Up at Their Piers In Neutral Ports. Statistics Show Loss to Europe.

New York.—A quarter billion dollars of good American money will be kept in this country this year on account of ports jumped from $106,200,000 to the war. There will be at least that $288,000,000, a gain of $181,800,000. much saved by the inability of the Meat and dairy products gained only public to travel to Europe. Last year the steamship companies received in fares alone approximately $83,000,000, at Cape Town, South Africa, in 1885. carrying eastward and westward more than 1,200,000 passengers. A conservative estimate fixes the amount spent time practiced his profession in the by this traveling army at close to $192,-000,000, making the total amount spent for European travel $275,000,000.

There will be no exodus to Europe this summer, however. The Great Green Way of the Atlantic is as lonely as New York's Great White Way on a summer Sunday night. This is Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, Mexthe time of year when the rush across the ocean begins. The tide of travel York and holds a number of speed sweeps east across the Atlantic from May till August and back again from | many European cities. August till the middle of October. But this year the tide hasn't set in and it a height of 19,032 feet and established won't set in. Uncle Sam is holding back the tide by refusing to issue passports, and on the other side of the he traveled for a distance of 160 miles ocean the kaiser's submarines prove entirely over water. When he flew an obstacle.

prove to the satisfaction of Uncle Sam | miles in 7 hours and 53 minutes. that he or she has business in Europe. Doctors, Red Cross nurses, reserves, continue to go, but even their number is dwindling.

From all ports of the north Atlantic there left for Europe last year in four months just 27,727 passengers. During the same four months of this year the number of departures was 4,198, a falling off of 17,529. The westward sailings were 13,662 for the same period last year and this year 4,674, a deficit of 8,995.

The arrivals and departures at New aled an army of more than 1,200.000. Of this number 148,380 traveled first class, 241,810 in the second cabin and 813,743 in the steerage. The grand total to and from all north Atlantic ports was: Eastward-first class, 83,261; second class, 121,085; steerage, 479,232. Westward-first class, 90,840; second class, 238,347; steerage, 631,862.

The average first class fare across the Atlantic on little ships and big ships is $120, second class $50, and third or steerage $35. That means that last year $20,892,120 was paid the steamship companies for first class passages, $17,720,000 for second class and $44,892,120 for steerage, a total of $83,055,780. Placing the amount of money spent during the season in Europe by the first class traveler at $1,000, the second class at $500 and the steerage at $100, a pretty good average of American contributions abroad will be the result. Computed by these figures the amount spent in Europe last year by the American traveling public would have been $191,726,700. That these figures are by no means overestimated will be realized when one stops to reflect that $10,000 for the season would be no money at all for each of 5,000 American families to dissipate. This would alone mean $50,000,000.

At a modest calculation there was spent last year by people from America on European travel $278,664,500; $300,-000,000 would be, perhaps, nearer the mark. It is safe to say that the war has cost Europe $250,000,000 of American tourist money this year. That much cash in hand would do strange things. It would do wonders for the unemployed of the country. It's the ransom of a king and no bagatelle even to a Rockefeller. There will be just that much more money remaining in the United States this year.

The click of glasses and the clink of wealth are hushed. The stewards' tips are missing. The bands of music are silent. The $10,000,000 Vaterland of the Hamburg-American line is eating her head off at the dock in Hoboken. The $10,000,000 Imperator of the same line is a hospital ship at Bremen. The the $10,000,000 Olympic of the White Star line has also been impressed by the British government. BRAVE FRENCH AIR MAN CAN FIGHT NO MORE

Capture of Roland Garros Big Loss to Allies' Aerial Fleet,

Paris.-When Roland G. Garros, the daring French aviator, was captured by the Germans one of the most picturesque careers of the war came to a halt. The lieutenant had proved himself to be the most brilliant and daring air man in any army.

Lieutenant Garros is well known in the United States, having flown in many competitions in that country. One of his latest exploits was at Dunkirk, when he shot dead in the air the aviator and the observer of a German aeroplane. He went out against this machine alone, and as his machine was the faster he was able to gain an advantageous position, from which he fired with fatal precision.

Garros was born of French parents He is a graduate of the University of Paris and of its law school and for a French capital.

The exploits of Garros have made him a prominent figure in aviation circles throughout the world. He has appeared in meets in Richmond, Chattanooga, Memphis, New Orleans, Dallas, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Waco, ico City, Vera Cruz, Havana and New prizes won at tournaments held in

PLEADS FOR DRUG FIEND.

Mother Asks Dispensation In Case of Sixty-year-old Victim.

Washington.-Pleading for her sixtyyear-old "boy," who, she says, will die if he is not permitted to obtain the drugs denied him by the Harrison antidrug bill, an eighty-one-year-old Colorado woman has written a pitiful letter to Dr. B. R. Reese of the internal revenue division of the treasury department. She addressed her letter to President Wilson, but Secretary Tumulty sent it to Dr. Reese, whose office is the clearing house of such correspondence. Much as the appeal of the old Colorado woman moved the officials, no exception will be made in that case. There is no intention on the part of the internal revenue division to issue blanket permits to obtain drugs for individual cases.

Canfield in passing sentence told Smith he was determined to have him stay sober for awhile.

Beards In Russia.

It is curious to note that in Russia the beard has always been an object of repute. An ordinance which Yaroslaf, son of Vladimir and legislator of Novgorod, then the capital of Russia, published in 1015 exemplifies this. By this law any one plucking a hair from a neighbor's beard was subjected to a punishment four times more severe than that inflicted for cutting off his finger.

Mount Saint Mary's track men leave to-morrow for College Park to compete ticing daily for the different events and the majority of these men will compete

Final time trials were held on Saturday and some very good marks were made, considering that the men ran on a grass track. In the century dash, H. Mahoney covered the distance in 10 4.5 seconds. Miller, who finished only a enter the century, as will Captain Rodgers, Miley and Cahill. Rodgers easily led the field in the 220-yard dash and his time for the distance was 24 3-5 seconds. E. P. Gallagher, who barely was nosed out of the half-mile race at the indoor meet in Baltimore by Meredith, had things all his own way in the half and quarter mile time trials, and he succeeded in making the quarter in 52 4-5 seconds.

Other men who should be strong factors in gathering points for Mount St. Mary's are Rice, who has been putting the shot more than 36 feet in practice, and Cahill, who is a strong man in the hurdle events.

The complete list of entries for the M. A. C. meet are:

100-yard Dash-Rodgers, Mahoney, Miller, Miley, Cahill and O'Brien. 220-yard Dash-Mahoney, Miley, Cahill Rodgers and Miller.

440-yard Dash-Gallagher, Mahoney Rodgers and Miley.

880-yard-Gallagher and Cody. Shot Put-Rice and Cahill. High Jump-O'Brien and Miller. Broad Jump-Rodgers and O'Brien.

Bolgiano's "Greater Baltimore" Tomato

Just Doubles The Yield

Better Than Stone Ever Was Bolgiano's "Greater Baltimore" Tomato just doubles the yield of many of the best Canning Tomatoes you have ever grown. Smooth, well-formed and deep from stem to blossom. Ripens evenly to the stem and is entirely free from ridges, cracks and blight. Unrivalled shipper, due to its solidity and firmness. Fruits in large clusters at every second joint. Joints are short and sturdy. Vigorous, compact, healthy vines. Brilliant red color, one of the handsomest tomatoes you have ever seen.

"Itis largely the EARLINESS and UNIFORM-ITY with which the plants bear a LARGE NUM-BER of LARGE, SMOOTH FRUIT throughout the ripening season, that makes Bolgianot 'Greater Baltimore' superior to Stone which has been the Slandard canning variety for many years."

Temperance Meeting May 13.

THE HON. JOHN G. WOOLLEY.

A mass meeting in the interest of state wide prohibition will be held in the Schoolhouse, at Emmitsburg, on Thursday, May 13th, at 8 P. M.

The speaker will be Hon. John G.

The present advance in temperance sentiment throughout the United States and, indeed, the whole world has fired the temperance forces of Maryland to a white heat of enthusiasm.

The coming of this speaker of national reputation marks an epoch in the temperance fighting of the state. The meetings are public and everybody is invited. No admission fee will be charged.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the produc-tion of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland-the the State-there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal: the surrounding scenery is unmatchable; the climate is notedly healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water-cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary-with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years-is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies-equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid acheivement-is also here.

There are excellent Schools-Public and Parochial-in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled

Protection against contagion is a serious matter; it is a subject that should receive the earnest attention of every one. Family health and community health, and the conservation of both-(they are interdependent)—are not to be lightly passed over; and the only intelligent way to combat disease, to prevent contagion, is to become enlightened.

The bulletin referred to is Government document, compiled by an authority, and the Civic League is distributing copies of it to every door. We commend the reading of it—it is intensely interesting—and we predict that the intelligence, the precautionburg will manifest itself in the adoption of the means therein recommended for the extermination of that diminutive but powerful enemy of man-the fly.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

There is no subject fraught with deeper interest to the taxpayers than that of good roads. The more they inform themselves about it the greater will be their estimate of its importance, and the more intelligent will be their aim to correct errors that will prevent useless expenditure. The State road starting at the very edge of Emmitsburg and now in process of construction is an object lesson in substantial road making. The method pursued is the result of experiment and with the jawbone of an ass. With experience, of exact knowledge the same nimble weapon Billy properly applied. The stone used Sunday converted 40,000 Phila (than which experts say there is delphians. none better) is native granite culled from local fields, many of the men employed are from this district-both of which facts suggest the advisability of using myriads of them behind it, and this material and this labor in improvement of the streets of Emmitsburg. No doubt the insufficiency of funds in the town treasury would call for some modification of plan; but even at that the application of the general principle involved would give us street conditions far better than those which now prevail.

The example, the practical process is right at hand. Would it not be worth the while of the little chances for success when Commissioners to view the nearby they bump right into them, most finished road and that portion of persons duck and wait for the it yet in the working with the "big chance"-and missing it, idea of embodying those prin- curse their luck. ciples now or at some future time?

been recording the improvements that have been going on in this good town of which we are all so proud. They have been many, and they have been substantial. Not for years has there been as much building; not for many seasons has cement work been as extensive and as general. Our pavements are a decided credit to those who made them possible and asked me if I had any old clothes and to the town itself. They are indicative of the good sense and the public spirit of our people; they, together with other changes for the better, show that townpride, a very commendable pride, holds an important place in the minds of our residents.

IGNORE HIM.

Every city, every town in every age has had its "knockers." They originated in the days of the Apostles and they've been on the job ever since. It is noticeable, nevertheless, that the world has progressed in spite of them. The only way to treat a knocker is to ignore him. His only stock in trade is talk which is about as effective as a charge of powder without the shot. The knocker will either explode and burn himself or go to sleep from hearing his own voice. In either event he renders himself harmless to the public.

Early Uses of Copper. Copper is not a metal of modern utilization. It was mined and manufactured in prehistoric times, when it was utilized as a material for the construction of utensils for domestic use and also for implements of war. It has been generally supposed that the use of copper preceded that of iron. but at present it is believed by students of the subject that iron was first subjected to human use. Working Up a Sable Pelt. "A fur dealer told me I wouldn't know a sable if I saw one," said a man who had been inquiring about pelts. "I thought, of course, they'd be soft, fluffy little fellows, but he says they have a hide as flat as a rat's. He says that when the skins are taken from the animals they are so hard that they are placed in a tub and a barefooted man steps in and begins to tread on them to soften them. The tub is tilted so that at each step the man takes the skins slide down the slope and are kept moving. The man treads for hours and hours before any pile appears. When it begins to rise the skins are oiled and the treading begins again. This is continued until the skins are as supple as chamois and the pile has become so high that the fur has that soft depth and beautiful rich gloss for which it is prized."

The Ancient Greek

No greater gift could be made to our modern world than the rediscovery of the Greek physical supremacy. The secret of the method by which, for one brief period, they realized perfection was long since lost, no one knows how. At present so little do we understand the principles of training which guided the Greek in his games, in his battles and his dances, and made the proportions of his figure different from ours of today, that Greek sculpture is in reality a puzzle to us. Certain postures fixed by the Greek sculptor seem to us contortions, bordering on physical impossibilities. There is always a terrific controversy over the restoration of Greek sculpture, and even then the arms and heads and legs we supply never look right.-New York Times.

One Phase of Tolstoy. In the "Reminiscences of Tolstoy" by his son. Count Ilya Toistoy, are shown many phases of the great man's nature, this one among them: "All exhibitions of tenderness were entirely foreign to him. I say 'tenderness in contradistinction to feeling. Feeling he had, and in a very high degree. During all his lifetime I never received any mark of tenderness from him whatever. Nearness and dearness with him were never accompanied by any outward manifestations It would never have come into my head, for instance, to walk up to my father and kiss him or to stroke his hand I was partly prevented also by the fact that I always looked up to him with such awe, and his spiritual power, his greatness, prevented me from seeing in him the mere man, the man who was so pitiable and weary at times, the feeble old man who so much needed warmth is making arrangements for the collection of wounded during an impending battle he always bears in mind the fact that men will be wounded in different numbers at different ranges and. of course, he sees that the most efficient ambulance service is given where the losses are heaviest. To aid him in making arrangements, he knows roughly what the losses in these various "zones," as they are called, will work out at.

At a range of 1,000 yards he knows that about 20 per cent of the men en gaged will be wounded, while between 1,000 and 400 yards as high a percent age as 60 are liable to be disabled. His fellow tribesmen regarded him as a great curiosity, and brought him to see us. Despite the decrepitude of his body, how ever, there was no trace of senility. His senses were unimpaired, and the poor old creature showed great gratitude for a gift of tobacco."

The Chimera.

The chimera was a fabulous monster with a lion's and a goat's head, a set pent's tail and a goat's middle, which inhabited the dreadful mountain of Lycia, in Greece, and defended itself against attack by vomiting flames of fire. It was at last conquered by Bellerophon, the god of war, who mounted it on the famous horse Pegasus. The strange combination of the form of the chimers was evolved from the fact that the terrible Lycia was partly a burning mountain, with here and there desolate wilderness, the resort of lions, and occasionally a few fertile spots where goats did congregate. while at the foot of the great hill was this curious creation of superstition sprung the origin of the word "chi mera," in designation of an idle fancy or a foolish creation of the brain.

Incidenta, Music.

One of the most tiresome, not to say exasperating, traditions of the theater is incidental music-particularly the music that is presumably intended to accentuate dialogue. It has been a conviction of mine that the expedient is a confession of actor weakness. No actor worthy of the name needs that kind of help. Some of you graybeards hark back to Edwin Booth and try to imagine him in the fourth act of "Richelieu." for example, delivering the curse of Rome speech in unison with the performers in the orchestra well!

One difference between theatrical performances in Germany and those in America is in this very incidental music. In our country every actor that holds a prominent relation to the play the soldiers who take part in the last | in hand must have music to bring him on the stage and more music to take him off. The music cue is ridiculously overworked. Many plays are made un intelligible by the obtrusion of untimely music simultaneously with lines that nobody could catch. - Detroit Free

Army of Ancient Rome.

Consider the Roman army from the fifth century B. C. onward until the division of the empire. Its fighting organization was as complete as and possibly more practical than that of any army of today. Thrift Versus Stinginess.

It ought to be easy to tell the difference between thrift and stinginess. But many folk don't know it. No tightwad does. A thrifty man is alpain nor does he tremble with avarice until his dollar returns, leading another dollar of profit. He spends intelligently and therefore willingly, and is content to await the outcome, be cause he knows that in the long run he will get back from society about in proportion as he gives. Not To Be Picked

William, who was visiting his uncle, passed one Sunday afternoon admiring the beautiful walks and scenic views in the nearby park.

"Well, laddie," queried his uncle when the boy returned to the house, "what did you see in the park?" "Some of the most beautiful vistas I ever saw," replied William.

"Ah, laddies," cautioned the old gentleman, "but ye mustna pluck them; it's against the rules."

What the Public Wanted With hisses and groans the audience greeted the new play. All hope, then, was at an end. "It's hard to tell just what the public wants!" murmured the heartbroken author.

"It's easy enough to tell in this case," said the manager, grimly. "It wants its money back."

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fall to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Every reader of THE CHRONICLE is invited to send news to this office. The management of THE CHRONICLE will take it as a particular favor if patrons will telephone or write to this office concerning matters of general interest. By sending personals, details of improvements to town or farm property, accounts of accidents and fires, the reports of meetings, particulars of deaths and weddings and mention of all social events, they will make this THEIR paper—truly representative of the community.

BALTIMORE'S BEST STORE

Hochschild, Kohn & Co.

Howard and Lexington Streets

Baltimore's Best Store Offers Absolute Security with Every Purchase

Whatever you buy at Baltimore's Best Store is returnable, within reasonable time, for refund or exchange, if you are not entirely satisfied with it.

This is not new. It was part of our policy when this store opened, nearly eighteen years ago, and it has been carried in effect every business day ever since.

It is this which makes this store an especially pleasant place to deal with by mail. With the best intentions in the world, you may order something and find that it is not what you want, or we may send you something which, upon examination, you find is not fully satisfactory. It is good to know that you are dealing with a store that "money-backs" its goods without question or argument.

An Interview with Mr. Ford

This is the most Important Advertisement 1 Ever Caused to be Published .-- Read Every Word---And then Marvel!

On a personal visit to Mr. Henry Ford I broached the subject of a possible August 1st Rebate.

(The Ford Company announced last year—as you well remember—that if their total sales reached 300,000 cars between August 1, 1914, and August 1, 1915, each purchaser during that period would receive back a refund of $40.00 to $60 UO)

'Mr. Ford," I suggested, "Is there anything I can say to our people with regard to the Ford Motor Company's 300,000 car rebate plan?"

'We shall sell the 300,000," was the quiet reply—"and in 11 months, a full month ahead of August 1st!'

"Then a refund is practically assured?"

"Yes-barring the totally unexpected. We are 50,000 to 75,000 cars behind orders to-day. Factory and branches are sending out 1800 daily."

I then said to Mr. Ford: "If I could make a definite refund statement we would increase our local sales 500 cars."

"You may say," was Mr. Ford's deliberate and significant reply to this-"You may say that we shall pay back to each purchaser of a Ford car between August 1, 1914, and August 1, 1915, barring the unforseen, the sum of $50. You may say that I authorized you to make this statement!"

What can I add to the above? $15,000,000 cash coming back to Ford owners! And to prospective Ford owners up to August 1, 1915, it actually means—Ford Touring Cars for $490—less the $50 rebate! Ford Runabouts for $440—less the $50 rebate! What is there left for me to say?

Make Her Comfortable If You Want Her To Prove A Good Mother.

ROY H. WAITE. Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

It is not so easy to successfully hat h chickens by the natural method terest in the office, mastered all its de- of incubation, as some people seem to tails, will be on the job and do a man's think. There are several rules that Fine Horses and First-Class must be observed, if success is to be had. In the first place, always select a good hen, don't try to set a Leg horn or one of the egg laying breeds, she may do well for a time, but soon goes back to her regular business of dacy for the office of Judge of the Or- laying eggs. Always select a hen that shows a maternal instinct, one that is Maryland, subject to the decision of the not disturbed easily and seems "set on setting." It should hardly be necessary to caution against the use of unhealthy hens for hatching. Such hens are apt to communicate their diseases to the young. Roupy on scaly legged hens are examples of diseases which should be avoided.

A GOOD BROODY.

More trouble probably comes from infestations of lice and mites than from any other one thing. Dust the hen two or three times during the hatch. Once will not be enough, for more lice will hatch from the nits and another brood set up. She should be in a quiet place, away from the other Never even think of setting her in the regular nest. Give her a chance to exercise. If you do not, she will get lame and also probably dirty up the eggs. You can't shut her up in a box with feed and water handy and expect her to do well.

The old hen can't do much with a poorly arranged nest. It should not be too flat, so the eggs will roll apart, nor should it be too deep, so they will pile up. The nest should be made so she can get on it easily without breaking the eggs. Line it with some soft ma terial, like fine straw, lawn clippings,

Give the hen feed and water regularly, corn and wheat or corn alone is sufficient. Stimulating feeds may make her go to laying again. Do not put too many eggs under her. The number will vary with the size of hen season of year, size of eggs, and value of eggs, but thirteen in winter and fifteen in summer is about correct.

WARM WEATHER FAVORS SPREAD OF DISEASE.

New outbreaks of the hoof and outh disease continue Maryland and in neighboring states causing serious loss in a number of valuable herds. Thirty-nine farms in ten counties of the State have been visited by the dreaded disease with a total loss of 1,472 animals. One pure bred herd of Guernsey cows in Haddonfield, New Jersey, valued at over $50,000 was wiped out entirely. With the coming of warmer weather conditions will be even more favorable to the spread of the disease than hereto fore. Every farmer should, for this eason, take every precaution against the introduction of the disease onto his farm or into his neighborhood He can best help suppress the disease by following the suggestions issued from the State Experiment Station Prices Reasonable last fall by Dr. S. S. Buckley, Vet > ment Station dairy herd and buildings are under voluntary quarantine, and we urge all owners of valuable herds to follow this example in order to aid the State Livestock Sanitary Board and the U.S. Department of Agriculture in checking the ravages of the > energetic co-operation on the part of farmers throughout the State. They should watch their animals closely and report at once sore mouths or lameness. If they have added new stock within sixty days they should inform either of the above agencies stating the kind and number of animals and where they were secured. They should also establish voluntary quarantine on their farms, and prohibit any cattle, sheep, or hogs from passing onto or off the premises. No one, if he can help it, should engage in the shipment of animals for any purpose whatsoever until the plague is well under control.
