HAMILTON LEADS AT DARDANELLES

In Command of Allied Forces
Attacking the Straits.

ASSISTED BY GEN. D'AMADE

Both British and French Generals Have Made Fine Records in the Small Colonial Wars Waged by Their Countries—Hamilton Was Born Near Scene of Present Operations.

London.—General Sir Ian Standish Monteith Hamilton, in supreme command of the British-French army now landed on the Gallipoli peninsula to co-operate with the British-French fleet for the conquest of the Dardanelles and Constantinople, is a poet-soldier, with the tough, wiry frame of the Scotch and the Scotsman's long, narrow head, strong nose and bold chin and with the big ears of the generous Irishman and the Irishman's ingratiating smile. The eyes are shrewd and calculating, as becomes a cunning Scot, but no less emotional and full of fun—the endowment of a son of Erin. His military career is Lord Roberts' best gift to the nation, for Hamilton is the product of the training and spirit of Field Marshal "Little Bobs." Kitchener has had the good sense to show his appreciation of Lord Roberts' handiwork and to give Hamilton the chance to prove his right to a place near the top rung of the ladder. He stands there the embodiment of the best tradition and practice of the British officer—free from pretension, arrogance and "side"—a brave soldier and charming gentleman.

General D'Amade, the French commander, at the beginning reported to be chief of the land forces at the Dardanelles, can serve under General Ian Hamilton in a frank division of authority which is likely to proceed without friction. General D'Amade is said to have resented upon more than one occasion the tone of superiority and condescension assumed toward him by Field Marshal Sir John French during the campaign in France and Flanders. General Hamilton has tact and magnanimity. His intimate association with Lord Kitchener as chief of staff in South Africa began and ended without a row—testimony to Hamilton's ability to get along with the most exacting and despotic of generals, far different from the amiable, kindly General D'Amade.

Hamilton came under the notice of Roberts in the Boer war of 1880, where he went with the Gordon Highlanders, and where, at the British defeat at Majuba Hill, he discovered that there wasn't a British soldier in a hundred who knew how to handle his musket, and not one in a thousand who appreciated the necessity of learning how.

Wounded at Majuba Hill and taken to the hospital, Hamilton was given up for dead. He revived when Sir Evelyn Wood dashed up, covered with mud from a long ride, to tell him that the dispatches home were going to mention his bravery. It was the first of a series of honor records which now have become so numerous that they would fill a book, while his medals and clasps, if he wore them all at the same time, would weigh him down like a coat of mail. From South Africa Hamilton went with Lord Roberts as A. D. C. to India—the "musketry maniac" the young officer was called. But he won over his chief to his own way of thinking, and the revolutionary method in training which Roberts instituted regarding musket and bayonet practice came as the result. The brilliant bayonet charges of the British in this war would have been impossible in 1880 at Majuba Hill.

Serving under Sir Evelyn Wood in the Burma expedition of 1884, Hamilton displayed such initiative that he was offered a high command in India with a salary of $15,000 a year. The School of Musketry at Hythe invited him at the same time to become its head at a salary of $4,000. He accepted the latter, and the soldiers he trained at Hythe were conspicuous for their efficiency in the last Boer war.

$500 For One Day's Work.
Pierre, S. D.—Fred Hanson, a "wolf-er" employed by ranchers along the White river to help clear that section of gray wolves, has just collected $500 for one day's work. Hanson trailed a female wolf to her den in the hills and by digging captured the mother and nine whelps. His contract price was $50 for each gray wolf captured.

A Chinese Superstition.
It is a superstition of the Chinese that a sneeze on New Year's eve indicates misfortune for the coming year, and to overcome this he is obliged to go to three families of different surnames and beg from each of them a little cake shaped like a tortoise, which must be eaten before midnight.

MILLION MORE TO GET MAIL DELIVERY

Rural Route Changes Will Greatly Extend the Service.

Washington.—Mail facilities will be extended to 1,000,000 rural patrons before July 1, 1915, without increasing the present cost of service, according to a statement by Postmaster General Burleson. This, it is explained, will be done by readjusting present rural routes so as to eliminate duplications and unnecessary service and by means of the motor vehicle service authorized by congress.

Changes were authorized which, without curtailment of service, have reduced operating expenses $177,644. This sum has been utilized to establish 263 new routes serving 31,041 additional families, or approximately 155,205 additional persons. Extensions of existing service were put into effect involving 104 additional miles of travel by rural carriers. These extensions serve 1,202 additional families and approximately 6,010 additional persons.

In explanation of his plans Mr. Burleson says:

"The purpose is to enable the post-office department to meet just demands for mail service which thus far the department has been unable to provide. This can be done only by careful and painstaking readjustment of existing service. Thorough survey and study of existing conditions therefore have been made.

"In some localities it has been found there are unnecessary and unjustifiable duplications and retracings of travel by rural carriers. In other cases it appears that unusual privileges involving unnecessary service have been allowed. It is quite feasible to rectify these inequalities, and this is being done.

"Later we expect by utilizing modern motor vehicles on improved highways to extend many existing routes at no additional cost of service. As one of the results from this latter step the delivery zone from important postal centers will be doubled. Thus families in the area immediately tributary to these centers will be enabled to take full advantage of the parcel post as a means of transportation of farm products.

"Rural service will be extended to every farmer reasonably entitled to it as rapidly as the new adjustments can be made."

LENDS AUNT $5; NOW HEIR.

Youth Will Get Part of Large Estate Under Her Will.

Logansport, Ind.—As a result of lending $5 to an aunt in Greeley, Col., A. B. Judson of this city has become heir to a part of a large estate left by the woman, who recently died. Attorneys notified him that he had been named in the will, and he is now en route to Greeley to claim his part of the estate.

Judson had not heard from his aunt for several years until a year ago, when he received a letter from her requesting him to lend her $5. He complied with her request and received a letter of thanks. He never heard from her again.

EAT BARK, LIVE IN CAVE.

Fate of Farmer and Two Daughters, Victims of Big Jinx.

Benville, Ark.—A man named Ewing has been found living in a cave five miles east of here with his two daughters, ten and eight years old. When discovered their clothes were worn to shreds, and, according to the children, they had subsisted on the bark of trees for ten days.

The older of these said:

"We haven't seen a piece of bread for more than a month."

Five years ago Ewing was a well-to-do farmer. First his stock began to die. By the end of a year he owned only one cow and no other property. Two years ago his wife, who was the ruling spirit on the farm, died, and six months later she was followed by their only son and the only grown daughter. This left the old man alone with the two small children.

But the real climax came about seven months ago, when his house and all it contained were destroyed by fire. He then sold the cow and disappeared. No effort to find him was made, for when the neighbors had offered to help him in his trouble he became angry and exclaimed: "No, I cannot accept any gifts. No Ewing has yet ever stooped so low as to beg, and may God grant that I am not the first to do so."

Labor.
Those favored few who by their rank or their riches are exempted from all exertion have no reason to be thankful for the privilege. It was the observation of this necessity that led the ancients to say that the gods sold us everything but gave us nothing.—Charles Colton.

AMERICAN GUNS HIT THE HARDEST

Daniels Tells Why We Use Fourteen Inch Cannon.

MORE GUNS ON EVERY SHIP

England's Queen Elizabeth Has Eight Fifteen-inch Guns, While the Pennsylvania Carries Twelve Fourteen-inch Pieces—American Boat Is 70 Per Cent More Effective.

Washington.—In a recent letter giving a detailed review of what had been done to improve and strengthen the navy in the past two years Secretary Daniels made this statement:

The bureau of ordnance has developed a fourteen inch gun that will shoot farther, shoot straighter and hit harder than any gun now in use or known to be designed by a foreign country.

There has been much interest in the matter of the effectiveness of the guns of the navy, and Secretary Daniels has given out the following information amplifying his earlier statement:

"The question of the proper caliber for the main battery guns of our battleships is one that has received the most careful consideration on the part of the bureau of ordnance and the general board.

"There is an axiom with regard to calibers which amounts to this: That a ship should mount the smallest big gun that will pierce the enemy's armor over vitals at the maximum probable fighting range. The fourteen inch guns of the Pennsylvania will get through the maximum armor afloat, so far as our knowledge goes, at a range of 12,000 yards. The Queen Elizabeth's fifteen inch guns will do little more than that. If our information is correct as to the velocity of the British fifteen inch gun the fourteen inch guns on the Pennsylvania will range a little farther than the Queen Elizabeth's fifteen inch gun. The flatter trajectory of the fourteen inch gun gives it increased probability of hitting in comparison with the fifteen inch gun.

"The Pennsylvania mounts twelve guns to the Queen Elizabeth's eight. Therefore the volume of fire of our ship exceeds the volume of fire of the British ship by 50 per cent.

"The navy department has built and proved a sixteen inch gun superior to both the fifteen inch and fourteen inch so far as penetration of armor at fighting range is concerned. If the Pennsylvania were to be armed with the sixteen inch gun she could carry only eight as against the twelve fourteen-inch guns now assigned her. If we adopted the fifteen inch caliber we would have to make a sacrifice in number of guns as great or nearly as great as was done in the design of the Queen Elizabeth.

"Counting volume of fire and probability of hitting, we see that at battle range the number of blows delivered by the Pennsylvania in a given time will exceed those given by the Queen Elizabeth by 70 per cent. The fifteen inch gun, it is stated, fires a shell weighing 1,920 pounds. Our fourteen inch shell weighs 1,400 pounds. The bursting effect of the larger shell will be greater, of course, but we have little doubt that the destructive effect of the burst of the fourteen inch shell will be quite sufficient for its task. No one can doubt the advisability of delivering seventeen hits to ten of the enemy. Added to all of the above, we must recollect that the chance of having gunfire survive rests with the ship carrying the greater number.

"Now, if we compare these guns at range greater than battle range or armor piercing range and merely count the ability to reach the enemy's decks or unarmored parts we find that the Pennsylvania's guns range quite as far at a maximum as those of the Queen Elizabeth. Both guns range farther than they would have any hope of hitting a ship—that is to say, over 21,000 yards, or something like twelve land miles."

JULIA SOON HAD ENOUGH.

Got Anthony by Mail, but Postage Came Heavy.

Detroit, Mich.—Anthony Merz, fifty-eight, wanted a wife and money and wanted them in a hurry, so he tried the mail order method in a matrimonial publication. Here is the result:

Monday, received an answer from Julia Bekeke.

Tuesday, she came to Detroit.

Wednesday, they were married.

Thursday, they quarreled.

Friday, a warrant charging him with threats was obtained by the bride.

Saturday, Anthony was tried before Justice Stein.

By noon Attorney Alpert said he would have on file a bill for divorce in the circuit court.

"He didn't want me," said the mail order bride. "Just wanted my money. I gave him $100 to open a restaurant, but he changed his mind about that and asked for more cash. Then I left him. I'm going to get a divorce."

THIS BOY OWNS BALL PARK.

Gardner's Father Bought It For Him to Play In.

St. Louis.—Prospects are bright for a hunter of a time this summer for Rodgers Gardner, thirteen-year-old son of Russell E. Gardner, president of a big buggy company. His father has leased a whole ball park for him.

Heretofore the corner lot hierarchy reached its apex in the boy who owned a dollar 'n' a quarter baseball, a catcher's glove and an infielder's mitt. Even then he was always likely to be toppled from his throne by some interloper with a wagon tongue bat and an out drop curve. But when a fellow owns a whole park he's reasonably safe.

Russell E. Gardner the other night closed a lease on the vacant corner at Locust and Euclid avenues and has arranged to have it fenced and laid out in baseball grounds by the time the son returns from a military school for his summer vacation.

WIPING OUT MALARIA IN PANAMA CANAL ZONE

American Sanitary Officers Meeting With Great Success.

Washington.—The report of the department of health of the Panama canal for the last calendar year shows that the American sanitary officers on the canal zone are meeting with remarkable success in combating malaria.

Those other diseases so likely to visit white men in tropical climates, dysentery and typhoid fever, are also being coped with successfully. The report shows that no deaths occurred among Americans in the canal zone in the year 1914 from malaria, dysentery or typhoid fever. Yellow fever, as is well known, has long since been banished from the canal zone by the scientific efficacy and thoroughness of the methods of the American sanitary officials.

The fact is that malaria, not only among the Americans in the canal region, but among the entire population there, has been reduced to a lower point than ever before. In this connection, it appears, apart from the report for the year 1914, that the malaria outbreaks among employees in the canal zone outside of Cristobal and Toro Point are now at the lowest point.

The pneumonia death rate increased considerably owing to prevalence of measles among the black employees and the overcrowded conditions in which the people live in Panama. The five diseases causing the highest number of deaths in their order are pneumonia, tuberculosis, nephritis, organic diseases of the heart and malaria.

In the latter half of 1914 a periodic physical examination was made of all food handlers in the kitchens, mess rooms and commissaries of the Panama canal with the result that one typhoid carrier and a number of cases of contagious diseases were detected and eliminated. This doubtless prevented much disease among employees.

In Colon and Panama the figures show a high infant mortality, due to ignorance and indifference on the part of mothers.

COW KILLED AT BALL GAME.

Was Standing on Home Plate During Whirlwind Play.

Sheboygan, Wis.—During a baseball game in a field on the Walters farm, on the Upper Falls road, a cow owned by Mr. Walters was killed while standing at the home plate. The batter let the club slip when he struck at the ball, the club landing on the head of the cow and instantly killing it.

The animal was valued at $75, and the young men of the baseball team made arrangements to pay Mr. Walters for the cow.

Fulton, Mo.—Left on the battlefield dying with the surgeon's notation, "mortally wounded," written after his name, only to live fifty-four years and die a natural death, was the experience of the late John W. Davis, a Confederate veteran of Fulton. A letter just received here from Joseph A. Mudd, another Confederate veteran of Hyattsville, Md., tells the story as follows:

"I have just seen mention of the death in Fulton of John W. Davis. He was a member of the grand company of brave boys commanded by Captain D. H. McIntyre, afterward attorney general of Missouri—Company A, Burbridge's regiment. Ours was Company B, and we stood side by side in battle. Comrade Davis was just my age.

"At Wilson's Creek, nearly fifty-four years ago, I saw him shot, so badly hurt that the surgeon wrote 'mortally wounded' after his name."

FAMOUS FLAG FOR STATE.

Colonel Proctor's "Rattlesnake" Now In Library.

Greensburg, Pa.—The famous Rattlesnake flag has been transferred from the vault of the Merchants and Farmers' bank in Greensburg to the state library, Harrisburg, to take its place among other interesting relics of American wars.

The Rattlesnake flag belonged to Colonel John Proctor's Independent battalion of Westmoreland county. It was made in 1775 and was carried in the Revolution. Samuel Craig, Sr., who, with his three sons, John, Alexander and Samuel junior, fought in Proctor's battalion, was the color bearer.

On Colonel Proctor's death the flag passed to the next senior officer, and so on to the last survivor, General Alexander Craig. It was bequeathed by his great granddaughter, Jane Maria Craig of New Alexandria, to the state library at Harrisburg.

MOVED BY PARCEL POST.

Old Way Cost Her $20—New Only $4.62.

Seattle, Wash.—Mrs. Annie Olson is believed to be the first housewife in the United States to "move" by parcel post. Postoffice clerks were astonished a few days ago when she demanded stamps for conveyance of her household goods from this city to Quinalt. "I figured it would be cheaper this way," said Mrs. Olson, handing in a barrel containing her kitchen stove. Other articles of furniture followed, weighing in all 337 pounds and including kitchen utensils, a rocking chair and a dining room table, among other things. The moving cost her $4.62 in stamps. It cost her $20 the old way, she said.

ANTI-DRUG LAWS DOING THEIR WORK

Hundreds In New York Seeking Treatment In Hospitals.

SITUATION NOT UNEXPECTED

Price of Dope Has Advanced Over 1,000 Per Cent. In Many Instances, and Fiends Find It Almost Impossible to Buy It at Any Price—Prisons Filled With Victims.

New York.—Since the strict enforcement of the drastic anti-drug laws in this city has made it almost impossible for dope fiends to buy narcotics the results are both sad and interesting.

"An appalling situation in which drug maniacs are allowed at large," is Ernest K. Coulter's characterization of the present state of affairs in New York. Mr. Coulter represented Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt in the long fight to suppress drug traffic in this city. He was asked to tell what ought to be done to handle the many cases of drug victims who, deprived of cocaine, heroin and other habit forming drugs, are committing acts of violence and filling the city's prisons and hospitals.

"I don't believe the people of the city realize the seriousness of the situation," said Mr. Coulter. "It must be understood that these men who rob, assault and kill to get morphine or some similar drug are insane. They are the most dangerous kind of lunatics when the craving comes over them. The drug means more to them than life, and they will never hesitate to sacrifice lives—others and their own—to get the stuff.

"The situation which has arisen is perilous in the extreme, but it is not unexpected, and ample warning of what would come about if the city did not prepare for it was given a year ago before the Boylan law became effective on July 1 last. The city was told then that it must prepare to handle hundreds—yes, thousands—of unfortunate cases.

"Commitment of drug habitues to hospitals had been found to be a flat failure, because the hospitals were too overcrowded to keep these cases a sufficient length of time. In addition experience had shown that the hospitals were not the proper places for drug cases, because the clinical or medical treatment needs to be followed by a prolonged social, physical and mental rehabilitation. The prisons were then overloaded with drug users, and we found that in nearly every case the prison terms were too short for treatment to effect anything like a cure.

"Consider this: From 40 per cent to 65 per cent of prisoners are drug users. Leaving out those sentenced for this very thing, from 30 per cent to 50 per cent of persons convicted of other offenses are found to be drug users. They have to be treated for this, but the workhouse sentences, for instance, are so short that nothing adequate can be done to rid them of the habit."

The Boylan law, the Vanderbilt and other anti-drug crusades and to some extent the war have increased drug prices as much as 1,000 per cent.

A year ago a six ounce can of opium cost the "pipey" or smoker from $6 to $10. Now it costs from $35 to $55. Sold by the "toy," the smallest and most popular measure, it brought $1 for first class opium or 50 cents for lower grade. Now Lai Yuen, the best opium, costs $6 a "toy." Recently 300 six ounce tins of this opium sold for $15,000, and the buyer expected to make $3,000 profit.

Cocaine, now selling for $22 an ounce, could be obtained a year ago for $3 or less. A "deck" of cocaine, the small package generally used in the illegal drug trade, sells now for $4.50 to $5, and the user gets less than he used to for 25 cents. It is now sold in smaller packages, containing only a few doses, for 50 cents or $1. The drug now is often adulterated.

Heroin, or morphine diacetyl, was imported largely from Germany and little manufactured here. It comes in tablets, which are crushed and "sniffed" through the nose. A hundred tablets now sell for $5 to $6. Before the war they cost $1. Heroin powder adulterated with sugar of lead is sold at a corresponding advance.

The morphine user pays almost as much as the opium smoker. Morphine is selling now at $5 for twenty-five grains. Formerly the same amount was sold for 25 to 35 cents.

HOSPITALS FOR ANIMALS.

Rome.—The Society For the Protection of Animals announces that if Italy goes to war it will maintain four big hospitals for sick and wounded horses.

ORGANIZE WOMEN FOR HOME EDUCATION

Mrs. Schoff Has Already Enrolled Over 20,000 Members.

Washington.—The bureau of education is much interested in the tour of the country in the interest of home education by the National Congress of Mothers' and Parent Teachers' associations.

"While child welfare conferences are being held by the state branches of the Congress of Mothers in Alabama, Georgia, Connecticut, Mississippi, Missouri, Maryland, New Hampshire, Utah and Wisconsin," the bureau announced, "the officers and leaders of the congress, accompanied by representatives of the bureau of education, are crossing the continent, holding organization meetings in many of the western states. This tour is intended to make the benefits of the annual conference felt as widely as possible.

"This year's work of the congress is in close connection with the home education division of the bureau of education. Mrs. Frederic Schoff, president of the National Mothers' Congress, is director of the home education division, which, since its organization in September, 1913, has enrolled over 20,000 women from all parts of the country interested and able to co-operate in organizing parents for study of child nature and child making.

"The plan of the home education work, as revealed in the Congress of Mothers and in the home education division, is 'the organization of the parenthood of the world for study of childhood's needs and for the promotion of child welfare.' In the conferences which the congress proposes to hold some of the topics to be discussed are 'Peace,' 'Encouragement in Habits of Thrift and Industry,' 'Spiritual Development of Children' and 'Helping Wayward Children.'

MOUNT SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

Terrace Talk

Now for a fortnight of solid plugging.

Gettysburg College will play the second game of the series scheduled with the Mount on Tuesday, at Echo Field.

The speakers for the Oratorical contest to be held the evening before commencement are—Hegarty, McDermott, Hogan, Daly, Donovan and Bowling.

That West Virginia Wesleyan game on Monday somewhat resembled that much advertised foot-wear. It was a walk-over for the local talent.

A Tennis Association has been formed consisting of four teams. A tournament is also being arranged by the eight men entered and an allotted number of games are to be played. E. S. Murphy, who has been elected president will no doubt cause much enthusiasm to be aroused in this sport. Mr. Murphy, who is also treasurer of the Athletic Association, has as his secretary, William Fitzsimmons. Two medals will be awarded to the winning teams.

The Senior Banquet was held in the College Refectory on Tuesday evening, May 11. Mr. C. Reubell Goldsborough acted as Toastmaster and the following members of the class responded to toasts, Leo P. McManus, "Our President;" Daniel A. Tierney, "Faculty;" Edward A. Dougherty, "Seminary;" Joseph A. Schmidt, "Memories;" Daniel A. Hegarty, "Pipe Dreams;" Daniel I. McDermott, "Just a Day in Class;" John J. Walsh, "The Sisters;" Louis A. Rowen, "The Absent Ones;" Thomas J. Frailey, "Something Local;" John J. Dowdle, "Said in Fun and Humor."

M. S. M. Wins at Last.

West Virginia Wesleyan proved easy pickings, the locals landing on Allen and Stansbury for 11 safe hits, which netted them a total of 11 runs against the West Virginians' 1. Brazil pitched a good game for the Emmitsburg nine, striking out 10 and holding his opponents to four hits, one of which was of the scratch variety. Until the sixth inning he twirled a hitless game.

Allen was driven from the box in the fifth session, up until which time he had only one strike-out to his credit. Stansbury did a little better and was especially effective with men on bases. Brazil, in the ninth, created a sensation by striking out three batters with the bases full. A home-run drive over the left field bank by Rice was a feature of the game. Every Mountaineer, with the exception of Brazil, got a hit, Camino, Walsh and Higgins getting two each. Singleton was the star batsman for the West Virginians, getting two of the four hits made by his team. The score:

FOR TROLLEY EXTENSION.

Mr. Editor:

As I am a frequent traveler between Emmitsburg and Frederick, the thought has occurred to me that while Emmitsburg is situated so near to the County Seat, where many people of this community are compelled to go to transact certain business, with the Trolley but seven miles distant, why could we not in some way induce the Trolley Company to extend its line from Thurmont to Emmitsburg.

Some years ago a survey was made from Thurmont to Gettysburg, and this community was in high hopes that we would have had trolley service long ere this. There is no community that stands in need of a trolley service more than that section lying between Thurmont and Emmitsburg that we know of. That it would pay the Trolley Company to make this extension cannot be doubted. This seven miles would produce more lucrative travel than any other section of a like distance traversed by the Trolley in Frederick County.

Are we interested in having this Trolley extended so that we can have a convenient way of traveling, if so, should we not take some steps in the direction of bringing the matter directly to the attention of the Trolley Company? If this community acts in concert, I believe that we can get the desired results.

Let's hear from others on the subject through your valuable paper.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE--ACADEMY

Valley Echoes

Inter-class regattas distinguished the athletic program on the first field day this year and they promise to be the most popular athletic sport.

The Seniors are busily engaged on the final set of baccalaureate theses. The themes of the first series are classical, of the second current history, and of the finals philosophical. A member of the faculty of Mt. St. Mary's College decides and discusses the merits of the work.

Miss Anna Fesenmeier, of Glenn Ann, Md., will entertain the Baltimore Chapter of the Alumnae of St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg, Md., at Hotel Belvedere, Baltimore, on Saturday, May 15th, at 3 P. M. Mrs. Loretto Muth Paul, is regent and Mrs. Julia Kalbach Foster is secretary, of the Baltimore Chapter.

In the future plays requiring a background of greenwood will be performed upon the adjacent lawn, weather permitting. Hiawatha, one of the features of last year's commencement exercises was produced here with notable success by the entire student body, and it is thought that a similar production for the coming commencement is now under consideration.

The annual May Procession took place on the first Sunday of May. The students of the College and Academy dressed in blue and white, visited the many shrines in the grounds and fields surrounding Saint Joseph's.

Together with the usual solemnities the Seniors decked the shrines with flowers and each paid tribute to the Immaculate Queen in the form of an original poem.

A rare intellectual and dramatic entertainment was accorded the students on Thursday evening, April 22, 1915.

Saint Elizabeth of Thuringia, a legendary drama in four acts, was admirably rendered by the Academic Classes of Interpretative Reading.

The Dramatis personae were well adapted to their parts, with Miss Lucille Morgan as "Elizabeth, Countess of Thuringia," Miss Mary Brown as "Sophia," her mother-in-law and Miss Anna Mulholland as the "Crstellan."

An interesting feature was a violin solo, requiring technical skill of a high order, by Miss Nan Miller.

The young teachers under training in the finishing course of pedagogy, after due apprenticeship in directing classes, have prepared, conducted and corrected their final examination papers.

The result of these examinations together with the year's work is most encouraging and predicts a hopeful and successful future for the respective teachers.

The following is a list of teachers and subjects: Miss Agnes Starkey, Spanish; Miss Gertrude Rehill, German; Miss Louise Haberman, Grammar; Miss Helena Hartnett, Geography; Miss Elizabeth Morgan, Spanish; Miss Mary A. Rogers, Greek; Miss Margaret Shaw, Philosophy; Miss Elizabeth McManus, French.

Costly and extensive improvements and additions have been made to the campus about the creek. The lowlands have been filled and sodded and retaining walls of solid masonry have been built on the sides of the stream. A concrete dam impounds the water for a distance of a quarter of a mile, thus offering facilities for boating and bathing in summer and for the usual pastimes in winter. A graceful steel bridge with rustic touches spans the stream, connecting mead and grove. An abundance of majestic oaks and chestnuts dispense a refreshing shade over a carpet of delightful greensward. The lake of crystal mountain water is also well shaded and will prove a veritable retreat during the hot days. Flood and field thus contribute to limn a scene of rare idyllic beauty.

The members of the First Academic Class entertained the students with a Dutch Party at the picturesque creek recently. The chief athletic events of the occasion were: a boat race by Seniors and Juniors; egg race by Academics; nut race by Collegiates; flag race by Preparatories; fifty-yard race by Third Academics; peanut race by Second Academics, and a boat race by Sophomores and Juniors.

"Above the Purple of the Caesars," was the Freshman contribution to the theatrical program of this semester. The characters were: Hector, Kathryn Gloninger; Narciss, Alice Barry; Galerius, Marion Flannagan; Agrippina, Anna Hall; Lucretia, Clare Coleman; Afra, Justina, Flavia, Marie Louise Pattison, Elsie Kalbach and Margaret Callahan. Incidental declamation and music were furnished by Clare Coleman, Margaret Callahan, Elsie Kalbach and Marion Flannagan.

ATHLETE DIES ON FIELD

Contestant in High School Games at Middletown Succumbs on Track.

Before a crowd of hundreds of persons, and with his father standing in the foremost line, Leslie C. Remsburg, 18 years old, and a member of the sophomore class of the Middletown High School, while participating in field day exercises of the school at Middletown last Friday afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock, dropped dead. Earlier in the afternoon Remsburg had won second place in the 12-pound shot put, throwing the shot more than 30 feet. Death, according to the physicians, was due either to over exertion or to the rupture of a blood vessel.

The death of young Remsburg was almost an exact counterpart of the death of his older brother, Albert I. Remsburg, who dropped dead last July at the Middletown station while lifting milk cans from the platform. Physicians gave the cause of that death as a rupture of a blood vessel.

The youth was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Remsburg. The father is a prominent farmer of near Middletown.

Frank Resentenced to Die June 22.

Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary E. Phagan, was on Monday sentenced to be hanged June 22 by Judge Ben Hill, in the Criminal Court. If there is any further action in this case it must come from the Governor of Georgia, John M. Slayton, who is now being flooded with petitions to commute the sentence of Frank to life imprisonment. Mr. Slayton retires June 26.

It was Frank's fourth sentence to death following his conviction on the charge of murdering Mary Phagan.

His lawyers said they would push his appeal for a commutation to life imprisonment as rapidly as possible, but the belief was the Prison Board would not hear his petition until June.

W. M. Adopts Famous Boundary Name.

President Carl N. Gray, of the W. Md. Ry., after being shown the crown stone on the Mason & Dixon line, not far from Highfield, stated that he proposed adding "Mason & Dixon Line" to the W. Md. Ry's nomenclature as a descriptive phrase. Other roads have some appropriate designation and Mr. Gray believed nothing could be more appropriate for the W. Md. than "The Mason & Dixon Line." It follows the line for many miles.

G. A. R. Will Decorate Graves.

Flags will be given out in the Churches of Emmitsburg next Sunday to be placed on the graves of veterans on the following Friday. It has come to the attention of the local G. A. R. men that these flags—which are fast colors and would remain in proper condition from year to year, have been taken from the graves and used for other purposes. Therefore the Post makes a request that the flags placed on the soldiers' graves be left undisturbed.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Lingore Hills and the Catoclin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

BASEBALL AT HOME.

"When are you going to play your first game?" is the question being asked daily of the management of the local team—showing that interest in the national sport in Emmitsburg has in no wise abated. The answer is that no official game will be played until there are funds enough in the treasury to guarantee a series of thirty games. That a fund sufficient for this programme will be forthcoming there is little doubt, judging from the hearty support being given this plan by the true-blue "fans" here in town. They heartily approve of the "money first" arrangement; they realize, more than the average person does, that to have clean, fast ball, played under proper conditions funds are essential.

For the enlightenment of the public—in order that they may better understand the reasonableness of the appeal for support—let us explain that the average game at home necessitates the outlay of twelve dollars and a half; other games are more expensive. With a collection averaging six dollars it will be seen at a glance that for home games there is a constant deficit, and a consequent drain on the treasury.

This year, season tickets—guaranteeing twenty games—will be issued. Many of these are now being subscribed for; and, instead of having to depend on a more or less uncertain collection, a regular admission will be charged all who are not holders of these season tickets.

Emmitsburg is a baseball town and the lovers of the sport turn out in force for every game. They believe in their home team and they are loyal to it on all occasions. If they look back upon the fine record it made last year; when they realize that Emmitsburg has one of the fastest diamonds in the State and a resident umpire that is second to none—when they take into consideration that everything in connection with the games played by their "home boys," all amateurs, the people of Emmitsburg will come forward this year and respond as never before.

CIVILIZATION.

Where is the "civilization" this era boasts of? Out of the war now raging—the most stupendous in the history of the world—there has evolved a spirit more blood-thirsty than that evinced in barbaric ages. Poisoned bullets, death-dealing gases, polluted wells, the maltreatment of innocents, cruelty to prisoners, disregard for the private property of non-combatants, the murder of women and children, the resort to practices long since discarded by savage tribes—all this in the Christian twentieth century.

FICKLE FASHION.

Madame Fashion is a haughty, arbitrary dame, she never lets the styles remain for six months just the same. It's first a long and then a short and then a medium gown; the hair is piled up high, fluffed out, and then worn hanging down. The sleeves are full, then narrow made, the waist line changes 'round, and heels are low and straight, then curved and inches from the ground. The hats are big, high on the head, they're small and pulled down tight; and some are cocked just o'er the eye, to mar the wearer's sight. The skirts are narrow at the shoe and wider down below and then they're made the other way much silken hose to show. Yes Fashion is a changeable dame and arbitrary, too, and not a living soul is sure just what she's going to do.

A LIVE PAPER.

Folks in Somerset county, and especially the good people of Crisfield, are to be congratulated in having a publication like the Crisfield Times. This twelve-page weekly, now in its twenty-eighth volume, is a modern newspaper in every sense of the word. It is a clean State journal brimmingful of news and alive in every department. In the columns of the Times are innumerable high class advertisements; the correspondence covers a large field; there is a feature for "every member of the family;" the editorials are straightforward and they at all times have the true ring of sincerity. We offer the glad hand to Messrs. Quinn & Son, editors and publishers, and wish them every success.

AMERICAN POISE.

The poise, the level-headedness, the trust of the people of the United States in their Chief Executive has never been exhibited to better advantage than during these days of distress following the disaster to the Lusitania. There are some who, not taking into account the far-reaching effect of a hasty decision, would cry aloud for war; there are one or two newspapers that advocate a "jingo" policy, but the rank and file of the brave yet temperate, thinking element and the press, with the exceptions noted, have the utmost confidence in the President. Well that this is so in hours like this.

General Grant said: "Though I have been trained as a soldier, and participated in many battles, there never was a time when, in my opinion, some way could not be found to prevent the drawing of the sword."

The President has protested to the German nation. There is no threat in the presentation of the position of the United States, but there is an unspelled note of warning as to what will happen if Germany ignores our claim, and the people are with the President.

No one can draw a circle around his own home, his own State, his own thoughts and call that the world. Some try it and mislead themselves; they grow narrow, and bigoted, and one-sided, and suspicious and envious, and small, and—the world goes on and looks upon them with pity or contempt.

THE thought of "dying in harness"—working, up to the last day of one's life—is not a particularly pleasant contemplation. The best way to prevent it is to apply oneself diligently while yet there is strength and virility, and lay by a store to draft upon when the declining years approach.

How many yards do the rockers of the chairs and the knobs of the bureaus seem to protrude when you walk about the room in the dark?

AFTER midnight, plenty to smoke, everybody asleep and not a single match in sight. Ain't it awful, Hector?

GERMANY has overlooked a lot of children that might be killed in the name of "kultur."

WHAT about the high cost of loafing?

THE Refrigerator Lid. Refrigerator and icebox lids have a way of hanging down upon the head of the person who is seeking victuals or ice in the top compartment. This may easily be prevented by fastening to the wall a curved piece of springy brass, projecting in such a way that it will catch the refrigerator lid when this is pushed up, but will not hold it so tightly that the lid cannot be closed again without effort.

Battles in the Snow.

One of the most severe winters ever experienced was that of 1812, the year of Napoleon's great Russian campaign. On June 24 of that year he invaded Russia with an army of 600,000 men. Moscow was reached on Sept. 14, and a month later, after the Russians had burned that town to the ground, Napoleon commenced his retreat. The army of 600,000 was almost wiped out. Men froze to death by hundreds as they camped, and when at last the Russian frontier was reached only 130,000 men were left alive.

In the Crimean war England lost altogether 20,656 men. Actual fighting, however, was only responsible for 12 per cent of these deaths. Cold and disease were the causes of the other 88 per cent of deaths.

During the Franco-German campaign of 1870 another severe winter was experienced. To the thousands of Germans investing Paris the cold meant little. They had the whole country to draw on, but to the besieged and starving French it meant terrible suffering. The city surrendered in January after four months' siege.—Pearson's.

Listen to Your Conscience.

Almost daily in every breast there is some tragedy enacted. A plot and a counterplot, a hero and a victim, a climax and a catastrophe, remorse and restitution—all these confusedly intermingled with scenes of our inner consciousness. And he who selects out of it all as the type of his dominating thought the morbid and the hateful thus starves and shrivels up his own highest nature and poisons the lives of others. But he who in the midst of these chaotic scenes can listen attentively to the whisperings of the still, small voice thereby nourishes his soul to a degree of brightness and strength that make him a power for righteousness in any community. But the real secret of materializing our highest thoughts in the form of deeds is to act readily and willingly upon the promptings of the inner spirit. To procrastinate, however, is in time to render this inner voice forever silent.—Symphony Calendar.

Told to Earn His Own Salary.

Commodore Vanderbilt discovered in James H. Rutter, then in the employ of the Erie railroad, a man he believed the freight department of the Central needed. It is related that some time after he took charge of the Central's traffic office Rutter called on the commodore to submit a plan for improvement. When he had stated the case the president looked at him sharply and asked:

"Rutter, what does the New York Central pay you $15,000 a year for?" The reply was, "For managing the freight traffic department." And then the commodore said, "Well, you don't expect me to earn your salary for you, do you?"

Rutter went out and carried through his plan on his own judgment. The result was highly satisfactory. Rutter became president of the Central.

The Likelier One.

The late Admiral Mahan was once arguing with a lady at a luncheon about the British navy.

"But, my dear madam," said the admiral, "it is hard to argue with you because you are so—er, pardon me—so ignorant."

"You remind me of the young wife who said to her brother about her volunteer husband:

"Isn't Jack just wonderful? Think! He's already been promoted to field marshal."

"From private to field marshal in two months? Impossible!" said the brother.

"Did I say field marshal?" murmured the young wife. "Well, perhaps it's court martial. I know it's one or the other."—Washington Star.

Kipling's Tribute to Mark Twain.

Kipling wrote of Mark Twain: "He put his hand upon my shoulder. It was an investiture of the Star of India, blue silk, trumpets and diamond studded jewel, all complete. If hereafter in the changes and chances of this mortal life I fall to careless ruin I will tell the superintendent of the workhouse that Mark Twain once put his hand on my shoulder and he shall give me a room to myself and a double allowance of tobacco."

Contradicted.

A certain physician told some of his patients that as long as they kept their feet dry they would be safe from an attack of the grip. One day he was surprised to receive a letter from a patient in which the latter said that he had had two wooden legs, and yet he had had the grip for five consecutive years.

Unexplored Lands.

Europe is the only continent which has been completely explored. A large area in North America has never been visited by civilized people. It is in the northwestern part of Alaska, within a short distance of the coast. There are, besides, similar areas in the extreme northern section of the North American continent, in the vicinity of Hudson bay, and again in Labrador.

The interior of Brazil has several large unexplored areas, and there are similar areas to the southward. Africa, as might be expected, contains more unexplored territory than any other continent. The largest lies in the Sahara, while the central part of the dark continent to the southward offers many opportunities for exploration.

Despite the antiquity of civilization in Asia, much remains to be done by the geographer. There are several unexplored areas in Arabia, as well as in China, and especially in northern Siberia. Australia contains several dark spaces in the northern section. Throughout the south seas lie many islands, some of considerable area, which have not yet been placed upon the map.

The Habit of Hustle and Rush.

Hustle and rush constitute a typically American habit, and one in which we take considerable pride. It gives a man the notion that he is accomplishing a great deal, because he works so hard and is so exhausted at night. A bit of adverse criticism and a word of advice are here offered. The physician may pass them on to some of his patients with advantage and take a small portion himself if he thinks it is needed.

Hustle and rush! No one ever saw a German or an Englishman or even a Frenchman work in such mad haste. We say they are slow. Maybe they are in some lines, but they get results. In science, philosophy and art we acknowledge their superiority by going to Europe to study from them. And many of their banking systems, business methods and their co-operative societies are better than ours.—Medical Progress.

How He Learned a Lesson.

In a murder case in Mississippi the principal witness for the state was an old negro man, an ex-slave. The attorney for the defense attempted by a severe and sarcastic cross examination to break down his testimony or at least make him angry, but failed utterly to do so. After the old fellow left the witness stand the district attorney said to him:

"Uncle Bill, I want to compliment you in that you did not get angry today, but answered the attorney so pleasantly."

"Marse Jimmie," said the old fellow, "I was a-learnin' in dem woods over yonder 'fore you wuz born, an' I learnt den dat it's lots o' times jess es easy an' always more com'ble ter drive round er stump dan it is ter drive over hit, an' I jess 'membered dat fact on de witness stan'."—Los Angeles Times.

The Cross on Sinai.

A simple cross marks the spot which investigators of Sinai have decided is the place where Moses read out to the children of Israel the laws of God. The mountain itself must stand for the monument. Rus Sufsafah, the elevation on which the cross stands, is wild, barren and rocky. About 300 yards from the base of the mountain there runs across the plain a low, semicircular mound which forms a kind of natural theater, while farther distant, on either side of the plain, the slopes of the inclosing mountains would afford seats to an almost unlimited number of spectators. Not far off there is an extensive recess which was probably used as a camping ground. No spot on the whole peninsula is so well supplied with water and pasturage.—London Strand Magazine.

Antiquity of Wheat.

There is evidence that the Chinese cultivated wheat nearly 5,000 years ago, regarding it as a direct gift from heaven. The Egyptians attributed it to their god Isis and the Greeks to Ceres. Concerning the latter it was believed that when she had taught her favorite, Triptolemus, how to till the soil and make bread she gave him her chariot, and in that he traversed the world, distributing corn to all nations. Wheat growing in Egypt can be by the evidence of a grain found imbedded in the brick of a pyramid be traced back to 3350 B. C. Varieties of wheat are legion. A French firm in its trial seed grounds had over 600 varieties growing, and since then "crossing" has increased the number.

Soiled Furniture.

Covered furniture that is soiled can be made to look much fresher if rubbed over with a soft cloth dipped in gasoline. This will not harm the most delicate fabric, and the odor will pass away when exposed to the air. Do not run any risks, however, by using gasoline near fire.—Home Craft.

Singing While in Danger.

Though there is no definite rule laid down in the British naval regulations, yet it has become an unwritten one for the officers to instruct their men to sing when they are in great danger, as, for instance, when their ship has been mined or torpedoed and is sinking.

A popular song, as a rule, is ordered to be sung because most of the sailors know it, and collective singing puts more heart in them and helps them to hang on as long as possible till help comes.

Some years ago some sailors from the Vernon were blown up in Portsmouth harbor. It was in the middle of January and an icy blizzard made things worse than usual. The lieutenant in command, who was swimming in the water, yelled out to his men, who were also battling for their lives, "Sing 'Bill Bailey,'" and probably that once popular song was never sung under stranger conditions. It is said that the lieutenant swam round and punched the heads of those who were not singing.—Pearson's.

Water on a Hot Stove.

It is impossible to throw a few drops of water on a red-hot stove. The water can never touch the stove at all. What is seen is a few drops rolling rapidly over the surface, gradually getting smaller until they disappear. If the drops are on a perfectly level place one can see under them to the other side of the room, thus proving that they are not in contact with the stove itself.

What actually happens is that the bottom of the drop changes at once to steam or vapor on coming close to the hot surface, and this vapor is supplied by the drop as it gradually goes away. So the drop rests on a cushion of vapor until it is entirely dissipated. This state of water is known as the spheroidal state and is of interest simply on account of its peculiarity and seemingly paradoxical behavior.

Work of a Submarine.

The submarine inventor, Simon Lake, says in the Century Magazine that this formidable weapon of naval warfare can be means of charts work its way on the bottom through the cables of mines or under nets or booms until it reaches the vicinity of the enemy's anchorage. Moreover: "If the enemy has its torpedo nets out, the submarine can creep up near the vessel, send a diver out and attach a bottom mine under her, to be electrically exploded after the submarine has moved a safe distance away. If desired, a mine can be attached to the bottom of the surface vessel and exploded hours later by clockwork mechanism. In this manner mines can be placed under several ships, and all can be blown up simultaneously at a given hour, when the submarine may be miles away."

The Penalty of Fussiness.

This story is vouched for—just as all the others are. It concerns a small maid who had a way of saying startling things at the table.

Not long ago the family expected a visit from a relative—a distant cousin from the roomy west.

"Now," said the mother, "don't you dare say a word if you see Cousin Jim eating with his knife."

All through the dinner the little maid gave the visitor her closest attention. She noticed that his manners were faultless; that he ate as politely and correctly as if kings and queens had been his tablemates. And then she turned to her mother.

"Well, ma," she gravely said, "I guess somebody stung you, all right. He didn't use his knife once."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Cleaning Day.

A practical joke which was played in a small town created lots of fun and some indignation. A joker notified many of the housewives that on a certain morning the telephone company was going to blow the dust out of the phones and from the wires. They were told to tie the clothes over the phone to prevent the dust ruining wall paper, furniture and pictures. Some of the phones were kept closely tied for an hour or two, and others were under the rags for half a day, or at least until they found by making inquiries of central that the joke was on them. My informant said the joker had to leave town for a day or two to escape the righteous indignation of women who were fooled.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

"The greeting 'How are you?' doesn't seem to me to represent any sincere and sensible inquiry," remarked the man who thinks hard about trifles.

GROWERS SHOULD SPRAY FOR CODLING MOTH.

Mixture Should Be Applied Before
The Blossoms Fall.

T. B. SYMONS,
Maryland Agricultural College.

In spraying for the codling moth it is necessary to consider several facts. First, the insect causes injury by eating into the fruit, and rarely does the spray come into actual contact with the insect; therefore the so-called contact sprays, such as are used for scale insects or plant lice should not be employed, but stomach poisons, such as Paris green, arsenate of lead or other arsenicals, must be used. Second, the insect enters the fruit usually within 48 hours after hatching, and is thereafter beyond our reach, so the spray must be applied in time. Third, the fact, to which attention has already been called, that the hatching period for the eggs of one brood extends over a considerable space of time; therefore, to get the best results two or more sprayings should be given. Fourth, in Maryland there are two broods of the codling moth, and to prevent injury by the second brood larvae one or more midsummer sprayings may be applied. In spraying for first-brood larvae it must be borne in mind that they enter the fruit at the calyx, therefore the spray must be applied before the lobes of the calyx close enough to exclude the spray. Fifth, sprays followed immediately by heavy rains should be repeated. Sixth, spray only with a pump which will give good pressure, not less than 80 pounds, and more than 100 pounds is much better, so as to force the spray into the calyx. Do not spray until nearly all the petals have fallen from the blossoms on account of danger of injury to the blossoms and risk of killing bees, which are important agents of pollination. Failure to observe these points cause poor results from spraying, while proper attention given them should insure an apple crop free from worm injury. In many instances we have secured excellent results with only one thorough spraying applied when the blossoms fall, and for ordinary purposes this spraying will be sufficient to insure from 90 to 95 per cent. good apples.

PROTECT YOUR HOGS AGAINST CHOLERA LOSS.

S. S. BUCKLEY,
Maryland Experiment Station.

With the coming of warmer weather there is increased danger of attacks of hog cholera.

This disease is the greatest menace to profitable hog raising in Maryland. The losses from it have been estimated to be about three hundred thousand dollars in Maryland annually.

This disease is the greatest menace to profitable hog raising in Maryland. The losses from it have been estimated to be about three hundred thousand dollars in Maryland annually.

The disease is highly infectious and swine are peculiarly susceptible.

PROTECTED AGAINST HOG CHOLERA.

Symptoms: The animals appear dull and inclined to lie quietly in the bedding. Several affected animals will lie huddled together. The eyes are at first dull and droopy. Later they become watery and discharges dry up, leaving the lids more or less gummy and glued together. As the disease progresses they become weak and stagger in walking. The back is arched and the abdomen tucked up. The respirations are short and rapid. The appetite is poor, and thirst, due to fever, is increased. Temperatures vary from 103 to 108 F. The animals may cough and vomit frequently. Loss of flesh is well marked. Red or purple spots or areas, to be seen back of the ears and along the belly, are due to skin hemorrhages. There may be constipation or diarrhoea. The discharges may be thin and show the presence of blood. Evacuations are painful. In some individuals and in some herds the symptoms may be well marked and characteristic, while in others they are scarcely noticeable. Hogs and pens should be kept in the best possible condition. Avoid placing newly purchased hogs in the pens with others for at least thirty days. Do not allow hogs to graze where they will be exposed to other hogs or to graze at all near railroads over which hogs are shipped. Report any cases of sickness among hogs in your neighborhood, giving as complete a description as possible of the symptoms to the Experiment Station, College Park, Maryland.

One of the most interesting papers at the recent annual Farmers' Convention held in Montgomery County was on what a boy did with his sheep. The father said, "My youngster began with sheep when he was eight years old. He has three ewes now, and his income last week was something over $25. There are plenty of other ways of keeping a boy on the farm and giving him lasting interest in farm life." Indeed there are. Are you going to be on your job—start your boys and girls in business for themselves on the home farm—now? You can't do anything better!—From The Maryland Grange Messenger.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. For some time she had been a member of the board of managers of the Home for the Aged. Until her illness over a year ago she was active in all good works. She was a member of All Saints' Episcopal Church, in other years connected with the Sunday school, and at one time the president of St. Mary's Chapter.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning in Frederick.

Paint and Not

Paint was so high the last few years the market was flooded with trash.

What is trash?

It looks like paint and pretends to be paint, but isn't worth painting. It costs a painter's day's work to put on a gallon of paint, good or bad; and the painter's day's work is $3 or $4.

Add that to the price of a gallon. That is the cost of a gallon. Devoe is $5 or $6 a gallon; and trash a half-dollar less.

But Devoe is all paint and more too; you add oil to it; a gallon is 5 or 6 quarts of perfect paint for the painter's pot. But trash is three-quarters two-thirds or half paint; you pay a half-dollar less for nobody-knows-what-it-is.

10 gallons Devoe is enough for the average job; it takes 15 to 20 gallons of trash. And the wear same way. Unfortunately, they look alike when first put on.

DEVOE.

APPRECIATES THE CHRONICLE.

A valued subscriber living in St. Louis, Mo., in a letter to the Editor of THE CHRONICLE says:

"Permit me to say that I appreciate very much indeed your efforts to please your readers. Your paper is chock full of local and interesting details. The fact of the matter is that a perusal of your paper keeps the absentee almost as well informed as though he was living in the community. The births, the marriages, the deaths, the visits and the improvements, in fact everything of interest is apparently to be found in the WEEKLY CHRONICLE and there are some things that appear to be rather humorous relative to things that are transpiring in your community to the individual who is only indirectly interested but I know from experience that those self same items are of much interest to others therefore I pass them over with a smile."

"I note in particular that you are an Emmitsburg booster and that is what you ought to be but you do it in such a nice way that it not only attracts attention but I imagine will prove quite beneficial to your community."

CHILDREN OF MARY'S PLAY BIG SUCCESS

St. Euphemia's Hall Crowded to See "Dolores, or Through the Fires of Sorrow."

"Dolores, or Through the Fires of Sorrow," the drama staged at St. Euphemia's Hall on Tuesday night by the senior Children of Mary's Sodality, scored a fine success. The hall was filled with representative people and the players, after weeks of hard preparation, must have felt very much gratified at the applause they received. The performance showed the thoroughness of the training those taking part had received from the hands of the good Sisters. The different parts were assigned with admirable adaptability which lent greatly to the naturalness of the piece. Indeed, so well did each perform her part that to give individual special mention would be to speak generally. From Mrs. Norton, the wealthy widow, down to Constance, the baby, nothing was left to be desired. The inimitable characterization of Aunt Betsy, the old colored nurse, by Miss Ann Codori—who made her initial appearance before local footlights—provoked laughter and applause throughout the acts.

The programme of the evening was interspersed with the following vocal and instrumental selections, which were thoroughly enjoyed:

Instrumental, piano, Prof. F. J. Halm; Vocal, "A Dream," Mrs. John H. Matthews; Instrumental, piano, Miss Eloise Gross; Vocal, "For This," Mrs. Joseph Welty; Instrumental, Prof. Halm; Instrumental, violin, Mrs. Joseph Welty.

The caste of characters in the drama is as follows: Mrs. Norton, a wealthy widow, proud and passionate, Miss Louise Sebald; Augusta, her elder daughter, haughty and vain, Miss Mary Frances Welty; Pauline, afterwards Dolores, younger daughter with talent for painting, Miss Madeline Frizell; Nellie Claghorn, Miss Norton's niece, Miss Mary Neck; Grace and Isabel Claghorn, Little Misses Mary C. Boyle, and Agnes Rosensteel; Constance, baby niece, Little Pauline Pontious; Mrs. Worthington, benevolent widow, patron of artists and a cripple, Miss Helen Knouff; Fanchette, her maid, Miss Bernadette Eckenrode; Tom Pincher, good hearted policeman, Mr. Frank Topper; Aunt Betsy, privileged old nurse in the Norton family, Miss Ann Codori; Sally Ann Tompkins, wicked little street singer, Miss Carrie Gelwicks; Miss Edith Temple, Miss Clare Meredith, Miss Heloise Zachare, friends of the Nortons, Miss Mazie Dukehart, Miss Estelle Codori, Miss Janet Topper.

About $50 was realized from the sale of tickets for the performance.

NATION MOURNS GREAT SEA HORROR OF THE WAR

115 Americans Were Lost When the Lusitania Was Torpedoed by German Submarine.

No Warning Given to Ill Fated Craft by the Attackers.

The nation is recovering slowly from the shock and horror caused by the sinking of the steamship Lusitania, of the Cunard line, off the Irish coast, a few miles outside of Queenstown harbor. The loss of 1153 lives, 115 of whom were American men, women and children, and all of whom were noncombatants, has caused one of the greatest sensations of modern times. The submarine which caused the catastrophe is believed to be one of the powerful U class craft, which are held responsible for the loss of the steamship Falaba and other passenger and freight ships in British waters.

The suddenness of the attack is held responsible for the terrific loss of life, as the deadly missiles came without warning while the passengers were dining, and the Lusitania disappeared beneath the waves within fifteen minutes.

What Survivors Say. Survivors say that the first torpedo struck the hull of the ship directly in the space occupied by the engine room.

CAPTAIN TURNER AND SALOON OF VESSEL.

The second hit her cargo section, and is thought to have exploded an enormous quantity of ammunition said to have been stored there. At any rate, several explosions occurred as the steamer listed and sank bow first.

Survivors united in declaring no warning was given. So desperate were conditions that only ten lifeboats could be launched. Indescribable scenes were enacted as the helpless passengers struggled for their lives in the sea.

The official British press bureau in London gave out the following report from the admiral in command at Queenstown:

"The torpedo boats, tugs and armed trawlers which went to the rescue of the Lusitania passengers from Queenstown are all in, with the exception of the Heron.

Few First Class Passengers Saved.

"Only a few of the first class passengers were saved. It is understood that they thought the ship would float. She sank in from fifteen to twenty-five minutes.

"It is reported that she was struck by two torpedoes.

"The Cunard agent gives 2,160 as the total number aboard.

"The Cunard company reported the nationalities of the passengers as follows: Saloon—British, 179; American, 106; Greek, 3; Swede, 1; Mexican, 1; Swiss, 1. Second class—British, 521; American, 65; Russian, 3; Belgian, 1; Hollanders, 3; French, 5; Italian, 1; unknown, 2.

"In the steerage there are said to have been 1,717 Americans.

The tragedy took place about ten miles off the Old Head of Kinsale. As soon as the Lusitania's wireless call for assistance was received at Queenstown Admiral Coke, in command of the naval station, dispatched to the scene all assistance available.

The tugs Warrior, Stormcock and Julia, together with five trawlers and the local lifeboat in tow of a tug, were hurried out to sea.

Weather conditions aided in the work of rescue, but the suddenness with which the liner plunged to the bottom of St. George's channel made it impossible to get off all on board.

From the reports thus far received, officers and crew acted with the utmost bravery. In the greatest sea disaster since the sinking of the Titanic they went expeditiously about their task of getting as many as possible of the passengers away before the inevitable moment when the great hulk they trod must make its final dive to destruction.

Meanwhile aid had started from a dozen directions, and soon the boats were picked up by steam vessels and smaller craft. But before this happened the stricken liner, with so many human souls still aboard, had gone down.

It is known that among so many victims there are many Americans, and in the view of those in authority here the death of these presents to the United States the greatest problem she has faced during the present war.

Bodies Brought Ashore.

One hundred bodies were brought ashore at Queenstown on the Cunard wharf from the rescue tug Stormcock and other steamers, which brought over 600 survivors. It is stated that these persons died of exhaustion while on their way to Queenstown from the scene of the disaster. The bodies were removed to the town hall.

When the survivors reached the wharves doctors and ambulances were waiting, and pitiful scenes were witnessed there. There was a large proportion of women among the arrivals. Their clothes were soaked with water. They were hatless and shoeless, and many were unable to walk.

Most of the survivors had suffered severe injuries to their legs and other parts of their bodies, and many had to be placed upon stretchers and removed to the quarters which had been specially prepared for them.

What the Captain Says.

Captain William T. Turner of the Lusitania expressed no fear for the safety of his ship when he sailed from New York.

"I wonder what the Germans will do next?" was his only comment when he read the advertisement sent out by the German embassy, warning Americans that they sailed at "their own risk" on British ships, which were liable to destruction in the war zone.

When Captain Turner was questioned regarding the ship being met off the Irish coast by British torpedo destroyers he replied:

"The admiralty never trouble to send out to meet the Lusitania. They only look after the ships that are bringing the big guns over, like the Orduna and the Transylvania, last voyage. On the last eastward trip I never saw a warship until we reached Liverpool."

One of the Cunard officers who was on the Lusitania on her last voyage, confirmed Captain Turner's statement that the liner had not sighted a single warship on her voyage.

Captain Turner stood at his post on the bridge until his ship went down and was rescued three hours afterward wearing a life belt, according to D. A. Thomas, the Cardiff (Wales) coal magnate.

"Our course was shaped for shore immediately after the torpedo struck," he said. "There is a difference of opinion as to whether the steamship was struck by more than one torpedo, but I heard only one."

PRESIDENT WILSON IN SERIOUS SITUATION.

A dispatch from Washington says:

Grave fears are felt by the administration that the torpedoing of the Lusitania will lead to a wave of anti-German feeling that will sweep the country. President Wilson thus far has managed to keep public opinion well within bounds, and the sporadic evidences of pro-allies' feeling have not been serious. The next few days are certain to be anxious ones for the White House, for they will show whether the American people will keep their balance or become partisans in their resentment.

The fact that many Americans were known to the Germans to be aboard the Lusitania is calculated to excite the populace, it is feared. The sinking of the ship without warning to the unfortunate passengers and crew, it is pointed out, does not leave a good impression and tends to the belief that the Kaiser's government holds America and Americans in cool contempt.

WATCHED TORPEDO AS IT STRUCK SHIP.

Ernest Cowper, Toronto Writer, Describes Attack, Seen From Deck.

A sharp look out for submarines was kept aboard the Lusitania as she approached the Irish coast, according to Ernest Cowper, a Toronto newspaper man, who was among the survivors landed at Queenstown.

He said that after the ship was torpedoed there was no panic among the crew, but that they went about the work of getting passengers into the boats in a prompt and efficient manner. "As we neared the coast of Ireland," said Mr. Cowper, "we all joined in the lookout for a possible attack by a submarine was the sole topic of conversation."

"I was chatting with a friend at the rail about 2 o'clock when suddenly I caught a glimpse of the conning tower of a submarine about 1,000 yards distant. I immediately called my friend's attention to it. Immediately we both
