Young Franch Girl Spent Days In Air Guarding Paris.

WAS READY TO GIVE UP LIFE

Women In the War-She Loves France, She Loves Adventure and She Knew Her Business.

New York.—The world's most daring woman aviator is the most feminine little person imaginable. As one chatted with Mlle. Helene Dutrieu the other day one found it difficult to realize that until a few weeks ago she had taken her life in her hands almost daily in guarding Paris from German rivaled France's most skillful and courageous men fliers.

She said that as there was no further service she could render France at the present time on account of the decision of the government not to use women in the war she had decided to visit the United States to deliver war lectures in the eastern cities.

So from the day the war began I was in the air practically every day, sometimes arising early in the morning and scouting for hours, sometimes flying in the afternoon or late evening. I had the good fortune on numerous occasions to detect taubes on their way to visit Paris, and I was able to descend and warn the aviation corps commanders so that they had ample time to send up squadrons and urer's office recently. I circled around and around, keeping watch with my glasses, and the instant I detected a German machine I darted to earth and gave warning. Usually I flew at a height of from 1,500 to 2,000 meters, but sometimes I had to go much higher because of fogs and mists that veiled the lower altitudes."

Mile. Dutrieu is so girlish in appear ance that she does not look her age, which, as she remarked very naively, "is between twenty-five and thirty." Certainly the reporter who talked with her would have been perfectly willing to accept the smaller figure. She has been, as she puts it, "trying to die young" ever since she was in her teens.

of the results that stand out prominently is interesting at this time. One of the most important is the manner in which General Joffre, the French commander, stopped the German drive toward Paris at the outset. The success of General Mackensen's army in retaking Przemysl and Lemberg, in Galicia, and forcing the steady retreat of the czar's army back to the border is also notable. Both are heroes in their respective countries.

The war to date, as shown by conservative estimates compiled from the best available reports, has caused a loss to the various belligerents of more than 6,000,000 men, dead, wounded and prisoners, and more than 500 ships. Of these about 120 were war vessels.

> In the meanwhile German and Austrian troops had met the Russians. A victory at Krasnik was announced by the Austrian government on Aug. 23, and on Aug. 29 the German army under General von Hindenburg defeated another Russian force in a battle at Tannenberg which lasted three days. Louvain was burned by the Germans in part on the day that the Japanese blockade of Tsingtau was begun. The blockade was maintained more than two months before Tsingtau surren-

Two days after the French government moved to Bordeaux the battle of the Marne was begun, a few hours before Russian troops succeeded in occupying Lemberg, the capital of Galicia.

Before the French and British troops the Germans in France were forced to retreat as far as the Aisne. Events of the next few days included the bombardment of Rheims by the Germans and the sinking by a German submarine of the British cruisers Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue. On the same day the Russian troops attacked Przemysl and took Jaroslav.

British troops from India were landed from transports at Marseilles on Sept. 26 and were immediately dispatched to the northward. Before their arrival at their destination the Germans had begun a siege of Antwerp, which resulted in the Belgian government moving from that city to Ostend. Two days later the bombardment of Antwerp began. The Belgian government remained at Ostend for about a week and then removed to Havre, France. Forty-eight hours later the Germans captured Ostend. Meanwhile the allied troops occupied Ypres, and a desperate battle had begun on the Vistula river. German assaults upon the allied lines between Ypres and Nieuport continued for a week and then weakened.

The Germans operating in Russia meantime had been defeated after a ten days' battle before Warsaw. German cruisers which had been sta-

The Emden, operating in the Indian ocean and adjacent waters, overtook and sunk more than a score of mercantile ships belonging to the nations allied against Germany before she was finally run down and destroyed off Cocos island. In the Atlantic the Karlsruhe and several auxiliary cruisers performed similar duties. They, too, sent to the bottom more than a score of ships.

On land the armies of the belligerents settled down to hold their positions for the winter months. tices, in so far as they might menace tivities from Nov. 11, when the German forces captured Dixmude, resulted in Russian defeats at Vlotslavek, Lopno and Kutno.

In East Prussia in the winter there was severe fighting resulting in the loss of many men, dead, wounded and captured. The German armies operating in East Prussia held off and dispatched a Russian army of vast proportions, finally driving it back well into its own territory.

On the sea a British squadron signally defeated the German squadron which was victorious off Chile. This engage ment took place off the Falkland islands. German cruisers bombarded Hartlepool and Scarborough, and the German armored cruiser Bluecher was sunk in the North sea by a section of the British fleet operating there. German submarines became especially active in the winter months, sinking many warships and merchantmen.

On May 23 Italy declared war on Austria-Hungary after having denounced early in the month the triple alliance treaty. The declaration of war was quickly followed by raids on the Italian coast cities by Austrian aeroplanes. The Italian army struck across the border into Austria, with Trieste and Trent as objectives.

Other Features.

During the morning as well as the afternoon game both bands were "on the job," rooting, by means of catchy music, for either side that made a hit or a good play. And during the intermissions and at lunch-time and supper-time the refreshment booths did a good business. Substantial fare and cool drinks and ice-cream were being called for all the time.

At night the grounds were electrically illuminated and big crowds came again. The dancing floor was crowded and the pavillion filled. Out on the diamond the small boy set off cannon crackers, the younger element put up balloons, and off in the outfield a committee of Firemen sent hundreds of rockets into the air.

It was a great day, the Fourth, a day full of pleasure for everybody, a day that will not soon be forgotten here.

Local Pitchers Invincible in First "Away" Game of Season. - Many Attend Contest.

EMMITSBURG, 7; TANEYTOWN 1.

Emmitsburg got an edge on the series with Taneytown, on Monday, when they journeyed down the road and grabbed a 7 to 1 victory from the Carroll countians. The weather was ideal for baseball and many fans from Emmitsburg motored or drove to follow the fortunes of the local club.

The game was hard fought throughout. Taneytown using three pitchers in an attempt to stem the heavy batt- ly moving, harmonious unit the disoring of the visitors. On the offensive Taneytown could do nothing with what 4 0 0 0 0 1 Sam Annan and Johnnie Stokes served The former allowed but one hit, a single, during his six and two-thirds innings in the box; the Conway Hall boy pitched shut-out ball and did not allow an extra man to bat. He fanned four out of the six that faced him. Then while Johnnie was "resting" himself he drove out four hits, one of which was a double, in five times up.

Taneytown got its lone tally in the sixth frame. Lyman Hitchcock was passed, but was thrown out on a fielder's choice, Topper to Rowe; the relay to first being wide the batter, F. Hitchcock, drew up at second. Alexander then hit to Dutch Rowe, who fumbled finest games of ball ever played on the and Hitchcock scored. Sebold caught Alexander at third for the other out.

The finest kind of spirit prevailed between the players during the game. It was Taneytown's first appearance this season. With practice, local encouragement and changes that this first game will suggest to the management, a fast aggregation of ball players may be counted on, to represent Taneytown on the diamond. The Score:

The Primary Fact About War. We sometimes think that the distiuguishing characteristic of war is the killing and maiming of men, but it is evident that this is not the real distinction, for men are killed and maimed in time of peace. The essential and the one marked difference is this, that during war a nation is a society, whereas in peace it is an aggregate of individuals. So true is this, indeed, that if a denizen from some other world acquainted with our normal activities during peace should visit us when we are at war he would have difficulty in recognizing in this smoothganized welter of yesterday. Compared with the spirit that animates a society at war, the disintegration that inevitably ensues when the sword is laid aside is in all practical respects like the dissolution which sets in in the body of a man when the spirit has taken its flight.-"The World Stormand Beyond," by Edwin Davies Schoonmaker, in Century Magazine.

The Black Hole of Calcutta.

If the prisoners in the famous "black hole" had been as well informed as modern scientists there would have been no such death rate as actually occurred. The men died of suffocation and panic. Modern discovery has shown that air can support life if it be kept in motion, even though it has but a small amount of oxygen in it.

If the prisoners in the notorious dungeon had therefore formed a mass and revolved around and around at a pace that would have been easy to keep up not only would the contained air have been stirred up, but each man on the outside of the revolving mass would have had his face presented periodically to the small window.

In fact, in the light of recent discovery the same incarceration could now take place without the loss of a single life-that is, provided the men were reasonably strong and healthy .-- Every dom Reminiscences." "Early in their married life," he writes, "my father and mother lived in lodgings in Jermyn street (he was curate at St. James' church at the time). One evening he unexpectedly brought home Thackeray for dinner and introduced him to my mother. She was rather overwhelmed by the knowledge that there was nothing in the house but a cold shoulder of mutton. It was too late to contrive anything more elaborate, so to 'give an air' to the table she sent her maid to a neighboring pastry cook's for a dozen tartlets of various kinds. 'Which of these may I give you?' she inquired in due course of Thackeray. 'Thank you, Mrs. Brookfield,' said he; 'I'll have a twopenny one.

The Listener.

Years ago some one said that "a good listener is preferred to a poor talker." And every one who has observed good listeners or listened to poor talkers have come to the conclusion that the fellow knew what he was saying. There is quite as much art in listening as there is in talking. Simply to remain quiet does not signify that one is listening. To listen means to pay attention. It implies that one is learning something. It is in line with the words of the wag concerning the owl, which runs something like this:

A wise old owl lived in an oak, The more he heard the less he spoke; The less he spoke the more he heard. Why are we not like that wise old bird? -Dayton News.

Fathoms Deep.

The boy yawned over his geography. "How deep is the ocean?" he inquired, pointing to the center of the Pa-

"Thousands of fathoms, my sonthousands."

"Well, how much is a fathom?" "A fathom is-er-er-are you look ing at the Pacific? Well, your Uncle Karl years ago was shipwrecked in the Pacific, and the pirates came out after him, and the cannibals-but I'm too busy now to tell you the story. Run along to bed." - St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Goats In Switzerland.

In Switzerland if a boy plagues a goat he may be fined and sent to jail. If a person meets a goat on a path and drives the animal aside he may be arrested. If a goat enters the yard of a person not its owner and is hit with a club or stone the person guilty of the offense must pay 30 cents. If the engineer of a railroad train sees a goat on the track he must stop the train until the animal can be coaxed away.

CRIMSON CLOVER

CRIMSON CLOVER

Read Farmers Bulletin No. 579 on crimson Clover. It's Free. Address U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

A bushel of Crimson Clover Seed sown on four acres of ground will increase the succeeding yield of Corn or Cotton about the same amount as would a ton of complete fertilizer applied at the rate of 500 lbs. per acre. A good stand of Crimson Clover turned under wil ordinarily double the yield of the crops which follow. The plysical condition of the soil is also materially benefited. The Sandy Soils are increased in Humus and Nitrogen Contents. The Stiff, heavy clay soils are rendered more open and friable.

Crimson Clover makes an excellent grazing crop, hay, ensilage and pasture for all classes of live stock. Milch cows make considerably more milk when pastured on Crimson Clover. It is also valuable as a honey plant, furnishing an abundant supply of nectar in the spring.

Crimson Clover is valuable as a Winter Cover crop. It is especially valuable in Orchards where it is generally plowed under as a green manure crop. The plants retain for the use of the trees the following season much of the plant food which would otherwise leach out of the ground during the Winter and early Spring. A good stand of Crimson Clover not only reduces the erosion and the gullying of the fields, but on sandy fields, the blowing of the soil by the wind is greatly lessened. The Plants also serve to hold the snow to a greater extent than if the field was left bare during the Winter. More and more each year farmers are realizing the importance and great value of Crimson Clover

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the produc-tion of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a value of the county is a v ley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoc-tin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. ### EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland-the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State-there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatchable; the climate is notedly healthful: its water-pure mountain spring water-cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary-with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years-is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies-equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid acheivement-is also here.

There are excellent Schools-Public and Parochial-in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled

We predicted that there would be "something doing all the time." Well, there was, and the biggest thing proved to be the fourteen inning game between Emmitsburg and the Frederick Athletic Club in which the home team won by the close score 6-5.

This "get-together" day is a good thing. It has become an institution here, and the value of it is that when all center their interest on a public demonstration, go in for a real holiday, good feeling, good fellowship prevails. ### KEEP OUT OF THE RUT.

Run in a groove and you eventually make it so deep that you can't see over the edges. Keep to yourself and carry your individual reliance to the extreme and you become self-water-logged, biased and more or less blind to much by which you could profit. To "talk it over," to get the views and ideas of others, to ask advice, is a very good plan now and then. "The man vitally interested is not always the man who can see all around a proposition," says an expert. "Often a suggestion can be made that is obvious to every one but the man who is closest to it." Ask advice, -you are not compelled to take it-get the other fellow's opinion, swap experiences, and adopt or retain what is best. Talk it over and keep out of the

GET WHAT THEY WANT.

There is an old adage to the effect that if a woman wants anything she is going to get it, somehow, sometime. The women of Reno wanted reform. They got the men to vote for it and the lid was nailed down on everything that made that Nevada town famous. Lately the women voted for the first time in a municipal election. They voted "nixy on that reform stuff" - and Reno is once more on the map, everything is wide open, divorces are granted while you wait and the town is once more "prosperous."

How do you feel after your holiday?

The Shy Caterpillar. The caterpillar, though a sociable creature, tries to keep out of every body's way. Some species hide on the under surface of leaves, others on the stems or blades of grass, which serve them as food; others, again, build little nests for concealment or lie snugly hidden between the curled edges of leaves, which they draw close together until the opposite edges meet. The caterpillar is a sociable creature in his own family. He knows that there is safety in numbers, and you will find whole companies feeding side by side while keeping a sharp lookout for their bird enemies, but when a caterpillar is by himself he scarcely dares to move for fear of attracting attention. Even when he is obliged to change his skin he doesn't venture to leave his old coat lying around. The moment that he takes it off he eats it. The caterpillars that live in companies shed their skin boldly. Only the poor solitary fellows feel forced to swallow their old clothes.-London Mail.

How Plants Breathe.

Plants have two experiences common to all living things, although they have none of the senses possessed by animals. They breathe the air and perspire. The leaves and stems of plants correspond to the respiratory organs of plants take in the air. Plants are chiefly water absorbed from the earth. own particular work? ### A Unique Lightship.

Off the island of Islay, on the west coast of Scotland, there is stationed at the Otter rock a unique lightship. It is unmanned, yet it can be relied on to display the warning light to guide the mariner on this dangerous coast. It is a most ingeniously constructed vessel and the only one of its kind. In its two steel tanks a sufficient quantity of gas can be stored to supply the lantern for several months. Experiments have shown that the light may be depended upon to burn continuously for months at a time. The approximate duration of the light can be predetermined, and there is no danger whatever of its being extinguished by wind or spray. The light is visible at a distance of from eight to twelve miles. The lightship also has a bell, which is made to ring automatically by means of an ingenious device that utilizes the gas as it passes from the tanks to the lantern to work the bell clapper.—Every Week.

Stonehenge is about ten miles north of Salisbury. The name comes said, "I have powder enough for both. from two Saxon words meaning "hanging stones.

> The earlier Celtic name was Cor Gawr, or giants' temple. There are in many localities in the northwest of Europe prehistoric remains in the form or "barrows"-that is, bowl shaped mounds or hills of earth. In the neighborhood of Stonehenge there are hundreds of these mounds. Coins, etc., found in them seem to date them back about three centuries before Christ.

Granite and Lime.

Granite is the lowest rock in the earth's crust. It is the bedrock of the world and shows no evidence of animal or vegetable life. It is the parent rock from which all the other rocks have been either directly or indirectly derived. It is claimed by scientists that all the lime in the world has at some time no doubt been a portion of many different animals and possibly of human beings also.

Did She Say It?

The fair maid gnawed fiercely at the handle of her pen. Then she bent again over the sheet of note paper and wrote rapidly.

"You are no gentleman," the letter ran, "if you think I said such a thing as she said you said I said I had said." Next day came the reply.

"Dear girl," wrote the man—"You must not think I think you think you must be that kind of girl I think you must be if you said such a thing as you said she said I said you said you had said.'

It seems he knew she knew he knew she said just what she said she heard he had heard her friends had heard him say he had heard her say, but, with infinite feminine tact, she accepted his apology.—London Mail.

The Bore.

Some student of the relatively unimportant but nevertheless entertaining side lines of literary history has been investigating the origin of the term by which we characterize the man who habitually blockades the channels of agreeable human intercourse. He has decided that the word "bore" made its first appearance in the letters of Lord Carlisle and of Selwyn, but that they used it with reference not to a creature, but to a state or condition. Thus in 1767 Carlisle wrote: "I enclose a package of letters, which, if they are French, the Lord deliver you from the bore." It was not until the beginning of the last century that the word was applied to the person who wearies and settled is this problem of "safety worries.-Boston Herald.

Why Steam Casts a Shadow.

Why does water cast no shadow, while steam, which is invisible, does cast a shadow? Pure water in a state of rest is of uniform density, and the rays of light, although they may be refracted, pass through it almost unimpeded in parallel lines. Steam is composed of vapor of different degrees of density, intermingled usually with some air, so that the rays of light entering it are not uniformly refracted and therefore interfere with and neutralize each other to a considerable degree, as counter or cross waves strike each other down and tend to create a smooth sea.-Chicago Herald.

The Sextant.

The sextant, an instrument which has been so necessary to polar exploration, was used by Arabian astronomers as far back as 995. The Arabian instrument had a radius of fifty-nine feet nine inches. The modern instrument. which is small enough to be conven iently held in the hand, was invented in 1730 by Thomas Godfrey of Philadelphia and Captain Hadley of the British navy.

Nobody can tell what he's going to have on any given day without working it out with a pencil and paper, and as nobody is likely to go to that trouble just for the sake of finding his meals monotonous, the result is, in fact, as pleasantly varied as if the menu for the day was composed every morning."-New York Post.

Prismatic Lake.

Prismatic lake, in Yellowstone park, s the most perfect spring of its kind in the world. It rests on the summit of a self built mound, sloping gently in all directions. Down this slope the overflow from the spring descends in tiny rivulets, everywhere interlaced with one another. A map of the mound resembles a spider web with the spider (the spring) in the center. The pool is 250 by 300 feet in size. Over the lake hangs an ever present cloud of steam, which itself often bears a crimson tinge, reflected from the waters below. The steam unfortunately obscures the surface of the lake, and one involuntarily wishes for a rowboat in which to explore its unseen portions. Whenever visible there is a varied and wonderful play of colors, which fully justifies the name. - "The Yellowstone National Park," by Hiram Martin Chittenden, Brigadier General, U. S. A., Retired.

Making Tin.

The tin of trade is not pure, but has in it a little iron, lead or arsenic. Tin is a metal of chemistry. Its principal ore is called tin stone or tin oxide and is made up of tin and oxygen. To obtain the tin the ore is heated in furnaces with charcoal. The carbon of the charcoal unites with the oxygen of the ore, forming carbonic acid gas, which passes off into the air, leaving the tin, which melts and is drawn off and cooled in iron molds. This is called block tin. Tin ore is chiefly found in Cornwall, England; Banca, in Dutch East Indies; Malacca and Queensland and New South Wales, in Australia. Tin was used by the ancients. The Phoenicians obtained most of their tin from the British isles. When the Romans conquered Britain they worked the tin mines in Cornwall by means of

What After Safety?

Everybody from Dan to Beersheba is now thoroughly convinced that "safety first" is the proper thing. It may not always be possible to agree upon whose safety it shall be, but considered wholly in the abstract anybody caught putting anything ahead of safety in these enlightened days of peace and good will would have to dodge anathema the rest of his life.

Indeed, so amicably and universally first" that many are wondering if we shouldn't now stop talking about it and commence to consider what shall come after safety. Safety, although the first thing, is not the only thing. What shall we have for second? Any suggestion, however fooolish, will be welcome.-Life.

Inner Life In Constantinople. Constantinople has a deleterious effect upon Europeans. So at least declared a "great and highly gifted lady," mentioned by Grant Duff. She had the honor of being received by the sultan. "I hope you like Constantinople?" inquired the monarch. "Yes," said she, but I find great difficulty in leading my inner life here." The sultan started, but, recovering himself, said suavely, "Ah, no one should drink water here without having it previously boiled."-London Chronicle.

This Player "Quick Study."

For remarkable memory it would be hard to outdo a strolling player of the eighteenth century, of whom Sir William Robertson Nicoll has written. For a wager he once undertook to memorize the whole of the next day's Daily Advertiser and accomplished his task by repeating every line in the journal, news, headings, advertisements and all in perfect order and without a slip .-London Tatler.

A PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

CARING FOR INDIAN RUNNERS

Green Feed Is Most Important Part of Ration Whenever Fowls Are Not Free to Range.

(By C. S. VALENTINE, Poultryman. Copyright, 1914.)
The very special care of the Runner younglings covers the first week, for they must not be chilled, overfed or left without water. They chill easily at first and sometimes get cast on their little flat backs and may be unable to right themselves. Water of blood temperature should be the first supply, then stale bread lightly moistened in sweet milk. After a week bran, middlings and later cornmeal and meat scraps are added to the ration. Sprouted oats, chopped lettuce or cabbage or any available palatable green feed is a most important part of the ration whenever the ducks or ducklings are not free to range. Nothing, however, quite equals red or white clover or alfalfa, either grazed or supplied artificially. A new producer of green feed for yarded fowls is the Chinese cabbage, which looks like a two foot lettuce and is extremely tender.

Those who can should permit wide range, with water privilege, after the ducklings are seven or eight weeks old, for this gives great muscular strength and lessens feed bills, while with ma-ture ducks it is likely to increase the hatchability of the eggs. In general, bran, middlings, shorts and red dog are the main reliance to produce frame and muscular development. Maize, oats and barley meal (the latter two sieved while the ducklings are yet small) tend to add fat. Meat helps along both lines, and bonemeal helps to make a good frame.

Shelter may be of the simplest, but must provide comfort and equable conditions. These, after ample feed and water, being the key to success, and those birds which, when well matured, are thus provided and allowed to order their own lives within these limits usually become the largest producers.

The greatest success I have known has come through using a barn basement for shelter, leaving food where the birds always had access to it and freedom to go and come at will. These birds were handled by an elderly woman, far past eighty, known as "a good feeder." They produced for three years under her systematic care an average of practically 53 eggs from each 100 ducks daily-more, of course, in the summer than in winter. The best general average production of hens in any state in the Union (census report) is less than 28 eggs per 100 hens for every day in the year, showing a balance in favor of the Indian Runner duck of 25 eggs per year.

Sudan Grass Will Provide Plenty Of Roughage in A Short Hay Year.

NICHOLAS SCHMITZ, Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

At the experiment station seedings have been made every two weeks from April 15th to August 1st. The results and experience thus obtained indicate that Sudan grass may be safely seed. ed any time between May 15th and July 15th, the best time lying between June 1st and July 1st. A good guide is to wait until after corn planting time. If seeded before this, there will be slow growth for the first few weeks, thus greatly helping weeds to get the start. When sown after July ist, not more than one cutting can be expected.

For hay production, Sudan grass should be seeded broadcast. The best implement for seeding it is the grain drill. Good, clean seed feeds evenly through the wheat compartments of the drill at about the same rate wheat does; that is, if the drill is set to sow two pecks of wheat it will also sow approximately two pecks of Sudan grass. If the seed is not clean it is difficult to determine at what rate the drill should be set to seed the desired amount; in this case it may even be necessary to use the oat compart ments. The seeding may also be done by hand or with one of the numer ous broadcasting seeders on the market, and the seed then worked in. The best depth, everything considered, lies between one-half and one and one-half inches, depending upon the soil and the danger of baking after a heavy rain. Where baking is certain, planting between one-half and one inch is the best depth, but where the land does not become packed easily GOOD POULTRY SUGGESTIONS the seed readily forces its way through three inches of soil. When seeding broadcast, 15 to 25 pounds of good seed is sufficient Where the seedbed is firm, moist, and therwise in good condition, and the soil is fairly fertile, 15 pounds is a plenty. If the land is rather poor and the seedbed is poorly prepared, then 25 pounds is better. For seeding in If you do not intend to use hens for rows to be cultivated for seed, produchatching, break them up at once and tion, four to six pounds of seed will be sufficient.

> BUILDING UP THE COMMUNITY WILL BE DISCUSSED AT COUN-TRY LIFE CONFERENCE.

Ways and means of arousing their people to a deeper sense of obligation to build up community life and make their neighborhoods still more desir able places in which to live, will be the keynote of much of the discussion at the Country Life Conference for Rural Ministers, to be held at College Park, Aug. 3, 4 and 5. One of the most striking papers delivered at last year's Conference was on this very subject of how the country might keep its own people, particularly the prosperous retired farmer and his family, who ought to be the most influential factors in building up a permanent community life. Dr. Carver said:

"So long as the original farmer is on the ground, the man who himself built the farm, used the energy of his own muscles with which to improve it, watered it with the sweat of his own brow, he will not forget the old neighborhood. But when the third generation comes along, having none of these memories, and none of those interests, then the real tend ency begins to show itself in its full measure. The farm becomes merely the place from which the money-comes to be spent in town. There is no interest in the farm at all, except as a source of income. The life is lived elsewhere, and the money is spent elsewhere, and the schools and the churches in the town are built up with Let the poultry have a share of the the money that comes from the farm."

> The early summer season is the most favorable time of the year to study agriculture and allied subjects at the Maryland Agricultural College. The College Farm with its experimental gardens, orchards, field crops, and fertilizer plots is at its best. These opportunities for first hand study in addition to the outdoor life and the freedom from the care of the school room will make a few weeks spent at your Agricultural College delightful and profitable.
