KAISER OUTWITTED BY VON HAESELER

Fooled Emperor One Time In German Army Maneuvers.

A PICTURESQUE VETERAN.

Report of Making Field Marshal Adviser to Crown Prince Recalls Famous Anecdote of "When He Fooled the Kaiser"—Has Been In Four Wars.

Berlin.—When the German howitzers launched their fire against the French line in the Verdun region, giving the prelude to a furious battle, cable dispatches from Amsterdam told briefly that the veteran general and trusted friend of the kaiser, Count von Haeseler, had gone to the front to act in an advisory capacity to the crown prince.

No more picturesque figure could have been commissioned by the kaiser for this important work. Excellenz Gottlieb is the idol of the German soldier. Field Marshal General Gottlieb, Count von Haeseler, celebrated his eightieth birthday on Jan. 18. This is his fourth great war.

Despite his age Count von Haeseler is one of the most modern and undoubtedly one of the most important of German generals. He is held up to the soldiers as an example of the true Spartan. He drinks only milk.

A great fund of stories has been built about Count von Haeseler. The most famous of the anecdotes told about him is that of the time "when he fooled the kaiser," as one can hear German schoolboys tell.

It was during the regular kaiser maneuvers in May, some twenty years ago. The emperor made a bet that he would capture the count. He was the commander in chief of the "reds," while Count von Haeseler, commander of the fortress of Metz, was the leader of the "blues," defending the heights of the Fort Kaiserin against the kaiser's forces.

Suddenly "Excellenz Gottlieb" was heard to mutter between his teeth: "Donnerwetter! What's the idea of that foolhardy cavalry reconnaissance? Those fellows seem to be after me!"

The general staff officer to whom the count had spoken galloped with half a column of cavalry after the reconnoitering party. The horse of the last man stumbled and threw its rider. The general staff officer had a talk with him, then dashed back to his commander.

Count von Haeseler thus learned the object of the reconnaissance. After a brief explanation his whole staff rode forward, forming a semicircle around the count, directly toward Fort Leizig, immediately in front of the advancing enemy. There Count von Haeseler unobserved left the staff. A few minutes later they rolled out of the fort a wagon in which were piled straw and old sacks. It passed closely by the kaiser and stopped a few steps behind him.

"Gentlemen," said the emperor at this juncture, "I believe we have now surrounded Count von Haeseler. I am anxious to capture his person. Alons, ahead!"

And the kaiser's suit galloped away. The count crawled from under the sacks and climbed out of the wagon, to the great amusement of the troops camping around it.

"What are these troops doing?" he asked the general in command. "By order of his majesty put out of action!" was the answer.

The count gave a hearty laugh. "General," said he, "upon my responsibility, attack the red army from the rear. No contradiction, please. I am responsible."

Count von Haeseler being of superior rank, the officer of the opposing army had only to obey.

A few minutes later the astonished emperor heard the signal of retreat at his back. At the same moment the "blue" army moved forward, and the emperor found himself in such a trap that he had the bugle blow "Das ganze halt!" ("All halt!")

When the kaiser heard of the old general's trick, it is said, he laughed until tears rolled down his cheeks.

Gives Fortune to Mother.

San Francisco.—Frank Jones, twenty-two years old, renounced an inheritance of $15,000 in favor of his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Jones. Jones' father died two months ago, leaving an estate valued at $30,000, all of which is bequeathed to the widow. For some reason Jones did not mention his son in the will. Therefore the will is void, and the son is entitled to one-half of the estate. "I am young, have good health and am well able to support myself," Jones told Judge Graham. "I wish to renounce my rights of inheritance in favor of my mother."

GOLDEN WEDDING IN HISTORIC LOG CABIN

Festivities In House Which Withstood Indian Attacks.

Blairsville, Pa.—In the log cabin which once withstood Indian attacks and housed six generations of the family, Mr. and Mrs. William Kinnan celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Five sons and five daughters and twenty-five grandchildren of the couple joined in the celebration, which lasted several days.

The Kinnan homestead, a log cabin was built in 1771 on the Pittsburgh pike, five miles west of Blairsville. One member of the Kinnan family, a woman, was scalped by Indians near the house shortly after its erection.

Mr. Kinnan is aged seventy-four and Mrs. Kinnan, whose maiden name was Rosanna Larkin, is aged seventy-one. Mrs. Mary Calp of Indiana, Pa., a sister of Mrs. Kinnan, and Mr. Emma Larkin of Blairsville, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Kinnan, were present at the celebration.

The sons of the couple are James F. Kinnan, who lives on the homestead with his parents; William E. Kinnan, who resides a short distance from the homestead; John T. Kinnan, Canal Dover, O.; Joseph F. Kinnan, Dayton, O.; and Charles F. Kinnan of Canton, O.

The daughters are Mrs. Emma Feasel, Derry township; Mrs. Catherine Gray and Mrs. Edward New of Bairdstown, Mrs. Rebecca Bridge of Blairsville and Mrs. Mary Doran of Vandergrift.

STUDENT GETS GOLD DUST.

Alaska Parents Send Son His Money In a Sack.

Seattle, Wash.—An allowance in the form of gold dust comes regularly from his parents in Candle, northern Alaska, to Colin C. Clements, a senior student at the University of Washington. Clements, who recently received some "dust" and nuggets, took it all to an assayer and turned it into coin of the realm.

The remittance came in a sturdy purse made of a webbed foot, believed to be that of a ptarmigan, with the leg used as the mouth of the sack.

Candle is on Kotzebue sound, just below the arctic circle. Because of the delayed mail service Clements had to wait more than the thirty days, which most college students consider a long enough interval between remittances from home.

He is preparing himself for newspaper work and expects to supply the residents of his home region with the news which they now must get by telephone from Nome, across the peninsula.

WILL HAVE A LONG SMOKE.

Will of Tobaccoist Gives Doctor 4,000 Cigars From His Stock.

White Plains, N. Y.—Dr. Leo F. Hugel of New Rochelle will smoke for a long time at the expense of John Christian Alton, who recently died.

The will of Alton, a tobaccoist, at one time a member of the Tenth army corps in Germany, was filed in this city. In it he makes a cash bequest of $130 to the physician and adds that he be permitted to pick the choicest 4,000 cigars in his stock. If the doctor consumes an average of ten a day he will be smoking at least thirteen months after Alton's death.

Another bequest was of $1,000 to be set aside by the New Rochelle Trust company for wounded members of the corps of which he was a member. The trust company has the option of using the money now or at the end of the war, the stipulation being that it be spent through the Red Cross of Germany.

Alton left several thousand dollars to charity, the New Rochelle Hospital association coming in for $1,000.

DOG PAYS HIS DEBT.

Warned His Rescuer From Clutches of a Fire in the House.

Lenox, Ia.—Recently when a dog catcher was leading Sport, a homeless black and tan dog, to his death, W. F. Steinkamp, a merchant here, intervened. He paid the tax on Sport and installed the erstwhile orphan dog as a pet of the Steinkamp household.

Shortly afterward Sport paid the debt. During the night the Steinkamp home caught fire, and the flames spread rapidly. A short time after midnight Mr. Steinkamp was awakened by Sport's frantic barking. He shouted to the dog to be quiet, but Sport would not be still. Then Mr. Steinkamp arose to see what was wrong.

As he opened his bedroom door a burst of flames and smoke met him. He had scarcely time to save himself and his three small children before the walls of the house crashed in.

Lenox residents are planning to buy Sport a collar with a real hero medal attached.

AIR MEN TOSSED HOURS ON SEA

Two Battle More Than a Day For Lives In Adriatic.

DISTRESS SIGNALS NOT SEEN

Hydroplane Went Wrong and Dropped to Water With W. E. Doherty, an American, and a Companion While They Were Searching For Submarines of Italy's Foe.

Milan, Italy.—William Ellwood Doherty, a young American whose career as an air man has abounded in perilous adventure, has just added to his list a fight for life lasting more than twenty-nine hours in the wintry waters of the Adriatic. Once before he had been stranded in the same sea in midsummer and collapsed from thirst and heat. This time he had the other extreme of weather, battling with a northern gale, and was rescued when on the verge of exhaustion.

Austrian submarines were patrolling the Adriatic while the Italians were sending troop ships across to Albania. Doherty set out in a Curtiss hydroplane to patrol the passage and give warning of danger. He left Taranto at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with an Italian helper. As daylight was falling the motor broke down, and the hydroplane dropped to the water.

Italian vessels were in sight, but did not see Doherty's signals for help. With darkness the wind rose and waves broke over the tiny craft. Doherty tore away the drip pan of the machine. The two cold, hungry, water-soaked men used it to bail with. By working one at a time without stopping they were able to keep afloat, although every high wave gave them a fresh drenching.

They had lost their scant provisions in the descent to the water, and in the tossing of the hydroplane their cigarettes and matches went overboard.

The weather became intensely cold. In the respite from bailing the air man who was free kept lookout for a ship. One came in sight several hours after dark, but passed on, not seeing the smoke bombs with which the aviators tried to hail it. Throughout the night and all the next morning the men relieved each other with the drip pan bailer.

Finally, too tired to work longer and despairing of rescue, Doherty curled up in the end of the craft. Sleep overcame him, but he had nightmare and was roused when a lurch of the plane nearly spilled him into the sea. Again he took his turn at bailing.

The specter of death was before the eyes of both men when night fell once more. Then a torpedo boat headed toward them appeared on the horizon. They exploded more smoke bombs and wildly waved their signal flags. This time they were seen. The torpedo boat approached, lowered a small boat and rescued men and wreck twenty miles from shore.

Italian craft had been looking for Doherty and his companion ever since the machine failed them. Allowance had not been made for the wind, which blew the unfortunate seaward, and the search was confined to an area comparatively near shore until the torpedo boat struck out into the open.

Naval commanders who had engaged in the early search reported the first night that Doherty and his companion probably were lost. Their return to shore was hailed as little short of miraculous.

Doherty recovered within a day from the effects of his exposure. Substitutes had taken over his patrol duty in the Adriatic, however, and he decided to shift his field of activity. He has gone to Paris and London in search of further adventure.

ELECTROCUTED IN BATHTUB.

Portable Electric Light Bulb Fell and Caused Death.

Toledo, O.—When a portable electric light fell into the bathtub in which she was sitting, Mrs. Josephine Bellows was electrocuted.

Mrs. Bellows, who was twenty-two years old, was alone, her husband having gone to Buffalo. She turned on the water, got into the tub and was reading a magazine while the tub filled. A small portable electric light was attached to a stand beside the tub, and this became detached and fell. The bulb was shattered, and in trying to catch the cord it is supposed Mrs. Bellows' hand came in contact with the exposed wires.

WISCONSIN FAMOUS FOR FARMERS' CLUBS

One For Each Twenty-five Miles Is the Slogan.

Genevista, Wis.—"A neighborhood club for each twenty-five square miles" is a slogan that has been adopted by the progressive farmers of Walworth county. At least there will be one well organized farmers' body in each town ship.

One of these clubs, the Lakeview, was organized March 17, 1913, and in less than three years it has accomplished more than some organizations in a quarter of a century.

This club now has 150 members, men and women, and through its efforts the township of Lynn built and maintains a good home. The building is of brick and stone and is equipped with every modern convenience. In it the farmers not only hold their meetings, but an annual fair. During the winter months they have lecture courses that cost from $250 to $300. There are two women's clubs and one girls' junior. The hall is at Zenda. Once a year the club holds a picnic on the banks of Lake Geneva.

There are farmers' clubs in the counties of Sauk, Manitowoc, Walworth, Washburn, Waupaca, Douglas and Polk, and all are thriving. This winter the jingle of sleighbells has made the Baraboo mountains fairly musical when the members turned out for meetings.

BELL ON RAT DOES TRICK.

Two Telephone Company Managers Finally Get Wires Through Tunnel.

Canton, Ill.—Success has crowned the efforts of two rural telephone company managers to establish a physical connection between their exchanges here in compliance with an order of the public utilities commission.

It was necessary to run the line through a conduit or tunnel 434 feet long, but of narrow diameter. First a rat with a silk fish line tied to his tail was started through the small passage. A ferret was sent after him to hurry him up, was too ambitious and caught the rat. The entire collection of rats gathered through the medium of a newspaper want ad. were sent through the conduit, but the managers were never able to judge properly the ferret's handicap.

A local inventive genius suggested tying a bell on a rat recently. This was done. The fish line was dragged through and then in turn a fine copper wire. The rat neglected to stop, and as a reward for faithful service he was permitted to escape.

WHEAT 4,000 YEARS OLD.

Came From Ruins In Egypt, but Is Kept In Texas.

Dallas, Tex.—When the late John Cardwell of Austin was United States consul at Cairo, Egypt, he sent to his old friend, Colonel F. P. Holland of Dallas, a small quantity of wheat that he had taken from the tomb of one of the ancient kings in newly explored ruins upon the banks of the Nile.

This wheat was known to be more than 4,000 years old. The glass container which holds the grain is hermetically sealed. To all outward appearances the wheat is just as sound as the day it was flayed from the head in the long ago, when the earth was inhabited by a civilization that is now forgotten. The grains are plump and large.

"I have been told that the grains would probably germinate if planted, but I have never tried any of them," Colonel Holland said.

VILLAGE CLERK A WOMAN.

Only One in the State Is Elected For Long Beach, N. Y.

Long Beach, N. Y.—Miss Agnes Bracken, twenty-five years old, of 296A Monroe street, Brooklyn, has the distinction of being the only woman village clerk in the state. She was named to that office by the village board to take the place made vacant a few days ago by the resignation of Irving Moliter.

Miss Bracken, whose salary will be $1,000 a year, is a stenographer and has been employed in a confidential capacity by the village board.

PHONE JOKE OPENS HIS EARS.

Deaf Since Boyhood, Man Recovers Hearing at Receiver.

Winsted, Conn.—Felix Bonvouloir, nineteen, a mechanic employed in Hartford, heard for the first time in his life recently. As a joke he went to a telephone and to his surprise heard a friend speak over the wire.

"I was terribly frightened," he said later. "Then I realized that my great hope—to hear—had come to pass."

Bonvouloir was stricken deaf and dumb by an attack of scarlet fever when a baby, but had partially overcome his dumbness.

SAYS U. S. CAN HOLD NORWEGIAN TRADE

War's End Should Not Stop Dealings, Bryn Thinks.

RELATIONSHIP IS GROWING.

Norwegian Minister to United States H. H. Bryn Declares Outcome of European Conflict Will Mean That America Will Be Depended Upon For Trade.

New York.—The United States should retain the greater part of the trade with Norway acquired since the war, according to H. H. Bryn, Norwegian minister to the United States. Addressing the new Norwegian American chamber of commerce at the Waldorf-Astoria recently, he intimated that the outcome will almost entirely depend upon this country.

"The commercial relations between the two countries have grown very rapidly," Mr. Bryn said, "and of course it is not to be expected that all of this trade will continue. It was created because Norway was shut off from trading with those countries which she had dealt with for years. But commerce, you know, is conservative and dislikes a change. The trade is established here now and is growing. It is difficult to break it off."

The new organization, which wants it understood that it is not a hyphenated one, drew about 200 to its first dinner. The name is explained by the fact that over in Christiania a similar organization has been formed under the name of the American Norwegian chamber of commerce, and both are working to increase the trade.

President Gustavus Purges, the toastmaster, had the minister at his right hand and at his left Assistant Secretary of Commerce E. F. Sweet. Others at the main table were Norwegian Consul General Christian Ravn and August Reymert. Mr. Sweet said that Norway in tonnage had 104 tons of ships for every hundred inhabitants. He asked what that would mean if the United States had a similar ratio. The country must have a great merchant marine, he said, and added that if there had been any struggle on the sea in this war this country would have been glutted with goods that could not be exported and would be helpless.

"Tell us the secret of your wonderful merchant marine," he suggested. One man replied that the navigation laws of Norway were not so expensive as those of this country.

Mr. Sweet praised the Norwegians for their enterprise and their patriotism.

BORN A SLAVE; DIES RICH.

Stockton, Kan.—The will of the late Sanford Johnson has been filed for probate. According to this document, he left 640 acres of Rooks county land, free from incumbrance, besides personal property to the sum of $7,000.

Born in bondage, freed by the emancipation proclamation and with no educational opportunities, Johnson succeeded in accumulating property far in excess of that of many of his white neighbors and associates. He came to Rooks county in the early eighties and homesteaded the quarter section on which he died.

He reared six children, giving all a common school education. He has always been considered one of the substantial and up to date farmers in his community. His property was divided among his children.

KISS FOR AUTO FAIR TRADE.

That Was Verdict of Iowa Jury Upholding Woman.

Davenport, Ia.—That the kiss which Mrs. Bertha Spangler claims she gave Thomas Brown for an automobile was a fair trade was the verdict of a Scott county jury.

Brown brought the suit in an attempt to show that he was the owner of the car and had merely let Mrs. Spangler, his housekeeper, use the machine. The woman testified that Mrs. Brown had given her the car, the compensation being a kiss. The jury was out for four hours before a verdict was finally agreed upon which gave the machine to the woman.

Woman Too Big For Cell.

St. Joseph, Mo.—The criminal court here was compelled to take judicial cognizance of a physical peculiarity of Mrs. Clara Cochran. She was fined $50 and costs for selling liquor and was unable to pay. Her size prevented her from being placed in a cell in jail, and she was given time in which to raise the money.

TEACHER WEDS PUPIL BEFORE HIS SCHOOL

Scholars Dumfounded at First, but Later Cheer.

Vernon, Miss.—Professor Porter, organizer of the Vernon separate school, and Miss Clarence Palmer, one of the pupils, were principals in a romance that grew into marriage before any of the other pupils got the slightest inkling of it.

Professor Porter one morning recently called school as usual. He heard all classes apparently without letting his mind turn toward the event that was but a few hours off. At 3 p. m. Judge Armstrong Rogers slipped into the schoolroom and took a rear seat. The pupils looked around, thought it uncommon, but concluded that the squire was just a casual visitor.

At 4 o'clock the scholars had all books, slates, sponges and rulers tucked away, ready for the dismissal bell. Professor Porter ascended the rostrum, said he was going to turn over a new leaf and asked Miss Palmer if she were ready. She flushed slightly. Squire Rogers took her arm, and together they walked up to the professor on the platform. The marriage ceremony was pronounced while the scholars sat silent and dumfounded.

The professor kissed his bride. The pupils, recovering from their surprise, lustily gave the "three times three" football yell for the couple. Professor Porter is known as an artist, soldier and educator. The bride is a beautiful young lady of many accomplishments.

CROWBAR PIERCES BODY.

Fellow Workmen Pulled It Out and Blake Will Recover.

Grass Valley, Cal.—How a man could strike upon the sharp end of a crowbar, have it pierce his flesh and come out under a rib and still live is the remarkable part of an accident which befell Joseph Blake.

He was working at his father's mining claim and was standing upon a bank when he felt the earth give way under him. He jumped and in his excitement did not notice the bar, which was sticking out of the ground.

It penetrated his back in the lower part and ranged upward toward the waist line and emerged under the lower rib. He was rushed to a sanitarium after his fellow employees had pulled the bar out of his flesh. It is believed Blake will recover.

CINDERS KEEP THEM WARM.

Tramps Take Advantage of Work Being Conducted by Penn Road.

Beaver Falls, Pa.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company has been making a fill of the Beaver river between New Brighton and Rochester with the intention of changing its main line between the two points to eliminate a long curve. The fill requires hundreds of carloads of cinders, which are loaded into the cars while red hot. When unloaded they retain the heat for days.

This has made the place a winter resort for hoboes. At all hours the entire embankment, a mile or more in length, swarms with a heterogeneous crowd of old and young men, who eat, drink, make merry and sleep.

On the hot cinders the tramps make coffee and cook the fruits of foraging parties. In the warm they scoop out a bed in the warm ashes and after carefully removing the cinders burrow down in the yielding mass and sleep in comparative comfort on the coldest nights, with only their heads visible.

DELAY FUNERAL FOR COFFIN.

Had to Select Lumber From Farm For Woman's Interment.

St. Louis.—The funeral of Mrs. Anton Weineke of Edwardsville, Ill., was delayed until a coffin could be made from a walnut tree on her "home place."

Mrs. Weineke and her husband, three years ago, picked out the walnut tree on their farm from which to have their coffins made. It was saved into boards, which were permitted to season until last June, when Weineke took the lumber to a planing mill and ordered it made into coffins. Weineke was then eighty years old, and his wife was seventy-seven.

The work of making the caskets was put off. When Mrs. Weineke died, rather unexpectedly, orders were given to rush one of the coffins to completion.

Mrs. Weineke was the daughter of Anton Louis, a pioneer St. Louis druggist.

Husband 6 Foot 8; Wife 6 Foot.

Fort Dodge, Ia.—A giant has been discovered in the person of Clare Gerd Posendahl, a young farmer. He caused excitement here because of his six feet eight inches. He weighs more than 300 pounds. His wife is six feet tall.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/2 oz. of sal. cerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up for you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

MOUNT SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

Terrace Talk

Forty seven candidates reported to Coach Day for the first outdoor baseball practice held at Mt. St. Mary's college Monday. The men indulged in a lively batting practice which was followed by a long run around the field. No infield practice was held because the Diamond is still in a wet condition. There are many new candidates on the Mount tain squad this year who are bound to give the old members a merry fight for their positions. On the whole the prospects for a winning team are brighter than for several seasons. The men who reported Monday and their positions are as follows: Pitchers; Parker, Gallagher, Reardon, McHugh, Stehman, Buckley, W. Foley, Cashman, Gleason, Johnson, O'Brien, Grasselle and Shafer. Catchers; Long, Preston, Poist, Allen, J. Royer, McCormick, Simonic, Johnson. Infielders; Camino, Quinn, Burke, Mullane, Casey, Brenning, Bradley, Carney, Coyle, Rowe, Hagerty, McMorris, Sheridan. Outfielders; Rice, Welch, Crilly, Leary, J. Foley, W. Royer, Clark, Sadler, McPherson, Cogan, McGee, O. Kelley and Lavelle.

The interclass basketball season came to a close here Tuesday, when the Preps, leaders of the league met and defeated their closest competitors the Freshmen, 26 to 13. The game was the deciding one in the league, for on it rested the last chance of the Collegiates for the Championship, while a victory for the Preps meant the clinching of the pennant. The Prep quint played through the season with a clean slate of victories having suffered no reverses and being on the winning side in all ten contests. The Freshman and Junior teams follow with four losses and two losses each, with the Seniors and Sophomores next in the order named.

The game was fast throughout, and at the end of the first half the score stood twelve to nine in favor of the Freshmen. The second half, however, found the Preps with a new lease of life, and the result was that the Collegiates scored but one point throughout the second period. The teamwork of the latter, so noticeable in the first session fell off deplorably in the second, and thus the Preps made their victory secure. Interest in the game was intense, rooters for both sides being very much in evidence, and the cheering did much to encourage the two quints. Boyle and Heggarty were the shining lights for the winners, while Drury and Joyce contributed some fast floor-work for the Collegians.

The Championship team is composed of the following athletes; Cletus Boyle, John Burke, John Heggarty, Joseph Royer, William Cashman, with Frank Miley and John Foley as reserves. This team now becomes the winner of a handsome shield offered by the athletic association.

The lineup

Preps. Boyle L. F. Culhane Heggarty R. F. Daniels Cashman C. Drury Royer L. G. Cogan Burke R. G. Joyce

Goals; Boyle 5, Heggerty 2, Cashman 2, Daniels 2, Cogan, Royer, Joyce, Burke, Fools, Boyle 3, Heggerty, Drury 4. Substitutions for Freshmen; Preston for Culhane. For Preps; Foley for Burke. Referee, Coach Day; Timer, Cogan, Scorer Lee.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liverys, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md

LEWIS GROWING IN FAVOR.

Dr. George Wells, veteran leader of the Democracy in Anne Arundel county, made his position on the senatorship very clear when he was interviewed at Annapolis last Saturday. "I am for Lewis; first, last and all the time" is the way he put it, and he was particular to give his reasons. Here are some of them:

"In the first place, Mr. Lewis is a good Democrat all the way through. He is able and has shown the people of the State of Maryland and of the United States too, just how great his ability is. Another of his excellent qualities which should appeal to the people whose interest he is asking, to represent in the United States Senate, is his known fearlessness and his aggressiveness to go after and get the things his constituents want and need and the country wants and needs.

"Mr. Lewis has still another excellent quality; when he makes a promise, or gives a man his word, he can be depended upon to the last to keep the promise and redeem his word."

This formal, public endorsement of Congressman Lewis by Dr. Wells really voices in a succinct way the sentiment of thousands of Democrats in every section of the State. They have followed Mr. Lewis' record. They have found it clean, consistent. They have noted that he has been on the right side of every question that has come up, whether for the country at large, for the State as a whole, or for the Sixth district all of which he has so ably represented.

RIDICULING RELIGION.

Taking surface indications as a barometer, reverence for things holy is at a very low ebb just now in certain places and among certain people. Religion is being travestied, sacred subjects are being treated with levity. By buffoonery, acrobatics and the employment of slangy similes, ill-chosen comparisons and billingsgate, large crowds are being appealed to, and they are responding, both with their presence and their money.

It seems to be the tendency of the era—this hurrah business. Fanaticism, under the guise of religion, appears to be on the verge of running riot. Doctrine is being cast to the winds; also all thought of services that are dignified, solemn, serious and with any semblance of ceremonial.

Shake hands with a "revivalist" and you are saved. Churches are of no moment, we are being told. Ministers are "liars," wishy washy, namby pamby useless appendages—just ripe target-fruit for evangelistic arrows.

If this is true religion all that has gone before is of little worth. "Hit the trail," study a few detached portions of the bible, throw the rest into the discard, go as you please and as far as you like with your individualistic beliefs and all is well.

MORE TO FOLLOW.

There's lots of "timber" from which to choose—there's Wilson and Teddy and Weeks and Hughes. LaFollette and Cummins are in the race, and Brumbaugh's showing his smiling face. DuPont is keeping his powder dry for the highest office his chance to try. Before so long Bill Bryan will fling his Alpine top piece in the ring. And as every State has a "favorite son," the skirmish has only just begun. * * * Right there one near went by the board—the old peace scout H. Auto Ford.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Today old Erin's faithful sons, where ever they may be, among the shamrock covered hills, on foreign shore or sea, will wear the trefoil o'er their hearts and toast in phrases quaint, the land they love, and homage pay to their great patron saint.

THE ESTHETIC ANGLE WORM.

The angle worm good music loves, So early in the spring, He ventures from his hole to hear The pretty bluebird sing —Tennyson J. Daft, sometime since. The pretty bluebird spies the worm Stretched out upon the ground, And quickly puts the creature where He cannot hear a sound —Kind of Daft Myself, Bunker Hill, Kas.

The agile cat he sees his chance And forthwith grabs the bird, And music from that feathery throat Will nevermore be heard.

SPEAKING of the nondescript dogs that swarm today in Bagdad streets and alleys Flanuer says: "They bark and quarrel over heaps of rotten garbage and the night is made hideous by their howling." Is there not some mistake? The writer was surely referring to Emmitsburg and not Bagdad.

Ship Money. Charles I. was badly in need of money, and his attorney general in the course of his antiquarian researches discovered that in the dim ages of the past the crown had issued writs to the cities and towns on the coast requiring them to provide vessels for the royal needs, and he suggested that this ancient right might be brought into use again. Instead of the actual vessels a money contribution might be exacted instead. Thus the king would be able to tax a larger part of the realm while theoretically observing the laws. Writs for ship money were accordingly issued, but the patriot John Hampden declared that they were illegal and raised such a protest against them that they were practically nullified.

Not Much Difference. Brown—Now, my wife always consults me about everything she buys for herself—dresses, hats, shoes, gloves—everything. Robinson—So does mine—that is, she always asks me for the money. Comes to the same thing in the end.

Rather Rough. "Here's hard luck." "What's that?" "Fludub's wife wants him to pay the income tax on the alimony he gives her."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Just Like a Man. Mr. Baggie—Confound that tailor! These trousers are a mile too long. Mrs. Baggie—How much shall I turn them up? Mr. Baggie—About half an inch.—London Answers.

Helps Some. The law of compensation is still working. You don't have to buy your wife an expensive hat to wear in an expensive automobile.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Never talk of other people's faults without necessity and avoid those who do.

A "Young" Old Lady. In "The Intimate Letters of Hester Piozzi and Penelope Burdington," edited by Oswald G. Kirton, appears an anecdote of a most unusual old lady. There was a Mrs. Shelley in Sussex, says Mrs. Piozzi—her sneering neighbors called her Episcopi and Gospel—who had two maiden daughters. One broke her leg and died at about forty years of age, but the other departed not until five years ago. The doctors told her mamma there was no hope, and she piously resigned herself to the loss.

"But tell me at least," cried she, "what ails my poor child and of what can she possibly be dying?" "Of age, dear madam," answered her physician. "Miss Shelley was never strong, and seventy-six years have nearly worn her out."

"Oh, dear! Is she really? Why, I am ninety-four myself, and I am not dying of age!" She spoke truly and outlived her little girl, as she called her, six years.

The Land of Lost Beauty. Is there any land for lost and lovely things—sunsets and jeweled nights and emotions that have been perfectly beautiful and that just aren't alive any more? If there isn't, there ought to be—some heaven where they could go on living and forever fulfilling their loveliness. This is not a personal sorrow, and yet I ache with it. As I sit here in my old maid's corner I am as tranquil as if I had realized matrimony; I am busy and happy and just as much alive as most of my married friends. Of course they pity me; they feel as if life had passed me by, and, in a way, it has, but I am infinitely sorrier for them, for they have lost something that I never had, and most of them don't even know that they have lost it. That's the real tragedy of it. Doesn't anything ever last? Or were Francesca and Juliet eternally happy because they could die—and keep their dreams? I wonder!—Atlantic.

A Malignant Bird. Long ago the phenomenal power of the stomach of the ostrich was immortalized in the idiom of all the world's great languages. To have the "stomach of an ostrich" is the synonym for incomparable digestive power, the supreme flight of gastric laudation. Those omnivorous beings of the dime museum who devour hardware in public for so much per week are always down on the bills as "human ostriches."

Well, to make a long story short, the whole thing from beginning to end is nature faking, pure and simple. As a matter of fact, the ostrich, if not a confirmed dyspeptic, has a most delicate digestion. The largest single entry in ostrich mortality records is acute indigestion. The successful feeding of ostriches in captivity requires constant care.—British Press.

A Superstitious Musician. Schumann was always inclined to superstition. When he visited Beethoven's grave at Vienna he found a rusty steel pen lying on it. This he carefully and reverently preserved and afterward used in writing his B flat symphony, believing that it would bring him inspiration. But this superstition, harmless enough in his early years, became accentuated later in an alarming manner. He began to take an unhealthy interest in table turning and spirit rapping. He was, moreover, intensely influenced by dreams and omens. One night he dreamed that the spirits of Mendelssohn and Schubert appeared to him and gave him a theme which he afterward wrote down and developed.

"Whuppity Scorie." The ancient custom at Lanark, Scotland, of "whuppity scorie," the origin and meaning of which are lost, is celebrated annually and watched by a crowd of grownups. The town bell is rung nightly at 6 o'clock from March to September and then lies dumb for six months. On the first night of the ringing all the young folk congregate at the cross, and after parading three times around the parish church the Lanark lads meet the New Lanark boys in a free fight, in which the only legitimate weapons are their caps tied at the end of pieces of string.

Doubly Mandeicapped. "Squiggs is a very conscientious and kind hearted man, is he not?" "Yer, and if gives him a whole lot of trouble 'ou see, his conscience never will permit him to carry out his promises because, it tells him, his kind heart has led him to take a wrong staid."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The Golden Fleece. The noted order of the Golden Fleece is a military one instituted by Philip the Good, duke of Burgundy, in 1429, on the occasion of his marriage with the Portuguese princess, Isabella. The order now belongs to both Spain and Austria.

To Calculate Congresses. To determine the years covered by a given congress double the number of the congress and add the product to 1789. The result will be the year in which the congress closed. Take, for example, the Thirty-fifth congress. Doubling it gives us seventy; add 1789 and we have 1859, the year in which, on March 4, the Thirty-fifth congress closed. To find the number of a congress sitting in any year subtract 1789 from the year. If the result is an even number half that number will give the congress of which the year in question saw the close. If the result is an odd number add one, and half the result will give the congress in which the year in question was the first year. Take, again, the congress sitting in 1858. Subtract 1789 from 1858 and the result is sixty-nine. Add one, making seventy, and divide by two, showing that the Thirty-first congress was holding its first regular session in that year. The year 1789 is the basic number, because that was the year in which the First congress under the constitution convened.—Philadelphia Press.

Ironing the Tablecloth. A tablecloth should be pulled into shape before being ironed. After it is pulled into shape, fold it together lengthwise through the middle, so that the wrong side will be outside; then turn back the edges at each side so that the cloth is in four long folds, each fold of the same width. The outer folds will now be right side out. Iron these two outer folds, then turn them inside and iron the two inner folds that are now outside and are the right side of the tablecloth. When the four folds are thus finished the long length can be doubled back and forward the desired width, but the crosswise folds should not be ironed in. Papers can be placed where the tablecloth hangs over the floor from the ironing board. A little practice will soon make you perfect. The old fashioned way was to first iron a tablecloth on the wrong side, but the tablecloths coming under my observation that look the best are ironed in the manner above described.—Eunice Haskins in Independent Farmer

An Ideal Island. The island of Ascension, in the Atlantic, belonging to Great Britain, is unique in many respects. There is no private property in land, no rents, no taxes and no use for money. The flocks and herds are public property, and the meat is issued as rations. So are the vegetables grown on the farms. When an island fisherman makes a catch he brings it to the guardroom, whence it is issued by the sergeant major. Practically the entire population are sailors, and they work at most of the common trades. The climate is almost perfect. The island is 8 by 6 miles in size and has a population of about 450. It is 250 miles northward of St. Helena and is governed by a captain appointed from the British navy.

Hamadan in History. Hamadan seems to be certainly the Ekbatana, the summer residence of the ancient Persian kings, where Alexander the Great stored his enormous loot from Persia, estimated at over £41,000,000. But there is topographical difficulty about identifying it with the earlier and still more interesting Ekbatana described by Herodotus, the city where the first Median king, Deioces, realized the ideal of royal isolation by shutting himself up in a palace on top of a hill, surrounded by seven fortified circles of different colors descending the slopes in order and allowing the inhabitants of these to communicate with him only by writing. Either this story is a myth or the Ekbatana of Herodotus is to be found on a hill between Hamadan and Tabriz.—London Chronicle.

Eating and Fighting. It is not creditable to a thinking people that the two things they most thank God for should be eating and fighting. We say grace when we are going to cut up lamb and chicken, and when we have stuffed ourselves to an extent that an orang outang would be ashamed of we offer up our best praises to the Creator for having blown and salbered his "images," our fellow creatures, to atoms and drenched them in blood and dirt.—Leigh Hunt.

Cream Sauce. To make a satisfactory cream sauce, first put the milk on and while this is getting warm rub the butter and flour together until smooth. As soon as the milk comes to the boil gradually add the creamy mixture while the milk continues to boil, and the finished sauce will be quite smooth.

Intelligent Lad. Employer—Boy, take this letter and wait for an answer. New Boy—Yes, sir. Employer—Well, what are you waiting for? New Boy—The answer, sir.—Boston Transcript.

The Pessimist. "Pa, what is a pessimist?" "My son, a pessimist is a man who when given his choice between two evils takes both of them."—Life.

The Place For Him. "He's so reckless he's always taking chances." "Oh, do send him to our charity bazaar."—Baltimore American.

Tribulations of a Volunteer. Richard de Gunpowder was an enthusiastic. He was so enthusiastic that he enlisted in the Harvard hundreds. Moreover, he was so very enthusiastic that he enlisted twice. Then matters became confused, for he was assigned to two different regiments.

In some way, however, he managed to persuade his superior officers that he would rather be wholly and entirely in one company than partly in two. So one of his enlisted selves joined the other in the same squad. But now he was absolutely beside himself; every time he turned around he hit himself in the back; whenever he was out of step he trod on his own heels; every time he—what should—what could he do? What would you have done?

But the captain was cleverer than you. He selected one of Richard's enlisted selves and made him an officer. So now Sergeant de Gunpowder once more has complete command of himself.—Harvard Lampoon.

Poe and the Magazine. With his stories and his criticisms during the meager two years of his connection with the magazine Poe was certainly able to reflect that as at no time in her previous literary history he had put Richmond on the map. But the letter he wrote to Anthon when projecting the Stylus was somewhat flamboyant: "I had joined the Messenger, as you know than in its second year, with 700 subscribers, and the general outcry was that because a magazine had never succeeded south of the Potomac therefore a magazine never could succeed. Yet in spite of this and the wretched taste of the proprietor, which hampered and controlled me at all points, I increased the circulation in fifteen months to 5,500 subscribers, paying an annual profit of $10,000 when I left it."—Algernon Tassin in Bookman.

A Remarkable Concert. A program of a remarkable concert which took place in Carlsbad on Aug. 6, 1812, is still preserved in the city archives at that place. The entertainment was given for the benefit of the sufferers by the fire which had laid waste Baden and took place at the Saechsischer Saal. The only performers were Beethoven and Polledro, who played two pianoforte and two violin solos and several numbers in which both took part, says the writer. The account of the entertainment also mentions the fact that one of the interested listeners was a "tall, elderly man, wearing a great blue coat, who sat perfectly erect throughout the performance, never looking anywhere but at the stage. This was Goethe." The amount realized for the fund was about $200.

Odd Tobacco Pipe Borer. Travelers among the Sioux Indians are much impressed with the perfect smoothness of the bore in their pipe stems. Without the use of a tool of any kind they make a perfect bore in the twigs of ash trees, which they use for musical instruments and for pipes. To accomplish this end they employ the larvae of a butterfly which inhabits the ash tree. The Indians remove the pith for about three inches from the stick they wish bored. Into this cavity they place one of the larvae of a brown butterfly, which gradually eats its way down through the pith until the bore is completed. A little heat applied to the wood expedites the work of the larvae. The Indians consider both the tube made in this way and the larvae as sacred as their idols.—Popular Science Monthly.

None Seemed to Fit. "The younger members of a congregation sometimes ask shrewd questions," says a parson. "I once told a very young class that there were as many commandments as there were fingers and thumbs on the two hands. One of my listeners introduced a small friend to me a day or so after with the question: "Please, sir, here's Jim. He's only got three fingers on his left hand on account of an accident, and me an' him's been talkin' it over since last Sunday which one of them commandments wouldn't belong to him."—Buffalo News.

Economy In Handkerchiefs. Students of economy might well take a leaf out of the book of Mme. Jerome Bonaparte, whom Mrs. Stirling, in her biography, describes as saving money over her pocket handkerchiefs. She washed them herself, "and, having dried and folded them, in order to avoid ironing, she would place them carefully between two books and seat herself upon them."—London Standard.

Little Pitchers, Etc. Blank (to caller)—If I'd only known that this pleasure was in store for me I should certainly have arranged my business so as to be home much earlier. Bobbie—Why, pa, don't you remember ma told you they were coming and you said, "Oh, the deuce!"—Boston Transcript.

Extremes. "Funny thing about Mrs. Hopsper: beautiful clothes, but no style." "There's where she differs from some others who have beautiful style, but no clothes."—Judge.

Hearing the Silence. Little Phyllis was at a concert. The leader rapped, and the buzz of conversation ceased. "Oh, mamma," exclaimed Phyllis, "listen to the hash!"—Exchange.

Valor is stability not of legs and arms, but of courage and the soul.—Montaigne.

ST. PATRICK BORN IN SCOTLAND

Sold as Slave Into Ireland.—Trained For Priesthood in France.

Though St. Patrick was born, likely, in Scotland, he was stolen and sold as a slave into Ireland, when only 16 years old, and there tended cattle for six years.

Later he escaped and afterwards in France was trained for the priesthood. From Rome, which he visited, he went to Ireland, and for twenty years preached most successfully in converting those pagans to Christianity. So lasting was his conversion of Ireland that neither the murders of the Danes, nor the three hundred years of English persecution could either turn the Irish from the true faith, nor start a heresy in their teaching.

Few people now-a days know that we have several beautiful compositions of St. Patrick. Few know that Ireland was the most scholarly country of western Europe about the seventh and eighth centuries. Few know that the most beautiful book in the world was written at that time in Ireland. Few know that they gave free schooling and boarding and books to scholars who came to them from over the sea.

Children, if you feel ashamed of being Irish, it is because you don't know the history of the golden days of Ireland, over a thousand years ago. And the man to whom the Irish owe thanks is pre-eminently, unquestionably St. Patrick, whose name verbally means senatorial, and historically a very great servant of God and man.—Balto. Catholic Review.

ANTIQUITY OF THE HARP

The Instrument Was in Use in Egypt 3,000 Years Ago.

The very first authentic record of the harp, predating even the Greek myth of Orpheus, although it is very hard indeed to assign dates to myths, is obtained from the discovery of Egyptian harps, not unlike the modern in general design, bearing dates of 3,000 years ago, or 500 years before Craftine made his harp of willow. Old Irish chronicles are full of interesting references to the harp and its functions. Let us select the comparatively modern date of 718 A. D.—modern indeed when we consider Craftine, who was a contemporary of Sappho—which contains these lines from a poem describing the tragic death of Curio MacDaire, King of West Munster at the period of the Incarnation. They are addressed to Ferceirne, the king's chief minstrel:

Make amusement for us, O'Donnbe, Because thou art the best minstrel in Erin

At pipes or tubes, and at harps, and at poems,

And at traditions, and at the royal stories of Erin.

This extract will serve to show the versatility of the harper of the Mac Daire. He seems to have taken the place which a whole opera company fills at the present day, including the orchestra and the composer of the music and the writer of the libretto.—New York Post.

JUST YOU.

"Listen: I'll tell you a secret, dear: In this great wide world you are just my own; Your laughing eyes and lispng tone Bring sunshine and music, so sweet and clear,

My heart fair aches with its love so true, My bonnie darling, for you—just you! "An open secret I'll whisper, love, You may meet with others who love thee well,

Joseph Buchar, former director of the bands at the Naval Academy and at West Point, and one of the most noted Indian fighters, during the uprisings in the far West, died Sunday morning at his home in Baltimore after an illness of one month. Death resulted from an wound received in 1886 in the campaign against the famous Indian chief, Geronimo.

More than two hundred and sixty thousand Bibles, weighing eleven tons and valued at $5,000 sent by the British and Foreign Bible Society of London to prisoners of war in Russia, will soon reach their destination.

Patterson Bros. Make Big Shipments.

The firm of Patterson Bros., Emmitsburg, dealers in all kinds of live stock, have paid farmers in this and two nearby districts, $27,644.99 for cattle during the months of January and February. In January the amount paid in Emmitsburg, Gettysburg and Fairfield, was $11,545.73, and in February $16,099.29. This firm has the reputation, far and wide, of being one of the most active and square-dealing firms in the cattle business.

Their annual horse sale is looked forward to by buyers in many localities for reason that every animal offered is strictly as represented. Every horse put up is positively sold and if there is the slightest discontent by the buyer, the purchase money is refunded without a murmur. Their next sale occurs on Thursday, March 23, at which time, rain or shine a splendid bunch of horses and colts, twenty-five in number, will be put up for the "highest dollar." Their advertisement will be found in another column.

Senator Kaufman Announces Candidacy.

State Senator, George L. Kaufman of Frederick County, definitely announced Tuesday that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Sixth District.

Mr. Kaufman said: "I have decided to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress at the Primaries, May 1st. I believe that Frederick County is entitled to the nomination this year, and I have every confidence that the Republicans of Frederick prefer my nomination to that of every other candidate now in the field.

"As soon as the General Assembly adjourns, I shall make a further statement of my position and at once make a thorough canvass of the District. I shall base my candidacy on my record as a businessman and citizen, and also on my record as a member of the State Senate."

Sale Season Has Been Good.

The reports of sales in this and nearby districts have been very encouraging. Information that has reached this office shows that good prices have prevailed. Bidding has been spirited and settlements have generally been made in cash. Wm. T. Smith, known all over this section as one of the best auctioneers in the business, is enthusiastic over the good showing made. He recalls scarcely a sale season when the farmers seemed to have more ready cash than they have had this year. As he puts it, "All the farmers appear to have plenty of money."

May Have Smothered in Well.

Last Friday evening, while playing hide and seek, with a number of his companions, Harry Boyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Boyle, of this place, had a narrow escape from death.

In the course of the game the little fellow, who is thirteen years old, entered the stable of B. P. Ogle and secreted himself, behind a vehicle. In backing out from cover, he fell into a thirty-foot cess-pool and sank up to his neck. He called loudly for help, and in his struggles caught at a protruding stone in the unused well, holding on by one hand. When nearly exhausted, Frank Elder, hearing his cries, came to his assistance and with the aid of others, succeeded in rescuing him from his perilous position. A moment later, had not help arrived, the brave little lad, who was handicapped by an overcoat and heavy clothing would have been suffocated.

Outside of a number of bruises on his body and legs and a severe nervous shock there were no serious effects from his mishap.

A Monster Sugar Shipment.

The first trainload of what is said to be the largest transcontinental shipment of a single commodity ever made, passed through Chicago recently. It was sugar from Hawaii. The entire consignment, most of which goes to New York refineries, weighs 250,000 tons, is valued at 25 million dollars and the freight charges will be in the neighborhood of 3 million dollars.

The entire consignment will require six thousand freight cars, or 120 solid trains. The movement, which will require three months to complete, was made overland because of the blocking of the Panama Canal. The first trainload left San Francisco February 24.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is expected to spend $23,000 on improvements in Hanover in the near future.

What Professor Halm said is very true,
 To argue different would be hard to do,
 So let us all go to Matthew's hence,
 And teach our dollars to have more sense.
 You never need to wait or worry,
 In Matthew's store the clerks all hurry,
 The customer can then ever be calm,
 If you don't believe this, ask Professor Halm.
 He, who reads this will profit thereby.
 For Matthew's confections surely satisfy.

Kill the Flies or the Flies
 May Kill the Babies

Flies are a menace to health, because, after walking and feeding upon filth, they often carry upon their feet and tongues the germs or seeds of diseases like dysentery and typhoid fever.

A Swat In Time
 Saves Ninety-nine—
 And Then Some More!

DO your spring fly swatting early: One swat at that time of the year will prevent a line of descendants from a mother fly that would reach around the globe at the equator 5,000 times by the middle of August. This was the statement vouched for by F. M. Washburn, state entomologist of Minnesota.

Just an ordinary healthy female housefly, Mr. Washburn explained, produces at a minimum 120 eggs at a sitting. He says it is safe to suppose that at least half of these will hatch female flies. Four months uninterrupted breeding would result in the startling fly population of 214,557,844,320,000,000,000,000, all of whom might claim the same great-grandmother. So as a precaution don't wait until your house and its surroundings are infested, but start right away in swatting the fly. After a visit to an ordinary well littered alley an industrious fly has collected from 550 to 6,000,000 germs on its hairy legs and wings, according to the reports of the United States department of agriculture.

Filth Means Flies and Death

FLIES love to feast on filth and then get into the house and wipe their feet on your cake or on baby's bottle. Screen your house. It is true they are nature's scavengers, but they spread filth and disease in doing their work, and, besides, it is better to be your own scavenger by keeping clean than to have the flies do it for you, for not only is the fly a dangerous companion, but clean people are beginning to suspect that those who have flies about them are dirty housekeepers. If therefore you wish to bear a reputation for cleanliness in your neighborhood be sure that your trash and manure heaps are frequently removed and that your house is properly screened.

FLY DON'TS

- DON'T allow flies in your house.
- DON'T permit them near your food, especially milk.
- DON'T buy foodstuffs where flies are tolerated.
- DON'T have feeding places where flies can load themselves with ejections from typhoid or dysenteric patients.
- DON'T allow your fruits and confections to be exposed to the swarms of flies.
- DON'T let flies crawl over the baby's mouth and swarm upon the nipple of its nursing bottle.
- CLEAN UP your premises inside and out. Then see that the community does the same.
- STRIKE at the root of the evil. The housefly breeds in horse manure, kitchen offal and the like. Dispose of these materials in such a way that the housefly cannot propagate.
- SCREEN all windows and doors, and insist that your grocer, butcher, baker and every one from whom you buy foodstuffs does the same. There is more health in a house well screened than in many a doctor's visit.

SWAT THE FLY

The Early Swat Wins
 Against the Deadly Fly

At the first approach of cold weather the flies seek warmth and protection in houses and stables. From cellar to garret they hide in nooks and corners. Keep them out. If any succeed in getting in kill them. Swat every one that shows itself and be sure to burn their bodies.
