TO AID FARMERS.

New Organization Recently Formed Will Advance Agriculture.

JAMES WILSON IS PRESIDENT.

T. N. Vail, Vice President, and T. Coleman du Pont, R. V. Lindabury and W. H. Moore Among Directors—Will Be Farmers' Mouthpiece.

New York.—The organization of the National Agricultural society, to improve agricultural conditions throughout the country, was completed at a meeting of prominent men here.

James Wilson, who was secretary of agriculture in the cabinets of Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft, was elected president, and Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, was chosen as vice president. Mr. Vail is largely interested in agriculture, having founded an agricultural school for boys on his farm in Vermont, which he recently turned over to the state.

G. Howard Davidson was elected chairman of the executive committee. Mr. Davidson was one of the founders of the International Live Stock exposition and is identified with many agricultural and live stock associations. These directors were elected: James Wilson, Theodore N. Vail, G. Howard Davidson, T. Coleman du Pont, John A. Spoor, Richard V. Lindabury, William H. Moore, Henry C. Stuart, James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Robert A. Fairbairn, Samuel Insull, Charles A. Otis, N. H. Gentry, Peter Jansen, Fairfax Harrison, Walter A. Johnson, P. C. Long.

T. Coleman du Pont, who lately secured control of the Equitable Life Assurance company, is one of the largest breeders of prize dairy cattle in his home state of Delaware. John A. Spoor, chairman of the board of the Union Stockyards and Transit company of Chicago, was one of the men responsible for the success of the International Live Stock exposition. Richard V. Lindabury has found time to reach a high place in the agricultural world because of his success in improving the breed of Guernsey cattle and Berkshire pigs. William H. Moore, a director of the National Biscuit company and interested in other large New York enterprises, is a familiar figure at horse shows both in this country and abroad.

Governor Henry C. Stuart of Virginia is the largest raiser of beef cattle in the south. He made the production of beef on a large scale successful in the east. Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., is the proprietor of a model farm at Genesee, N. Y. He also has had extensive ranching experience in Texas. Robert A. Fairbairn, vice president of the International Paper company and one of the foremost breeders of Clydesdale horses, has for years been interested in the work of the New Jersey state live stock commission. The studs of Samuel Insull on a 4,000-acre farm in Illinois are known throughout the middle and far west.

Charles A. Otis and N. H. Gentry, the former in New York state and the latter in Missouri, are known to up to date agriculturists for their work in cattle and horse breeding. Peter Jansen of Nebraska has been rated as the largest sheep raiser in the central west. As president of the Southern railway and a practical farmer in his native state of Virginia Fairfax Harrison has worked consistently for the improvement of farmers' conditions in the south. Walter A. Johnson, who was elected treasurer, and P. C. Long, who was chosen as secretary, both have been long connected with farmers' publications.

Among others who have been instrumental in organizing the society are James J. Hill and W. K. Vanderbilt of New York, J. H. Wade of Cleveland, Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Mortimer L. Schiff of New York, William du Pont of Virginia, ex-Senator C. W. Watson of Maryland, V. Everitt Macy and W. Averill Harriman of New York.

It is felt by those responsible for the founding of the National Agricultural society that there should be in this country a national organization to which the farmers could look for help and guidance and which would be their mouthpiece in agricultural matters of national concern. Permanent headquarters for the society eventually will be established at Washington.

Hens Lay Two Eggs a Day.

Sandusky, O.—Henry McEllery, a farmer living near Milan, says he has built a henhouse so illuminated with acetylene gas that each day is divided into four periods, two of darkness and two of light so alternated that his hens have what they think is two days and two nights every twenty-four hours. "The result is an egg from each hen every time one of the artificial days dawns," said McEllery, who, fighting the high cost of living, refuses to protect his scheme.

SPEECHLESS A YEAR, SHE SUDDENLY TALKS

Family of Woman Is Astonished When She Says, "I Feel Better Now."

New York.—Suddenly regaining the power of speech she lost through a stroke of paralysis a year ago, Mrs. William Cuppinger, thirty years old, of College Point, N. Y., startled her family by remarking, "I feel better now."

Her long period of silence had been broken while she suffered from what was believed to be grip. She said she first felt a violent snap in her head. This was followed by a buzzing sensation which passed away and left her feeling much better. Finally her speech came in whispers and then was loud enough for those at the bedside to hear.

Dr. Harry M. Biffar, her physician, was greatly astonished at the outcome of the case, for he never expected that Mrs. Cuppinger would ever talk again. He said he thought the loss of her speech was due to the rupture of a blood vessel. A blood clot formed, and the physician used treatment to dissolve it.

CRUSHED BY JUNK IRON.

Victim in a Car Released When Cries Attracted Train Crew.

Lafayette, Ind.—When a westbound Wabash freight train was passing through Lafayette recently the shrieks of a man in distress were heard, and the train was brought to a standstill.

When the train crew investigated it was found that James Fisk of Springfield, Mass., aged twenty-four, had become imprisoned in a car of loose junk iron.

Fisk had been "beating" his way on the train, and a short time before the cries were heard the train had broken in two. When the cars came together with a crash a mass of junk iron slid over on top of Fisk's legs. At the time he was sleeping in the end of a gondola car, and it was impossible for him to free himself. He could not be rescued until the car had been bumped several times to jar the mass of iron away from his legs. He was taken to the hospital in a terribly crushed condition. His cries aroused hundreds of people from their sleep. It is probable he will recover.

CHILDREN EXEMPT HIM.

Father Receives a Canceled Tax Receipt When Sheriff Sees Seven Sons.

Wichita, Kan.—James Gourley, an expressman, appeared at the Sedgewick county courthouse recently to pay his personal taxes, which amounted to $4.70. He did not have the money, but he took along with him his seven children, all boys under thirteen years old.

"I'll work a hardship on me to pay this money," Gourley told Sheriff Frank Sarver, "as I've got my hands full feeding and clothing and keeping these children in school." County officials gathered around the sheriff's office and observed the family, all healthy, clean and happy.

When Gourley left with his seven boys trailing behind him his personal tax receipt was marked paid and each of the children carried a quarter.

CONVICTS FED TOO WELL.

Chemists Say Inmates of State Institution Get Too Much Food.

Topeka, Kan.—The men confined in the Kansas penitentiary are fed better than is necessary for the work that is required of them, according to a report in the food served the prisoners by Professor E. H. S. Bailey of the chemical laboratories of the University of Kansas. The report has been filed with the civil service commission. The test was made of the foods served to the prisoners in December and January.

The chemists collected samples of the twenty-four different articles of food furnished the prisoners, and only three were found to be below standard, and the quantity furnished each prisoner was more than sufficient for his needs. The cheese was of poor quality, and the pepper contained too many pepper shells. The bread, while nutritious, was not first class, due to a poor bakery at the prison.

"Some of the inmates of the penitentiary are performing hard, muscular work," said the report, "but a large number are doing only moderate work, so that the average would not be much above moderate muscular work, which chemists have found can be done efficiently on food containing 3,400 calories or heat units daily. In no case was the food served at the prison below 1,000 calories a day, and in many instances the food was above 5,000 calories a day."

Domestic Bliss.

Mrs. Neighbors—Do you and your husband live happily together? Mrs. Ennepek—Sure. I'd just like to see my husband try not to live happily with me.—Indianapolis Star.

TRIBE NOW DEAD.

Ishi, Noted Aborigine, Succumbs to White Plague.

ORIGIN MADE HIM FAMOUS.

Shown as Survivor of Last Tribe of Deer Creek Indians of Yano Line. Lived on Victims of His Bow and Arrow.

San Francisco.—Ishi has been gathered to the land of his fathers.

Last of the Deer Creek Indians, tribe of Yano, Ishi has gone to the happy hunting grounds. He died at the University of California hospital, a victim of the "white plague," disease of the paleface.

For several months the aborigine, who was captured in the wilds of northern Butte county in the summer of 1911, had been in ill health. A year ago he developed acute lung trouble, and at times he suffered greatly, bearing his pain with the stoicism of his kind.

Just a few minutes before he passed away Ishi joked with Curator Gifford of the affiliated colleges. At that time he was in agony. Final relief came with a hemorrhage.

Ishi, who never had seen any money of the white man until he was brought into civilization, left what he considered a fortune in worldly goods—about $350 and personal effects. With the common desire of all California Indians, Ishi labored to accumulate wealth. Unlike the members of most tribes, whose standing is rated by what they give away, Ishi, with the characteristics of California and British Columbia Indians, hoarded his pennies, which he earned in various ways. His estate was taken in charge by the public administrator.

Ishi, living the life of a savage in Butte county, stole a calf in the summer of 1911, and officers of the law ran him down. They were amazed to discover the thief was a primitive creature, clad in animal skins and armed only with a bow and arrow. The prisoner was taken to the Butte county jail, and it was there that T. T. Waterman, assistant professor in anthropology, pronounced him to be the only surviving member of the lost tribe of Deer Creek Indians of the Yano line.

The scientific world was greatly interested in Professor Waterman's announcement, and Ishi became famous. He was brought to this city and lodged at the affiliated colleges on Sept. 4, 1911. After months of patient effort Professor Waterman was able to talk with Ishi. What he learned from the captive left no doubt in his mind that Ishi really was the last of the savage tribe of Deer Creek.

Ishi adapted himself to the ways of the white man. He built himself a home on the grounds of the affiliated colleges, where he was the object of much curiosity. He attended lectures by Professor Waterman and other savants of the State university.

In May, 1914, Ishi took Dr. A. L. Kroeber, head of the affiliated colleges museum, and Dr. Saxton T. Pope to Butte and showed them his former haunts, reverting to his skins and bows and arrows. The report of Dr. Kroeber and Dr. Pope confirmed the belief of Ishi's descent.

KILL 2,000 RABBITS IN DRIVE.

California Farmers Vow Vengeance on Field Pests.

Stockton, Cal.—It is estimated 2,000 jack rabbits were killed in the south San Joaquin district and at least one coyote met his fate in the rabbit drive held by the south San Joaquin farmers under the direction of Ed Powers of Manteca and county farm bureau officials.

Hunters from all parts of the country gathered in the south San Joaquin during the morning, and when the chase started at 9:30 o'clock there were more than 400 shotguns pointed out toward the hiding places of the long legged jacks.

The march on the rabbits lasted from 9:30 in the morning until after 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and during the afternoon hundreds of automobile parties visited that part of the country to see the hunters and others gathering up the slain field pests.

SNOOZE JAILS JERSEY RIP.

He Couldn't Support Wife While He Slept and Beat Her When He Woke.

New Brunswick, N. J.—Sleeping may not be a crime, but a little ten day nap netted John Pelfrey of this city ten days in the county jail. He was charged by his wife with nonsupport, and she testified that for ten days he had remained constantly in bed. She said he was in the habit of staying in bed for a week at a time and that he always celebrated the end of the nap by beating her.

When court opened a constable was sent for Pelfrey and turned him out of bed. It took three officers to dress him.

LAW SURELY GIVES A PUZZLE TO SOLVE

Owner of Bees Must Know Name of Every One Before He Can Swear Out a Warrant.

Birmingham, Ala.—Becoming involved in a dispute over a trivial matter, two citizens of Montgomery county struck a snag in the law when a swarm of bees owned by one migrated to the home of the other. This renewed the trouble, and W. C. Frizzle, bailiff of the city court, was appealed to.

"I want my bees," said the original owner. "They have gone to that fellow's home."

Frizzle began an investigation to ascertain whether he had authority to return the bees to the rightful owner. After consulting many lawbooks this was his conclusion, as expressed in his own words:

"I find that before you can obtain your bees you must have them arrested in the regular way. And before they can be arrested you must swear out an individual warrant against every bee in the swarm. I also find that before you can swear out an individual warrant against every bee you must know the name of each one."

The rightful owner said he was willing to give his neighbor a warrant deed to one swarm of bees, but he did not know the name of each one in the swarm. So the bees are still in their new home.

GIRLS WITH FLOWER NAMES.

Arrange a Club For the Study of Wild Plants.

Mill Valley, Cal.—Out of the deep tangled wildwood of this hamlet, nestling at the base of Mount Tamalpais, has come a school children's club, unique at least in the nomenclature of its governing officers.

The club has been organized for the study of wild flowers, which are now a gay pattern of many colors over the sloping hills of the countryside. The children, mostly girls, met and elected officers, as follows: President, Charlotte Rose; vice president, Margaret Leaf; secretary, Doris Plant; treasurer, Mary Moss; Directors, Violet White and Fern Murphy.

They will begin at once their studies, which are to be prosecuted vigorously in all of their out of school hours.

No blooms of rarest ray serene will be permitted to bud and blush unseen in the shady dells of Tamalpais.

CHILD SAVES HOME.

Little Boy Fights Fire and Climbs on Chair to Telephone For Help.

Lead, S. D.—Nerve and pluck exhibited by the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Mitchell saved both himself and the family home from destruction by fire, although the child was nearly overcome when the firemen rescued him.

The little fellow had been left alone with a playmate while his parents were out, and they commenced to play with matches. Soon the bed was afire, and the flames spread.

The other boy ran out, but the Mitchell child fought the flames with small pails of water, in the meantime climbing on a chair to reach the telephone, by which he notified the fire department. Chemicals quickly extinguished the blaze.

MONEY IN WOODEN LEG.

Body to Be Exhumed in Search For Woman's Wealth.

St. Louis, Mo.—Charles Kroener of Detroit will have the body of Miss Elizabeth Hauck exhumed at Alton to look for money which he thinks she may have concealed in her wooden leg. When she died, Sept. 15, $700 was found in her clothing. Kroener, who was her guardian, thinks she must have had more money than that.

Kroener also doubts whether the finding of the coroner's jury that she killed herself is correct. He is making an investigation and will place evidence in the hands of the state attorney and ask him to take action.

Miss Hauck was thirty-five years old. She was formerly in the millinery business in St. Louis, at California avenue and Arsenal street. She set herself up in business with part of the $3,000 she received from a railroad company for the loss of her leg twenty years ago. On account of failing health she stored her millinery stock and went to Alton.

Brilliant Heads Are Wanted.

Winsted, Conn.—P. Davis Oakley of Hartford, who is not only a congress man, but president of the Bald Head Club of America, is enrolling as members of the organization the baldheaded members of congress. It has been learned by John Rodemeyer of Canaan, founder of the club. Mr. Oakley does not intend that any member of congress with a three inch bare spot on his scalp shall escape enrollment.

MINISTER QUITS CHURCH BECAUSE MEMBERS SMOKE

He Did Not Want Tobacco Used at Informal Meetings of a Brotherhood. Members Bitterly Opposed Him.

Jefferson City, Mo.—As the result of a controversy with the members of the local Presbyterian brotherhood over the question of whether there should be smoking at the informal meetings of that body, Rev. J. A. Cowling, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Jefferson City, resigned.

Mr. Cowling was opposed to the use of tobacco by members of the brotherhood at their meetings and on one occasion openly suggested that smoking be not permitted. The members of the brotherhood, by common consent, went on with the smoking at the meetings. First one and then another member would bring along a box of cigars.

The smoking controversy went on for several weeks, and gradually the relations between pastor and brotherhood became more strained, with the result that Mr. Cowling tendered his resignation and the congregation voted to accept it.

GIRL WITH "MOVIEITIS" IS SENT TO A HOME FOR CURE

She Cut Off Hair as Cowgirls Do and Wrecked Rooms a la Film Comedy.

Paterson, N. J.—Rose Rossini, fifteen, of this city, was arraigned before Judge Klenert in the juvenile court, charged with incorrigibility. She had cut off her long brown tresses, and she explained that cowgirls in the movies did it, and she wanted to be a cowgirl.

"I guess you've got a plain case of 'movieitis,'" said the court, "so I am going to send you to the Florence Crittenton home until your hair grows again. Perhaps a stay in the home will cure you."

"Why, it'll take a year for my hair to grow back again," cried Rose. "I can't stay there all that time!"

"It will all depend on your behavior," said the court.

Detectives testified that Rose had wrecked rooms in homes where she had been employed because she had seen it done in the movies.

"AN ETHER SOUSE."

Prisoner Tells Judge Why He Stole Drug From Hospital.

Los Angeles, Cal.—How and why he invaded the county hospital, stole a can of ether, a package of iodoform and a roll of bandages, told by H. L. McCaslin in Judge White's court, was declared by the court to be the most peculiar statement ever made before him.

McCaslin described himself as "an ether souse" and pleaded guilty to the arceany charge. According to his story, his indulgence in the soporific dates back two years. He said:

"One night I started to ride to work at Bakerfield on a motorcycle and on the way was struck by a car. They took me to a hospital to operate on my leg, and for the first time in my life I smelled ether. I thought it was the finest experience I ever had. Since then I have persuaded six more doctors to operate on me. Then I found I could buy the drug.

"Lately I have been living in Pomona. On Orange day I brought some of the fruit from Pomona to the county hospital, where I met some of the boys who were there when I was a patient. I got a chance to get a big can and some things for my leg. Then I was arrested."

Judge White sentenced McCaslin to ninety days in jail.

SHE FAINTS AT WAR NEWS.

Later Seized With Convulsions After Reading Newspaper Headlines.

New York.—A well dressed woman gazed fixedly at headlines of newspapers on a stand at Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue for a few moments and then fainted. Later she was seized with convulsions.

The hundreds attracted by her screams and struggles with two policemen heard her say she had lost two brothers in the war. Dr. Loughlin of St. Vincent's hospital diagnosed the case as acute dementia, probably caused by her bereavement, suddenly recalled by what she had read in the headlines.

At Bellevue hospital the woman said she was Mollie Fogarty, but gave no address. She is about thirty-five years old.

Three Brothers Lose Eye Apiece.

Albert Lea, Minn.—The right eye of Hugo Brenner, a young farmer, was torn from its socket the other day while he was cutting down a tree. This is the third accident of its kind in the Brenner family. While his brother William was playing mumble-the-peg recently his companion flipped the knife too high, and the sharp blade penetrated the left eye. Another brother was kicked in the right eye by a colt.

OBREGON TO RULE

Wife Believes He Eventually Will Become Mexico's Head.

COUNTRY AGAINST SUFFRAGE.

Women Only Desire to Make Homes Bright and Husbands Happy; but, However, Some Day They May Fight For Equality, Says General's Wife.

El Paso, Tex.—Mrs. Alvaro Obregon is a singularly beautiful woman. Her face has a wholesome pallor. It is perfectly white, with the clearness of health. Her hair is as black as night. It is piled on her head in great shining masses.

Her mouth is firm. Decision and strength of character are shown. But her eyes are big, black and flashing.

Mrs. Obregon in a pretty morning gown recently sat in her husband's private car near the depot of the Central railroad in Juarez. Through the open door she had a glimpse of the Casas Grandes mountains.

"Do you believe in the duenna system under which Mexican and Spanish girls are brought up?" Mrs. Obregon was asked.

"Decidedly, yes. It may curtail their pleasures, but it is safe. The Spanish and Mexican girls are the most innocent and unworldly girls in the world. Their minds never have been contaminated by any outside influences. They are brought up aloof from the world. They never see their sweethearts except in the presence of the duenna. That is perfectly right, according to my ideas. It precludes the possibility of temptation."

"Pardon me, senora, but were you courted under those conditions?"

"Yes; General Obregon never saw me alone until after he married me."

"Do you believe General Obregon eventually will become master of Mexico?"

"I not only hope he will, but I believe he will. I have perfect faith in my husband's star."

"Did you marry General Obregon because he is a hero who appealed romantically to your imagination?"

"I married him because I loved him," replied Senora Obregon simply.

"How long do you think it will be before he attains supreme power in Mexico?"

"I cannot even guess."

"Has there been a quarrel between General Obregon and President Carranza?"

"None whatever. There has not been even the slightest friction. They are in perfect accord. I have no idea where that story started."

"Do you believe in suffrage for Mexican women?"

"No," was the prompt answer. "I do not disbelieve in it for American women, for I hardly think Mexican women are ready for it. Mexican women have their own problems. Suffrage is not yet one of them. Perhaps some day we may want the vote."

"I cannot imagine our gentle Spanish women fighting for the ballot as the Anglo-Saxon women do. It is contrary to their natures. They are gently bred and nurtured. However, one never can tell what the turn of the wheel will bring. Our Mexican women have plenty of fire and spirit. Some day they, too, may fight for equality with men."

"What are the present problems of Mexican women?"

"To make their homes beautiful and attractive, to make their husbands happy, to rear their children to be fine men and women."

"Is not that the duty of women everywhere?"

"Perhaps, but it is peculiarly the problem of women of the Spanish races. They are raised with such a vastly different point of view regarding men than that of the women of the races of northern climes. Men are to them superior creatures. That is Spanish tradition. Its shackles bind closely.

"Whether men are our superiors or not, they are at least stronger. Their position in the social scale is that of our protectors. They make the home for us. We beautify it."

"You believe in the home woman in contradistinction to the woman who takes part in public affairs?"

"Yes, yet both, I suppose, have their places in the world."

MONKEYS SCARE CO-EDS.

Human Skeleton Placed Near Girls' Dormitory Also Causes Terror.

Alliance, O.—Five stuffed monkeys taken by students from the museum of Mount Union college and placed at strategic points near the entrance of Elliott hall, the girls' dormitory, frightened the co-eds when they left the dormitory.

Scarcely had they recovered from their terror when they saw a human skeleton dangling from a tree near by. It, too, had been taken from the museum.

The library also was entered, and books and catalogues were disarranged. As a result an investigation is being made.

BROWN-FOLLER

A very pretty May wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick's Catholic Rectory, Carlisle, last Saturday evening when Miss Lysle Foller became the wife of George Lewis Brown, of West Pittston. Rev. Father Francis Welsh officiated. The happy couple were attend by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Schooley, of West Pittston, and by a niece of the bride, little Frederica Morris, four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Morris, of Carlisle.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of white lace over white silk and carried roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Schooley wore yellow satin covered with lace and carried yellow daisies. The little flower girl's dress was a beautiful embroidered white. She carried a white basket of yellow daffodils.

Following the ceremony was a brilliant reception at the residence of the bride on South Hanover street, Carlisle, which was attended by nearly 200 guests from Carlisle, New York, Philadelphia, Scranton, Harrisburg, and other places. Mrs. Brown is a cousin of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dorner, of Carlisle.

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE MEETING LAST SUNDAY

Big Union Congregation Hears Dr. Howard A. Kelly, of Baltimore, and Dr. W. W. Davis, Both of Whom Speak Forcefully and Interestingly About Their Work.

The Methodist church was filled to the doors last Sunday afternoon the occasion being the special service in connection with the campaign for the proper observance of Sunday being waged by the 'Lord's Day Alliance.' Ministers of the local Protestant churches took part in the service, Rev. Mr. Rose, pastor of the Methodist church presiding, and members of the several choirs joined in rendering the music. All the denominations were well represented.

After a prayer by Rev. Dr. Reine-wald, pastor of the Lutheran church, and Scripture reading by Rev. Mr. Hensley, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Dr. Howard A. Kelly of Baltimore spoke most interestingly and forcefully of the work done by the Alliance. He told of the success of the Alliance workers in closing pleasure resorts, in the City and in Baltimore and other counties; he showed the weakness of various legislators, the indifference of others and he scored the attitude and efforts of the corrupt political bosses, ward heelers and poll workers, and urged men and women of every part of the State to consider the sanctity of the home, to uphold the sacredness of the Lord's day and become active agents for the spread of morality, true Christianity and the building up of Christian character.

Dr. W. W. Davis supplemented Dr. Kelly's appeal. He presented facts and figures to prove his own and the previous speaker's statements and in clear, unmistakable terms pointed out what the Alliance proposed to do, what it could do if the people in every community in each county of State became aroused to a realization of their duty as fathers, mothers, citizens.

The Lord's Day Alliance has spread its campaign over large territory. Hundreds of meetings have been held—far over five hundred to date—and everywhere the work has been started it has grown, prospered and accomplished splendid results. The Alliance is non-denominational, all-embracing, and along the broad lines of interdependence, earnestness, sympathy and cooperation and with the cardinal principles of Christ's teachings for its foundation, it has fought its way successfully. It is understood that at some future date there will be another meeting in Emmitsburg at which time an opportunity will be given the local people to meet the speakers informally and to learn more about the details of the work in connection with the movement for the sanctity of Sunday.

Reserve Team Defeated.

Mount St. Mary's reserve baseball team lost a hard fought game to Gettysburg College reserves, on the home grounds Tuesday afternoon, 12 to 9. The visitors bunched their hits in the fourth and fifth innings, and this, combined with costly errors by the home team netted half of their runs.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE--ACADEMY

Valley Echoes

Miss Katherine Flynn, of Atlanta, Ga., is at present entertaining Miss Teresa Gorman, of Lynchburg, Va.

During the Easter-tide Miss Margaret O'Neil, of Washington, D. C., was the guest of her classmate, Miss Mary Kohlbraker, of Shamokin, Pa.

Mrs. Alice Smith Cunningham '10 and her little son, Francis Joseph, are spending a few weeks with her friend, Miss Agnes Mackey, at Newport News, Va.

The first and second academics also were victorious in a "Basketball Relay Race," played against the opponent academics. Alertness and spirited morale were observed in these triumphant classes during the entire programme.

The girls are a unit in thanks to Mrs. Ledlie Gloninger, of Valley View and Miss Mae Rehill, White Plains, New York, for a treat of ice cream and cake which they received on Wednesday last. This surprise came at a most opportune moment and was a fitting climax to the spirited games among the rival classes.

Mrs. P. J. Loughney, of Pittsburg, Pa., has recently taken a cottage at Atlantic City, where the family will spend the next five months. En route to the east, Miss Alice Loughney, a former student of St. Joseph's and a member of this year's graduating class, spent some time with Miss Elizabeth C. McManus, of Philadelphia, Pa.

It behooves us to exalt our Blessed Mother at all times, but especially in the month dedicated to her honor. Realizing this fact, the annual May Procession of the Children of the Valley was formed on Saturday May sixth, at six o'clock. Each shrine within the sacred precincts was visited and hymns, tributes and flowers were the heart offerings to the Immaculate Queen. The warbling birds, the murmuring waters, the budding trees, all nature joined with the students in praising "The Lady of the Field and The Lily of the Valley."

On the evening of May first, a fitting demonstration of earnest study was given by the senior academics in the shape of a Latin contest. This test was a good proof that success mainly depends upon one's own endeavors and that self reliance and self confidence are magic words.

The quickness of answer to the many questions showed that the linguists were not unprepared, and all the competitors displayed to advantage an "intellectus agens." They were stormed at with sentence upon sentence; rule upon rule, but as a strong fort, they all withstood the attacks until a stray "sagitta" discovered the weak point.

A most exciting and hotly contested game of Long Ball was played last Wednesday at the closing of the Physical Culture exercises. The participants were the first and second academics versus the third and fourth. The younger team displayed maximum energy and skilful manoeuvring of position. This activity resulted in the score of 16 to 1 in their favor. At first the victors were puzzled as their opponents seemed to begin in winning style, but realizing "where there's a will there's a way" they soon evinced supremacy in every direction.

Miss Marian Hungerford, captain of the "winning eleven," is to be congratulated on her excellent and tactful playing throughout the game. She scored many points for her squad.

Spring

Horace Bk. I Ode IV.
Thro' nodding flow'rs, the south winds steal,
And winter's frost hath fled;
The graceful bark swift outward bounds
With sails like sea-gulls spread.
While on the green with petals strewn
Of roses sunk to rest,
The wood-nymphs dance 'neath shimmering moon,
By soft night winds caressed.
But think you not, Oh care-free youth,
That Death ne'er conquers more,
For pallid-faced he haunts alike
Both prince and pauper's door;
And 'neath each bud's unfolding leaves
His summons slow, relentless, breathes.
R. L. P. '17.

The Collegians in cap and gown presented a pleasing picture of grace and dignity at the Final Exhibition of the year's work in the Four Advanced classes of Interpretative Reading.

The programme was a symposium of choice literary selections by noted authors of the day. The individual pieces and the numbers rendered by ensemble classes displayed marked ability in reading and facility of expression.

Sir Veritas, Rose Rogers '16; Monologue—Aunt Hannah's Letter, E. Castleman, '19; Kissing-Cup's Race, C. O'Gorman '16; Pantomime "A Dream of Paradise, Freshmen; The Gladiator, A. Hall '18; An Uncrowned Hero, C. Mahoney, '17; After Many Years, H. Kelly, '19; The Village Coward, Sophomores; A Brother's Sacrifice, M. Mahoney, '17; Little Saint Cecilia, N. Gable, '19; My Ships, Juniors; She Had Loved, A. Kalbach, '18; Impersonation from Marincourt's "Vivia," K. Gloninger, '18; The Storm, Seniors; Impersonation, Margaret of Anjou, Act II, Scene II, P. Staley, '16.

To the readers of the "Valley Echoes" who are interested and unacquainted with the game of Captain Ball we shall endeavor to impart some idea of this favorite pastime of the collegiates. Captain Ball is similar to Basket Ball; the field is laid out the same with the exception of the baskets (three girls act as the baskets), one is the goal or scorer, the other two act as forwards, and are placed, one on each side of the scorer. Each time that the goal receives the ball from one of the forwards it counts one point. There is also a center. We hope this information, though late, will enable our friends to enjoy the account of the recent games. The collegiates are divided into two classes in athletics: seniors and juniors versus sophomores and freshman. The teams consist of nine picked players from each division, giving eighteen players on the campus.

During the scholastic term Captain Barry, sophomore, challenged Captain Martin, senior, to three match games which were to take place at stated periods. These contests were played with a great amount of rivalry and verve on the part of the players. Captain Barry's sturdy band was obliged to succumb to the senior team in the first two games; but alas! the victory was ephemeral, for in the last scheduled game Captain Martin was forced to yield the laurels to the sophomores. Yet "nil homini certum est" was all that the vanquished seniors could say and in good faith Captain Martin congratulates Captain Barry.

The interest taken by the collegians in this line of sports needs no comment. The girls worked laboriously in the last game to surpass the wonderful speed and accuracy which shone so conspicuously heretofore in this season's games. The contest between seniors and sophomores was notable for the orderly manner in which it was conducted and great credit is due to the coach for the organization and control displayed in the work. Throughout the first half, the playing was clever and dexterity was in full evidence; the ball was hurled with lightning speed. Rose Martin (center for seniors) played a splendid game and in throwing the ball marked accurately for the boxes. The score at half time was 3-3. In the second half the sophs. put up a great fight; Margaret Cain (guard) Alice Barry (Center) and (Captain) Kathryn Gloninger created great enthusiasm among the spectators by their speed which secured for them a brilliant victory as it completely baffled their opponents who were unable to score one point. Congratulations to the sophs!

THE STORE

No, the store itself does not smile, but everybody in it does.

We have here a Store Family of nearly 1400 contented, happy people. Contented, because they are receiving a fair compensation for their service—a compensation which they themselves regulate in proportion to their own effort and efficiency.

Happy, because they are fairly treated, and because their only concern is to see that every customer is given courteous, honest, helpful service.

It is a store which you will like to visit—not the cold, awe-inspiring business machine which many department stores are, but a human store—a store with a personality—an organization of nearly 1400 souls with but the single purpose of serving you well—and smilingly.

WILL BUILD A FINE NEW BANKING HOUSE

Emmitsburg Savings Bank Has Men at Work on Improvements That Will Make It a Modern, Handsome Home.

Another building which when completed will reflect credit on the town, will be the new Emmitsburg Savings Bank building, which will be constructed on the site of the present quarters of that institution. A large force of men is now employed doing the preliminary work to the erection of the vault.

The increasing business of the bank demanded that more room be given to the transaction of business and the directors decided to make such extensive improvements that they really amount to an entirely new structure, which will be a thoroughly modern banking house. The plans include on the interior five counter windows, a private cashier's office, directors' and committees' room, spacious concrete-steel vault and sub-vault, etc. The exterior of the bank will be also reconstructed, and finished in hard pressed wire-cut brick, and trimmed with some white stone, probably marble. The frontage will include all of the present space and the hallway of what was formerly the private dwelling above the bank.

The work will not interfere with the business of the bank for several weeks, when it will be necessary to vacate the buildings for some little time pending the improvements.

TOUR OF POTATO CLUB BOYS

Forerunner of Big Event in Baltimore Preceding Maryland Week.—Prominent Committees to Organize.

It is announced by Henry E. Warner, Director of the Tour, and Reuben Brigham, Assistant State Agent in Charge of Boys' Club Work, that their preliminary trip over the route of The Home State Tour for Maryland Corn and Potato Club Boys under the auspices of The Baltimore Sun will be made during the third and fourth weeks of June, instead of the second and third weeks of May, in order to complete the details in connection with the local meetings.

On June 12th, the Pathfinding Auto will leave Crisfield and proceed to Baltimore by way of Elkton and from Baltimore westward to Oakland, over the State highways, passing through all the towns included in the Home State Tour. Messrs. Warner and Brigham will meet the citizens of these towns at places to be selected by them, which will be announced later. The purpose of the tour is to organize the permanent committee in each town so that the plan can be harmoniously worked out to the success which seems to be a foregone conclusion.

When the preliminary tour is made, all citizens with their mothers, wives, sweethearts and daughters are invited to attend. As far as possible, there will be three meetings in as many towns a day (morning, afternoon, and evening). At the conclusion of this tour, the committee in charge of the event will send out to all local committees a clear statement of the work expected of them, which will be made possible by the many conferences to be held in June.

It has been suggested that the Home State Tour for Maryland Corn and Potato Club Boys be held during the ten days preceding Maryland Week so that this tour will be a forerunner of the big event at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore. These plans will be submitted to the various citizen committees for criticism and adoption.

Six Year Old Boy Killed By Large Touring Car

Irvington William Tabler, the six-year-old son of Albert Tabler, of Mt. Airy Junction, was struck by a touring car on the road between Plane No. 4 and Mt. Airy, Tuesday and instantly killed. His neck was broken and his face and body terribly bruised. The little victim, covered with blood, was picked up still breathing and rushed in the automobile to his home a quarter of a mile away. Before reaching home, however, death ensued.

The car was occupied by two men, two children and a woman. At the Tabler home they left the name of W. B. Anderson, Nutlin, W. Va. After taking the dead child from the car the man at the wheel stated for a physician. The party, however, passed rapidly through that town without stopping and up to a late hour Tuesday night had not been heard from.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Lingonore Hills and the Catocin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

COLLEGE MEN IN BUSINESS.

In the earlier days of our country a thorough education, or at least as fair an education as one's means would permit, was deemed desirable, if not essential, as a ground work for business management. After a certain period, the result most likely of the actual necessity for "earning a living at anything," many had to forego school or college and enter mercantile life in any available capacity. A change came and under readjustment of business conditions, which, in more prosperous times became better and nearer equable, "to college" was once more the slogan.

Rapid growth in business, expansion, enormous output and ready demand, with resultant prosperity, subsequently checked the ambition of youth and again many a restive son and indulgent parent listened to the siren call of clinking dollars, and college education was not estimated at its proper value.

In recent years a change has once more taken place. Specialization, specific aptitude, thoroughness of mental conception, the power of concentration, broadness of view, the capacity to handle big undertakings, to think in large terms, to maintain poise while deciding and acting quickly and accurately—these are the requirements of business today. With some notable exceptions, these can only be acquired by thorough mental training; in other words by means of college education.

Business in this age is not "store keeping," it is not production in dribblets and a marketing of the output at haphazard. Business of the present time is science, exact and exacting, wonderfully complex; calling for the best talent—the very best, regardless of cost.

Says the Cumberland News:

"The college man is quite sure to show his mettle if suddenly summoned to deal with a new business, or with new problems in an old one. For, in that case, habits of intellectual discipline, acquired in years long past, usually enable him to distance a competitor who has no such record. And, though most of the curriculum soon becomes a 'back number,' its effects persist—like an invisible ink which becomes distinct under certain conditions."

In business the call now is and will continue to be for the trained mind—trained broadly first and then specialized. In this specialization the various interests or divisions of business are helping; witness this from the Princeton Alumni Weekly:

The increasing demand for college men in business is exemplified in the banking scholarships which are being offered to students and graduates of Princeton as well as a selected list of other universities, by the National City Bank of New York. The object of these scholarships is to fit the recipients for positions of responsibility abroad, in the movement to develop a foreign service which will meet the needs of American business. The Department of Economics and Social Institutions at Princeton is cooperating with the National City Bank in this movement, and is to recommend this year three Seniors or graduates and three Juniors for admission to the training classes to be formed soon after Commencement. The recommendations will be made on the basis of scholarship and special fitness for foreign service.

"We want men who can think broadly, systematically; who can grasp the idea in embryo and see the unfolding, finished undertaking from the first mental blue print; we want trained minds. That's why we give the first call to college men." This in effect, is what the big concerns are saying to the young men of the age.

ORDINANCES TO BE ENFORCED.

The new Burgess has declared himself in very dignified, straightforward and manly language. The policy he has laid down cannot fail to appeal to all right-thinking citizens. These should bear in mind that they elected him—there was no opposition—and that cooperation from them is not only to be expected, but was by them implied when they chose him. They have no right to look for or to receive favoritism or partiality from him; nor would he have any excuse were he to be guilty of showing it. He is under oath to enforce rigidly the ordinances and regulations of the town, "without fear or favor" and in his endeavor to do so he should have the unstinted moral and practical support of all. This cooperation should be extended to the Commissioners as well. The Burgess and Commissioners are the legally constituted authority in and for the Corporation. They only have the right to enforce the law as it locally applies. This law, by the way,—existing as a series of ordinances—is in print and easily obtainable, and "ignorance of the law is no excuse;" it is doubly inexcusable under the circumstances. No local citizen, no stranger who obeys the law need fear the action of the present board, but, as we see it and have reason to believe, all who break the law will be from this time forward held to strict accountability.

VERY many have been the favorable comments upon the decent, reasonable and considerate manner in which, as a rule, non-resident owners of large high-power and expensive cars motor through Emmitsburg. There is none of that noise and slapdash so observable, we regret to say, in the driving of locally owned and operated machines. Noise and recklessness is totally unnecessary, very dangerous, and absolutely inexcusable; nor is it tolerated in any other place of this size.

It is very true that some don't believe in politeness and courtesy. Those of coarse moral fibre seldom, if ever, do; but it is an excellent thing for the smoothness of every day life that polite people are in the majority. Just as the conduct of liars supplies the necessary background to make honesty more noticeable, the actions of discourteous folk form the sombre shades that bring out the high lights in civility.

A MAN by the name of Moses—not the biblical gentleman—once wrote "you cannot raise standards by raising hell." That truth applies to any and every place and to every age. It is applicable right here in this community. There is one thing, however, that can be raised from those who essay the pulling aloft of that tropical locality and that is fines.

Two good ones on those who have a tendency to get real "fussed up" on slight provocation: "Every time you get mad and break loose there is a circus and you are its clown."

"Getting mad means cutting out the muffler and taking the hands off the steering wheel—mentally."

THE position of the average aspirant for political appointment seems to be about the same as that of the one who, though he believed "the office should seek the man," saw no harm in standing around in a dignified attitude along the route the office seemed inclined to pursue in doing its seeking.

WHEN you hand a lemon to an optimist he will dig up a little sugar and a little whiskey and a little hot water and make himself comfortable.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Noticed the remarkable growth in the ranks of the optimists?—New York Evening Telegram.

But what would he do if handed a grapefruit?—Houston Post.

He'd use more sugar and more whiskey and get a "bun" on.

"LOAVES of bread that are three-quarters wood are part of the German diet now"—Probably the reason why blockheads have been so conspicuous lately.

FIRST call for street scraping and second call for oiling.

THAT'S right, fine 'em.

Origin of the Penny.

The "maiden name" of the penny was "denarius," and the English penny is a survival of the Roman rule in the British isles. Like the coin which preceded it in Rome, it has been debased in value until its name has lost its original meaning. The first denarius was minted in Rome about 268 B. C. and was the principal silver coin of both the republic and the empire. It at first weighed seventy-two grains troy and was as nearly pure silver as durability would permit. It bore on one side the helmeted head of Roma and the mark X and on the other side the images of Castor and Pollux. Later these twin gods were replaced by the head of the Roman emperors. By 215 A. D. the coin had deteriorated in value until it was only 40 per cent silver. The X, which signified the value of ten asses, had wholly lost its meaning. Diocletian finished the degradation of the denarius by applying the name to a small copper coin. In England the largest silver coin was called a denarius at a time when the English florin was called a gold penny.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Edison and His Mother.

During the short time that he attended school Thomas A. Edison was nearly always at the foot of his class. On one occasion a teacher remarked to the inspector that the boy was "addled" and that trying to tutor him was a mere waste of time.

The youth overheard the remark. He repeated it to his mother, who promptly took the child back to the school and told the teacher he did not know what he was talking about and that the lad had more brains than the teacher.

Referring to this critical period of his existence, Mr. Edison once said: "Had it not been for my mother's appreciation and faith in me I should very likely never have been an inventor. She was so true, so sure of me, that I felt that I had some one to live for, some one I must not disappoint. The memory of her will always be a blessing to me."—Columbus Dispatch.

Proof That We Are Sheepish.

The Pittsburgh man who several years ago won a dinner from an Indiana county relative by taking a small piece of wood, a hammer and a nail and blocked traffic on lower Fifth avenue of the steel metropolis by hammering the nail into the shingle resting on the sidewalk has a follower here who did a similar stunt. The New Yorker won his wager by placing a ball of paper six inches in diameter at the corner of Wall street and Broadway and by staring at it got a crowd of a hundred people in five minutes. It proved the old contention of the psychology of crowds, showed that all the yokels are not living in the country and revealed that we humans all are more or less sheep.—New York Letter to Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Origin of Patents.

Patents (from pateo, I lie open) originated with the so called nobility of France. Lest their superiority to other folks should be in doubt, the nobles got out titles of nobility, so that the fact that they were better than the rest of the people might "lie open" to all the world. It was in connection with the printing of books that the first real patents were issued, about 1550. By 1625 it began to be customary to issue patents protecting the rights of inventors in the arts and manufactures. Since that time the patent offices of the world have had a steadily increasing business.

Got Some of the Poison.

"The late William Vaughn Moody," said a Harvard instructor, "was well liked. Moody hated gossip. One of our professors had a nasty, venomous tongue, and one day this gentleman appeared in chapel with his hand tied up.

"What's the matter with him?" some one asked.

"Oh, he's been trying to hold his tongue," said Moody.—Exchange.

However, Father Was Moved.

She—Was father very angry when you broke the news of our engagement? He—I don't think so. His most poignant emotions, so far as I could discover them, appeared to be sympathy and relief.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Philadelphia and Carpets.

More than a third of all American carpets are woven in Philadelphia, which, it is claimed, leads any other city of the world in the volume of production. Wilton, in England, has given its name to one of the most widely known and useful rugs in the world, but now the Wilton rug producing center of the world is in Philadelphia. Axminster, too, gave its name to a carpet, but it long ago ceased to produce any of it. Brussels likewise is known all over the earth for its carpet, but Brussels does not begin to produce the carpets and rugs which are turned out in Philadelphia. Philadelphia enterprise embarked in the carpet business while Washington was president of the United States, but it was not until more than half a century later that Pennsylvania led all the states in carpet production. As early as 1791 there was a factory in Philadelphia engaged in the manufacture of Axminster and Turkey carpets. China and Russia send to Philadelphia most of the long, coarse wool used in the manufacture of the finest Wiltons.—Argonaut.

Getting Up in the Morning.

The truth is that there is no time at which it is pleasing to get up. Getting up in the world is a pleasure, but we refer to getting up from anything between a fifty cent cot and a forty dollar mattress after having tried to indulge, to a point of satiety, a normal appetite for sleep.

To get up willingly is, as Lord Dunsyre would say, "something no fellow can do." It simply isn't done and can't be done. Absolutely nobody does it.

Early rising is with some persons a sort of religion, like flagellation. But they, like the rest of us, unless they are afflicted with a loss of the normal capacity for sleep, find the moment of rising painful, however compensating the pleasure of boasting their early rising, the joy of bullying and belittling persons who frankly do not like at any time to get up, although they do it heroically every morning.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Flag of Denmark.

In the year 1219 King Waldemar of Denmark, when leading his troops to battle against the Livonians, saw, or thought he saw, a bright light in the form of a cross in the sky. He held this appearance to be a promise of divine aid and pressed forward to victory. From this time he had the cross placed on the flag of his country and called it the Dannebrog—that is, the strength of Denmark. Aside from legend, there is no doubt that this flag with the cross was adopted by Denmark in the thirteenth century and that at about the same date an order known as the order of Dannebrog, was instituted, to which only soldiers and sailors who were distinguished for courage were allowed to belong. The flag of Denmark, a plain red banner bearing on it a white cross, is the oldest flag now in existence. For 300 years both Norway and Sweden were united with Denmark under this flag.

The Gegenschein.

The Gegenschein is the name given to one of the most inexplicable objects known to astronomers. It is visible in the night sky under favorable conditions, is rounded in outline and is situated always exactly opposite the place of the sun. It has been termed by one eminent astronomer "a sort of cometery or meteoric satellite" attending the earth. He supposes it to be composed of a cloud of meteors situated about a million miles from the earth and revolving around it in a period of just one year, so that the sun and the meteors are always on opposite sides of the earth. It is estimated that the size of this ghostly satellite may be nearly the same as that of the planet Jupiter—i. e., about 86,000 miles in diameter.

A Modern Venus.

If a girl could have the neat ankles of the hosiery ads., and the trim waist of the corset ads., and the hair of the grower ads., and the teeth of the tooth-powder ads., and the complexion of the cold cream ads., wouldn't she be a wonder?

What would she do for a heart? She wouldn't need a heart or a brain. We could give her the emotions of the heroines in the best seller ads.—Life.

Considerate.

Mrs. Brindle—Now, Mary, I want you to be extremely careful. This is some very old table linen—been in the family for over 200 years and— Mary—Ah, sure, ma'am, you needn't worry. I won't tell a soul about it, and it looks as good as new, anyway.—Chicago News.

Making Friends.

Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but, above all, the power of going out of one's self and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another.—Thomas Hughes.

Rubbing the Eyes.

The Italian child is never allowed to rub its eyes. If it bursts into tears it is not repressed, but allowed to have the cry out. This, it is claimed, beautifies the eyes and makes them clear, while rubbing the eyes injures them in many ways.

More Urgent.

"Daughter, don't you want to improve your mind?"

"Of course, ma, but I'm busy with my complexion now."—Kansas City Journal.

Never write a letter and never burn one.—Talleyrand.

Fundamentals.

If your outlook on life is wholesome and you have nothing worth while to think upon it is permissible to let your mind drift to the subject of fundamentals. Fundamentals are all right as long as you don't take them seriously. But if you begin to believe what you say about basic principles and elementary laws you are likely to become an uplifter or a Black Hand artist. The trouble is that when you get to brooding over such massive matters and the eternal consequences that attend them you invariably come to the conclusion that humanity is dallying in the primrose path, and then, nine times out of ten, you decide to reform something.

The golden rule of reforming is: Do unto yourself as you would like to do unto others. But nobody pays any attention to it. It is just as popular in theory and as unpopular in practice as other fundamental laws of conduct are. Uplift, like charity, should begin close up.—Judge.

Old Friends.

Those that have loved longest love best. A sudden blaze of kindness may by a single blast of coldness be extinguished. But that fondness which length of time has connected with many circumstances and occasions, though it may for awhile be suppressed by disgust or resentment, with or without a cause, is hourly revived by accidental recollections. To those who have lived long together everything heard and everything seen recalls some pleasure communicated or some benefit conferred—some petty quarrel or some slight endearment. Esteem of great powers or amiable qualities newly discovered may embroder a day or a week, but a friendship of twenty years is interwoven with the texture of life. A friend may be often found and lost, but an old friend never can be found, and nature has provided that he cannot easily be lost.—Samuel Johnson.

The Only Difference.

A Massachusetts congressman went to England a few years ago and spent some time studying the British parliament at close range.

Immediately on his return he was asked if he couldn't make an analytical comparison of the house of commons and the house of representatives. He wrinkled his face up learnedly and spoke as follows:

"The two houses are a good deal alike. The members there swagger in just as nonchalantly as they do here and have much the same knack at paying no attention to what is going on. About the only great fundamental difference between the two lower houses that I could discover after a great deal of thought and study was that in the house of commons they have more cuspidors."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Four Great Musicians.

Palestrina was a revolutionist in his day, but is now virtually obsolete even for the severest classicists. Gluck was as radical an innovator as Wagner, yet it is only occasionally and with difficulty that one of his works can now be briefly resuscitated. Beethoven was a madman even to many of the best musicians as late as 1805, when, as that musical veteran, Professor Haupt, himself said, the "Fifth Symphony" was rehearsed in Berlin for the first time and the orchestra dashed the music from the racks, declaring it was crazy and could never be played. Now this same "Fifth Symphony" is considered a model of form, and its composer is the cherished idol of conservatives and classicists.

My wife's got a lot to say to me still. You don't have to answer anything. Only whenever she says "Are you still there, Henry?" you say very nicely, "Certainly, my dear Jane."—New York Post.

Overzealous.

"Always speak the truth," said the man of precise standards.

"Of course," replied Miss Cayenne, "but some people in their desire to do so think they're called upon to constitute themselves private detectives in order to find out all the truth there is."—Washington Star.

Uncle Knew All About It.

"Uncle Frank," said little James, "what is the difference between 'cute' and 'sneaky'?"

"According to your mother," said Uncle Frank reflectively, "it's the difference between what you do and what Mrs. Brown's little boy does."

Paper Pulp.

Year by year the demand for materials other than wood and rags capable of yielding paper on a commercial scale becomes more urgent in this country. Wood is now used for pulp manufacture to the amount of about 4,500,000 cords a year.

BUDGET OF COUNTY NEWS

The Paint and Powder Club scored another success last Thursday evening when it presented the musical comedy "Dear Dorothy" before a large and fashionable audience at the City Opera House, Frederick for the benefit of the Frederick City Hospital Association.

"Dear Dorothy" is a comedy bubbling over with clever lines and amusing situations, and the boys acquitted themselves with honors. They had to respond to many encores, and after the first act, flowers were much in evidence. Charlie Andrew McCann received a "bottle" of champagne. This seemed most appropriate, coming just after his song about wanting to get on a jag.

Under the auspices of the Frederick county branch of the Maryland League for National Defense, a Civilian Reserve Corps is being organized in Frederick. Already thirty members have signed up to attend weekly drills at the State Armory, Frederick. It is expected that many others will take advantage of this opportunity to secure some military training, which every person, it is now generally realized, should possess.

The largest number of graduates to be turned out in a single year, will be graduated from six Frederick county high schools in June. School officials Monday afternoon estimated that approximately 93 girls and boys would receive diplomas during the early part of June. From the two Frederick schools it is expected that about 60 students will be graduated, one less than was turned out last June. Frederick county last year graduated a total of 76 students. This year's roster shows an increase of about 17.

At the Democratic city primary election Monday, Mayor Lewis H. Fraley won the mayoralty nomination over Alderman E. McClellan Phebus, by a majority of 570. Clifford H. Doll defeated Ernest M. Fox for Frederick register and tax collector by a majority of 270.

The new school law for Maryland, enacted at the last session of the Maryland Legislature, will be taken up and discussed by the teachers and school officials of Frederick county at a conference of teachers to be held in the auditorium of the Girls' high school, on Saturday, May 13, at 10:30 o'clock.

Public schools of Frederick county will be officially closed on Wednesday May 31. Within a few weeks the final examinations will be given throughout the county.

Thousands of notices, announcing that the Frederick County Commissioners have decided to tax furniture, in view of the fact that the Maryland Assembly recently repealed the law providing for an exemption of household furniture to the amount of $500 are being sent out by Clerk Harman L. Gaver. In all, announced Clerk Gaver, approximately 13,000 notices are being sent to as many persons in Frederick county.

Clerk Gaver is being assisted in this work by acting County Tax Assessor Spencer Stup and former deputy in the office of Register of Wills, Fenton Thomas.

Changes were made in the Women's Ten Hour Law by the last Legislature which affect Frederick merchants, according to the statement of Edward S. Delaplaine, who was a member of the House at the last session, and who has a copy of the law as amended in the Senate.

Under the new law females may work 12 hours, a day on Saturdays and for five days prior to Christmas and on Christmas eve, if during each of such days the female have at least two rest intervals of not less than one hour each, and this provision shall apply only to such mercantile establishments as have during the remainder of the calendar year a working day of not more than nine hours.

James Henry Enright, manager of the Frederick Gas and Electric Department of the Hagerstown and Frederick Railway Company, died at his home, 132 East Third street, Frederick Monday morning, after an illness of about four weeks. Mr. Enright was 58 years of age. He is survived by his wife and three children.

Joseph F. Eisenhauer, for a number of years one of the election supervisors for Frederick county, was on Saturday afternoon elected as the president of the board when the new officials organized.

The members of the new board are: President Eisenhauer, Lee Ranneberger, Democrat, and Garret S. de Grange, Republicans. Mr. Ranneberger succeeds William B. James, Republican.

You needn't go to Suez,
But asking any one you meet
You'll learn it's David Lewis.

Full many things you hear are false
But you will find this true is,

And I'm as certain as I am
One added to one two is,
That Maryland's next Senator
Is little David Lewis.

At a luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham, Fairfield, announcement was made of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Cunningham, to James Harper, Lenoir, North Carolina. Miss Cunningham has been teaching school in North Carolina for a number of years. The wedding will take place in June.

The general store of Benj. Hostetter, at Culbertson north of Chambersburg, was looted last Friday night and then set afire by the robbers. The building was burned to the ground, with the entire stock of goods and furnishings with loss of $6,000.

If blossoms count for anything, the fruit crop throughout the section of the Cumberland Valley this year will be a record-breaker. Never before have the peach, cherry, pear, plum and apple trees been so covered with blossoms as at present. Notwithstanding the early predictions of many fruit growers that the fruit crop this year would be short, there is nothing to it, that is, if the late frosts do not interfere, which in all probability will not. Even if a lot of the fruit is killed by the frost, there will be a plenty of it left to make up many trainloads for shipment.

TEACHERS' SUMMER COURSES AT HOPKINS UNIVERSITY.

The Summer Courses for teachers which have been given for the past five years by the Johns Hopkins University will be continued this summer. The session opens on Wednesday, July 5th, and closes Tuesday, August 15th.

This work was begun at the urgent request of the school superintendents of our State, and has been developed under their cooperation in order to provide at home ample opportunities for special study by Maryland school officers and teachers.

The University work has been so arranged as to permit a number of combinations of courses which will enable every officer and teacher in our school system to meet their special needs. A program of seventy-five courses has been arranged, the courses in education presented the largest variety.

The Demonstration School which has been a leading feature during recent years will be continued. It will be so arranged as to enable supervisors and teachers in rural school to become acquainted with new methods and devices for meeting their particular problems.

Teachers who are desirous of working for the new degree of Bachelor of Science, which is open to men and women, will have an opportunity to utilize the Summer Courses towards the realization of this purpose.

The Use Of Automobiles In War.

The use of motor trucks and armored automobiles has already been demonstrated in actual warfare, but it remained for the American troopers now chasing Pancho Villa in Mexico, or guarding the border, to demonstrate the feasibility of putting ordinary cars to military use. A few days ago an Overland touring car was driven north of Columbus, N. M., by United States artillerymen. A machine gun was mounted in the tonneau and target were fired at, with the machine traveling and at a standstill. The test was reported to be very successful. It was found that a touring car was fully as logical and as feasible as a truck for the purpose.
The demonstration proved that the vibration of a gun being fired does not swerve the aim a particle. In fact, the car barely is shaken. The objection to cramped quarters was also conclusively dismissed when it was shown that four men could ride comfortably in the car with the gun.

"The public is fickle and is also forgetful. It needs to be continually reminded where you are and what you are doing. If you don't let it know through the columns of a newspaper it soon will transfer its trade." tf.

ROBIN

(Planesticus migratorius)

Length, ten inches.
Range: Breeds in the United States
(except the gulf states), Canada, Alaska and Mexico; winters in most of the United States and south to Guatemala.

Habits and economic status: In the North and some parts of the West the robin is among the most cherished of our native birds. Should it ever become rare where now common, its joyous summer song and familiar presence will be sadly missed in many a homestead. The robin is an omnivorous feeder, and its food includes many orders of insects, with no very pronounced preference for any. It is very fond of earthworms, but its real economic status is determined by the vegetable food, which amounts to about 58 per cent of all. The principal item is fruit, which forms more than 51 per cent of the total food.
The fact that in the examination of over 1,200 stomachs the percentage of wild fruit was found to be five times that of the cultivated varieties suggests that berry-bearing shrubs, if planted near the orchard, will serve to protect more valuable fruits. In California in certain years it has been possible to save the olive crop from hungry robins only by the most strenuous exertions and considerable expense. The bird's general usefulness is such, however, that all reasonable means of protecting orchard fruit should be tried before killing the birds.
