WAR HITS CUPID.

Effect in United States Seen In Matrimonial Ads.

MEN ARE BECOMING SCARCE.

Beautiful Blondes and Brunettes Seek Life Mates by Long Distance Means, but Their Hopes Are Being Shattered—Expert Warns Girls of Triflers.

Minneapolis.—War in Europe is playing havoc with mail order matrimony in America.

The loveless, languid and lackadaisically lax and even the triflers are trifling only in trifles in the romantic game of passion by post.

An ample young lady, Titian haired, dimpled and doll-like, in temporary charge of the offices of a matrimonial paper here, testified to these facts after qualifying as an expert on long distance love for home consumption.

"Things are not as they used to be here," said the doll-like person, shaking her Titian tinted tufts in an emphatic negative.

"Time was when money flowed in—$100 and more every day. Six address clerks were busy as could be. Then the war broke out. Only two girls are working now, and they're on half time.

"Any one who thinks American spinsters are husbanding prospects for obtaining husbands in advance of an after war demand for marriageable men in Europe is badly mistaken."

The paper is a monthly, published for the past twenty-five years. It's a sixteen page mail order affair, closely printed and filled with "ladies' and gentlemen's personals," as for example:

BEAUTIFUL Bohemian girl, with big laughing brown eyes, brown tresses, pretty teeth; age, twenty; five feet five inches tall; weight, 130 pounds; quiet disposition; neat dresser; lover of home; good cook; fond of music and dancing; Protestant faith. If suited will marry.

HELLO, GIRLS! I am the fellow that's easy to get along with; am thirty-two years old; five feet seven inches tall; weigh 135 pounds and have gray eyes and black hair; work in a wagon yard, but still at home with my parents. Would be delighted to hear from jolly, good natured girl, as I want a wife.

Scores of personals filled the paper for April, but those from men are growing woefully scarce.

The young woman in charge was concerned for both the paper and its patrons.

"A man from Montana called the other day," she said, "to tell how he got his first wife through the paper and that he wanted us to get him another."

"I asked him what he did with the first one and he said sadly that he was a widower by death and so back for a second, though he didn't even hope to get one better than his first. So a satisfied customer always returns, and we're doing good for some people.

"But there are a lot—girls especially—who would do better by leaving well enough alone. Not because of triflers—although men are always trifling and don't have to correspond to do it—but because few find happiness.

"Men are always looking for money or women to keep house for nothing and many girls would do better to keep their positions and stop seeking happy homes.

"Yet thousands are doing it. On basement is full of applications—just loads of them."

The young woman then volunteered the statement that after years of observation of the "game," she wouldn't answer a gentleman's personal if it was accompanied by a photograph of a man more perfect than Adonis.

And another paradox. The owner of the paper is fifty and still single.

WOMAN RUNS BUSINESS.

Young's Widow Carries on His Work After His Death.

La Crosse, Wis.—Mrs. Bertha Young manager of a large lumber company has closed the company's offices in this city and moved to Minneapolis, which is more accessible to the market.

The local lumber company was organized twenty-three years ago by John D. Young, who managed it until his death eleven years ago. Since that time the work has been carried on by his widow, who has shown remarkable talent as a manager. The company operates six retail yards in Southern Minnesota—Fairmont, Fulda, Whalen, Dassel, Alpha and Chandler.

Mrs. Young is a social favorite and the mother of a large family.

Gets 200 Pounds of Turf.

Lawrenceburg, Ind.—George W. Coombs, aged forty-nine, caught nearly 200 pounds of snapping turtles in Taney's creek, about eighty miles from here. Coombs used a trout line and baited the hooks with frogs, fishing nearly all night. He sold part of his catch for 15 cents a pound and butchered the two largest turtles, weighing nearly fifty pounds, to give several friends turtle soup at a local smoker.

MOUNT SAINT MARY'S HAS BRILLIANT COMMENCEMENT

His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, Presides.--- Unusually Large Number of Alumni and Guests Present.---Thirty-Two Graduates.---Degrees, Honors and Awards.

Almost two weeks of rain in Emmitsburg brought a coat of joyous green and sunshine to the Commencement of Mt. St. Mary's. The joy in the breast of the youthful graduate in the heart of the old graduate chastened by years of experience with the world, were the same on Commencement Day at the college. Mt. St. Mary's was dressed in her gayest robes. For a week activity has been at its height in the country about the college. Hundreds of automobiles carried visitors to the grounds for the many entertainments and there was a good time for all.

Visitors to the Mountain came in larger numbers and considerable earlier than is usual. Special cars brought a delegation of sixty Mountaineers from New York and vicinity. A hundred more came in automobiles and trains on Tuesday. Veterans of Commencements at Mt. St. Mary's said that it was the largest and most enthusiastic crowd that every attended the closing exercises. The largest graduating class since 1912 brought a host of friends and relatives to the stopping places near the college and accommodations were at a premium by Tuesday night.

The Baccalaureate

Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock the visiting Alumni and student-body listened to an impressive Baccalaureate sermon by the Rev. Charles H. A. Watterson, '91, of Newark, Ohio.

Father Watterson took as his text a part of the day's gospel: "Go ye therefore into the whole world, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have taught you, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost; and behold I am with you all times even to the consummation of the world."

"You, young men of the graduating class," said Father Watterson, "have been carefully nurtured and instructed in the sacred truths of your holy religion. Your able professors have done all they could to help you. The time has come now when you must set out for yourself, without the guiding hand and friendly advice of your instructors. You owe it to them and to yourself to preserve intact all they have labored so industriously to instill in your minds. Your success shall be their triumph; they shall live in you."

Rev. Finton S. Tehan, '12, who was ordained recently in Hartford, Conn., was the celebrant of the Solemn High Mass at which the Baccalaureate sermon was preached. Rev. John Dolan was deacon and Mr. Daniel Kilroy, sub-deacon. Mr. Benjamin Leonard was the master of ceremonies.

On Monday at 8 o'clock, a solemn Requiem Mass was offered for the deceased benefactors and friends of the college. Rt. Rev. B. J. Bradley, president of the college was the celebrant, Rev. Redmond O'Donoghue, deacon, Mr. Bernard Hefferman, sub-deacon and Mr. Thos. Brady, master of ceremonies.

Ordinations.

The ordinations to the holy priesthood took place in the college chapel at 8 A. M., on Tuesday morning. Rt. Rev. Owen B. Corrigan, D. D., V. G., Bishop of Macra, officiated, assisted by Rev. Philip Gallagher and Rev. Edward Jordan of the Faculty. The following candidates were elevated to the priesthood: Revs Joseph M. Nepple of Sioux City, Iowa, John E. Dolan, of Wilmington, Del., Peter M. Stief, of Mt. Carmel, Pa., and Redmond O'Donoghue, of Mobile, Ala.

College Defeats M. A. C.

The baseball season closed on Tuesday, the "Mountain" putting it over the strong Maryland Athletic Club team, 6 to 1.

Everybody turned out for this game, and everybody was a "fan." The student body occupied all the available space on the College side of the embankment; back of this mass of "rooters' autos lined the road. The visitors' benches were crowded and the parking space in the rear of this solid mass was entirely taken up by private cars, filled with "Mountain" enthusiasts.

The Mountaineers were the first to score when, in the sixth, they annexed four tallies. Carney and Gleason reached first on errors and then Cathino hit for the circuit. Rice also clouted for four bases. They added one more run in the seventh and ninth.

The visitors gathered their lone tally in the eighth, when Camino booted Baugher's infield tap, which scored Evans, who had singled. Gleason and McHugh pitched for the Mountaineers, the former allowing only three hits in seven innings. He was effective with men on bases and during the fourth inning fanned Richardson when the bases were filled.

Smith who twirled for the Maryland Athletic Club, was steady until the sixth, when the Mountaineers batted his offerings hard. The features were the home runs of Rice and Camino, the batting of Long and Evans and Gleason's pitching.

After the game the Mount St. Mary's team elected John T. McMorris, of Pittsburgh, captain. He has played third base for the last three years. Score:

Oratorical Contest.

The Oratorical Contest, always a feature of the commencement at Mt. St. Mary's, drew an unusually large audience Tuesday night. The program was as follows:

March, "My Maryland," Wolerstein, Orchestra; 1 "The Imperative Need of Religion in America," Henry Suter Morgan; 2 "Americanism," James D. Severin; 3 "The Catholic Missionary," Benjamin F. Bowling; 4 "Modern Vandalism," Edwin J. Lee; 5 "The Cost of the Present War," Frederick A. Atkinson; 6 "The Evils of Child Labor," Robert J. Donovan; 7 "A Plea for Peace," J. Emmett Haltigan; March, "Good Fellowship," Daly, Orchestra. The seven orations, each excellent in subject matter and all delivered with the earnestness befitting their carefully thought content, elicited the close attention of the discriminating and interested audience and each received hearty and merited applause.

The winner of the prize was Robert J. Donovan, of New York City. Honorable mention for close competition was shared by Benjamin F. Bowling, of Hughesville, Md., and Edwin J. Lee, of Lansford, Pa.

Wednesday, The Commencement

Wednesday morning, long before the procession of Prelates, Monsignori, Clergy and Alumni had formed, the spacious auditorium was crowded to the doors. Dignity and good taste were everywhere evident in the interior decoration, and when the long line, emphasized here and there by the striking colors of robes and decorate hoods, entered the building and the immense audience rose the scene was most impressive.

Programme.

Grand March, "Festal," Bernlochner, Orchestra; Opening Prayer, His Eminence The Cardinal; Overture, "The Silver Bell," Schleppegrell, Orchestra; Address to His Eminence the Cardinal, Leroy F. Goldsborough; Chorus, "The Jolly Blacksmith's Lay," Geibel-Verdi, Glee Club; Speech, "Godless Education," Robert J. Donovan; Cornet Solo, Caprice, "The Debutante," H. L. Clarke, Paul P. Golibart; Speech, "The Catholic Church in South America," John C. R. Kelly; Chorus, "In This Hour of Softened Splendor," Pinsuti-Emerson, Glee Club; Conferring of Degrees; Selection from "Lilac Domino," Caviller, Orchestra; Speech, "National Honor and Peace," Joseph A. Coyle; Song, "Good Bye," Tosti, A. Foden Lawrence; Valuedictory, John W. Jennings; Chorus, "Homeward," Adam Geibel, Glee Club and Orchestra; Awarding of Honors; Address to the Graduates, Fitzhugh Lee, Sc. D.; Blessing, His Eminence The Cardinal; Exit March, "College Life," Frantzen, Orchestra.

The Music.

The instrumental numbers by the College Orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. Fred A. Braun, as well as the vocal selections by the College Glee Club, also under Prof. Braun's able direction, deserves special commendation. The programme was well chosen and exceptionally well rendered, reflecting credit both upon this conscientious and talented music instructor at Mount Saint Mary's and upon the individual members of both organizations. Good music is a feature of all public events at the "Mountain," a feature heartily enjoyed by all who attend them.

Address To The Graduates.

Your Eminence, Right Reverend President, Fellow Alumni, Graduates: In accepting the invitation of your distinguished President to address the graduating class of 1916, I am not unmindful of the honor nor the great responsibility devolving upon me. Appreciating as I do, that Mount St. Mary's through patient, persistent and untiring effort, overcoming stupendous and almost insurmountable obstacles, now ranks as one of the foremost institutions of learning, I approach my task with grave apprehension, humbly craving your kind indulgence.

My Dear Graduates: The dawn of the long looked for day has at last arrived. You are about to leave your Alma Mater, the mother of your heart and mind who has guided you through the maze and entanglements of a college career, who has fortified you with true, sound, religious doctrine and strengthened you with all the requisites of a liberal education, she will watch you with maternal affection through all the vicissitudes of life and no one will be more pleased to hear of your achievements than she. Prove to her the confidence is not misplaced. You are the sole guardians of your destiny, much depends upon you.

One of the foremost scientific societies in this country recently asked the question of its members—what, in their opinion, were the necessary requisites of a successful business man? In reviewing the answers received, the majority stated: Character, Knowledge and

PRINCE COMPOSER

Kaiser's Youngest Son Enlivens Melancholy of War.

HAS WRITTEN SIX MARCHES.

His Popularity With Men of Army Is Perhaps Greater Than That of Any of His Brothers—Compositions Known in Every Trench—Only Recently Married.

Berlin.—Prince Joachim, the emperor's youngest son, has been enlivening the melancholy of the war not only by getting married, but by composing some stirring war marches. Since August, 1914, he has written six marches—"The Men in Field Gray," "Young Germany," "Gloria et Patria," "The Liege March," "1914" and "With God For King and Country." For a long time his music had been introduced to the court, his father taking the greatest pride in putting his compositions on the programs at the court concerts, but the general public was unacquainted with it.

The prince, being the youngest of the six sons of the emperor, has always been a great favorite with the people, and his popularity with the men of the army is perhaps greater than that of any of his brothers. His marches are known in every trench.

There was disappointment that his marriage recently to Princess Marie Auguste of Anhalt was not celebrated as a public festival. It took place at the Castle Bellevue, one of the royal residences, and there were no guests except the members of the two families. Emperor William was not present, the empress and her daughter, the Duchess of Brunswick, representing the imperial family. The little bride is in her eighteenth year, while the prince had his twenty-fifth birthday last December. They will probably live at Cassel when they set up a family establishment after the war. This is near Wilhelmshohe, the old capital of Hesse, where Napoleon III. was held captive after the battle of Sedan and where the empress goes to stay for the month of August every year, as well as a part of September.

Prince Joachim is a member of a hussar regiment belonging to Cassel. When he was severely wounded in December, 1914, and taken to Berlin for hospital treatment his Cassel regiment was kept informed of his condition, and the prince spent his convalescence writing letters to his army comrades.

The young corporal who rushed to his aid when he was struck on the battlefield and the private who donated his fresh package of bandages to dress the prince's wounds received letters from the hospital of remembrance for their service.

LOST IDENTITY FOR YEARS.

Hurt in San Francisco Earthquake.

Recovers Memory in Milwaukee. Milwaukee, Wis.—Samuel Samuels of San Francisco "awoke" in Milwaukee, he says, after his memory had been dimmed for ten years through an injury sustained during the San Francisco earthquake.

Wandering aimlessly, as though lost, Samuels, who is about sixty years old, accosted a policeman at Van Buren and Brady streets with the question, "Am I in San Francisco?" When told that he was in Milwaukee, 2,000 miles from San Francisco, Samuels was dubious.

"I owned a clothing store in San Francisco and had money," he said. "Where have I been and how have I lived all this time? I know I have wandered and tramped to many places, but until this day I did not know my own name or where I belonged."

COURT REWARDS BRAVE ACT.

Suspends Sentence on Youth Who Stopped a Runaway.

Yonkers, N. Y.—City Judge Beall on his way to court saw a young man dash into the street, grasp the bridle of a runaway horse and bring it to a standstill after being dragged halfway across Getty square.

The judge ran out to shake hands and compliment the youth for his bravery.

"Thanks, judge," the man said. Then he laughed. "I hope you will remember this when you get me in court."

He explained he was Frank O'Neill of 139 Vineyard avenue and was on his way to appear for fighting in the street. Judge Beall later suspended sentence.

Jawbone of Fossil Elephant.

Baker, Ore.—A fossil, declared by local scientists to be the lower jawbone of the prehistoric tetrabelodon, one of the earliest species of elephant of which there is any record, has been placed on exhibition here. It was found in the excavation of the Virtue mine near here.

THE STORE WITH A SMILE

No, the store itself does not smile, but everybody in it does.

We have here a Store Family of nearly 1400 contented, happy people. Contented, happy because they are receiving a fair compensation for their service — a compensation which they themselves regulate in proportion to their own effort and efficiency.

Happy, because they are fairly treated, and because their only concern is to see that every customer is given courteous, honest, helpful service.

It is a store which you will like to visit — not the cold, awe-inspiring business machine which many department stores are, but a human store — a store with a personality — an organization of nearly 1400 souls with but the single purpose of serving you well — and smilingly.

Vice President Marshall.

CHOOSE WILSON AND MARSHALL BY ACCLAMATION

St. Louis, Mo.—The unexpected did not happen in the Democratic convention. President Wilson and Vice President Marshall were renominated by acclamation. This was exactly according to predictions made many moons ago.

Mr. Wilson's name "went across" at 11:50 p. m. Thursday, with a great upheaval of joy which followed three hours of oratory and hilarious harmony. Five minutes later Mr. Marshall received his honor. And so, by a very skinny margin, the terrible Friday hoodoo was avoided. When 12,000 persons rose then and sang "America," the roof nearly came off the convention hall.

Following the nominations there were some speeches of laudatory character. This lasted until half after 12 in the morning. Then the convention adjourned until 11 a. m. Friday.

The platform committee sat up the rest of the night to whittle the planks and get them ready to nail down.

The Democratic convention was seen by unbiased observers as the most nearly unanimous affair of its kind since the big wind of '72, or thereabouts. President Wilson controlled the situation absolutely from Washington, yet nobody could say it was a boss-ridden festival.

And the Bosses Behaved. To tell the truth the bosses, so-called, Charlie Murphy of New York, Tom Taggart of Indiana and Roger Sullivan of Illinois, didn't seem to have much luck. There was a great deal of talk before the convention began to perform that these party captains would try to nominate Mr. Sullivan for vice president. But there was nothing to it. When the climax came, Sullivan, Taggart and Murphy lined up nicely for Mr. Marshall.

The only real excitement of nominating night was made by William Jennings Bryan, who, having been defeated as a delegate for the convention, came as a plain newspaper reporter and sat among the scribes. Considering his past leadership and the present strong hold he has upon the sentiments of hordes of Democrats, it would have been strange indeed if the "Peerless Leader" hadn't been shown at least a courtesy.

So it came about that the conventioners began to call for Bryan early Thursday night, when he entered the press stand with Mrs. Bryan. After much good-natured shouting and playful demonstration, the delegates persuaded the former secretary of state to make a speech. And he made one. Its theme was harmony. Various movements in this political symphony of words were praise for Mr. Wilson, denunciation of the money trust, encomium for Democratic reform measures and laudation for the administration's peace and neutrality policies.

Clashes Over Platform. The platform committee announced two hours before the convention opened Friday that its draft was ready for delegate action. It was learned that the questions of equal suffrage, prohibition, labor, and child-labor legislation had caused clashes in the committee.

President Wilson's Americanism plank, which is a stern rebuke to those persons and organizations that have been active in their sympathy for one or another of the belligerents in the European war, and slack in their American citizenship, caused a little storm in committee. Many Democratic politicians, it is said, are afraid of this stand by the chief executive and opposed incorporation of the plank in the platform. Senator William J. Stone, chairman of the committee, was in constant touch by long-distance phone with the president.

The platform contains about 25 planks and 4,000 words. It indorses Wilson's policies, praises the federal reserve banking system, says monopoly has been strangled, agrees that equal suffrage is right, speaks of the income tax, claims protection for labor, points with pride to postal extension and profits, lauds the Underwood tariff act and suggests nonpartisan tariff study.

Life Above Property Value. It calls for development of our seashipping business, promises adequate national preparedness, declares we must work for world peace, asserts there must be freedom of the seas, places the value of human life above property value—this last to those who demand we should fight as quickly for detained American mails as for American lives destroyed by belligerents.

Pan-Americanism is approved and our friendship for all the nations of the Americas is declared. The Monroe doctrine is reasserted. Intervention in Mexico is condemned, but promise is made that American troops will protect our southern border and remain in northern Mexico until peace and order are restored in the southern republic. Finally, conservation of the natural resources of the country is favored, with provision for development and use without waste.

Equal Suffrage Recommended. And here is the suffrage plank:

We recommend the extension of the franchise to the women of the country by the states upon the same terms as men.

Brooke Lee, son of United States Senator Lee, of Maryland, will go to the front with his company of Maryland National Guard.

PRESIDENT WILSON.

Mrs. Hickman Out on Bail

Mrs. Nettie Hickman, of Frederick, who shot and killed her husband, William Hickman, was brought before the Court Monday morning on habeas corpus proceedings and released in $5,000 bail for the September grand jury. Reno S. Harp and John Francis Smith were attorneys for Mrs. Hickman. She has been at Montevue with her children since the coroner's jury failed to agree. The bill was furnished by eight representative citizens.

Work Commenced on New Track.

Contractors have commenced work on the four miles of track between Clear-spring and Big Pool and on the two and one-half miles of double track between North Junction, Hagerstown, and Security. A stationary engine is being placed at Bissell to furnish power for the big steam shovel which will be used in grading. Work is progressing on the double tracking from Edgemont to Pen-Mar, part of this work proving a big task through the mountain.

The completion of the double-tracking of the W. M. between Hancock and Highfield, it is said, is particularly desirable, and at an early date, as it would enable the railway company to put on additional accommodation trains for transportation of passengers, the lack of which has been a source of more or less complaint for some time.

Big Copper Cent Brings $900.

A penny in the collection of the late Griffith W. Lewis, of Burlington, N. J., has been sold for 90,000 times its face value and has set a new record for American 1-cent coins. This penny, which is considered the gem of the collection recently put on the market by Howard F. Lewis, executor of his father's estate, is a big copper cent coined by the State of New Jersey in 1786.

Hilyard Ryder, of Elmira, N. Y., is the purchaser of the Lewis penny for $900. Senator Lewis gave $50 for it 10 years ago.

A $2.50 gold piece, bearing date of 1806, has been sold for $180, and a $40 gold piece that brought $60 were other famous coins in the Lewis collection.

Railway Income $1,000,000,000.

More than $1,000,000,000 in operating income will be earned by the railways of the United States for the year ending this month.

An Interstate Commerce Commission report showed that during the 10 months ended with April operating revenues of the roads amounted to $2,797,827,962 indicating a total of approximately $3,360,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year, and operating expenses were $1,827,816,880, indicating a total of about $2,208,000,000 for the year.

Big Storm on Eastern Shore.

Salisbury was visited Wednesday night about 7 o'clock by one of the worst electrical storms of the season, accompanied by a cyclone. Practically every field in that locality is ruined. Tomatoes, watermelons, cantaloupes, late strawberries, raspberries and blackberries were also ruined by the hail stones, which were as large as marbles. The storm was accompanied by a high wind, which blew down buildings and uprooted fruit trees.

Maryland Troops Ready.

Following an order issued by President Wilson on Sunday calling out the National Guard of the United States for immediate service on the Mexican border, the Maryland National Guard, embracing about 2,300 officers and men, are ready for action. Some of the regiments are at the mobilization camps and others will follow as soon as their full complement is reached.

Such tobacco enjoyment as you never thought could be is yours to command quick as you buy some Prince Albert and fire-up a pipe or a home-made cigarette!

Prince Albert gives you every tobacco satisfaction your smoke-appetite ever hankered for. That's because it's made by a patented process that cuts out bite and parch! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

PRINCE ALBERT

has a flavor as different as it is delightful. You never tasted the like of it! And that isn't strange, either.

Buy Prince Albert everywhere tobacco is sold in tippy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and that corking fine pound crystal-glass humidior with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such clever trim—always!

Men who think they can't smoke a pipe or roll a cigarette can smoke and will smoke if they use Prince Albert. And smokers who have not yet given P. A. a try-out certainly have a big surprise and a lot of enjoyment coming their way as soon as they invest in a supply. Prince Albert tobacco will tell its own story!

Efficiency. The more we consider these three qualifications, the more we are impressed with the importance they play in our every day life.

Character is the distinguishing mark among your fellow men. It is your personality: it is what you are, what you have to be, through all the trials, tribulations, happiness and unhappiness of life; it embraces those God-given qualifications of morality, honesty and veracity. Never let us grow so proud or become so great that we forget the lessons taught at our mother's knee, for a strict adherence to those maternal mandates will make us valuable acquisitions in any community. We will be respected as morally good, the soul of honesty and the defenders of truth. In the minds of the old Greeks, who saw great truths perfectly, the beauty of utterance consisted in expressing the largest truth in the most direct and frank way and in language a child could understand. Character is formed by conduct. Conduct is the result of habits and habits are formed by action. It has been said, and rightly so, that there are three stages in the making of character—know thyself, fight thyself and conquer thyself. Think for yourself, never failing to profit by the good example and advice of others, be fair to your fellow man, and if blessed more abundantly with worldly goods, be more charitable—this qualification, unfortunately, being woefully lacking in many characters. Honesty is one of the most important factors in our dealing with our fellow man; sharp practice, the besetting sin in the mad rush for wealth, puts the indelible impress upon the man indulging in it that makes him loathed and despised by everyone of respectability. Character is the foundation of modern business. "What the world needs is not little men to do great things ill but great men to do little things well." Let us strive to see the good in others, profit by their faults and never let our judgment be warped by heat of temper. Weigh all things carefully, maturely deliberate on all our actions and justice to our fellow man must result.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing; Drink deep or taste not the Pierian Spring; Their shallow draughts intoxicate the brain

And drinking largely sobers us again." Knowledge is power, but as a power for good it is useless unless the one possessing it knows how to apply it. The uneducated man follows the rule of thumb, the educated man the rule of brain. Whatever walk in life we may select, we should endeavor, not only by research and constant study, but by observation, best fit ourselves with a thorough knowledge of that calling, for thoroughness is an absolute essential to success. Never let us feel that we have mastered all there is to know in whatever avocation of life we may elect, for then it is we prove to the world our weakness and that we are wholly lacking. The man anxious to learn, even from the most humble, and willing to acknowledge the superior intellect of others, is the man who sets out to reach a certain goal in life and crosses that goal a winner. We are, indeed, fortunate in having imparted to us in the springtime of life the knowledge as dispensed at the "Mount." It enables us to differentiate between right and wrong, assists us in determining our future and forewarns us of the dangers lurking along the pathway of life that too frequently must be gained by experience.

Success is the result of efficiency properly directed. We were all ordained to work and how well we accomplish that work depends our success in life. There are two kinds of efficiency, mental and physical. Mental efficiency is the faculty of determining the best and most economical method of procedure, it is the ability to properly direct the affairs of life. "Mens sana in corpore sano" is a most important factor in mental efficiency, for unless the mind is in a healthy condition, it is unable to grasp what is the best course to pursue. Regardless for what we strive, the mind commands, the body obeys. Our entire "Modus Operandi" is largely a question of mental direction. Usually the man with brains is held up to admiration, but if he cannot use his hands also he is handicapped. Napoleon said: "My hand is immediately connected to my brain." Therefore, we must be physically fit. Physical development, strong organs, powerful muscles and obedient nerves come from proper exercise and right living. We must be ever mindful of our health, avoiding over indulgence in anything which would tend to weaken us mentally and physically. "Procrastination is the thief of time." Let us weigh carefully whatever we set out to do and after mature deliberation our decision is right, follow it to a speedy conclusion, for time once lost can never be regained.

The field of business is widening and developing, and during the past decade efficiency has been the watchword of business, and while our aim is to be efficiency, we must be careful not to carry it too far.

A friend of mine in charge of a large and successful business had heard so much regarding efficiency that he arranged to have an expert investigate his business in order to determine whether he was obtaining the best, most economical and satisfactory results. After the expert had made a thorough investigation of the business, he installed a system which was to produce maximum efficiency and minimum costs. About a month after the system was installed the expert called and inquired of my friend how the system was working and my friend said "fine," and after talking with him some time, when about to leave the expert asked: "And how's business?" "Oh business," said my friend, "There isn't any, we are too busy looking after the system." When we consider there were over twenty-two thousand business failures in the United States last year it proves how alert and watchful we must be and how closely all details must be considered if we would succeed. Don't be misled by the pessimistic view of life of those who have weakly tried and failed, for the young men of today are just as energetic and ambitious as those of any time in the past and the world contains for them more opportunities than existed in the "good old days of long ago." Somewhere in every business there is a man, known or unknown, whose ideals, whose spirit, whose character, is the dominating influence, for, "Every institution is the lengthened shadow of a man." The good things in life that man enjoys the most are those for which he has toiled, the accomplishment of which spurs him on to greater endeavor. George Elliott profoundly observes: "To every man comes crisis when, in a moment, without chance for reflection, he must decide and act instantly." What determines his decision? His whole past, the daily choices between good and evil that he has made throughout his previous years.

My dear graduates; much depends upon you. Let character, knowledge and efficiency be the beacon lights to safely guide you through the shoals of unpreparedness and physical and mental derelicts strewn along the shores of the Sea of Life. May you prove to your Alma Mater that you are well worthy to be numbered among her loyal sons, and by your achievements add honor and luster to her name. This old institution, hallowed by the sacred memories of a Du Bois and a Brute, these sun-kissed hills, hoary with ancestral age, over which you were wont to roam, your beloved professors, college associates and dear friends, all acclaim to you today success, God-speed and loving benediction.

Address To Cardinal. After gracefully expressing to the Cardinal due appreciation of the honor conferred upon the College by his presence, Leroy F. Goldsborough in the course of his address said: "For over 50 years Cardinal Gibbons has been honoring and promoting Christianity by his steadfast faith his brilliant intellect, and his wonderful insight into questions that affect the welfare of the world not only in matters ecclesiastical, but in civil affairs.

"From the sun-kist shores of the Pacific to the shelving beach of the Atlantic, the name of Cardinal Gibbons is known and revered. His is a name that is synonymous with patriotism at the mention of which arise in the heart of non Catholics and Catholics alike the deepest feelings of respect and reverence.

"For over half a century His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons has been a cloud by day, elevating the hearts of suffering humanity heavenward—and a pillar of fire by night, guiding the life of our nation from a desert of social unrest into the Promised Land of Righteousness and Peace.

"Today, he is just as vitally interested in the welfare of humanity—as he was half a century since. Just as the fruit in the autumn time ripens, becoming more perfect and deepening in color—so our great prelate seems to have advanced steadily—and like the path of the just man, his works are increasing in beauty as the years roll on. To the scholar, the patriot, the priest—to our own James Cardinal Gibbons—ad multos annos.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liverys, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

THE "MOUNTAIN"—PROGRESS.

"We should so live and labor in our time that what came to us as seed may go to the next generation as blossom, and that what came to us as blossom may go to them as fruit. This is what we mean by progress."

The foregoing definition would seem to be backed by clear-thinking and accuracy. But a world of men who do not think and are not accurate has come to look upon anything changed as something that has progressed. To an unfortunately large number of persons a change is progress. To them it is not known or it is not admitted that the most notable achievements recorded in history have been the result of years of tireless labor.

When a change is made and time smiles success upon it, the world is wont to shower words of praise on the genius who wrought the change. But it is quite possible that the man who plods and ploughs to blossom the seeds planted by another deserves as much approbation as his contemporary who turned failure into success by a well-planned change. An unwise fate has ordained that the one should labor unknown, while the other rises to heralded heights.

One hundred and eight years ago the Rev. John Dubois planted the sacred seeds of education in Emmitsburg. The event was not hailed with joy by an enthusiastic press. Success, if any were to come, would be slow and laborious. But the men who sent the first showers of toil on the seeds of education sown by the founders of Mt. St. Mary's College were not of the kind to falter or turn back from a high resolve and worthy purpose. They came to the little college at the foot of a stately mountain to live and labor and die. When they passed away new faces came to add their offering of time and love. Each one of them did something for the college, each left an indelible impress, a priceless heritage to the next generation; and presently it was evident that the college was growing.

The early graduates of Mt. St. Mary's had their fill at the fountain of learning when the waters were troubled and shallow in comparison with those sipped by the present generation of students. They had to grow with the college, they had to progress with the men who were striving for progress in Catholic education, and they also had to suffer with those giants who refused to face defeat. These graduates of a century ago must have a high place in the history of the Mountain. They found in Emmitsburg learning and love and character; and they left a little of each to be enjoyed by those who came after them.

A seed properly sown and nourished must grow to full bloom. But the labor is not over when the blossom is full. It must be preserved, it must be saved from the dissipation of the elements, it must be made to bear fruit. The men who accomplished these things for Mt. St. Mary's are not unknown to us. The names of O'Hara, Flynn and Bradley are as golden to a new generation as are those of Dubois, Brute, McCaffrey, McCloskey, Watterson and Byrne, and to the men of another century. Progress is associated with all the names; it is everywhere lasting and wholesome. The graduates of the present decade need not be reminded of what Monsignor Bradley has done for their Alma Mater. It lives and smiles in the stones which are the college. It echoes in the corridors of the Seminary Building, in the chancel of the magnificent chapel, in the noisy riveting of steel girders which raise a new minim building.

The men who have looked to the progress of Mt. St. Mary's are not without their reward. It is the satisfaction which comes to those who do things for the youth, who chase the clouds of ignorance from the youthful horizon, who live in the lives of the boys whose characters they formed and nourished. They are not hailed as geniuses by a hero-worshipping world, they have not the wasping crowd who follow the man who rises suddenly; but they have the love, the respect and the encouragement of those thousands who found their college a home as well as an institution of learning. Progress at Mt. St. Mary's has not meant a change. The old graduate can come back to his Alma Mater to find the same hearty welcome, the same Mountain spirit, the same democratic element which he left as a boy. The progress of Mt. St. Mary's is in her curriculum, in her stately edifices, in her makers of the past and present and in her sons. Progress at Mt. St. Mary's is unmistakable, lasting and wholesome.

THE TRUE TEST.

To you who have just left your Alma Mater, to you Graduates of Mount Saint Mary's College, we extend our felicitations and, even at the risk of possible criticism for overstepping our province, we, in the friendly spirit of interest, only, bid you heed an admonition of a Prince of the Church, Cardinal Gibbons, who, sometime ago, in a brochure entitled, "True Manhood," said, "The true test of ultimate triumph lies in the fulfillment of duty."

You are optimists—graduates ever are—and well for the world it is that you and all who at the close of a college career receive diplomas, rightly look upon those parchments as commissions to enter chosen fields of action and in them win distinction—gain success.

These are days of action. The world is calling for men who are prepared, and never before has the call been louder or more sustained. Sudden and marked are the transformations a few years have brought about, changes that have revolutionized, erupted and readjusted every department of human endeavor.

As in a melting pot, business and professional demand is consuming the dross of every vocation, and for the residuum—for men of sturdy metal whose tensile strength is known—Success is beckoning constantly.

To take the places of these, these to whom in the exigencies of the times, preference has come, is the opportunity held out to the graduate, the specialist of the hour, men whose minds are trained, whose spirit is that of earnestness, of perseverance and courage and in which there is an optimism that recognizes that the fulfillment of duty means ultimate triumph—men whose intellects have been chastened, invigorated, enlarged and rendered accurate by study and cultivation. But this is only a part of the requirement. The rest may be summed up in another quotation from "True Manhood." It is this: "What the times call for is men, sturdy Christian men, endowed with the courage of their convictions. We need men who are controlled by conscience rather than by expediency, men who are guided by principle rather than by popularity, men who are influenced by a sense of duty, and not by self-interest, who are swayed by a spirit of patriotism rather than by a desire of political preferment. Above all, we need men of strong Christian faith who are prepared to uphold their religious convictions in the face of obloquy and popular prejudice. In a word, we need men and women of upright Christian character."

Mount Saint Mary's has taught you this. She has said to you—'for your sake and for hers—'Do your duty in all things; you cannot do more; you should never wish to do less.' Surely, then, will you whom the old "Mountain" has thus tutored go forth upon your careers undaunted, unafraid.

ON A Little Incident in the Recent Russian Drive.—A Cossack soldier, riddled by a bomb of switzer cheese, called his comrade close beside him, as he whispered to him these: "Tell the Czarski that I diedski with his nameski on my lips; that I will him all my debts and all my ivory poker chips."

Another, as he faced a shell of senile custard pie, hollered 'Hellski with the Kaiser—he should be the one to die.' * * * Just then the Czar came forward—Nick, the big bold Cossack "Boss"—and he handed each the Order of the Russian Double Cross.

If we are to believe the Cologne Gazette, Hon. Bill Kaiser will run the German Republican campaign publicity bureau. All "copy" from the Hon. Bill's headquarters is said to be headed Me und Gott und Charlie.

Discomforts of Coaching Days. Posterly will know nothing of the misery their forefathers underwent in the traveling way, and whenever we hear—which we often do—unreasonable grumblings about the absence of trifling luxuries on railroads we are tempted to wish the parties consigned to a good long ride in an old stagecoach. Why, the worst third class that ever was put next the engine is infinitely better than the inside of the best of them used to be, to say nothing of the speed. As to the outsiders of the old coaches, with their roastings, their soakings, their freezings and their smotherings with dust, one cannot but feel that the establishment of railways was a downright prolongation of life.—Surtree (1858).

Theodore Hook and His Chest. Thomas Moore held the post of registrar in the Bermuda government, but he only held it for a few months and left after appointing a deputy. Another famous man of letters, Theodore Hook, held a somewhat similar position in Mauritius, but left suddenly under a cloud, owing to some irregularities with the treasury chest. It is said of this incorrigible joker that on his passage home he was asked by one of the passengers why he was leaving Mauritius and calmly replied that it was owing to "a little trouble with his chest."—Westminster Gazette.

Expensive Lighting. It takes 40,650,000 candle power to light up the outside of the Woolworth building, in New York, every night. Six hundred projector lamps, with reflectors covered with silver—not mercury-filled with nitrogen gas, each consuming 250 watts of current and delivering 67,750 candle power, are used in this illumination, which makes the tower visible twenty miles away.—New York World.

A Silent City. No industry brings the village of Giltthorn, Holland, into touch with the world. It is almost wholly inaccessible except by water, and the inhabitants are shy and keep within doors, betraying not the slightest interest in visitors. Indeed, Giltthorn has been likened, empty and silent in its green picturesqueness, to a place visited in a dream.—Argonaut.

Cleared His Nostril.

The following first aid measure for children who put beans, buttons, gravel and other objects up into their nostrils is given by Dr. David E. Spahr in Farm and Fireside.

"A lady residing in the country called me up late at night and told me in an anxious, agonizing voice that she wanted me to come at once as her baby had a grain of corn in its nose," the doctor writes. "I told her it would not be necessary for me to come if she would do as I bid her. She said the corn was in the left nostril. I told her just to lay the child down on the bed on its back, compress the right nostril with the finger; then, as the baby cried, place her mouth over the baby's mouth and blow hard. In another moment a happy, joyful voice came ringing over the line: "Doctor, we got the corn. It's all right and you don't need to come!"

"Thus I lost my five dollar fee, but made a happy mother.

"This is not a very elegant or perhaps sanitary plan, but I assure you it is speedy and effectual."

Measuring Electricity.

The terms volt, ampere, ohm, watt and farad, met with in works on electricity, mean very little to most people. The volt is the unit of electrical pressure, the ampere the unit of current strength, the ohm the unit of resistance, the watt the unit of electric power, and the least of all known, farad, the unit of electrical capacity.

Current strength is determined by dividing the pressure by the strength; thus the number of amperes of current strength is equal to the number of volts divided by the number of ohms. The watt indicates the amount of electric energy being used when an ampere of current is flowing under a pressure of one volt. However, the term kilowatt, or 1,000 watts, is more generally used. The unit of electrical capacity, the farad, will contain one ampere of current at one volt pressure for one second of time. The farad is divided into a million equal parts, each part termed the microfarad, and this is the term most used in stating electrical capacity.

Japan's Curious Museum.

Probably the very oldest museum in the world is that at Nara, the ancient capital of Japan. It was founded in the year 756 A. D., and all the articles therein are of an earlier date, for, although Nara has gone through all the vicissitudes of the empire, not one new article has been added to the collection. The museum is in safe and careful custody, and its doors are opened only once every year. On that day a committee goes over the collection, tabulates it and compares the list with those made previously. The 3,000 articles in the collection are of lacquer ware, decorative furniture, enamel ware, cambric-like fabrics and of other kinds and are among the very finest of their species that the world has produced. Some come from China and some from Korea, but most of them appear to have been brought from lands further afield.

The Wild Camel of Spain.

Who would imagine that there are wild camels in Spain, and in a part of Spain which is flooded during a great part of the year? Yet the thing is vouched for by the authors of "Unexplored Spain." The explanation is that "the animals were introduced to Spain in 1829 by the Marquis of Villafranca, with the object of employing them in transport and agriculture, as they are commonly used on the opposite shores of Africa. But local difficulties ensued, chiefly arising from the intense fear and repugnance of horses toward camels, which resulted in numerous accidents, and eventually the baetrians were set free in the marisma, where in they have since lived at large, and bred under wholly wild conditions."

Not Willing to Try.

"So you are convinced you could not learn to love me," bleated the disconsolate swain.

"I don't know what I could do if I tried," replied Miss Hibrowe, "but I think you will admit that in these days of woman's emancipation and broadened opportunities a member of the sex ought not to be expected to waste her time in trifles."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

A Shrewd Boy.

"You are a fine little fellow."

"Yessir."

"And may be president some day."

"That's right, sir. And a quarter invested now might arouse a gratitude that might get you an important office when that time arrives."—Kansas City Journal.

Yourself.

If you want to be miserable think about yourself—about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay to you and what people think of you.—Charles Kingsley.

Hit the Same Way.

"Professor Jones has no right to teach. He doesn't understand his subject, and he can't explain."

"Yeah; I know. He gave me a low mark too."—Exchange.

Answer it.

"Little Willie (who is of a painfully inquiring turn of mind)—Mamma, tell me, do mosquitoes bite us because they like us or because they don't like us?"

Cuffs and the Launderess.

Why are laundry women the most forgiving of their sex? Because the more cuffs you give them the more they will do for you.

The great soul of this world is just—Carlyle.

"Kissing the Book."

When did "kissing the book" come to be recognized as a part of the English oath? Master William Thorpe, a priest, who was tried for heresy before the archbishop of Canterbury in 1407, has in an account of his own trial related a conversation between a "man of law" and a "master of divinity" on the subject of oaths. The man of law spoke of a witness merely laying his hand on the book, whereupon the master of divinity said, "He that chargeth him to lay his hand thus upon the book, touching it and swearing by it, and kissing it, promising in this form to do this thing, will say and witness that he that toucheth thus a book and kisseth it hath sworn upon that book." So the practice is at least 500 years old.

"Kissing the book" must have been a familiar practice in Shakespeare's day, for in "The Tempest" there is more than one jocular reference to it. "Swear by this bottle how thou camest hither," says Stephano to Trinculo. "Here, kiss the book," offering him his bottle of sack. There is also legal proof that the practice was well known in the seventeenth century.—London Opinion.

Being the Vice President.

"Isn't it easy to be a vice president?" remarked a young woman who had been sitting in one of the galleries for some time watching the senate work. "Cinch," colloquially responded her escort.

But senators know differently, for they are fully aware of what it means to sit hour by hour and pilot their august body through the parliamentary jungles which frequently are confronted. The rules for legislative procedure in the United States senate are practically no rules at all, paradoxical as it may seem. The course of the upper house is guided largely upon precedent and past rulings of vice presidents, and as a consequence the presiding officer must be thoroughly conversant with what his predecessors have done from the time the nation was born. This means long hours of study and extensive reading.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Antiquity of the Ballet.

Strictly defined, the ballet is properly a theatrical exhibition of the art of dancing in its highest perfection, complying generally with the rules of the drama as to its composition and form. It was in existence in Italy as far back as A. D. 1500, the court of Turin in that day making especial use of it and the royal family and nobles taking part in it. The ballet was first introduced in France in the reign of Louis XIII., and both that monarch and Louis XIV. occasionally took part in its dances. About the year 1700 women made their first appearance in the ballet, which up to that time had been performed exclusively by men, as was the case also with plays and operas, but no woman ballet dancer of any note appeared until 1790.

Leggings of the Marines.

The stout leggings worn by members of the United States marine corps are not a purely decorative adjunct to their very natty uniforms, as popularly supposed by civilians, but are a protection for the men against tropical diseases while in foreign service, naval surgeons say. Many of the most dangerous tropical diseases are transmitted by the bites of insects. Among these are malaria, yellow fever, bubonic plague, hookworm, elephantiasis and tropical ulcer. Fleas and mosquitoes are the prime carriers, and they make their first attack upon the ankles, thence working their way over the whole body. The leggings worn by the United States marines afford splendid protection to the ankles against fleas, mosquitoes and infected dirt.

Shakespeare Altered.

A portable theater had been pitched in an out of the way spot where the prospective theatrical patrons were unsophisticated in matters dramatic. The players possessed the costumes for "Hamlet," and Shakespeare's tragedy was selected for representation. It then occurred to the proprietors of the show that the name might not attract, so they altered the title to "How the Stepmother Was Paid Out!"—London Mail.

A Virtue Misplaced.

"I ordered this steak not well done," said the impatient guest. "I know it," answered the intellectual waiter. "But the cook is one of those people who believe that no matter how small a thing is it should be well done."

New Version.

Mother was hacking at the fatted calf when the prodigal clumped into the kitchen. "A-w, say, maw," he grumbled, "lay off the veal and give us a little spring lamb. These occasions don't happen every day."—Buffalo Express.

Big Balance on Hand.

"Jack, I have a notion to give you a piece of my mind."

"You could do that, Juliet, and still have quite a surplus."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

High Art.

Patience—They say that is a spurious painting. Patrice—Really! It looks like a watercolor to me.—Yonkers Statesman.

A Question of Gifts.

"Why did you deliberately make an enemy of your old friend Jinks?" "Because he is to be married next month."

People seldom improve when they have no other model but themselves to pattern after.—Goldsmith.

WIFE SPOILS HIS SYSTEM.

Cleveland (O.) Man Wears His Shirts Any Old Way Now.

Cleveland, O.—One Cleveland man wears his shirts in chronological order—that is, if he buys a new shirt he tags it with his initials, numbers it and places it at the bottom of the pile. And, no matter how much he likes it, he does not wear it until it comes out at the top of the pile. He went into wordy detail about the economy of his system, and he added that he arranged his socks and underwear in the same manner.

He was told that he would meet the woman of his dreams some fine day and that she would knock the spots out of his system; that she would admire a particular shirt, caress its delicate stripes lovingly and ask why he didn't send it to the laundry as soon as it was soiled and wear it as soon as it got back, and he would buy other shirts like it, and he would forget the system.

"Don't you believe it," he said. "The person doesn't live who could upset my system."

A few days ago he was hurrying to catch a car, and he didn't have time to explain. He only shouted over his shoulder jubilantly, "I'm wearing 'em every which way."

ASLEEP BEFORE MARRIAGE.

Secured a License and Was Then Locked in Office.

Lawrenceburg, Ind.—Edward L. Kuhn, aged forty-five, owner of a general merchandise store in Clay township, and Mrs. Anna Moore Davis, aged forty-five, a dressmaker of the same neighborhood, were married at the parsonage of the First Baptist church by the Rev. Omer W. Bowman, the pastor, but not at the time they planned.

Mr. Kuhn came to this city in an automobile, and the bride to be came on a late train. While waiting for Mrs. Davis Mr. Kuhn obtained a marriage license; then he sat down in the private office of the circuit court clerk and went to sleep. When the day's work was done James G. McKinney, the clerk, and his deputies, not noticing Mr. Kuhn, locked the office and went home. Mr. Kuhn awakened several hours later and found he was in the dark, locked in the office. He shouted for help several times and finally attracted the attention of Daniel E. McKennie, the sheriff, who released him. Mr. Kuhn found Mrs. Davis, who was searching the city for him, and they were married.

SAVED CHICKS' LIVES.

Telegrapher Made a Feather Duster Substitute For a Hen.

Defiance, O.—Using a feather duster as a brooder to substitute for a cannibal hen, "Shorty" Eberle saved the lives of some of his chicks.

When Eberle is not busy as manager of the Postal Telegraph company he devotes his time to raising fancy chickens. When one of his hens was not busy scratching she gave her time to digesting some of the brood she had recently hatched.

Eberle noticed the chicks began to disappear. One by one they went until he discovered the hen's appetite was stronger than her motherly love. A heavy ration of ground bone and hamburger steak didn't appease her. She ate another.

Then, with a cunning he didn't suspect himself, he threw the hen out, bought a big feather duster and suspended it in the coop. The chicks struggle among the feathers and are perfectly content with their inanimate mother.

SEES SIGHTS AT SEVENTY.

Woman, Former Slave, Gets First Knowledge of Modern Inventions.

Columbus, O.—Mrs. Emily Booker, seventy years of age, a former slave in Columbus visiting relatives, for the first time saw an electric car, an elevator, a moving picture show and a building more than two stories in height.

Her relatives gave her the first knowledge she had that a war is in progress in Europe. Mrs. Booker's home is near North Middleton, Ky., thirty miles from a railroad and almost as far from a highway.

Once, several years ago, she saw a party of tourists in an automobile which had strayed from the road through the wilderness in which she has lived all her life.

RATTLESNAKES USE RAFTS.

Save Themselves From Floods and Reach Islands.

Austin, Tex.—J. C. Herring of Rockport, a ranchman of the coast country, says when heavy rises come out of the Guadalupe and other Texas rivers large rafts of drift are washed into the bay and rattlesnakes are often seen on them.

This driftwood goes ashore on the islands, and that starts the snakes. They are caught in the drift meshes on the mainland and cling to the rafts as they are washed down stream and into the bays. Mr. Herring has killed them on such occasions.

At one time there were no jack rabbits on these islands, but now there are thousands.

Three Cats Mummified.

Shoals, Ind.—When moving a house in the business district of town, workmen found the bodies of three cats which were mummified. The cats evidently died under the dwelling, but the bodies had not decayed. The house had been occupied by one family for forty years.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN D. KANE.

Mrs. Mary E. Kane, wife of John D. Kane, died at her home on Carlisle St., Gettysburg, last Wednesday night after a lingering illness from dropsy. She was aged about 62 years.

Mrs. Kane was born in Buchanan Valley and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Will. After her marriage to Mr. Kane they continued to reside in Franklin township for a number of years and for several years were residents of Emmitsburg.

Besides her husband Mrs. Kane leaves the following children: Mrs. C. Fox, Baltimore; Frank Kane, Hanover; Herman Kane, Baltimore; and Miss Mabel Kane, at home.

The funeral services were held last Saturday morning at Taneytown. Interment was made in Taneytown.

MRS. EDWARD E. KRISE.

Mrs. Amanda America, wife of Edward E. Krise, died last Saturday at her home near Creagerstown, of heart trouble and dropsy, aged 67 years.

She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Ida Ramsburg, near Creagerstown; Mrs. Charles Stover, near New Midway; Miss Anna Krise, at home; Mrs. Rhoda Derr, near Walkersville; Wilbur Krise, Woodboro; Andrew Krise, near New Midway; Edward Krise, Frederick. One brother, J. A. Hankey, of Creagerstown, also survives.

The funeral took place Monday morning at Creagerstown.

School Boards Meet in Joint Session.

The superintendents of schools and members of the school board of Montgomery county met in joint session with the Frederick county authorities in the School Commissioners' office in the Court House last week and took up the matter of providing for a joint school in the Sugar Loaf Mountains, near Dickerson, where both Frederick and Montgomery county students will attend.

After some discussion a resolution was passed authorizing the superintendents to visit the locality make a survey of the surroundings and report back at another joint meeting, which will be held in the near future.

ST. JOSEPH'S NUMBER.

Following its usual custom, the THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE will issue the St. Joseph's number next week. That issue will contain a full and authentic account of the various interesting events at St. Joseph's during Commencement week, together with a complete write up of the Commencement proper.

Many Guests on the Mountain.

Everything around Blue Ridge Summit is a scene of much activity. The city people occupying cottages around the Summit, Monterey, Charmian, have about all arrived, and the various hotels and cottages are adding new guests each day.

The season at Pen Mar opened last Saturday, and Prof. Bohl, the talented leader of the Pen Mar orchestra, says the indications are for a very good season.

THE AWARDING OF HONORS

AT ST. EUPHEMIA'S SCHOOL Two Awarded Diplomas And Gold Medals For Completing Course.—Other Premiums and Prizes Given.

Owing to an epidemic of measles, the Annual Commencement of St. Euphemia's School was not held on Tuesday morning as originally planned.

On Monday morning the pupils of the School assembled in the Hall and in the presence of the Sisters were awarded the following honors by Rev. J. O. Hayden, pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

For having completed the prescribed course of study of St. Euphemia's Parochial School, Diploma and Gold Medal awarded to Miss Gertrude Curtis Ryan and Miss Mary Bernadette Wivell.

Prize for Christian Doctrine awarded to Miss Ruth Wivell. Premiums for Scholarship, Ninth Grade, Miss Gertrude Wivell; Eighth Grade, Miss Mariana Roddy; Seventh Grade, Miss Dorothy Roddy; Sixth Grade, Master Mark Breichner; Fifth Grade, Miss Mary Zurgable; Fourth Grade, Miss Marie Kelly; Third Grade, Miss Elvira LITTLE.

American Penman Diplomas for excellence in Rapid Muscular Movement awarded to, Misses Gertrude Kreis, Marguerite Saffer, Mary Eckenrode, Catharine Seltzer, Mary Clare Boyle, Agnes Rosensteel; Masters Bernard Walter, Jacob Baker, Edward Bowling, Lawrence Coyle, Franklin Spalding.

The Palmer Method Diploma for Proficiency in Rapid Legible Business Writing, awarded to Misses Mariana and Dorothy Roddy and Master Lawrence Coyle.

Gold Medal for having completed the Graded Course in Music awarded to Miss Marguerite Saffer. Certificates for Music awarded to, Miss Margaret Jennings, Helen Rider, Elizabeth Mitchell, Dorothy Roddy, Viola Orndorff, Mariana Roddy, Agnes Rosensteel and Grace Welty.

Prizes for Composition donated by Mr. Sterling Galt for best Essay on "Vocation and Avocation," First prize awarded to Miss Gertrude Ryan; Second Prize awarded to Miss Mary Eckenrode; Third Prize awarded to Miss Marguerite Saffer.

Prizes for Composition donated by Mr. F. J. Welty, of Philadelphia, for the best Essay on "Three Best Things in Emmitsburg," First Prize awarded to Miss Gertrude Ryan; Second Prize awarded to Miss Mary Bernadette Wivell; Third Prize awarded to Miss Marguerite Saffer.

A Very Noted Musician Here. Dr. Muck, of Boston and several other places (not the conductor of the Boston Symphony, however) arrived in town Tuesday, accompanied by seventy-five pieces—all component parts of himself. The Doctor is "some" violinist; also some composer. He is too modest to speak of his own works, but, in looking over "Who's Who" it was discovered that this Dr. Muck is responsible for that masterpiece (authorship heretofore unknown) entitled "The Bean Soup Submarine," in Z flat major, for five hands and a section bass, also the Wop Opera, "Bzu Sibinski Olla Kbdz." The orchestration calls for 40 bass drums, 75 French horns, a beer opener and two shoe horns. This accounts, in a measure, for so little knowledge, on the part of the public, of this rare work. Dr. Muck may spend some time here.

Slayer of Daywalt Refused Pardon. Senator John M. Hoke, of Chambersburg, appeared before the Board of Pardons in Harrisburg, Wednesday morning and pleaded for the release from the penitentiary of William Barnes, who killed Policeman Daywalt in Waynesboro, in 1914. Senator Hoke made an earnest plea for Barnes' freedom, its basis being the confession of the brother who was killed, and the fact that his wife and family need him as a provider, but the plea did not seem to affect the Board of Pardons, Lieutenant Governor McClain calling attention to a letter from Barnes' wife's father saying that he would provide for the wife as he has done right along.

A petition against the release of Barnes was circulated in his home community had many signers. Evidently the prisoner is not in favor at his old home, residents of that section not having forgotten the wild escapades of this man and his brother, who was killed by a member of the State constabulary. Policeman Daywalt was formerly of Emmitsburg and was an efficient member of the Waynesboro police force.

Remodeling Building. The old public school building, Thurmont, purchased sometime ago by the Union Manufacturing Company, of Frederick, is now being remodeled. The partitions in the building are being taken out, the stairway changed and the building fitted with machinery for the manufacture of hosiery. The company will move into their new quarters this coming fall. A branch of the main plant is also located in Emmitsburg.

Takes Part in Thurmont Play. Mr. Charles, D. Gillelan of Emmitsburg, a student at the Thurmont High School took a prominent part in "The Hoodoo," a bright comedy given in the Town Hall, Thurmont last Friday evening. A large crowd attended despite the inclement weather.

Three Hurt in Runaway.

Three were injured and several automobile parties, lunching along the roadside, made narrow escapes from being run down Sunday afternoon, Catoctin Furnace, when the colt of Lewis Martz, Lewistown, attached to a buggy, shied, became frightened and made a mad dash up the State road with Martz harging to the bridle reins and two girls Daisy Grushon and Edna Cline, of Catoctin Furnace sitting in the buggy. The flight of the animal was checked for a few seconds when the buggy which swung from one side of the road to the other crashed into the automobile of R. W. Barker, Washington, throwing the two girls from the buggy.

Martz who was dragged for at least 200 yards was badly cut and bruised about the body. Daisy Grushon, daughter of James Grushon, near Catoctin Furnace, is seriously injured sustaining cuts about the head. Miss Cline, daughter of Peter Cline was cut and bruised about the face.

The two girls were going to a church service when they stopped Martz, who was driving, and asked him to drive them there. He knew his horse was skittish, and went to the head of the animal and there held it until the girls climbed in. It was then that it started on its mad dash.

165 FOOT FLAGPOLE CARRIED FROM COAST

Makes Trip on Four Large Flat Cars, and Freight Alone Is $1,550.

New York.—A 165 foot flagpole for Joseph T. Lilly's estate at Northport, N. Y., arrived at Hoboken. It came from near Tacoma, Wash., on four large flat cars. The freight charge was $1,550.

The pole, which is twenty-eight inches through at the base, is from an Oregon fir tree which stood 300 feet high. The wood is beautifully grained. On one side there is not a single knot. It will be set in a concrete base fifteen feet underground and will be surmounted by a weather vane thirty feet across. The flag will be 30 by 50 feet.

It will be the tallest flagpole along the Atlantic coast. Mr. Lilly's estate is 200 feet above sea level, and the flag will be visible for most of the length of Long Island.

BURGLARS FOX TROT AND LUNCH BEFORE LOOTING

Neighbors in the Apartment House Thought Owners Were Having a Party.

Minneapolis.—Daylight burglars made merry in the home of Mrs. C. Aubrey, on the second floor of 1105 East Lake street, on their recent visit.

They played several records on the phonograph. Two of the numbers were dance selections, and the visitors danced. They even moved heavy furniture around to make room for the fox trotting.

Then they served lunch, cleaning up most of the provisions in the larder.

The music, the dancing, the moving of furniture and the rattle of plates and silver were heard all through the apartment building. Their boldness apparently saved the burglars from detection, for the neighbors thought members of the Aubrey family were home and were having a party and gave the matter no further attention until Mrs. Aubrey returned at 6 p. m. and found her flat ransacked.

Two gold watches, $4 in change and some clothing were part of the loot taken.

On the first floor of the building were Mrs. Mary Gilbert and her daughter Louise. Mrs. Gilbert is partially deaf, but even she heard the noise made by the robbers.

PIPE 140 YEARS OLD.

Hand Carved, With "Yorktown, '76," Engraved on Bowl—Found In 1862. Boise, Ida.—Isaiah Axe of this place is the owner of a relic of unusual interest.

It is a laurel wood pipe that Mr. Axe, then a Union soldier serving in an Indiana regiment, picked up on the battlefield at Culpeper in 1862. It is hand carved, with a silver mounting. Around the upper edge of the bowl is engraved "Yorktown, '76." Below is the American eagle, with the banner on its breast, and under the curve of the pipe a skull and crossbones.

Mr. Axe has had engraved "1862" in the banner to denote the year he found it. If the pipe was carved as denoted by the original inscription it is 140 years old.

TWO MICE CAUSE PANIC.

Women in Car Become Confused, and Many Are Injured.

Portland, Ore.—Forty high school girls, stenographers and other women on their way to Portland were thrown into a panic when two mice invaded a Sellwood street car.

In the confusion two girls fainted, several tried to leap from the car, and a number sustained bruises and bad scratches. After five minutes of feminine screaming, mostly from safe places on the tops of seats, two men caught the mice and the car moved on.

The mice were discovered on the floor of the car by a schoolgirl, who screamed and led the general scramble for places on top of the seats, thus starting the panic.

JUST STEALS A BATH.

Then He Changes Clothing, Takes a Meal and Departs.

St. Louis.—"The loot consisted of a bath, a meal and an outfit of clothing," according to the report made to the police by Lee Henderson, sexton of Grace church.

Henderson lives in the basement of the church. He complained that during his absence a thief stole into his apartment and took a bath—took it bodily—an outfit of clothing, comprising everything that a man wears, and departed after cooking a meal in Henderson's kitchen.

REPLY AFTER THREE YEARS.

High School Boy Tossed Ketchup Bottle Containing Note Into River.

Winona, Minn.—Three years ago William Wilkins of Winona, a high school boy, tossed a ketchup bottle containing a note into the river while camping at West Newton, north of here. The note read:

This was tossed overboard in the hope that the finder might correspond. Wilkins has just received a reply. It was signed by Marguerite De Brazier of West La Crosse, Wis., thirty miles away.

Giving Your Boy The Right Kind of Clothes

Don't buy poorly made cheap clothing. It is not economical. Get the most for your money. Your boy will make the right kind of an appearance when the quality of making backs up the price you pay. XTRAGOOD has that particular workmanship which saves you the mending and sewing that low priced clothing brings upon you. Buttons will come off, of course, but Xtragoood has better silk thread and buttons than other boys' clothing. Newer models, better styles

All Sizes $5.00 to $8.00

Your Children Reflect the Spirit of Your Home

Your pride in your home is reflected in your children. Its attractiveness appeals even more strongly to them than to you and holds them closer to the home.

A bright, cherry home makes bright, happy children. Build up the right home environment, and it will serve to make them better men and women to bless your old age.

The furnishings of your home need not be expensive, nor luxurious—comfort, service, and neatness must be the prime requisites, and throughout it all must breathe simplicity, cheer and homelikeness.

Our showing of household furniture will suggest how you can make your home attractive, comfortable, and cheery, and yet spend very little compared with the satisfaction in real home coziness you and yours will enjoy.
