

The Fly Is the Enemy of the World!

Kill the Winter Fly and Swat the Summer Fly. They Spread Disease and Death.

Protect the Baby And Your Food

STORES which sell meat, groceries or fruit should not tolerate flies. Fighting them is difficult, but conscientious attempts should be made to keep these disease bearing insects away from human food, the same conscientious efforts that are made by a mother to keep flies from the baby and its milk bottle. Every possible means should be employed to exclude flies from creameries.

Shrapnel For Use In the Big Fight Against the Fly

ETHER man must kill the fly or the fly will kill the man. If there is no dirt and no filth, there will be no flies, and there will be fewer dead babies if there are no flies.

Wherever the fly goes disease and death follow. War to the death should be declared upon the little pest. His touch may put you in your grave.

There was a man in our town, And he was very wise. He helped to keep the typhoid down, By swatting all the flies.

Little flies and little children cannot dwell in the same habitation. If the first aren't killed the second probably will be.

Make a renewed effort to fortify your home against the deadly housefly. By doing this you will check all dangers of having typhoid fever invading your home. During warm weather flies desert the garbage cans and filth deposits and invade your home in increasing numbers, just when they are most apt to be reeking with the germs of dangerous diseases.

Cleanliness offers a solution for almost every sanitary problem. It will do more than anything else to solve the fly problem.

Infantile Paralysis Is Spread by the Stable Flies

FARM AND FIRESIDE declares that stable flies, which differ somewhat from houseflies, are exceedingly dangerous. Following is an extract from an article which contains many interesting and important facts about stable flies:

Most insects are destructive in their earlier stages, but these flies do most damage when full grown. They bite through the skin and suck the blood of warm blooded animals, including man. After piercing the skin the fly gorges itself with blood, commonly staying in position, until full fed for the time, unless brushed off. In such a case it flies to another animal. In this way the fly may carry disease germs quickly from the blood of one creature to the blood of another.

After a full meal the fly usually rests a few hours on a leaf or board, digesting it, before it is ready for another attack. It seems to take two meals a day when it can get them, and it is generally successful.

It has been believed for years that this fly is an active agent in spreading the germs of anthrax and glanders. Lately it has been convicted of being the carrier of the dreaded infantile paralysis, which has long baffled the doctors by the mystery of its appearance and the sudden deadliness with which it comes.

FLIES are carriers of disease seed. Live and breed in all kinds of filth. Infect food and drink by germ laden feet. Each female fly can lay 150 eggs. Should be kept out of dwellings.

Facts About the Deadly Fly

FLIES breed in manure and filth. Flies carry disease germs on their feet. Flies leave the disease germs on food, dishes, etc. Thousands of babies and grownups are killed in this way by flies.

Dates For Pen Mar Reunions.

Reunions of the Reformed, Lutheran and Presbyterian churches, Odd Fellows and Knights of Columbus are among the big events scheduled for Pen Mar Park this summer.

Not in the history of the park have so many excursions by church and business organizations and lodges been booked as this summer. The following have thus far been scheduled: Reformed Church, July 20; Lutheran Church, July 27; Presbyterian Church, August 3; Odd Fellows of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and District of Columbia, August 10. Knights of Columbus, Baltimore, August 17; Grace Lutheran League, July 26; Everybody's Day, August 31.

President Jacob W. Hook, of the Old Town Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, Baltimore, announces that the organization will have its annual outing at Pen Mar in August.

You've Had The Experience.

Each year when summer comes around And you are feeling like a hound, The flies come swarming sure as fate And do the tango on your pate. They come all sizes, styles and shapes, More trouble than a thousand apes And worse than forty kind of fleas They bite your tired aching knees. You cannot think, you cannot read, But only cuss and scratch and bleed— You lose your sense of self-respect— Your head is gone and you are wrecked. And when at meal time in despair You fain would try a bill of fare, The bally flies will loop the loop And take a header for your soup. At night when you would pull the brakes To rest your bones and cure your aches, They form a cussed battle line And play croquet along your spine. At last your nerves are all unstrung— You hate to own that you are stung; And running like you sure were bugs, You spank the walls and chairs and rugs, But you can rave and tear your clothes And skin your shins and break your nose, And swat three hundred million score But still there are a billion more.

OUR VALLEY HOME.

O' fairy haze on mountain brooding Like subtlest gleam of blue bird's wing, Within its fragile mass is woven The faint, fond dreams of perfect things. The mist is rising, ever rising, The gray and blue are face to face; The faint tints deep'ning, ever deep'ning Triumph at last in heaven's grace.

So on our heart is a dream-haze hanging, O'erspread by loving angels, fair; 'Twas gently woven in our Valley, Of holiest ideals garnered there.

Why Hughes Wears a Beard.

One of the elements which have supported the popular conception of Hughes's aloofness and austerity is his beard, says the Detroit News. Years ago, in youth, Hughes figured in a runaway accident. He recovered completely, but a long scar on his cheek remained. Soon after that the beard appeared—and it has been doing its kindly duty ever since.

TRIBUTE TO SISTER ANTONIA "MERCEDES."

(Read by Anne Theodore Brown A. B. at the St. Joseph's Alumnae Meeting June 20, 1916.)

If there are moments when the human soul struggling with a sacred emotion finds only silence to express her sentiments, surely this is such a moment, for the humble Sister of Mercy would cry out: "My life, my work, be hid." All the world should know thy deeds for in them the young will find springs of inspiration to holier and higher ideals.

Sister Antonia, known as the poet, "Mercedes," and the Catholic writer, "Rev. Richard W. Alexander," was a loyal St. Joseph's alumna whom the Spouse called to her eternal reward in the early part of June, 1916.

The following tribute was penned by one who was intimately associated with Sister Antonia: "Fine manners are the mantle of fair minds." Many years ago I met Sr. Antonia and time cannot dim that first impression of her grace and womanly charm. Engaged with Bishop James O'Connor of Omaha, Nebraska, and Mother Catherine Drexel, then preparing for the great work for the Indians and Negroes, Sister Antonia left her distinguished guests to give a smiling welcome to an unknown school girl. Aside from mental and spiritual attainments of a high order, my lasting impression will be that Sister Antonia was a Lady, an old fashioned word, rather tabooed in the lexicon of Advanced Feminism.

A few months ago acknowledging a most favorable criticism of her stories in The London Tablet which I had the pleasure of sending Sister Antonia, I received a note of characteristic sweetness stating her only object in writing was to win souls to 'The God of her heart,' now her portion forever.

"Then let not for her 'Requiem' moan Let rather 'Te Deum' burst forth its grand tone. Her spirit, too noble, through earth's walks to roam, Now basks in the sunshine of God's blessed Home!"

Ask Reopening of Schools.

Three delegations appeared before the School Commissioners Wednesday at the regular meeting and urged the reopening of the Adamstown high school, closed two years ago; the Annandale public school, near Emmitsburg closed two years ago, and the Eckers public school, near Libertytown. The commissioners took no action.

The school at Annandale was closed on a petition signed by 60 per cent. of the patrons of the school.

The School Commissioners adopted the policy of closing schools where desired and practicable in view of the fact that pupils have a greater opportunity to specialize in attending the larger. They felt that by consolidating and closing various schools better results could be obtained.

How Presidents are Elected.

Each state is entitled to and elects presidential electors equal in number to its Senators and Representatives in Congress combined. These electors when chosen meet at their respective state capitols and ballot for President and Vice-President. One of their number is then chosen as messenger to convey the sealed certificate showing the result of the balloting to Washington, where he delivers it to the presiding officer of the Senate. When the returns from all of the states have been received, the President of the Senate, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, opens the certificates, and the votes for President are counted and the result announced. The person having the highest number of votes for President, providing such number is a majority of all the votes cast, is declared to be the President elect.

The President is inaugurated on the 4th of March following and takes the oath of office as follows: "I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

No person is eligible to the office of President unless he is a natural born citizen of the United States and has attained the age of thirty-five years.

THE FOURTH OF JULY LOCALLY

Annual Picnic Draws a Large Crowd.—Parade of Firemen.—Two Games of Ball.—All Enjoyed Themselves.—Weather Ideal.

The Fourth of July is essentially a home day for Emmitsburg. All engagements to out of town affairs are called off and every family joins in the jollification incident to the big picnic held under the auspices of the Vigilant Hose Company. There is always a crowd from the outside, but this year the number who came from neighboring towns and the surrounding country seemed bigger than usual.

Early in the morning the streets of Emmitsburg presented a gala appearance. Flags and bunting were displayed on the majority of buildings and every automobile, locally owned or belonging to visitors, was decked out in color in honor of the occasion. The streets were lined with people when the parade started. The column formed at Firemen's Hall and traversed the usual route, Green Street to Main Street, Frederick Street to Firemen's Field. First came the Emmitsburg Cornet Band, behind which, marched with only a little less vigor than in '65, what remained of the Grand Army "Boys" of this community. They carried the guns borne by them in the Civil War and displayed a sign "All that are left. 1861-1916." A detachment of firemen in dress uniform followed, heading the division comprising the apparatus of the Hose Company.

The second division was headed by the Double Pipe Creek Band and comprised a detachment of Firemen, horsemen, floats and gaily draped automobiles. A feature of the parade was the large contingent of children in cars, each child enthusiastically waving the National Emblem, and the grotesque pony sulky containing two black-faced artists, "man and wife," in original costume. On the rear of the equipage floated a banner upon which was inscribed "Please excuse our dust"—"We didn't raise our boy to be a soldier."

The crowd followed the band to the grounds where, at 10 o'clock, the junior baseball teams, "Uptown" and "Downtown," played a thrilling ten inning game, the victory going to the Downtown Club. The much coveted prize for this contest was a ten dollar gold piece. No game that has been played on the local diamond ever stirred up more enthusiasm than did this. Each team had its "rooters" and there was plenty of applause from the "fans" for each good play.

John Brooke Boyle, who is a miniature replica of "Cy" Falkenburg, twirled for the Down Town Club. He had all kinds of smoke, steam, pep and everything that a pitcher should have; and moreover the works in his head were all oiled up for the occasion. He threw the ball to the proper base at all times and he fielded everything that came in his direction. When the batter itched for an inshoot, what he got was something else. Dorsey Boyle, catcher, wrapped up in his mitt all the pieces that the several "Ty" Cobbs didn't chip off. He wrapped up a heap of 'em too.

Murray Poulson, who covered first, had that southpaw of his working like a piston rod. He annexed everything that came down the line, including two chimney swallows that flew off a neighboring roof and were making for the woods—even they couldn't get by.

The infield and outfield were on their toes continuously. A few were on their backs too, when some hot ones came their way; and as for sliding—"slide" was the first name of nearly everybody in the aggregation. When they weren't sliding they were trying to stand on their feet—some on their heads—and at the most exciting period of the setto the diamond looked like a Texas ant hill that had been kicked by a broncho. As an actual fact there were about two hundred and fifty runs made in this game, but the gentleman who was operating the adding machine broke the lever when he was cranking up and the sum total on the official score showed 8-7, with an extra inning for good measure.

The line up for the Down Town Club was as follows:

Dorsey Boyle, C; John Brooke Boyle, P; Murray Poulson, 1st; Guy Hartdagen, 2nd; George Ashbaugh, 3rd; Carroll Poulson, SS; Harold Glass, L.F.; Henry Gerkin, C.F.; Merl Baker, R.F.

For Up Town, William Hays pitched—and he did, too. Everytime he delivered one of his cuspidor floats the batter who faced him saved himself from drowning only by paddling himself off the plate with his stick. This accounted for the wind shield worn by James Little, who held on to the ball like a Jew peddler does to a nickel. If anybody thinks that Dick Biggs can't pull 'em in out of the sky he's mistaken. He not only covered first but two or three acres of ground around him, and "they all looked alike" to him.

This game demonstrated that there are more ways than one to stop a ball. Jesse Stone's one idea was to get the runner before he got to first, and all he didn't stop with his hands he retarded with other parts of his anatomy. If the series of assists credited to him were put in the box opposite his name in the tabulated score, the official sheet would look like a piece of German music that had been promenade upon by several thousand blow flies. And how about that double play, Stone to Moser to Biggs? "Wib" was all over the infield and he kicked up the dust like a Ford car plowing through a Talcum Powder Factory on high gear.

Nimrod Frizell, Leonard Zimmerman, and Joe Hopp attended to everything that came their way, and at the bat, and in base running they were there with the goods.

They were afraid of Hopp. They knew his hitting ability and he had his waiting eye with him—result Joe walked five times. But speaking of head work, that commodity was noticeable in both aggregations. That's what made the game interesting.

Both nines played like fiends, and with such rapidity for the different stunts pulled off that "Silk O'Loughlin Moser" who arbitrated had to wear two sets of bifocals and also asbestos gloves to keep his hands from being burnt by the indicator.

The line up for the Up Town Club was as follows:

James Little, C; William Hays, P; Richard Biggs, 1st; Jesse Stone, 2nd; Eichelberger Welty, 3d; Wilbur Moser, SS; Nimrod Frizell, L.F.; Leonard Zimmerman, C.F.; Joe Hopp, R.F.

The morning game over, the majority of the people on the grounds repaired to the pavilion for luncheon. Here they found the substantial and here, while listening to the concert rendered by the two bands, they enjoyed the many appetizing dishes served. The youngsters and a goodly portion of adults present tried their luck at the cane rack and indulged in other diversions. Everybody was eating ice cream—enjoyed it too—and lollypops and candies of all descriptions were eagerly sought for by the kiddies. Nor were peanuts and soft drinks overlooked. Time passed quickly under such pleasant auspices and soon was the "big" game called. Long before Thurmont and Emmitsburg took the field the crowd was doubled. The pavilion was packed, the space behind the back stop was jammed with onlookers, and a line of automobiles filled with spectators, extended from the players' benches to the foul flag in right field.

At 2.45 the game was called and the crowd kept constantly increasing. Mr. M. J. Thompson, the umpire, announced the batteries, which were, for Thurmont Damuth and Creger, for Emmitsburg, Kreitz and Bowers. The game started by Thurmont making a hit off of the first ball thrown. Second man struck out. Next man knocked hot one to short who succeeded in putting it to first causing two outs. The next man sent a hot one to third who quickly threw it to first making three outs. Emmitsburg then to bat. First man up struck out. Kerrigan who was second up got safe to first, then stole second. Next man up struck out. The following man knocked a hot one to second who sent it to first putting an end to the first inning. Not until the third were there any runs made when Thurmont brought in one run, but it the same inning Emmitsburg brought in three runs. Kelbaugh of Thurmont, knocked a three bagger in fourth inning which scored another tally. Fifth inning showed the score a tie, 5-5. In the sixth the score was somewhat changed when Emmitsburg, put over six runs, making the score 11-5. But in the seventh Thurmont made the game interesting by making five runs which made the score 11-10 favor of Emmitsburg, and that was the final score when the game ended.

The evening at the grounds was but a repetition of the pleasure of the morning and afternoon. There were fireworks, balloon ascensions, band concerts and all kinds of things to make the big crowd happy, and if anything the attendance at night was greater than during the daylight hours. It was a big family picnic and all who came enjoyed themselves. Already the management is discussing bigger plans for next year when it is said that innumerable attractions, never before seen here, will be added to the program.

Notwithstanding the large crowd that thronged the streets until far into the night there was no disorder to speak of, and but few arrests made.

Sons of Veterans Dedicate New Hall.

New Oxford's Fourth of July celebration, which centered about the dedication of the new Sons of Veterans hall, and was conducted under the auspices of members of that organization, drew to that town one of the biggest crowds Tuesday evening.

The ceremonies were preceded by a very creditable parade which traversed the principal streets of the town, which was made up of borough officials, G. A. R.

When the reviewing stand which was erected opposite the new hall was reached the organizations in parade assembled around the stand and remained in line until the speaking concluded. There were probably 15,000 people within range of the speakers' voice and they gave respectful attention throughout the exercises. Hon. C. William Beales was master of ceremonies.

Nation Now 140 Years Old.

The United States, on July 4th, celebrated its one hundred and fortieth anniversary as a nation. In old Independence Hall, Philadelphia, on July 4th, 1776 the patriots severed completely their connection with the mother country, and started out to "make their own way."

CHAPTER OF MISHAPS

Auto Smashups, Altercations, Accidents, Falls.—Cars Run Over Children, Burns From Fireworks.—No Fatal Results.

Last Saturday a man from out of town, imbibed too much "tonic" and on his way home drove his auto into a telegraph pole and spent the night sleeping along the road. Another mixed his gasoline with joy juice and broadened his imagination to the extent of thinking that roads ought to be one hundred and fifty feet wide. He now knows that autos do not make much speed in twenty foot ditches.

In return for being polite and endeavoring to properly direct a stranger who had over-indulged, a local citizen received an "uppercut" on the jaw. The same night a white woman had her jaw broken with a beer bottle in the hands of a negro woman.

While playing with his companions on Saturday evening a youth had his forehead and lip lacerated by a piece of ice thrown by a playmate.

Monday a workman fell from a building and broke his forearm.

There were several minor accidents on Tuesday due to careless handling of fireworks. In the morning an out of town autoist, full of patriotism insisted on breaking the traffic regulations after repeated warnings and paid the corporation. In the early evening a child was knocked down by an auto, only a shake-up resulting. Later another child was struck by an auto and cut and bruised.

There were several arrests for disorderly conduct on the night of the Fourth. Two men were put in the coop. One paid his fine; the other, who was arrested not long ago for shooting up the town, broke jail, bending one of the strong iron bars of his cell and removing the clasp from the padlock.

On Wednesday two workmen received injuries inflicted purely through accident by a fellow workman. The same day two automobiles came together on the Square in front of the Mondorff Hotel. No damage was done.

THE RECALL OF LAWYERS, NOT JUDGES, BETTER WAY

Western Man Goes Into The Subject Analytically and Reaches a Very Sensible Conclusion.

A resident of Wyoming who has given a great deal of thought to the subject of the recall of judges says:

"On the principle that if one takes care of the pence and cents the pounds and dollars will take care of themselves, I say take care of the lawyers and the courts and judges will take care of themselves. For as the hen must have been before the egg, the lawyer must have existed before the judge on the bench.

"In other words the judge must have been selected from the lawyers or those versed in law. With both bench and bar legally established, the next step was to make more lawyers, which was done with the examination and sanction of the courts. Thus the members of the law became adjuncts and parts of the judicial system and sworn to aid the courts in the administration of justice. But though nominally subject at all times to the courts and expected to cooperate in the administration of justice, they are in reality so independent as to be found working for the delay and the obstruction of justice."

"Hence I feel free to say that the outcry should be not so much against judges as against members of the bar, who are chiefly accountable for the law's delays and the too frequent miscarriage of justice. In every large community there are lawyers who are a disgrace to the profession, but their numbers and influence are so great that no bar association dare proceed against them, for fear of retaliation in some form. Every attempt to oust or disbar dishonorable attorneys, who are more or less plunderers of the unfortunate, comes to naught. A corporation judge, now and then, here and there, is far less fatal to the purity of our courts than the presence of the spirit among so many lawyers to combine with each other in fleecing their clients. Hence I say, stop the cry of recalling a few judges, but rather recall 5,000 lawyers from the honorable profession which they dishonor."

State Funds For Schools.

Announcement was made at the office of Comptroller McMullen Saturday morning of the apportionment of the annual free school fund among the schools of the various counties and to Baltimore city. It is as follows:

Allegheny, $2,209.54; Anne Arundel, $1,834.42; Baltimore city, $10,395.96; Baltimore county, $3,234.74; Caroline county, $1,507.83; Calvert, $1,018.90; Carroll, $1,962.54; Cecil, $1,527.01; Charles, $1,059.43; Dorchester, $1,755.64; Frederick, $2,737.40; Garrett, $1,329.56; Harford, $1,592.67; Howard, $1,361.87; Kent, $1,390.20; Montgomery, $2,163.14; Prince Georges, $1,764.11; Queen Annes, $1,442.10; St. Marys, $1,265.35; Somerset, $1,464.83; Talbot, $1,605.59; Washington, $2,230.49; Wicomico, $1,597.46; Worcester, $1,459.26.

"Advertising is the life-blood of all business enterprises, large and small. You have a small business advertise. If you have a big business advertise."

UNCONSCIOUS INFLUENCE

No Worthy Effort is in Vain.—The Need of Co operation From Those About Us

Human nature needs encouragement to make it develop into full flower, says the Cumberland News. We may not all be ready to admit this fact, at least so long as youth and alluring thoughts for the future make us in a way independent of others, but life teaches its lessons one by one and after a while we wake up to the realization that we need the co-operation of those about us, their encouragement, their friendliness, their sympathy to help us along the way. With this co-operation we are able to find life interesting; without it we lack the incentive to do good work. This fact is illustrated in a number of ways, but in no particular more convincingly than by the effect of our unconscious influence upon others. We like to feel that our efforts are appreciated, but sometimes it seems that no matter how hard we may try our service receives only rare acknowledgement and we are forced to turn to our own consciences and our sense of right for the encouragement we need. And however necessary to our moral development the approval of our conscience may be, the very humanism of our nature seeks the approval also of those with whom we are closely associated.

No worthy effort is in vain, however unappreciated it may seem to be at the time. Its influence does not always produce immediate results, as experience unfortunately demonstrates, but experience also proves that an influence which has been lost sight of for a while sometimes unexpectedly reappears and serves its purpose in many different ways.

Scarlet fever kills over 10,000 Americans each year.

RED MEN AROUSE FREDERICK

Fourth of July Week Celebration Opens Monday Night.—Elaborate Program.—Secretary Wilson Present.

A community service that packed the City Opera House, Frederick, at which Secretary of Labor, William B. Wilson was the principal speaker, began on Sunday evening the Red Men's Celebration. The formal opening however was not made until Monday evening with a great fraternal parade.

Chippewa Tribe, under whose auspices the celebration was arranged was organized, May 3, 1850. The order of exercises for the week, were: Monday, Fraternal Day; Tuesday, Red Men's Day; Wednesday, Trade and Commercial Day; Thursday, State and County Day; Friday, Preparedness Day; Saturday, Everybody's Day.

Among the State officials who were present were: Henry Warrenfeltz, of Emmitsburg, Great Senior Sagamore; W. E. Tindle, of Salisbury, Great Junior Sagamore; Oliver Ridgeway, of Oxford, Great Prophet; J. C. Littleton, of Baltimore, Great Chief of Records; Joseph Sloan, of Elkton, Great Keeper of Wampum, James E. Paxter, of Easton, and Philip E. Porter, of Annapolis, who with John E. Bennett, of Frederick constitutes the Board of Appeals.

Increase in County's Tax Rate.

Frederick county's tax rate for the year 1916 is $1.05 on the $100, an increase of seven cents on the 1915 levy, which was 98 cents. The levy was made Friday night. Heavy demands for road work, money for road work, money for schools, widow's pensions and several other items are held responsible for the increase in the rate. The taxable basis is $30,474,393.28. The amount levied is $357,313.69. Last year the taxable basis was $29,546,052.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good livery, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

ONE MISERABLE PIKE.

One has the right to expect, even demand, that a privilege for which one is taxed shall have some value commensurate with the amount exacted for that privilege. Levying tariff or toll for the right to use a road or pike implies that the said highway shall be kept in proper condition, shall be maintained in such a manner as to make hauling, driving or riding over it not only safe, but easy and pleasurable.

Toll? Well, those letters don't spell the only word that one could rightly use in the circumstances.

PROMISING MEN.

A cobbler and a plumber met outside of Heaven's gate and soon there came a carpenter—each one of course was late—and there they planned how they could fix some plausible excuse to hand to good St. Peter—(offering "merit" was no use)—why they should get in heaven and enjoy the life in there, e'en promising to keep the "plant" in constant good repair.

WARNING SIGNS.

The several serious accidents that have recently occurred on the State road between Emmitsburg and Frederick warrant the placing of "Warning" signs at the approaches to the many dangerous curves on this much traveled thoroughfare.

those familiar with this road are not always prepared for these curves; strangers are totally unprepared. One instinctively regards a red signal; and if "Warnings" are considered necessary precautions elsewhere it would certainly seem that there is equal need of them in this locality.

The attention of the State Roads Commission is respectfully called to the above.

EMMITSBURG had a "safe and sane fourth," one of the sanest features being the enforcement of the fireworks ordinance. Herebefore the explosion of cannon crackers kept up from morning till night; horses were scared, sidewalks were unsafe and noise unbearable.

THE Fourth in the cities—At morn with patriotic flags, they marched along the street; at noon, with juicy mellow jags, they wobbled on their feet.

"THERE are 57,272 blind in the United States."—Baseball umpires are not included in this number.

WOMEN OF THE WAR.

Throughout the war zone of Europe the women are wearing out their lives in self-sacrificing patriotism. "The Country needs me" is the keynote of the factories, as it is of the trenches, and the bulk of the work in these factories is now done by women of all classes.

That the women have proved their usefulness and ability is shown by the fact that in 1915 one ammunition factory alone employed 50,000 women, and that the manufacture of shells is today almost exclusively in the hands of women; the making of the core of the shell, the cleaning of the cast shells, work at the lathe, at the boring and cutting machines, the filling of shells—all is the work of women.

In addition to ammunition, almost all war supplies pass through women's hands; for example, the horseshoe industry is largely carried on by women. In the rifle factories women manufacture certain parts. Drinking cups, kitchen utensils and bottles for use in the field are made by their busy hands.

Next in proportional increase of female workers come the electrical, chemical, textile and food-stuff industries. In the wire factories female workers are now occupied in winding the wire, at the plaiting machines, and at the wire drawing bench.

No woman wants peace if by gaining it the life of her land is to be hemmed in and restricted; hence they proceed along their arduous path of quiet heroism and are not behind the men in their determination to bring the war to a victorious conclusion.

A Deadly Industry.

One of the most deadly callings and one of which very little is known is that of the workers in champagne cellars. The work, which is light and without any obvious elements of risk to health, consists in turning over the bottles of champagne so that the wine may be clear and transparent and absolutely free from sediment.

A Nigerian's Aspiration.

An advertisement by an English firm recently appeared in a London daily newspaper for an experienced youth for their office in London. Among the replies received was one from northern Nigeria as follows:

"Having seen your name and address I am more than pleased to ask for a berth in your office. And also as you state in the paper that you want a good and experienced youth in your office which I beg to office myself in the post. I learn typewriter, but have not yet completed it. Shorthand I have learned, and I can write, but not so fast as a man who can write 100 words in a minute.

Desperate Diet.

It is amazing what people will eat at a pinch.

A recent arctic explorer seriously advised the wearing of skin clothing in preference to woolen simply and solely because, if the worst came to the worst, one's outfit could be stewed for a meal or at any rate given to the dogs!

Well, when a man finds enjoyment and a sort of inward satisfaction in a stew made of his vest, his shoelaces and his sledge gear, he must be pretty "peekish," and when he gets back to civilization he will make a model husband, never likely to turn up his nose at cold mutton on washing days.

Mere Appetizers.

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the Labrador physician, tells the following amusing story about one of his trips on a komatik, or dog sled.

He and his guide were on the way to a distant village, where a small boy was reported to have "found himself in his stomach," which means in the semi-Chaucerian dialect of Labrador that he was afflicted with indigestion.

"Where," inquired Dr. Grenfell, "are the compressed food tablets? I gave you a month's supply this morning."

"Oh," answered the guide impassively, "I ate them after breakfast," and he hungrily bit into his pork bun.

Events That Pass Us By.

We can be but partially acquainted even with the events which actually influence our course through life and our final destiny. There are innumerable other events, if such they may be called, which come close upon us, yet pass away without actual results or even betraying their near approach by the reflection of any light or shadow, across our minds.

Favorite Son.

"Are you a favorite son of your state?" "No," explained Senator Sorghum. "I don't believe I care to be. A favorite son is too liable to be regarded by outside observers as a pampered pet who might be all the better with an occasional licking."—Washington Star.

The Last Word.

Hubby (with irritation)—Why is it that you women insist upon having the last word? Wife (calmly)—We don't. The only reason we get it is because we always have a dozen arguments left when you stupid men are all run out.

Her Good Point.

"Your laundress seems to be a timid sort of woman." "Yes, but she always manages to put up a stiff front."—Baltimore American.

Fine Subject.

Madge—When you took the long walk with Dolly how did you find so much to talk about? Marjorie—We happened to pass a girl we both knew.—Judge.

Uncertain.

"I see you advertised for a cook yesterday. Did you get one?" "I don't know yet. I can tell better after dinner."

Queer Tail of a Bird.

Signal officer of the birds' army corps is the racket tailed humming bird. For his duties nature has equipped him with a pair of purple flags fashioned out of two long and peculiar tail feathers. He wiggles his signals from one tree to another, issues his challenges to battle and courts his mate.

He's a midget of the South American mountains. He has short wings, which he operates at lightning speed. His tail is a combination of two wirelike handles, with a purple tuft of feathers at the end of each. He crosses them near the middle, and sometimes he brings the pair of "rackets" at the ends to his head, as though trying to fan himself.

The male birds have a sort of love dance which they engage in during the mating season. Then they play all sorts of tricks with the rackets.—Philadelphia North American.

O'Connell as an Orator.

Few orators have been so fortunate as Daniel O'Connell in their physical appeal to the senses. Grafton, Curran, Emmet, Shell and Meagher were small men, not the least impressive to the eye. O'Connell was a man of royal aspect. His voice was seductively musical—the most musical, according to Disraeli, ever heard in the house of commons. It was soft, of great compass, capable of expressing every imaginable emotion.

The Evil Eye.

It is probable that the "evil eye," for which many hapless old women were harrided to their death on the suspicion of witchcraft in "the good old days," was no more than a common squint, a "cast" in the eye, or "bossing," as it is called in many parts of the country to this day, writes Dr. N. Bishop Harman in the British Journal of Children's Diseases. Not only was the squint thought to be of evil significance, but the defect itself was considered to be the work of evil spirits.

Knew His Man.

George Bubb, better known as Bubb Duddington, one of the wits of the eighteenth century, always dined well and always liked to doze after the repast. Falling asleep one day after dinner with Sir Richard Temple and Lord Cobham, the latter reproached Duddington with his drowsiness. Duddington denied having been asleep and to prove he had not offered to repeat all Lord Cobham had been saying. Cobham challenged him to do so. Duddington repeated a story, and Lord Cobham owned he had been telling it. "Well," said Duddington, "and yet I did not hear a word of it, but I went to sleep because I knew that about this time of the day you would tell that story."

Lightning Rods.

There were no lightning rods in ancient times. The first one that the world ever saw was set up by our own illustrious countryman Benjamin Franklin shortly after the year 1752. He had just had his celebrated experiment with the kite, in which he demonstrated the identity of lightning with electricity, and was therefore prepared for the construction of the rods for which the world had waited so long. It is not generally known that Franklin was as distinguished in science as he was in statesmanship and diplomacy.—Exchange.

A Bright Outlook.

"Do you—or—do you think, Miss Dobleigh, that you will be—er—engaged next Thursday evening?" asked Tompy very bashfully. "Well, really, Mr. Tompy," replied Ethel, "I don't know, but if you can get up spunk enough between now and then to do your share I think there's a fair prospect that I shall be." And Tompy did.

Different Kinds.

"I had a tooth extracted yesterday," remarked the fussy man, "and the dentist gave me gas." "Oh, that's nothing," rejoined the man with the bald spot. "Every time I get shaved the barber gives me a lot of it."—Indianapolis Star.

Nobody at Home.

"They say," remarked the spinster boarder, "that the woman who hesitates is lost." "Lost is not the proper word for it," growled the fussy old bachelor at the pedal extremity of the table. "She's extinct."—Indianapolis Star.

Weighty Clothing.

Boots worn by some professional divers weigh twenty pounds each. The helmet weighs forty pounds. The diver also carries additional weight.

Freak Picture Freaks.

Freak pictures are usually the result of clever manipulation of the camera or the film. Articles or individuals can be made to instantly disappear by stopping the camera while the article is removed or the person walks off the stage, the other characters holding their pose until the camera is again put in motion. In some films in which a person is thrown from a height or is apparently crushed under a steam roller the effect is gained by the live person walking away after the camera is stopped and a dummy substituted to undergo the death penalty.

By projecting the picture at a faster rate than it was taken excruciating comic scenes are sometimes devised. An automobile going ten miles an hour by speeding up the projection machine may be made to apparently move at 100 miles an hour, and by increasing the same way the apparent speed of persons dodging the demoniac auto exceedingly ludicrous effects are had.

By mechanical means in combining two or more negatives into one positive a man can be shown fencing with himself or even cutting his own head off.—Philadelphia Press.

Gold In Carats.

We often hear people in speaking of their watches say, "It is an 18 carat case." Others speak of 14 carat watches or 22 carat or solid gold rings. When you see the marks on a watch case or the inside of a gold ring they read 18 K. or 14 K., or whatever number of carats the maker wishes to indicate. A piece of gold jewelry marked 18 K., or 18 carats, means that it is three-fourths pure gold. In arranging this basis of marking things made of gold absolutely pure gold is called 24 carats. Then if two, six or ten twenty-fourths of alloy has been added the amount of the alloy is deducted from twenty-four, and the result is either 22, 18 or 14 carats fine, and so on. On ordinary articles made by jewelers the amount of pure gold used is seldom over 18 carats, or three-fourths. Wedding rings (and these are considered solid gold) are generally made 22 carats fine—that is, there are only two twenty-fourths parts of alloy in them.

Words.

Words are used for various purposes—to evade issues, to put people to sleep, to break up homes, to present literature and to conceal ideas. Nothing exceeds like words.

Words are used in speeches, debates and stories. Massed in serried groups in newspapers and text books they prevent people from learning anything. Last words are most effective and are employed exclusively by women and prominent citizens who are dying.

Words are nothing in themselves, but only in their relationship to other words. It is the system of putting them together that counts. Most words are like unorganized militia. In war the mortality among them is fearful. They never win battles. When words are found in regular army style, however, disciplined and experienced, they are likely to be invincible.—Judge.

Australia's Stony Desert.

The great stony desert of north Australia was discovered by Captain Sturt, an Australian explorer, in 1845-6. It is north of the river Darling and is about 300 miles long and 100 broad, consisting of sandy dunes or ridges. Its want of trees, except along the creeks, gives the country a sterile appearance. These ridges were probably formed by the joint effect of winds and a gradually retreating sea. According to Captain Sturt, these waters were gradually lost by evaporation or carried to some undiscovered sea. The only vegetation, growing scantily, is prickly acacias in full bloom, all of stunted growth. Water is scarce except in the creeks which are sheltered, and this is generally brackish. Few travelers care to traverse this inhospitable desert.

She Was an Expert.

"Julia, do you know what love is?" "The love sick young man put the question in an intense voice. "Yes," replied the fair maid firmly. "But do you really know?" he asked again. "Have you ever been the object of a love as undying as the sun, as all pervading as the air, as wonderful and sparkling as the stars? Have you ever loved and been loved like that, Julia?"

Method In Their Madness.

After having her blood curdled badly by a thrilling story Mrs. Kurious was angry to find that it ended in an advertisement for somebody's tooth powder.

Explaining a Charge.

Client—You have an item in your bill, "Advice, March 8, $5." That was the day before I retained you. Lawyer—I know it. But don't you remember on the 8th I told you you'd better let me take the case for you? Client—Yes. Lawyer—Well, that's the advice.—Boston Transcript.

GREEN TOMATO BUTTER.—Slice eight pounds of green tomatoes very thin, and chop one orange and one lemon very fine, being careful to remove the seeds. Boil together one hour, add five pounds of sugar, a small teaspoonful of vinegar and cook until it becomes a clear, smooth mass. Put this in jelly glasses.

Julienne Pickles.—Scrape and wash six medium sized carrots, cut them in lengthwise slices and, laying one over the other, cut them down into small strips as for soup. Boil them three minutes in salt water, drain in a colander and set aside to cool. Cut the same way six green tomatoes in slices and fine strips, also three large white onions, one big red pepper and three sour apples. Put the tomatoes, onions, red pepper and apples into a bowl, sprinkle over salt and let them stand twelve hours. Then drain off the water and put all the ingredients into a kettle with one cupful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of celery seed tied up in muslin. Add sufficient vinegar barely to cover materials and boil two minutes. Then mix one tablespoonful of English mustard with a little vinegar and stir it into the rest; put into small, well closed jars and set in a cool place.

Pickled Red Cabbage.—Remove the outer leaves of two or three firm heads of red cabbage. Shave them fine, put in a large bowl and sprinkle over a good handful of salt for each head; mix well with the salt, cover and let stand twenty-four hours; then drain in a colander. For three heads of cabbage boil one gallon of vinegar with a pound of sugar, adding to this four large onions chopped fine, three bruised cloves of garlic, one ounce of whole peppers, one-half ounce of whole cloves, the same of mace, two tablespoonfuls of celery seed and a little cayenne. Boil slowly half an hour; remove, and when cold strain the vinegar through a napkin; return it to the fire, let it get boiling hot, put the cabbage in a stone jar and pour over the scalding hot vinegar.

India Chutney.—Chop twelve large tomatoes, ripe and skinned, with one cupful seeded raisins, six onions, grated rind and juice of two oranges and two lemons. Add to these one-half bottle capers, one and one-half tablespoonfuls dry mustard, one teaspoonful currie powder, one teaspoonful mace, one-quarter teaspoonful cayenne pepper, one and one-half cupfuls vinegar, one tablespoonful salt, two tablespoonfuls horseradish, one teaspoonful celery salt, one teaspoonful kitchen bouquet, one and one-half cupfuls brown sugar. Mix well and cook two hours.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

INTERESTING IRRELEVANCIES.

BREAKFAST COFFEE.—Preferably breakfast coffee is served with hot milk. Experts say that coffee with cream is likely to produce sour stomach. They also declare that if it be sweetened neither milk nor cream should be used—"for the stomach's sake."

Coffee may be either boiled (boiled coffee must not really boil) or percolated, three rounding tablespoonfuls to each pint of water.

The milk has been put into a double boiler and thence into a covered hot pitcher as soon as the water around it has boiled. In serving pour the cup half full of hot milk and then pour in the coffee.

Egg and Olive Mayonnaise.—Cut three to four hard boiled eggs into halves across, take out the yolks and rub them through a sieve. Cut off a tiny piece of the tops of the whites to make them stand evenly. Chop rather finely two slices of tongue and mix with half the yolks of eggs. Stamp out six nice rounds of buttered toast about the size of the cut side of the eggs, sprinkle over thickly with tongue and yolks puree. Cut into fine shreds two more slices of ox tongue, two French gherkins, six olives and two fillets of anchovies. Season this with mayonnaise and a few drops of lemon juice, add a little chopped parsley, also a pinch of white or red pepper. Fill up neatly with this the cups of white of egg and coat the surface with a fairly stiff mayonnaise. Place each egg on a round of prepared toast, garnish to taste and serve.

To Keep Apples.—Take fine, dry sawdust, preferably that made by a circular saw from well seasoned hardwood, and place a thick layer on bottom of a barrel. Then place a layer of apples, not close together and not close to staves of barrel. Put sawdust liberally over and around and proceed until one and one-half bushels or less are so packed in each barrel. They are to be kept in a cool place

A WEEKLY BUDGET OF COUNTY NEWS

Beginning August 1, the use of the Frederick College property on Council street will be given to the board of County School Commissioners of Frederick County.

This agreement will remain in force during the time of the natural life of Miss Victorine T. Artz, of Chicago, and upon whose death about $200,000 will go to the trustees of the C. Burr Artz Free Library for the establishment of a handsome library and building in Frederick.

What plans the school board has in view for the use of the College property was not learned.

Road work and damages caused by floods showed up last Friday evening when the County Commissioners met and fixed the tax levy, making the rate for 1916 $1.05 on the $100.

The taxable basis of the county, computed and totaled is $30,474,893.28. The amount levied for is $357,313.69. Of this amount the School Commissioners get approximately $126,897.57.

County Treasurer Roger G. Harley and his deputy, DeWitt T. Free entered office Saturday morning, succeeding former county Treasurer Frederick W. Cramer.

The Executive Committee, which was recently appointed to represent the National League for National Defense, met last week and organized. It was decided to request the two Frederick papers, to publish the names of any persons who from a sense of patriotic duty, signify their willingness to contribute to aid the families dependent upon the men of Company A who have so nobly responded to their Country's call to duty.

On the testimony of Catherine Poland, the 7-year-old daughter of Mrs. Edward Poland, and Cora Ebert 10 years old, her companion, Paul Blair, 35 years old, married, was held in $500 bond for the action of the Frederick county grand jury on the charge of attempting to assault the Poland child.

For the last two months Brunswick has been in the grip of an epidemic of measles. During May and June 93 cases of the disease were reported to Health Officer Dr. Levin West.

UNITED STATES TO TREAT WITH MEXICO.—DIFFERENCES TO BE ADJUSTED.

The de facto Government of Mexico was informally notified through Eliseo Arredondo, Ambassador designate, that the United States welcomed General Carranza's proposal to adjust all pending differences between the two governments by direct diplomatic negotiation.

Mr. Arredondo was informed of the American Government's attitude in a conversation with Secretary Lansing after the latter had conferred with President Wilson. Later a formal note will confirm the Ambassador's report.

Hughes Going to the Coast

Charles E. Hughes will probably open his active presidential campaign the second week in August with a 7,000 mile trip to the Pacific Coast and return. The nominee is considering an itinerary that will provide for a dozen set speeches to be made at Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Paul or Minneapolis, Seattle, Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, possibly Los Angeles, and several other cities in the territory traversed.

FRANKLINVILLE NEWS.

Miss Florence Damuth is visiting friends near Gettysburg. Miss Louise Gall visited friends in Frederick last week. Those on the sick list are: Master Ralph Gall, Leoda Stull and Mrs. Russell Forney.

SUMMARY OF THE LAW CONCERNING SUBSCRIPTIONS

When in Arrears Subscribers Cannot Order the Paper Discontinued; Nor Can They "Refuse" It Until All Payments Are Made.

Newspaper subscribers are probably ignorant of the law protecting the publisher, and what follows will no doubt be news to many people in some respects. As will be seen by a careful perusal of the decision of the United States Courts on this subject much trouble may be avoided and money saved. Here are the decisions:

1. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals without paying all that is due, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.

2. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher and the papers are sent to the former address, they are held responsible.

3. The courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for is evidence of intentional fraud.

4. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it.

5. The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest any one for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law the man who allows his subscription to run along for any length of time unpaid and then orders it to be discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused" and have a postal card sent notifying the publisher, leaves himself to arrest and fine, the same as for theft.

IMPORTANT—It will be seen from this that not owning property does not excuse a man from the payment of the debt that he owes a newspaper publisher. The man who refuses to pay such a debt, thinking to escape paying because he has no property that can be levied on by a constable, justice of the peace or sheriff, is liable to a criminal prosecution on the charge of wilful fraud and may find himself in serious trouble.

THE ORIGIN OF THE HOLY NAME SOCIETY

Was Organized by Bishop Diaz at Lisbon, January 1, 1433.—Feast of Circumcision Was Made Principal Feast of Society.

At the dawn of the thirteenth century blatant heresy and culpable indifference ravaged the Church in France and Spain of much supernatural power and splendor and contaminated the hearts and minds of a great percentage of the people to such an extent as to doubt and deny the Divinity of Christ and to vilify His Holy Name.

The holy name of Jesus Christ was constantly on the tongue of cursers and blasphemers. It was used in emphasis of a story and repeatedly forced into every foolish and filthy conversation.

The angry person cursed by the name of Jesus Christ. The villain told his knavish crimes by abusing the holy name. On the streets and in the field, in factories and farms, wherever people would gather, our Saviour's holy name was profaned. Where Christ's name was abused, the devil's name was used.

Seeing the havoc that was done to the holy name by evil tongues, St. Dominic preached on the Divinity of Jesus Christ, on the dignity of His holy name and thus convinced the people of their terrible sin of abusing the name of Jesus Christ. He fought and conquered the Albigensian heresy.

In 1274 Pope Gregory X, who presided at the Second Council of Lyons, in a special letter to the Sons of St. Dominic, urged the faithful to bow their heads whenever the holy name of Jesus was mentioned.

Upon receipt of said letter, the Dominican General, Blessed John of Vercelli, obliged the entire Order to comply conscientiously and without delay with the urgent request of the Holy Father. So it was done: the devotion to the Holy Name began to flourish throughout the country.

As a specific society it was organized by Bishop Diaz at Lisbon, January 1, 1433. The feast of the Circumcision, the day on which Jesus received His name, was made the principal feast of the Holy Name Society. The Infant Jesus was its Patron. Pope Pius IV, in 1564 approved and promoted the Society of the Holy Name of Jesus.

A COUNTRY LIFE CONFERENCE Its Purpose is to Work Out a Program for the Country Church.—To Stimulate Religion in Everyday Life.

Continuing its effort of the past two years the Maryland State College of Agriculture is planning a school and a conference at College Park from July 24 to August 4 for the special benefit of country ministers and others who are interested in country life.

Agricultural colleges recognize the presence of a thriving church as most vital to the success of a community and gladly extends to the minister all the aid at their command. Thus they offer him a special course in rural economics, rural pedagogy in all the agricultural branches in order to give him a deeper understanding of the determining forces of community progress.

It is generally conceded at the present time that religion has reference to one's whole life—every day in the week and in every thought, aim and deed—that every day is the Lord's Day and that everything is Holy if man will but leave it so. Everything is sacred but sin.

This is a much broader conception than was formerly held. To many people, religion has been an experience set apart from daily life. Work and worship have been considered alien. Few have considered their daily acts as expressions of religion and to "worship by work" has not been a part of the common philosophy of life.

But in the mind of the outsider, the man who with-holds his support from the church, is found deep conviction that religion "prefers to have men and women only in the posture of prayer." This is an arraignment, in his opinion, for he frankly believes that the work of the world demands action, and to him the church has been an organization on the job only two hours a week. That he is allowed to hold this misconception of the function of the church has been largely due to the divided condition of the church itself, and its consequent ineffectiveness and weakness.

"Jesus worshipped in the temple on the Sabbath and during the week went about doing good. And if any part of His work were more incidental than the other it was his preaching," a well known minister has said. "We are realizing more and more that the measure of usefulness of any church today lies not in its building, its music, its ritual, or even the eloquence or popularity of its minister, but in service to the community. It must work toward the raising of moral standards, creating a spirit of friendliness and neighborliness, eradication of class lines, and in elevating the political, educational and social ideals of the community. None of these can be done satisfactorily by operating on the Sabbath only. Manifestly the rural church is being challenged as never before to make its organization a 'working organization.'"

A Caution. But let it not be thought for a moment that "worship" is left out of this new scheme of things. On the contrary, "Worship" from being hedged in and prescribed as praying, psalm-singing, etc. in a church building, has come into a larger and fuller importance. To work at anything which will better the human race, with that thought in view, mind you, is "worship." It is "loving service" as well as praise. God's will for man embraces his growth toward perfection in body, mind and spirit and he who works for any one of these should do so worshipfully, as a co-worker who loves both God and men.

The Danger. But a danger lurks within. Many people who regularly go to church as a religious obligation and who hold the church as a Holy Place in their memory and its services as religious expressions, are bewildered by the demand that their homes, their farms, and their offices be considered as holy and that every day and hour be one of worship "thru work." In fact some have hypnotized themselves and confused themselves so in dividing things into sacred and secular that they are akin to the murderer who postponed a murder because religious scruples would not allow it on Good Friday.

The church thru its services is an end, but still more largely, it is a means to an end. It should be a power house, giving the stimulus of God's will to all who come. We should go often to be recharged. But thru the rest of the week we should put that power to "work worship." As one minister put it recently—"You get a new supply of ammunition—you load up your gun each Sunday so that you can go out and fight sin and ignorance the rest of the week." It might be added that much ammunition is carried out and never used.

When the indifferent realize that their church is a "Power House," that its object is to furnish the current with which to build up a happy community, they will join forces with it. This is demonstrated in thousands of flourishing churches. Their number gives hope and encouragement. The Country Life Movement can help them but little. However it can help numerous other communities thru a ministry which has caught the vision and prepared for a difficult leadership.

THE TASK.

The difficult task of the minister will be to broaden the conception the function of the church so as to win the millions who ask for a "Power House" church and at the same time hold those who feel that such a procedure leads to worldliness. There must be no maudlin, half baked rhapsodizing over social service to the exclusion of the spiritual message to the individual. The ministers work will always be the preaching of the gospel. In flourishing well organized communities, that will be a chief and all important duty. But in less than fortunate neighborhoods he must concern himself with whatever is necessary to make the community what it should be.

MORE ABOUT THE GRANGE.

Another Meeting to be Held July 20 To Form Organization for This District

"Never give up" seems to be characteristic of Grange organizers. Several meetings, it will be remembered, have been held in Emmitsburg in the interest of organizing a Grange but up to this time nothing definite has been determined upon. Farmers in this section have expressed themselves as being in favor of the idea, a number have signed applications for memberships and some have manifested real enthusiasm and yet, owing to various circumstances and conditions, they have not gotten together.

On Thursday, July 20, at 8 o'clock a meeting will be held in the Public School House at which time it is expected there will be a big gathering of persons in sympathy with the Grange movement. Mr. James T. Anthony, of Chestertown, who is a member of the executive committee of the Maryland State Grange will be present. Mr. Anthony and several members of existing organizations will come to Emmitsburg on the nineteenth of July. This committee will visit as many farmers as possible, explaining to them the plan of the organization. And it is hoped that the result of this canvas will insure a membership sufficient for a flourishing local Grange.

DISEASE PREVENTION FOR FARM HOMES

Screening Against Flies And Use of Earth Closets Is Advised.

T. H. TALIAFERRO,
 Maryland Agricultural College.

The advent of spring is closely followed in most places by the appearance of flies. In rural communities, especially on the farm, it seems practically impossible to prevent the fly nuisance on the farm, particularly so, if there are a number of animals about the place.

The fly, primarily a scavenger, would be a blessing if he would confine himself strictly to that business and remain at or near the manure pile, etc. He insists, however, on traveling, and thus finds his way into houses, even those in which an honest effort is made to keep the premises, particularly the kitchen, clean, and to put scraps, parings, etc., into properly covered cans.

The Fly Pest.

His favorite abode, when sojourning at the house, is the kitchen or dining room, and his choice as to a resting place and supply station is the food to be eaten or the utensil in which it is served. He is also very fond of roaming over the face, particularly the lips, of a sleeping child. This desire is strengthened when evidences of indulgence in food, generally stick or greasy in nature, are found around the mouth.

Unless measures are taken which will prevent his doing so, the probability is that the fly, in his journeys to and from the house, has regaled himself upon human excreta or waste and that he is furnishing free transportation for typhoid, dysentery, and other disease germs which are found in the excreta.

Having reached the house, the fly, regardless of the fact that he may, for example, be teeming with colon bacilli, enters upon his regular routine, with the altogether too frequent result that there is an outbreak of typhoid fever.

Proper Sanitation.

On the farm it is not always possible, however, to have an up-to-date sanitary system. It is possible, however, to build or remodel a privy, so that the fly can not gain access to the human excreta. In this way, the opportunity for the fly to transmit certain disease germs to the food which is to be eaten in the house, etc., is minimized. It is imperative that such protection should be afforded, if health is to be conserved. The question of the slight increase in cost, if any, should not carry weight as an objection, for the reason that one outbreak of typhoid fever or dysentery, with the resultant loss of time and money, will prove far more expensive. Do not, however, make the mistake so often observed on farms, and elsewhere, of providing proper accommodation for everyone except the servants. The fly does not differentiate when he is foraging, neither do the colon bacilli consider social distinctions when choosing an abiding place. Screening the dwelling house is important, but it is not sufficient. The privy must be sanitary and fly proof. If it is fly proof, it is also impossible for fowls and animals to gain access to the human excreta.

Dry Earth Closet.

One of the best types of privies is the dry earth closet, in which the fresh excreta is covered with a small amount of dry earth taken from a box conveniently placed in the building. Lime also may be used with excellent results.

As to the construction of the building, individual tastes may govern, provided the fly is kept out and the place is kept in good order. Covers should be provided for the openings in the seat when not in use. The door, and particularly the window, should be screened to keep out flies and to permit the circulation of fresh air. Buckets or similar receptacles should be so placed beneath the openings as to receive the excreta. The buckets should be removed at intervals, cleansed and replaced. If it is not possible to obtain suitable buckets, a water-tight trough should be built with a stout ring in the end or side and sledge runners under it. The ring and the sledge runners will prove to be of great advantage when it is found necessary to remove the trough for emptying, etc. An application of lime in and around the trough or buckets from time to time will improve the sanitary conditions. A door which will fit tight when closed should be placed at the rear or side of the building to facilitate the removal of the buckets or trough. This door may be fitted with hinges or may slide in a groove. The latter is probably the better. It may be built entirely of wood, but a stout wooden frame covered with heavy close-meshed wire is preferable, as it permits the free circulation of air, which tends to keep down offensive odors.

Dispose Of Waste.

It is useless to build a sanitary, fly-proof building unless it is kept in good shape and a place provided for the disposal of the excreta. It may be buried, put in a compost heap, if thought safe, etc., but it must be protected from flies until the germs of typhoid fever, dysentery, etc., are destroyed by bacteria.

Any information desired regarding the construction, etc., of a fly-proof earth closet may be obtained from the Engineering Division of the Maryland Agricultural College, College Park, Md.

FOR SALE.

A beautiful Dwelling and Store Room for sale at once. A new Store Room 70x22, two floors. Built only 5 years ago. Very convenient to House, Barn and Shed. Also my stock of General Merchandise and a full set of store fixtures which I will reduce to suit the purchaser if so desired. And my beautiful home adjoining Store Room. This is an extra fine large house and everything in A No 1 Good repair, and plenty large enough for 2 families if purchaser would desire a partner. Possession of store at once or anytime. The purchaser desires from now until April 1st, 1917. Possession of home in 30 days notice. Think it over quickly as this is one of the very best towns for a Store in the State of Maryland to make money. Think of it 4 1/2 miles from Taneytown 7 miles from Littlestown and Emmitsburg, 8 1/2 miles from Gettysburg, Pa. Harney is located right in the center of one of the finest farming communities you can find with all prosperous farmers right up-to-date, and extra fine people to deal with. Any man desiring to go into public business should not let a grand chance like this slip. So don't wait as I mean business and I am going to do business.

NOTICE! How about this?

And this is a true statement ever since in this Store room our yearly cash sales have been from $20,000 to $25,000 a year, so I know you can make money right here in Harney, as I have had 22 years of successful business. My Stock is clean, new and right up-to-date and bought at old prices. I have a large stock of Fall and Winter goods bought for each Department at old prices (if the buyer wants it.) My stock on hand and the stock bought for Fall is easy worth from 15 to 25 per cent. more than the same goods today. Call on or phone me. C. and P. 11 F. 11. United 21 N.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Troublesome Tonsils.
 Rheumatism is only a minor consequence of enlarged tonsils. Tuberculosis, asthma, epilepsy, articular rheumatism, goiter, valvular heart disease, stomach and intestinal ulcers, gallstones, glandular troubles and a dozen other serious or even fatal diseases are caused directly or are materially predisposed to by infection originating in the tonsils. The cure is simple. Have them either amputated or atrophied. Radical removal is more effective than slower shrinkage. But get rid of them in any event if they persist in occupying more than their proper share of space and attention. The operation in efficient hands is quick, safe and certain. And if the tonsils reappear the operation or the shrinkage treatment can be repeated.

PURPLE MARTIN
 (Progne subis)

Length, about eight inches.
 Range: Breeds throughout the United States and southern Canada, south to central Mexico; winters in South America.

Habits and economic status: This is the largest as it is one of the most beautiful of the swallow tribe. It formerly built its nests in cavities of trees, as it still does in wild districts, but learning that man was a friend it soon adopted domestic habits. Its presence about the farm can often be secured by erecting houses suitable for nesting sites and protecting them from usurpation by the English sparrow, and every effort should be made to increase the number of colonies of this very useful bird. The boxes should be at a reasonable height, say 15 feet from the ground, and made inaccessible to cats. A colony of these birds on a farm makes great inroads upon the insect population, as the birds not only themselves feed upon insects but rear their young upon the same diet. Fifty years ago in New England it was not uncommon to see colonies of 50 pairs of martins, but most of them have now vanished for no apparent reason except that the martin houses have decayed and have not been renewed. More than three-fourths of this bird's food consists of wasps, bugs, and beetles, their importance being in the order given. The beetles include several species of harmful weevils, as the clover-leaf weevils and the nut weevils. Besides these are many crane flies, moths, May flies, and dragon flies.
