Increased Mortality Due Wrong Living.

According to statistics the mortality rate of persons in the United States over 45 years of age is increasing. It this. Lack of health-giving exercise, superfluity of diet, lack of restoring sleep, over-stimulation, the high pressure of the race for power, wealth and position, plus physical neglect, these bring early decay. The goal is reached, wealth is amassed, -honor, position and power are just being grasped when the ashes of dissolution. The brilliant mind becomes clouded, the steady hand once gazed fearlessly on the whole world is dimmed and it is not long before the final break up occurs. All of this was entirely preventable.

Other things being equal it is the man lasts the longest, whose work to the end is uniformly the best, he who neither over-works nor over-plays, changes in the faculty of Hood College neither over-eats, over-drinks, nor for the next scholastic year, which will over-sleeps, he who maintains a stand- be the twenty-fourth session under the ard of simple healthy diet in modera- present administration. ETCHISON CONDUCTING QUIET BUT EFFECTIVE CAMPAIGN

The Frederick Candidate Has a Strong fore being dipped in boiling water. Hold With the Farmers and is Gaining Ground Every Day.

Zihlman has been confidently countpublican by a fairly big majority; but if Etchison carries it by anything like 1500, as it was said he would, Zihlman will have the fight of his life.

The Reno Harp faction in Frederick is credited with being rather tepid, if not actually cold, as to the Zihlman end of it, and State Senator Speicher Diarrhoea Remedy has a reputation of Garrett, is known to entertain no second to none for the quick relief actually ardent love for Zihlman who beat him for the nomination. These | factors in the situation are decidedly in Etchison's favor.

The Sun's story had it doped out this way: "Washington county has been close and probably will not go one way or the other by a heavy vote this fall. Montgomery county will give a sub stantial Democratic majority, probably if Montgomery gives Etchison, say 700 and Frederick gives him say 1,500, he will reach Washington county with 2,-200. If that county is a practical standoff, he will go on to Allegany with about 2,200. Zihlman will have to do better in Garrett and Allegany than 2,200. And Speicher may be able to fix Garrett

And Speicher may be able to fix Garrett so that Zihlman will have to get the 2,200 in Allegany."

In the meantime Etchison is "sawing wood" every day and every hour of every day, and his own quiet work and that of his friends—and he has lots of them in mining him above. them—is gaining him support all along the line.

Arguments in the mandamus case brought by Prof. Amon Burgee, former principal of the Boys' High School. Frederick, against the County Board of Education, asking the court to reinstate him as head of that institution, were heard Tuesday by Judges Hammond Urner, Glenn H. Worthington and Edward C. Peter. The court took the case under advisement. The School Board contended that the Act of 1916, passed as a result of the report of the school survey commission, repealed the entire school law, and that under the new law, which went into effect on June 1, the commission of all teachers expired on June 1. It was argued that Professor Burgee was not appointed after June 1 and consequently had no right to demand the reasons for his dismissal and the appointment of a new head of the institution. It was further argued that the court had no jurisdiction in the matter. The attorney for Professor Burgee contended that Professor Burgee had not been dismissed lawfully. He said that the term of office of a principal or teacher was indefinite and did not expire annually. Leo Weinberg represented Professor Burgee. John S. Newman and Charles McMathias appeared for the School Board.

One-third of Frederick county's corn is in the shock. This estimate was made by several of the county's leading farmers, who have within the past two days made almost a complete tour of the county. The crop, says these ruralists, will be slightly above normal. Corn planted early in the season is making splendid returns. That put into the ground later in the season is below normal and will as a result cut the county's average yield.

Officials are guarding Frederick county's school children from exposure to infantile paralysis. Children, who have been visiting in infected areas, and who have retured to Frederick county are barred from the county schools for a period of fourteen days.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of part by those who have not the remotest conception of what happiness consists of. They start with the wrong idea; they center everything around the personal impression and erroneously, the means to make everything and everybody subservient to oneself. BOOSTER. Entered as second-class matter January 1, 1909 at the post office at Emmitsburg. Md., under the Act of March 3, 1879. can I arrange this day, this evening, this thing, so that, selfishly, I can be the sole beneficiary?"

> Self-centered persons are invariably those who are not happy. They are so jealous, so calculating, self-seeking, illiberal, selfimportant, so fearful that another may adapt or adopt something in the nature of pleasure and they thereby miss the opportunity for self-appropriation in one form or another, that Happiness-the most generous and ubiquitous goddess of all-slips by unnoticed and unrecognized, laughing in her sleeve and wondering how some mortals can be so foolish.

Perhaps the only real way to demonstrate how to attain happiness is to reverse those so-called 'rules' and tell how to be unhappy. Well then, the first and most important thing to do is get yourself into such a state of mind that you know the world is against you; you have never had a chance; no one understands you; everyone else has opportunities and pleasures that you do not have. Become intensely selfish and then suspicious of everybody and assume that everyone is plotting done at this office should be addressed to against you. Then start out to be a collector of grievances.

Here is something on the subject from the Register Extension. It is worth reading, for it gives a splendid characterization of persons who make a habit of storing up and then advertising comply with the ordinances. their imagined woes:

Just as some people collect pottery, old furniture or pictures, others make a business of collecting grievances. Have you not seen them-those people who cannot get through a day, or even walk a block-without seeing or hearing or imagining something that hurts them, or angers them? Someone said something they took as a slur; somebody's nose was turned at an angle they garians of the Blease type. were sure meant a sneer; another failed to recognize them; a friend didn't follow their advice; the manager of something is not running it right; somebody

Such people always have a grievance handy and begin to tell it the minute they get you cornered-or even stopped. The cook has run away, persuaded to leave by an envious neighbor; a rival Man, finds out the "winner" that has been telling lies, and so on without end. No matter what the trouble, they draw it out into a great tale of woe, and give the impression that they are dreadfully abused and mistreated. If you could look into the mind of a person of this type you would find in each corner of those many shelved whatnots, and on each shelf a fine assortment of grievances which are turned over and rubbed up every day.

A grievance-collector is not only gathering in new troubles all the time, but cherishes the old ones as well-gets them out every day or two, pinches and punches them to see how sore they are, and then holds them up for anybody to see who will look, much as a small boy does a sore toe.

Unhappy persons (we use this term for those who make themselves unhappy—and do not forget that unhappiness and happiness both come from within) are grouches. They are wet-blanket throwers, knockers, and here is what the Hanover Record aptly says of the latter:

good and beautiful things, in order that closed June 30. Of these 173,737 asthey might be truly appreciated He cended in the elevator and 28,921 walkthen made, by way of contrast, the ed to the top. Since the monument beasts and reptiles and poisonous in- was first opened to the public, October

About the opposite of the KNOCKER the same paper recounts that:

As a compensation for this fearful pronoun I, and at once give the product He took a sunbeam and put it in the heart of a child, the love of a mother, the brain of a man, wrapped suggestion, that to be happy these in civic pride, covered it with brotherly love, gave it a mask of velvet,

And of those who are not collectors of grievances-happy folks-the Register Extension concludes with:

Those who learn to live and work and love, whether the winds blow east or west, whether the sky is fair or stormy, whether the world smiles or frowns, nods or winks, are invincible. A clean, pure heart, a sweet, poised temper, make them jokes.

Ask yourself "which is the better?" You will find, from every viewpoint, even down to the commercial, that the happy person is the winner.

There is also a midmoon, where the sun is at 12 o'clock meridian. This hour is indicated by pointing overhead.

When an Indian pointed quarter way up the sky he meant 9 o'clock; when he pointed quarter way down he meant 3 o'clock. Sunrise was the eastern horizon and sunset the western.

When there was a moon the time was indicated in the same way as by the sun. Were an Indian asked the distance to a certain place or how far and a grasp of steel, and called it a he had come he would say so many sleeps, or days' travel. A sleep, as describing distance, was about thirtyfive miles when walking deliberately or from fifty to seventy-five miles if going in haste with a message.-Philadelphia Inquirer.

The First Atlas.

The first modern atlas was the work of Abraham Ortelius, a Dutch geographer, who died 518 years ago. His monumental treatise, entitled "Theatrum Orbis Terrarum," was first published at Antwerp in 1570 and was return grievances into favors-or at worst vised and reissued five times during the author's lifetime. It was a folio volume containing nearly a hundred maps, representing the different countries and continents as they were then known. Although this atlas was a momentous achievement, yet a bright schoolboy today could draw maps from memory with a better approximation to correctness. Even England and Scotland appear in this pioneer volume with amazing distortions of coast line and relative area, and many other maps in the volume bear only a slight resemblance to those of today.-New

An Ant That Spins. The spinning ant is found in India, in Ceylon, in the islands of Malacca and in Australia. This ant weaves its nest between two leaves of a tree, build or to weave by drawing two leaves together. To do this it runs a ers and you have the authority line of its working material-material similar to the spider's thread-the to enforce the law. You have length of the leaf and around it. While at work it clings to the leaf with its nails and at the same time draws on bles. Sometimes the two leaves suitable for nest building are too far apart; ants, and they help to form a chain. Each ant clings to the waist of its neighbor by its mandibles. Thus enchained, they work to build the nest of their comrade.

That Indefinite Article.

The rule dealing with the indefinite article preceding words commencing with "u" (when pronounced "yu") does not appear to be an adamantine one. Like Macaulay, with his fondness for 'an" university, many of our best writers and speakers prefer to ignore the rule and back their fancy in this little question of euphony. As for the man in the street, the matter has long ago been settled in favor of "a" in all cases where the initial "u" has the "yu" sound, partly no doubt because such phrases as "an united people" do not come trippingly off the tongue and have an old fashioned, pedantic flavor. And there are sensitive ears that will prefer "a unique" to the more studied 'an unique."-London Chronicle.

Cultivating Amusements.

Don't provide inducements to get a child to love amusements. It may encourage a habit that will sadly interfere with a sincere and useful life Don't make a boy feel that he cannot waste too much time in having fun and catering to his senses. Life is real and earnest, and amusement is admissible at times, but should not be the rule. The manly youth is for fun, but he is not always engaged in striving for his own pleasure. He should not be educated into that idea of life. He should not be furnished with inclinations away from what is true and real in life. It is a serious matter tempering with a youth's nobler aspiration. Providing amusement is apt to prove an unnatural adjunct in education.-Columbus Journal.

Hate All Around.

The famous English chief justice Holt and his wife hated each other to the limit, and when she fell dangerously ill he was so delighted that he became digracefully tipsy. But his wife was equal to the emergency and sent for the great Dr. Radcliffe, who hated Holt, and therefore out of spite when the case was presented to him came with great promptness and saved her life.—Westminster Gazette.

Calendars of the Aztecs.

Calendars are probably the oldest form of literature in the world. The cards which appear by the millions in all civilized countries nowadays have their counterpart among the most ancient known races. The Aztecs, for example, were well supplied with calendars, and several of them have been preserved to this day. They were published in stone and set up in public

Camping Courtesy.

Good camping grounds should be the special property of sportsmen and lovers of the woods, and it is a pity that they should so often be desecrated b the unappreciative. This is the season when the forest floor will be strewn with tin cans and cracker boxes, when the clean woods will be marred with quently been found to contain only 10 all sorts of ugly rubbish, and when the pleasure of late campers will be half destroyed by the vandalism of young timber will be checked. And only people would observe the few simple rules of the woods! The forest is the last refuge of solitude amid beauty; therefore do not make its seglades into vulgar picnic grounds. Noblesse oblige there as elsewhere, and though the after comer may not know you he will know what sort of person you are by the condition of the camping grounds you leave. Countryside Magazine.

The Gold Dust Was There. North America has counted as a gold producing continent only since the late forties. But it might well have done so for about 200 years. According to the London Chronicle, in the voyage round the world which began in 1719 the privateer Captain Shelvocke found in certain California valleys "a rich black mold which, as you turn it fresh up to the sun, appears as if intermingled with gold dust. Though we were a little prejudiced," he adds, "against the thought that it could be possible that this metal should be so promiscu ously and universally mingled with common earth, yet we endeavored to cleanse and wash the earth from some of it, and the more we did the more it appeared like gold. In order to be further satisfied I brought away some of it, which we lost in our confusion in

The Number Nine.

There were nine earths, according to medieval cosmogony, nine heavens, nine rivers of hell and nine orders of angels. The number being perfection since it represented divinity was often used to signify a great quantity, as in the phrases, "A nine days' wonder," "A cat has nine lives" and "Nine tailors make a man." In Scotland a distempered cow was cured by washing her in nine surfs. To see nine magpies was considered extremely lucky. Nine knots made in a black woolen thread served as a charm in the case of a sprain. It was also believed and is still by some that if a servant girl finds nine green peas in one pod and lays them on the window sill the first man that enters will be her beau. Nine grains of wheat laid on a four leaved clover enable one, it is said, to see the fairies.

Foiling a Fakir.

A story used to be told at Cairo of Sir Richard Owen during one of his sojourns in Egypt. The great naturalist was seated in the shade on the veranda at Sheppeard's hotel when the inevitable snake charmer came to him and produced from his bag a lively specimen of the horned asp-the deadly cerastes. The professor gazed and, ing daunted stooped and plucke the horns from the head of the reptile wriggling at his feet, remarking to a bystander that the man would probably think twice before trying to palm off upon any one else a harmless snake as a cerastes by the aid of a couple of fish bones. With anybody else the charmer would probably have succeeded. He had tried it on the wrong man.

Attar of Roses.

Attar of roses, by common consent, ranks at the head of the list of perfumes. Other preparations from roses, too, hold a high place and have long been esteemed. Rosewater is historic. When Saladin entered Jerusalem in the twelfth century he had the walls of the mosque of Omar washed with But attar of oil of roses is by far the most precious and the most prized of all. An eastern prince will present to an honored guest rich jewels, rubies and diamonds and then add, as the rarest of all, a crystal bottle filled with this essence.

Not Necessarily.

"One wife too many!" exclaimed Mrs. Wederly as she glanced at the head lines of her husband's paper. "I suppose that is an account of the doings of some bigamist?"

"Not necessarily, my dear," replied her husband without daring to look up.—Buffalo Courier.

Of Course She Doesn't. "George is such a nice chap," said the girl in pink. "I always enjoy hav ing him call on me.'

"I don't," snapped the other. "Of course you don't, dear. You'd rather have him call on you."-St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Testing Woolens.

Pure woolens are adulterated even more than silk because they are in greater demand and also because they are quite easy to imitate. Many a yard of cloth sold as "pure wool" contains from 30 to 60 per cent cotton. Blankets sold as "half wool" have freper cent of pure wool. There are machines today which cleverly wrap wool around cotton threads, and the their predecessors. Great tracts of for- finished product has every appearance est will be blackened by flames set of being "all wool." Another method from little campfires. The growth of of adulterating is by taking cotton cloth and "felting" short woolen all the trouble could be banished if threads upon its surface by means of heat, moisture and pressure.

A purchaser may be fully convinced from the appearance and feeling of cloth that it is all wool, but the only safe method is to take home the samole and make tests. Immerse the sample of so called wool in oil of vitriol for about two minutes. This will destroy the cotton, but the wool will not be affected. Another test is to moisten a sample with 50 per cent nitric acid. This will turn the wool yellow, but the cotton will retain its color.-Washington Post.

Harvest From One Ad.

Do you know what was the largest harvest ever reaped from an advertisement?

It was the settlement in Pennsylvania of 100,000 German colonists at Germantown, which was the first German settlement in America. We also know that in fifty years double that many thousand Germans came to William Penn's colony.

Furthermore, history tells us that wars and religious persecutions in Germany caused this then unparalleled exodus of men and women.

But what brought them to Pennsylvania and so made of this the German commonwealth? An advertisement written by William Penn himself and distributed among the Germans along the Rhine, who had been stricken by the Thirty Years' war .-Philadelphia Ledger.

Won by Good Looks.

One man in English history owed his success in life almost wholly to his good looks. It was George Villiers, first duke of Buckingham. James I was wanting a private secretary, and when young Villiers applied for the position the king was much impressed with the beauty of his person and the gracefulness of his manners. He gave him the place, and that was the beginning of a great career. From that time to the end of James' reign the history of England was in great part the per sonal history of George Villiers, the adventurer-first the cupbearer, in a few weeks knighted, then made gentleman of the bedchamber and knight of the Order of the Garter; then successively he was made a baron, a viscount, an earl, a marquis and lord high admiral of England.

Snubbed the Composer.

Gustav Mahler had a queer experi ence in Munich one day for which his name was partly responsible. His new symphony was being rehearsed, and he took advantage of an hour's intermission to get some fresh air. "On return ing to the building," says a Munich paper, "he lost his way and tried to reach the hall through a corridor in which plasterers were at work. 'You cannot pass through here,' he was told. 'But I am Mahler.' (Mahler is the German for painter.) 'You look it,' was the unsympathetic reply of the man who blocked his way. 'We are not ready for the painters yet, so run on.' And the composer, realizing that argument would be useless, plunged into the labyrinth and finally reached his destination."

Matter of Taste.

Now comes a learned man, a doctor, who says there is no reason on earth why people should not eat bugs. Well, this is a free country, doc, and just to show you that our heart is right we hereby notify you that you are welcome to our share of potato bugs and buffalo moths if the per capita supply does not satisfy your appetite. P. S.-Would you advise eating them with sugar and cream or salt and vinegar?-Ohio State Journal.

PROCLAMATION

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND CREATING A BUDGET SYSTEM.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1916, an Act was pass-ed, to-wit: Chapter 159 of said Acts, being an Act to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, "Legislative Department," of the Con-stitution of this State; and which said Act is in words and figures following:

"CHAPTER 159.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, regulating the making of appropriations by the General Assembly of Maryland in regular session, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Action of the Constitution and subject to the Governor's power of appropriation Bill shall be presented to the Governor of the State as provided in Section 17 of Article III of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said Section shall apply. Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the Legislature from passing at any time in accordance with the provisions of Section 28 of Article III of the Constitution and subject to the Governor's power of ap-

Treasury except in accordance with the following provisions: Sub-Section A:

Every appropriation bill shall be either a Budget Bill, or a Supplementary Ap-propriation Bill, as hereinafter men-and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it relates; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such surplus or deficit of the State; (3) the debts and funds of the State; (4) an estimate of the State's financial condi-learings on all estimates and may re-

County Agents Demonstrate Value of Improved Varieties in Many Sections

Selected Seed Grown at State Experiment Station

Average Increase Of Five Bushels Per Acre Secured-Wheat Growers Should Get In Touch With Their County Agents.

College Park, Aug. 24.—Farmers in many sections of Maryland have increased their wheat yield during the last year by the use of improved varieties. These varieties have been on test at the Maryland State Experiment Station for a number of years and during the last two seasons, have been grown extensively in most wheat sections of the State under the direction of the County Demonstration Agents.

In regard to selecting wheat of superior varieties, Prof. Nickolas Schmitz, of the Maryland State Experiment Station, says, "Of the many varieties originally under test, some have been found to be very inferior and in consequence, have been discarded. Others were found that yielded well in a favorable season, but did not stand up when conditions were at all unfavorable. Still other varieties produce well almost every year, regardless of conditions and even in a very unfavorable season maintain a much higher yield than the poor varieties. It is in these last varieties that we are the most interested, since the record of their yields has been uniformly high, and they have proven their yielding qualities, not only at the Experiment Station, but in many sections of the State, where they have been grown on private farms side by side with the native varieties. "Compare these figures, and the wheat grower will see that the better varieties in a test of five years have lead the poorer and more commonly grown wheats of the State by an average increase of five bushels per acre, surely a gain worth considering, if, as we believe, it can be obtained by the seeding of improved varieties. Interested wheat growers should get in of improved varieties is desired."

Dates for Sowing Wheat

College Park, Md., Aug. 24.-The Hessian Fly has caused more or less severe injury in all parts of the State the past season. In some cases, it has reduced the crop of wheat from 25 to 50 per cent. The general increase of the pest makes it necessary for farmers to exercise every care in preventing, as far as possible, severe injury another year.

In regard to the pest, Director T. B. Symons, of the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service, says, "The insect passes the summer in the wheat stub. No volunteer wheat should be allowed to grow during the summer. Rotation of crops is very beneficial. On farms where the pest has been serious, a narrow plat of wheat should be sowed along one side of the field about September 1st to 10th, depending on locality, as baits for the Fly. Later, this can be plowed down.

"From observations and records, and considering the latitude and altitude at the various points, wheat should not be sowed in the surrounding country of the following cities and towns of the State before the dates given: Hagerstown .....Oct. 1st-7th

Frederick .....Oct. 3rd-10th Westminster ... Sept. 26th to Oct. 5th Rockville .....Oct. 2nd-8th Germantown .....Oct. 2nd-8th Ellicott City .....Oct. 2nd-9th La Plata .....Oct. 9th-18th Cockeysville .....Oct. 3rd-10th Bel Air .....Oct. 2nd-9th Chestertown .....Oct. 6th-16th Easton .....Oct. 9th-16th Salisbury .....Oct. 10th-17th

"Dates of sowing for adjoining sections to the above can be figured by moving forward the date of sowing one day for each one-quarter degree latitude North, and one day for each 100 feet gain in altitude from a given

Boys' Clnb Members Urged to Make a Specialty of Seed Selection by County Agents

Corn Grown Under Average Field Conditions Desirable

Increased Yield Of 10 To 30 Per Cent. Secured - Should Be Stored In a Dry Place.

College Park, Aug. 31.—The fact that much higher yields of corn can be secured from the careful selection of seed corn has become generally recognized by farmers throughout the State. Members of the Boys' Corn Clubs of the various counties are being especially urged to specialize in field selection by their County Demonstration Agents.

According to Prof. Nickolas Schmitz, of the Maryland State Agricultural Experiment Station, the proper selection of seed corn is the first step toward a profitable corn crop. In this connection he says, "Now is the time to make the proper selection of your seed corn. Don't consider seed good simply because it will grow. It should also retain its full vigor. The only way full vigor can be retained is to take care of the seed properly. This can be done by selecting the seed before storing it. The superiority of properly preserved seed over that picked from the crib, even though the crib seed germinates well, has been proven over and over again, the increase in yield in the well-preserved seed over crib-picked seed usually running from 10 to 30 per cent. "The only proper way to select seed corn is from the standing stalks. As soon as the crop ripens, go through the field with a basket or bag hung across the shoulder and husk the corn from desirable stalks that have produced good-sized ears without having any special advantages of air, moisture and fertility. Avoid very large ears on stalks standing single or with a large amount of space around them. Preference should be given those plants that have produced well in competition with a full stand. Late-maturing plants with ears which are heavy because of an excessive amount of sap should be passed by; sappiness is likely to de stroy quality. Everything being equal, short, thick stalks are preferable. They are not so easily blown down, permit thicker planting, and in general, are more productive than slender stalks. The position of the ear is also important. It should not be too high, as the higher the ear is placed on the stalk, the more apt the stalk is to blow down in case of a storm. The ear should also have a tendency to droop rather than to point upward, because of the danger of water getting into the husk and causing sprouting of molding. It is an inherited tendency of corn to produce suckers; therefore, other things being equal, seed should be taken from stalks not having suckers.

"The most important step in seed selection, however, is to place the ears selected in a dry place with free circulation of air, so that they will dry out quickly. The storage room may be any place where air circulates freely, such as a wagon shed, barn loft, or attic. But do not throw the seed on a pile; that would not be much improvement over the crib. Tie the ears in bunches on a string or in some other way, placing them so that there is free circulation of air around each ear. The seed should be left in this manner until it is as 'dry as a bone,' which usually takes about two months. After this it may be stored in mouse-proof boxes or barrels or crates if desired, or they may be allowed to remain where they

Hastening the Moult

College Park, Md., Aug. 81 .- Poul try keepers are inquiring daily how early moulting may be secured in order to hasten the laying of fall eggs. From his personal experience, Poultryman Roy H. Waite, of the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, does not recommend a forced moult. He Oakland ......Sept. 12th-19th says, "It is possible to hasten the process and get a new set of feathers on the birds in short order, but several experiments have shown that where the moult has been forced the hens laid later than when they were allowed to moult naturally. Give the moulting hens plenty of feed rich in protein. The feathers contain large amounts of this product and make a heavy drain upon the bird's supply. The feathers will grow out after a fashion even though the hens are not fed a special feed, but they will not come through with the same degree of health and vitality they would have if properly cared for.

"In addition to the regular rations, give a small proportion of linseed meal. About 10 per cent. of the regular mash has been found to be good. This would be ten pounds of linseed meal to each ninety pounds of the mash mixture. If sunflower seeds are available, they make an excellent The adoption of a uniform, safe | moulting feed, but it would hardly pay to buy them at present prices, unless you are raising special exhibition
