LIVED IN THE MIDST OF TRAGEDY

Emperor Francis Joseph Very Democratic.—Beloved by His Subjects.—Worked Hard.

During the reign of Francis Joseph that monarch saw the world torn by many wars; among them the Crimean, the Indian Mutiny, the Civil War in America, Austria's war against Prussia, the Spanish-American War, the Boer War, the Russo-Japanese Wars, Italy's War with Turkey, Balkan Wars and now this greatest of all wars, the European conflict.

His habits were very simple and as he grew older and sadder he worked harder and permitted himself fewer recreations. His breakfast, taken at 5 o'clock in the morning, usually consisted of freshly boiled ham, rolls and coffee. After this he smoked a three-cent cigar, strolled for an hour about the palace grounds and then got down to the serious business of being Emperor. He seldom slept more than five hours.

The Emperor was extremely popular with his people, a popularity which reached beyond the army. His tall, gaunt figure was familiar to every Viennese. Whenever he rode through the streets he was unguarded, and crowds always collected and cheered him as he rode by. In the field he was the embodiment of energy and would wear out three or four horses in a day.

Forest Fire Season Here.

Frederick county forest patrols are keeping a wary eye for fires. With the exception of several conflagrations of a minor nature reported in the mountainous sections, there have been few disastrous fires in Frederick county this year. Several weeks ago about 10 acres of valuable timber land near Doubts were burned over. The fire was extinguished after having burned for about 24 hours.

With the mountains covered with a layer of dry leaves several feet deep in places there is grave danger of forest fires. A carelessly discarded cigarette, cigar or ashes from a pipe would be sufficient to start a fire that would result in the destruction of thousands of dollars' worth of timber.

About a year ago Frederick county was swept by the worst forest fire in its history. In fact there were a succession of forest fires which began in the fall and continued until late spring. About 10,000 acres of timber land is said to have been burned over.

There are 2,390,000 blind persons in the world.

FROM THE COUNTY.

Chester Leroy Baker, son of Henry Baker, of Frederick, was killed Saturday as a result of a wreck on the Hagerstown and Frederick Railroad, in which two freight cars, being pushed by a freight motor, smashed in head-on collision with another railroad car at a point about three miles west of Frederick. Young Baker was traveling to Frederick with his elder brother, who has been an employe of the Hagers town and Frederick Company, when the two freight cars crashed into the car which was rounding a curve on its way from Braddock Heights to Frederick. The front of the eastbound car was telescoped and the Frederick youth was crushed in the wreckage.

Roscoe Brandenburg, 21 years old, a trooper, who was in Gen. J. J. Pershing's punitive expedition south of the Rio Grande, is dead in camp "somewhere in Mexico." Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brandenburg, of Harmony, Md., his parents received information of his death in a telegram from the captain of Troop L, Fifth Regiment, United States Cavalry, of which he was a member for over a year before he joined the punitive expedition.

At his home in New Market, Frederick county, Prof. John E. McCahon, formerly assistant superintendent of public education in Baltimore, and who spent more than 40 years in the school system of the city, died last week after a long illness. He was 84 years old.

The Frederick Masons who made the York trip last Thursday reached Frederick on their return trip about three o'clock Friday morning. The Masons report the trip a most enjoyable one. A banquet was served after the meeting and at this 500 persons were seated. The menu was a splendid one. Jacob Rohrbach, F. B. Sappington, Sr., Leo Weinberg, F. W. Cramer and G. O. Garber were the local members to speak.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Mary E. Keller, at Braddock Heights, last Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Keller's daughter, Miss Edna Manzella Keller, became the bride of Arthur Foster Clark, of Baltimore. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. Dr. Geo. A. Snyder, of Christ Reformed church, Middletown.

The "wet" and "dry" fight in Frederick county, which ended November 7, when the county went "dry" by a majority of more than 800, has left a bitter factional feeling. The "wets," it seems, are determined to send a "wet" delegation to the Maryland Legislature when it convenes next year. It is said that supporters of the anti-prohibition movement are boycotting "dry" merchants in Frederick city, and vice versa.

Without regaining consciousness, Snyder H. Bennett, of Brunswick, the second victim of the automobile accident at Peonian Springs, Va., died Friday afternoon at 4.45 o'clock in the Leesburg Hospital. His wife, who was injured at the same time, is in a very critical condition. Miss Dora George, sister of Mrs. Bennett, who was hurt the least, is improving.

In the annual gridiron test last Saturday, Yale triumphed over Princeton 10 to 0. Harry LeGore, of Frederick county, was dubbed the individual star of the game, scoring the lone touchdown made by Yale. Several counties witnessed the game.

Announcement was made Monday of the consolidation of the First National Bank of Monrovia, Md. William R. Murphy, president, with the Central Trust Company of Maryland, of which Emery L. Coblenz is president, and which has its main bank in Frederick. The deal will in no way interfere with the business of the Monrovia banking institution, which will be operated in connection with the Trust Company. (Continued on page 2.)

Soon to Double Track the W. M.

In the near future it is likely that millions will be spent in double tracking portions of the W. M. R. R. system. A feature of this plan is the creation of a general mortgage bond issue amounting to $150,000,000, a portion of which will be utilized in meeting the cost of double tracking, relocation work and enlargement of terminals.

The Western Maryland has a double track between Baltimore and Emory Grove and also has the effect of a double track through the operation of the Baltimore and Harrisburg division, which leaves the main line at Emory Grove and joins it again at Highfield. Double-track portions have also been constructed between Hagerstown and Cumberland, and other stretches are now being built. A few months ago the management completed about four miles of double track between Edgemont and Highfield.

PRESIDENT WILSON

MR. HUGHES CONGRATULATES THE PRESIDENT.

Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for President in the recent election, Wednesday night sent to President Wilson a telegram congratulating him upon his re-election. In his telegram Mr. Hughes said: "Because of the closeness of the vote, I have awaited the official count in California, and now that it has been virtually completed permit me to extend to you my congratulations upon your re-election. I desire also to express my best wishes for a successful administration."

A THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

It has long been the custom of our people to turn in the fruitful autumn of the year in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for His many blessings and mercies to us as a nation. The year that has elapsed since we last observed our day of Thanksgiving has been rich in blessings to us as a people, but the whole face of the world has been darkened by war. In the midst of our peace and happiness our thoughts dwell with painful disquiet upon the struggles and sufferings of the nations at war and of the peoples upon whom war has brought disaster without choice or possibility of escape on their part. We cannot think of our own happiness without thinking also of their pitiful distress.

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do appoint Thursday, the 30th of November, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, and urge and advise the people to resort to their several places of worship on that day to render thanks to Almighty God for the blessings of peace and unbroken prosperity which He has bestowed upon our beloved country in such unstinted measure. And I also urge and suggest our duty in this, our day of peace and abundance, to think in deep sympathy of the stricken peoples of the world upon whom the curse and terror of war has so pitilessly fallen, and to contribute out of our abundant means to the relief of their sufferings. Our people could in no better way show their real attitude toward the present struggle of the nations than by contributing out of their abundance to the relief of the suffering which war has brought in its train.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington, this 17th day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-first.

"Dry" lawyers say the act is legal and that the election will stand.

21,883 MACHINE GUNS FOR ARMY

Special Board Orders Immediate Purchase of 4,600 of the Vickers Heavy Type.

Immediate purchase of 4,600 Vickers machine guns of the present adopted heavy type and the subsequent purchase of a total of 8,015 heavy type and 9,268 light type machine guns within the next four years are recommended in the report of the special Board appointed in September by Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, to consider the quantity and character of machine guns required for the army.

One of the chief reasons for assembling this Board was to settle a controversy which has long raged in army circles regarding whether the United States army is employing the best type or types of machine guns, and specifically to determine the reliability and value of the Lewis machine gun which is reported to have rendered extraordinary service in the allied armies in Europe. The Lewis gun, is a light type of machine rifle.

The Board made no finding as to the relative value of types of light machine guns, but recommended that a test of such guns be conducted at the armory at Springfield, Mass. In that test the Lewis gun, the Benet-Mercier, the Colt and other types will be tried out, and the widest range will be given to the experiments, including firing from aeroplanes.

The Board report states:—"Should this country become engaged in war in the near future the Board recommends the purchase of all Vickers machine rifles that the Colt's Patent Firearms Manufacturing Company, all Lewis guns that the Savage Arms Company and all Colt rifles that the Marlin Arms Corporation can make until the total quantity required is procured."

Then "madam" and "level" were brought out and finally it was remarked that there was a whole sentence that could be read backwards. The company laughed at the idea, but the speaker said, "Reverse this sentence, 'snug and raw was I ere I saw war and guns'" and you will find it reads just the same.

Editorial Comment By Various Newspapers On The Result Of The Election

The Democrats have won. Or, rather Mr. Wilson has won. He has held for one reason or another, more Democratic votes than any other Democratic candidate could have done, and has won more Republican votes than would have gone to another.

The defeat of Mr. Hughes settles one matter of more vital and further-reaching moment than any temporary policies of politics, than the fortunes of any candidate or party. It takes and will keep the Supreme Court out of politics. It means that the Justices of the Supreme Court are to regard themselves as incapable of political ambitions.

It would be idle to seek to explain away the fact revealed by the returns, or to try to find another meaning than the obvious one. No one could look at the reconstructed political map of the United States and honestly regard the issue as other than what it is, a definite acceptance by the greater portion of the country of the Wilson methods and policies.

Mr. Wilson's victory is a notable one. He will probably receive more popular votes than any Democrat that ever ran for the Presidency. To overcome the united Republican and Progressive vote was a herculean feat, which could have been accomplished only by a man in whom there is great public confidence.

Wholly ignoring party lines, a great portion of the American people saw only the future welfare of their country at stake, while others loving peace and hating war, undoubtedly felt that the destinies of this country are far safer in the hands of Woodrow Wilson than they would have been in the flabby and uncertain care of Charles Evans Hughes.

The President has made a splendid race, in the face of a powerful combination of forces and conditions. The money power and the foreign sympathizers on both sides concentrated vast resources of money, political skill and energy and never was there a more determined fight made upon a President whose record deserved approbation.

He has gained overnight the incalculable prestige of a personal indorsement from the country—he himself is the Democratic party—he is today probably more than ever in American history the dictator of his party, the czar of his cabinet—and therefore the sole and responsible chief executive and servant of his countrymen.

Democracy may well be proud of the leadership of Woodrow Wilson and the stout and inspiring fight which the party made against the most powerful influences in American politics. The big business interests drove hard and strong to beat Woodrow Wilson, but they scored their victories only in the eastern States.

We have never disguised our conviction that Mr. Wilson is qualified, as is no other American statesman, to guide the destinies of his country at this time and particularly in the field of domestic policy, "and we desire as little as possible to disguise our satisfaction that the reins of power are to remain in his capable hands."

The people have weighed in the balance against his record of accomplishment at home and abroad the charges and promises of his opponents, and have decided that on the score of experience and faithful performance he deserves to be entrusted with the leadership of the nation for another four years. They knew the President by his deeds, they estimated his opponent by the only available test, his associations and his utterances.

It need hardly be said here, taking the result indicated as correct, that a new era has dawned in American politics and a new life has opened for democracy, and by that is not meant the term designating a mere partisan organization, but that the everlasting principles of human rights and liberties have been revitalized and made instinct with the spirit of renewed Americanism by the incomparable statesmanship of Woodrow Wilson.

It is inspiring to find that the people have not repudiated their great executive; have not given ear altogether to the nagging and fault-finding of his political enemies; have not served notice on the world that his wise foreign policies have been vetoed by the nation; have not, in short, been ungrateful for services of a high order rendered.

It is a victory of, for and by the American people. The line of States carried by Mr. Wilson belts the country without a break from coast to coast to coast. It is a natural alliance, a thoroughly healthy one, and constitutes the most powerful protest the nation has yet witnessed against the turning over of the government to the predatory interests which were in full assault upon it.

There is no conclusion, except that the Republican party's grip on the American mind, as the party of ability and prosperity, the party of Lincoln and loyalty, is slipping.

The election of 1916 has passed into history—the nation has set the seal of its commendation upon the administration of President Wilson. He not only has a majority in the electoral college but what is even more significant, he has a popular plurality of some four hundred thousand. A constitutional victory, that is, a mere majority in the electoral college, without a popular plurality would have been very unsatisfactory.

The victory is more than a party triumph—it is highly creditable to the country, and especially to that part of the country which is responsible for the result.

We will have an annual capacity here of about 1,250,000 tons of steel; and we will pay out in freight rates to transportation companies entering Baltimore some $20,000,000 a year."

Miss Ethel Elizabeth Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Eugene Ross and Mr. George H. Dawson, Assistant State Auditor, were married at Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, Cambridge, Md., Wednesday morning, the rector, the Rev. Edwin S. Hinks, officiating.

Baltimore city's 1917 tax rate was fixed at $1.98 on the $100 by the Board of Estimates Wednesday. The suburban rate will be $1.30 and the rural rate 66 cents. The full city rate is 15 cents lower than the rate paid by taxpayers during the current year, when $2.13 was charged.

The expense account of Frederick N. Zihlman, successful Republican candidate for Congress in the Sixth Maryland district, filed with the clerk of the Circuit Court, shows that he spent $312.23 of the $1,203 contributed to his campaign fund. The Republican National Committee gave $500; Galen L. Rait, Republican chairman, $500; the Chevy Chase Hughes Club, $100, and the rest came from individuals.

MOUNTAIN TEAM WINS ANOTHER

Beats Washington College By 13 to 6 Score.—Euker, Mulhearn and Sheridan Played Best for Mount St. Mary's.

Mount St. Mary's football squad defeated Washington College team at Chestertown, Md., Saturday afternoon by the score of 13 to 6.

Although a few spectacular plays were made the contest was interesting, especially in the second half. The Mountaineers kicked off and the ball bounded back, Bill Wallace falling on it on the 15 yard line. Washington punted and after the ball changed hands a number of times, Mount St. Mary's charged down the field, ripping through Washington's line for consistent gains, and Euker took the ball on a delayed pass and circled an end for 15 yards and the first score. Sheridan failed to kick goal.

In the second quarter Mount Saint Mary's line opened up holes through the tackles, Sheridan and Drury carrying the ball for consistent gains. A long forward pass, Leberetz to Rodgers, resulted in the second touchdown, Rodgers running 20 yards to the goal line. Sheridan kicked goal.

Washington in the second half, carried the ball down the field, but a bad pass was costly and Mount St. Mary's got the ball on downs. The pigskin saw-sawed back and forth, with honors even, in the fourth quarter, and the game ended with the ball in the Mountaineers' possession on Washington's 40-yard line. Brown's attempted dropkick from the 45-yard line fell short in the first period, while Sheridan's two attempts also went wide of the mark. Euker Mulhearn and Sheridan played best for Mount St. Mary's. Line up:

FROM THE COUNTY.

It is said that the National Bank, under the law, was unable to negotiate loans for more than $3500, and was unable to take care of its patron's needs. The Central Trust Company is the oldest banking concern in Frederick county, having been established in 1808, and has now resources exceeding $1,700,000. While the terms of the merger have not been made public, it is understood that the price paid for about 70 per cent. of the stock was in the neighborhood of $130 per share, par value $100.

Frederick county's campaign to raise $50,000 for the erection of a needed Hood College dormitory was launched Tuesday morning by representative business men of both the city and county. While a tidy sum was raised, the exact amount not being published, because of incomplete reports, the heads of the various teams devoted the greater part of the day to strengthening their organizations and getting a line on the prospects.

Miss Mary Isabelle Ramsburgh daughter of Mrs. Laura Maynard Ramsburgh and the late Henry Beeson Ramsburgh, and James Jaffray Robb, of Columbia, South Carolina, were married Tuesday morning. The ceremony was performed in the Evangelical Reformed church, Frederick, by the pastor, Rev. Henri L. G. Kieffer. The ring ceremony was used.

That the total cost of the general election, registration and primary election in Frederick county will be approximately $8,000 was the statement Wednesday morning of Joseph F. Eisenhauer, president of the Board of Supervisors of Elections. Mr. Eisenhauer said that $8,000 was the amount levied for by the county commissioners to cover the expense, and he did not think those figures would be exceeded. There are yet some few outstanding bills which have not been received, and as soon as these are in the cost can be totalled. The greatest part of the election expense was incurred through salaries to judges and clerks and registration officials. The primary election on May 1, cost $2,631.06, less $225 paid in by the candidates as filing fee, making the net cost to the county $2,406.06.

The condition of Milton G. Urner, Jr., who was knocked down and run over by an automobile driven by J. Otis King, on East church street, Frederick, Sunday afternoon, was reported somewhat improved, Wednesday.

No, the store itself does not smile, but everybody in it does.

We have here a Store Family of nearly 1400 contented, happy people. Contented, because they are receiving a fair compensation for their service—a compensation which they themselves regulate in proportion to their own effort and efficiency.

Happy, because they are fairly treated, and because their only concern is to see that every customer is given courteous, honest, helpful service.

It is a store which you will like to visit—not the cold, awe-inspiring business machine which many department stores are, but a human store—a store with a personality—an organization of nearly 1400 souls with but the single purpose of serving you well—and smilingly.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE--ACADEMY

Valley Echoes

It will be of interest to the many friends of Miss Louise Haberman, A. B. of Crafton, Pa., to know that this young lady is pursuing a secretarial course in Pittsburgh, preparatory to doing some work in this line.

The students of S. J. C. had the happy privilege of attending the annual Fair given at St. Euphemia's Hall on last Friday afternoon. This is one of the events eagerly anticipated as the oyster supper is proverbial.

Mrs. Fannie Seay Castleman, Greensboro, Ala., who has been making an extended visit in Emmitsburg left last week for Castleman's Ferry, Va. where she will remain for a short time before returning farther south.

An interesting group of earnest students, Misses Alice Barry, '18; Evelyn Castleman, '19; Katherine Koons, chaperoned by Mrs. Fannie Seay Castleman, recently motored to Hagerstown spending the day and returning to St. Joseph's in the evening.

Mr. Edward S. Mahoney, of Portsmouth, Va., made a short but pleasant visit to Emmitsburg last Saturday. Mr. Mahoney has two daughters who will graduate from St. Joseph's this year and a son who is registered at Mount St. Mary's this September.

Miss Alice C. Barry '18 paid a short visit to her home in Lancaster last Wednesday with the expectation of leaving Friday morning for Baltimore where she will attend the Federation Convention. Miss Barry will be chaperoned by her aunts, the Misses Alice Reilly and Elizabeth Barry, both of Lancaster, Pa.

Miss M. Stella McBride, Secretary of the Alumnae, left this week to attend the Convention of the Federation of Catholic Alumnae in Baltimore. After the week's business affairs are over Miss McBride will pay an extended visit to Mrs. Nettie Jenkins at her home, "Jackwood," Lake Roland, Md.

Bag Law Limit Is Eight Rabbits.
 Probably not aware that the law carries a bag limit of eight rabbits in any one day, a number of Frederick county hunters have, according to reports, shot more than their allowance on some occasions this season. The law providing for the bag limit was passed at the last session of the legislature, and carries the following limits on the amount of game which can be taken in any one day.

Eight rabbits, 10 squirrels, 10 jack-snipe, three pheasants, five woodcocks. A severe penalty is likewise provided for violation, the fine being $5 for each and every piece of game taken in excess of the amounts prescribed.

Beginning Wednesday, November 15, and continuing until March 1, the season will be open for trapping of muskrat, skunk, fox, raccoon, mink or opossum. This will give a period of about three and a half months for trapping.

The privilege of attending the Convention of the Federation this week in Baltimore has been granted to all members of the collegiate classes. Many are taking advantage of this unique occasion and as a consequence St. Joseph's College will be upheld by vive voce as well as by the voice of the past. Several of St. Joseph's Faculty will also represent Emmitsburg.

Last Sunday Miss Agnes Cogan entertained her friends at dinner at the home of Miss Lizzie Hopp. The occasion was a complete success if one may judge by the cheerful countenances of the returning guests. The class is a unit in thanks to Mr. John Cogan, Agnes' father through whose courtesy the invitation was extended and who volunteered to chaperon the happy crowd of young folks.

On Tuesday evening of this week Mrs. George Thomas Courtney, a celebrated art lecturer from Detroit, Michigan gave an illustrated lecture entitled "Famous Portraits by the Old Masters." Doges, popes, princes, great Roman ladies, exquisite Venetian dames as well as the dainty beauties of Reynolds and Gainsborough were made to live again for a few vivid moments upon the screen at St. Joseph's. The educational value of such an evening can hardly be overestimated.

It gives us much pleasure to quote the following lines from a letter received from a loyal member of the Class of '16, who is evidently taking a lively interest in our efforts to make this column a success: "Much to my delight I received all the Chronicles for the past few weeks and I am thankful to you for the renewal of my subscription. Nothing can take the place of those weekly 'Valley Echoes,' so greatly do they interest me, and so far, they have been excellent." What an incentive to others to renew their subscriptions or to begin taking a copy of "Valley Echoes."

In years past there has been considerable of this sport indulged in, and it is not likely to fall off any this year. Muskrat fur is said to be particularly valuable just now, in view of the high prices for almost every commodity, and there are a number of people in the county who each fall and winter make good money at this work.

The law also prohibits the selling of game shot in this county, it providing that "it shall be unlawful to sell or offer for sale or ship outside of said county for sale any rabbit shot, taken or trapped in Frederick county." The sale of woodcock, squirrels, pheasants, partridges and snipe is also prohibited. State's Attorney Anders said, however it was not illegal to sell in Frederick game which has been killed in the county, but it cannot be shipped out for sale. Snare for rabbits, partridges and pheasants are forbidden.

The Fairy Queen's Lovely Valentine Party.

Down Dropped Heart Shaped Boxes.

IT was Valentine's eve in Fairyland, and all the fairies were dancing around, dressed in lovely, flimsy red frocks. They carried little red wands from which dangled red hearts, and on their heads they wore red crowns with bright spangles.

"On all the trees were big strings of red hearts, which went from tree to tree. Over the grass they had spread a big red rug, upon which already some of the fairies were dancing. Every fairy had made a valentine for the fairy queen, and they were all scattered about the queen's throne, which was also decorated with red hearts. The fairy queen had not yet arrived, as she was going to give them a surprise.

"Before long they heard a tinkling of bells, and, riding in a bright red coach drawn by 100 red lizards, appeared the fairy queen. She was dressed in an exquisite red trailing gown, and in her hair she had a wreath of geranium blossoms. Two red birds acted as her coachman and footman and helped her alight from the coach.

"Come and see your valentines, fairy queen!" they shouted after they'd recovered from the excitement of the queen's new coach. Her coachman and footman and the 100 lizards stood by the coach watching everything.

"So the fairy queen opened countless little red envelopes in which were the lovely valentines the fairies had made. The fairy queen was delighted and thanked the little fairies again and again for them, and then she said:

"When I wave my wand from all the trees around will fall valentines, so that each little fairy will have one."

"So with a flourish of her wand all the trees began to tremble and then wave around as if a storm were coming, but in a second down dropped little red heart shaped boxes. Each fairy scampered about wildly to get a valentine.

"None of them could open the valentines until the fairy queen said so, as they all had magic locks.

"At last every fairy had one, and the fairy queen waved her wand, saying, 'Open lids, open valentines!' at which every little red heart shaped box popped open and out sprang from each a little red coral necklace. From each necklace hung a glittering heart shaped charm on which was written, 'To My Valentine, From the Fairy Queen, Feb. 14.'

"How wonderful!" shouted Evelyn. "The fairies must have been delighted."

"Then they all had the most marvelous supper on a long table decorated with red bonbons and lighted with little red lanterns, and the fairies said it was the loveliest valentine party they had ever had."

Laughter and Crying.
 Why do we laugh when a man slips on a banana peel?
 The latest answer to this ancient question comes from Dr. George W. Crile in "The Origin and Nature of Emotions." It may be summed up briefly in the words of the Journal of Heredity, "Laughter and crying are two forms of the same mechanism—a human safety valve to prevent the results of emotion from injuring the body."

According to Dr. Crile, "the muscular action of laughter clears the system of the energizing substances which have been mobilized in various parts of the body for other actions." Your first impulse is to rush to the aid of the falling man. When he picks himself up unhurt there is no need to help him, so your system relieves itself in laughter. If he breaks his skull you help him and thus consume the energy without laughter.

Arabic Numerals.

An illustration of what mankind owes to the labor saving Arabic numerals compared with preceding forms of notation is shown in adding 1848 to 1848, the sum which is expressed in only four figures, or 3696. Meantime in Roman characters we would have to denote 1848 with the capital letters MDCCXLVIII. Repeating these letters explains why Cleero complained of the sweating toil of all addition. On that account Homer's total of Agamemnon's fleet is not the correct sum of the different contingents to it which he gives of the Grecian states. Herodotus is worse yet when he gives the total figures of Xerxes' army after enumerating the quotas of the various nationalities which composed it. Likewise what a life insurance company would now do without Arabic numerals may be imagined.

Baths of Diocletian.

It is said that when the baths of Diocletian were in operation they must have accommodated not fewer than 3,000 bathers at a time. With some of the emperors bathing seems to have been a sort of fad, as they expended vast sums in the erection of bathhouses and bathing apparatus. Diocletian, however, does not depend entirely on the baths for his place in history. He became emperor in 284 A. D. and abdicated in 305. Two years before his abdication he became very active in persecuting Christians, so much so that in the annals of martyrdom his reign is alluded to as "the Diocletian era." It is said that the Diocletian baths were built by Christians, 40,000 of them being compelled to do the work.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Water For the Baby.
 Infants suffer from not having enough water to drink. Babies are thirsty and frequently cry from the discomfort due to thirst.
 In proportion to its weight an average infant during the first year of life requires a little more than six times as much water as an adult. During the time when the child is upon an entirely fluid diet the addition of much water other than that supplied by the food is unnecessary. The food (breast milk) of all young mammals consists of from 80 to 90 per cent of water. This is needed for the solution of certain parts of the food, such as the sugar and some of the proteins, and for the suspension of the other proteins and the emulsified fat. All the food is thus dissolved and minutely divided so as to be the more readily acted upon by the feeble digestive organs of the infant.
 When the feeding becomes less frequent water to drink (from a bottle with a nipple on it) should be given to drink between the feedings. In summer time especially babies suffer a great deal from thirst.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg. No people are more wide-awake, more knowledgeable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians. The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatchable; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 107 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md

THE PRESIDENT.

The "recount" is over, felicitations—somewhat tardy it is true—have been extended and Mr. Wilson is re-elected; not by a strict party vote, but by the vote of the American people independent of party. His re-election is a tribute to the confidence reposed in him by the Nation, and as such the outcome of the 7th of November must be accepted.

It was a hard fought battle—a battle, so to say, between one man bigger than his party and a re-united party, plus the most powerful influences of Wall Street, the railroads and "big business" wonderfully well organized and plethorically capitalized, having for its motto: "Anything To Beat Wilson."

The issue before the people was, to quote a pre-election editorial in the Baltimore Sun: "Shall we change a certain good for a mere indefinite promise that the Republican party has something better up its sleeve? Is there not a risk that we would get a gold brick, now, in such a speculation, just as the country thought it would get a silver brick in putting Mr. Bryan in the White House?"

Mr. Wilson made certain promises four years ago, during his candidacy. These promises were a part of the Democratic platform. The people elected Mr. Wilson to fulfill those promises, and he and his party did fulfill them.

And, knowing this, and tacitly approving that programme of achievement, Mr. Wilson's opponents adroitly refrained from pledging themselves to revoke the beneficent measures put through by Mr. Wilson. Mr. Hughes and his official champions took another tack; they resorted to direful predictions, and for argument they substituted abuse and any sort of evasion, in an effort to becloud the real issue.

But the voters—the majority of them, at least—clung to their belief that the factor most essential in the development of this country during the next four years was the man who had demonstrated that he was in touch with the spirit of the times—Woodrow Wilson.

The right attitude in the circumstances—the right attitude for all patriotic Americans—is that of the Philadelphia Inquirer (Republican) which says: "The country has had its say, and it is the duty of every American citizen to acquiesce cheerfully in the decision. And it is no part of this duty to tear down, but to build up. The administration, therefore, will receive the cordial support of this journal in every patriotic and progressive movement that it may engage in. The welfare of the Nation is of much more importance than party advantage. Indeed, it is everything, and the head of the Nation is the President, who must be respected as such."

MR. MERCHANT:—

Before you know it Christmas will be here.

Have you, Mr. Merchant, completed your orders for Christmas goods?

Have you, Mr. Buyer, Mrs. Buyer, Miss and Master Buyer—have you planned your Christmas shopping? especially with the local shops in view?

Local stores must not only have Christmas things that people want, but they must have them ready and displayed in plenty of time.

Moreover local merchants must Advertise what they have to offer, and they should begin now—otherwise the buying public, not knowing what is at home will "send away" for goods which those in other places are advertising.

In order to keep trade at home, Mr. Merchant, it is up to you to invite people to your place of business—to invite them as soon as you make your display. This will allow the shopper ample opportunity for inspection, and it will give you the chance to order specially certain goods for which there is a demand and which you have not anticipated.

The courteous, loyal thing for home people to do is to give the home stores at least an equal show with the City stores. Local folks can certainly tell the local merchants what they need; they can request an "on approval" order of anything that may be desired, and the home stores will gladly accede to the request. The result will be satisfied customers, pleased merchants.

"Advertising," says an expert, "is telling the people what you have that they desire in such a way that they come to you for it."

Advertise, then, Mr. Merchant, right now. If your Christmas goods are not already here, at least tell them what to expect—generalize first, if need be, and particularize afterwards.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving, suggestive word that conjures up myriads of pictures: first, of stern-faced pilgrims newly landed; later of families united and re-united around glowing fires and sumptuous tables; again, of presidents seated at their desks issuing the traditioned proclamations. Today, is the word Thanksgiving mere inane verbalism? Has the symbol outlived the sentiment? Will our country today forget the deeper significance of the festivity—forget the spirit of the day in the ostentatious celebrations and emotional pastimes that prevail? Or will the American people contemplate the blessings of the year so abundantly lavished by the providential hand of an Almighty Father? Will their hearts turn heavenwards as they think of the land of peace in contrast with the ghastly sanguine camps and fields of war? As American women gaze on their loved ones today, on fathers, husbands, sons, brothers and sweethearts, will they think of the power that preserved them from the ravages of war? Will the peaceful country remember the God of Peace?

Yes, every day should be one of thanksgiving so that man may not forget his dependence on a higher power! Like a glorious rainbow bridging earth and leading unto God is gratitude, the noblest attribute of man. A test of culture is in the minute observation of little customs and formalities. Intellectual growth and esthetic culture are conducive to the perfecting of nature, the intensifying of sensibilities and especially of the subtle sense, appreciation. Gratitude must be in proportion to the favors bestowed, so who can tell the vastness of man's obligation.

SO LONG, COLONEL.

Teddy The Terrible's off to the isles, to the Fiji isles far, far away, and many there'll be who will fondly hope he, will plan an indefinite stay. Cannibal gents, won't they gather and swarm, when that wild man is nearing their hive? But won't they all squirm like the fabled old worm, when Bosco, ha! eats 'em alive? Big is the stick o'er his head he will swing, and he'll cripple full many a horde, and the chances all are he will cry near and far "I am battling alone for the Lord." Teddy, old boy, when he's working just right, has B. Sunday beat many a mile; yet when slinging a bluff 'bout that salvation stuff, e'en the Devil breaks out in a smile. Teddy The Terrible nevertheless has the Rooseveltite down on his knee; if he murder commits or if venom he spits, it's all right just because it is he. Oh fond let us hope that some powerful chiefs, will soon get revenge that is theirs; and that when they're not seen they will crack Teddy's bean, so he'll climb up those gold plated stairs.

THERE's lots of time to think it over, Charles Evasive Hughes, and while you're cogitating—pray don't get the bally blues—you're sure to think about the tale of fowls "come home to roost," and also you'll recall the saying "Every knock's a boost."

"EVERY now and then there is a reminiscence of the Orient about an evening gown."—And of the camphor and the cedar and the moth ball.

Getting It Right.

Harold, aged four, was trudging the distance of many blocks with his father to Sunday school, and the long tramp was almost too much for him. The father, glancing back, noticed the small boy's fatigue, and slackening his pace asked: "Am I walking too fast, son?" "No," returned the small boy, puffing and panting breathlessly, "it's me, papa."—Exchange.

Celer Harmony.

"I'd like a box of cigars, please," said the young wife, blushing rosily. "They're for my husband. It's his birthday tomorrow." "Does he prefer them light or dark?" inquired the salesman. "Oh, light by all means. He has a blond mustache."—New York World.

Croquettes Ready Made.

Used the Log.

"We were three days from port when the engineer reported that there was no more coal in the bunker." "What did they do then?" "The captain ordered them to split up the ship's log to keep the fires going."—Exchange.

THIRSTY LOCOMOTIVES.

Giving the Boilers a Drink in the Deserts of India.

The Indian locomotive is always taking water. At every station there is a tank, and while the train is standing at the platform, above the noises and cries of the people, you hear the gush of water and, if you look forward, you see the beturbaned engineer busy with a dripping water-pipe. The tanks are usually supplied from a well or nearby river, but in the desert lands rivers are few and wells are not always to be trusted.

At one village where we stopped the tank was empty, writes Thornton Oakley in Harper's Magazine. It's well had gone dry. The engineer and station master consulted together. There was another well, the station master said, a mile farther down the road. It belonged to a farmer and still had water in it. There was yet steam enough in the engine's boiler to carry the train a mile or so, and soon we had drawn up in a sandy stretch of country where only a few yellow patches of grass were to be seen and where a lean, black Hindu was rhythmically bending and rising above a well, pouring out little bucketfuls of water upon the parched surface of his field.

The lean Hindu was the farmer, and for 1 rupee he agreed to sell enough water to carry the train on to the next station. The engineer came down along the train, calling upon the passengers for help, and soon was formed a line of dark skinned figures stretching from the engine to the well. The farmer had two shallow pails. These went back and forth along the line, and, little by little, drop by drop, the water of the well passed into the tank of the locomotive. When the train resumed its journey we were three hours late.

MEETING THE HEAD WAITER.

Cruising the Velvet Sea in a Fashionable Restaurant.

"How many, please?" inquires the head waiter fatuously.

After you've done some chain lightning arithmetic, which he must admire, you say "two" or "three" or more, as the case may be. Now that the head waiter knows "How many, please?" the serious problem arises upon which white linen island to locate your party. He surveys the room. He frowns slightly and purses up his lips. Baffled, he hesitates. At this juncture if there is a woman in the party she declares positively that she wants to "sit over there!" For some unknown reason this suggestion is always frowned down by the head waiter.

Once upon a time a woman is said to have been allowed to sit at the table she picked out, but doubtless this is a pretty fiction.

The head waiter tries to fit you to a center table. As there are plenty of cozy ones around the sides of the room, you turn down this selection of his, and then he grudgingly precedes your party to a side table, but not the side of the room that you prefer to sit on. However, by this time you are tired of your cruise over the velvet sea with everybody staring at you, so after you've fussed about who is to sit next to whom you are settled at last, and every one's face relaxes.—Helena Smith-Dayton in Cartoons Magazine.

A Race of Tenors.

Generally speaking, races living at high altitudes have weaker and more highly pitched voices than those living in regions where the supply of oxygen is more plentiful. Thus in South America, among the Indians living on the plateaus between the ranges of the Andes, at an elevation of from 10,000 to 14,000 feet, the men have voices like women and the women like children, their singing being a shrill monotone. The Australian native has a weak voice, but a knack of sending it a long distance, and the lowest tribes of African bushmen would come into the same category; but, it is said, of all human beings the pygmies of central Africa have, in point of volume and compass, the weakest of human voices.

Harsh Criticism.

Kitchener was harshly criticised the last two years of his life, but he could not complain, for he was always a very harsh critic himself.

Thus when Kitchener went to South Africa to take charge of the Boer war one of the generals whom he was supplanting said to him: "Well, how do you propose to reorganize the transport?" "Reorganize it?" said Kitchener. "I'll organize it."

Hard Luck.

Helen—Did Florence marry her ideal? Gertrude—The poor girl will never know.

"Why?" "Her ideal is a man who would not marry again if his wife should die."—London Tit-Bits.

Safe on One Point.

"I am not afraid that my daughter will ever marry in haste."

"Why not?" "It will take at least six months to prepare any trousseau she would consider fit to marry in."—Kansas City Journal.

Impossible.

"I think I will organize a vegetable trust."

"Couldn't keep it quiet. There would sure to be a leak somewhere."—Baltimore American.

Where is the man who has the power and skill to stem the torrent of a woman's will?—Old English Proverb.

SUCCESS IN LIFE.

Put Business Before Pleasure Until You Have Reached the Top.

In an article called "Succeeding With What You Have" in the American Magazine Charles M. Schwab says: "I have always felt that the surest way to qualify for the job just ahead is to work a little harder than any one else on the job one is holding down. One of the most successful men I have known never carried a watch until he began to earn $10,000 a year. Before that he had managed with a nickel alarm clock in his bedroom, which he never forgot to wind.

"Young men may enjoy drooping their work at 5 or 6 o'clock and slipping into a dress suit for an evening of pleasure, but the habit has certain drawbacks. I happen to know several able-bodied gentlemen who got it so completely that now they are spending all their time, days as well as evenings, in dress suits, serving food in fashionable restaurants to men who did not get the dress suit habit until somewhat later in life.

"Recently we have heard much about investments. To my mind the best investment a young man starting out in business can possibly make is to give all his time, all his energies, to work—just plain, hard work. After a man's position is assured he can indulge in pleasure if he wishes. He will have lost nothing by waiting—and gained much. He will have made money enough really to afford to spend some, and he will know that he has done his duty by himself and by the world."

COLOSSAL CLOCKS.

The World's Four Largest Ones Are in This Country.

A factory clock in Jersey City, N. J., is the largest in the world. Time can be read with the naked eye at a distance of three miles. The face of the clock is thirty-eight feet in diameter; the minute spaces are two feet apart; the minute hand is twenty feet long and weighs one-third of a ton.

The second largest clock in the world was built for an electric illuminating company in Boston. Specifications: Dial, thirty-four feet in diameter; weight of hands, 875 pounds; hour hand, fourteen feet four inches long; minute hand, eighteen feet six inches long.

The next two largest clocks are the Metropolitan tower, New York city, dial twenty-six and one-half feet in diameter; city hall, Philadelphia, dial twenty-five feet in diameter.

At the top of 360 steps, in the clock tower at Westminster, Big Ben has marked time for London for over fifty years. The clock has four faces, each twenty-three feet across. The minute hands are fourteen feet long. The pendulum weighs nearly 450 pounds. The figures on the face are each two feet long, and the minute spaces are a foot square.

Silver of the Georgian Era.

The appreciation of the work of the era of George II. and George III. was illustrated by an auction sale which I attended the other day in London. A small mustard pot, very simple and elegant and slightly battered, was among the lots. It would have been passed over by most eyes, but it bore a hallmark of George II.'s time, and the dealers bid eagerly enough for its possession until it fell to an offer of 2 guineas an ounce. That there are still possibilities of appreciation in silver however, was shown by the price given for a pair of old spoons of no unusual elegance and not in the best condition. They were dated 1613, and they brought £10 an ounce.—Westminster Gazette.

Force of Habit.

"It's curious how habits fasten themselves on people. You know Wapplesley?"

"Yes."

"He's an enthusiastic fisherman and always has a story to tell about some gigantic monster of the deep that he almost caught."

"I've heard him tell a lot of lies of that kind."

"Well, it seems that burglars broke into his house the other night, and he got up and captured one of them—a little fellow—but you ought to hear him tell about the size of the one that got away."

Tricky Husband.

Mr. Houshunter (to real estate agent)—Mrs. Houshunter will be in today, and I want you to tell her that the house we've been looking at is let.

Agent—Why—or—but it isn't.

Mr. Houshunter—Well, it will be for I'm taking it now. My wife can't make up her mind, but she'll want it badly as soon as she thinks she can't have it.—Pittsburgh Telegraph.

An Optimist.

"You say Gadsby is an optimist?" "Unquestionably."

"What makes you think so?"

"Gadsby has never been able to earn more than $50 a week, yet he feels greatly encouraged every time he hears there is a demand for $10,000 a year men."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Situation.

"Is the world getting better?" "Maybe so as a general proposition but what good does it do me? My boss is just as grouchy, my janitor just as mean and the neighborhood kids quite as pestiferous."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

RUSH OF THE NIGHTHAWK.

It Sounds Like the Booming of Water Over a Creek Dam.

If you happen to be where night-hawks are found, some time during the nesting season in May or June, you may hear a strange, booming sound. Like the rush of water over a creek dam. You will seek vainly for its cause until you see a nighthawk, with firmly set wings, diving earthward from the sky.

It is a reckless performance, and you may suppose that the bird's object is suicide, but when within a few feet of the ground he will change his course and soar suddenly heavenward. At this moment you will hear the loud, humming noise, similar to that when the creek dam breaks its bonds, as the air passes through the bird's stiffened wing quills.

The nighthawk, or bullbat, as he is sometimes called, is confused with the whippoorwill, and little is known generally of his real character. He is a bird of the sky, passing the day perched motionless on a limb in wooded regions or on the ground in the treeless tracts or even on housetops when he happens to make his home in the city.

Probably he will not change his perch during the day, but at nightfall he will spread his wings and soar out in his search for insect food.—Philadelphia North American.

TEMPERAMENT.

Just What It Is From the Cynical Man's Point of View.

In a woman temperament is the volume of irritability she is allowed to show; in a man it represents the proportion of the feminine in his construction.

Temperament is always feminine. When a married woman throws plates at her husband and tears up the carpet she has within her the makings of a great artist; all she needs is technique, a press agent and a divorce; hitherto her energies have been misdirected.

Temperament is the difference between character and genius—that is, it marks the point where character leaves off and genius begins. When there is enough temperament and it is properly directed, genius results; when not, you secure board at a lunatic asylum.

Temperament is the nth power of selfishness, the supreme anarchist of the mind. When you begin to feel bombs going off inside of you and they are counting the dead and you see a kind faced posterity looming in the distance, then prepare for every emergency; send for an alienist and a reporter. For when the next bulletin is megaphoned you may be either a member or the father superior of a new cult.—Life.

What Rimes With Babe?

A common English word for which there is only one rime is "babe," and it was Swinburne who used it with exquisite appropriateness in "A Rime":

Babe, if rime be none
For that sweet small word
Babe, the sweetest one
Ever heard.

Right it is and meet
Rime should keep not true
Time with such a sweet
Thing as you.

Love alone, with yearning
Heart for astrolabe,
Takes the sun's height, burning
Over the babe.

"Silence" is another word beloved of poets that has no rime. Mrs. Browning went to the very limits of her passion for assonance when she rimed it with "islands!"

Cooked Eggs.

Eggshells, says the New York Medical Journal, are porous and do not prevent infection of the egg contents; therefore raw egg white from eggs which have not received immediate refrigeration may well cause diarrhea.

Cooked egg white, when exposed to boiling temperature (212 degrees F.) or to the action of acids, becomes leathery in consistence and difficult of digestion. Sterile egg white exposed to a temperature below 130 degrees F. becomes jelly like and by most individuals is as easily digested as raw sterile egg white which itself is innocuous.

An Elaborate System.

"You're managing to wake up earlier these mornings."

"Yes. I've just bought a parrot."

"Instead of an alarm clock?"

"I already had an alarm clock, but I got so I didn't pay any attention to it. Now I hang the parrot's cage in my room and put the alarm clock under it. When the alarm goes off it startles the parrot, and what that bird says would wake anybody up."—American Boy.

Saving Money.

"You are foolish to spend $5,000 sending your son to a finishing school. He will never take any polish. He's a blockhead."

"In other words, you think I might as well buy a fifty cent bottle of furniture polish."—Louisville Courier Journal.

Class Versus Class.

"Well, there is one thing to be proud of—we have no class prejudices in this country."

"I'm I guess you were never around when three or four sophomores got hold of a freshman."—New York Times.

Women Duelists.

A celebrated duel took place in 1801 between Countess de Polignac and Mme. de Neale.

Thy secret is thy prisoner. If thou let it go thou art a prisoner to it.

The Force of Habit

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

Thompson was a very commonplace man, and it was difficult for his wife's friends to understand why she loved him so dearly. But an analysis of the heart is not like an analysis of the stomach—that is to say, love is very illusive. We constantly see persons devoted to other persons who are to us unattractive.

However this may be, Molly Thompson was devoted to Bill Thompson—there was not even a grain of romance in his name—and he was the apple of her eye. He was not a successful man, and his wife by various devices supported the family. Every man has some pride at the bottom of his nature, and Bill Thompson did not fancy his position of being taken care of instead of taking care of those naturally dependent upon him. Not that his wife upbraided him. Far from it; she excused him not only to others, but to himself.

One day Bill Thompson went out to look for a position, he said, and when the dinner hour arrived he did not arrive with it. Whatever were Bill's faults, he was never late for a meal. Consequently his wife took flight at once. Within an hour she notified the police that her husband was missing, and a general alarm was sent out.

The alarm did not bring Bill Thompson. A month passed, and he had failed to turn up. His wife was in a terrible state of mind about him, and her friends began to think that it would be better if her suspense were ended by hearing that he was dead. One day a cousin of hers, seeing an unrecognizable corpse in a morgue about the size of Bill Thompson, conceived the idea of palming it off on Mrs. Thompson as her late husband. The ruse was successful—indeed, more so than might have been expected—the good woman surprising those in the secret by identifying a patch she had put in the seat of the trousers worn by the corpse.

It was hoped by the widow's relatives that Bill, being dead, would be buried and Mrs. Thompson's mind relieved. They were somewhat disappointed when she insisted on having her dear William cremated in order that she might have the remains of what had been her husband constantly with her. The cremation cost as much as the poor woman possessed and she had not the wherewithal to purchase an urn for the ashes. She determined to find a temporary receptacle till she might save enough for a better one. Unfortunately there was nothing at hand except a cracked soup tureen, which, though it would not retain soup, would do very well for ashes.

The remains of the late head of the house—or supposed head—were placed on a mantel in Mrs. Thompson's bed room, and every night she wept her self to sleep, with her eyes fixed on their abiding place, lighted dimly by a night lamp. Since the support of the family was solely in her hands and she needed every cent she could earn to feed and clothe her children funds for the marble urn she intended buying were not forthcoming. Consequently the cracked soup tureen remained in use.

The widow, desirous of having flowers wave over her husband's ashes put the tureen in a low box containing earth and introduced the plants. They flourished, and the good woman had the satisfaction of seeing them bloom. She said it was almost as satisfactory as if they moved over a grave.

In time Mrs. Thompson saved the money to purchase an urn, and the ashes were emptied from the tureen into it. It was of marble and of very attractive shape. For three years she devoted more care to it than to her house. Not a speck of dust was allowed to remain on it, and the plant amid which it rested were in perpetual bloom.

Then one fine morning this beautiful constancy of grief received a rude shock. Bill Thompson walked into the house in the flesh and with a prosperous look on him. His wife stood between him and the urn containing his ashes with a puzzled look on her face. She had for so long accustomed herself to think of him as in the urn that she could not realize he was there in the flesh. Bill in the urn was her romance; Bill in the flesh, unseen for three years, appeared to her, as he appeared to others, a very commonplace person. Duty finally triumphed, and turning her back on the romance, she embraced the reality.

Thompson had gone away resolved never to return unless in a condition to support his family. He had accumulated quite a property. He desired his wife to remove the ashes she had been weeping over. But to do so was too severe a break in the habit she had acquired. She consented to the removal of the urn from their bedroom the first night Bill slept at home after his return, but her tears were so used to flowing at the retiring hour that they could not be stopped. Bill, hearing a sob, got out of bed, went to a closet where the urn had been placed and put it back on the mantel.

The next day it was removed again, but in the evening, the tears beginning to flow, it was replaced on its accustomed stand. Bill tried to cure his wife by affecting jealousy; but, fearing that if she were forced to choose between him and the ashes of his rival she would choose the latter, he desisted. The urn remains on the mantel.

Jumped To His Death.

James Butler, 70 years old, employed on the cement road work being done by the State Roads Commission between Westminster and Taneytown, died in Taneytown last Thursday night from injuries he received on last Wednesday evening, when he jumped from the running board of an automobile and fell heavily to the ground. Butler was walking into Taneytown when an automobile driven by Howard Colliflower, a salesman for the National Biscuit Company, passed him. Colliflower offered Butler a lift, and the offer was accepted. As the machine approached Butler's boarding-house in Taneytown, Butler jumped from the running board without waiting for the car to stop and fell.

First.—All that real estate described in a deed from Susanna Lupp and John Lupp, her husband, dated April 17, 1899, to the said Ephriam S. VISITS THIS HIS BOYHOOD HOME

S. D. Jodon Tells Of The Old Days When He was a Scholar At Annandale, Near Which School He Was Born.

Mr. S. D. Jodon, formerly a resident of Emmitsburg where he was born, was a visitor to his old home this week, this was his first visit for 30 years. On the former occasion, Mr. Jodon said that some of the folks were living whom he knew in early life, but although he searched the district over this time, he failed to find a single person with whom he was familiar in his boyhood days.

Mr. Jodon was born near Annandale Schoolhouse, not far from the Gamble place; there is no trace left however of the old house and the only familiar thing besides the school was an old tree. Mr. Jodon dropped in the old school and gave a very interesting talk to the scholars. He told them that he was a pupil there 75 years ago and that a man by the name of Crooks was his teacher. Interestingly he referred to the old paper mill that at one time stood near the school, some of the product of which the scholars then used.

Crude indeed must the desks have been in those primitive days, for, according to Mr. Jodon, they were made of slabs hewn from nearby oaks and they had straight branches for standards. Nor were steel pens in existence; everyone used quills which had to be soaked in oil before they were fit for writing. And there were no matches; live coals were borrowed from a neighbor to make the morning fire.

In 1846 Mr. Jodon left Emmitsburg for West Virginia and afterwards went to Texas from which state he enlisted in the Confederate Army. From Texas he went to Portland, Oregon which is now his home.

FELL FROM LOFT;

HURT; THEN WELL

How a Man Who Landed On Wood Pile And Was Sore From Head to Foot Found Quick Relief.

Once upon a time Edwin Putnam, who lives in the quiet, pretty hamlet of Wendel Depot, Mass., climbed up into a loft to get some building material, just as many another man living in the country must often do. Suddenly he slipped and fell. Ten feet below was a pile of wood, knotted and gnarled. It was a nasty tumble, and Mr. Putnam, was injured painfully in the back, he was covered with bruises, and was sore from head to foot.

The next day he bought a bottle of Sloan's Liniment which had been recommended to him. Within a very few hours the soreness had vanished and the lameness had disappeared. He was an active man once more.

Sloan's Liniment can be obtained at all drug stores, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

ACROSS THE LINE

Two men were instantly killed and three others seriously injured when a Pennsylvania Railroad express train, bound for Philadelphia, struck an automobile near York Monday. The occupants of the car were York county farmers from the vicinity of Stewartstown, bound for Lancaster to buy cattle.

The bronze statues for the Virginia monument arrived in Gettysburg last week and the granite pedestal on West Confederate avenue, which for several years has stood unadorned, will now be completed. The dedication of the monument will take place next May, according to the present plans.

Nearly a thousand men last Wednesday night participated in the Democratic parade in Hanover, held in celebration of the party's recent victory at the polls. There were eight bands in line, and it required 17 minutes for it to pass a given point. Red fire was used liberally in illuminating the route of the parade.

Miss Elizabeth Arnold, daughter of Augustus Arnold, near Dillsburg, left for Philadelphia last week and sailed from that city for France. When she arrives in France she will become a member of the American ambulance hospital corps. Miss Arnold has enlisted for a period of six months and will join a detachment now stationed at Neuilly, near Paris.

A building to cost from $10,000 to $15,000 will be erected at the Loysville Orphans' home by the York County conference of the West Pennsylvania synod of the Lutheran church as a monument of the quadricentennial of the Reformation. It is expected that the building will be completed in time for the celebration next year.

Gettysburg's boys in blue had a fine time Thursday when they enjoyed their annual autumn mid-day banquet served at the Post Room, Gettysburg, by the members of the Woman's Relief Corps. The dinner was announced for twelve o'clock but several hours before that time the veterans started to gather and groups of them were soon congregated about the various stoves in the big assembly room, where they recounted incidents in their war and civic careers until the time for the dinner.

The annual exhibit of the Carlisle Poultry, Pigeon and Pat Stock Association will be held in Carlisle during Thanksgiving week when it is expected that 1,000 birds will be cooped. Birds from Harrisburg, Allentown, Hagerstown, Chambersburg, Middletown, Elizabethtown, Dillsburg, Hanover, York, Biglerville, and Gettysburg will be exhibited.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—which vary widely but may include pain in the back, head ache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatic pains, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right the danger is overcome. Doan's Kidney Pills have proven an effective kidney medicine.

Mrs. Charles Hartdagen, Emmitsburg, says: "I was troubled by rheumatic twinges and had severe pains in my back. My eyes were weak too. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cured me of kidney trouble and rheumatic pains." 50c. at all dealers. Foster Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

ANOTHER BIG PLANT FOR BALTIMORE

Located at Soller's Point On 150 Acre Sight.—Will Employ 3000 Workmen And Mean The Expenditure of Eight Millions.

In addition to the big development at Sparrows Point, Baltimore is to have another great enterprise which will call for the expenditure of $8,000,000. A site of 150 acres at Soller's Point has been acquired and here will be erected a large plant for the treatment of bauxite to be used in the manufacture of aluminum. The Aluminum Ore Company is owned by the Aluminum Company of America, which company has its headquarters in New York and Pittsburgh and is the largest manufacturer of aluminum in the world, controlling great resources in the line of raw material and having large plants for the treatment of this raw material at East St. Louis and plants for the manufacture of aluminum at Niagara Falls and Messina Springs, N. Y., and Shawington Falls, Province of Quebec.

This plant is intended to duplicate eventually the large works now owned by the Company at East St. Louis, where the Aluminum Company operates a plant employing over 3000 hands and representing an investment of approximately $8,000,000.

In the beginning the plant in Baltimore will employ only 1000 hands, but it doubtless will from time to time be extended and the property acquired is in anticipation of a work that will in a comparatively short time employ between 3000 and 4000 hands.

The United States Flag was raised over Porto Rico in token of formal possession October 18, 1898. The distance from San Juan to New York is 1,411 miles.

A Shock To The Standpatter.

A political map of the United States based on the result of the election, must be a painful study to the confirmed standpatter, says the Philadelphia Record. In only five states—New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois and Iowa—does his party make a good showing. New England, once so rock-ribbed in its Republicanism makes a pitiful display, with one State, New Hampshire, apparently a convert to the new light. Massachusetts, which has at times given a Republican majority of over 100,000, was satisfied with some 21,000 for Hughes, and in Maine and Connecticut his combined majorities were less than 11,000. The pussyfoot candidate just scraped through in Indiana, where the reunion of Republicans and Progressives was supposed to be complete, and in Wisconsin he was apparently only saved by the antagonism of the German-American element to President Wilson. There's a reason for this utter collapse, but the G. O. P. probably won't see it. It is not given to a sympathetic study of popular feeling.

Located at Soller's Point On 150 Acre Sight.—Will Employ 3000 Workmen And Mean The Expenditure of Eight Millions.

In addition to the big development at Sparrows Point, Baltimore is to have another great enterprise which will call for the expenditure of $8,000,000. A site of 150 acres at Soller's Point has been acquired and here will be erected a large plant for the treatment of bauxite to be used in the manufacture of aluminum. The Aluminum Ore Company is owned by the Aluminum Company of America, which company has its headquarters in New York and Pittsburgh and is the largest manufacturer of aluminum in the world, controlling great resources in the line of raw material and having large plants for the treatment of this raw material at East St. Louis and plants for the manufacture of aluminum at Niagara Falls and Messina Springs, N. Y., and Shawington Falls, Province of Quebec.

This plant is intended to duplicate eventually the large works now owned by the Company at East St. Louis, where the Aluminum Company operates a plant employing over 3000 hands and representing an investment of approximately $8,000,000.

In the beginning the plant in Baltimore will employ only 1000 hands, but it doubtless will from time to time be extended and the property acquired is in anticipation of a work that will in a comparatively short time employ between 3000 and 4000 hands.

The United States Flag was raised over Porto Rico in token of formal possession October 18, 1898. The distance from San Juan to New York is 1,411 miles.

Gladys B. Orr, vs. Clarence E. Orr. No. 9543 Equity. In Equity.

The object of this Bill is to procure a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff Gladys B. Orr from the defendant Clarence E. Orr. The Bill states in substance that the parties were married June 7th, 1913 by the Rev. H. O. Keene; that the plaintiff is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland and has so resided all her life; that the defendant Clarence E. Orr is a non resident of the State of Maryland, but now resides in the State of Florida; that the defendant Clarence E. Orr has committed the crime of adultery with divers lewd women at the City of Baltimore, between the first day of August 1914 and the filing of the plaintiff's bill; that the plaintiff has not lived with nor cohabited with the defendant since she discovered his said adulteries; that one child was born from said marriage, Lois Orr aged about two years, and the Bill also prays for general relief and for process.

It is thereupon this 20th day of November, A. D. 1916 by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff give notice to the said adult non resident defendant Clarence E. Orr of the object and substance of said bill by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Frederick County Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 23rd day of December, A. D. 1916, warning him to be and appear in said Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 8th day of January, A. D. 1917 and show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to pass as prayed.

IN THE WINTER

Allow Cream To Ripen Before Churning.

KEEP CREAM AT 70 DEGREES

College Park, Nov. 23.—Churning should be completed in about 30 minutes. Timely suggestions relative to making butter have been written by G. E. Wolcott, Dairy Extension, Maryland State College. Mr. Wolcott says:

During the winter season farm wives often experience a great deal of difficulty in churning. Frequently the cream is churned for several hours before the butter gathers. The churning can be completed in about 30 minutes if the proper precautions are observed in caring for the cream before it is placed in the churn. Difficulty in churning during the winter months is generally due to the low temperature of the cream before and at the time it is placed in the churn. In order to make churning easy and at the same time produce a desirable flavor in the butter, the cream should be allowed to ripen or sour. If held at a temperature of 70 degrees for several hours and frequently stirred, a clean acid flavor will develop, and the viscosity of the cream will be decreased. By decreasing the viscosity, the churning will be more complete and will require less time and energy.

Before placing the cream in the churn the temperature should be reduced about 60 degrees. If most of the cows in the herd are well along in their period of lactation, it may be necessary to churn at a higher temperature in order to bring about a complete churning within a reasonable time. The greater the agitation, the more quickly will the churning be finished. This can be brought about when the churn is not more than half full.

When the churning is completed, the fat globules will gather in granules about the size of a kernel of corn, and the butter will stand well out of the buttermilk.

After drawing off the buttermilk, wash the butter in water at the same temperature as that of the buttermilk. The amount of wash water should be equal to the amount of buttermilk removed from the churn.

After washing add one ounce of salt for each pound of butter. The amount of salt to add will vary with the taste of the consumer. The salt can be distributed and buttermilk removed by careful working.

An Opportunity For A Higher Education.

College Park, Nov. 23.—Attending the high schools, academies and preparatory schools in Maryland are many young men whose ambitions urge them forward to college, where they would receive an advanced training to better fit them to make a success in their chosen vocations.

These young men fully recognize the advantage of a higher education—they know that those who are best prepared will win out in the "battle of life." They realize the force of the argument, backed by facts, that the earning capacity of the college graduate exceeds by far that of the high school and graded school graduate. They are convinced that the time and money spent in securing advanced training is the best investment to be made at the present period of their lives. They appreciate the handicap that an untrained man endures in the competition for positions in all walks of life. More evident is this in progressive farming than in any other profession.

Some of these young men are fortunately situated regarding the ways and means to finance four years at college. There are many others, however, without this advantage, and they must secure other means of getting at least a part of the funds to support them in obtaining a collegiate education.

Especially to these is the following opportunity valuable: Eighty-five young men of Maryland each year have the chance to obtain 20 per cent. of the total fixed expenses necessary to attend the Maryland State College. The fixed expenses include room (with heat and light), board, laundry, books and medical attention and amount to $240.00.

To encourage worthy young men who desire a collegiate education the Board of Trustees of the Maryland State College awards to each of the high schools, academies and preparatory schools of Maryland whose graduates are eligible for entrance into the Freshman Class, one scholarship each year with a valuation of $50.00. This scholarship continues for four years.

Here is a chance for any deserving young man in the State. This money is not a loan in any sense of the word, but is a credit placed directly to the individual's account.

The selection for these scholarships is made upon the recommendation of the Principal and Superintendent of the schools in the county, and cities.

Now is the time for young men in high schools to decide to obtain one of these scholarships by leading in his studies and by otherwise demonstrating to their officials that they are worthy of recommendation.

All the average Maryland boy wants is a fair chance. Here is the opportunity.
