REGISTRATION FOR DRAFT CANNOT BE AVOIDED

War Department Issues Memorandum Emphasizing Seven Cardinal Points To Be Remembered.

In its campaign to stimulate interest in registration June 5 for the war army the War Department issued a memorandum emphasizing the seven cardinal points to be remembered, particularly by men between the ages of 21 and 30, inclusive, who will be required to register. The memorandum follows:

1. There is only one day for registration, June 5, 1917.

The only exceptions are persons in the military or naval service of the United States, which includes all officers and enlisted men of the regular army, the regular army reserves, the officers' reserve corps, the enlisted reserve corps, the National Guard and National Guard reserves, recognized by the Militia Bureau of the War Department; the Navy, the marine corps, the coast guard and the naval militia, the naval reserve force, the marine corps reserve and the national naval volunteers recognized by the Navy Department.

2. Registration is distinct from draft. No matter what just claim you have for exemption, you must register.

3. Registration is a public duty. For those not responsive to the sense of this duty the penalty of imprisonment, not fine, is provided in the draft act.

4. Those who through sickness shall be unable to register should cause a representative to apply to the county or city clerk for a copy of the registration card. The clerk will give instructions as to how this card should be filled out. The card should then be mailed by the sick person or delivered by his agent to the registrar of his home district. The sick person will inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for the return to him of his registration certificate.

5. Any person who expects to be absent from his voting precinct on registration day should apply as soon as practicable for a registration card to the county where he may be stopping, or if he is in a city of over 30,000 to the city clerk. The clerk will record the answers on the card and turn it over to the absentee. The absentee should mail this card to the registrar of his home district so that it will reach that official by registration day. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be inclosed with the card to insure the return to the absentee of a registration certificate.

6. Registration booths will be open from 7 A. M., to 9 P. M., on registration day, June 5, 1917.

Punishment For Slackers.

To prevent Canadians from evading military service by leaving the country, an order in council, was issued, making it illegal, under heavy penalty, for any male person within the ages of 18 and 45 years, ordinarily resident within Canada, to leave the country without the writ, on permission of the authorities.

The applicant must declare under oath the purpose of his leaving the country and how long he expects to be absent and give full description of himself and references for identification. The declaration also must be signed by a sponsor and sworn to, and the applicant must supply photographs for identification. He must satisfy the immigration authorities that his departure is not with the object of avoiding military service before the permit is granted.

Violation of the law is punishable by fine not exceeding $2,500, or imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both.

Extraordinary Fire Losses.

The fire losses of the country last year totaled $214,530,995, as compared with $170,033,200 for the year previous, an increase of more than $44,000,000, according to a report read at the opening session of the annual convention of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The loss per capita increased as a result from $1.71 to $2.10.

The report submitted by the committee on statistics attributed the extraordinary increase to habitual "American carelessness" and the tremendous expansion of the munitions manufacturing industry.

Red Cross To Raise $100,000,000.

In advance of the nation-wide drive to carry out the American Red Cross plans to raise $100,000,000 for war relief work, the New York members of the Red Cross War Finance Committee announced that prior to the campaign during the week of June 18 they expect to receive many important pledges, including one or more individual $1,000-000 contributions. GRAFT IN DRAFT OF '63 BOUNTY JUMPERS, SUBSTITUTES

The Draft of 1917 to Be Honest and With an Honest Enforcement.—No Chance to Buy Off.

The draft process is a very different thing in 1917 from what it was in 1863. In those days the process was much simpler. Every country, every city, every township, was simply assigned a quota that it had to fill. So much population in a town, so many able-bodied men to furnish. If they volunteered, well and good—that was all that had to be done about it. If they did not, the names of the men still liable for military duty were put in a box or a hat, each on a separate slip of paper, and one name after another was drawn out. Sometimes by a blindfolded boy. If your name was drawn, you were liable to serve, provided you passed the physical examination. The draft was responsible for a considerable amount of something else that sounded a good deal like it, and that was graft. Some of the examining doctors were not above suspicion, and a good many men of robust appearance turned out to have strange and hitherto unsuspected diseases, while the examining doctors bought new houses and high stepping trotters.

There was still another form of graft which flourished in those days. Before the draft was resorted to, and even while it was in progress, large bounties in money were offered to men to volunteer to fill quotas. State, town and subscription bounties were sometimes so piled up that men received $800 in certain instances as a bonus to enlist, though $300 was probably about the average. Well, a man's name was drawn to serve, but he was privately "tipped off" before the name was announced; instantly he volunteered, got his bounty, and had the enlistment dated back one day, so that it appeared on the record that he had enlisted before he was drafted. In that case he was expected to give the man who had tipped him off, and also the man who had antedated his enlistment (sometimes it was one and the same person) a percentage of his bounty money.

The substitute, actually in the service, often turned out to be a man who had to be watched, for his spirit of patriotism generally did not rank high. But he was never as bad as the bounty jumper. The bounty jumper was a man who enlisted, got his bounty, entered the service, deserted, and then enlisted somewhere else and got another bounty. The eagerness of certain towns to fill their quota was so great that they often made no inquiry into the identity of the men whom they furnished, and the business of bounty-jumping was regularly organized.

As things look now, we are going to have an honest draft and an honest enforcement of it, which shows that the country has made progress since 1863.

To Interfere Is Criminal.

Criminal prosecution awaits persons who attempt to prevent registration under the War Army bill by propaganda or otherwise. Attorney-General Gregory has announced. The Department of Justice is prepared to prosecute promptly any person guilty of such conduct. The officers and agents of the department throughout the country have been instructed to watch carefully for infractions of this law. Section 6 of the Federal penal code makes it a criminal offense, punishable with not more than 6 years' imprisonment, for any two or more persons to conspire together to hinder, prevent or delay the execution of any law of the United States.

Navy Seeking Medical Men.

The navy is seeking 2,000 additional doctors to furnish proper medical care for the 250,000 men who will be in the naval establishment when it reaches full war strength.

In addition 2,000 hospital apprentices recruits will be needed within two months. About that number already are under training and will be put into active service as rapidly as possible. New examinations for navy surgeons will be held June 2 when 377 men have been authorized to undergo the test. The last examination brought in 88 out of 128 candidates.

Golden Stream Pours Into Treasury. The amount of gold flowing into the Treasury these days from ordinary sources of taxation has eclipsed all previous records.

For the first 24 days of May it aggregated $159,057,267, bringing the total for the fiscal year up to $794,567,337, or approximately $200,000,000 more than a year ago, which then stood as a new high record.

There are more than 5000 electric light companies now serving public in the United States.

DAVID B. ALLEMAN WELL

KNOWN EDITOR DIES

Founder Of Adams County Independent One Of Pennsylvania's Best Weekly Papers.

David B. Alleman, editor and publisher of the Adams County Independent since the time of its creation in 1888, died at 6:45 o'clock Monday evening at his home in Littlestown. He was aged 58 years and 2 months.

Mr. Alleman was known throughout the state and in Maryland as one of the most progressive publishers in this section. The paper which he founded was his pride and he developed it into one of the largest and best publications of the sort to be found anywhere in Pennsylvania.

David Brainers Alleman was born in Hanover, a son of the late Rev. M. J. and Elizabeth Alleman. He spent his early life in Hanover, receiving his early education there, and completing his studies at the York Collegiate Institute. Under his graduation from that institution he was engaged in business in Maryland, returning to this county in January, 1881.

Mr. Alleman held the position of traveling salesman until 1888, when he returned to Littlestown and started the publication of the Adams County Independent.

From the time of establishing the Independent to his final illness he directed its management and policy, and even when failing health the last year or two made it impossible to work with the vigor of his earlier life, he had general oversight of the plant and paper which have for some time been under the able direction of his son, Burton M. Alleman.

Three sons, Burton M. Alleman, of Littlestown, H. Ward Alleman, of Harrisburg, Ivin B. Alleman, of Charlottesville, Va., and one daughter, Miss Margaret Alleman at home, survive.

How To Down The Fly.

It seems that you can poison a fly without any poison. Mix together one tablespoonful of cream, one of ground black pepper and one of brown sugar. Put in a saucer, darken the room except one window, and in that window place the saucer. It will gather up all the flies in the room, and lay them out flat in a very short time. Do it early in the season. Don't wait for all the little young flies to be born. Set the pleasant dish of disguised pepper before the fathers and mothers of the flies that are to come. Another good way is to swat the flies. Have three or four swatters in every room of the house, and in your reflective and deliberate moments use them liberally.

G. A. R. Celebrates Memorial Day.

Says Phosphates Make Beautiful Women and Strong, Healthy, Vigorous, Robust Men.

Physicians all over the world are prescribing phosphates to build up run down enemic conditions and those who have treated their patients with Argo-Phosphate are changing thin, enemic women with toneless tissues, flabby flesh, into the most beautiful rosy cheeked and plump round formed women imaginable.

Atlanta, Ga. Dr. Jacobson said in a recent interview that 90 per cent. of anemia comes from nervous breakdown which can only be corrected by supplying the necessary phosphates to the nervous system that is lacking in the food you eat, and this can be quickly supplied by taking one or two 5-grain Argo-Phosphate tablets after each meal, and at bed time. It will in many cases make a pale scrawny face the picture of health in a few days. I have seen women that I expected would have to be kept under treatment for months restored to perfect health in one or two weeks time.

SPECIAL NOTICE. The Argo-Phosphate recommended by Dr. F. H. Jacobson contains phosphates such as are prescribed by leading physicians throughout the world, and it will be found the most effective form for treating patients with Nervous Dyspepsia, Stomach troubles, Brain Fog, and Nervous Prostration. It will renew youthful vim and vigor, and build up the whole body. If your druggist will not supply you with Argo-Phosphate, send $1.00 for two weeks treatment, to Argo Laboratories, 10 Fort-st. Should Grow Two Potato Crops.

The Potato Association of America is urging greater attention to this important crop. The Ohio Experiment Station suggests the growing of two potato crops this year by planting a late crop after clover is cut or strawberries are picked, using sun-sprouted seed at the Experiment Station such seed planted June 30th yielded nearly twice as much as ordinary cellar-stored potatoes planted on the same date.

The Potato Association is promoting the use of various means to preserve our excess production in dry form so that the potatoes may be stored and carried over for years, if necessary, as a patriotic measure.

MARYLAND PREPAREDNESS AND SURVEY COMMISSION—REGISTRATION DAY.

The President of the United States has, by proclamation established Tuesday June 5th, for Registration Day, and has set forth the purpose of the day and the spirit which should be manifested thereon in the following words:

"The day here named is the time upon which all shall present themselves for assignment to their tasks. It is for that reason destined to be remembered as one of the most conspicuous moments in our history. It is nothing less than the day upon which the manhood of the country shall step forward in one solid rank in defense of the ideals to which this nation is consecrated. It is important to those ideals no less than to the pride of this generation in manifesting its devotion to them that there be no gaps in the ranks."

"It is essential that the day be approached in thoughtful apprehension of its significance and that we accord it the honor and meaning it deserves. Our industrial needs prescribe that it be not made a technical holiday, but the stern sacrifice that is before us urges that it be carried in all our hearts as a great day of patriotic devotion and obligation when the duty shall lie upon every man, whether he is himself to be registered or not, to see to it that the name of every male person of the designated ages is written on these lists of honor."

The council of National Defense has asked the cooperation of this Commission, and we are sincerely asking your assistance, to the end that Registration Day should be a consecration of the American people to service and to sacrifice.

It should be made one of welcome to those registering and a public expression, by each community, of willingness to surrender its sons to the country. The following specific suggestions are made:

1. It should be celebrated in a serious spirit and kept as Registration day only. No other objects should be allowed to intrude thereon.
2. The celebration should be centered around the registration places, and those who register should be especially distinguished.
3. The registration places should be decorated with the National Colors and Emblems. Elaborate and costly decorations should be discouraged. The spirit of volunteer service in all preparations for and activities of the day should be foremost.
4. At seven in the morning, the hour of the opening of the registration booths, church and fire bells should be rung and whistles blown.
5. Bands should be played near the registration places, and the parades should make a feature of stopping thereat. The men of registration age should be the feature of the parades, and should be escorted, where practical, to the registration places with patriotic music, by their kinsfolk, neighbors and friends.
6. To those registering a badge may be given showing that they have answered their country's call. This should be simple and distinctive symbolic of the State and Nation and with appropriate motto. It should be given only to those registering.
7. In communities where there are considerable groups of the foreign born who do not understand English, posters explaining the registration should be printed in foreign languages and broadly circulated.
8. An effort should be made so have the Ministers of the several churches, at both morning and evening services, Sunday, June 3rd, mention the registration on the following Tuesday and emphasize the duty and privilege of all citizens at this vital crisis in the affairs of our country. The schools should be asked to take this same action on Monday, June 4th, and the papers in your county to lend their assistance in every way possible. "Every effort should be made to bring out the slogan, "The world must be made safe for Democracy."
9. Where it is possible, patriotic meetings should be held on the evening of June 4th, with suitable speeches, songs, music and reading of the proclamation and message of the President.
10. Motion Picture Houses should be requested to show on their screens, and particularly on Monday, June 4th, the following:
June 5th—Registration Day
An Opportunity and a Privilege
Your Nation's Call to Service and Sacrifice
"The World Must Be Made Safe For Democracy."

Bowel Complaints In India.

In a lecture at one of the Des Moines, Iowa, churches a missionary from India told of going into the interior of India, where he was taken sick, that he had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him and believed that it saved his life. This remedy is used successfully in India both as a preventive and cure for cholera. You may know from this that it can be depended upon for the milder forms of bowel complaint that occur in this country. Obtainable everywhere. Advertisement. J1-1mo.

Third Official Year Book

The official year book of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, recently published, has found ready welcome in every affiliated alumnae association of the country. It is the third official annual report sent out by the federation since its inception in 1914, and in its scope and personnel is an unqualified evidence of the progress and growth of the organization.

The book contains a fully detailed account of the second biennial convention, held in Baltimore in November, 1916. Business and social sessions are admirably condensed, programs reproduced and reports printed in full. It also contains all the addresses, verbatim, by all the noted speakers. It concludes with a forceful and convincing appeal to the Catholic laity to further the cause of religion in the schools and in higher education by the encouragement and assistance of this praiseworthy association.

CLASSIFYING MORE THAN 10,000,000 MEN WITHIN DRAFT AGE

Government Census Places Single Men At 5,372,400 and Married Men At 4,545,000.

By a Census Bureau estimate classifying the more than 10,000,000 men within the military draft age limit, the number of single men is placed at 5,372,400 and the number of married men at 4,545,900.

The estimate was prepared on a basis of a normal increase in population since the 1910 census and on the assumption that the ratio between married or single men is the same as at that time.

The classification by chief occupations is given as follows:

Agriculture, forestry and animal husbandry	2,864,000.
Manufacturing and mechanical industries	3,036,000.
No gainful occupations	500,500.
Transportation	967,000
Trade	1,054,000.
Public service	144,000.
Domestic and personal service	441,000.
Professional service	335,000
Clerical occupations	374,000.
Extraction of minerals	364,000.

The government, it has been stated will not exempt any particular classes of industry from conscription, but will deal with cases individually. Individuals, however whose work is considered necessary to preserve an economic balance with be exempted. Nearly every line of industry, it is said, has appealed to the War Department for exemption for its workers. Some few classifications are not included in the figures.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 638 square miles.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg. No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good livery, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

HERE'S TO OLD GLORY, GOD BLESS HER!

If anyone attempts to haul down the American flag, shoot him on the spot.—John A. Dix.

O folds of white and scarlet! O blue field with your silver stars! May fond eyes welcome you, willing feet follow you, strong hands defend you, warm hearts cherish you, and dying lips give you their blessing!

BE NORMAL.

One of the greatest dangers in a time like this is hysteria. The person who looks emotionally for "something to do" usually forgets the proper task at hand—the real, worth-while thing that ought to be done—and blindly starts after some imaginary task having no consistency but indefinite yet assumedly patriotic ideas.

During and after the war we have entered upon the noblest task that one can perform—those not called upon for actual military service—is that of being vigorous and energetic and normal while performing accustomed duties.

"The mistaken idea that because the nation is at war, people should therefore skip and economize and deny themselves the things which they would purchase under normal conditions, would, if followed, be calculated to bring about the very condition that it is most necessary to avoid," says a close student of business conditions.

"To prosecute a war successfully requires money, and lots of it," he continues. "The only source from which money can be obtained is from the people who have it. The only way that people can get money is by producing something, whether the product be that of brain or brawn, and exchanging that product for money. Then, the use of that money to purchase something which somebody else produces keeps it in circulation, encouraging production and furthering business activity."

Shutting down, economizing to the degree of pinching, sacrificing to the point of self-immolation—this means being sub-normal or abnormal. It tears down, it hinders rather than helps.

The vast sums that have been loaned by this government are being and will continue to be spent here, so strive for your share of it. Stick to your business; conduct it more energetically than if we were at peace. Reap your just profits, but lend some of them to the power that has created these conditions, your government—buy a Liberty Bond, and remember that it is the aggregate of the small bond takers, widely and generally scattered, that gives the government the stamina it needs.

There is one important economy, though, that should be constantly and consistently practised—economy of food. There is no hysteria about this. Nothing but sound common sense is at the bottom of it.

REGISTRATION FOR SELECTIVE DRAFT.

Next Tuesday, June 5, between the hours of 7 A. M. and 9 P. M., and at the regular polling places in each precinct, there will be registration for the selective draft. Every man over 21 and not yet 31, including aliens, will be required by law to register. Failure to do so will be punishable by imprisonment. Any attempt at evasion, any misrepresentation, any connivance at preventing registration is also punishable by imprisonment. Therefore it behooves all those of the required age to accept the inevitable like men, and with good grace.

This, as the name signifies is to be a selective draft and those selected, instead of being under a stigma, will be, by this very selection, honored in having the chance to serve their country in a noble cause—vindicating their nation's honor and its rights, against a relentless foe whose hatred of the United States knows no bounds; a foe that would confiscate every foot of American soil had it the power.

This great country whose interests our armies are called upon to protect loves not war, does not praise fighting for fighting's sake. But now war, into which we were unwillingly drawn, is "the only avenue to its own abolition and the securing of the things we do praise and would enjoy." As Patrick Henry said, "We must fight. I repeat it, sir, we must fight. An appeal to arms and to the God of Hosts is all that is left us."

THE Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg are to be commended for their attitude in respect of Registration Day and their earnest appeal to the people surely will be met in the same patriotic spirit as that which actuated it. There is deep significance in the action to be taken by every man who presents himself for service in his country's cause. Each one chosen for duty is entitled to the utmost respect. As he leaves for his post he will carry with him the consciousness of the honor that is his, and the admiration of his fellowmen.

To the grafter, the price-inflater and the food speculator the American eagle is an emblem of protection in their gentle art of thievery. The speculator's version, as the Philadelphia Inquirer suggests, would probably be:

My country, 'tis from thee I get the liberty And right to sting, Long may we work thy blight, 'Neath freedom's holy light; Protect us by thy might, Great Greed, our King!

MANY a queen who wears a golden crown bought it from the dentist.

CAN all you can whenever you can.

A Louisianian has patented a plough consisting of a large wheel to which are attached a number of pointed steel rods which are pushed downward and forward into the earth as the wheel revolves.

For its buildings all over the country the United States government every year buys enough coal to make a pile a mile square and ten feet high.

The Harvard Training Corps is no longer a Harvard affair. Representatives of thirty-nine other colleges and universities are now enrolled in the camp.

FACTS ABOUT LIBERTY LOAN.

Why "Liberty Loan?"

The $5,000,000,000 bond issue of this year is named "The Liberty Loan of 1917" because it is to be a loan from a free people to be used in freeing the world.

It is the loan of a liberty-loving people to be devoted to the establishment of liberty in Europe and on the high seas.

It is the loan of the great democracy of the New World to redress the wrongs and support the cause of the democracy of the Old.

What is a Liberty Loan Bond?

A Liberty Loan Bond is a solemn promise of the United States to pay at maturity the amount of the bond to the holder thereof, and to pay interest semi-annually each year from the date of the issuance of the bond until it is fully and finally paid.

What is The Security For A Liberty Loan?

The faith and honor of the United States, backed by all of the resources of the Nation and the American people. A Liberty Loan Bond is a mortgage on all the resources and taxing powers of the Government and all of the resources of the American people.

What is The Nature Of A Liberty Loan Bond?

There are two kinds of Liberty Loan Bonds. Bearer Bonds are to be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000. These Bearer Bonds, which are made payable to bearer, have interest coupons attached which are detached by the holder when the interest installments they represent are due, and can be cashed at any bank the same as a United States Treasury note.

Registered bonds are to be issued, which are registered as to both principal and interest, in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $50,000, and $100,000; checks for the amount of interest due will be mailed out semi-annually to the holders of these registered bonds.

What Are The Terms Of A Liberty Loan Bond?

Liberty Loan Bonds of the first issue of $2,000,000,000 are to bear date of June 15, 1917, and to run for thirty years, except that the Government reserves the right to pay them fifteen years after date. If this right is not exercised by the Government fifteen years from date, the bonds will run the full thirty years.

These bonds bear interest at 3½ per cent per annum, and the interest is payable semi-annually on the fifteenth day of December and the fifteenth day of June in each year.

What Special Advantages Have These Liberty Loan Bonds?

One especial advantage no other bonds National, State, municipal, or corporate, have is that if the United States during the continuance of this war shall issue other bonds at a higher rate of interest, the holders of these Liberty bonds have the right to exchange their Liberty bonds bearing the higher rate of interest, dollar for dollar.

What Other Special Advantages Do These Bonds Possess.

They are nontaxable. If your city, county, and State taxes are three mills on the dollar, a not unusual tax, these bonds are equivalent to ordinary corporate bonds or other investments bearing 6½ per cent.

In addition, no Federal tax which war conditions may later make necessary will affect these bonds. The only tax these bonds are subject to is the inheritance tax, which applies to all property of all kinds whatsoever.

How Are Liberty Bonds Obtained?

Blank forms of application for the purchase of these bonds can be obtained from the Treasury Department, any Federal Reserve Bank, any National, State, or private bank, any express office, and any post office in the United States. Any bank or postmaster will aid applicant in filling out this blank and the other acts necessary to obtain these bonds.

If These Bonds Are So Desirable, Why Is It Necessary To Advertise Them Extensively?

It is not necessary to advertise these bonds to sell the whole issue, but it is earnestly desired that this loan shall be a popular loan, a loan by and from the people at large of the United States, and not alone from banks, trust companies, and financiers. To that end bonds are to be issued of small denominations, and subscribers for small amounts are granted their full subscription.

Is It Patriotic To Purchase These Bonds?

Yes; every American who subscribes to the justice of the course of the United States in entering and conducting the war we are now engaged in should subscribe to the Liberty Loan Bond issue to the extent of his or her financial ability.

Every American who subscribes to the belief that an American should stand by his or her country should subscribe to the Liberty Loan Bond issue.

Every American who loves America and is jealous of America's honor should subscribe to the Liberty Loan Bond issue. The real success of the loan is to be more determined by the number of Americans participating in it than by the amount subscribed. The spirit of the Nation is going to be judged abroad especially by our enemies, more by the number of its American men and women who support this bond issue than by the mere amount of money subscribed.

Friday.

Governor Whitman of New York, announced that he desired all of the 18,000 employes of the state to patronize the Liberty Loan and promote that enterprise as much as their means would permit.

At least 17 persons were killed and 50 injured when a tornado struck Andale, Kan., 15 miles northwest of Wichita. The property damage was large.

An appropriation of $200,000 for the purchase of Great East Meadows, N. J., as a target range and camp grounds for the Government was passed by the Senate.

President Menocal, of Cuba after hearing both sides of the stevedores' strike at a conference between employers and employees, ruled the men were entitled to wage increases and shorter hours and ended the 10 day walkout.

Recognizing the fact that but a small proportion of the American people can have the opportunity to serve on the battlefield, but that all men, women and children can do effective service by aiding the Red Cross, President Wilson issued a proclamation designating the week ending June 25 as Red Cross week. The proclamation calls upon the people to give generously to the fund for the support of the national relief needs.

In order to meet the demand for telegraphers for the army and at the same time not cripple the commercial telegraph companies, Major Carl F. Hartmann, signal officer of the Eastern district, New York, issued an appeal to the thousands of former telegraphers, men and women, to do their bit by reporting for temporary service at some point where an operator eligible for active military duty may be released for enrollment in the Signal Corps reserves.

In advance of the nation-wide drive to carry out the American Red Cross plans to raise $100,000,000 for war relief work the New York members of the Red Cross War Finance Committee announced that prior to the campaign during the week of June 18 they expect to receive many important pledges, including one or more individual $1,000,000 contributions.

FREDERICK COUNTY'S QUOTA FOR THE NAVY IS EIGHTY-TWO

Salary Rates and Opportunities For Promotion Are Especially Attractive.

Frederick County will be called upon to contribute 82 young men in the Navy's new campaign for recruits from Maryland. The State, as a whole, will be called upon to give 2,000 men as its share of the additional 63,000 necessary to bring up the strength of the Navy to 150,000, in accordance with the bill recently passed by Congress.

The Navy recruiting authorities at Baltimore, under the direction of Lieutenant P. L. Wilson, Officer in Charge of the Maryland District, are mapping out details for the new campaign, and each of the 23 counties of the State has been assigned a definite quota. The apportionment is made on the population bases of each county.

Propaganda designed to set forth the advantages of the Navy in war time as well as in peace, has been prepared for circulation throughout the State, and patriotic citizens and organizations in each county will be asked to assist in the campaign.

Maryland has already shown its preference for the Navy, being the only State in the Eastern Naval Division to raise its last quota of 800 recruits in the time prescribed by the Bureau of Navigation.

The salary rates and opportunities for promotion are especially attractive in the Naval service, and the Navy Department, a short while ago, waived the length-of-service requirements, thus permitting the enlisted men to be advanced in their ratings as soon as they show the necessary qualifications.

Minors applying for enlistment—the age limits are between 17 and 35 years—must obtain the written consent of their parents, or legal guardian. Forms for this purpose can be procured from the postmasters of the various cities and towns of the State.

Full particulars of Navy enlistment can be obtained from the nearest postmaster; directly from the Navy Recruiting Station, Calvert and Lexington Streets, Baltimore, or from the Navy Recruiting Sub stations at Cumberland and Hagerstown.

What A Government Bond Is.

The Government of the United States has two methods of raising money. One is by taxation. The other is by the sale of bonds, which is a method of borrowing money.

The Government bond is the printed promise of the Government to pay back the borrowed sum of money at a certain time, and to pay interest on it at regular intervals until it is repaid.

The Government borrows money in this way only after it has been given the right to do so by act of Congress approved by the President, and the terms of the loan are set out in the act.

Back of the promise of the Government stands the honor of the Government and all its taxing resources. Really the whole wealth of the Nation stands behind this solemn promise of the Government to pay.

This makes a United States Government bond the safest investment in the world. If the bond of the United States Government is not safe, no property in the United States is safe. If the United States can not pay its bonds it is hardly probable that it will be able to protect the citizens in their other rights.

The Liberty Loan Bonds of 1917 are especially attractive investments. Not only have they this absolute safety characteristic of all United States bonds but they are tax free not only from all existing taxes but from any war tax that may subsequently be levied. No State, city, nor county may tax them. The inheritance tax of the United States and of some States may affect them, or, rather, affect their transfer after death of the owner by will or by inheritance.

Another advantage these Liberty Loan Bonds possess is that if the Government issues bonds later on during this war at a higher rate of interest the holders of Liberty Loan Bonds will be allowed to exchange at par their bonds for bonds bearing the higher rate of interest.

WILL PLANT CORN TO FILL SILOS

MARYLAND DAIRYMEN CONSIDER SILAGE MOST ECONOMICAL FEED.

MAKES MORE MILK

Farmers Are Urged To Plant More Corn and Build Silos.

College Park, May 17.—Members of the State Dairymen's Association are urging on Maryland consumers the fact that the wider use of dairy products will insure a healthier and cheaper fed people. In connection with this campaign for the greater consumption of dairy products they are also seeking in every way possible to keep down the cost of production. With feed at $50 a ton they realize the great need for producing more silage and forage crops. The planting of larger acreages of corn for silage purposes is especially recommended. G. E. Wolcott, dairy specialist for the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service, states that any farmer keeping as many as ten cows should build a silo to enable him to feed his herd economically. At the present time it is most important that the farmer who has in mind the building of a silo, should plow and prepare additional land for corn so that he will have an ample supply for silage purposes. Any surplus that has to be harvested as field corn should bring ample returns at present prices.

According to Mr. Wolcott, 3 to 4 tons of silage can be profitably fed per cow a year. The yield of silage varies from 4 to 20 tons to the acre, and yielding 50 bushels per acre making about 10 tons to silage. Corn in the form of silage will produce more milk than the same amount shocked and dried. There is also considerable less waste in feeding silage than in feeding fodder. Where properly fed, silage is entirely consumed by the cow and aids as well in keeping the digestion in good shape. On account of the smaller cost of handling silage as compared to soiling crops, it can be used to advantage in supplementing pasture land as well as providing a succulent feed in winter. Using corn as silage makes it possible to clear the land much quicker than if the corn were cut and shocked, thus preparing the land for wheat or some other money crop early in the fall.

Corn grown for silage is usually drilled, which permits of closer planting. The ground should be harrowed as soon as the spring drying begins on winter plowed land or as soon as spring plowing is done to prevent loss of moisture. This harrowing will also prevent the forming of clods. The grower must use his own judgment as to how much further harrowing or rolling he should do, bearing in mind that his yield depends largely on having a firm, moist seed bed with one or two inches of loose soil to cover the seed and prevent further evaporation. Cultivation must be frequent enough to maintain a dust mulch and keep the weeds out of the corn as they will injure the quality of silage if allowed to make any growth.

Farmers growing corn for silage should consult their County Demonstration Agent regarding the cost and type of silo suited to their conditions.

SOY BEANS A VALUABLE FEED.

College Park, May 17.—In view of the high prices of feed for cattle, Maryland farmers are becoming daily more anxious to find substitutes that can be grown on their own land. As a result County Demonstration Agents find demonstrations in growing alfalfa and soy beans very popular in counties where any quantity of live stock is being grown. Seed for trial fields or acres of soy beans can be obtained at cost from the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service through County Demonstration Agents as long as the supply reserved at the beginning of the war lasts. Soy beans have been thoroughly tested out at the State Experiment Station and in demonstration fields in nearly every county in the State. As result, Nickolas Schmitz, formerly of the Maryland Experiment Station, says:

"Soy beans are well adapted to Maryland, and, like corn, thrive best on rich loam soils. It is, however, on soils too poor to grow corn profitably that soy beans will bring the greatest net profit. On such soils, when inoculated and fertilized with a little inexpensive fertilizer, they will produce nearly as much forage and seed as when grown on rich land. They will not grow as well as cow peas on poor, sandy soils, but far better than cow peas on stiff, clay soils. They will stand poor drainage better than either cow peas or corn.

"Soy beans mature in from 70 to 150 days, making it possible to select varieties to fit any length of growing season found in Maryland.

Time To Plant.
"Soy beans may be planted from any time after corn planting is finished until July 15th, depending upon variety, location, and for the purpose planted. For hay and seed it is best to plant the fore part of June, to insure good curing weather for the hay and time for late varieties to mature seed before frost. For fall hog pasture, and for turning down as a green manure, they may be planted up until July 15th if an early variety is used.

Tuesday was recruiting day in Emmitsburg—recruiting for Co. A., of Frederick, the crack company of the First Regiment, M. N. G.

The recruiting detail was not scheduled to appear until 3.30, but by noon Major Markey and his aids arrived in Emmitsburg and made their headquarters at The Chronicle Office. The Major, after giving instructions to his men, left early in the afternoon to report in Baltimore.

Almost on the stroke of the appointed hour the first recruit, Francis Xavier Elder, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Elder, presented himself and after preliminary examination was accepted. Closely following came Joseph W. Felix, son of Mr. Pius Felix. He was also accepted. Joseph D. Adelsberger, son of Mrs. J. M. Adelsberger, was number three. Four others then enrolled. Robert B. Reifsnider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kesper Reifsnider; Benjamin Topper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob L. Topper; George Wagerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagerman and Lewis H. Stoner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Stoner.

At ten this little squad of red blooded patriots left for Frederick with Sergt. L. V. Kreh, Sergt. L. E. Phebus and Corp. R. L. Oden, for the more rigid examination by the company's doctor, and all passed and were qualified except Reifsnider who, much to his regret and that of his friends, failed to measure up to the required height.

These six since their return have been receiving congratulations for the manly stand they took. Emmitsburg is proud of them and of the honor thus conferred on the district by their action. Including the other "home boys" who previously entered the Service, Emmitsburg has at this time an accepted representation of 12 out of fifteen applicants.

The recruiting officers made a splendid impression in Emmitsburg. They were every inch soldiers, they deported themselves as men and gentlemen and in all they did they were courteous and thoroughly soldierlike.

Successful Recital Given By Frederick Talent.

The people of Emmitsburg are loud in their praise of the concert recently given for the benefit of Presbyterian Church, in which only Frederick talent participated. In addition to the vocal numbers, there were instrumental solos, duets, recitations, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience present. Madam Dexter, of the faculty of Hood College, contralto was the premiere soloist of the evening.

Liberty Loan

3 ½ Per Cent. U. S.
Government Bonds

It is believed that the small subscriptions of People of moderate means throughout the United States will be a large factor in the success of the Liberty Loan. There are many ways in which we can be of service to such people and thereby enable them to join in this patriotic service to their country. Therefore we urge the use of our organization in the filing of applications for Liberty Bonds and for making payments after the bonds have been allotted. Undoubtedly there are many people of limited means who would have no safe place in which to keep their bonds after they had paid for them, and to obviate this difficulty we gladly put the security of our own vault at their disposal, undertaking to collect the interest as it accrues on behalf of the owner. If there are those who hesitate to subscribe because the time for payments as required by the Government gives too little latitude, we are prepared to lend our assistance in this direction also, and earnestly urge you to seek our co-operation.

ROBBERY AT C. F. ROTERING'S ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Goods to the Value of Several Hundred Dollars Taken From Second Story of Building.

Using a long ladder and making an entrance through the second story window, thieves entered the clothing and furnishing store of C. F. Rotering, Wednesday night or early Thursday, morning and made away with clothing and furnishing goods valued at several hundred dollars.

The heavy locks and iron bars on the doors and windows on the first floor prevented operating where most of the stock is kept, and to avoid detection while at work the robbers chose the side window shadowed by the Methodist Church.

They broke the bolts, removed the sash and stepped over the lower frame into the stock room. There they sorted out only such goods as appealed to them, being particular to take only sizes that were suitable to their own needs. Among the "swagg" secured were bathrobes, suits of clothing sweaters, stockings and neckties, leaving innumerable things that might easily be converted into cash.

The store was opened as usual on Thursday and as no one had occasion to go to the stock room the robbery was not detected and even then by a passerby who chanced to notice the window and the ladder resting against the wall.

The Ragged Boy
An Easter Story
 By ETHEL HOLMES

One Easter Sunday morning a girl about twelve years old sallied forth from a spick and span farmhouse to go to Sunday school. On the way she overtook a boy about her own age whose forlorn appearance touched her heart. He was out at the elbows, out at the knees of his trousers, and his toes appeared between the upper part of his shoes and the soles. The expression on his face was in accord with his apparel—it was one of misery. "Aren't you going to Sunday school?" asked the girl.

"Sunday school!" the boy repeated as though he had not heard aright.

"Yes. This is Easter Sunday. Didn't you know that all the children go to Sunday school and all the grownups go to church?"

The boy looked at the girl's clothes, then at his own. She was a picture of neatness, he a picture of poverty.

"I couldn't go to Sunday school looking this way, could I?" he said.

The girl looked doubtful. Then suddenly an idea seemed to come to her.

"If you did," she said, "they would all look at you as if they were afraid you'd touch them. Come with me. I'll show them that you're a friend of mine."

The boy demurred, and the girl insisted. She took him with her to Sunday school, but she could not get him forward among the other children. He took a back seat, where he was not noticed. But the girl sat beside him. There was an open window near them, and a draft was coming in on them. The boy shivered, and the girl took off her coat and put it over his shoulders.

During the exercises a collection was taken up. One of the boys passed the plate to where these two were sitting, but the girl made no move to put in a contribution. Of course her friend, the ragged boy, had nothing to give, but the boy who was taking up the collection wondered, for the girl was the daughter of the richest farmer thereabout and was a liberal giver. That Mary Treusdall gave no Easter offering was indeed a surprise.

When the services were over Mary and her protegee went out together, and he insisted on hurrying away before the others could get a view of his dilapidated condition. When they came to a fork in the road and no one was near Mary took a five dollar bill from her pocket.

"This was to have been my Easter offering at Sunday school. But, you see, I couldn't give so much when you had nothing to give. It would have made you feel ashamed. So I thought I'd keep it for an Easter offering for you."

He drew back. There was that in him which had led him to appreciate her delicacy in avoiding hurting his feelings, and it was this same appreciation that led him to decline her gift. She understood at once.

"Take it as a loan," she said. "Some day a small amount like this will be nothing to you and you can repay me."

There was a hopeless look on the boy's face, a shamed look, as he permitted her to thrust the bill upon him. He said nothing, but his eyes spoke volumes. She took his hand in hers, pressed it, then turned to go to her home, he following her wistfully with his sad eyes.

This was the first kindness that he had received from a stranger, a kindness shown him by one near his own age. He stood, occasionally dropping his eyes to the bill in his hand, then raising them to the retreating figure of the girl who had given it to him. Then came a great change in him. He had received an incentive. It seemed to him that an angel had been sent from heaven to lift him out of the slough of despond. A resolution came to him to be worthy of the donor. With the encouragement he had received it seemed to him that he could move the world.

The sun rose on another Easter morning twelve years later and shone on the same location where Mary Treusdall took the ragged boy to Sunday school. Upon the hill was the Treusdall farmhouse, but it had lost its spick and span appearance. The farmer had lost a succession of crops and had died with a mortgage on his farm. Mary was struggling along trying to save the property by raising vegetables and such other produce as she could raise without the investment of capital.

Easter came late that year, and the air was balmy and fragrant with opening buds. An automobile passed over a rise in the ground and, descending a declivity, stopped at the fork of the roads where Mary Treusdall had made her loan to the ragged boy. In the car was a young man. From the neatness of his dress one would not suspect he was that very ragged boy. He looked up at the Treusdall farmhouse and noted its dilapidated appearance. He turned his gaze to the church where Mary had taken him to Sunday school. It had been converted into a guild room, and a new church had been built beside it.

This transformed ragged boy drove his auto to a hotel in the village and registered himself as Martin Sanford.

New York. A distant bell told him that a service was about to take place in the church, and he strolled forth in that direction. Children were straggling into the guild room for Sunday school. Sanford saw a woman emerge from the Treusdall farmhouse and go toward the church. She entered it, and Sanford followed her in, taking a back seat. The woman went up on to a dais and conducted the school. Something about her convinced Sanford that she was the girl who had made him an Easter loan. There was enough of the child left in her to denote this, and there was unmistakable evidence in her manner.

Sanford remained in his seat while the school was in session, and when a collector came to him for his Easter offering he folded a $100 bill in a bit of paper, on which he wrote in pencil, "Principal and interest of an Easter offering that should have been made ten years ago."

The contributions were handed to Mary Treusdall, but what became of them Sanford did not know. He left the place with the children and strolled about near by till he saw Mary emerge. She was moving in the direction of her home on the hill when he joined her.

"Pardon me," he said; "I am a stranger here. Perhaps you can give me some information that I need."

She turned her eyes upon him. If he had had any doubt of her identity it was dispelled. There was the same kindly, honest look in them he had seen as a boy and which had contributed to change him from a ragged boy to a prosperous man.

"That farm," he continued, pointing to the hilltop—"why is it not prosperous? Is there anything the matter with the soil?"

"Nothing. My father, who formerly owned it, had a succession of bad years on account of the weather. He left the property to me encumbered, and it has since been all I could do to pay the interest on the mortgage."

"I am an investor in farm mortgages," said Sanford. "What interest do you pay?"

"Six per cent."

"Indeed, I find it difficult to loan at 5. How much is the mortgage?"

"Five thousand dollars, but there is also an accumulation of interest, which brings the total up to something like sixty-six hundred."

By this time they had reached the farm, and Sanford paused.

"Since you are a stranger here," said Mary. "I should be pleased to have you dine with us."

Sanford accepted the invitation. The family consisted of an aunt of Mary's and a younger sister, in whom the guest saw a duplicate of the girl who had befriended the ragged boy. After dinner he made an inspection of the farm, or pretended to inspect it, and when he returned to the house asked Mary if she could give him the amount of the principal and interest due on the mortgage. She did so, and he said to her:

"I will consider it a favor if you will allow me to add this to my other loans."

Mary was puzzled. She was not aware that the loan was especially desirable as an investment. However, since the stranger asked as a favor what would be an advantage to her she assented. As soon as she had done so Sanford whipped out a pocket checkbook and wrote her a check for the amount, telling her that the papers in the case could be executed the next day.

Sanford did not seem inclined to hurry away, and the afternoon was well spent before he made a move to depart. Then Mary said that, being a stranger in a strange land, he had better take tea with them, and this invitation, too, was accepted. During the evening he and Mary were sitting together before a little blaze on the hearth, for the nights were still cool, when she suddenly said to him:

"Did you put that hundred dollar bill in the Easter offering at Sunday school this morning?"

"I did."

"What did you mean by what you wrote on the wrapper?"

"Ten years ago today a little girl, the daughter of a prosperous farmer, met a ragged boy on the road, took him to Sunday school and afterward loaned him the amount she was to have given for an Easter offering. You are that farmer's daughter, and I am that ragged boy."

Mary's eyes were fixed on him for some time without speaking. She was trying to recall the incident. Presently she said:

"It is coming back to me."

"That Easter Sunday," he continued, "a revolution took place in me, and you were the cause of the change. I needed heartening, and you gave it. The heartening brought courage, the courage a resolution to take hold of the world and win. I am not a very rich man, but I have a plenty to return your loan with interest. The rest—the most valued part of what you did for me—I can never return."

Sanford did not stop at paying off the mortgage on the Treusdall farm. He put it in order, and it was eventually sold for all it was worth. But this consummation was not arrived at till he had married Mary Treusdall and taken her with him to New York, where prosperity for him has continued.

He claims that the great spur needed by many who have been knocked down in the world struggle is a kindly word and a helping hand. Through his wife he gives largely, but prefers to seek individual cases for his benefactions. While he approves of charitable societies and feels that the surest way to profitable giving is through them, he is willing to be deceived in four cases in five provided he can help the fifth.

His favorite anniversary is Easter.
