BOOK MARKS ARE CONVENIENT

Strips of Ribbon of Narrow Width, Perhaps in Dark Red, Answer the Purpose Well.

What do you use for book marks? Probably you either turn down the ments leaf of your book in dog-ear fashion or else open the book flat and lay it face down on a table, or else slip a strip of paper or a strand of thread in your place when you wish to keep it.

We seem to have lost our liking for book marks, and they are so convenient that the loss is strange, observes an exchange.

Of course, some books have ribbon these are tremendously convenient. Strips of ribbon of a narrow width, perhaps in dark red, are also convenient, although whenever these are decorated they are out of place.

Then, too, it is possible to have book marks made from your book plate, or especially designed and made of stiff paper, notched to slip over the top of the page.

Gleaning.

Gleaning is wrongly believed to rest on a common law right in England, and a legal "obiter dictum" exists that a man who enters a field for this purpose cannot be prosecuted for trespass. But a majority of judges in the old court of common pleas decided that to grant a general right to glean would be contrary to public policy, because "it would demoralize the poor," says the London Chronicle, and "open a wide door to fraud." Yet a local custom of gleaning has been recognized repeatedly by acts of parliament, and in some places the "gleaning bell" still rings from the tower of the parish church twice a day during harvest to let the villagers know when they may begin to glean and when they must stop. Ruth's romantic industry seems unknown in Ireland, and has never existed in Scotland.

Ready to Make Up. Russell, who had not behaved himself on the street car, had been told by his mother that he would get a good spanking as soon as they got home. Just before entering the house Russell said, "Mamma, don't you think we better make up before we go in?"

The Golden Rule. What is known as the golden rule in morals, is the rule laid down by Jesus in the sermon on the mount, and stated by him to be the law and the prophets: "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets." The Making of the Flag by Wilbur D. Nesbit Author of "Your Flag and My Flag"

How did we make the flag? By rule?

By compass, and square, and line? With pattern, and thread, and the sempster's tool,

To follow the plain design? Was it only the lore that the draftsmen knew That gave us the red, and the white, and blue? How did we make the flag?

Not all By measuring stitch and seam; For part of it came from a country call And part of it is a dream-

Is a vision that led brave souls aright, And gave us the red, and the blue, and white, How did we make the flag?

In peace We fashioned it fold on fold: In war it was blend with the grim caprice The drums in their summons rolled. 'Twas the courage alike of the quick and dead That gave us the blue, and the white, and red.

How did we make the flag? 'Twas thus It came to its grace and worth; Through all that is good in the souls of us

The banner has had its birth; 'Twas the holier strength of the purpose true That gave us the red, and the white, and blue, Thus have we made the flag?

Ah, no! By colors that will not fade. By sinuous sweep and by deathless glow,

Tis us that the flag has made! And it whispers today to each star-told state: "You must hold me high and must keep me great!"

USE POISONED BAIT FOR GRASSHOPPERS

YOUNG GRASSHOPPERS FEEDING ON CLOVER.

(Prepared by the United States Depart- lemons or oranges, if necessary. Orment of Agriculture.)

If grasshoppers are discovered in the early days of their attack on crops. they may be easily controlled by means of poisoned baits, the most effective of which is described below. This method has been used with remarkable success in many parts of the United States, its complete effectiveness depending only upon the discovery of the young insects before they have attained any considerable size, when the injury done by them is still very slight and when they are wingless and easily killed by poisons or mechanical means.

The constituents of a good poisoned bait are wheat bran, 25 pounds; paris green, 1 pound, or white arsenic, 1 pound; lemons or oranges, 6 finely chopped; low-grade molasses, such as refuse from sugar factories, or cattle molasses, known as "black strap," 2 quarts; water, 2 to 4 gallons. /The bran and paris green or other arsenical are thoroughly mixed while dry, the fruits finely chopped and added, and lastly the molasses and water are poured over the bait and the whole thoroughly kneaded. A coarse-flaked bran is most desirable, although where this cannot be obtained easily ordinary middlings or alfalfa meal may be subimplanted in the minds of our own two stituted; a low-grade, strong-smelling Shahan was beautifully characteristic Monday, November 27, was desig- Alumnae, Clare I. dinary powdered white arsenic (arsenious acid) contains nearly twice as much arsenic as paris green and is comparatively low in price. The powdered form of arsenate of lead may be used, but in this case twice as much of it must be used as of the paris green. In California and other semi-arid regions water should be added to the bait at the rate of at least 4 gallons to 25 pounds of bran, as in these climates the bait dries out very rapidly and the extra moisture is necessary in order to attract the grasshoppers.

The poisoned-bran bait is distributed over the infested fields by sowing broadcast, either on foot or from a light wagon or buggy. In applying the bait in orchards, care must be taken to avoid distributing it close to the trees, because severe injury to fruit trees occasionally results from heavy applications of arsenical poisons.

The time of day chosen for distributing the poisoned baits has an important bearing upon the results secured. In California and other semiarid regions the bait should be distributed in late afternoon or early evening, just before the grasshoppers ascend the plants on which they usually pass the night. They are apparently hungry and thirsty at this time and greedily take the bait if it be available.. In the moister portions of the country, such as New England and Florida, the bait is best applied in the early morning, before sunrise if possible. Farmers should not be discouraged if the grasshoppers do not drop dead immediately upon eating the poison, as it usually takes 24 hours or more for the full effect of the bait to become apparent.

Further information in regard to grasshoppers and their control may be secured from Farmers' Bulletin 747, Dust While Damp and Bugs Will Eat Themselves to Death.

Powder guns have long been in use on some farms, but it seems to me more than they are, says a writer in an exchange. In the first place let me say that a powder or dust sprayer is usually a bellows with handles attached so that a man can stand upright and have the business end of the bellows near the plant or vine he wants to treat with poison.

FREDERICK COUNTY,

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German. English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoche Linganore Hills a tin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn. - Mary-land Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland-the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State-there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatchable; the climate is notedly healthful; its water-pure mountain spring water-cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary-with an enviable reputation extending over 108 years-is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies-equally as noted during its 107 years of splendid acheivement-is also here.

There are excellent Schools-Public and Parochial-in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets. There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites availabe. If you contemplate changing your place of residence-come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, heroes of our wars, the warriors cause of Freedom. We pay homage to those brave men whose spirit makes it possible for us today to sing with pride and love, "My Country 'Tis of Thee." But only one half of the glory can be attributed to the men; the other must be given to the womenfaithful wives, mothers and sweethearts, whose very souls, glowing with the fire of patriotspirit of martyrdom for country.

Especially is this Spartan courage notable in the War of the Revolution, when more than one Colonial woman proved herself a heroine and true patriot. The women of our infant country melted their spoons into shot; Communications intended for publi- tore their fine linens into bandages; served as cooks with the and all orders for Job Printing to be army; nursed the wounded; actdone at this office should be addressed to ed as spies, and even shouldered rifles, when occasion demanded. They did not march under the banner of "Votes for Women." They sacrificed themselves and their dearest possessions in Liberty's cause; they had reared their sons to be soldiers of her army and they shrank from recalling them when that hour of need was at hand.

> War demands sacrifice—sacrifice from women as well as men. Only by sacrifice can national life be preserved. The blood of patriots produces patriots. Our soil has been glorified by the heroes of '76, '12, '61 and '98. What of the 20th century?

America will prove that she still has heroines. Great will be their task, but they will rise to the occasion. Realizing that men who will not yield in conflict to men may yet melt at the pleas of mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts, these heroines will not seek to sap loyalty from the hearts of men; they will not be the cause of bringing dishonor upon their loved ones nor their own and their loved ones' country. Rather will they hearten them and, like other noble women whose names adorn the pages of history, be to them a source of inspiration and of strength.

The Formative Years.

In the Woman's Home Companion a writer says: "Fathers must realize, as well as mothers, that the first five years of the child's life are the most important in the child's development. It is then that he is most formative, most impressionable; it is then that he needs most serious and careful thought from both parents. And if the child is properly handled through this period, half the battles of the future man in the child are won."

SIMPLE APPARATUS FOR WORK

Bright, Hot Sunny Days Are Best, and Close Watch Should Be Kept That Rain or Dew Does Not Hit Product-Avoid Insects.

(From FARMERS' BULLETIN 841, United The drying of fruits and vegetables in the sun is a simple process if they in Frederick county, I have decided to have been prepared properly. In its simplest form such drying consists in spreading the freshly prepared slices or pieces on sheets of paper, or, if there is danger of the product's sticking, spreading on old pieces of muslin held down with stones. Bright, hot, sunny days are chosen for this work, and a close watch is kept to see that no rain or dew wets the product. If flies and other insects are abundant, a mosquito bar is thrown over the prodof County Commissioner, subject to the hand and the thin ones which dry first Republican primary election in Sep- are taken out. Sun drying has much to penditure of fuel and there is little danger of the product becoming over-Mechanicstown District. heated. Dust, however, gathers on the product, and, unless it is protected carefully, flies, and especially certain insects which habitually attack dried fruits, will lay their eggs upon it. them unfit for the table.

Trays of Uniform Size. Fruits and vegetables, when dried in the sun, generally are spread on large trays of uniform size, so constructed canvas or roofing paper.

A very cheap tray can be made of Lewistown District. strips of lumber three-fourths of an inch thick and two inches wide, which form the sides and ends, and lath, which is nailed on to form the bottom. Spaces one-eighth inch wide should be left between the laths for ventilation, and the traps can be raised off the ground by placing them on poles or an improvised trestle. As laths are four feet long, these lath trays are most economical of material when made four feet in length.

Better but more expensive trays can be made by substituting galvanizedwire screen, one-eighth or one-fourth inch mesh, for the laths, in which case the most economical size would depend upon the width of the wire screen obtainable.

A cheap and very satisfactory drier for use over the kitchen stove can be made by any handy boy or carpenter from a small amount of small-mesh galvanized-wire netting and a number of laths or strips of wood about onehalf inch thick and two inches wide. The screen may be tacked directly on the framework to make the drying shelves, or the framework can be made to support separate trays. By using two laths nailed together, the framework can be stiffened and larger trays made if desirable. This form or any of the lighter makes of driers can be suspended from the ceiling over the kitchen range or over the oil, gasoline or gas stove, and it will utilize the hot air which rises during the cooking hour. It can be raised out of the way or swung to one side by a crane made of lath when the stove is required for cooking purposes, and lowered or swung back to utilize the heat which otherwise would be wasted when the top of the stove is not in use.

Another homemade cookstove drier can be used on a wood or coal range or a kerosene stove can be made easily and cheaply. Dimensions: Base 24 by 16 inches; height 36 inches. A base six inches high is made of galvanized sheet iron. This base slightly flares toward the bottom and has two small openings for ventilation in each of the frame made of 1 or 11/2-inch strips of wood. The two sides are braced with 14-inch strips which serve as oss in length and width than the bottom. This sheet rests on two wires fastened to the sides of the drier. This prevents the direct heat from coming in contact with the product and serves as a radiator to spread the heat more

The first tray is placed three inches above the radiator. The trays rest on the cleats three inches apart. A drier of the given dimensions will hold eight trays. The frame of the tray is made of one-inch strips on which is tacked galvanized screen wire, which forms the bottom of the tray. The tray is 21 by 15 inches, making it three inches less in depth than the drier. The lowest tray, when placed in the drier, is pushed to the back, leaving the threeinch space in front. The next tray is placed even with the front, leaving a three-inch space in the back. The other trays alternate in the same way. This permits the current of heated air to pass around and over the trays. A ventilator opening, about two inches wide and six inches long, is left in the top of the drier, through which the moist air may pass away.

This principle of construction is followed so that currents of air will pass over the product as well as up through it, gathering the moisture and passing away. The movement of the current of air induces a more rapid and uniform drying. The upper trays can be shifted to the lower part of the drier, and the lower trays to the upper part as drying proceeds, so as to dry the products uniformly throughout. Another Home Drier.

Still another home drier is the cookstove oven. Bits of food, leftovers, especially sweet corn, can be dried on plates in a very slow oven or on the back of the cookstove and saved for winter use. If the oven is very warm, the door should be left ajar and the temperature of the oven often noted. Trays for use in the oven can be made a convenient-sized galvanized wire screen by bending up the edges one or two inches.

Cookstove driers on the market are of two types. One type consists of a series of trays upon which the material to be dried is spread. These trays are placed in a framework one above the other, forming a compartment through which the heated air rises, carrying off the moisture. The second type consists of a shallow flat metal box filled with water and designed so that one end can rest on the back of the stove and the other on a leg reaching to the floor. It also may be supported over

Use of Electric Fan.

The use of an electric fan in facilitating drying is feasible for those who already own a fan. It has been found that many sliced vegetables and fruits placed in long trays three by one foot and stacked in two tiers, end to end, four sides. On the base rests a boxlike | before an electric fan can be dried to the requisite dryness within twentyfour hours. Some require much less time. For instance, sliced string beans cleats on which the trays in the drier and shredded sweet potatoes will dry rest. These are placed at intervals of before a fan running at a moderate three inches. The frame is covered speed within a few hours. In many with tin or galvanized sheet iron which cities the electric fan will cost not is tacked to the wooden strips of the more than one-fourth of a cent an hour frame. Thin strips of wood may be to run. The fan should be placed close used instead of tin or sheet iron. HOT WATER FRUIT AND VEGETABLE DRYER

This is the cheap est, simplest, most durable and effective dryer for dom estic use that has everbeeninvented. It requires very little space and is used on top of a range or stove when not used for cooking, and when it is removed from the range to make room for cooking it still continues to dry on account of the hot water, which requires some time to cool

This dryer is especially adapted to drying sweet corn and with very little attention can be dried off twice in one day. There is absolutely no burning or scorching which is one of the essential features of a dryer. It has a dry surface of 18 by 26 in. and weighs six pounds PRICE $2 50.
