NO MORE MACADAM ROADS

State Chairman Declares Concrete Better Able to Stand Heavy Traffic. No more macadam roads are to be built by the State of Maryland. State Roads Chairman, Frank H. Zouck, said that it had been so well demonstrated that macadam will not stand heavy motorcar and truck traffic that the Roads Commission will use concrete to build all roads hereaftrr.

The first improved roads in this State were of macadam construction, because at that time little or nothing had been done with concrete highway construction, for the reason that road engineers generally were afraid of it and did not make any plans for extensive use of it till small sections had been subjected to heavy traffic under varying conditions. With the rapid increase in the number of motorcars and especially of heavy trucks the maintenance cost of the maclimbing upward.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In of the counties of Maryand. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertil-ity and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the produc-tion of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland-the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State-there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatchable; the climate is notedly healthful; its water-pure mountain spring water-cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary-with an enviable reputation extending over 108 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies-equally as noted during its 107 years of splendid acheivement-is also here.

There are excellent Schools-Publie and Parochial-in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites availabe. If you contemplate changing your place of residence-come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County,

THROWING THE DART.

Venice and Cork, For Different Reasons, Observe This Old Custom.

In widely differing communities-Venice and Cork-there obtains a curious ceremony, that of throwing the

In the first case this is an ancient custom signifying the marriage of the Adriatic. Every year since 1177, on Ascension day, Venice has been made the bride of the sea, and the throwing of the dart is a picturesque feature of a picturesque ceremony.

Equally interesting are the circumstances attaching to the similar function on the first Thursday of September in Cork harbor, Ireland. By virtue of a clause in the city charter the mayor of Cork is constituted admiral of the port. Every three years he must evidence his jurisdiction by throwing a dart into the sea.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the mayor, the town council, all the civic officers and the band of the Cork civil artillery embark on a vessel and proceed to a point between Poor head and Cork head, which is held to be the maritime boundary of the borough. The mayor dons his official robes and, attended by the mace and sword bearer, the city treasurer and the town clerk, likewise wearing their official robes goes to the prow of the vessel and launches into the sea a dart made of mahogany tipped and winged with bronze, in this way asserting his authority as lord high admiral of the port.-Argonaut.

VENOMOUS SEA SNAKES.

Gaudy Colored Serpents of the Indian and Pacific Oceans.

Innumerable sea snakes, most waters of the Indian ocean and the western Pacific.

Nearly all of them differ from the land serpents by the laterally flattened and oarlike shape of the tail and also by the scales of the under surface of the body. When cast ashore accidentally the majority are quite help less and soon die, for they are unadapt ed for getting about on land. Three species, however, differ from the ma most common kind is a three foot snake that lives in the waters from the Bay of Bengal to Oceania. This species easily crawls on land and sometimes makes journeys of a consid erable distance inland.

Most of the sea snakes have brilliant marine creatures and are extraordinari | ment. y active. In length they vary from about two feet to as much as ten or twelve feet. Sea snakes also differ from land snakes in the shortness of the tongue. In their natural elemen they thrust only the extreme tip of this the closed mouth. They have comparatively small nostrils, placed on top of the snout and furnished with a valve that opens to admit air and that closes to exclude water when the reptile is beneath the surface.

Children's Prattle.

At times it cannot be denied the questions of children become irksome, but who would wish a child to ask no questions? Julius Sturm tells in one of his pretty fairy tales how a grandfather, driven into impatience by the constant questionings of his grandchild, exclaimed, "I wish your tongue were out of joint!" But when unexpectedly his wish was fulfilled and the child became dumb how he joyfully exchanged one of the two years which an angel had prophesied he was yet to live for the privilege of hearing the little one's prattle again!-Exchange.

THIS NEWSPAPER? ************

I feel it my duty to emphasize that the food situation is one of utmost gravity, which, unless it be solved, may possibly result in the collapse of everything we hold dear in civilization. The only hope is by the elimination of waste and actual and rigorous self-sacrifice on the part of American people. We do not ask that they should starve themselves, but that they should eat plenty, wisely and without waste.—Herbert Hoover. -Herbert Hoover.

BARLEY DISHES.

Barley has been used for years in invalid cookery for broths and as infant food. High-grade barley contains as much protein as hard wheat. It furnishes starch, fat and mineral matter in equal amounts with wheat. As barley lacks gluten, wheat flour must be added to barley meal or flour to make successful bread, using one part of whole wheat or white flour to two parts of barley flour. Barley meal has a similar texture to cornmeal, both the flour and the meal may be obtained in many sections of the country and as the increasing demand for it grows, will be more commonly in the smaller markets. Barley cook ery is being revived because of the lack of wheat flour, and we are beginning to appreciate its value as a food.

Barley Pone.-Add two cupfuls of milk to one cupful of cooked hot hominy grits or rice, three tablespoonfuls of butter, then cool and add a half teaspoonful of salt, a cupful of barley meal sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, then add two well-beaten eggs; pour into a buttered dish and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes. BOBOLINK Dolichonyx oryzivorus Length, about seven inches. Range: Breeds from Ohio northeast to Nova Scotia, north to Manitoba, and northwest to British Colum bia; winters in South America.

Habits and economic status: When American writers awoke to the beauty and attractiveness of our native birds, among the first to be enshrined in song and story was the bobolink. Few species show such striking contrasts in the color of the sexes, and few have songs more unique and whimsical In its northern home the bird is loved for its beauty and its rich melody; in the South it earns deserved hatred by its destructiveness. Bobolinks reach the southeastern coast of the United States the last half of April just as rice is sprouting and at once begin to pull up and devour the sprouting kernels. Soon they move on to their northern breeding grounds, where they feed upon insects, weed seeds, and a little grain. When the young are well on the wing, they gather in flocks with the parent birds and gradually move southward, being then generally known as reed birds. They reach the rice fields of the Carolinas about August 20, when the rice is in the milk. Then until the birds depart for South America planters and birds fight for the crop, and in spite of constant watchfulness and innumerable devices for scaring the birds a loss of 10 per cent of the rice is the usual result.

New Autumn Frocks Even Have Names.

It is not difficult to make a snap prophecy at what the new French gowns will incorporate as special features when one hears some of their

Kerensky and Pershing are the names to be given to two new coats; Brusiloff, Verdun, Petain, Victoire and Louvain are others, and among these it is rather interesting to see Peter Pan and La Tosca

It is said that the highlander's costume is still a source of delightful inspiration to the French designers, and that they will not relinquish the idea of plaited skirts, checks and tartan plaids, curious shoulder draperies and short, belted jackets.

Another bit of information about the new fashions concerns the linings of coats. Last spring the French introduced colored linen as a substitute for silk in the jackets that belonged to suits. This autumn they will introduce corduroy. A buyer who has just returned from Paris says that this corduroy is called a trench lining, but one who is "fed up" with stories of the trenches and their communicating roads might say that the name corduroy indicated the road over which the 'trenchers" have to come and go.

One is quite sure that France will adopt something from the uniforms of our army, to which she has been giving such happy approval during the month. The milliners will have an excellent chance in the picturesque hat which our troops wear, and one has already arrived in this country made of satin and velvet. It may be, however, that the American woman is too familiar with the swaggering brim and punched in crown to warrant an expensive milliner making an appeal with it to her purse.

No doubt the Frenchwomen will adopt the hat with enthusiasm. Surely the milliners will find an easier sale for the attractive and rollicking hat of the United States troops than they did for the French marine cap and the queer hat of the Grenadier guards.

The poncho, the sombrero and the Pershing overcoat may become rivals of the Russian boot, the Cossack cap and the Algerian skirt.

ABOUT PLAYTHINGS.

The Great Value of Letting a Child Amuse Himself. [Prepared by the Kansas state board of health.]

Play material of a sort which best pleases children is at hand in nearly every home. The baby often finds more pleasure in a string of empty spools or a few clothespins than in the rattles and balls which have come from an expensive toyshop. As the child grows articles and materials at hand will, if properly utilized, give the great est joy. All sorts of paper may be used for folding and cutting or for scrap books. Magazines furnish a wealth of pictures to cut out or to paint. Wooden boxes make stores, doll houses and forts, while chairs and tables readily become lorses, steam boats, stages and a thousand other things by the use of a little imagin Old cotton cloth torn into two inch strips and sewed together end to end will make yards of reins, enough to drive the coach and four which is so easily created out of the dining room

When toys are to be bought or made for children they should be the mate rial out of which the child may con struct his own amusements rather than something which he is merely to watch It is a well known fact that many or the expensive mechanical toys are dis carded after a brief acquaintance or ruined in the attempt to find out wha makes them go, because the child wants to do something rather than to be amused or entertained. Among the mechanical toys, however, railroad and trains of all sorts have a perennia joy for all small boys, because, with the tracks in sections and the different kinds of cars and engines, they are able to construct their own systems ac cording to their own ideas.

Toy figures and toy dogs, cats and other animals lend themselves readily to many uses. All sorts of vehicles such as wagons, carts, tricycles and carriages, garden tools, small brooms and carpet sweepers and all sorts of articles for doll housekeeping are adapted to play in which the imaginative element is most important. Books and drawing, sewing, writing and building materials all have their place. and many of these are at hand in every Smart Fads.

Japanese embroideries are seen even on sports coats of jersey. Girdles made of beads are a pretty addition to the straight frock. Ecru tinted Irish lace is to be seen on afternoon and evening gowns. Georgette crape combinations are trimmed with bands of liberty satin. Long blouses suggesting smocks are nade of sheer handkerchief linen, Princess slips to wear under lingerie resses are made of pink organdie.

Fabric Gloves.

Fabric gloves have gained a great ogue since the beginning of the European war. One sees women wearing them for all but evening occasions.

Some of the fabric weaves are so fine and so cleverly made that one cannot tell them from suede at a short distance, and they are shaped to the hand with a care that was never before bestowed on this kind of glove. Gray is most effective, as are some shades of suede and tan.
