and the third Bethune. Not less than 28 divisions had been employed by the enemy in this pretentious program which has meant that at some places the British have been very heavily outnumbered. A German division aggregates 13,000 to 14,000 men, including 7,500 rifles.

St. Venant, between Merville and Aire, was heavily attacked by strong forces of Germans after their success which gave them possession of Merville. The enemy seem desirous of reaching Aire, a railway center, and were throwing large numbers of troops into the conflict in an attempt to drive the British back. The German threat in this direction undoubtedly is of considerable importance. Fighting continues to be of the bitterest nature, not only in the Merville neighborhood, where the main assault was made, but also northward from Givenchy.

Meanwhile, steady pressure was maintained in the Estaires sector beyond which lay Merville and Aire. During the night the enemy pushed back the defeness at Lestrem and captured Calonne-Sur-Lys, just southwest of Merville. At the same time they pressed down through Neuf Berquin, a little above Merville, and these two converging forces hurled themselves on the town.

Giving way before greater numbers, the British fell back toward St. Venant, fighting doggedly all the way against the closely pressing Germans. A sanguinary battle was proceeding east of St. Venant with the British making a determined stand. During the night the British counter-attacked west of Steenwerck, west of Armen tieres, and reoccupied La Bacque after hard fighting.

The German attack about Givenchy, on the southern end of the battle line, was pressed by some nine divisions. There has been virtually no cessation in the fighting here since the beginning of the battle. Thus far the British have maintained a stone wall defense, against which the Germans have flung themselves with heavy losses.

The work of the British gunners at Givenchy has been noteworthy. On the first day, when the Germans swept forward in masses and the situation was very grave, many artillerymen worked for hours shooting point-blank at close range. One gunner sergeant stood by his piece firing with open sight at a range of 200 yards and held the enemy off for a considerable time before he was compelled to fall back,

The British troops who have been making such a gallant stand just above Givenchy also distinguished themselves by holding the Germans up for hours at a certain point in the battle before Cambrai on November 30, when the enemy counter-attacked.

Let the Kaiser know Americans are backing the boys who are stemming the Hun drive with their life blood. You are asked NOT TO CON-TRIBUTE---but ONLY LEND---your money at a high rate of interest on the best security in the world.

We have an easy plan of paying for bonds for those who find it inconvenient to pay cash in full, or in accordance with the government's payment in installments. Come in and let us explain fully.

SAVE CIVILIZATION, SAVE AMERICA, YOUR OWN

The Third Liberty Loan is your opportunity. It is the most direct blow that can be struck at German military supremacy. It is the most powerful aid that can be given our soldiers in France. It means rifles and helmets and gas masks---the best protection for our men from German brutality. It means big guns and shells and airplanes---and VICTORY.

INVEST TODAY IN BONDS OF THE THIRD LIBERTY LOAN, AND SAVE THE LIVES OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS.

The following statement in reference to the Loan is taken from a circular letter of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, dated April 5, 1918:

"The amount of the Third Liberty Loan will be $3,000,000,000, the right being reserved to allot bonds up to the full amount of any oversubscription. The bonds will bear interest at the rate 4 1-4 per cent. per annum, will be dated and bear interest from May 9, 1918, and will mature September 15, 1928. The first coupon will be for 129 days' interest and will be payable September 15, 1918, after which interest will be payable semi-annually, March 15th and September 15th. This arrangement as to interest dates is made in order to avoid having interest payments on this series of bonds fall upon approximately the same dates as those of the Second Liberty Loan.

NOT CONVERTIBLE.

"The bonds are not convertible and are not subject to call for redemption before maturity. The bonds carry the same exemption from taxation as those of the Second Liberty Loan.

"The bill authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase Third Liberty Loan Bonds to the amount of one-twentieth of the original issue of such bonds during the first year, and in each subsequent year, one-twentieth of the amount outstanding at the beginning of each subsequent year, until the expiration of one year after the termination of the war. DRAWING WEALTH FROM SEA

Waters Around Australia and America Abound in Material Always in Commercial Demand.

The natural resources of Queensland (Australia) exist in the sea as well as upon the land. The great reef which skirts its northern seaboard is the home of the commercial sponge, the trocus, shellfish, beche de mer and other things which a more systematic or scientific search might reveal. So far the growth of sponge has not been exploited, but trocus shell to the value of £80,000 (roughly, $150,000) has been exported to Japan from North Queensland.

The luggers fish constantly and effectually. What is required is (1) a greater first-hand knowledge of the resources of the Barrier and its environs; (2) a more stringent enforcement of the licensing laws; (3) the necessity for a close season in various sectors of the waters, and, lastly, the introduction of scientific methods for development and control.

It is interesting to note in connection with this last proposal that in Florida a sponge farm has been successfully inaugurated and sponges to the value of £40,000 (approximately $200,000) are about to be put on the market, an exchange observes. The way was made clear for this achievement by the American bureau of fisheries, an institution which is doing, in conjunction with the American bureau of standards, monumental research for American industry. The sponges are separated into tenths and secured by platinum wire to small slabs of cement, which are "planted" in a water vat selected for the complete absence of fresh water, protection from marauders and freedom from sand.

Men Who "Do Things" Are Those Who Constantly Maintain Activity of Their Minds.

The editor of the American Magazine says: "Some men stay asleep on their jobs-no matter whether they are strap-hangers in New York or storekeepers in Manistee. The main thing is to wake up. That is what this man did. He woke up and shook himself into a state of rigid self-examination and overhauling. That is good for anybody once in a while.

"Beyond the shadow of a doubt the men who do big things differ from those who don't chiefly in the activity of their minds. The big doers keep up a continual mental struggle-collecting and absorbing new facts, studying to understand them, trying to 'put two and two together'-until out of this activity they hit upon good practical ideas which they see clearly. No mentally lazy man ever had a really good idea. You can't get good ideas that way. Good ideas are born in brains that keep working. You can't take a fat horse out of a stall where it has been locked up a long time and expect it to win a race. Neither can you expect a lazy brain to get out on the track suddenly and make much of a record. Both horses and brains thrive on exercise."

Water Under the Desert.

A study of underground waters in the Nevada deserts has recently been completed by the geological survey. It shows that in Nevada the bedrock forms a corrugated surface consisting of more or less parallel mountain ranges and broad intervening troughs that are filled to great depths with rock waste washed from the mountains. These deposits of rock waste are relatively coarse and porous.

The rain that falls upon them and the run-off that reaches them from the mountains sink into them, and the valleys in which they lie are arid. These deposits, however, form huge reservoirs in which the water is stored and in which, to the limit of the capacity of the reservoirs, it is protected from evaporation. So well is this water hid-den that its existence was not suspected by many of the early travelers, and even today long desert roads on which there are no watering places lead over areas where ground water could easily be obtained.

"Pity the Blind." "I was standing in front of the Tutwiler waiting for a friend the other day," said Ernest W. House, "and just across the street a number of pretty girls were waiting for a street car. It was windy, and there was quite a display of hosiery. Now, this in itself would not have been so very unusual, but a fellow standing by me spied the exhibition, and then saw a blind man with a sign, 'Pity the Blind.' "I do not know who he was, but his sympathies were aroused, for he turned to me and said, I never was so sorry for a blind man in my life; I am going across and drop a quarter in his cap,' and he did."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

All Asleep Standing Up. In the South it is not an uncommon sight to see a negro sleeping soundly while standing and leaning against a bale of cotton. A Tennessee physician tells an interesting story of being called to attend a sick colored woman in the coutnry. When he got through with the patient, he found nine members of the family standing in various attitudes before the fire, and all sound asleep, some of them snoring. He awoke one of the group and asked him if he was in the habit of sleeping that way. . The man said the family had been up for many nights with their LONG COATS ARE FAVORED

The coats of spring may be either long or three-quarter length, but for general wear the long coat is the favorite. If you are looking for novelty in a coat of this kind consider the advantage of the shapely model shown above. It has a triple cape collar and an odd new arrangement of sash ends at the sides. They are cut in one with a narrow band extending across the MUST KEEP BRAIN AT WORK back and front. The coat hangs almost straight its fullness held in by a narrow belt.

A handsome long coat of gracious cut and graceful lines is shown in the picture, embellished with a rich embroidery which is put on in bands across the wide collar and about the sides and back above the hem. In the back it conceals its fullness by deep inverted plait, but in the front scorns to dissemble and is frankly full.

TUNIC FROCK OF SERGE

A tunic frock of serge, embellished with narrow bands of silk embroidery at the waistline and small, cloth-covered buttons, shows that it is minded to follow the modes for spring in every particular. It has a narrow underskirt, an irregular tunic and a semisick mother and that every last one of fitted bodice. "The Only Son of His Mother"

By KATE M. CLEARY

Crape tied with black hung from the door knob of the little frame cottage. All through the long, blue, brilliant autumnal day there had been a trickle of humanity up and down those sagging steps. Men and women had walked sedately up and as decorously descended, for the friends of Henry Carson had been many.

There were reasons for his popularity. He had been a kindly and generous man, broad of vision, warm of heart, gentle of soul. Life was more glowing for those who warmed their hands at the hearth of his friendship. At one time he had been wealthy.

In his own home he had been adored. In him had been no trace of the pettiness that brands that most despicable of creatures, the domestic tyrant. All that skill, love, money, tenderness could do had been attempted to aid the only boy in the houseful of girls. While the exhausted sobbing of the widow and the frightened wailing of the little children resounded, while, black clad strangers noiselessly intent upon their solemn duties, came and went; while neighbors, offering sympathy and condolence, flocked into the little room, he moved silently among them, a tall, attenuated lad with a set, pale face and eyes of impenetrable melancholy.

Alone in the darkened front room as the glorious day waned, he watched the corners growing mystically dim in the twilight and the long box on the trestle looming blacker in the encroaching

Save for that other peaceful presence the boy was alone in the room. From his screened solitude in the window recess he saw his mother comein. She approached the coffin. He noticed how worn and shaken she looked in the flickering light of the candles. She stood there, the shawl hanging loosely from her shoulders, her arms fallen straight by her sides. She seemed overwhelmed by the utter lassitude of spent grief.

"Mary," cried a woman's voice, poignant with sympathy, "oh, Mary!" The widow turned with a start, recognized the newcomer. A choking sound broke from her as she ran into the arms of her girlhood friend.

"Mary, I only this afternoon read the notice in the paper. I came as quickly as I knew, as I could. My dear, my dear, don't cry so! don't! > The stricken woman drew back, staring wildly at her friend.

"Oh, you will come to know it is for the best. He could never have been well or happy or fill a man's place in the world. Although you all concealed it from him as well as you could, he must have suspected what an anxiety he was to you, what a drag, what a burden. And there was no possibility of his ever being less a heartache to you. Oh, I know what you would say." The torrent of her eager speech swept away the other's ineffective effort to protest. "But I speak as the old friend who loves you dearly. It is better for you all that he is dead. Think if instead of that poor, useless, boy it had been his strong, fine father who had been taken! Then, in-

"My God, Mary, you don't mean— The paper said—the same name—" The widow pointed to the coffin. Then she huddled to the floor beside it and crouched there, her face hidden in her shawl.

When she had left the room the boy rose wearily. He walked slowly and like one grown old. In that uncertain circle of tawny light he paused. His young face, sanctified and spiritualized by suffering, leaned over that other in the black box below. Its benign calmness almost taunted him. His own countenance, white and working, dismayed his sister when she met him at the door. She cried out at sight of

"Harry, you are going to be ill!" Her voice shook with concern. "You are going to have one of your bad at tacks, I am sure!"

"Oh, no, dear." There was infinite sadness in the mournful eyes that met her own. "Don't worry," he besought her. "Mother needs you."

But the smile that curved his mouth was of ineffable loveliness. Perhaps one as woeful may have touched those lips, protesting against being forsaken, when wet with gall and vine-

Russian Bolshevik Authorities Announce Intention of Giving It Its Former Independence.

Now the foreign minister of a Russian government that has no regard for imperialism and its rules has sent word to Persia that the 1907 agreement is all off, null and void, and that Russia will now try to relieve her of Turkish and British troops, too.

In announcing this doctrine of Persia for the Persians, and putting it into practice, the Russian bolshevik government immeasurably strengthened the position it took at Brest-Litovsk and at Petrograd in demanding liberation for all subject nationalities.

It is fair to say that the British ministry to-day would be slow to apply the mailed fist of imperialism as in Persia in 1907. Much water has flowed under the bridges since, and the imperialistic tide is ebbing fast.

Former Acquaintances One Meets in New York Must Not Be Judged by Their Appearance.

You never can tell who is who when you meet them in the White Light sec tion. The other night a Pittsburgher ran into a former Steel Cityite who was wandering along the big lane. The former Pittsburgher admitted that he did, and gave the visitor some advice and warning about the big city, He listened. Then he asked: "What are you doing here, Bill?"

"Working for a bank down town," replied the other man.

The Pittsburgher didn't press his chance friend for details. He thought that Bill had one of those jobs down town where one starves to death amidst the wealth of the nation—die of thirst upon the fountain's brink. "Won't you take lunch with me?" he asked, and Bill said he would be delighted-some time.

The next day the Pittsburgher went to a bank down town to see about a check of a friend of his which had gone astray. Dog's Death Led to Suicide.

Mrs. Margaret Dugdale, wife of Norman Dugdale, J. P., of Dutton Manor, near Blackburn, was found dead with a bullet wound in her forehead in a field near the grave of her favorite dog, which had been destroyed on account of age. Depression caused by its loss was suggested at the inquest as the cause of her suicide, says Lloyd's News, London. When found she was grasping a humane cattle killer, at her feet was a mallet with which she had discharged the weapon, and a loaded revolver was in a basket near her. She had fixed a mirror to the fence, and a note pinned to her dress gave directions for the disposal of her body, Mr. Dugdale said he thought the dog's death, which his wife had taken greatly to heart, was the cause of the tragedy, and the jury's verdict was that Mrs. Dugdale shot herself while of unsound mind.

Father Need Not Have Worried Over Possible Bad Effect of Movies on Little Son.

After all, it's hard to figure out correctly the effect of the movies on the child mind. It happened that mother and sister had gone to a concert and it was up to father to entertain little brother, age seven. Father likes the movies-some of them-so he thought that would serve the purpose. Of course you can not tell much about a film by the name or by the pictures out in front either for that matter. But father likes pictures of westers life and he thought the horses and mountains might please brother. Sa when he saw the poster of a cowboy, in they went.

It wasn't a very good sort of picture as to theme, for it presented a ruthless outlaw and his gang of robbers. When a wagon train of gold seekers came across the desert he not only refused to give them water, but drove them off to perish of thirst on the desert. And there also was a dance hall scene in the West. Father had some misgivings as to his choice of movie and wondered whether, at its close, his son would elect to be the bold, bad bandit or the vice-enmeshed owner of the dance hall and gambling hell. He said nothing but anxiously awaited the verdict.

When "The End" came, brother whispered: "Daddy, do you know who the cow-

"Our milkman," was the reply. GOT RIGHT POINT OF VIEW

The autoist was waiting for the corner traffic man to give the signal-to make the turn at the corner. When he thought he had been there long enough he began tooting his horn impatiently. The traffic man kept on taking care of traffic. The autoist became more impatient with his horn.

"You won't help matters that way, my friend," said the traffic man, as he waved him on.

"Aw, take me to jail, but don't bawl me out!" exclaimed the driver.

The policeman motioned him over toward the curb. "I could take your suggestion, but I won't. You are angry now, but when you cool off you will understand that the corner man has many problems to contend with," said the policeman. "We do not usually make explanations, but I am doing so in this case, because I think you should realize that you are in the wrong."

The autoist drove on, mumbling. A few days later he stopped in the same place. "Say," he said to the policeman, "I made a fool out of myself the other day. I had no right to be angry. You fellows have enough vexations without some one who goes across your corner once a day adding to them by smart remarks.'

The policeman smiled and waved Wife gently. "Since I can't go and we him on. That autoist today probably would fight for the corner man if necessary.—Indianapolis News.

Only One Hog Had Dollar.

A fat hog at the Omaha stock yards coughed up a dollar when "Snuff" Smith, an employee of a commission company, kicked it in the head. The hog was trying to run past him when he wanted it to go the other way. He gave it a vigorous kick. It coughed, gagged, sputtered a moment and then spat up the dollar.

Stockyard men throughout the rest of the day had a lot of fun about the incident. The commission company claimed the dollar. Smith claimed it. The owner of the hog claimed it, and as a result Smith spent it for cigars for the crowd.

A lot of the employees in the yards began to kick hogs right and left in the hope of shaking out another dollar. One employee said he had kicked 612 hogs during the day and hadn't got

Once again the adaptability and skill of women have confounded the critics-those incredulous critics, the farmers. Author's Depiction of "Tourist" Printer Will Be Recognized as Drawn From Life.

Thrilling adventures of the old journeyman printers are contained in "These Shifting Scenes," by Charles Edward Russell. These wanderers roamed from town to town, denouncing everything ourside of New York as unfit for consideration, and returning by way of freight trains once a year for a visit to that Mecca of journalists. Mr. Russell describes a typical member of the guild, one "Scotty."

"This solid and sorry ragamuffin had so often escaped violent death that he was convinced of a destiny to die of disease and was far more fearful of drinking contaminated water than of riding on car trucks. Once as he clung to the bumpers of a freight car a mad or intoxicated brakeman had fired five revolver shots at him and every shot had clipped or gone through Scotty's hat. Whereupon the brakeman, probably convinced that he had seen a ghost, leaped from the train and was

"Several times Scotty had been in train wrecks. Once the car was on fire and he was pinned down by a pile of joist, but two brakemen worked with frenzied zeal until they freed him and saved his life; and then pursued him down the track pelting him with coal for stealing a ride.

"His walking experiment was made in 1874 when business was depressed and the country was full of tramps. He joined a colony of these and so great was the terror they inspired that the farmers used to come every morning with presents of chicken and milk; but as a matter of fact the tramps were the most harmless of men. One had been a clergyman and used to reprove the others for swearing."

LIQUIDATES DEBT TO FRANCE

In Sending Prune Trees to Devastated Country, California Is Repaying an Obligation.

California is generously sending a million and a half two-year-old prune trees to help in restoring the French orchards, and enough seed beans to plant 60,000 acres. Canada is undertaking the planting of thousands of Canadian maples in France. It is pleasant also to know that there is to be no lack of outside help for the devastated towns, observes Christian Science Monitor, in stating these facts. English and American architects are at work on plans for new buildings to replace those razed by the guns, both in Belgium and in France.

The Indianapolis News sees sentiment in the prune tree transaction. It says: "These trees are expected to convert 15,000 acres into bearing orchards in two years. It was France which, in 1856, gave to California her first prune trees. The prune, which since then has filled many a gap on the table of the American boarding houses, and has borne the brunt of many a jest, keeps right on proving its worth.'

Troops Suffered From Thirst.

Some of the hardships experienced v the British forces in Palestine are described in a letter received by a friend in Montreal from a priest. The letter, written shortly before the fall of Jerusalem, tells of a day early in November when a camel convoy from Beersheba was unable to reach the men then fighting for the deliverance of the Holy City from the Turk.

"There was a hot wind blowing," wrote the priest. "A tumbler full of water was left in my bottle, which I divided between four officers whose lips were split and covered with a green slime. That afternoon I had a burial service, and literally I could not articulate without keeping my hand to my mouth and pulling my lower lip off my teeth, while bullets from a concealed sniper whizzed past us. In the evening water came in enough to give each one bottle-quite inadequate."

Communal Kitchens.

The latest proposal for the elimination of waste in food and the supply of meals at minimum cost in England, includes, what for a better term is called, communal feeding. The communal kitchen has been proposed on several occasions but, save for a few spasmodic experiments, it has not been given a thorough trial. Lord Rhondda is interested in the new proposal and acting with a committee of social workers he is devising plans to give the scheme a real test. With so many women doing war work and with consequent neglect of household duties, some such plan as is proposed fill have to be carried out if the rising generation is not to suffer seriously in

Generous Response Third Liberty Loan

Counties Subscribing Quotas and Are Working Hard For Honor Flag

'Over There" Proves Big Help

Reports coming from all parts of the country to the National Liberty Loan Committee indicate that the country districts with the towns and smaller communities are going to exceed all former efforts in their contributions to the Liberty Loan of the present issue.

That the counties of Maryland are not to fall behind those of other commonwealths is likewise indicated by the enthusiastic zeal with which their people have gone to work for the loan. They have an excellent example in the pledge of old Frederick that "we are going to send our dollars to back up our boys at the front." This message was conveyed to the Maryland Publicity Committee in Baltimore in a telegram a week ago, and since then Frederick has been diligently at work to fulfill its pledge.

It is not yet known how many Maryland communities have completed their entire quota of the loan and earned the Honor Flag, but it is known that the best licks are being hit by all of them in efforts to achieve this distinction. Montgomery, first county to report, has already subscribed its quota of $329,800.

On Saturday the reports to the National Committee showed that 700 communities throughout the country had won this honor, and the list was growing rapidly. Another feature in this connection is that almost invariably when a community reports it

"We have filled our quota, but have not relaxed our efforts. We will try to double the quota."

Thus is evidenced the spirit of the American people which has been whetted to the point of enthusiasm by the larger part that our people are now playing in the theatre of war.

There is another big outstanding feature of the present drive in the smaller as well as the larger communities, and that is the more determined and successful part being played by women in raising the loan that Uncle Sam has called for.

The Maryland Section of the Maryland League for National Defense on last Thursday subscribed $26,000. The various women's organizations of Baltimore are daily reporting large lists of subscriptions.

Mary Pickford, the movie actress, was at the "Over There" Cantonment at Baltimore last Monday, and when she had finished her little speech and made an appeal for funds the audience responded with subscriptions for $410,000 worth of bonds. And the best part of it was that these subscriptions were principally in small amounts, so that the number of subscribers was very large.

Down in Richmond on the opening day of the loan the women's committee sold $201,000 worth of bonds.

In the first two days of the loan the women of Delaware sold $90,000 worth

In the town of Virden, Ill., on the first day of the loan the women went to work and carried the town over its quota entirely through their own efforts. That shows just what a live organization in a small community can

On April 6th the women of Hoquaim, Washington, sold $55,410 worth of

In New Braunfels, Texas, the women's committee reports that the full quota of $124,100 has been subscribed and they are still pushing on. This town subscribed only $7,150 to the first loan, and $29,000 to the second loan. There is no question that the country is awake.

And there is no question in the minds of the Maryland Committee that the communities of this state will measure up to the records of sister

The Gospel of Labor

All the dollars in the world could not buy victory. Because victory is not purchasable—we must work for it and, if need be, die for it. Dollars can work for victory only in so far as they are converted into labor and materials. A dollar hoarded is a slacker; a dollar wasted is a traitor; a dollar saved is a patriot. For a hoarded dollar represents idle power; a wasted dollar represents wasted power; a dollar invested in the United States Government represents power saved, labor saved, materials saved—it represents power, labor and materials in action, on the firing line, over the top. And moreit represents reserve power, energy stored, purchasing power conserved for its owner to use later on.

Buy War Savings Stamps. You can buy a United States Thrift Stamp for 25 cents. A card is furnished on which to paste it. Sixteen Thrift Stamps plus a few cents cash will buy a War Savings Stamp. On January 1, 1923, the United States Government will pay you $5.00 for each stamp pasted on a War Savings Certificate. This is 4% compounded quarterly when the stamps are held till January 1, 1923.

As noted in last week's letter, signs are apparent on all sides of a more harmonious condition of affairs in the democratic party in the near future than for the past several years. When both the City and State crowds,

THRIFT PATCH PRIZES TO BOOST FOOD CROPS

Prizes to the amount of $25,000 are to be distributed among both the professional and amateur farmers of this State who are able to show this year the greatest increase in food production. While Maryland is not one of the great wheat-growing States, record crops of other foods will, to a great extent, meet our needs at home, and thus ease the burden of the wheat growers who must supply our army and our allies abroad. Patriotic donations to the Maryland Food Administration have provided the wherewithal for these rewards. Owing to the vacation from his arduous duties which Administrator Baetjer's doctors have compelled him to take, the complete details are not yet available for publication, but they will very shortly appear in the papers. They will have an interest for every man, woman and child who can handle a hoe.

The hope of the donors of the prize fund is to stir up war gardeners to still greater actions. There will be prizes for the best farm or home gardens of less than half an acre, and another set of prizes for farm gardens of over that size. In the towns the thrift-plot scheme has long passed out of the joke stage and is doing a lot to tide over the food crisis which the war has brought about. In the country, another joke is about to end its days as a laugh producer—that which says a man must go to the city to get the good things the farmer grows. In the past a lot of time, effort and money have been spent by the farmer in buying from town foodstuffs which he might well grow at home. The chicken and egg industry as a by-product of the Maryalnd farms has put a deal of money into the purse of the farmer's wife. The development of this plan for patriot-patches as another by-product will not only put more money in that purse, but will also save a deal besides, in providing the farm-table with foods at little cost for which many dollars are now being spent.

The whole scheme is to mobilize the food-producing potentialities of this State so as to get the biggest and best results. Everybody who can work a thrift-patch is urged to line up on the mark now and so be ready to "beat the barrier" the minute the papers declare the competition open. The winners will have Uncle Sam's Liberty Bonds, or some such reward for their extra efforts and outstanding skill. The other entrants—there can be no losers-should get as much satisfaction out of the sure knowledge that they have rendered patriotic service that is vitally essential toward winning the war.

Only tremendous planting of spring wheat can make a reality of the Government's hope for a year's yield of a billion bushels. The estimate for winter wheat is 540,000,000 bushels, or against the 672,000,000 looked for. The April condition is five per cent. below

To meet the needs your boys and our Allies we must ship them by January 1st 100 million bushels of wheat. We have no surplus-so it must come from our savings. Uncle Sam is in honor bound not to keep more than 21,000,000 bushels a month, half the normal amount, for home consumption.

No wheat flour will be used by the citizens of Grimes county, Texas, until after the next harvest. These patriots have already turned over to the Government, at cost, one car of wheat flour and will deliver others now in transit. These cars are being diverted to an Atlantic port by the Food Administration for immediate shipment/to the Allies.
