A WORD OF WARNING

There are several wise guys (or so they think) who are going to find themselves in the "clink" mighty soon if they don't stop cavorting around Emmitsburg in their automobiles, scaring everybody to death . . . The dope that we've managed to get hold of so far is that there are two cars driven by fellas from Taneytown, one of whom works down at the local shoe factory here. Both drive 1948 Chevrolet cars, two-tone jobs, and every week-end they speed up and down Emmitsburg showing off in a disgusting manner and endangering the lives of both pedestrians and motorists. Then when they happen to spy a couple of "slick chicks" promenading the streets, they jam on their brakes, shrieking and sliding madly and recklessly against the curb right beside the girls and proceed to turn on their so-called "charm" which turns out to be pathetically time-worn garble of disgusting and inane "stuff" . . . It's not only over the week-end that it happens. The one who is employed at the shoe factory does his same reckless and wild dash-around every day during his work hour . . . At the same time all our school children are coming to and from school for their noon meal. These self-imposed hotshots are going to wind up by killing someone, but I hope before anything really happens they are apprehended by the local police and made to pay a stiff sum, plus losing their driver's license in the bargain . . . Such stupid speed demons should never be reissued a license.

NEW PHONES, BOY OH BOY

And so it's a definite fact that we'll have dial phones next year. Isn't it simply marvelous? Frankly I don't believe Emmitsburg was really scheduled to have them for two or three years yet but apparently "a word to the wise is sufficient" still is a sound theory and your telephone company is definitely included in that sage category. Frudently it was decided to speed up Emmitsburg's transition to dial phones . . . Many thanks C. & P.

EXPENSIVE OVERSIGHT

Somebody ought to tell Ed Stull that there is more than one kind of baseball. Instead of using a ball and bat you use three's and nines . . . and I don't mean nine innings to a game or three strikes to an out . . . It's a bit of a wild game, wouldn't you say, Ed? You should be more observant the next time. You can overlook a four-leaf clover if you like but never five sevens . . . Tsk! Tsk!

ATOMIC ENERGY

In another section of the Chronicle you'll find a most interesting article on atomic warfare . . . Read it, and remember that all of you are invited to hear the address by Mr. Panzier. There is no admission charge, and you'll be sorry if you don't go . . . Now remember—everyone's invited, local people and out-of-towners, too.

NOW'S THE TIME TO GIVE!

And another thing to be remembered is the annual March of Dimes which officially begins today . . . It's for a wonderful cause so let's each and every one of us do our part . . . Most of you save dimes so how about "snitching" a few from your little piggy bank and putting them to good use.

WEDDING BELLS

Apparently the young people of Emmitsburg and surrounding communities have convinced themselves that the song "It's June in January" is a fact . . . Otherwise how can you account for so many of them deciding to get married this month? Why in last week's issue of the Chronicle there were six announcements of engagements and three weddings . . . Cupid is really knocking himself out this winter . . . At this rate there won't be anybody left to uphold the real June bride tradition. But

MARCH OF DIMES OPENS ELEVENTH ANNUAL DRIVE

Lumen Norris Is Appointed Local
Chairman Of Fund

The 1949 March of Dimes campaign opened today with the most intensive fund-raising drive in Maryland in 11 years. Mr. Lumen Norris, chairman of the local March of Dimes committee, announced this morning that the fund-raising appeal for the Emmitsburg Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis "is the most crucial" in the organization's history. The campaign will end Jan. 31.

"Last summer the nation suffered one of the most devastating polio epidemics in its history, with approximately 26,000 cases," Mr. Norris said. "Never before have the National Foundation and its chapters been called upon to render such extensive aid to stricken communities in every part of the nation. The challenge was met, but emergency aid funds were completely exhausted. We must now replenish those funds and prepare for new epidemics this year."

Mr. Norris listed two primary reasons for full community support of the March of Dimes campaign. They are the ever present threat of a local infantile paralysis epidemic, such as last year's epidemics in North Carolina. Chapters had had funds for normal polio outbreaks in the state, but far too little for unexpected emergencies.

"Such circumstances," Mr. Norris declared, "may be duplicated here. A severe polio epidemic may strike any community like our own. North Carolina soon found its chapter funds were drained dry. Then, they fought back at the epidemics with emergency funds furnished by the National Foundation's national headquarters."

"We must work with a will and provide ammunition for future battles," says Mr. Norris, "and your dimes are the bullets on which the shock-troops depend. The shock-troops are the physicians and the nurses. Their equipment is the iron lungs and hospital beds. Your dimes are backing scientists who carry on important research seeking to eliminate infantile paralysis."

The need for funds in this March of Dimes campaign goes further, Mr. Norris said. After-care of polio victims reaches $10,000 or more in some cases, while the average cost is around $2,000. Local chapters working with the National Foundation MUST furnish the money needed from one source only—the annual March of Dimes.

Dance At White House Inn

Chairman Norris, stated yesterday that plans for a dance are underway. Tentatively, a dance will be held Monday night, Jan. 31, at the White House Inn.

Mr. Norris called the March of Dimes a "happy" campaign.

"That means a campaign where supporters give happily to secure the future of their neighbors and themselves. It means holding special events, such as dances and socials, card parties and sports exhibitions," Mr. Norris said.

"For the remainder of the month we are a community united in a great cause. We must use that short time to win community ease-of-mind for the usual four-month polio period next summer. Should infantile paralysis strike here we will have funds to ease the pains of our children and for the most expert treatment of those stricken. We will know that the crippling after-effects will be held to an absolute minimum through application of most modern techniques. That is community ease-of-mind."

Mr. Norris states that any persons wishing to contribute privately to this cause may do so by contacting him. Any donation will be held secret if requested.

Guy Baker Jr., Sterling White, Johnny Hollinger and Roger Adams spent last Sunday in Baltimore.

DRAFT DOES NOT ELIMINATE FARMERS

No Blanket Deferment
For Agricultural Help

Emphasizing that the Selective Service Act of 1948 provides no blanket deferment for agricultural workers, Col. Henry C. Stanwood, Selective Service Director for Maryland, declared today that draft boards are required both by law and by regulation to consider each farm worker's case individually, just as other registrants' cases are considered.

Col. Stanwood said that regulations issued by the President provide for a deferred classification for farm workers only when the following conditions are met to the satisfaction of the draft board:

1—The registrant must be employed in the production for market of a substantial quantity of those agricultural commodities which are necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest.

2—The production for market of a substantial quantity of agricultural commodities should be measured in terms of the average annual production per farm worker which is marketed from a local average farm of the type under consideration. The production of agricultural commodities for consumption by the worker and his family, or traded for subsistence purposes, should not be considered as production for market. Production which is in excess of that required for the subsistence of the farm families on the farm under consideration should be considered as production for market.

Col. Stanwood observed that "that still doesn't give the complete picture," and he added that a registrant, to be eligible for agricultural deferment, must also meet the requirements in the section of the regulations defining necessary employment.

It was decided to hold a food sale at the Firemen's Hall Saturday, Jan. 22, where all members would furnish the required items for sale.

After discussion the PTA voted to donate the money to the athletic association to buy ten uniforms. At the same time a motion was passed that the PTA would also donate money to purchase uniforms for the girls' athletic club of St. Joseph's. The uniform to be worn by the boys was shown to the PTA by several boys of the high school. These suits will be left at the school for use year after year.

COUNTY MAY GET PARI-MUTUEL RACE BETTING

Fair Association
Asks General Assembly
To Clear Way

The enactment of legislation to permit pari-mutuel betting at harness race meets at the Frederick Fair Grounds was approved by an overwhelming majority at the annual meeting of the life members of the Frederick County Agricultural Society, held in the Court House, Frederick, Saturday.

A resolution offered by Benjamin B. Rosenstock, attorney, and submitted to a secret ballot won by a margin of 127 to 22, it was announced.

Tacked to the resolution was an amendment offered by Frederick Mayor Lloyd C. Culler, a manager, that no action be taken to carry out any enabling act without submitting the question once more to the life members. This was particularly directed at preventing, without action of the full membership, any large scale improvements to convert the grounds for pari-mutuel betting.

The meets, it was specifically provided, would not be held at the time of the Frederick Fair and, of course, would be subject to approval by the State Racing Commission before they could be held.

Two New Managers Elected

Nine members of the present board of managers and two new members were elected. The new members are Glenn Trout, Walkersville, and Harry C. Dorcus of Woodsboro. Dr. Charles H. Conley, Sr., a veteran member of the board, failed of re-election. There was one vacancy on the board, created by the death of Abraham Hemp, Jefferson.

The managers will meet shortly to organize.

Mr. Rosenstock, in presenting the resolution, recalled the difficulties the association had encountered in the early '30s when racing here was not legalized. He emphasized that the purpose of the resolution was to have legislation passed which would enable the future management of the association to have racing with betting privileges if it so desired.

The resolution directed the Frederick County members of the General Assembly to have Frederick County included in the counties of the state which are permitted by statute to have harness racing with betting, subject to Racing Commission approval. The county was one of those specifically excluded from these provisions when the act was originally passed.

Only One Opposes Act

Parsons Newman, delivering the only attack on the resolution, said he was not in favor of the Agricultural Society "entering the gambling business" and declared he could not understand why, at this time "when everything is rosy," the association sought to depart from its long-standing practice and permit a practice which "is distasteful to many members." He said no explanation had been made as to why the subject was proposed at this time and he mentioned that betting is beginning to fall off at various tracks. He said he did not want to see the association borrow money for large-scale improvements, incur debt and then not make sufficient money to pay off the indebtedness.

Probable Cost $200,000

Mr. Rosenstock then said the cost was not the question at this time—the enabling act was the subject. He did say, however, that he had been told it would take around $150,000 to $200,000 to change the fair grounds plant for pari-mutuels.

Other resolutions offered were: Changing the time of the annual meeting to the second Saturday in December.

Making the memberships open only to "bonafide residents of the county" and providing that in the future each member can hold but one life membership certificate.

The membership approved the presentation of these resolutions for final action at the next special or annual meeting of the life members.

DICKIE ORLAN wants to be a comedian — and it seems he's well on his way toward his goal. As the joker of the Sunday MBS "Juvenile Jury" panel, 8 year old Dickie is often referred to as Arthur Godfrey, Jr. Dickie actually plants situations which will lead to punch lines and draw laughs from the audience. His quick mind and spontaneous sense of humor never fail him — nor does the response from the audience. He has a wonderful time at every broadcast because he loves people and is enthusiastic about any gathering that may be planned and clowns his way thru "Juvenile Jury" with infectious exuberance. With all his popularity Dickie is a completely likeable and unassuming "guy" who never talks about his radio work.

AFTER SEVERAL TRIES at Hollywood, one at the age of 8 and another at 15, Jane Wyman was told by a Hollywood coach, "Your face doesn't go with your voice." Back in her home town of St. Joseph, Missouri, however, radio saw Jane's possibilities and she traveled across the country for 2 years on radio under the name of Jane Durrell. Her first break in movies came when she appeared with Carole Lombard and William Powell in "My Man Godfrey." In 1936 she joined Warner Bros. studio and has been there ever since. Recently she proved that magnificent acting can be done with no voice at all in "Johnny Belinda" when she played the part of a deaf-mute. Her next to be released by Warner Bros. is "A Kiss in The Dark" which is fast moving, funny and a good example of Jane's versatile talent.

MANY YEARS AGO, at the age of 7, George Burns of NBC's Burns & Allen show, made his professional debut in the Pee Wee Quartet. In 1922 when he asked Gracie to be his partner, he was a song and dance man and was to be the comedian of the team. Gracie got most of the laughs, however, so George quickly changed his course to "straight man" and left the punch lines to Gracie.

Not long after George changed Gracie's course by giving her just 10 days to make up her mind to marry. Nine days brought the answer which resulted in one of the happiest couples in show business. When it comes to after dinner speeches, George scores the laughs. He's one of the most popular emcees in the country and is in constant demand at dinners in honor of Hollywood's most famous names.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

"The very salvation of the national farm program" was the way in which Mr. Ralph S. Trigg, PMA administrator described the farmer-committee system at the recent National Conference of the Production and Marketing Administration in St. Louis, Mo.

This meeting was attended by several PMA representatives from Maryland. In commenting on the meeting, Mr. Blandford, state chairman in Maryland said that Mr. Trigg pointed out that more than 50 former committeemen or farmer fieldmen have since served in important positions in the Department of Agriculture or in other Federal and state agencies.

Besides their basic function in handling local administration of the ACP and acreage allotment programs, Mr. Trigg said that, "the committees have proved their worth in many other ways. During the war, Government agencies turned to our committee system in repeated emergencies, and the committees took the jobs on successfully without losing a step. And the committees keep right on doing outstanding jobs whenever they are called upon."

Report Published

The Maryland State Production and Marketing Administration Committee has just published a complete report for 1947—the last year for which complete figures are available. Members of this committee are Joseph H. Blandford, Brandywine, Md., chairman; Leonard C. Burns, Olney, Md., and Fred B. Sylvester, Queen Anne, Md.

In a foreword written for this report, the committee states, "The reports contained herein are made at the direction of the Maryland PMA State Committee in order that farmers, consumers and the tax-paying public may be informed of the manner in which we have discharged the responsibilities entrusted to us. Additional copies of this bulletin may be secured on request."

The report shows that 17,920 farms were enrolled in the program and that this represented 66.4 per cent of the cropland in the state. More than 20,000 individual farmers received Government assistance to pay for part of the cost of carrying out conservation measures needed on their farms.

It also states that the larger 52 per cent of Maryland farms received 73 per cent of payment funds. In contrast to charges that the program pays 60 per cent of its funds to the larger 12 per cent of the farms, the Maryland report shows that this latter group of farms received only 24 per cent of the funds in 1947. "This," Mr. Blandford declares, "demonstrates that the need for conservation on the smaller farms has been recognized as well as the needs on the farms of more than average size."

The report summarizes information concerning the agricultural conservation practices, commodity loans, and commodity purchase program. It also gives several pages of statistics concerning the 1947 program.

Price Support Program

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced recently a 1949 wool price support program with a price schedule that will provide a national average wool price to growers of slightly more than 42 cents a pound, grease basis. This will approximate the 1948 wool price support level.

Maryland Farmers Under '48 ACP

With the 1948 Agricultural Conservation Program nearing completion, preliminary figures show that 17,500 Maryland farmers cooperated in the program by carrying out soil and water conservation practices on their farms. These farmers operated farms which make up 65 per cent of the state's total farmland. A considerably greater per cent of the state's total farm production comes from the farms on which conservation practices were carried out.

HEALTH DIRECTOR ADVISES PUBLIC ON ANNUAL PHYSICAL EXAM

"January—the month when so many business concerns take stock of their assets and liabilities—is also an excellent time for individuals to take stock of their health status by means of a complete medical examination," Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health advises the people of Maryland. "Every man and woman who has not been examined thoroughly by a physician within the last 12 months should begin 1949 with such a checkup."

"People of all ages should have an annual health inventory, at least, and more frequent examinations are advisable for the very young and the very old. Those who feel below par or have troublesome symptoms should also seek an examination without delay, even though less than a year may have elapsed since their last checkup."

"Since early diagnosis of disease is the reason for routine physical examinations the procedure is recommended for persons who consider themselves healthy, as well as for those who suspect that they may have some disease. By going to the physician for periodic checks, patients often enable the doctor to discover diseases in their early stages—before they have made serious advances and while they are more amenable to treatment. It should be remembered that a number of serious diseases cause no pain or other distressing symptoms during their period of onset."

"In many disease conditions a delay of a year, or even several months, before beginning treatment can mean the difference between years of happily adjusted life and early death. Diseases that can be cured more readily, controlled more effectively or lessened in severity by means of early diagnosis and treatment include tuberculosis, cancer, diabetes, nephritis and heart disease."

"If a physical examination indicates that health continues to be good there is certainly much satisfaction to be gained from that knowledge. On the other hand, if the physician does detect early signs of some disease, prompt treatment and restriction of harmful activities can add years to life—and life to the remaining years. Many people who have learned to adapt their lives to their physical conditions live long and happily even though they have serious chronic diseases."

STATE NURSES' ASSN. SEEKS MORE CANDIDATES

The Maryland State Nurses Association is making an appeal to high school students who will graduate in February or June to give a thought to nursing as a career. Miss M. Ruth Moubay, executive secretary of the association, said that the new program which is being promoted by the nurses' association will assure students and graduate nurses of a higher paid, more socially secure career than ever before. "The public is awakening to the fact that graduate, registered nurses are vital to a healthy prosperous nation and that they deserve to be made economically secure," she said. "Because the public is realizing this, we feel that the student nurse who enters a nursing school now has a brighter future than ever before in the history of the profession."

"The nurse today," she continued, "is an indispensable part of American life. Her skill, courage, intelligence, loyalty, tenderness, self-sacrifice and strength of character have served the nation in peace as in war. The graduate nurse today has her choice of many specialized nursing services, such as industrial nursing, military service, teaching, hospital, private duty, public health and supervisory nursing. We urge all students interested to get in touch with the Maryland State Nurses' Association, 1217 Cathedral St., Baltimore 1, Md."

CHANGE POSITIONS

Mr. George Brown, who since the opening of the American Store here, has been manager of the business, has been transferred to his home town, Westminster. For the present the local store is being supervised by Mr. Carty, assisted by Mr. Henry Gerken. Mr. Carty formerly worked at the meat counter.

Emmitsburg is sorry to see Mr. Brown leave. He had a host of friends here who appreciated his friendly, amiable manner and courteous service.

ONE OF NATION'S LARGEST WHISKY FIRMS CHANGES ITS NAME

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 14—Effective today, a new corporate name for one of the nation's largest firms made its official appearance in the business world. It was Schenley Industries, Inc., successor to Schenley Distillers Corporation.

The new title was adopted by stockholders because it more adequately describes the diversified business of the firm. In recommending the change recently, the board of directors reported that corporate interests have broadened not only in the beverage field but in the fields of medicine, agriculture, co-operation and other manufacturing and processing operations. Formal approval of the new name, Schenley Industries, Inc., was given by the state of Delaware, where Schenley is incorporated.

Scientist To Give Atomic Talk

Public Invited to Hear Nuclear Fission Discourse

The Adelphi Society of Mount St. Mary's College cordially invites the people of this district to hear a discourse on atomic energy by Mr. Irving Panzer, of the Association of Scientists for Atomic Education, Washington, D. C., on Monday evening, Jan. 17, at 7:45 p. m. in Flynn Hall.

In a pre-talk interview Mr. Panzer gave the following data and ideas for release to the public.

If we are to live in peace and help to maintain international peace and security we as American citizens must know all the facts about those peoples, weapons, etc. that might in some way endanger our peace and security. For the present let us consider the atomic bomb, which in the future may determine if we are able to live or if we are able to die.

Atomic Facts
The atomic bomb is the most devastating weapon ever possessed by man. What happened to Hiroshima showed that one atomic bomb can kill 100,000 people. If a bomb were set off to inflict casualties instead of damage, its radiations could kill more than its blast. The more crowded the target area, the more would be destroyed. The United States delegation to the atomic energy commission estimates the destruction of a bomb as equal to that of 167 10-ton blockbusters. Its power is equal to 20,000 tons of TNT. These figures mean that atomic bombs, despite their cost, are very cheap weapons in relation to the destruction they can do. As far as the vital heart of any city is concerned, one bomb can liquidate one city. Future atomic bombs will become even more destructive as their efficiency is developed. A few years from now it will be possible to send atomic bombs across oceans in rockets. Looking forward into the future it has been estimated that 40,000,000 Americans might be killed in one atomic attack.

No Defense Against Atomic Bomb
Up to now, a means of defense has been created to meet every new offensive weapon in war. This has happened in the case of the rifle, machine gun, modern naval gun, torpedo, tank and the bomber. But the defense was never complete. Each of these weapons killed many thousands in the war. Defensive measures finally stopped 90% of the V-1 flying rockets (bombs as some called them) shot at London. But even then 10% got through. If they had carried the atomic bombs, London would have disappeared. Even this high degree of success in defense could not save a city from atomic destruction. There exist rockets today capable of traveling thousands of miles an hour. We cannot expect to perfect a defense which would stop even 90% of them. As the war proved again and again, actual experience with the new weapons is required before effective defense measures can be improvised. In this case the defense problem of stopping just one rocket appears exceedingly difficult, because the rocket would fall twice as fast as an anti-aircraft shell goes up, and with only seconds or minutes warning of its approach. Defense crews could not remain fully alert year after year. Defense would also be necessary against other forms of atomic attack, including sabotage. For example, atomic bombs could be brought into this country in small parts and secretly assembled in our cities. Or bombs could be secreted in merchant ships and blow up in our ports. It is hard to imagine a 100% defense against these methods of attack.

America Highly Vulnerable
Most Americans live in cities. One third of our people live in 199 cities of over 50,000 population. We have the greatest and largest plants in the world that can produce about everything from electric ice boxes to the weapons of war. For these reasons many experts say, we are more vulnerable to atomic attack than any other major country in the world.

This vulnerability is increased by our form of government. Due to our freedoms and our habit of freedom, effective protection against atomic sabotage would be particularly difficult. Our traditions and ethical standards would go far to preclude delegating power to the President to launch an attack upon a probable enemy before he actually struck at us. Our constitution provides that Congress must declare war.

No Secret—Temporary Monopoly
The talk about "keeping the secret" has been phoney from the start. All nations have the knowledge of the basic scientific facts of atomic energy which we had in 1941. They also know vitally important things that we did not know then—that atomic fission is possible; that plutonium can be produced from U238; and that U235 can be separated successfully by four different processes. What the "secret" really comprises now is the engineering "know how." All we have at the present is a monopoly of atomic production and the bomb manufacturing. However that monopoly is only temporary.

World control of atomic energy can only be the answer to the menace of atomic war. World control is the only answer. That is a political defense. It can be achieved by setting up world control of atomic energy. If no nation has atomic weapons, surprise attack would be impossible. The fear and danger of atomic war would be reduced to a minimum. For effective world control of atomic energy would minimize the possibility of atomic war. Atomic attack would become possible only if the control system broke down, allowing some nation to make atomic weapons.

Each Has Personal Stake
Whatever your profession and wherever you live, the success or failure of the effort to achieve world control of atomic energy will shape your life. For all men it will describe whether or not they must live in fear or live in peace. For hundreds of millions it will probably decide between annihilation or survival. At the present the principal nations of the world are faced with a choice, will it be progress or will it be destruction? Now is the time to decide.

You Can Do Your Part
If you understand the facts about the atomic problem yourself, you can help your friends to understand them. Whenever the subject comes up in conversation, you can spread accurate information and check the spread of inaccurate information. Since our country is a democracy, sound action by Congress must rest upon informed public opinion. Our government will have to act upon crucial issues in the field of atomic energy, including any treaty establishing world control. If you know the facts, you can do your part to insure that our government acts wisely. The Adelphi Society feels Mr. Panzer's address will be of vital interest to all and extends to you an invitation to attend this special event. In addition to Mr. Panzer's address, there will be special movies on atomic energy.

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR WINTER PROFITS

A few simple changes or the addition of some up-to-date equipment can mean considerable in winter egg production and income from the flock. Nests, roosts, feeders, waterers, ventilation, insulation, litter, flooring, drainage, and other factors should be studied in the light of proven methods of poultry management.

The so-called pit system of roost construction is becoming very popular with poultrymen. The term pit system is somewhat misleading, as there is no actual pit construction; it simply means that the roosts are placed about 2 feet above the floor and no droppings-board is used. A mesh wire known as suture wire, having 2-inch meshes and constructed of 12-gauge galvanized steel wire, is placed on the underside of the roost and around the sides to prevent birds from coming in contact with the droppings.

The front side of this construction may consist of a 10- or 12-inch board resting on the floor and then 8 to 12 inches of mesh wire above that, depending on the height of the roosts. The whole roost should be hinged to the north wall in such a manner that it may be raised for cleaning. Material 2x2 inches, with the top corners rounded off, makes ideal roosts. If an efficient ventilating system is used, the droppings may be left in the house for 4 to 6 weeks without bad effects.

Supply Air Without Drafts
Good ventilation is essential to the health of the flock. The definition of ventilation is "movement of air without causing a direct draft." Dampness or foul air in a house indicates lack of sufficient air change. There are many systems of ventilating a poultry pen; the best one for your climate and conditions should be installed. The purpose of efficient ventilation is to remove excessive moisture from the house, to supply plenty of oxygen, and to remove ammonia and other foul odors.

SHORT STORY

When the Blind See

By LOUIS CUNNINGHAM

"I MUST go to him myself, Parrish. I have so looked forward to surprising him."

Mrs. Gerald Ivering, home from six months in Europe, had reached New York a day earlier than she had cabled her husband. Her maid held the young wife by the arm as they went up the steps. In the hall Kitty whispered, "Go up and unpack, Parrish. I can find my way very well . . . just as if . . ."

Parrish smiled fondly at her mistress, a face sweetly calmed by years of darkness and patient suffering.

"Blindness made you no less lovely, madam," said Parrish. "And you could see nothing finer than yourself."

Parrish watched her feeling the wall to her husband's study.

Gerald Ivering moved hastily away from the woman who sat beside him. He put his finger to her lips, then touched his eyes to call to mind that she who stood in the door could not see them.

"Kitty! You wired you'd be on Wednesday's plane. And there was no one there to meet you."

"I wanted to walk in on you like this when you were all alone and thinking of me," she cried.

THE woman moved noiselessly and stood by the mantle. Kitty took the place she had left. Gerald, an uneasy frown on his face, sat beside her.

"It is late," said the blind girl. "I knew I would find you alone. Have you been very lonesome for me, Gerald? What did you do while I was away?"

"It has not been easy without you," he said.

"You never cared for anyone but me, Gerald, did you?" persisted Kitty. "There was no other woman?"

"But there was, Kitty . . . a year before you came. I thought I loved her and she pretended to care for me. I was just a young lawyer then. I had nothing to offer and she married a wealthy man."

"You ceased to love her then, of course. Did you never see her again?"

"Yes. I saw her . . . recently."

"Tell me. What is she like? Is she prettier than I? . . . Tall, perhaps, with black hair and . . ."

very red lips and a soulless face . . . a sort of woman whom it is death for a man to love?"

The woman moved angrily. A different crimson from that which decked her cheeks flooded her forehead. Gerald gazed in wonder. He smiled cynically. "She is all you describe. Even as you guess . . . for I know you never saw her . . . she is soulless. She was untrue to my love and she is now untrue to the man who calls her wife. She is a temptress . . . even to one who is strong in an honest love. She came to me again and tried to win me back. But what she offers is dishonorable. I told her to go. You were my protection. I never want to see her again."

Her lips went to his.

THE woman looked at him with hatred. Then she looked up her wrap by the door and vanished.

The girl's fingers pressed her husband's face and her lips went to his. Suddenly she pointed to his shoulder.

"See, Gerald, there is a hair on your coat. Wait, I will get it." He stared in wonderment.

"What, Kit! What is this? Am I going? You . . . you can see!"

"I went to a specialist in Vienna two months ago and have some of my sight back. That was why I came in surprise. And oh, I am glad that the first thing I saw about you is the honesty of your love. I had been without the use of my eyes too long to trust the value of what they first showed me . . . that woman with her arm about your neck. I knew if I were blind I would be happier, so I kept up the pretence and in blindness I saw what in light I might have missed."

Mrs. J. Hunter Elliott and Mrs. Arthur Malloy spent Tuesday in Hanover, Pa.

EARLY DETECTION OF INFLUENZA BIG HELP TO PATIENT

Influenza is caused by a virus—a germ too small to be seen through an ordinary microscope. It occurs most frequently in the winter months, sometimes spreading rapidly through entire communities. It may occur in mild form, causing the patient only a few days' discomfort, or in a severe form, such as that which took more than 20 million lives in the outbreak following World War I.

Influenza rarely appears in very young babies, although older children seem particularly susceptible. Fortunately, it is generally less severe in children than in adults.

The disease is thought to be spread through coughs and sneezes or through direct contact. No symptoms appear for from one to two days after infection. Then the victim has a fever, ranging usually from 101 to 102 degrees, aching muscles, running nose, headache, sore throat, and a general feeling of illness. He may have a dry or loose cough.

Medical advice should be sought as soon as possible after the onset of the disease. Serious complications often can be avoided if the doctor is called early and his advice followed.

The influenza patient should be kept warm and should rest in bed until his doctor permits him to get up. He should try to eat an adequate diet to maintain his strength, supplementing his diet with extra fluids, particularly citrus juices. With good care, symptoms ordinarily will subside in a few days. However, the patient should allow a reasonable time to elapse before returning to his duties and thus guard against relapse.

To assure as mild an attack as possible if infection occurs, body resistance should be kept at a high level. Adequate rest and a properly balanced diet are essential. Sensible clothing, suited to weather conditions, should be worn, and precautions taken to avoid chilling.

During the past few years, several protective vaccines against influenza have been developed and used with varying degrees of success. Some of the objections to presently available vaccines are the frequently rather severe reactions resulting from the injection, and the fact that only certain strains of the several influenza viruses are included in the vaccine, with the result that there will be no protection if the outbreak is due to a strain not included in the vaccine.

Mrs. Bernard Peters, of town, spent Sunday of last week in Waynesboro, Pa., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kuhn. Mrs. Kuhn was the former Lillian Peters.

LIONS CLUB HOLDS BI-MONTHLY MEETING

Meeting Monday night in the Lutheran Parish Hall, the Emmitsburg Lions Club held its first meeting in January and had as their guest speaker, Dr. George Miller, physicist, Gettysburg College.

More than 40 guests and members attended the meeting. President Herbert Roger opened the meeting which was followed by the invocation by Rev. Philip Bower. The president gave a report on the Community Tree and expressed all those who assisted making the affair a success.

Dr. Miller gave a highly interesting talk on atomic energy, in which he is well versed, having spent many years on the subject. The speaker stated that there is no defense against the atom bomb and that wherever it strikes that area can not be de-contaminated for centuries. His discourse was well received and most members went home with a lot to think and worry about.

Three new members were inducted at this session of the club. They were: Prof. Arvin P. Jones, Roger Zurgable, and Philip Sharpe.

The members were treated to a delicious steak dinner by the women of the Lutheran Parish.

NO DECISION REACHED ON PARKING SITUATION

At the regular meeting of the Burgess and Commissioners Tuesday night, the installation of parking meters received much discussion. Since there is so much difference of opinion on solving Emmitsburg's parking situation, there will be more meetings in the future before a definite decision has been reached. However, it is thought at this time that the Town may install the meters for a six or nine-month probation period.

Mrs. E. R. Shriver was admitted to the Gettysburg Hospital this week for observation.

then if it's "June In January" there can't be a June in June too, or can there. Someone ought to write a song and entitle it "I'm Dreaming of a White Wedding." . . . Bing Crosby could make it become the National Anthem if he wanted to, me thinks. Or do you think the young ladies' motive being married in January is purely a practical one like having a nice warm back to put their cold feet on these cold, chilly nights.

Girls Even Score By Taking Second Contest
In a County Interscholastic basketball game Tuesday afternoon, the Brunswick High School boys' team defeated Emmitsburg by one point. The score was 20-19.
Capitalizing entirely on foul shots, the Railroad boys paradoxically won with four more points made off free throws than from field goals.

B. Damuth, forward, paced the locals scoring 14 points.
In the companion game, Emmitsburg's varsity sextet, soundly trounced the Railroad lasses, 51-21.

GOOD SCHOOL LUNCH TERMED INDISPENSABLE

Those in charge of the school cafeteria are busy arranging and cooking healthful, nutritious lunches for the school children.
It has been shown repeatedly that a child to be well nourished, an adequate noon lunch is almost indispensable. When a child enters school, he may, for the first time, have his noon meals away from home. Whether the noon meal is eaten at home, carried from home, or served at school, it should be planned with reference to the total food intake for the day.

The traditional eating pattern in America usually includes one of two sequences: (1) breakfast, lunch, and dinner or (2) breakfast, dinner and supper. In many circumstances it is probably better to eat the heavier meal at noon and the lighter one at night. More important than the order in which the two meals are eaten is that, considered in conjunction with breakfast, they include a variety of foods chosen from the basic seven food groups.

Following is the menu prepared for the week of Jan. 17:

The peel of an orange, like the pulp and juice, contains vitamin C. Add slivers or grating of peel to sauces, spreads, and desserts to give orange flavor and some added vitamin C. Candied orange peel is an old-time favorite confection.
