NATIVE SON GOES UP
Congratulations to Lawrence Elder, who has been named associate editor of the Bell Telephone magazine (McKeesport District). The initial edition was published last week and is really good. Quite obviously Lawrence is a veritable "chip off the old block." His dad as you know, was the late John D. Elder, editor of our own publication, the Emmitsburg Chronicle, said newspaper now being published by Lawrence's brother, Arthur. Yes, there's a strong inherent strain of printer's ink coursing through the veins of the Elder clan. . . . Again, Emmitsburg joins me in wishing you the best of luck to you in your new undertaking, Lawrence.

DIMES DANCE SUCCESS

Wow, what a time was had by all at the March of Dimes Ball Monday night! Enthusiasm and fun ran high, wonderful, sociable crowd—and most important of all, the dance was a success financially. Too bad we had to have such a heavy snowfall the day before the dance because I know of quite a few persons from out-of-town who had planned on attending but had to give up the idea since driving would have been too hazardous on such a night. . . . However, every table was occupied and the crowd was just large enough to make dancing comfortably pleasant. . . . Proceeds of the dance, as you know, go to the Infantile Paralysis Fund. . . . A million thanks to all who contributed in any way—teen-agers, middle-aged, and elderly persons all joined up and had a wonderful time. Ah, it was one grand affair.

BASEBALL TALK

The fur really flew at the meeting of the Baseball Association Sunday afternoon at Firemen's Hall. Fans, players, directors and everyone were represented and put their two cents worth into the general discussion. . . . Lots of problems and pet peeves that have been bothering people for years were aired at the meeting. Many of you didn't know it, but that meeting last week was a very critical one. Baseball's life hung in the balance. . . . There has been so much ill will and dissension in the local ball club for the past couple of years that this year folks definitely decided to let the game die out completely this year. While there was some bickering about the way the funds were spent, it was definitely explained to the satisfaction of the public, where they were spent and how by a reading of the financial report and the showing of the bills paid and the balance.

So last Sunday they aired some of their grievances and nominated 25 local business men, 12 of whom will be voted upon and elected as directors. . . . A good thing, this having the business men sponsoring and backing the association. . . . And another innovation which I think a remarkable and very appropriate thing to do, is the including of one or two of the players themselves as directors, to act as the representative and voice of the team itself, who, you must admit, play an important part in keeping baseball alive in Emmitsburg. . . . This time let's have directors who will be active, not just figureheads who just sit back and criticize what the other directors do and do nothing themselves.

It's the truth—out of all directors on the board last year there weren't over five who took an active part in baseball. To these five or so, go a vote of thanks and appreciation. Most of them donated weekly from their own pockets to keep the association in the black.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hoskins, of Baltimore, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Baumgardner.

HISTORY DISCLOSES NINE CHURCHES HELD LOTTERIES

Research Reveals County Churches Received Start By "Taking Chances"

The effort to provide parimutuel betting at race meets at the Frederick Fair Grounds has aroused opposition among a number of church groups. It is interesting to note, in reviewing the events of history how moral standards regarding gambling have changed with the passing years. Many churches and schools resorted to lotteries in the early days, and it was not until shortly before the War between the States that this method of raising funds for worthwhile purposes was abandoned.

It may surprise some younger residents to learn that the Seminary buildings on East Church St. or Winchester Hall, Frederick, as they are sometimes called, were built largely from the proceeds of legalized lotteries. These twin buildings with the handsome white columns are now owned by Frederick County.

Frederick Female Seminary was established by an Act of the Maryland Legislature passed March 10, 1840—in order to provide funds, a lottery was authorized to raise $20,000.

This amount was inadequate and another Act was passed at the December session of 1843, providing for a $30,000 lottery, $10,000 of which was to be used for the building and $20,000 for the endowment. . . . The facilities became crowded and in 1857 a third lottery was arranged to erect a second building.

In 1893 the Seminary was taken over as the Woman's College of Frederick, under supervision of the Potomac Synod of the Reformed Church and was so operated until use of the leased buildings was relinquished in 1920; and removal to the site now occupied as Hood College, was made.

Frederick County purchased the lottery started buildings known as Winchester Hall, in August 1931, for $35,000.

Nine Churches Got Lottery Start
The December issue of the Maryland Historical Magazine published by the Maryland Historical Society contains an interesting article by Dr. J. S. Ezell, entitled "The Church Took A Chance," telling about the lottery schemes of the early days in Maryland.

The compendium of old news and handbill chronicles on lotteries shows at least nine churches then in Frederick County's confines, got their financial start from lottery ticket sales sanctioned by a wide-open legislature.

Some Frederick churches conducted several lotteries, for additions, alterations and repairs. They were: St. John's, Frederick, $24,000 (1806); Frederick Lutherans, $1,600 (1808); Reformed Church of Emmitsburg (1810); Middletown Lutheran, $3,000 (1812); Emmitsburg Presbyterian and Lutheran, $1,500 (1815); English Presbyterian of Frederick Town, $30,000 (1816).

In 1817 a legislative grant was given for a $5000 lottery to benefit Impartial Academy and the Free Church of Taneytown. This act contained the unusual proviso that "worship services in the church must be conducted in the English language."

This about ended "licensing" of religious lotteries in Maryland. The historian rationalizes the reason as being "Too many lotteries making successful marketing of tickets impossible for numerous churches who were unable to compete with the mammoth undertakings and grand prizes conducted for the benefit of the University of Maryland and other educational institutions of the State."

PENN-MARYLAND LEAGUE NOMINATES

The Penn-Md. baseball teams are laying plans for the coming season. They met recently and nominated officers in Taneytown. It will elect at a meeting there on Feb. 15.

Those nominated at the Penn-Md. meeting include: President, Ralph Coe, Wakefield and George Gingell, Emmitsburg; vice president, Raymond Perry, Taneytown, and David Hess, Taneytown; secretary-treasurer, Gilbert (Shorty) Grove, Hanover, and Claire Worley, Littlestown.

Teams represented at the meeting included Hanover, Harney, Emmitsburg Taneytown Thurmont, Middleburg and Wakefield.

A nominating committee of five was selected and will secure a list of nominations for directors to be elected at a special public meeting this Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Firemen's Hall.

Those picked for the nominating were: Charles Bollinger, Dr. D. L. Beagle, John White, Carroll Frock, and Edward Lingg. Dr. Beagle was appointed chairman of the committee.

Plans for extensive remodeling of the ball field were discussed at length and it was proposed to install a lighting system on the diamond whereby night baseball could be played. Mr. Parker, of a Baltimore lighting concern, spoke to the gathering about the benefits and the approximate cost of night baseball lighting. He estimated the cost to be about $17,000. At the current rate of incoming revenue, the club predicted the debt could be cleared in about five years.

Several business men have already offered to lend the association large sums of money to get the project started.

Also discussed at the meeting was a plan to increase the seating capacity of the Community Field and the possible installation of a fence covering the diamond to be paid for by selling advertising space on the boards.

The public is cordially invited to attend this Sunday's meeting and voice their opinions and render any constructive ideas they might have to give Emmitsburg a modern ball park and better team. It was said Taneytown and Littlestown contemplate the installation of lights this year.

COVE ON GANG, ENOUGH FOR ALL

Recently Mr. Howard V. Tull of Emmitsburg was pleasantly surprised when he found a large chicken egg in the nest on his farm near here. Listen to Mr. Tull's story of the incident:

"I have a young flock of Rhode Island Reds and New Hampshire chickens. During the past week I collected several double eggs. Then, on January 21, in the evening, I found an unusually large egg. It had a hard shell, except for a small hole in a portion of it. The egg measured 4 1/2 inches long and 3 1/4 inches wide. It weighed 1 lb. My wife and I broke the egg and were surprised to see one hard shell egg and also one soft egg inside. This is the first unusual egg laid by an ordinary chicken in all my experience. For my proof I had my wife, Mr. John McGraw and Mr. S. O. Thomas."

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

The experience of the experimental Federal Crop Insurance program for the past two years indicates that a sound basis for such insurance has been developed. This is stated in a recent report filed with the U. S. Senate. Joseph H. Blandford, Chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee quotes from Under Secretary of Agriculture A. J. Loveland's summary, "the experience of the corporation for 1948 strengthens the indications of the 1947 experience that real progress is being made in improving the soundness of this important farm program. This program indicates the feasibility of a sound and workable crop insurance system and suggests the ultimate extension of this protection to all important agricultural areas as essential part of the over-all farm program."

The Federal Crop Insurance was launched with an attempt to insure first wheat and then cotton on a nation-wide basis. The Under Secretary admits that this was started with no background experience. After seven years of active operation, Congress amended crop insurance legislation and continued the program on experimental basis. Wheat insurance is limited to 200 counties (two in Maryland), cotton to 56, flax to 50, corn to 50 (one in Maryland), tobacco to 35 and any other trial program to not more than 20. Tobacco insurance was offered in Anne Arundel County, but was withdrawn because of lack of interest on part of farmers.

Mr. Blandford has called attention to the "highlight of the report" the fact that 1948 was the second straight year in which total crop insurance premiums have exceeded by a considerable margin the losses paid. This is in line with what should be expected under a sound crop insurance program—premiums exceeding losses in good crop years and vice versa in poor years.

A review of the 1949 price support picture for Maryland farmers was given by Mr. Blandford. He emphasized that the program gives farmers protection against the hazards of drastic price decline, but also declared, "it benefits consumers by encouraging abundant production—the best safeguard against higher food prices."

Mr. Blandford explained that the prices of the "basic crops" grown in Maryland during 1949—corn, wheat, and tobacco will be supported at 90 per cent of parity. Prices of hogs, chickens, eggs, and milk and its products will be supported through 1949—if necessary—at 90 per cent of parity. He recalled the recent announcement that prices of eggs were supported through the month of January. It may be necessary, he added, to extend support, month by month, on into the spring. He also reminded farmers that a support program has been announced for hogs. However, hogs are selling above the support price and the program has been inactive. Prices of chickens and milk have been holding well above support levels, and no programs have been announced for them.

In discussing potatoes, Mr.

Blandford noted that potatoes produced in 1948 and marketed in 1949 will be supported at 90 per cent of parity. Our lawmakers, he pointed out, reasoned that if support at 90 per cent of parity was terminated abruptly at the end of the year, growers might dump large quantities of 1948-crop late potatoes on the market to beat the deadline. That would mean a terrific waste of good food, and probably potato shortages next spring. So the Commodity Credit Corporation will purchase 1948-crop potatoes through the end of June. The price of 1949 potatoes will be supported at 60 per cent of parity and growers must stay within their allotted acreage to be eligible for price support.

Turkeys and sweet potatoes are two Maryland crops among the group that will be supported at prices ranging from 60 per cent of parity to the level at which the product was supported in 1948.

Mr. Blandford said that he felt that "farmers now have, under legislative provision, fully adequate protection against the hazards of drastic price decline."

NO SPECIFIC CURE FOR ARTHRITIS

Most of us are inclined to make light of a "stiffness." It may come from walking or standing too long. Stiffness in the arms or hands may be caused by excessive stretching or by lifting heavy objects—things that also may cause a stiff back. Such discomfort is often dismissed as a slight, though painful annoyance that "will wear off."

Stiffness may be one of the first warnings of arthritis, an inflammation of the joints. Unfortunately, the warning is sometimes ignored until the disease has taken hold and prevention of the crippling or deformity that it causes may be difficult. Anyone who has pain, stiffness or swelling in a joint should go immediately to his doctor or hospital clinic. If the person has arthritis, prompt medical treatment can not only relieve the pain, but also prevent the disease from getting worse.

Arthritis can occur in many different forms. But there are two general types: acute and chronic.

Acute arthritis, the form to which the word "rheumatism" is most commonly applied, usually starts with sharp, sudden pains and swelling in one or more joints. Sometimes this lasts a few weeks, then seems to go away.

Chronic arthritis develops slowly, first with stiffness in one joint, then stiffness in other joints which remains indefinitely. It is this type of arthritis that frequently leads to permanent crippling and semi-invalidism when neglected.

Arthritis is known to result from a number of specific infections, although the cause of certain types is unknown.

Self-treatment is dangerous for a person who may have arthritis. So-called "rheumatism remedies" can be dangerous when they appear to give temporary relief and cause the patient to postpone visiting his doctor and getting the right treatment. In addition, such home measures as rubbing a painful joint or exercising it may be harmful. The doctor is the one to determine the cause of the arthritis and prescribe treatment that will be best for it.

There is no special preventive for arthritis, but people who observe the rules of good health, especially those who get enough rest and avoid nervous tension and worry, seem less likely to get the disease than those who are careless and indifferent about healthful living.

It is estimated there are about seven million people in the United States with chronic arthritis or some form of rheumatism. Much of the pain and crippling that it brings, however, can be avoided with prompt medical treatment.

Nuts contain high quality protein and vitamins. When combined with other ingredients to make a main dish, such as nut loaf, they may be used as a meat alternate.

In the past three years, American farmers produced 25 per cent more products with 5 per cent less manpower than during the three years preceding World War II.

U. S. AIRLIFT COMMENDED BY HIGH BRITISH CHIEF

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 — A commendation was recently telegraphed by the vice chief of staff, Royal Air Force, at Fassberg, British Zone, Germany, to the Airways and Air Communications Service, United States Air Force, for its speedy work in guiding Royal Air Force planes to radar controlled landing in extremely "soupy" weather.

The highly prized commendation read: "I have been most impressed by the remarkable effort yesterday on 'Operation Plainfare' in which no fewer than 276 ground-controlled approach (GCA) landings were made within 16 hours. I think this breaks all records for the intensive use of ground-controlled approach (GCO) landings and I congratulate all concerned on this splendid achievement."

Since June 21, 1948, when the blockade of Berlin was first put on, the Airways and Air Communications Service dubbed the "backbone" of the airlift, has guided more than 700,000 tons of cargo to Berlin through its radio and radar facilities.

STUDENTS COMPETE FOR COLLEGE AWARDS

The annual competitive scholarship examination for students who will be graduated from high school in February or June, 1949, will be held on March 12. Various points throughout the South and East have been selected as convenient centers for the administration of the tests. Applications and records for admittance to the examination must reach the administration of St. Joseph's College not later than February 19, 1949.

Scholarships for board and tuition each valued at $2,600 are offered, as well as a number of partial grants for tuition.

Full and partial awards are given with the provision that during the winners' four years of residence they meet the high standard of conduct and scholarship established by the college. Character, ability, and academic excellence are considered in determining the selection of students.

ICE CREAM FOUND SOURCE OF RIBOFLAVIN

The test tube scores again. Now it comes up with evidence to prove that ice cream fills a twin role in meeting the demands of good health.

Dr. Pearl Swanson, of Iowa State College, Ames, set out several years ago to study the riboflavin in ice cream under controlled conditions. Riboflavin is a vitamin required for growth in the young and for good health at all ages. Dr. Swanson in studying the dietary needs of college women found that nutrients in foods are not alone sufficient for proper nourishment. Nutrients also must be absorbed readily and used by the body. The riboflavin in ice cream ranked high on both counts.

This, in the opinion of Milton Hult, president of the National Dairy Council, Chicago, is important information for all persons planning nutritious diets for normal appetites or the often difficult appetites of the convalescent and the aged.

Further research discloses that ice cream is much higher in its riboflavin content and vitamin A than reported in earlier studies. This is because most ice cream, manufactured the year round, is made with fresh or frozen cream produced in summer months when the vitamin A content is above average levels. The studies add tangible evidence to the importance of ice cream in the daily diet.

APPEAL FOR DIMES FUND MADE BY CHAIRMAN

George L. Radcliffe, state chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, urges all who received March of Dimes coin cards to return them promptly with as generous a contribution as possible.

"Each filled card insures additional polio research," Mr. Radcliffe said. "Each contribution means more patient care, as well as the purchase of much needed hospital equipment."

"Funds given to the March of Dimes will be used not only to help those whom polio may strike in the future," he continued, "but we still have to meet the continuing cost of care and treatment of those stricken in prior epidemic years and insure that there is no interruption in research for a cure or preventive of the disease." Filled coin cards should be mailed to local March of Dimes headquarters, of which Mr. Lumen Norris is chairman. Mr. Radcliffe said.

A basket kept near the cellar stairs and used for carrying canned food up and empty jars down will save a homemaker many trips.

This is a diesel ... a modern locomotive that means better service to you.
Leaders of two unions think it's a feather-bed ... a "make work" grab that means less service to you.

• Leaders of unions representing railroad engineers and firemen seek to force railroads to add extra, needless men on diesel locomotives. This is sheer waste—a "make-work" program which would mean fewer improvements and higher costs—for YOU!

Railroads use modern diesel locomotives because they are one of the means of giving faster, better service to you.

Two men compose the crew of a diesel. They occupy a clean, comfortable cab at the front. The engineer handles the throttle. The fireman sits and watches the track ahead. With no coal to shovel, he has practically nothing else to do.

No Benefit To You

Now the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen want to use the diesel locomotive as a means of forcing a feather-bedding scheme on the railroads. The extra men they propose to add to the diesel crews are not needed. There is no work for them.

The union leaders are fighting among themselves about which union should furnish these extra, needless men. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have even threatened a strike. You may not be interested in this dispute of these two unions, but you would be vitally concerned if these groups succeed in putting through this feather-bedding scheme, because it would mean a slowing up of the improvement program of the railroads—of which the diesel is the outstanding symbol. Diesel crews are among the highest paid railroad employees—real aristocrats of labor! Their pay is high by any standard. Granting of these demands, therefore, would mean that the railroads would be paying out millions in unearned wages to those in the very highest pay brackets.

We'd Like To Spend This Money On You

You know how much the diesel has meant to you in increased speed, comfort and convenience. The railroads have many more of them in order for even greater improvement of service to you. But needless drains of money, such as this present demand of the unions for needless men on diesels, reduce the ability of the railroads to spend money on better service for you.

Proud as the railroads are of the diesel, it is only a small part of their improvement program. Since the War, literally billions of dollars have been spent on improvement of tracks and stations, on new passenger and freight cars, as well as on diesel locomotives, and on the many other less conspicuous details of railroading that contribute to improved service.

Feather-Bedding Means Less Service To You But brazen feather-bedding schemes like the one now proposed would, if successful, divert large sums of money from our present improvement programs. Even worse, they make improvements like the diesel worthless, by making the cost of their operation prohibitive.

These demands are against your interests—as well as those of the railroads. They are schemes to "make work". Neither you nor the railroads should be forced to pay such a penalty for progress.

That's why the railroads are resisting these "make work" demands to the last ditch—and why they are telling you about them.

SHORT STORY
Fifty Grand A Year
By
FREDERICK MEDLIN

THEY still wonder why Johnson went mad so suddenly after he got out of stir. That is, all but Leo, the fence.

Johnson remembered it all as he strode feverishly through the hot, breathless night. The black curtain of darkness that pressed upon every side could not hide those things that had gone before. Even their memory increased his furious pace, and it was an effort not to cast a furtive glance over his shoulder as he drew near the spot on which the great oak should stand.

He remembered the night of ten years ago that he had stolen the Alsmeyer jewels. It had been a desperate thing to do, and he had half expected to be caught. His mind's-eye saw himself crawling up those precarious tracers of ivy on the high back wall of the Alsmeyer mansion. He recalled how cautiously he had opened the window with a glass-cutter and a file, how carefully he had placed the charge of explosive against the cleverly-concealed wall safe, how feverishly he had hurried through the acrid smoke to the battered door after the muffled explosion had shaken the room.

Then down that sweep of ivy again to the ground and over the wall and along the hard road as the uproar behind him steadily grew. The car with the fingerling searchlight darting down the road. The dogged flight across the field to the momentary haven of the huge oak. His fingers trembled convulsively again as they had when he had tumbled the jewels quickly into the leather bag and buried it safely, far back under the upcurled root. He heard again the deep-throated baying of the hounds, growing always closer, as he had heard it that night, hour after hour, twisting and dodging and hoping, knowing in his own heart that he would be caught, and fearing it with hysterical terror.

And that capture! The quick shots... the rapid whine of the bullets... the huge dogs dragging him down. But they had never found the jewels. He had hidden them well, and for that he had been grateful for ten years. He came quite suddenly upon a clump of trees. They seemed the thick darkness to be the stand of ten years ago. He moved about quickly with the flashlight until he found the peculiar root that curved outward and looped upward slightly, just as it had so long ago. He dug back through the loose earth under it; his fingers tingled as they touched rotten leather, and there were the jewels spread out. They were dull—but they were the Alsmeyer jewels.

AN HOUR later they were shimmering on velvet in Leo's back room that he used for business of secrecy; and Johnson was trembling with excitement. Johnson paced the floor. "Five hundred grand!" he gloated. "That's fifty grand a year in the big house, and still they say crime don't pay. Why, Leo, I know lots of big guys that don't make fifty grand a year. I'm up in the big money now and it feels wonderful."

"You know what these are worth?" "Yeah. Sure I do. So do you." Perhaps he only wanted to bargain. Some of the dread died in Johnson's heart. "Ain't you the best fence in the East? That's why I came to you." "You know that I'm honest?" Leo's query was very grave and very earnest. "Sure. You always have been."

"The Alsmeyer jewels," said Leo slowly, almost sadly, "are just imitations. They might be worth five hundred dollars."

They still wonder why Johnson went mad so shortly after he got out of stir, that is, all but Leo, of course. Leo would know, for he is a very shrewd judge of human psychology—and jewels. It is said, by those who know, that Leo made almost half a million dollars out of the Alsmeyer jewels.

The total amount of canned red cherries this year is almost half again as large as it was last year.

PRACTICE OF MODERN METHODS FOR POTATO RAISING ENHANCES CROP YIELD

Problems of potato growers—poor stands, premature dying of vines, poor yield, scab, and rot in the tubers—may be remedied by the use of certain improved practices. The most important of these practices to be considered at this time of year is the use of good seed of suitable varieties, according to Dr. R. A. Jehle, of the plant pathology department at the University of Maryland. He reminds growers that now is the time to plan for their 1949 seed and offers to supply lists of sources of good seed.

He recommends certified seed be used whenever possible. In the event that such seed is grown under conditions which meet certification standards for freedom from disease—is not available, there are other types of seed that may be planted.

Growers who want to use their home-grown seed should do so only if it meets the following requirements: Select clean seed from a bin of potatoes showing little rot or scab and grown under these conditions (1) vines not killed prematurely, (2) good yield and (3) field examined at blossom time by an expert and found fairly free of recognizable virus diseases. He advises the use of number two potatoes only from fields that passed certification standards this past year.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE OPENS FLOOR SEASON

The Saint Joseph's College varsity basketball team will hold its initial 1949 game in Philadelphia tomorrow when they meet the Immaculata College squad there.

Members of the SJC team have been invited to attend a dance at Immaculata College tonight and will spend the night at the college. The only previous meeting between these two colleges took place during the 1946-47 season at a home game.

Varsity Has Full Schedule

Beginning with the Pennsylvania date Saturday, the schedule will include at least one game a week. On Feb. 9, Western Maryland will play on the home court. In two former encounters this team has proved victorious over the SJC six.

Also scheduled for February is a game with the State Teachers' College, Salisbury, Md. This game will be played at Salisbury February 19, and marks the initial clash between the two clubs.

Again on February 25, a game is scheduled with Notre Dame of Maryland to be played on their court. A survey of previous contests between these two colleges shows wins and defeats for both teams. Later in the season a return game will be played with Notre Dame on SJC's court.

The schedule:

Feb. 5—Immaculata College, Pa. Emmitsburg.
Feb. 9—Western Maryland, at Emmitsburg.
Feb. 19—State Teachers' College, at Salisbury, Md.
Feb. 25—Notre Dame of Md., at Baltimore.
March 5—Hood College, at Emmitsburg.

3800 NURSES NOW NEEDED FOR MILITARY

Army Nurses' Recruitment was highlighted in Baltimore Wednesday, when Lieutenant Mary Lee Thiele of Aberdeen, Md., was sworn into the Army Nurse Corps as part of a national ceremony over a nation-wide hook-up at a Baltimore radio station. The Army has selected Miss Thiele to represent Maryland nurses. Forty-eight nurse officers, representatives of each state in the Union, were sworn in by Kate Smith, honorary lieutenant colonel of the Army Nurse Corps, who broadcast from the main studio in New York.

The first 175 nurses who respond to this special anniversary recruitment campaign, will be assigned to Brooke Medical Center, San Antonio, Tex., for the Kate Smith Basic Training Class, starting March 3.

The American Nurses' Association has initiated a nation-wide campaign to co-operate with the Army's Nurse Procurement Program for 3,800 nurses, according to Miss Henshaw. Information may be obtained at headquarters, 1217 Cathedral St., Baltimore 1. Md.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS SAY NUTRITION EDUCATION PRESSING PROBLEM

Quality, Not Quantity,
Is Key To Healthy
Body And Sound Mind

People sometimes starve because famine-grim and terrifying spectre throughout the history of mankind stalks among them. But they can also starve in the midst of plenty. Though bins are overflowing and cattle throng the stockyards, social and economic conditions of various kinds may cause a large portion of the citizens of a nation to go hungry, or at least unsatisfied. An equally large proportion, however, may be poorly nourished only because they fail to appreciate the close relationship between diet and health.

Today it is apparent that nutrition education is one of America's most pressing problems. Recent surveys show that there is an urgent need for undertaking to produce some improvement in the eating habits of children in this country. Only a small percentage can be said to be getting adequate breakfasts and sufficiently nutritious meals. Most appalling is the fact that as children grow older they tend to become less and less concerned with maintaining high standards of nourishment. Confirmed addicts of between-meals "bite satisfiers," many are in great need of instruction in the fundamentals of nutrition at the very moment when they are about to go forever beyond the direct influence of the school.

In order to assist the program for nutrition education, the cafeteria at the Emmitsburg school prepares splendidly nutritious and palatable lunches for the children. Do your children eat there?

Following is the menu for week of Feb. 7 through 11.

Monday — Spaghetti and beef, buttered peas, cole slaw, cookies, cracked wheat bread and butter, milk, juices.

Tuesday — Baked ham, creamed lima beans, Waldorf salad, graham cracker cup custard, brown bread and butter, milk, juices.

Wednesday — Macaroni and cheese, string beans, lettuce and egg salad, pumpkin and apricot pie, rye bread and butter, milk, juices.

Thursday — Creamed potatoes and diced ham, buttered beets, banana and nut salad, fruit jello, cookies, brown bread and butter, milk, juices.

Friday — Fish cakes, baked potatoes, stewed tomatoes, celery and carrot sticks, prunes and apple sauce cookies, whole wheat bread and butter, milk, juices.

NOTED SPEAKER TO ADDRESS PTA TUESDAY

Mr. Ian Malcolm Stuart, director of Guidance at Mercersburg Academy will visit Emmitsburg on Feb. 8.

Mr. Stuart a well-rounded educator and accomplished athlete, comes very highly recommended.

He is the only son of the late W. H. Stuart who was Land Commissioner of Ireland from 1911 to 1921, was educated at Malvern College. He holds degrees from Trinity College and Dublin University, in addition to many other honors. He has a wide experience in teaching, having been master of St. Paul's School London; Harrow School and other schools. He has written many articles for publication, including "Reminiscence of a School Boy," "Text Book on Rugby Football" and "Life of Cecil Rhodes," to mention just a few. Not the least of these accomplishments of Mr. Stuart are his achievements as an athlete. In 1924 he represented Ireland at Rugby football and in 1923 the 440 and 880-yard relay team.

The PTA of Emmitsburg Public School is honored to invite the entire community of Emmitsburg to hear Mr. Stuart at the school auditorium on Tuesday, Feb. 8 at 8:00 p. m.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

Local Legion Commander, Curtis Topper, presided at the American Legion monthly meeting held Tuesday evening at the Legion Home. The Legion has decided to sponsor a drive for funds to aid the rheumatic fever association in their annual effort which starts Feb. 7 and ends Feb. 28. Everett Chrisher has been appointed as chairman of this drive. Heart shaped containers will be placed about the town and citizens are urged to contribute whatever they can to aid in the war on this dreaded disease, which is a number one childhood killer. If it doesn't kill, it dooms our youths to a lifetime of heart rendering inactivity.

The Legionnaires also decided to hold a stag party Feb. 25.

LOTTERIES & CHURCHES

The 1816-1817 Maryland Legislature authorized a $100,000 lottery for University of Maryland; $30,000 lottery for Washington College, Chestertown, and $50,000 lotteries annually over a five-year period for the State Schools Fund.

By 1819, the State Government had cast envious eyes on a previously "free" licensing, source of income and on February 16 of that year passed a measure whereby a 5 per cent of gross receipts tax was levied on this form of gambling.

Were Called Sinful
But most church benefit lotteries were still held to be tax-free and in 1822 the Lutherans of Frederick, needing a larger building, petitioned a license to raise $30,000 by raffle measures although unsuccessful in obtaining one through several years of endeavor.

Church morality was in transition. Rev. D. F. Schaffer, Lutheran pastor at Frederick, first in sermons and by 1826 in a paper he published, struck at lotteries as sinful, crooked and demoralizing.

In 1851, the right of the Legislature to license lotteries was rescinded but those lotteries "in process" were permitted to continue for eight more years.

It should be pointed out that lotteries in the early days had moral approval not only in Maryland but throughout the nation. It could also be added that for many years slavery was legalized and the practice had wide sanction. Standards and principles have advanced with the passing of time.

The Federal Government through the Postoffice Department, takes a determined stand against the promotion of all forms of gambling. The mails may not be used to carry on or encourage any lottery or gambling scheme.

Miss Ann Marie Boyle, who has been attending a business school in Baltimore, is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Boyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baumgardner spent Sunday evening visiting Mrs. Floyd Wood at Mother's Station.

Miss Ann Garner, Baltimore, attended the Norris-Stinson nuptial ceremony held last Saturday. Bernard H. Boyle has been confined to his home since Saturday suffering from an attack of gripe.
