BOXSEATS!

I like the way those enterprising new officials of the Baseball Association are conducting the business of running their club. They never miss a trick . . . Instead of pestering the poor businessman for donations to maintain the organization, they are inaugurating a brand new innovation here by installing boxseats at the field. Each merchant making a donation will be given a boxseat for the entire season, insuring him of the best seating available on the field—and he won't miss a play . . . I feel that every businessman in town will go for this idea . . . If you could call pouncing a typewriter a business, I would like one of these ducats myself. Get your tickets early, tycoons, the season opens next month and with Jack Buberick as manager, and Allen Bouey and Leonard Zimmerman as coaches, and as I understand from the manager, there is a wealth of material available this year, Emmitsburg will be up there near the top, if not on it. Let's go citizens . . . Get your tickets from Business Manager Flax.

S. You don't have to be a bossman to get in on this. Everybody is welcome.

DEMOCRACY

That meeting of the public with the Mayor and Commissioners on Tuesday evening was a good example of democracy as practiced in this country, America. . . . Both sides presented their arguments and were given all the time they desired to put them across. No less than 10 of those present, and who were opposing the parking meters, took the floor in their cause. . . . The Town Fathers said that they, too, didn't like the meters and termed them "an evil necessity," but if we are to have police protection, they are the only means available at this time to finance the constabulary. . . . I am inclined to agree with the officials they are necessary and will not work such a hardship on the citizens and merchants as was first believed. . . . I have interviewed businessmen of other nearby towns, and they said they, too, at first opposed the installation of the meters, but that now they wouldn't be without them. The local town parking lot will accommodate approximately 250 cars, but my estimation is ample room enough to take care of the overflow of parked cars. The lot is easily accessible and is not much farther than 500 to 1,000 feet from any store in town that will have the "timers" in front of them. . . . Just think it over folks. When you go to the city it is nothing for you to walk four or five miles in a day to do your shopping and have to pay $1.00 parking charges anyway. . . . You can still park your car on the town lot free and not have to walk but a couple of hundred feet anyway. . . . As a whole, I think the town will prosper much better under the system than before. Naturally, there will be a few citizens who will boycott the businesses here, but where will they go when practically all the other towns have them too? Six months from now, I'll bet my last dollar, you too, won't want to part with them. It is realized that some people will be handicapped and annoyed with the meters, but I think that in time, trial and error will prove satisfactory to all of us.

EMPLOYMENT AGAIN REGISTERS DOWN MOVEMENT

Over 22,600 More Idled By Layoffs Since December

Non-agricultural employment in Maryland, estimated at 700,300 in mid-January, registered a net drop of 22,600 from the level prevailing in mid-December, it was reported by Russell S. Davis, chairman of the Maryland Department of Employment Security. While a decline was anticipated as a result of normal seasonal factors, the drop was somewhat sharper than the decrease in a comparable period a year ago when employment declined 17,200 from mid-December 1947 to mid-January 1948. The chief factor in the increased rate of decline was the loss of 8,600 workers in manufacturing plants during the past month as compared with a drop of 2,900 in the same period a year ago. A drop of 14,000 in non-manufacturing employment was approximately the same as the loss that occurred in the previous years.

Mr. Davis declared that despite recent declines, overall employment in Maryland in January 1949 was substantially above the level of last year. Over the 12-month period a net gain of 19,200 workers was attained. However, most of this increase was confined to non-manufacturing activities, particularly in construction, government and the service industries. During the past year manufacturing employment declined by 7,700 as a result of decreased work forces in the production of transportation equipment, machinery, chemicals and food. The only major industries to achieve significant expansion in employment over the past year were iron and steel production and apparel manufacturing.

Mr. Davis further said that during the 30-day period ending in mid-January of this year, seasonal factors were the predominant influence in the drop of 14,000 in non-manufacturing employment. A decline of 11,700 in retail trade activity reflected post-holiday layoffs in department stores and, to a lesser extent, a drop in business in furniture and drug stores, and liquor stores and restaurants. Employment in retail trade declined by more than 10 per cent during the period as compared with a drop of approximately 7 per cent in the same period a year ago. A decrease of 2,499 in government employes was chiefly owing to lay-offs of temporary workers in postoffice jobs. Construction employment dropped by 2,900 as winter weather hampered work on building programs and road construction and repair.

In addition to the decline in non-manufacturing employment during the period, the downward trend that had been apparent in manufacturing industries for the past several months was accelerated with the result that work forces in manufacturing plants decreased by about 3.8 per cent to a level of 219,000 in January. There were declines in all major industries including both durable and non-durable goods categories. A drop of 3,600 in the food industry was due to seasonal declines in distilleries and bakeries and to decreased activity in the year-round canneries owing to crop damage. Fluctuating workloads in the shipyards, which necessitated intermittent lay-offs, were chiefly responsible for a drop of 1,900 in the production of transportation and equipment. Declines were also noted in iron and steel production and in apparel manufacturing.

Based on a sample group of firms reporting man-hours and earnings, the average work week for industrial plants in January was 39.6 hours, and hourly earnings averaged $1.321.

Miss Norma Flax, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Flax, was admitted as a patient to the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa., on Tuesday.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

"Where can you match the mighty music of their names?" asks Thomas Wolfe in his River Book. The Potomac (Father Tiber); the Hudson (Sweet Thonias); the Niagara (Sweet Afton); There are river names. Your surname is even more romantic. In it there may be magic in its alchemy of sound. While your family name you bear today may have been chosen only yesterday, as time goes, its roots may reach back into the dim past. It may reach back to saints, kings, legendary lovers or heroes clothed with fame.

Parents, surrounded by the sordid world, and longing for beauty, high and holy, often chose for themselves and their descendants exalted surnames to symbolize the spiritual thirst in their soul. The pageantry of your name, therefore may be a thrilling chapter in the passing parade of history.

For this week's column the first name chosen is an example of this fact. This particular name is selected because of an inquiry received about it at the Chronicle office. The name is Arnold.

Here is one among the most honored of all names. Anyone who bears this name is to be congratulated. It is a name associated with exalted character, high ambition and noble purpose. In the English speaking world, Thomas Arnold of Rugby clothed the name with abiding glory, and made it an emblem of the best in life. The forebearers of Thomas had already so honored the name that for a long time Arnold was one of the most popular and respected in England.

In America the name is one also clothed with honor and respect. In the history of Emmitsburg this name has occupied an honorable place. The character of this historic family has been greatly influenced by the meaning of the name. That within itself has helped to place the family in the front ranks of character and progress. It shows how one's destiny is colored by the meaning of the name he bears.

Arnold is a name derived from the eagle, which has become the emblem of the power and greatness of America. The name is formed out of two words merged into one. The first is Arno. That means eagle. And the other is Vald. That is an old word meaning power. Combined together into the musical sound of Arnold, the name means the "Power of the Eagle." As such it signifies the strong rule of the eagle, the king of the air, the monarch of the heavens.

As the king of birds mounts up on the power of wings and soars into the exalted heights, so the name of Arnold, derived therefrom, has been associated with high character, splendid achievement, and noble purpose. Consequently it has been a name popular with kings and saints, and associated with religious devotion, culture and progress.

Other forms of the same name often found in America are such as Arnoll, Arnett, Arnall, Arnett, Arnell, Arnald, Arent, etc. Arent from which the neighboring town of Arentsville is derived, is a German form of the name.

RANDOLPH

The next name drawn this week is Randolph. This is a good name brought to America from the British Isles by the Randolphs of Virginia, who became famous in early American history. The Randolphs of the Emmitsburg area appear to be descendants of this noted Virginia family. John, of Roanoke, and Edmund of Williamsburg, as early American patriots and statesmen, clothed the name with distinction and made it one of the most honored in America.

Randolph means "Strong Defender of the home." Broadened in its scope it includes also the home land and means "strong defender of the homeland." Thereby it took on a patriotic luster shown in the Randolphs of Virginia.

The name was originally spelled "Randulf." It was formed from "Rand," meaning house or shield, and "Wulf," an old word for wolf. And literally it meant the "House Wolf." In the olden days the wolf was held in very high regard as an emblem of strength, cunning and courage in defense of the pack. Therefore Randolph, from Randulf, became an emblem of security from danger, and meant strong defender of the home and home land.

Editor's Note: If you too want your name analyzed and want to know its derivation, Mr. Christian will kindly oblige. Just write or phone this office and if it is at all possible to do so, Mr. Christian will publish the history of your name in the near future.

PARI-MUTUEL BILL INTRODUCED IN LEGISLATURE

Measure Is Likely To Pass Soon; Referendum Expected

A proposal to give Frederick County residents a referendum to determine whether pari-mutuel betting shall be legalized in the county, which stirred considerable controversy two months ago, finally reached the House of Delegates at Annapolis on Tuesday.

Delegate C. Clifton Virts dropped the bill in the hopper and it was referred to the House Ways and Means Committee.

A favorable report is anticipated and passage by both Houses is considered almost certain in view of the provision for a referendum. The voters will decide the issue next year at the polls.

Introduction of the controversial measure had been anticipated for several weeks but as late as Monday some members of the county delegation were not sure whether it would be introduced or if such a bill had been prepared.

The fate of the proposal had become as great a mystery as how Frederick County was exempted from the act two years ago, when pari-mutuel betting at harness race meets was legalized. Members of the Legislature still can't explain how the exemption of Frederick County got into the law.

While the exemption was not referred to the people of Frederick County, most of the members of the General Assembly feel that a referendum is required to lift the exemption because many groups have condemned the proposal.

Life members of the Frederick County Agricultural Society voted last January in annual meeting to ask that the exemption be lifted. A petition, signed by 123 of the members, was presented to State Senator Edward D. Storm. Some of the signers were later charged with repudiating their support of the proposal by refusing to raise a voice in favor of it at church and civic organization meetings when resolutions were passed condemning the plan.

Early opposition among farm groups was reported stalled considerably when it was revealed that agricultural exhibitions at the Frederick Fair, community shows, 4-H Club shows and cattle breeders' field days were financed by funds derived by the State pari-mutuel betting.

It was pointed out that farmers and farm groups in Frederick County should not take prize money and incentive payments at shows if they considered the revenue from pari-mutuel betting tainted.

Proponents of the measure held that it was unfair for the Frederick County Agricultural Society, farmers and farm groups to share in pari-mutuel money derived from racing in Baltimore or Prince George County if they opposed raising money that way in Frederick County.

Early opposition led members of the General Assembly to tab the proposal "a hot potato" and indications were that the proposal

Approximately 25 citizens attended the meeting and

ON FURLOUGH

Irvin Miller, U. S. Army, who for the past 34 months has been stationed in Germany, arrived home last Friday on a furlough. He has re-enlisted for another three-year term. His wife and daughter reside on S. Seton Ave. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller.

A son was born at the Gettysburg Hospital Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gartrell, Taneytown, Rt. 1.

many voiced their bitter opposition to the meters. Mrs. Euphemia Rotering, apparently leading the opposition gathering, presented the solons with a petition consisting of 45 merchants and citizens, calling for cancellation of the installation. The petition was later temporarily withdrawn. More than 20 of the petition signers were businessmen.

Mr. James Hays, spokesman for the Town Fathers, gave each and every one present the opportunity to speak either for or against the meters and explained that even the lawmakers themselves were not in favor of the "timers," but it was the only immediate way to derive revenue to maintain a constabulary in the Town, and that unless there were some other means by which they (the Town) could pay the added expenses of police protection, the Town officials would proceed with the placing of the meters.

Present Tax Rate Insufficient

Stating that there was only some $800,000 worth of assessable property in the Town, it was impossible to defray the entire administration and police expenses from those taxes received, and not raise the present tax rate.

Mayor Thornton Rodgers pointed out that while the Town did receive considerable sums from the State gas tax, beer licenses, racing fees, etc. it was handicapped in the expending of these sums in as much as they are specified by the State and earmarked for different functions of the Town and its government. Not one cent is permitted from these revenues for police subsistence. Expenditure of these funds are permissible only for water, sewerage, streets and garbage disposal.

Injunction Threatened

The opposition to the meters threatened to obtain an injunction to halt the placing of these meters, but up to this writing no action has been taken. Barring intervention from these forces, the meters will be installed in approximately six weeks. There will be 152 of them placed on East and West Main Streets and probably will run from Frailey's Store to Bernard H. Boyle's store on East Main Street. They will also be placed on the Square.

It is planned at the present to allow 1-hour parking on the Square and 2-hour parking on the main street. There will be no parking on either side of North and South Seton Avenues. From reports, the meters will be in operation from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

It was pointed out by Mr. Hays that if the Town were forced to maintain the police force, the tax rate would have to be upped to approximately 70 cents on the $100, or almost double what it is now.

During the meeting, the solons digressed from the parking situation to inform the public that new curbing was planned for the Town sidewalks and that there was a possibility of the State Roads Commission fixing the remainder of that portion which lays between the curbing and the main highway.

Also discussed was the removal of the "Blinker." The Town has already appropriated the necessary money for this removal job and the Emmitsburg Water Co. has the contract, however, the company is being held up for lack of a permit from the State Roads Commission which incidentally, owns the highway through Town, and has been barring the removal for quite some time.

Sewerage Condition Discussed

Also discussed was the insanitary condition of the open sewers on N. Seton Ave. It was explained by the Town officials that when

ARE THEY TOO OLD?

"Too old to fight at 40 and too old to work"—a situation prevailing extensively at the start of World War II, but widespread publicity did much to break down such opposition.

It is surprising that such an attitude comes again so soon during the postwar period in view of the satisfactory employment record made by older workers during the critical labor shortage of the war years. Many workers in the age range of 40 and up are finding it difficult to obtain jobs because of age limitations maintained by some employers.

All World War I veterans are well over 40 (average age 53), and a surprisingly large number of World War II veterans have passed the two-score mark. More than 3,000,000 United States workers are over 65 and the number will grow rapidly in future years.

Are they too old? Prominent authorities in the fields of medicine, industry and labor recognize the extended usefulness of the American worker's life and urge that the skills, abilities and experience of the older worker be fully utilized if our high standard of living, based on production, is to be maintained and improved.

Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., in his report as master in the divorce action of Regina Vance Sanders, Gardner, Route 2, Pa., versus Roland G. Sanders of this place, recommends the divorce on grounds of desertion.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. These are short ribs of beef.

Q. Where does this cut come from and how is it identified?

A. The short ribs are cut from the plate and rib sections of beef and are made by sawing across the ribs. They consist of layers of fat and lean, and contain portions of the rib bones. Usually, they are cut in square, individual-sized serving pieces.

Q. How should this cut be prepared?

A. Short ribs of beef are either braised or cooked as a stew. To braise them, dredge in flour and brown on all sides in hot fat. Add a small amount of liquid (water, tomato juice, tomatoes, or other), cover tightly and cook slowly until tender, about 1 1/2 hours. To cook as a stew, follow the same procedure, but cover with liquid, and cook 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours. Near the end of the cooking time, vegetables may be added. Either method produces a good homey meal that will more than satisfy family appetites.

SHORT STORY
Impossible Journey
By SHIRLEY RAY

IT WAS the fifth morning in a row so Mrs. Laughton was not surprised. She slipped out of bed quietly, reached for a robe, and put it over her shoulders.

Before dawn, every morning of that week, her four-year-old daughter had wakened her with gentle but insistent tugs to tell her about the dream she'd had. It had been their night-mares, Mrs. Laughton would have been eager to get up to comfort a frightened child, but they were never night-mares. They were always gay and fanciful dreams that made the little girl's small face glow with wonder and delight.

So Mrs. Laughton, as on the other mornings, took Ellen into the kitchen and poured a glass of milk for each of them.

With both small hands wrapped around her glass, the little girl sat on the edge of a too large chair and with shining eyes, eagerly told her dream.

"I DREAMED I was sleeping, Mommy, and that the North Wind stopped right outside my window and called my name. He said, 'Ellen—Ellen—wake up and come to the window. Then I'll put you on my shoulder and take you for a ride with me.'"

Mrs. Laughton took a drink from her glass of milk. This dream was going to be very much like the others. Something or someone—once a bluebird, once a fairy—she couldn't recall what the others were—came to the window and offered to take Ellen on an impossible journey. Mrs. Laughton yawned. She would like to have put her daughter to bed and ended the tale at once, but she thought of Mr. Laughton and his to-be-bad disposition made her hesitate. "What did the wind look like, dear?"

Ellen was enthusiastic.

"He was green," she declared importantly.

Mrs. Laughton thought to herself, "She doesn't know one color from another."

The child continued, "He had long pointy green shoes and long green hair and a long green nose." The wide eyes and little blonde curls leaned forward and the small voice became confidential. "He was all green except for the buckles on his shoes. They were silver and shaped like stars and they sparkled so bright that I had to blink

"We went way up high over the houses and trees."

my eyes as we went through the air."

Mrs. Laughton yawned again. Ellen didn't notice.

"After I climbed onto his shoulder," she said, "we went way up high over all the houses and trees. We woke the leaves and they made hissing noises whenever we passed by. We stirred the dust from the streets so they would be lean for morning."

"BUT soon he said that he must take me back home because there were other towns he had to visit before the night was over." (she sounded genuinely disappointed) "we came back to my window. He lifted me down from his shoulder, said goodnight and went away—way up in the sky."

"That's fine, dear—such a fine dream," she said, and added hastily, "Now let's go back to bed."

It was morning. Mr. Laughton had left for the office a couple of days ago, and Ellen was playing in the yard.

She made Ellen's small bed up a rag doll and set it in a chair. She put the two miniature bedroom slippers in their place in the closet. She picked up a crumpled nightgown and started to hang it away.

There was something in the pocket—something heavy. Mrs. Laughton put her hand inside and felt. It was cold and hard.

She drew it out slowly and held it in her hand for a long time. It was silver buckle in the shape of a star.

A sink plunger is a good helper. The correct height can be marked on the handle of the plunger and it will stand upright without being held.

HEALTH COLUMN

The number of deaths from rheumatic fever, a disease which frequently affects the heart, has dropped considerably in the last few decades. Yet rheumatic fever still kills more school-age children than any other disease, and many children who survive its attacks are left with permanently damaged hearts.

Rheumatic fever most frequently strikes children between the ages of six and 12, although it may occur at any age. It is a painful disease, usually accompanied by fever and aches and swellings of joints and muscles. It is serious because, even when it does not cause death, a single attack may leave a child's heart in a scarred and weakened condition. Rheumatic fever has a tendency to recur, too, and, of course, the more attacks a child suffers, the greater possibility of damage to his heart.

Early symptoms of rheumatic fever include pains in the arms and legs (too often casually dismissed as "growing pains"), slight fever, loss of appetite and loss of weight or failure to gain weight, and the twitching and jerking of a child's face, arms or legs usually called St. Vitus' Dance.

When any of the symptoms which might mean rheumatic fever appear, it is wise to call a doctor immediately. If the sufferer has rheumatic fever, the danger of permanent damage to his heart may be lessened by prompt medical care. It is still difficult to diagnose rheumatic fever in its earliest stages, but today there are a number of aids to help the doctor detect the disease even in an early stage. Once the disease has been diagnosed, the doctor can take measures which may prevent permanent damage to the heart.

When the doctor discovers that a child has rheumatic fever he will prescribe, among other things, complete rest for the patient, especially during the acute stage of illness and sometimes for weeks, and even months, afterwards. Close medical supervision and nursing care are necessary to prevent any unnecessary strain on the child's heart.

The after-care of the child who has rheumatic fever is important, and the instructions of the doctor must be followed carefully. Such a child must have sufficient rest and well-balanced meals. Precautions should be taken to protect him against all illnesses, especially those of the nose and throat, and he should have periodic medical examinations. However, a child who has recovered from rheumatic fever need not be treated as an invalid all his life. With proper guidance, he should eventually be able to return to school and engage in many of the normal activities of children of his age.

Commissioners Seek To Exempt County From Bill

The County Commissioners on Monday asked the Frederick County delegation in the Legislature to have Frederick County exempted from the bill directing the commissioners of various counties to provide voting machines. Nine counties have already asked to be exempted from the provisions of the bill.

In view of present demands for money to build schools, the commissioners said they do not think it advisable to undertake the expense of providing voting machines in the immediate future. To purchase machines, provide adequate storage and transport them to precinct voting places would mean incurring considerable expense, they pointed out.

Homemakers' Corner

Hot meat sandwiches have long been popular as quick and easy main dishes for lunch or dinner. New to most homemakers, however, is the idea of a hot fish sandwich. For budget meals, foods and nutrition specialist, suggests this flavorful, nutritious sandwich using such inexpensive fish as cod or pollock. One especially good hot filling is a scrambled egg-and-fish mixture, enlivened with green pepper and onion.

Here are the ingredients for a recipe to serve four: 2 teaspoons fat; 1½ tablespoons chopped green pepper; ¾ cup flaked, cooked (or canned) fish; 2 eggs slightly beaten; ¼ cup milk; 2 to 3 teaspoons chopped onion; salt and pepper to taste.

Cook the green pepper in fat. Mix all other ingredients and add to the pepper. Cook over low heat or in a double boiler, stirring constantly until firm. Serve immediately on a hot toasted roll or bun, using about ¼ cup of the filling for each sandwich.

The tart flavor which many people like with fish may be added by a garnish of tangy cold slaw or pickle, or hot tomato sauce. Fish will also be a welcome noon time meal, when it appears in an openface sandwich, such as creamed salmon or tunafish on toast. Sliced olives and a spoonful of chopped onion add color and flavor. Or, for an extender and extra heartiness, add canned or frozen peas, omitting the olives. Fresh hot biscuits can turn this dish into a special treat; on the other hand, whole wheat toast will save time and increase its vitamin value. A crisp vegetable salad, milk, cookies and fruit served with these hot sandwiches make little work for the cook, and a tasty meal for her family.

Dampened clothes should be folded and rolled loosely. When they are rolled tightly and packed together, more wrinkles are added to be ironed out.

A pressure canner should be stored with the top off to keep odors from developing in the canner. Use an electric fan to speed drying clothes indoors in winter.

He holds a "bug" that's looking for trouble
This man is a member of the telephone central office maintenance force. The "gadget" he has in his hand is an electronic device which he calls a "bug."
When it's raining, this "bug" is used inside the central office where telephone wires terminate. It can test as many as 6,000 wires an hour. If moisture is causing a leakage of current in any drop wire (the wire that connects your house with the telephone pole), the "bug" locates it. A repairman can then be sent out to fix the "trouble" before you notice it.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

The Maryland Poultry Advisory Committee, the first such committee in the United States to be named, held its first meeting recently at College Park at the call of its chairman, Joseph H. Blandford. The group representing all phases of the State's poultry industry, discussed the relationship between PMA programs and problems being encountered by the industry.

The group expressed the opinion that there is price trouble ahead for broiler producers, particularly during the spring and summer months. They also predicted price trouble for turkey producers by next fall because of the 50 per cent increase being planned by Maryland producers.

In addition to discussing PMA programs, the group made the specific recommendation that producers make every effort to increase the quality of Maryland poultry products.

Sign-Up In ACP Ahead of '48
The sign-up in the 1949 Agricultural Conservation Program is running ahead of last year, Mr. Blandford announced. The latest figures available indicate that 7,975 farmers had enrolled by Jan. 31 in only the 17 counties which have reported. Last year, with reports from all 23 counties in, only 7,013 farmers had enrolled.

Mr. Blandford attributed the larger enrollment to increased interest on the part of farmers in soil improving practices. He reminded farmers that this year's program is essentially the same as last year's. Farmers can get help for the purchase of lime and superphosphate and for carrying out certain soil conservation practices such as strip cropping, diversion terrace construction, pasture improvement, and better forestry management.

He recommended that farmers who have not yet signed up visit their county ACA office and file their 1949 farm plan. Price Support For Swine To Continue

Maryland swine producers are now assured of price supports for their products. Mr. Blandford called their attention to the recent announcement that hog prices will be supported at 90 per cent of parity through March, 1950. In other words, support will be given through the marketing season for 1949 spring pigs.

This action is taken to assure farmers the same level of price support during the last half of the October, 1940-March, 1950 marketing period as is required during the first half by the Agricultural Act of 1948. Hog price supports at 90 per cent of parity are mandatory only through December 31, 1949 under this Act, which also authorizes support beyond this date under certain conditions. Specific price supports, with the usual seasonal variations, will be announced next fall for this entire period and will be based on the Sept. 15, 1949 parity price.

Mr. Blandford explains that, "the announcement is made at this time to enable farmers to make the necessary plans for production of hogs for market next fall and winter. Any uncertainties concerning the support level during the early months of next year might prompt farmers to market usually large numbers of bred sows and gilts during this current winter period, rather than to hold them for farrow this coming spring."

"Furthermore, if the level of support were reduced in the middle of the marketing period (on Dec. 31, 1949), the effect could be excessive marketings before that date, and a relative shortage in succeeding months. By extending the support at the same level, marketings will be spread more evenly over the entire period."

A conference is a group of men, who, individually, can do nothing, but as a group can meet and decide that nothing can be done.

Discard cracked or chipped glassware and china. A cracked cup is both a health and an accident hazard.

Apply Manure Before Plowing Garden

Another important step that home gardeners and commercial growers can be taking right now is the application of manure. This should be applied before the garden is plowed. The recommendation is to put it on at the rate of 10 to 15 tons per acre. This amounts to about a two-ton load of manure for a small garden 50x100 feet.

One caution should be considered in applying manure at this time of year. It should not contain an excess of straw. Partly decomposed manure is best and either stable or hen manure will improve the garden.

Edward K. Bender, vegetable specialist, reminds gardeners that superphosphate should be added. A 100-pound sack to each ton of manure will produce a well-balanced fertilizer.

Ditch Blasting Done While Soil Is Damp

The time to do ditching by blasting is when the soil is saturated. The soil water forms a continuous shock path from one charge to the next. This saves time in priming charges and saves money in the cost of blasting caps. Blasting does ditching much faster and with much less labor and equipment than any other means.

Maryland Feed And Grain Markets

Summary for Maryland

The feed market in Baltimore was steady during the week ended March 4. Seventeen per cent dehydrated alfalfa meal declined $2.50 per ton—over 3% less than last week's average price. Linseed oil meal declined almost 3% on the Baltimore market, a decrease of $2.75 per ton. Brewers' dried grains ($1.67 per ton less) and 16% dairy feed ($1.50 per ton less), both declined over 2% on the Baltimore market.

Standard bran increased over 2%—$1.52 per ton more than last week. Standard middlings increased $1.52 per ton—over 2% more than last week's average.

The broiler-feed ration for Maryland producers was slightly more favorable for the week February 25 through March 3. Broiler prices averaged 29.4 cents per pound (28.8 cents last week). The price of 20% broiler mash in Salisbury on March 3 averaged $91.78 per ton ($93.20 per ton last week). On this basis, one pound live weight of broilers would buy 6.4 pounds of feed (6.2 pounds last week).

Feed markets averaged higher during the week ended March 1 but the principal gains were in grain by-product feeds which were up $2.00—3.00 per ton compared with a week ago, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. Higher corn prices and a more active demand for these feeds for immediate shipment were the principal strengthening influences. Inquiry for oil seed meals continued dull and prices were barely steady. Animal protein feeds continued to decline.

Feeding ratios for dairymen in the North Atlantic region were 5% more favorable in February than in January and 9% more favorable than a year ago and somewhat above the pre-war average. In this section 100 pounds of the ingredients of a representative dairy ration cost $3.09 at the middle of February compared with $3.36 in January and $4.23 in February, 1948. Local butterfat prices averaged 68.6 cents per pound in February, 70.8 cents in January, and 86.3 cents in February, 1948. At these prices a pound of butterfat would buy 22.2 pounds of feed ingredients in February compared with 21.1 in January and 20.4 in February, '48.

A decline of 15% in egg prices more than offset the drop in feed costs with the result that the egg-fed ration was 7% under the previous month. The cost of the ingredients of a representative poultry ration was $3.20 per 100 pounds in the North Atlantic region in February, compared with $.50 in January and $4.25 in February, 1948. Egg prices averaged 51.4 cents per dozen in February, a drop of 9 cents from January 15 and 6.3 cents from February, 1948. At these prices a dozen eggs would buy 16.1 pounds of feed ingredients in February, compared with 17.3 in January and 13.6 pounds in February a year ago.

Maryland Grain Market

Grain markets in Baltimore were steady during the week ended March 4. Wheat was steady to higher. Corn prices were steady on the Baltimore market. Barley and oats showed practically no change, while soybeans showed a slight decline.

National Summary

Grain markets were unsettled during the week ended March 3, with Commodity Credit Corporation operations playing an important part in price movements.

Marketings of wheat increased but record purchases by the Commodity Credit Corporation held prices above the loan level. Soft wheat were at a premium over hard wheat. Corn was independently firm reflecting small marketing receipts and large Government purchases. Prices, however, were still below the support level. Oats continued to decline and dropped to the loan value except at Kansas City, where prices were relatively higher than at other markets. The market for oilseeds was dull and prices held unchanged. Grain sorghums strengthened with corn, but barley prices were down 3 to 4 cents per bushel, except on marketing grains which held firm.

Ten years ago we accepted 3-pound chickens at 12 weeks of age with 12 pounds of feed as good performance. Today, four pounds at 12 weeks with 12 pounds of feed is standard for many growers, say poultry specialists.

GELWICKS—REDELL

Mr. and Mrs. Christian H. L. Redell, of Charleston, S. C., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Claire Louise Redell, and Mr. Thomas Daniel Gelwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gelwick, formerly of Emmitsburg, now residing in Baltimore.

The wedding took place Saturday, Feb. 12, in the Roman Catholic Cathedral of St. John the Baptist with the Rev. Louis F. Sterker and the Right Rev. James J. May officiating.

Miss Margaret Mosimann, organist, played the wedding music and Miss Alice Morgan sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore blue lace over taffeta with matching hat and gloves, and carried white gladioli, roses and carnations.

Her only attendant was her half-sister, Miss Helen E. Carter. She wore rose crepe and carried spring flowers.

Mr. Francis X. McKenna, Jr., of Baltimore, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Serving as ushers were Mr. Jack B. Carter, half-brother of the bride and Mr. Harvey E. Hacker, USN, of Washington, Ind.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Baltimore. Upon their return, they will reside at Charleston, S. C. The bridegroom is stationed in Charleston aboard the destroyer minelayer Shannon at the minecraft base.

The bride is a graduate of Meminger High School, Charleston, and attended Rice Business College.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gelwick and Mrs. F. X. McKenna, of Baltimore.

Bleachers To Head Extensive Plans On Community Field

Sports-minded Emmitsburgians have always shown their gratitude and spirit for baseball played here on the Community Field, considered one of the finest athletic field in this section; and the directors of the baseball association are endeavoring to make both sport and field even better this year.

Last Sunday at the directors' meeting in the Firemen's Hall, a committee was appointed to increase the present seating capacity by nearly 1000. The erection of bleachers down the first and third base line, in addition to installing about 50 box seats on the two dugouts, are under consideration.

From reports the box seats will be given to patrons before the season opens as a remuneration for boosters of the local ball team.

Last year's seating arrangement of more than 400 was by far too small to accommodate the overflowing crowds, it was said. It was not disclosed whether the material for construction of the bleachers would come from the present building now on the Community Field or through the buying of new lumber. At present, the building belongs to the firemen. The committee working on the extensive seating capacity consists of Bernard Boyle, Arthur Elder and Thomas Gingell.

Also at Sunday's meeting, it was reported by the business manager, Norman Flax who attended the meeting of the Adams County League in Gettysburg, Pa., Thursday night, that 27 games have been scheduled this year, including doubleheaders on holidays and six twilight games. In the Penn-Maryland League, nine Sunday games will be played here, it was reported.

From the grounds committee, reports showed that the work on the dugouts is progressing very rapidly. In addition to completing the home-team dugout, construction is underway to refloor and erect new sides for the visitors' dugout. The directors expressed their appreciation to the many people of Town who have so generously donated both work and labor in the construction work. George Rosensteel is chairman of the grounds committee.

The Adams County League is scheduled to open Saturday, April 23, and the Penn-Maryland League on Sunday, April 24.

May Place Age Limit On Scooter Licenses

A bill which would prohibit operation of motor scooters or bicycles with motor attachments by any child under 16 years of age has passed both Houses of the General Assembly, according to a legislative bulletin from the Automobile Club of Maryland.

The bill was recommended by the Legislative Council as the result of numerous accidents. At the present time these vehicles can be operated by children from 14 to 16 years of age in the discretion of the Motor Vehicle Department.

Another bill to pass both Houses would prohibit the operators of motor scooters from carrying more than one person unless the vehicle is constructed with an extra seat. This is also a Legislative Council recommendation.

A third measure passing both Houses changes the law relative to hand and arm signal when the driver of a car is about to make a right turn. The present law provides for a circling signal, waving the car on from the rear to come ahead. The bill provides hand and arm extended upward, hand held still several seconds.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

OBJECTS TO METERS, FILTH
Dear Sir:
I wish to congratulate you on the newspaper you are publishing.

Now please publish this letter in your paper.

I think the officials of Emmitsburg should let the people vote on the parking meters. I always thought they were ornaments. I need never fear they will be in front of where I live, no one can or would park there as it is nothing but a filthy gutter, the alley was never stoned, probably the only one in town. More people stop in this section than most any place in town and I can not understand why it has not been stoned.

I am a nurse and I work from 3 to 11 and when I get home at midnight, I must go up town to put my car in a garage or the town parking lot.

According to the empty bottles I find, it must be a very undesirable place for a lady to have to go at night.

If I would park at a meter I would have to stay awake all night so I could pay each hour.

Emmitsburg is an old town, why try to keep up with the cities? I hope all the country people will do their buying in Harney, Detour or any place for at least a month to show their disapproval.

A DISGUSTED CITIZEN

CLEAN UP THIS FILTH!

If the new parking meter venture means any additional burden on the town's purse, I have a very just complaint against said meters. However, if there is no cost involved to the deal, I do not oppose them.

For several years I have been urging the Town Fathers to spend additional money to add to the sewerage system of our town. A deplorable state of affairs has existed at the rear of my property and those homes along North Seton Avenue that is unheard of nowadays, being contrary to all the modern laws of sanitation and disease prevention rules. There are overflows of filth and refuse that invade my property and flow in an open gutter at the rear of North Seton Avenue. A condition that is a positive and unpleasant menace to the health of the entire population of this end of town. I for one, would not object to sharing a burden of additional tax if necessary, to have this attended to at once for the safety of the citizens of the town. I mentioned the parking meter expense because I do not believe the town should attempt additional expenses until this intolerable sewerage condition is attended to and our town made a clean and healthful place in which to live.

PARI-MUTUEL

would not be presented at the current session of the Legislature. The proposal to provide a referendum on the issue met with more favorable response within the delegation and introduction of the measure Tuesday is considered tantamount to at least passive approval of the bill by a majority of the Delegates and State Senator Storm.

Delay in referring the issue to the voters of the county, it was explained Tuesday, may possibly prevent Frederick County from getting dates for a pari-mutuel harness racing meet for years to come. The number of days of harness racing in Maryland is limited to 100 in any one year. Already the State Racing Commission has allotted 60 days to three tracks at Laurel, Oxon Hill and Ocean City.

Applications for additional days may be before the Commission now, it was explained, and those best qualified to know what is in the making in Maryland racing circles are intimating that Baltimore County interests may have a tentative claim on twenty additional days.

Those most interested claim Frederick is ideally located for a racing meet, especially a harness session in view of the proximity of Pennsylvania's nearby harness horse "hot-bed" and the availability of the track to metropolitan centers like Washington and Baltimore. The Frederick plant is a natural setting for a harness meet, they say, and conditions are especially favorable to selling the State Racing Commission on granting at least ten days for a pari-mutuel meeting.

PARKING METERS

the present sewerage system was installed, there were not enough appropriations available to sewer the whole Town. Permission was sought to run the open sewers into Flat Run but was refused by the Health Department on the grounds that it violated the stream pollution laws of Maryland, according to reports. It is planned, however, that when the present bonds, which the Town is bound to, are retired, that this condition will be one of the first to be remedied. At present there are seven remaining bonds to be retired and it is thought this can be accomplished by 1952, if not sooner.
