SARNG TRAINING

Spring is here again for sure now that I've seen the baseball contingent down on the old Community Field practicing. Yessir, when the horsehide comes in contact with the hickory it produces a sound of "whack" that never fails to give me a thrill.

There was quite a crowd on the field Sunday—Some were rookies who never have played on the town team before, and were being given a tryout while others were the veterans of last year's team. These latter were trying to loosen up muscles and regain the co-ordination of both hands and feet that is so necessary in playing the old game of swat. . .

Then there were several of the directors and members of the official family, surveying the land and trying to figure out ways to increase the seating capacity at a minimum of cost to the club. Different groups were pursuing different courses down there but they all had one common view; that of improving the ball team, grounds, organization, etc. . . Baseball? Man, I loves the stuff!

NEW STAMP

Here's something I'll bet you didn't know . . . There's going to be a new postage stamp on sale pretty soon and instead of being printed in memory of a President or some such great personage, it's to be in honor of the hundredth anniversary of the little old SAFETY PIN! 'Sa fact . . . And why not, I might ask? Consider the importance of that so called little piece of metal, and tell me this— Could you do without it? Right you are. . . We'd be hopelessly bereft of a good, reliable buddy if someone had never invented the safety pin. One hundred years ago some genius conceived the idea of "holding up the world" and so improvised a silly looking thing that was later dubbed the "safety pin." . . . All of us should be eternally grateful to that man and I for one, think that having a stamp commemorating the safety pin's birthday, is a wonderful thing. Yippee, here's to a better safety pins

COUNTY STREAMS ARE STOCKED WITH 18,000 TROUT

Fishing Creek and Big
Hunting Replenished
For April 15 Opening

A total of 18,000 legal-size brook, brown and rainbow trout are destined for Frederick County streams during the season which opens at 5:30 a. m. on April 15, Game Warden Benjamin F. Phebus announced this week.

As in former years, Fishing Creek and Big Hunting Creek are scheduled to get the heaviest load of fish, with 7,500 allotted to Big Hunting Creek and 7,000 to Fishing Creek. Two thousand fish will be stocked in the two streams for opening of the season, the warden stated.

2,000 Go to Middle Creek

Middle Creek will receive 2,000 trout this year and 1,000 will go into Little Hunting Creek. Instead of stocking Owens Creek this year, the State Game and Inland Fish Commission is releasing 500 trout in Friends Creek near Sabillasville. The Owens Creek experiment was none too successful last year, it was explained.

Trout will be liberated on April 11, 12 and 13, the warden said. In past seasons the fish have been turned out a month prior to the opening of the season and have been a temptation to poachers, officials pointed out.

Because of the expected heavy run on trout for the opening 3 days, from Good Friday through Easter Sunday, Phebus said the state has arranged to restock the streams the week following the opening.

Stock Nearby Counties

In addition to Frederick County, trout are scheduled for other streams in nearby counties. Phebus said 1,200 are slated for Beaver Run and 800 for Piney Run in Carroll County, with 2,000 going into Rock Creek in Montgomery County. The Patuxent in Howard County will be stocked with 1,000.

Anglers are reminded that the section of Big Hunting Creek in the Catoclin Recreational Area is restricted to fly fishing and that the legal hours on all streams are from 5:30 a. m. to 8 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

FRANK SHUFF JR. IS LIKELY CHOICE FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR

Unable to agree after several sessions Tuesday, the County Commissioners postponed until tomorrow the selection of an assessor to succeed the late Thomas R. Saylor, of Walkersville, who resigned effective April 1 shortly before his death.

The nominees are M. Frank Shuff Jr., Emmitsburg; Robert L. Shipley, Frederick, and Glenn C. Stull, Hansonville. The nominees were rated in the order named by the State Tax Commissioner, it was learned, with the State body strongly recommending the appointment of Mr. Shuff.

The Commissioners decided to defer further consideration until tomorrow in the hope that at least two of them could agree on the appointment of one of the three nominees. In the event they cannot agree on any one of the present nominees, it was indicated, additional names may be sent to the Tax Commission for rating. The Commissioners expressed hope, however, that it will not be necessary to have additional nominees rated.

Considerable interest has centered around the appointment, formally sought by more than a score of residents. Court House officials reported caucuses in every corner lately and pressure is being brought to bear on the Commissioners from many sides. By the terms of the recently amended law, the new appointee must be a registered Democrat as Mr. Speaks is a registered Republican.

Charles J. Rowe was removed last Friday to Mount Alto Veterans Hospital in the VFW ambulance. Mr. Rowe has been confined to his home for six months.

WEDDINGS

ANGLEBERGER—HESSONG

Against a background of ferns, palms, white gladioli and carnations and lighted candles, one of the prettiest weddings there in recent years was solemnized at St. Paul's Church, Utica, on Saturday night when Marian Virginia Hessong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hessong, Lewistown, became the bride of Markwood E. Angelberger, son of Mrs. Roy Engelberger and the late Mr. Angelberger, Thurmont. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Merle F. Sollinger, assisted by Rev. E. Koontz Helwig.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white crepe satin, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice, long sleeves, and a full skirt, with a scalloped head-dress matching the gown from which fell an ankle length veil of bride's illusion. The pearls she wore were a gift of the bridegroom, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

For her matron-of-honor Miss Hessong chose the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Michael Pometto of Washington, who wore a pink gown and carried sun-kist roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Francis McKay in a blue gown, Mrs. Mildred Klipp in orchid and Mrs. Richard Kidwiler in yellow, all carrying spring flowers. Mr. Pometto acted as best man for Mr. Angelberger, with Kenneth Angelberger, Albert Wastler, and Albert Coleman serving as ushers.

Both the bride's mother and the groom's mother wore navy dresses with navy accessories, and corsages of pink rosebuds.

After the reception the bride and bridegroom left for a two weeks' honeymoon in Florida. The bride chose for her going-away outfit, a grey suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Angelberger are graduates of Frederick High School. Mr. Angelberger is now stationed with the Chief of Naval Operations in Washington, D. C., after having served four years in the U. S. Navy, most of that time in the South Pacific. Mrs. Angelberger is employed in the office of the Claire Frock Co., Inc., Thurmont.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

Last week this column pointed out your family name probably came from one of five sources: (1) from some illustrious hero of the past, (2) from a place of residence, (3) from the given name of father or mother, (4) from some trade or occupation, or (5) from some personal characteristic. The first of these, with numerous examples, has already been discussed in this column. Today the second will be taken up. That is Place Names. Probably more family names are derived from the place of residence than any other.

From this source numerous family names in Emmitsburg are derived. To mention only a few in today's column—and these will be elaborated upon later—there are, for example such names as Putman, Sutton, Craig, Hess, Whitmire, Withero, Ridge, Payne, Myers (Scotch), Morgam, LaMar, Hollinger, Eckenrode, Coombs, Copenhaver, Aldridge, Ash, etc. Democracy And Your Name

Did it ever occur to you that Democracy gave you the name you bear? In the conflict today between Democracy and Communism, it ought to be mentioned that one of the many achievements of Democracy is the modern institution of family names.

The rise of Democracy made surnames universal. When people became free, and could own private property, and vote, the old-fashioned system of single names for each individual, was inadequate. For this reason the Nobility was the first to choose family names. That was because they were the first to enjoy freedom, to own private property, and participate in public affairs as a privilege.

But with the common people it was different. In the olden days before the democratic revolution, as in communistic countries today, life was cheap, people unimportant, without private property, privilege or vote. Population usually was sparse. Under such conditions most of the people lived as serfs on the big estates of the nobility. It was called the Feudal System. A miniature picture of it was seen in the southern plantation system before the Civil War, patterned after the old Feudal System before the dawn of democracy. Under such conditions there was little need for a family name. Tom, Dick, and Harry was sufficient.

But when the old feudal broke up and Democracy came, the common people were elevated to a place of importance. They began to own private property, read and write. They were given freedom, privilege and the ballot. For them Democracy had created a New World of opportunity. Therefore, the adoption of a surname for each family became a necessity. And the first source to which people turned for such names, was the place where they lived.

Just suppose that today, in the democratic community of Emmitsburg, the people had not yet adopted a family name for themselves. What a disorganized confusion would prevail. In the community there probably would be 25 persons by the name of John with no other designation to distinguish them. How would you tell one John from another? How would the Postmaster tell what mail went to which John? How would the state know which John owned which property? In a thousand ways there would be confusion worse confounded.

Place Names

The first attempt to solve the problem was to write after the name of each person a description of the place where he lived. One would sign his name as John who lives in the woods. Another as John who lives on the hill. Or another as John who lives in the field. As such it was not a family name but a convenience. Eventually these places grew into a family name. And John found himself named after the place where he lived.

Taking a few examples as an illustration—John who lives in the field, later became John Fields. John on the street, became John Street. John in the woods became John Woods. John at the edge of the woods became John Underwood. John in the last house at the street's end became John Endicott. John by the willow tree became John Willoughby. John at the ash tree became John Ashby, sometimes shortened into ash. John at the apple tree became John Appleby, or if German, John Applebaum. John by the holly tree became John Hollis. John at the seven oaks became John Sevenoaks, later shortened to John Snooks. John at the lake, became John Lake or John Atwater. John in the meadow became John Lee. John in the swamp, if Scotch, became John Myers. John on the wasteland became John Moore. John by the sea, if English, became John Morgan; if French, John Lamar; if Irish, John O'Mara. John on the ridge became John Aldridge. John at the pit became John Putman.

PARKING METER INSTALLATION IS STARTED

Rain Delays Work;
Many Of Town's
Aleys Restored

Work of installing the new parking meters was started Tuesday when the streets were maked by Waesche and Son, Thurmont contractors, under supervision of Leonard Zimmerman. The work was halted Thursday by inclement weather, and conditions permitting, the installation is expected to be completed by next week.

The Mayor and Commissioners this week announced that all alleys running parallel to Main Street have been stoned and some others are in the process of being stoned or macadamized. Those completed this week are Stoke's Alley, Hospelhorn Alley, Gross' Alley.

The alley beside Mr. George Naylor's property is next on the program, but is temporarily being held up by the installation of a water pipe by the Emmitsburg Water Co. Also stoned and graded was that portion of land between E. Main St. and Mr. Frank Kelly's house in East End.

Along with the alley improvements is the proposed installation of flood lighting on the town parking lot which is expected to take care of the overflow of traffic after the parking meters are installed.

The Town Officials also informed the Chronicle that progress is being made on the correction of the curve on N. Seton Ave. in front of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. The sharp curve has been such a traffic menace for many years. The officials of the church announced this week that they are donating a strip of the church property to aid in the diminishing of the curve. The portion of land given is approximately 182 feet long and 9 feet wide. It is expected that the State Roads Commission will act on this improvement in the near future.

Taneytown Laying Plans For Recreation Park

The Taneytown Recreation Assn. recently laid plans for a proposed Taneytown Recreation Park. The Assn. purchased property of 15 acres and three square rods of land which lays directly back of the properties on the south side of W. Baltimore St. and between the Reformed Church Cemetery and the Corporation boundary.

Plans are being made to improve this property with recreation facilities for young and old. These improvements will include a regulation baseball field with stands for the comfort and convenience of the spectators, a hard surfaced parking area, tennis, handball, and volley ball courts are included in the plans. A section of the park will be improved with swings, sliding boards and sand boxes for the youngsters so that they have a safe place to play. There will be picnic tables and fireplaces so that whole families may enjoy an outing at the park.

NOTICE BALLPLAYERS AND COACHES!

The Emmitsburg Baseball Association, through its manager, Jack Bubrick, announces that it has scheduled practice for the coaches and players for Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Community Field, Emmitsburg. Anyone within a radius of 15 miles of Emmitsburg is welcome and eligible to try out for the team and every candidate will be given fair consideration for the position for which he is trying. Also scheduled are regular weekly practice sessions for Tuesday and Friday evenings at 6 p. m.

LIQUOR LICENSE APPLICATION BEING PROTESTED

Petition Of 15 Signers
Oppose Granting Of Another Permit

Is a college student a bona fide resident of the community in which he is attending school was a question raised this week for License Commissioner G. Cleveland Trout.

About 15 residents of Emmitsburg filed an objection to the granting of another Class A off-sale beer, wine and liquor license in Emmitsburg. The objection is to the granting of a license to Richard Rosensteel and Louis Cooper.

The objectors contend that there are already two such licensed places in Emmitsburg District and that under a ruling of the Commissioner the population is not sufficient to permit another license to be granted.

The Commissioner's rule stipulates that such licenses be limited in each district one for each 1,500 residents. The objectors contend that there are 3,343 residents in the district and therefore not more than two licenses should be granted under the rule.

Objectors also declare that the license is not necessary for the accommodation of the public as there are already two Class A licenses in the district.

If students attending colleges in Emmitsburg District are held to be residents of the community, it was pointed out, the population might justify the issuance of an additional Class A license.

No date had been set for a hearing by the Commissioner on Monday.

By direction of the Circuit Court in a recent case, the Commissioner is required to hold a hearing to determine the present population of the district in which an additional license is sought. It is left to the Commissioner to determine whether population figures have changed sufficiently to warrant another license. It is the first time that the status of college students as residents has been raised.

A bill is now in process of enactment at Annapolis, writing the Commissioner's ruling on licenses by population into the alcoholic beverage laws for Frederick County. The Commissioners in recent years had based their population decisions on the latest Government census figures.

RABBITS TO BE SCARCE THIS YEAR

Game Birds Are Freed
Near Emmitsburg Section

Only 75 rabbits, and some of them "not in very good shape," were turned loose in Frederick County during the winter, Game Warden Benjamin F. Phebus said this week.

Instead of the 900 usually allotted to this county by the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, less than 100 were turned loose, Phebus explained. Scarcity of rabbits was due to the unusually severe winter and blizzards in Midwestern states, making it impossible to trap the cottontails. Of the nine crates received in the county rabbits in two of them were dead upon arrival, the game warden said.

To compensate to some extent for the lack of rabbits, the state last week released 125 ringneck pheasants near here. The birds, freed on the basis of four hens and one cock bird, were said to thrive better in this section.

Another 125 pheasants were released in Carroll County in the vicinity of Taneytown and Mayberry.

VFW GOLDEN JUBILEE WEEK APRIL 3-9

Next week the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States will celebrate its Golden Jubilee Week throughout the nation and the territories. In 17,000 units more than a million and a half members of the Gold Chevron organization and its Auxiliary are paying tribute to the veterans of the Spanish-American War, who, fifty years ago, banded together to fight for the rights of America's fighting men and to work as a closely knit team to preserve and protect the principles of our American Democracy.

The VFW looks back upon its achievements with a feeling of real pride. From the instability of its humble beginning, it has battled doggedly against odds which, at times, seemed insurmountable. The men who nurtured the young organization through its struggling infancy were willing and ready to stand firm for the principles of right and justice—no matter what the odds. They were crusaders in as true a sense as were the warriors of old who wrested the Holy Land from the Moslem, and whose emblem, the cross of Malta, the VFW wear today as the symbol of membership in this order of fighting men.

Through the years, they have steadfastly championed the cause of the national welfare, convinced that what is good for our country is good for our country's veterans. They have progressed, and as they enter the second half century of service, take pride in the good which has been done for their less fortunate comrades, and for their widows and orphans.

They are highly conscious of the errors of omission which sent them into two wars with too little—and almost too late. Aside from military weapons in sufficient quantity for our defense, the VFW believe that the only equitable system of securing trained manpower is through Universal Military Training, building up an effective National Guard and Reserve force, effective legislation to curb the many subversive activities in our midst, a well-coordinated civil defense system, including well-trained disaster units that will be adequate to cope with any sudden emergency.

To the men who wear the badge of membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, America is a great, a beautiful, a proud land. Because they have fought to preserve it, and to perpetuate the freedoms and the opportunities which have made it the envy of peoples in every other nation on the face of the globe, the VFW have an abiding faith in its institutions. They revere its constitution which guarantees to each individual the right to live his life in his own way, and treasure its unwavering belief in justice and right and fair play.

With our resourcefulness, our fabulous wealth, our industry, our know-how in every field of human endeavor—we can and must be the most potent force for peace in all the world. The freedom-loving peoples of the earth look to us for inspiration and leadership and we must not fail them.

The VFW is holding high the banner of human liberty, of justice, of peace and understanding among all the peoples of the world. They are carrying on the crusade that had its beginning in the aftermath of our war with Spain—and the free peoples throughout the rest of the world continue to work with us—to pray with us—to die with us if need be—to preserve the God-given heritage of freedom and happiness and peace.

Fr. Dausch announced the site and date for the next meeting. It is to be held April 21 at St. John's High School in Frederick. Fr. Kellers book, "You Can Change the World," will be discussed at the meeting.

Msgr. Vaeth disclosed plans for a CSMC Rally to be held at Mt. St. Marys College on the first Sunday of May. All members of the Crusade of the Blue Ridge Conference are urged to attend as well as their parents and friends. The purpose is to further the knowledge of the functions of the Crusade and its members.

JAIL ESCAPEE CAPTURED AT CATOCTIN FURNACE

Surprised Tuesday afternoon while raking a garden near Catoctin Furnace, George William Miller of Hagerstown, who escaped last Saturday night from Frederick County jail, was re-taken at pistol-point and returned to custody to face a larceny charge.

Deputy Sheriff R. Paul Buhrman and State Trooper Kenneth Bond, who had learned that Miller was hiding out in the Catoctin Furnace area, advanced on Miller from two directions and got the drop on him before he knew anyone was around.

Miller used a timber to batter a hole in the roof of the jail Saturday night to escape. He apparently made his way to Catoctin Furnace. Officers found that he had been at the home of Mrs. Roy Linton, mother of Reno Linton, charged jointly with Miller of the larceny of a power saw.

At the Linton home on Monday they found Miller's shoes which he had shed for an old pair of tennis shoes, but Miller was not to be found. They learned Tuesday that the escapee had slept in the woods Monday night and early in the morning took refuge in a hay stack at the Roy Lewis farm, near Catoctin Furnace.

When they closed in Tuesday afternoon, Miller was diligently raking off the garden for Mrs. Lewis. Miller surrendered when he saw the pistol leveled on him. The officers said. He was returned to the jail with assurances on all sides that he will be kept more securely until he and Linton can be tried.

The men were scheduled to be tried in Peoples Court, Frederick, Monday but in the absence of Miller the trial had to be postponed. Officials said the hearing would probably be set for this morning. They were not certain whether a charge of "escape" will be laid against Miller.

NEW CAR PLATES NOW MANDATORY

Last night at midnight was the deadline for affixing 1950 Maryland license tags to pleasure cars. The deadline did not apply to trucks. A bill has passed both Houses at the General Assembly giving the Department of Motor Vehicles, with the approval of the Governor, the right to extend the use of present registration cards beyond March 31.

In an analysis of pending legislation by the Automobile Club of Maryland, it was said that this bill was probably introduced to give the commissioner the right to extend the present registration tags for trucks because of another pending bill changing the registration requirements.

The other bill would put forth hire vehicles, trucks, trailers, busses and others on a flat fee basis, similar to private passenger cars.

LOCAL CONCERN BUYS ICE PLANT

The East End Garage, operated by Guy Ohler and Wilbur Umble, has purchased the old ice-making plant next to their present business site.

The freezing equipment has been sold to a New Jersey concern and is now being removed.

The new proprietors have not announced any plans as yet for the building, which was purchased from Mr. Roop recently.

The grapefruit crop this year is expected to be about 21 per cent below that of 1948.

Rules for Good Dairying Are Explained By Maryland Experts

Dairymen interested in measuring the efficiency of their farm production now have two "rules of thumb" to use as guides. The more efficient dairymen in the state are those who are shipping 50 gallons of milk daily for each full-time man employed in the dairy business. As another guide, one gallon of milk should be produced daily for each acre of cropland and pasture used in feeding the dairy herd.

Such measures are important because dairymen now have an investment in machinery and other overhead per cow higher than ever before in the history of our country. Fifty years ago, a good dairy farm could be established for $3,000. Twenty years ago the cost was $8,000, but today the out-of-doors machinery alone costs $10,000 and farm wages are 280 per cent higher than before World War II.

Most dairymen have more invested in their business than many businessmen in other industries. This means that dairymen must apply the best business practices if they are to make a satisfactory living.

To emphasize the point, the average cow in Maryland last year returned only 28 cents per hour for the labor spent in keeping her. This is based on most recent state production figures which show that 5,350 pounds of milk and 214 pounds of butterfat was the average output per cow. This is in sharp contrast to the $1.32 per hour returned by the average cow in Maryland's Dairy Herd Improvement Associations. Animals in these associations averaged 8,225 pounds of milk and 349 pounds of fat.

Specialists recommended that dairymen set their goals for a herd average of at least 10,000 pounds of milk and 400 pounds of butterfat. A herd producing at this level will return about $1.74 for each hour spent in caring for it.

Broken Fluorescent Tubes Are Poisonous to Cuts

"Cuts caused by broken fluorescent tubes are a new health hazard that has received too little attention," warns Dr. William Reindollar, Acting Chief of Department's Division of Industrial Health. "This hazard has become increasingly prevalent with the more widespread use of fluorescent lighting in stores and factories and also in private houses."

"The tubes are coated on the inside with a powder which contains the element beryllium. If particles of this beryllium powder enter a wound caused by the sharp glass edges of broken tubes they cause a severe irritation of the skin that delays healing and may even result in ulcers. In addition, where large quantities of these burnt out tubes are broken up for disposal it is possible to breathe in enough of the harmful dust to injure the lungs."

"To minimize possible ill effects the State Department of Health recommends the following disposal methods. With these precautions it should be possible to destroy worn out tubes without personal injury."

"Where just one or two tubes are to be disposed of, they can be placed in a burlap bag, immersed in a tank or trough of water and broken up with a hammer or length of pipe. The bag should then be buried wet without removing the contents."

"Where a large number of tubes are to be disposed of, they may be broken in an exhaust-ventilated crusher and the fragments wet down before removing. Ultimate disposal may be made by burying, or dumping in deep water a safe distance from shore."

"Whenever it is necessary to handle or break fluorescent tubes, heavy leather gloves and goggles should be worn. Care should also be taken to avoid breathing in dust from the beryllium coating."

The adjutant, a land bird of the stork family, is named for its measured walk—which is a caricature of a self-important military man.

Marylanders Fortunate In Having Fresh Seafood Available Here at Home

Many a famous restaurant has built its reputation around the choice seafood that it serves, for good fish and shellfish are hard to beat for fine flavor. Maryland homemakers are especially favored in the availability of fresh seafood, and with the arrival of the "freezer age," families can get all kinds in their neighborhood stores no matter what season of the year it is.

Whether you buy it fresh or frozen, fish is a good source of protein, minerals and vitamins. Low in calories, too, if you are watching your waistline. Remember to cook it only enough to develop its flavor and coagulate the proteins, so that it flakes easily and is moist and tender. Overcooked fish shrinks and becomes tough and dry.

How to prepare it. Steamed, baked, broiled, boiled (tie the fish in cheesecloth that it will not fall apart in the water), French or pan fried. Or flake the cooked fish for luncheon salads, hot casserole meals, or baked fish loaves.

Be sure your fish dinners are colorful, include a favorite vegetable and dessert, and make a point of serving the fish attractively. Use your imagination and whatever you have at hand for garnishing. Some suggestions are: lemon wedges or slices, parsley (sprigs or chopped), hard-cooked eggs (slices, wedges, deviled, or grated yolks), green or red pepper (strips or rings), raw carrot (sticks, curls or shredded), celery and celery tops, watercress, pickles, pickled beets, lettuce, escarole, cucumbers, tartar sauce, a sprinkling of paprika.

Flying fish probably move through the air to escape capture by other fish.

THE BIRTHDAY

One of the successful social events of the season was the party held last Friday evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of the American Legion, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary.

Approximately 160 persons attended the affair and a remarkably good time was enjoyed by all. Delicious refreshments were served, including a beautifully decorated cake which was graciously donated by the owners of the Pastry Shop, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Green.

Mrs. Laura Rosensteel, president of the Auxiliary, wishes to thank any and all members who contributed to the success of the event.

Two States Agree On License Reciprocity

The State Revenue Department at Harrisburg, Pa., affirmed that Maryland and Pennsylvania authorities 'are 100 per cent' in agreement on the licensing of automobiles under reciprocity laws.

The differences between the two States were caused by a misunderstanding that has been entirely cleared up, it was reported.

A Revenue Department spokesman said that the case which caused the short-lived dispute involved a former resident of Gettysburg, Pa., who is now living in Baltimore and driving to his former home each week end.

It was said that instead of living in Gettysburg and working in Baltimore, he was living and working in Baltimore and only coming into this State for visits.

DRAMA PRESENTED AT ST. JOSEPH'S HIGH SCHOOL

A drama presented by the junior commercial students of St. Joseph's High School was given on Thursday in the school auditorium. The play, "A Girl and Her Shadow," was presented to show that a person must have control of self in order to succeed, not only in business, but in every undertaking during life; also that life is made up of little things and that every task is important no matter how insignificant.

Those who participated in the production were Gertrude Cool, Louis Hewitt, Ann Timmerman, James Kelly, Fred Sprinkle, Helen Steinberger, Isabel Bouey, Eugene Rosensteel and Leona Lingg.

LIONS COMPLETE CARD PARTY PLANS

The final March meeting of the Lions Club was held Monday night in the Lutheran Parish House. Lion John Hollinger presided in the absence of President Herbert Roger.

Program Director Guy A. Baker Sr. introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Dr. R. E. Cromwell, director of vocational education in the Maryland public schools, who gave a very interesting and enlightening talk.

Final arrangements for the card party to be held Tuesday, April 19, in the Firemen's Hall were completed and each Lion received several chance books to disperse of before the party. Robert Daugherty is chairman of the card party committee.

Arrangements were made for a delegation to attend the Walkersville Ladies and Charter Night to be held there this month.

Local 4-H Club Elects Officers

The Emmitsburg Boys 4-H Club held its second meeting on March 21 at 7:30 under the direction of its local leader, Ray Valentine, assisted by Lloyd Fisher.

Thirteen boys are enrolled and each one decided on his project for the ensuing year. Some took calf raising, swine, chickens and sheep. Others preferred gardening. The leader presented a very interesting movie on soil conservation. The annual election of officers was held with the following results: President, Franklin Fisher; vice president, Dick Stambaugh; secretary and treasurer, Tom Hays; song leader, Euclid Jones and club reporter, Ray Harner.
