

Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

HIDE TO PIGSKIN

We're in the midst of that transition period from baseball to football. From sitting in the sweltering sun, perspiration rolling off our faces, we look ahead and see ourselves sitting huddled up under heavy clothes and a blanket, overshoes, mittens and seeing our very breath "freeze" as it leaves our lungs. . . . Course, this won't affect Emmitsburgians too much just yet because we're still baseball-minded enough to have games lined up clear through September. . . . Did you ever see such a baseball loving little town? The fact that our local baseball club is "slightly" playing late in the season, but the fans seem to love it so what heck, says I? We can see the pigskin games out at the Mount from October on. Until then, we'll settle for local baseball.

I TOLD YOU SO

For those of you who disapproved installation of parking meters here in Emmitsburg, it gives me great pleasure to announce that nearly a hundred of these little machines. Yep, they're a neat little source of income for our Town Treasury and will bring about many improvements in our Little Haven here that have been needed for a long time. . . .

A GENTLE PRODDING

Which reminds me to remind the Town Council that we still don't have the garbage collection that we were more or less promised us not too long ago. . . . Naturally, it takes time to put a project like that into operation, but frankly, the Town needs this feature so much that I urge you to act upon it as speedily as you can. A little walk along the alleys will show a mass of collected garbage and debris on properties that make perfect conditions for breeding filth and bacteria and causing epidemics of typhoid, etc. I'm well aware that our councilmen have many problems to be solved, but since this one directly can cause life or death couldn't some of the less important matters of state be shelved temporarily until the garbage collection is put into operation?

HUMAN RULEBOOK

Congratulations to Leonard Zimmerman on his extensive knowledge of baseball. More than once this season he has literally saved our necks by citing certain plays that even the umpires didn't know existed. . . . To substantiate his arguments "Legs" (as he is wont to be nicknamed for obvious reasons) gets out his little rule book and shows it to the umpires who blush and snort but can do nothing except to agree that the assistant coach is right. . . . Yes sir, without a doubt as long as Zimmy (did ja ever see a guy with more aliases?) is on the field watching the play so no one can pull any fast ones.

THANKS FELAS!

Also in line for a vote of thanks and appreciation is the local VFW who recently donated the merry-go-round to the local high school playground. This little gesture of generosity on the part of the Vets has them back a cool 300 berries but the fun and entertainment the kiddies will derive from it will more than compensate for the monetary value of the thing. I'm really proud of our local VFW Post here.

Recession Not Alarming

The current decline in employment is not critical, says the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia. In a midyear analysis of business conditions, the bank asserted that recession from post-war peaks has been "orderly and for the most part beneficial."

COMMISSIONERS MAY ASK STATE SCHOOL AID

Heavy Expenditures On County Schools Prompts Decision

The County Commissioners decided last Saturday to confer again with their attorney, Walter E. Sinn, on the possibility of giving notice to State authorities that they are interested in securing State aid for construction of new schools.

In a conference with their attorney, the commissioners received assurance that any notice they might give at this time was not binding upon them as far as spending the amount of money sought for the schools is concerned.

The Board of Education has asked the commissioners to join with them by resolution in seeking State aid for school construction projects estimated to cost $750,000 at Middletown and $250,000 at Liberty.

County Commissioner Samuel H. Young reiterated Saturday that he felt the commissioners should know what the actual cost will be before they seek state funds, made available by legislative act.

Mr. Sinn pointed out that the commissioners will be under no obligations to the State in connection with funds unless there is a written agreement. No such agreement is contemplated at present. It is more of a question of "getting our name in the pot," it was said.

Undoubtedly, said Board President U. Grant Hooper, who favors the resolution, the Board of Public Works wants to know about how much money each county may want in 1950 so it can prepare to issue bonds for the total amount.

The county gets an outright grant on a 3 to 1 basis for school construction funds up to a certain maximum from a State bond issue. It can participate, on a borrowing basis, from another bond issue for the remainder of the cost or it can issue its own bonds.

There was considerable discussion at Saturday's conference concerning the repayment of any money which might be borrowed from the State. For the first two years after such money is borrowed, the county would apparently pay only the interest, which has been reported as 1.2 per cent but must be definitely learned before any action can be taken.

In the following 13 years, the bond issue must be paid. A provision is made by which the county would levy six cents annually on each $100 for the payment of the bonds. This wouldn't be enough, Mr. Hooper declared. Mr. Young said he understood the interest rate of 1.2 per cent would extend for the life of the bond issue and for the full amount of the issue. Some of this interest money, it was conjectured, may go toward the payment of the principal under the plan, thus enabling the payment to be made on the six-cent levy.

The commissioner's attorney went over the salient points of both State bond issues with the commissioners. It appears that the resolution requested at this time would be filed, if it is made, with the State Board of Education, which recommends what projects shall be carried on to the Board of Public Works.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

Last week's column on the family names derived from the mercantile business was given as an introduction to the roll call of the merchants of Emmitsburg and vicinity to be started today.

MARTIN BROTHERS

Beginning at the east end of Town we start with the Martin Brothers, well-known merchants, dealers in coal and Checkerboard Products, both essential services to the community. Men of civic interests in the Town, unquestioned integrity in business, devoted churchmen, they constitute one of the foremost families of Emmitsburg today.

In the column of April 15, to which reference is now made, the name and meaning of Martin was set forth by request from an out-of-town reader of this paper. What was said then need not be repeated now except by way of brief summary. This name of Martin has a celestial origin. Coming down from the Roman God of War called Mars, the name was borne by the most distinguished families of ancient Rome. Baptized and consecrated in the New Testament, the name was carried by St. Mark, the writer of the Second Gospel. Thus, the name became the emblem of the Christian warrior. As such Martin became one of the foremost of all Christian names, popular among the heroes and saints. This honored name has shed a beautiful luster across the pages of history. And much of its merit is reflected in the Martin Brothers, merchants of our community.

BERNARD H. BOYLE

Moving up Main Street to ward the center of town, we come at the top of the hill to the palatial establishment of Mr. Boyle, widely-known merchant in staple groceries, implements, and frozen food lockers, he has for more than 15 years, been one of Emmitsburg's most widely-known merchants.

Someone has said that few men are known outside the community where they live. That is not true with Mr. Boyle. His name and business have become a household word among many people in neighboring communities. In particular this has been true with reference to his frozen food lockers used so widely by so many satisfied customers. This merchant likewise is one of those gracious men whose wide interests reach out beyond himself into the total welfare of the community. One among his extra interests is the local baseball club which he backs with enthusiasm.

The old telephone directory lists three families in Emmitsburg by the name of Boyle. In the column of July 19, this name was considered briefly. What was said then will be amplified a bit. This is a name derived from the legal profession to designate the Magistrate or Deputy official of the king in the administration of justice in a given judicial district. As such, the name of Boyle, from the beginning, has been associated with public service.

A request has been received from Pittsburgh concerning the name of Harney. This request will receive attention in next week's column.

New Legion Head Is World War II Veteran From Balto.

Maryland's new American Legion commander was elected at Baltimore this week. For the first time, the Legion has a veteran of the last war as its head.

Kenneth D. Hammer, a 28-year-old Baltimore lawyer, defeated John B. Zebelman, Jr., another Baltimore attorney and World War II veteran, by a 546-417 margin at the closing session of the organization's state convention.

Hammer served three years in the Army Air Corps as a staff sergeant and is a graduate of the University of Maryland Law School. He succeeds John D. Carman of Joppa.

The Legion went on record as favoring a state bonus of up to $500 per veteran for Marylanders who served in the past war. The resolution, approved overwhelmingly by the delegates, would provide payments of $10 for each month of foreign service.

A bill setting up a state bonus with the same rate of payments, was defeated in the last session of the State Legislature. It was estimated at that time, that such a bonus would cost the state almost $100,000,000.

Other officers elected at the session were Leslie J. Clark, Lonaconing, judge advocate; Anthony P. Valentine, Hagerstown, sergeant-at-arms, and Rev. Kenneth Buker of Cheverly, chaplain.

Slight Damage In Auto Crash

Mrs. Ella Buffington, Highfield, proceeding north on Rt. 32, one mile west of Emmitsburg, collided with a car driven by J. A. Byers, of Waynesboro, Pa.

Mr. Byers had stopped and was making a turn and backing into the highway when hit by the car driven by Mrs. Buffington.

The damages were estimated to be $10 to the Byers car and $200 to the Buffington car.

Trooper H. J. Brown investigated the accident which occurred at 3:30 last Sunday afternoon and charged Mrs. Buffington with reckless driving and Byers for parking on the highway. No one was injured.

Irate Ball Fan Protests Drinking At Contests

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: I wonder how many of you attend the baseball games in Emmitsburg as part of your relaxation? I know I do.

But when my enjoyment and relaxation is disturbed and imposed upon by a few "characters," who have a few too many drinks under their belt; that is more than I can take.

The few fans who must bring their drinks to the ball park are certainly ruining baseball in Emmitsburg. A few more unsightly and unsportsmanlike occurrences as such have happened in the past will end our most popular sport in Emmitsburg.

It even gives the community a poorly represented appearance when these so called "humorists" appear at the neighboring ball parks.

In the future, fans, let's please leave our drinks at home or at least away from the ball park during game time. And, if that doesn't work, then fans let's please leave the few home who must always show themselves in the most STUPID of all fashions.

SUNDAY BALL GAME BRINGS FAIRFIELD HERE

Opponents Are Runners-up In Adams Co. League

The Emmitsburg Baseball Club will cross bats Sunday at the Community Field in their second post-season baseball game.

A strong Fairfield team has been scheduled, game time at 2:30. In the Adams County League, Fairfield finished second in the league's standing with 17 wins and nine defeats.

Wins First Post-Season Game

In its first post-season game played here last Sunday, Emmitsburg trounced Westminster, 11-1. It was the first appearance of Westminster in a sporting event for many a year. A return game will be played sometime in September.

More than 150 fans saw Bud Warthen hurl his usual fine brand of ball. He allowed the visitors only six hits, while his teammates pounded two Westminster pitchers for fourteen base blows. Bud loves to bat just as well as pitch, as he collected four for five last Sunday.

Emmitsburg tallied one run in the first, one run in the second frame, three in the fourth, four in the fifth and two in the sixth stanza.

Girls' Game Scheduled

State Trooper H. C. Brown, who investigated the accident said that no charges were preferred in the case pending further investigation. Mr. Cool is too seriously injured to be questioned.

What A Lover!

RESERVOIR WORK NEARING COMPLETION

Improvement Will Give Town Plentiful Supply

The Emmitsburg Water Co., through its president, Samuel C. Hays, announced that work on the improvement of the local reservoir was progressing at an accelerated pace.

The aim of the water utility is to increase the capacity of the watershed from its present capacity of three million gallons to 20 million gallons.

For some months now, the president stated, work has been going on at a rapid pace and on the construction of the double-barrelled concrete spillway, more than 275 tons of cement and gravel have been consumed. Completion of the spillway is expected within the next week or 10 days. When this has been accomplished, it is believed that the project will be about half completed as much other construction to the reservoir is under way. Much excavating and hauling remains to be done on the project and Mr. Hays stated that with good weather prevailing it should be completed the next few months.

Award Offered For Name

Mr. Hays also announced this week a contest would be held for the people of Emmitsburg and its environs, to help select a new name for the reservoir. A prize of $10 will be awarded the winner. The name may be of a civic nature, or surname of some settlers in the district. Replies will be accepted at the Chronicle Press, either by phone or mail. The deadline for filing in the contest will be next Thursday, Sept. 1, 12 noon.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

Ralph S. Trigg, administrator of the National Production and Marketing Administration, has told American farmers that "we should never turn to production adjustments until we have exhausted all means of distribution, both at home and abroad."

His speech before potato growers in Maine has been called to the attention of Maryland farmers by Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of Maryland's Production and Marketing Administration Committee.

Mr. Trigg told the group, "I need to remind you that government potato price support programs have been costing far too much in recent years." He pointed to the production increases and declines in potato consumption per person and declared, "There is no easy answer—it seems obvious that in the long run potato producers will have to market more or produce less."

"Abundance must be a balanced abundance," he stated. "It does not one any good to have overproduction of commodities for which there is no effective market, and possibly an under production of some other crops which are needed."

"It is not enough for Congress to authorize farm programs, and for an agency in Washington to outline details and make them available. . . . The farmer himself must make the programs work. . . . Producers cannot expect the government to do it all," he continued.

1950 Program Announced

The 1950 Agricultural Conservation Program, announced recently by the Production and Marketing Administration of the Department of Agriculture, increased emphasis on conservation use of all farmland. The seeding of grass and legumes will be encouraged. This will stimulate a shift to livestock production and the building in the soil of food reserves for the future, according to Mr. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee.

To achieve a balanced abundant production, both for the present and the future, farmers cooperating in the Agricultural Conservation Program will be assisted in carrying out conservation practices on their farms. This assistance will be especially needed in 1950 to help bring about the better balance in total farm production made possible by recommended decreases in the acreage of a number of cash crops. For instance, the recently announced acreage allotment of 68.9 million acres for the 1950 wheat crop calls for a voluntary reduction of about 14 million acres from the acreage seeded for harvest in 1949. The 1950 program will aid farmers in carrying out conservation use practices on the land taken out of such crops.

The major provisions of the 1950 ACP are based on recommendations of farmers and their local committees, State PMA committees, soil and crop specialists of Land Grant Colleges, other USDA agencies, and State departments of agriculture. Legislation authorizing the program provides a basis for adapting to changing production patterns and food and fiber needs and for the adoption of the newer approved developments in conservation methods.

A state conservation practices outline for 1950 will go to all counties soon. Counties will select the practices which need local emphasis. This makes possible the operation of a county-wide conservation plan flexible enough to meet the conservation needs on individual farms.

Farmers will be able, under the 1950 ACP, to select practices which will help most in attaining their conservation objectives.

Available to all farmers, and administered by farmer-elected committees in every agricultural county in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, the 1950 Agricultural Conservation Program provides a means of accelerating the adoption of improved methods of soil and water conservation.

Assistance is in the form of materials such as lime, fertilizers and seed; services such as the use of power machinery in dirt moving practices; and reimbursement payments on conservation practices carried out under program specifications. The assistance available averages less than 50 per cent of the total "out-of-pocket" costs of approved practices, the farmer paying the rest of the cost.

Agricultural Conservation Program practices for 1950 will stress protecting soil from wind and water erosion, restoring and maintaining soil productivity, restoring and maintaining sustained yields on range and permanent pasture, conserving and obtaining efficient use of water for agriculture, and establishing, restoring and maintaining farm woodland at high levels of sustained yields.

Congress has authorized the initiation of a $285 million Agricultural Conservation Program for 1950. Assistance in the form of materials, services and financial aid is limited under the program to not more than $2500 per person.

Wheat Allotments Mailed

Farmers who have not received their wheat allotment for next year should get in touch with their County Agricultural Conservation Committee at once.

Mr. Blandford explains that the county offices have mailed allotment figures to all farmers listed as having a wheat production record. On the average, the allotments are calling for a reduction of about 18 per cent instead of 20 per cent reduction that was expected.

To Buy Canned Tomatoes

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced recently that it will offer to buy, on an offer and acceptance basis, approximately 650,000 cases of canned tomatoes of the 1949 pack, according to Mr. Blandford.

Offers must be received not later than 5 p. m. Sept. 16, and will be accepted not later than Sept. 27 for delivery during the period Oct. 17-Dec. 31.

Terms of offers will be sent to prospective suppliers, and further details of the program may be obtained from Bradford Armstrong, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, PMA, Washington 25, D. C.

Canned tomatoes under the offer announced today will be distributed to schools participating in the National School Lunch program throughout the continental United States, Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, and Hawaii. The commodities will be bought with funds made available under the National School Lunch Act.

Army Puts Ban On Hitch-hiking

Soliciting of free transportation (hitch-hiking) was forbidden this week for all military personnel in the Second Army Area. The directive, by command of Lt. Gen. L. T. Gerow, commanding the Second Army, was addressed to all Army posts and stations in the Area.

The Second Army Area includes in addition to Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Virginia, and W. Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The practice of hitch-hiking, the directive states, is unmilitary and not in keeping with the dignity, high standards of conduct and self-reliance to be expected of men in the service.

The directive adds that "this will not be construed to prevent the establishment of central agencies to arrange for rides . . . or to prevent members of the military establishment from accepting offers of rides voluntarily made by individuals or properly accredited organizations."

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

Maryland Grain Markets

Wheat and corn markets, following the national pattern, weakened throughout the state of Maryland during the week ended Aug. 19. Wheat declined about 3c per bushel on the Baltimore market. Yellow corn, both shelled and ear, dropped about 7c per bushel during the past week. Barley and oats remain unchanged on the Baltimore market. No. 2 yellow soybeans advanced about 4c per bushel during the week ended Aug. 19. There is poor demand for cash grain of all kinds, particularly feed types.

National Grain Market

Prices of most grains continued during the week ended Aug. 18. Winter wheat dropped 2 to 3c per bushel, but spring wheat advanced 4 to 5c, influenced by an active demand for millers who were replenishing stocks while supplies were plentiful and good selection was possible. Corn declined 5 to 10c per bushel, reflecting large remaining supplies, good new crop prospects, and the beginning of the 1949 harvest in Texas. Grain sorghums also turned weaker, influenced by the decline in corn prices and the limited demand for the new Texas crop being harvested. Rye declined under slow demand, despite reduced supplies this season. Flaxseed held steady while the soybean market advanced sharply on old crop seed, and about 6c per bushel on the new crop offerings.

The quality of the 1949 wheat crop produced in the winter wheat belt is materially lower than the good crop of last season and the 10-year, 1938-47 average. The quality of the soft red winter wheat is not quite up to that of the hard red winter wheat this season, as a result of unfavorable weather conditions during the ripening and harvesting periods. Thirty-four per cent of the receipts of red winter wheat inspected in July rated No. 2 or better, compared with 42% last season and 64% for the 1938-47 average. Twenty-five per cent of the inspections graded tough, compared with 19% for the 10-year average.

Maryland Feed Market

The Baltimore feed market was steady during the week ended Aug. 19. Brewers' dried grains advanced more than 4¢—$2.55 per ton higher. Soybean oil meal increased more than 2¢—$2.61 per ton higher. Standard bran declined more than 3¢ on the Baltimore market—$2.11 per ton less than last week. 16% dairy feed declined more than 2¢—$1.44 per ton less.

The broiler feed ratio was slightly more favorable for Maryland producers during the week ended Aug. 18. Broilers averaged 30.2c per pound (29.6c last week), while 20% broiler mash averaged $6.88 per ton on Lower Eastern Shore ($97.88 per ton last week). On this basis, one pound live weight of broilers would buy 6.2 pounds of feed (6.1 pounds last week).

National Feed Market
Feed stuff markets developed considerable weakness during the week ended Aug. 16. Further sharp declines in feed grains were the principal weakening influence. Wheat millfeeds dropped $2-$2.50 per ton. Corn byproduct feeds ranged from unchanged on gluten feed to about $3.75 lower on hominy feed. Cottonseed meal declined $3 per ton and linseed meal turned weaker as supplies became more plentiful. Soybean meal was independently firm and advanced $7-$8 per ton, which placed this feed far above its normal relationship with other feeds. Alfalfa meal was also higher than a week ago, reflecting scarcity of good quality hay.

On Aug. 1 farmers were feeding grain and other concentrates to their milk cows more liberally than for any other year since 1941, when data first became available. Milk cows in herds kept by these farmers were fed an average of 3.98 pounds of grain and other concentrates per head daily, which is about 10 per cent more than a year ago. The use of grain and feed by poultrymen also remained large. The number of potential layers on farms Aug. 1 was 5 per cent more than a year ago. Production of chicks during the first seven months this year was 24 per cent above the same period last year and the third largest output of record.

Poultry Pointers

By FREDERICK BLOCK

Egg Bound, Prolapsus and Cannibalism: all three conditions are closely associated and occur mostly at the time when pullets start laying. Egg bound is a bird trying to lay an egg unsuccessfully. (An alert poultry man discovers her, because she "complains plenty"). It may result from inflammation of the oviduct, or other internal reasons, it is, however, mostly caused by a too large egg. In this case one can help the bird by inserting a finger into the cloaca and manipulating with the other hand in order to get the egg rescued. The finger has to be lubricated with carbolized vaseline. If this is not successful, the end of the egg may be brought to a position that the shell is visible and held there while the shell is broken and the contents and pieces removed. Injections of cod water afterwards helps the bird to recover. She may be kept quite and separated for a couple of days to regain her "balance."

Prolapsus: Commonly called blowout results in the protrusion of the oviduct mostly caused by overstraining of the bird in her effort to lay; it follows mostly the condition "egg bound." Prolapsus can cause cannibalism if not discovered in time. (Preventive methods against cannibalism in next pointer).

A bird with prolapsus ought to be taken out of the flock immediately. It will be more practical to dispose of the bird instead of trying to cure her. Prolapsus is more frequently observed in white leghorn pullets than in any other variety or breed. It is not caused by double yolk eggs; it rather seems to be inherited, but it may be often invited by feeding the young pullets of more than three months' of age with too much mash and corn. It has been observed that pullets after three months of age until laying time suffered less prolapsus when fed up to 40% of their ration with oats, including the hulls. Do not overlook the fact that oats of less than about 40-lb. per bushel are the poorest chicken feed, if your homegrown oats do not weigh enough use them for better purposes than feeding chickens.

Unemployment Rises

Unemployment rose above 4,000,000 in July for the first time since Jan., 1942, according to a Census Bureau report. But the number of employed also increased, registering in July the highest figure—59,720,000—for 1942. This paradox is explained by the large number of high school and college graduates added to the list of job seekers.

Don't keep salt above the kitchen stove. Steam and heat frequently cause salt to harden, and iodized salt to lose its iodine content.

Four-Day Hunting Licenses Are Abolished

The four-day non-resident wild waterfowl license, which drew quite a number of purchasers to the state during the last duck hunting season, was eliminated this year by the State Legislature.

Non-residents who purchased this license for $5.50 in 1948, will apparently have to buy a full non-resident license, costing $15.50 if they desire to hunt ducks this year.

Abolition of the non-resident license was noted in the latest news release of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, which also lists the open hunting seasons for 1949, the first of which will get under way within a month.

These seasons are: Rabbits, Nov. 15-Dec. 31; wild turkeys, Nov. 15-Nov. 30; deer in Frederick County, Dec. 5-Dec. 10; squirrels, Sept. 15-Sept. 30; woodcock, Nov. 15-Dec. 14; muskrat and mink, Jan. 1-March 15; raccoon and opossum, Nov. 1-Jan. 31; ducks, geese and coots, Nov. 18-Dec. 27; mourning doves, Sept. 1-Sept. 30.

The dove season has been cut back 15 days and there is a change in the waterfowl season. Otherwise, the dates are about the same as last year.

The hunting licenses have been distributed to the clerks of the court of the various counties and to 92 license agents authorized to issue them. Fees are about the same as last year.

Sportswriters Have Preview Of Mountaineer Grid Prospects

Will 1949 be Mt. St. Mary's big football year?

This is the question Mason Dixon Conference supporters are asking.

The answer was partly unveiled Monday at Emmitsburg when the Mountaineers' publicity department held a preview of the college's new staff, new grid material, new gymnasium facilities and 1949 seasons plans for sportswriters.

Football writers from newspapers in Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Southern Pennsylvania and Western Maryland areas attended the preview.

Publicity Director John Dillon Jr. said more than a score of sportswriters and photographers assembled at Echo Field Monday at 2:30 p. m.

Athletic Director John Law introduced his recently acquired gridiron assistant, John McMahon, formerly of Notre Dame.

Then the first contingent of the 1948 varsity's returning lettermen were introduced. Next previewed were the substitutes, followed by recruits and newcomers.

Following the show of strength by the squad, photographing and interviewing of players, the newspapermen met with Director Law, football coaches and student managers for a "bull" session.

The visiting scribes were given supper at the Mount at 5:30 at the football training table, as guests of the college.

To Law and McMahon, previews for sportswriters were no novelty. They both went through them at Notre Dame. For the Mount, pre-season interviews was an innovation.

Overloading Law Catches Many Maryland Truckers

Of 124 cases of illegally overloaded commercial vehicles brought to trial by the Maryland State Roads Commission during the first half of August, 110 either forfeited bail or were found guilty, according to George N. Lewis, Jr., director of the commission's traffic division.

Vehicle operators in 10 more cases were found guilty but their out the state seeking, with the assistance of Maryland State Police, to enforce Maryland's road weight laws. Since Maryland began its drive against illegal weights last February, several other eastern states have intensified enforcement of weight laws.

A summary from February 14 to August 13 shows a total of 1,925 cases brought to trial with fines imposed in 1,749 cases, 116 instances of suspended fines, and one case where the defendant was jailed in default of payment of his fine. There were 137 cases still pending on August 14.

Miss Nancy Gerkin and Anna Marie Boyle of Emmitsburg, left last Sunday to spend a week's vacation at Atlantic City, N. J.
