By way of keeping the record straight as to where the steamed crabs that gave so many persons food poisoning at the recent Legion Crab Feast were purchased, here's the dope . . . It seems that there is an erroneous report around town that the seafood was bought from a LOCAL grocery store, consequently several merchants have noticed a very definite decline in their seafood sales since the disastrous night . . . Truth of the matter is the crabs were bought from a seafood concern in Baltimore, steamed there, and brought up here in barrels of ice for the Legion feast . . . So, for the love of mike, folks, don't be wary about buying seafood at our local markets . . . Their crabs, etc., have always been good and fresh in the past, haven't they? O. K.—and they haven't changed their policy a bit, believe me.

DON'T MISS THE DONKEY BASEBALL GAME HERE NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT.

NEW ARRIVALS

A boy at the Albert Orndorff's and a girl at the Louis Orndorff's and a boy at the Raymond Baker's . . . All of the tiny newcomers were born at the Annie M. Warner Hospital in Gettysburg.

SCHOOL DAYS HERE AGAIN

Wonder why all the kids have long faces these days . . . Couldn't be because school starts next week, could it? Poor little tykes!! It's gonna be hard on 'em to settle down to be back at 'learnin' again after running loose like little wild Indians all summer long . . . Now it'll be "early to bed, early to rise" what a dull life, eh kids?

Then there's the other group of little ones that can scarcely contain themselves till they start to school for the first time . . . Six years old, eager, little beavers who have been waiting for the eventful day when they can take that shiny new lunch box and book bag, pretty pencils 'n stuff to school for their nice new teacher . . . Poor, innocent little monkeys . . . Little do they realize that when they step foot in that classroom, they'll be going to classes continuously for the next ten, twelve, or maybe fifteen years, with responsibility getting greater and greater with each succeeding year . . . Oh yes, I know, school days are one's happiest days, they say, but personally I think that the pre-school stage is the most wonderful, carefree stage of all.

WHO CAN SOLVE THIS MYSTERY?

It's the end of the season and it's not worth fighting about now, but I can't help wondering what strings Littlestown pulled to have Weaver, their ace pitcher, who was declared ineligible to play in the Penn-Maryland League, reinstated . . . Littlestown had to forfeit every game in which Weaver played at the recent meeting of the league association . . . Now, I'm informed they've gotten them back . . . Emmitsburg, of course, hasn't been extended any such courtesy. Shakespeare would say, "there's something rotten in the state of Denmark," but me I'd say, it's in Wakefield, eh Mr. Coe?

A LITTLE LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT

Had occasion to ride through our neighboring Taneytown this week and was vastly impressed with their fine new street lights. Would that we could have these antiquated jobs of ours replaced with new, modern lamps that really light up the streets rather than just throw eerie shadows on a tiny area within a radius of a couple feet of the pole itself. Really, our street lights are of no use,

GRID PROSPECTS BRIGHT THIS YEAR AT MT. ST. MARY'S

Press Gets Preview
Of 1949 Team;
Initial Practice Held

Gathering before members of the press Monday afternoon at Echo Field, Coach John Law ran his protegee football candidates through their initial workout of the season.

Both Coach Law and Public Relations Manager John J. Dillon entertained members of the press from Emmitsburg, Frederick, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Baltimore, Washington and Harrisburg. At the termination of the picture-taking and talking over the Mount's prospects this year, supper was served the press representatives.

Some 40 young athletes took the field for the first workout and from all indications Mt. St. Mary's will have a banner season.

Spearheading the Blue and White aggregation this year will be none other than Fullback Walt Belardinelli, the alert ground-gainer of last year's contests, and who is considered for the Little All-America honors. Belardinelli, coming from Bethel, Conn., garnered 10 touchdowns in 6 games last season and gained 800 yards net to be runner-up for Mason-Dixon Conference and national honor.

Other returning first-string players returning for the new season include Marty Green, an able passer and kicker; Jack Curran, who holds letters for both baseball and football and the co-captains, Ed Quarry and Jack Vonderlehr.

Coach Law informed the press he will use the intricate "T" attack again this season and hopes his hard drilling will effect a more polished performance than last year when the mentor had only two weeks to practice this formation on his squad.

Law was one of Notre Dame's great stars and was noted as being one of Knute Rockne's vaunted "watch-charm" guards. He was coach at Manhattan College until 1931, when he accepted a position with the New York Department of Correction. In 1947 he returned to coaching at Notre Dame as assistant to Coach Frank Leahy and entered service of the Mount last year.

McMahon Great Help

Assisting the grid chief is John McMahon, a newcomer to the Blue and White colors this year. He is a freshman from Notre Dame's victorious teams of the last three years and was a three-letter man there. McMahon promises to be a great asset to the Mountaineers as a backfield coach.

Belardinelli, expected to make All-America rating this year, is a strapping, 6-foot back, weighing 190 pounds.

Marty Green, a lightweight, weighing 165, was handicapped by injuries last year but his record for passing and kicking was excellent. He reported Monday in fine physical condition and is expected to be a great help to the team this season.

Adding extra caliber to the Mount's grid staff are Trainer Wally Opekun, who has been with the college the past 15 years; Joseph Velky, end coach and Arthur Malloy. Art has been associated with the Blue and White since 1915, having been graduated there. He has retired from active coaching, but will act as chief advisor to Law.

Press representatives were well pleased with the accommodations and reception given by the college and expressed the desire for a more solid relations plan with officials. Those papers represented at the gathering were Emmitsburg Chronicle, C. A. Elder; Cumberland Times and News, J. McMullen, managing editor, J. Suter Kegg and William E. Kelly; Cumberland Times; Baltimore Evening Sun, Harry Beaudouin; Evening Sun photographer; Gettysburg Times, Paul Roy; Washington Post, Herb Heft; Associated Press, George Bowen; Harrisburg Patriot-News, Izzy Katzman; Gettysburg Times, Hen Roth and two Frederick News-Post sports writers.

Covered Wagon To Arrive Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the day set for the arrival of the Covered Wagon. Mayor Thornton W. Rodgers and the Commissioners will welcome the historical vehicle upon its arrival on the Square. Many items of interest garnered from the pioneer days will be placed on display and the driver, Mr. Bowen will answer questions to those seeking information on the Old West. The wagon is journeying from Washington, D. C., to Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

For most of the children of Emmitsburg and a lot of grown ups, too—the arrival of an authentic covered wagon, drawn by a matched team of western "paint" horses and driven by a bearded, booted 49'er, will make Saturday, Sept. 3, a sort of historical holiday.

This covered wagon will make a 16-day trek from the steps of the Capitol at Washington, D. C., to the main entrance of Wyoming Valley's famed Parade of Progress Exposition at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., for the sole purpose of reminding folks along the way that there are as many new frontiers for the 1949'er as there were for the 1849'er.

Mayor Thornton W. Rodgers and Commissioners will welcome the wagon at three o'clock on the Square.

Arlean Bowman, the 49'er driver of the covered wagon, is an authority on the covered wagon days and his beard is as authentic as the equipment he will use.

Wyoming Valley Junior Chamber of Commerce, with headquarters at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., selected Emmitsburg as one of the stops on the covered wagon's route because of its historical significance dating back to the days of '49 and before.

As the wheels of the covered wagon roll through city, town, and hamlet, it is hoped that the spirit of the 49'er will be rekindled in young and old.

Arlean Bowman, the driver of the covered wagon told the Emmitsburg Chronicle in a telephone interview that he will be "mighty happy to accommodate the children in Emmitsburg in question answering."

Mr. Bowman, a bearded giant of a man and a student of frontier history, loves a warm "shake my hand" better than anything, he says.

The anthracite area Junior Chamber group is financing this journey in '49 style as a means of promoting frontier spirit which is the theme of its nationally famous Parade of Progress Exposition that opens in Wilkes-Barre on Sept. 16.

Mr. Bowman, when asked what frontiers are left for world-wide wise 1949'ers, gave a pleased little click with his tongue and replied:

"Today's frontiers aren't behind the next mountain, brother, they're just as apt to be right in your own back yard."

The driver will gladly pose for pictures and show all the fascinating century-old relics to be carried in the wagon.

O'Donoghue Improving 5 and 10c Store

Mr. John A. O'Donoghue, proprietor of the Novelty 5 and 10c Store, this week announced that extensive alterations were under way in remodeling his store.

Among the new improvements was the installation of new show counters, tearing out the back partition, thereby doubling the floor space and also doubling the shelving, and buying in all new stock.

Mr. O'Donoghue stated that he is introducing a new line of men's furnishings and also an elaborate inventory of kitchen ware.

A new coat of paint also brightens the storeroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kugler and daughter, Dianne, Pittsburgh, Pa., are spending this week at the home of Mr. Kugler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kugler.

Personals

Mrs. Paul Hofstetter, Washington, D. C., spent a week here with her mother, Mrs. Albert Adelsberger.

Mrs. John Zacharias returned home last Friday after spending several days with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zacharias of Maine.

Mrs. Albert P. Adelsberger and daughters, Emily and Alice, and Mrs. Mae Lowe visited over the week-end at the home of Mrs. Emerson Smith, Beckley, W. Va. Mrs. Smith is Mrs. Adelsberger's sister-in-law.

"Corn" Game Next Thursday

An old-fashioned "corn" game for the benefit of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg, will be held Thursday evening, Sept. 8, at eight o'clock by the Sodality of the church. The affair will be held in the church grove, weather permitting, and everyone is welcome.

Work In Progress On Straightening Seton Ave. Curve

Working crews of the State Roads Commission this week began the elimination of the sharp curve in front of St. Joseph's Catholic Church on N. Seton Ave.

The new brick wall, which was just built three years ago, has been dismantled and the sidewalk torn up. Several large trees have also been uprooted.

Several months ago the church donated a strip of the front portion of the graveyard to the State. The portion was approximately 9 by 100 feet. The curve has been the scene of several serious accidents in recent years and one woman was fatally injured there.

State Roads spokesmen said the old brick wall will be replaced by a wire fence supported by steel posts which will eliminate the "blind" corner of DePaul St. and N. Seton Ave.

SELLS FARM

George T. Keech, Baltimore real estate broker, formerly of Creagerstown, negotiated the sale for Charles H. Lottes and wife of their farm near Motters, to Bernard J. Retz and wife of Baltimore.

REGULAR FEATURE

MISSING THIS WEEK

The regularly-published column, "What's Your Name?" was excluded from this week's paper because of lack of space. It will be resumed in next week's issue.

OBSTRUCTION REMOVED

Michael Orndorff, eighteen-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Orndorff, Emmitsburg, was a patient at St. Agnes' Hospital, Baltimore, from Friday until Sunday where he underwent a bronchoscope operation for the removal of a piece of chicken which had lodged in his esophagus last Thursday evening.

The Zimmerman property which houses the Roger Liquor Store was vastly improved this week when a new tin roof was placed over the property. Lingg and Crouse were the contractors.

PROGRESS BEING MADE IN FORMING NEW LEAGUE

Meeting Held In Westminster;
Another Scheduled

A delegation of the Emmitsburg Baseball Assn. met with other representatives of the proposed Mason-Dixon League Monday night in Westminster.

Represented at the baseball caucus were Emmitsburg, Taneytown, McSherrystown, Westminster, Reisterstown, Frederick and Hanover.

By-laws were drawn up, player limit set, registration deadline set and number of players on rosters determined.

A decision was arrived at on the player roster question when it was agreed to allow a manager to have 25 players listed during any one season. Under the proposed setup clubs can obtain players from any distance as well as the use of college boys. No club can use another player living within five miles of the town he is to play for unless that player is given permission or release by the manager. In case of any disputes over the eligibility of any players or protests, a three-man arbitration board will settle the matter.

Final formation of the league was set for the first week in October. A meeting of some of the teams in the Penn-Maryland League will be held in Emmitsburg in the near future to determine their status in that circuit. It is believed by those concerned that Thurmont, Taneytown, Blue Ridge Summit, Hanover, Littlestown, McSherrystown and Emmitsburg will decide to withdraw from the Penn-Maryland League at this meeting and associate themselves with the new Mason-Dixon League.

Dissension is rife in the ranks of the Penn-Maryland League and many of these clubs are displeased with the setup, and especially with the officials of that organization.

Fairfield Loses To Locals In Sunday Game

The Emmitsburg baseball team continued its win streak in post-season games.

Fairfield, runners-up in the Adams County League, fell prey to the local nine by a 10-4 score in a game played here last Sunday.

Three Emmitsburg hurlers, Kelly, Hollinger, and Warthen, effectively held the visitors to five hits, while their teammates were collecting 10.

Jim Donaldson, Fairfield shortstop, had quite a day for himself, collecting three of Fairfield's five hits. Emmitsburg's offensive mainly came from the bats of H. Deardorff and Warthen, each getting two hits apiece.

AWAY SUNDAY

The local nine travels to Martinsburg, W. Va., Sunday to play its third post-season game. Bud Warthen will probably be the choice of Manager Leonard Zimmerman for the hurling assignment.

GAME LABOR DAY

Emmitsburg baseball fans will not be without a game Labor Day. President D. L. Beegle announced this week that a game will be played at 2:30 on the local field between Emmitsburg and Motters Station.

The Motters' team has had a very successful season and has been wanting to "get a crack" at the locals for some time.

COALITION BEING PLANNED BY LOCAL POLITICOS

Indifference Of County Leaders Is Blamed For Move

A move toward coalition of political parties in some of the rural districts of Frederick County in an effort to assure greater official representation of the more remote districts in next year's general election is reported underway in Emmitsburg.

Comment designed to seek the same results has been heard in other rural districts since the 1946 election, it was recalled this week.

One of the Republican leaders of Emmitsburg District is suggesting that a mass meeting of all voters in the district be called to give united support to candidates from the rural districts.

The complaint, it was pointed out, is that in recent elections only those candidates who reside in Frederick have been able to get elected, with few exceptions.

Political leaders in Frederick say they have heard rumblings for several years about the apparent futility of rural residents to win public office. They say party leaders in many of the County election districts have talked of doing something to assure the election of more candidates from districts other than Frederick.

They pointed out that Delegates Joseph H. Payne of Brunswick and William E. Hauser of Myersville and Orphans' Court Judge William C. Roderick of Woodsboro, were the only officials elected three years ago from the entire County outside of Frederick District. Many of those elected were formerly from rural districts, and one, Commissioner Robert R. Rhoderick has moved back into Mt. Pleasant District. Judge Rhoderick resided for years in Frederick.

The movement to assure election of more rural residents may gain considerable momentum before the general election next year, it is believed by some political leaders. They say the two major parties would be inclined to seek more rural residents for their respective tickets, but recent elections have shown that it is becoming more and more difficult to elect men and women from outside of Frederick District.

Some favorable response is reported in the Emmitsburg section to the proposal to unite support for candidates from the rural areas. No date has been set, it was said, for the proposed mass meeting of Emmitsburg District residents.

If the movement meets with success here, it was said, it will be extended into Thurmont District with hopes of eventually setting up organizations in all of the rural election districts.

Legion Team Plays Williamsport Sunday

Two baseball games will be played Sunday on the Community field, the first game beginning at 1:30.

The newly-formed American Legion Juniors, boys up to 16 years of age, will cross bats with the Williamsport Legion Juniors. The 'Sporters, member of the Legion League, were runners-up in league competition, promises to have a strong team here. The local juniors were not a member because of the lateness in forming the team.

While the local nine have two wins and only three losses so far this season, Manager Jack Rosentsteel believes they will defeat the visitors.

Jack said today he plans to start "Pinhead" Mick on the mound Sunday. Don Little will do the catching. Probable lineup follows: Chrismer, 3b, J. Joy, 1b, Gordon, ss, Sterbinsky, lf, Walter, cf, McNair, 2b, and Greco, rf.

Shoe Factory Plays Motters

The second half of the double-header will find the Hanover Shoe Factory playing Motters Station. The factory team is managed and directed by Mr. Dethridge.

Writer Raps AMA In Article;

Terms Association Biggest Lobby

By C. W. BUCHER

For a long time the insurance companies and the railroads were considered tops in the lobby business in Washington. They were what they were because they operated behind the scenes. No one seemed aware of their presence. By invisible action they could pour into Washington a tremendous pressure from back home which didn't seem to be coming from any lobby anywhere.

But the American Medical Assn. now has them both beaten. It has taken their idea and improved upon it. The backbone of the AMA lobby is the 140,000 member doctors scattered throughout the country, most of whom have the highest standing in their communities, are in close touch with important people, and sooner or later are in touch with almost everybody.

This army of physicians has now been tightly organized into an efficient lobby by the AMA under the skilled direction of past masters in the game, the public relations firm of Whitaker and Baxter. It is armed with several million dollars contributed by the doctors themselves under the AMA's assessment of $25 a head.

The firm of Whitaker and Baxter, which has handled many such lobbying campaigns in the past against a whole series of progressive measures in California, has set up a general in every state who works through the State Medical Society and the 3,000 county societies organized throughout the county to keep the drive rolling. The propaganda themes are developed by Whitaker and Baxter and passed down to the doctors in every community through this distributing machine. The doctors feed it to their patients, to their local organizations and papers, and to their Congressmen.

Like that of the skillfully planned railroad and insurance lobbies, the aim of the AMA campaign is to make the resulting pressure on Congress seem like a grass roots revolt, without directed inspiration of any kind. This is done by getting other people to front for the organized profession in applying pressure on the Congressmen. And at the

Letter to the Editor
Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle
Dear Sir:

Are you aware of the dangers of fluorescent lights? If not, will you please read the article in the Readers Digest issued in September.

I am a paper hanger and I find many of these lights in homes. When I take them down I inquire if they know anything about them. So far, not one has ever heard of the danger inside of one. I think it would be a wonderful service to the people of Emmitsburg if you would give some space in your newspaper in a prominent place where everyone will be sure to see and read it.

A SUBSCRIBER

Editor's Note—I have not had the opportunity of reading the article mentioned in the Digest, heart of this program is the "scare" technique.

A doctor, talking to his patient, may quietly slip into his conversation a warning that if socialized medicine is adopted by the government, he is going to stop practicing medicine. The patient who has depended upon that doctor for years, is quickly alarmed and writes his Congressman an angry letter about "socialized medicine," although in most cases neither he nor the doctor could even give a rough outline of how the proposed National Health Insurance program would work.

If you want to know how little most doctors know about the terms of the bill, write to the Committee for the Nation's Health Kellogg Bldg., Washington, D. C., and get material describing the legislation. Then try it out on your doctor.

But this has nothing to do with the influence of doctors in their communities. They have more influence on this subject than anyone else in the community. Even in debate, the public is likely to take the side of the doctor regardless of the merits of the argument—unless there is a doctor opposing him. And, of course, there are few doctors who will stick their necks out unnecessarily to buck the AMA on this issue, even if they have grave misgivings about the position the powerful AMA has taken. A doctor who thinks maybe health insurance would be a good idea keeps quiet because he knows most of his colleagues feel otherwise and may begin to shun him if he talks too much.

Here's what happened to a prominent doctor—one who was well enough established to speak out. He was a professor of pediatrics at a state university. Early this year, this doctor joined with a group of 130 prominent doctors all over the country, headed by a noted physician at Johns Hopkins, in a public protest to the American Medical Assn. over the collection of the $3,000,000 lobby fund. They urged that the money be used by the AMA to work out a better medical system rather than be spent on lobbying against the President's health program.

but will most certainly do so at the earliest possible moment. Perhaps it would be wise if all our readers would follow the advice of the subscriber and read the suggested article on fluorescent lights. The use of fluorescent lights is really hazardous to our well-being as our writer indicates, certainly it would be to our advantage to become cognizant of it.

None Injured In Two Accidents

No one was injured in two highway accidents in the northern section of the County over last week-end.

Herbert Joe Wolf, Thurmont Rt. 2, was charged with reckless driving by State Trooper Kenneth Bond, after Wolf's car had collided with a trailer belonging to Gordon K. Douglas, Mentor, O. Both vehicles were damaged. The collision occurred in Emmitsburg about 10:30 o'clock last Saturday night.

Robert Lee Baumgardner, Emmitsburg Rt. 2, was also charged with reckless driving when his car collided about 7:25 o'clock last Sunday night on Rt. 15 near the Franklinville school house with a car operated by John August Holmes, Baltimore. The collision occurred on a curve with the highway a little wet, Trooper Bond reported. Both cars were considerably damaged.

Fred Bower Opens New Filling Station

The opening of their new combination restaurant-filling station by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bower was announced this week.

Mr. Bower formerly operated the Neighborhood Service Station but was recently refused an extension of his lease by the owner, Mr. Neighbours. Mr. Bowers' new establishment is located at Zora on the junction of Routes 16 and 116.

Mr. Bower said today that he is planning to serve meals and soft drinks at his new place of business. A large picnic grounds is in the process of being constructed along Miney Branch which flows through the property.

While open for business at the present time, the proprietor said that a new filling station was to be built by the Shell Oil Co. in the near future. The place was formerly operated by Ralph Mas-ser.

NEW YARN SHOP

TO OPEN HERE

Mrs. Bruce Peppler and daughter, Miss Doris Peppler, have announced their intention of opening a yarn shop in the very near future.

The shop will be located at 400 W. Main St. Arrangements are being made with several yarn companies to handle their cottons and wools.

Mrs. Peppler will specialize in the knitting end of the business while her daughter will handle the crocheting side of it.

Miss Barbara Eckels of Taneytown, is visiting a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wolfe of Emmitsburg.

The gauges on many home pressure canners are out of order. The gauge should be checked and cleaned regularly.

Storage News

Farmers, with corn harvest just around the corner, are trying to beat the deadline on storage construction and repair. New information concerning help available through Government programs has been called to their attention by Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee.

He states that the Commodity Credit Corporation has contracted to buy nearly 14,000 bin-type grain storage structures, with a capacity of nearly 113,000,000 bushels. All these structures are of the semi-permanent type—they can be dismantled and moved to other locations, and converted to other uses, when they're no longer needed by the CCC. These bins are a major step toward the total objective of 500,000,000 bushels of storage capacity.

He adds that the CCC has extended its invitation for bids. It now will take offers for delivery within 60 days of the date of acceptance. Previously, that limit had been 30 days. The idea is to help the corporation get additional storage space for corn and other grains expected to be acquired under price support programs.

And the corporation's storage loan program is well under way. The program to help farmers increase their storage capacity, and to assure storage space for crops produced in this and later years. The CCC will guarantee loans made by local lending agencies to producers, for the construction of more storage facilities on your farm, or some nearby location. "If you can't get credit from other sources, or if you'd prefer not to, the CCC will make the loans direct," Mr. Blandford explains.

When a producer is eligible—who now will additional storage space and/or near his farm, to store his own grain production. The Agricultural Conservation Committee in your county has the application forms, and will help you make out your application. Materials needed for building storage are readily available in most places—this program intends to increase quickly the total available farm storage capacity.

Price Support Announced

Details of the price support program for 1949-crop corn have been announced. Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee explains that Maryland farmers may count on 90% of the corn parity price as of October 1, 1949. The support will be brought about by the use of farm-storage and warehouse-storage loans as well as by purchase agreements.

With a few exceptions, loans and purchase agreements will be available from time of harvest through May 31, 1950, and will mature on July 31, 1950. Producers who elect to deliver corn under a purchase agreement must notify their county conservation committee within a 30-day period before maturity.

In areas where producers cannot store corn safely for the full storage period because of climatic conditions, insect infestation, or other factors affecting safe storage, the loans and purchase agreements will be available from time of harvest through a date earlier than May 31, 1950, as may be determined by State Production and Marketing Administration Committees. In these instances, the delivery dates for farm storage loans and purchase agreements also may be advanced but no advance will be made in delivery dates for warehouse storage loans.

Corn placed under loan must, except for moisture content, grade U. S. No. 3, or better, or No. 4 on test weight only, and meet the moisture requirements for safe storage. Corn delivered under a purchase agreement must grade U. S. No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only.

The program will be administered in the field through PMA Commodity offices. State PMA committees, and county agricultural conservation committees.

Oyster Canning Dwindling Gradually

Oyster canning, which got its start in Chesapeake Bay, is a dead industry in Maryland, but thrives elsewhere. This fact was brought out in a report of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service along with other bits of information about the oyster.

To Marylanders the oyster is a frequent news story, but the Fish and Wildlife Service came up with some points worth recalling:

Oysters are an excellent source of the "protective" nutrients: proteins, minerals, and vitamins. They exist in three types: the Eastern, ranging from Massachusetts to Texas; the Pacific, which is cultivated on the Pacific Coast from seed imported from Japan, and the Olympic, which is the smallest of all and is found mainly in one small section of Puget Sound in Washington. Only the Eastern and the Pacific types are canned.

The oyster canning industry is thriving in Louisiana, Mississippi and Washington. In all there are four plants.

Of the 80 million pounds of oyster meats produced annually in the United States, 13 per cent are canned and the rest sold fresh-shucked or in the shell.

The popular oyster season extends from September through April, but canning usually takes place only from January through April.

Bible Class Holds Monocacy Outing

The Brotherhood Bible Class of Elias Lutheran Church held an outing for its members last Thursday evening along the Monocacy River on the Jacob Adams property. Approximately 75 attended the affair.

Dr. George R. Miller, Marsh Creek Heights, and Edgar G. Emrich, retired navy officer, gave short addresses to the group.

Mr. Henry Charlton, local instructor at Emmitsburg High School was a guest speaker also.

Entertainment was provided by Harry and Ralph McDonnell and Weldon Shank, who played string music. A quartet composed of Harry Troxell, Gary Troxell, Ralph McDonnell and George McDonnell gave several vocal renditions of folk and spiritual songs.

Now Is Time To Check Chimney

Summer is a good time to check chimneys for fire hazards, reminds A. V. Krewatch, Extension Agricultural Engineer at the University of Maryland.

The way to detect a chimney leak, he advises, is to build a small smudge fire of damp grass or rags in the furnace or stove. Cover the top of the chimney. Any place where smoke escapes is a trouble spot.

Present building codes require that a chimney be built with a flue liner and that it extend from a solid foundation at ground level up through the structure. Many old chimneys, however, do not have flue liners, according to Mr. Krewatch, and when mortar between bricks falls out there is a fire hazard from sparks on the roof.

There is special danger, he points out, where the chimney intersects the attic floor or roof. Mr. Krewatch suggests raking out old mortar and replacing it with new. If too much of this sort of work needs to be done, better tear off the whole top of the chimney and rebuild it.

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

GRAIN MARKET

Summary for Maryland

Maryland wheat markets gained 2 to 4 cents per bushel during the week ended August 26. Demand is light. Yellow corn was about steady throughout the state. Barley and oats remain unchanged on the Baltimore market, with demand fair. Yellow soybeans have virtually disappeared from the market with demand heavy.

National Summary

Grain markets turned firmer during the week ended August 25, following a month of declining prices, reports of the Department of Agriculture indicate. Wheat markets were steady and advanced 2 to 3 cents a bushel during the week, with the principal strength in winter wheat, offerings of which were light. Rye advanced around 3 cents per bushel, influenced by lighter marketings and by strength in Canadian markets. Corn gained 3 to 5 cents per bushel, following a drop of nearly 20 cents during the past month. Reduced marketings as the result of low prices, which have been well under loan values, contributed to the firmer situation. Oats and barley gained strength with corn, but were influenced also by lighter offerings. The higher prices for oils were reflected in a firm market for oil seed. Flaxseed advanced to the support level at Minneapolis, while prices of old crop soybeans gained about 15 cents per bushel at Chicago. Grain sorghum was steady to slightly higher, despite an increased movement of new crop grains in Northern Texas.

FEED MARKET

Summary for Maryland

The Baltimore feed market, following the national trend, averaged higher for the week ended August 26. Soybean meal continued very scarce and increased over 4% on the Baltimore market ($5.41 per ton higher than last week). During the past month soybean meal has shown increases totaling almost 14%. Dehydrated alfalfa meal advanced over 4% during the past week—$3.14 per ton higher. Dairy feeds advanced 2 to 3% on the Baltimore market.

Meat scrap declined over 3% on the Baltimore market—$5.35 per ton less than a week ago. Standard middlings decreased over 2%—$1.59 per ton less. Brewers' dried grains declined about 2%—$1.20 per ton less than last week.

The broiler-feed ratio was more favorable for Maryland producers for the past week. Broiler prices averaged 31.3 cents per pound while 20% broiler mash averaged $96.14 on lower Eastern Shore. One pound of broilers, live weight would buy 6.5 pounds of feed.

National Summary

Feedstuff prices, taken altogether, made further advances during the week ended August 23, despite plentiful supplies and declining prices of feedgrains, reports to the Department of Agriculture indicated. The higher feedstuff prices reflect principally further advances in scarce oilseed meals. Supplies of most grain by-product feeds were plentiful and prices ranged from steady to slightly lower. The index of feedstuff prices moved up over two points, to 238.1 compared with the feed grain index of only 127.7 which was down slightly from the previous week. A year ago the feedstuff index was 212.5 and the feed grain index 239.7.

The production of grain by-product feeds in July was down slightly from the June output and totaled a little less than 639,000 tons.

CANNIBALISM, which means eating flesh from its own kind may be disastrous for a flock owner if this happens with his birds, and he does not discover it in time.

The most common cause is feather picking, blow outs and crowding of many birds in too limited space. The chicken's ancestor, which was just as able to fly as other wild birds, lived mainly from meat in form of small animals, insects, and worms. Today, the chicken still prefers insects and worms.

As soon as there is a blow out in a flock with blood perceivable the nearest chicken will start pecking the injured part of its "neighbor," and it will not take long for many chickens to start pecking the injured bird until the victim has been killed. When birds get acquainted with the taste of blood and like it they may hunt for more of it and fight and peck and kill each other.

It frequently happens that only a small percentage of birds survive such an outbreak. This can happen when you get excited noticing such situation and you may not act quickly enough. Take first all injured birds out and darken the room so that birds can not see each other; this will check the situation temporarily. But do not leave the room darkened for a time, because sudden change of light can cause a laying bird to molt.

A good method to check cannibalism is to give the birds alternately salt for half a day in the drinking water, and salt free water to drink for the other half day. One to two tablespoons of salt per gallon of water is the right proportion. It will check feather picking and cannibalism in most cases.

If you do not want to take the chance of forgetting to change the water you may mix salt into feed. If fed all mash, mix up to 2% (do not forget that commercial mash contains 1% salt). If you feed grain and mash, increase the salt content of the mash up to 4% until controlled, however, not longer than three to four days in a row. When birds have free choice of oats in their ration, cannibalism has been rarely observed, but too much oats can cause other trouble as pendulous crops or impacted gizzards. Mechanical devices attached to the chicken, a beak prevent feather picking and cannibalism, another method is cutting back the top of the upper mandible of the beak to such a point that pecking is painful for the attacking bird.

CANNIBALISM IN TURKEYS can be controlled the same way as in chickens, but the most practical way is ringing the turkey's beak with rings, which you can obtain from your turkey supply dealer. You need for the procedure a specially manufactured pair of pliers. It is advisable to have an experienced "ringer" attach the rings to your turkeys to avoid injuring them.

Maryland Gains Industrially Annually

During 1948 Maryland gained 277 new industrial firms, according to the Directory of Maryland Manufacturers issued by the department of labor and industry.

Of the new firms listed in the directory, 188 are in Baltimore and the remainder in the various counties.

Talbot County listed the highest gain with 20. Other gains were shown in Frederick County with 14, Carroll County 4, and Washington County 1.

Plant Now For New Garden Yield

The home garden can be kept producing far into the fall if new crops are sown at this time. Seeds of turnips, spinach, kale, radish, beets, and leaf lettuce are among those that may still be planted. Plants such as cabbage, broccoli and endive may be set out for fall use, according to Edward K. Bender, vegetable specialist at the University of Maryland.

If no more plantings are to be made, preparations for sowing a cover crop are in order, he says. A mixture of annual rye grass and crimson clover will hold the soil in place over winter and make a good growth to turn under next spring. One pound of the rye grass and one-half pound of crimson clover will seed a garden 50 feet by 100 feet. For an acre, use 10 pounds of rye grass and five of crimson clover.

AMA Termed Biggest Lobby In Country By Out-of-Town Writer

The AMA did not like this one bit. It cracked back at the group publicly in the sharpest terms. But it did its dirtiest work privately. The pediatrician, for instance, had been invited by the professor at the University of Arkansas to give a post-graduate lecture to practicing physicians at Little Rock on the subject of the feeding and immunization of babies. As a pediatrician, he was an expert in the field.

A few days after the public protest signed by the doctor and others was made public, the announcement of his forthcoming lecture was published in Arkansas. One of the leaders of the Arkansas Medical Society is a member of the AMA committee handling the $3,000,000 propaganda campaign against the President's health program. Within a few days, the pediatrician got this letter, signed by the State Health Officer of Arkansas.

"Dear Sir:—

This letter is being written to you as a result of a special request made by the Arkansas State Medical Society and the Pulaski County Medical Society, with reference to your appointment as a special consultant in pediatrics for the Arkansas State Board of Health for the post-graduate course to be conducted at the University of Arkansas School of Medicine, Little Rock, during the period March 10th to 12th, inclusive, 1949.

The Arkansas State Medical Society and the Pulaski County Medical Society have been advised through authoritative sources that you were one of the 136 signers of certain papers and documents severely criticizing the American Medical Association. Through this action on your part, the Arkansas State Medical Society and the Pulaski County Medical Society requests that you not appear on the post-graduate pediatric course to be conducted on the above referred dates.

This department sincerely regrets that this most embarrassing situation has arisen and further regrets that it is necessary to cancel your appointment as special consultant for the Arkansas State Board of Health."

SCHUMACHER-KEILHOLTZ

The Elias Evan. Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, was the scene of a wedding by candlelight at eight o'clock last Saturday evening, when Catherine Hele. Keilholtz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Keilholtz of Taneytown R.D., became the bride of Rev. Verle Clifton Schumacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Schumacher of Leechburg, Pa.

The bride's pastor, Rev. Philip Bower, assisted by Dr. H. D. Hoover, of the Lutheran Seminary of Gettysburg, officiated at the wedding at which the double ring ceremony was used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the traditional bridal gown of the Schumacher family fashioned with a tight bodice of imported lace and a full skirt of marquisette. Her fingertip veil fell from a beaded coronet halo as she carried a white Bible, a gift of the groom, from which fell a shower of red rosebuds.

Mrs. John Minarik, sister of the groom, was matron of honor in a blue taffeta faille gown, carrying a bouquet of red roses and wearing red roses in her hair. Mrs. Robert Lessig, sister of the groom, was a bridesmaid wearing a rose taffeta faille gown, while she carried a bouquet of red roses and wore the same kind of flowers in her hair. Miss Iona and Fae Schumacher, bridesmaids, and sisters of the groom, wore gowns of pink, and carried pink rose bouquets with pink roses for the hair.

Attired in an aqua blue gown was Miss Judy Motter, cousin of the bride, who was flower girl, carried red roses and her hair adorned with red roses. Lewis Motter, cousin of the bride, wore a white palm beach suit and was ring bearer.

Best man was Clyde Keilholtz, brother of the bride. The ushers were Harold Keilholtz, brother of the bride, Donald Yetter of Leechburg, Pa., Carl Ehrhart, a seminarian, and Rev. Richard Ehrhart.

The bride's mother wore a black flowered dress with black accessories and a corsage of red roses, and the groom's mother wore a black and white dress with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the parish house which was decorated in white with green, where two wedding cakes bearing wedding bells was served.

The bride wore for her going-away outfit an aqua-blue suit with black accessories and a red rosebud corsage. The couple then left for a week's honeymoon.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Paul Goulden, was attired in a gown of white slipper satin with a sweetheart neckline and long puffed sleeves ending in bridal points over her hands. A tight fitting bodice and a fully gathered skirt ending in a long full train. Her fingertip veil fell from a coronet of beads. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom. She carried a nosegay of white mixed flowers, centered with a white orchid. She also carried a white Rosary.

The maid of honor, Miss Helen Goulden, sister of the bride, wore a long sleeved, sheer aqua gown and matching head dress of veil and flowers. She carried a nosegay of colored mixed flowers.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to Rev. O'Brien and members of the immediate families, at the home of the bride. The table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Following the breakfast, the newlyweds left on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in their newly furnished apartment in Westminster.

For her going away outfit, the bride wore a pink silk dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride attended St. Joseph's High School and graduated in the class of 1945. The bridegroom attended Taneytown High School, class of 1944. During the war he served 24 months in the U. S. Navy. He is now attending the Baltimore Construction Institute.

Mr. Corbett is pastor. He officiated at the nuptial service amid a setting of palms, white gladioli and candlelight.

The bride wore a white Alencon lace gown fashioned with a train, high cut-out neckline, and full sleeves gathered at the wrist. Her veil of illusion, which was worn by her mother, was attached to a coronet of lace. She carried white gladioli and stephanotis.

Capt. Higman graduated from Western Maryland College and served overseas during the war as commanding officer of a chemical company. For the past year he has been a chemical engineer at Garrison Dam, N. D. He will continue his studies this fall at Johns Hopkins and Loyola universities, Baltimore.

Mrs. Conrad Harper Liden of College Park, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and the bride's only attendant.

Henry Booth Higman, Millington, served as his brother's best man.

The bride's mother was attired in a powder blue lace and crepe dress with navy accessories and a white orchid. The groom's mother wore a grey frock with forest green accessories and a lavender orchid.

Following a short wedding trip, Capt. and Mrs. Higman will reside in Baltimore.

Colonel Frailey Retires From

Government Service

Following almost 32 years of service with the Federal Government, including military duty, Colonel Thomas J. Frailey, son of the late Oscar D. and Clara M. Frailey, of Emmitsburg, Md., retired as an associate member of the Board of Veterans Appeals, United States Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C., on August 31, 1949.

Formal ceremonies in Washington, incident to his retirement, included commendatory addresses by Government officials, including Hon. Robert L. Jarnagin, chairman of the Board of Veterans Appeals, who paid high tribute to Colonel Frailey in recognition of extended meritorious service and then presented him with an engraved Hamilton wrist watch, a retirement gift from his fellow employees.

Colonel Frailey accepted a legal position in the Veterans Administration on July 7, 1919, following his discharge from World War I service. He was later appointed chief of the insurance claims section, a unit consisting of 112 lawyers. He subsequently engaged in appellate work, serving some eight years as legal member of the director's advisory group. He thereafter became a legal consultant to the Board of Veterans Appeals and following his discharge from World War II service on November 2, 1945, he was appointed by President Truman as an associate member of the Board of Veterans Appeals.

Colonel Frailey was born in Emmitsburg and following graduation from the Emmitsburg High School, entered Mount St. Mary's College, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He later was graduated from Dickinson School of Law, Carlisle, Pa., and at the same time received degrees of LL.B. and M.A. in 1919 from Dickinson School of Law and Dickinson College, respectively. He is a member of the bar of the District of Columbia and Maryland, and has been admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court. His service in World War I was with the 313th Infantry, being later commissioned as a lieutenant of infantry. His service in World War II was as a full colonel and included duty with the Army General Staff.

In May, 1946, he was awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws by Southeastern University, Washington, D. C., in which institution he taught evening classes in law for 30 years. A certificate of meritorious service was presented to him by Southeastern University at the termination of his tenure of service as a member of the law faculty in June, 1949, at which time Dr. Leroy J. Maas, university president, paid glowing tribute to him.

During his residence in Washington, Colonel Frailey engaged extensively in civic, community and American Legion activities. He will resume the practice of law in Emmitsburg, Md., where he is a director of the Farmers State Bank and will reside in his recently constructed home here.
