Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

Where, pray tell, would you find a more versatile man in this wide, wide world than our own TOSS SHORB? Without a doubt the young man has the most diversified talents of anyone in the 'burg . . . Ya know, I've been following Toss' activities with a great amount of interest and I can't help wondering where he gets all the ambition . . . Toss has owned and operated more enterprises than you can shake a stick at . . . Latest one it seems is that he has taken over the Emmitsburg agency for a Gettysburg Laundry Co. Just for the heck of it, let me list a few of the business deals that this capable and surprising young man has participated in in his not very lengthy past . . . First of all, he went to barber school and upon completion, worked in Gettysburg for several years, after which he came home to rooster and to practice barbering in the Topper and Rogers Barber Shop . . . Then Toss got tired of snipping tresses so off to Baltimore he traipses and another kind of a job. Your writer doesn't know of what nature it was—suffice it to say I don't believe it was barbering. Then Toss returns to our fair villa and decides that since he has a trade he'd be foolish NOT to use it, so he opened his own shop only to build up a good trade and sell the joint, lock, stock, and barrel to Mac, its present owner.

Then our hero in question opens a beauty shop, gets it in running order, installs a manager and believe it or not continues to own and oversee operation of the place . . . But Toss was getting tired of running only one enterprise, so he opened a restaurant—none other than the well-known inimitable "Doghouse" on the Square in a little corner of the Hotel . . . After building it up to a neat little money-maker, what does friend Charles (Toss to you) do but ups and sells the little "jerm" (at a neat little profit, I'm told). Then he took over a Baltimore paper route and has that running in a most facile manner . . . Now do you wonder I'm amazed when I learn that man has taken over the Laundry Agency? Egad, all at one time's he's running a beauty shop, a paper route, a laundry agency. Where does he get the energy and the ambition I'm blamed if I know but I DO know this . . . The lad deserves a lot of credit in this humble estimation of mine.

This little poem, clipped from a recent Sunday issue of the magazine section of the New York Times tells one of the most quaint but truthful stories I've read in a long time . . . It just about sums our national situation up in a nutshell:

To Insure Domestic Tranquility
Our Army fights our Navy
And our Navy fights our Air.
The House fights with the Senate
And the White House fights the pair.
The farmer fights the unions—
Each seeks his selfish ends.
It's only when the Communies start
I know we're really friends.
A.H.S.

To Open Office
Dr. W. F. Rutzahn of Middletown, a former resident of Emmitsburg, will open his chiropractic offices early in October at the home of Mrs. Charles Landers.

Farmers Receiving Less
Maryland farmers were paid less for their products last month than at any time since late 1945, the State Crop Reporting Service reveals. The index of prices on Aug. 15 was 12 points lower than July 15, and 22 points lower than mid-August of last year, the report shows.

MRS. SCHILDT FILES ANSWER IN ORPHANS' COURT

Claim Involving Brother-in-Law To Be Settled Soon

In an answer filed Monday with the Orphans' Court through William M. Storm, attorney, Mrs. Rhoda E. Schildt of Rocky Ridge executrix in the estate of her late husband, Elder Elmer P. Schildt, says her brother-in-law, Elvin R. Schildt, has no further interest in her husband's estate.

In a previous petition submitted to the court through Attorney Clinton McSherry, the brother-in-law asked for the filing of inventories in the estate, claiming he had a half share in money received from the sale of steers and hay, as well as an interest in chickens and other livestock and hay.

Paid Plaintiff $2,500

In her answer, Mrs. Schildt says she paid Elvin R. Schildt $2,500 as provided in her husband's will and that he has no further interest in the estate. She states that she and her husband had a joint bank account from which they bought young stock and raised them to sell. She denies that Elvin R. Schildt was a joint owner of cattle, chickens and farm produce.

She says she consumed eight chickens and one rooster that were on the farm at the time of her husband's death as a part of her widow's portion of the estate. There was no other farm produce on the farm at the time of her husband's death, she states.

The executrix also says that as owner she sold 46 steers for $10,875 and that they cost her and her husband $10,236.40. She says they put $1,849.91 into feed and paid Elvin R. Schildt $250 for tending them.

Became Farm's Owner

She denies that she refused to inform her brother-in-law of any additional sum received from the sale of steers. In fact, she adds, she did tell him that there were no additional sales of steers.

After delivering to the Register of Wills the sum of $2,500 to be paid Elvin R. Schildt as provided in the will, the respondent states, she then became the owner of the farm. She admits that subsequent to the payment she did harvest hay for which she received $250, having a small portion left in the barn. Her brother-in-law isn't entitled to any interest in the hay, Mrs. Schildt states.

No date was set for a hearing in the matter, the court announced.

First Scouts Are Organized

Twenty-eight young boys between the ages of 11 and 15 turned out for the Boy Scout meeting held last Friday evening in the auditorium of the Emmitsburg High School and were organized into the first troop of the local chapter of the Boy Scouts.

The meeting was presided over by Scoutmaster Henry Charlton. Within the next month Mr. Charlton plans to have the nucleus of the troop pass their tenderfoot requirements, thus leaving the way clear for the formal ceremony of investiture and official recognition for the troop.

Another meeting is scheduled for tonight at the same place, and will be under the supervision of the newly-elected troop officers.

May Tear Gas Farms

Tear gas—frequently used to tame crooks and robbers—may now be used to control robbers on Maryland farms. The robbers—black rot, end rot, soft rot and other diseases—sometimes ruin 30 per cent or more of the sweet potatoes before the crop reaches consumers.

Tear gas—chloropicrin—is used, as are sulfur dioxide gas, and formaldehyde gas, to kill spores of many of the rot fungi which may be in the storage houses. Specialists at the University of Maryland say that tear gas is more expensive, but is safer than the other gases which have been used for years.

WARNING

Citizens of Thurmont issued a warning to residents of this vicinity to be aware of certain parties seeking painting jobs in this territory. The parties guarantee the materials they use to be water-proof, but it is believed they use some inferior product. Several of the parties who were duped claimed the party used only aluminum paint and represented a firm from St. Louis.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

In the roll call of merchants last week, the name of Matthews, derived from the Bible, reminds us of what the Holy Book says about merchants: "Whose merchants are princes, Whose traffickers are the honorable of the earth." (Isaiah 43:8).

J. W. ROWE
This quotation reminds us of the merchants of our community. Men of integrity, whose customers are always right, more accustomed to complaints than praise, whose genial smile withstands provocation, they are indeed servants of the people.

The next name drawn from the pool of merchants is J. W. Rowe of the Yorktown Store. Situated in a convenient and choice location just off the Square, this attractive establishment, like the Yorktown Stores in so many communities, offers a choice line of staple groceries at attractive prices.

Here is a businessman whose interests in the community spirit and welfare, reaches out far beyond his service as a merchant. According to reports he is vitally interested in the civic affairs of the village. He served the community for many years as Town Clerk. He is one of the ardent boosters of the local baseball club through which the quality of the community spirit, is often expressed.

Harness Racing Feature Of Frederick Fair

Harness horse entries for the Frederick Fair meet Oct. 4 through Oct. 7 are more numerous than expected. Racing Secretary Norman Hunter reported Monday.

Between 40 and 50 harness horses have been entered for the ten events listed over the four-day period, he said, and a dozen or more additional entries were expected before the lists close.

Racing officials had been skeptical for fear that pari-mutuel meets would lure most of the fair circuit harness horses. Mr. Hunter said the Hagerstown Fair meet attracted plenty of entries to fill the trotting and pacing events and that other fairs have had the same experience.

More harness horses would be here, he said, except for the fact that a 20-day mutual meet opens at Harrington, Del., on Oct. 1. Many of the Delaware, New Jersey and Eastern Shore owners are planning to ship to the longer meet.

The quality of horses already entered, he said, may be judged by the fact that Joseph H. Eyer of Thurmont, and W. G. Morrison of Carlisle, Pa., plan to ship their stables. They have provided some of the best racing at Frederick Fairs in recent years. Mr. Eyer shipped to Lexington, Ky., last year and was missed. He has submitted his entries for the coming meet, however.

Robert G. Leavy of Clearfield, Pa., will be back to start the harness events, using a starting gate for the first time in Frederick. Fences are being replaced to provide adequate width for the starting gate to operate.

Mr. Hunter said plenty of running horses will be at the Fair for the eight thoroughbred sprints on the card. Entries for the runners are due by 11 a. m. on the day preceding a race. This year previous non-starters will be the first choice in the Thursday and Friday events.

MAJOR OBJECTIVE

One of the major objectives of agricultural engineers in all the years since the mower and reaper were invented has been to shift the burden of farm work from the worker to the machine. This is a continuing objective, for it is only by reducing labor costs that food prices can be reduced.

Wildlife is as much a product of the land as any other living resource.

ment name of Rowe in Emmitsburg, must include the venerable M. Frank Rowe, businessman. This genial sage, held in such high regard by all, is, in years one of the youngest old men of our community. Youthful in vigor, keen in mind, genial in spirit, gifted in memory, he, nearing the century mark, is a walking encyclopedia of Emmitsburg's historical antiquities. Here is a man who exhibits the truth expressed by the poet:

"We live in deeds, not years;
In feelings, not figures on a dial
In thoughts, not breaths;
He most lives
Who thinks the most, feels the noblest, acts the best."

To attain such a status as Mr. Frank Rowe, is a consummation to be wished.

WHAT ROWE MEANS

This name is derived from Robert which means "Clothed with Fame." Robert of the Land, was shortened in England to Rolland and recorded in Doomsday census of the eleventh century. In the 17th and 18th centuries it took the popular form of Rowland in England. It was further shortened in some cases by dropping the last half and becoming Rowe, which is derived originally from the Old German "Hrothi," meaning fame.

Many men of renown, in both legend, story, and history, have carried some form of this famous name.

Sportsmen's Club Addressed By State Official

Speaking before the members of the Indian Lookout Conservation Club, Malcolm King, public relations director of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, told of the vital work the local club is doing in the conservation of wildlife and game in this district.

Mr. King said that without such clubs as Emmitsburg has recently formed, the hunters and sportsmen would eventually see a depletion of game in this area.

The public relations director who attended Tuesday night's meeting at the Firemen's Hall, the commission will co-operate in any way possible to establish a game refuge in the Emmitsburg district. The watershed, owned by the Emmitsburg Water Co., consisting of more than 400 acres, has been the site selected by the conservation club for the establishment of a game refuge.

Mr. King continued, relating the many such projects of this nature in the county, which now has 30, and emphasized particularly the fine work and co-operation of farmers in soil conservation through the Federal aid supplied by appropriations in the making habitats for game and wildlife. Explaining the dovetailed program further, Mr. King stated Maryland is one state which has made marked improvement in preserving its natural resources, essential to preserving game.

At Tuesday night's meeting, the club incorporated under Maryland state laws, and elected the following as officers for the ensuing year: president, Pete Auldreich; vice president, Harold Hoke; treasurer, Guy A. Baker, and secretary, James Adelsberger. The board of directors are Ray McLaughlin, Raymond Baker, Wayne McCleaf, Fred Bower, and Kayo Keilholz.

The recent membership drive ended Tuesday and the club now has a total of 106 members. Awarded the $5 prize for soliciting the most members was Robert Stonesifer with 38.

Guests at the meeting were Game Wardens Derrwood Kettels and Glenn D. Butts.

ATTEND MEETING

A representative body of students from St. Joseph's High School Thursday afternoon attended a meeting of the Catholic Mission Crusade in Hagerstown.

PLAY-OFF FOR COUNTY PENNANT HERE TOMORROW

Taneytown Meets Blue Ridge Summit On Community Field

Emmitsburg sports lovers are in for a week-end of good baseball. Word was received this week that the playoff for the Frederick County League pennant will be staged in Emmitsburg tomorrow.

Principals in the contest will be Taneytown and Blue Ridge Summit. Both teams have played excellent ball this year and merit their positions in the circuit.

Game time will be 2:30 p. m.

In what may be the last chance for Emmitsburgians to see their local team in action this year, Emmitsburg will meet the Negro American Legion baseball team from Frederick Sunday at 2:30 on Community Field.

Business Manager Norman Flax announced that he has secured the services of Persh Mondorff for mound duty for Sunday's contest. Also there is a possibility that one of Emmitsburg's most-like players of former years will play. He is Nino Briscusco. Nino is now residing in Washington and it is believed he will be available for Sunday's game.

Manager Leonard Zimmerman stated that he has secured the services of Jim Donaldson of Fairfield, and George Kennell, of Greenmount, for the contest.

Dr. Cadle and Ray McLaughlin will be the umpires.

The colored boys played here early this year and trimmed the locals by a wide margin. They displayed a fine brand of ball and were well received by the local patrons of the ball park.

McSherrystown Cops Penn-Maryland Flag

The McSherrystown baseball team captured post-season honors in the Penn-Maryland League by defeating Hanover, 9-2, in the third and final game of the Shaughnessy finals on the Hanover last Sunday afternoon.

The Hanover team had won the title in the league while McSherrystown had finished in a deadlock with Littlestown for second place. In the semi-finals, McSherrystown eliminated Taneytown, while Hanover disposed of Littlestown.

McSherrystown, which split even with Hanover in the first two games of the best-in-three semi-finals, scored early and often last Sunday. Henny Noel's team put over two runs in the first, one in the second, and then added two in each of the fifth, sixth and seventh innings. Hanover's only runs came in the sixth.

CONTROL OF THE BOMB

Both the United States and Russia have long professed a desire to control the atom bomb. But their views as to how controls would be imposed have been so irreconcilable that the Atomic Energy Commission of the United Nations gloomily gave up in July its three-year struggle toward agreement.

At that time, the Commission voted to stop its work until the Big Five powers and Canada found some basis for agreement.

Now it has been announced that Russia has learned to produce atomic explosives. And close on the heels of that announcement comes word that Russia wants atomic weapons put under international control and their production halted. This can be done only when Russia and the United States reconcile conflicting views.

Since the summer of 1946, the United States position has been substantially this: It proposes an international body to supervise atomic energy activities throughout the world. This body would inspect the license of those activities. No country would have the power to veto decisions of the international control agency. The control system would become effective before bombs were destroyed and production of atomic weapons halted.

Russia has refused to agree to that proposal. She has insisted upon an international treaty outlawing production and use of atomic weapons, and that all existing stockpiles of weapons be destroyed before an international control program becomes effective. She has insisted, too, upon the right to veto, and demands that each country do its own policing, to keep international snoops from behind the Iron Curtain.

It remains to be seen if Russia's mastery of atomic explosives will alter her position on the international control of weapons of mass destruction. But we see no reason why our basic position should be changed. If Russia is sincere about desiring effective controls and has nothing to hide, she will agree to international supervision without power to veto.

If Russia's mastery of the bomb now leads to an effective agreement on the control not only of atomic weapons but of weapons of mass destruction generally, it will have proven a blessing to all mankind.

Health Director Gives Advice On Treating Colds

"Now is the time to take precautions against the common cold an infection that usually becomes only too common with the onset of colder and damper weather." Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, warns Marylanders of all ages. "Although colds occur at all times of the year, they are far more prevalent during the fall and winter months. It is generally known that our present medical knowledge concerning the prevention and cure of colds is not complete, but it has been well established that certain measures often help people to escape the annoyance entirely or at least avoid unnecessary distress and complications.

"The good personal hygiene that can contribute so much to the individual's general health and well being can also help to build up resistance against infection. Adequate and well-balanced meals at regular hours, sufficient sleep, a moderate amount of exercise and clothing adapted to changing weather add to the body's natural defenses.

"To avoid infection it is wise to keep away from all unnecessary contact with persons already suffering from colds. It is generally believed that the disease is transmitted from one person to another by infectious material discharged in coughing or sneezing—either directly or indirectly, by means of food or objects that have been contaminated. When colds become very widespread in the community it is sensible to stay out of crowds whenever possible.

"If a cold does develop, its victim should take immediate steps to overcome the disease. Additional rest is always advisable and large quantities of water and fruit juices are usually recommended. When fever is present the patient should go to bed and stay there. If a cold persists the family physician should be consulted, to relieve discomfort or possibly to diagnose some more serious disease with early symptoms similar to those of the common cold. It is certainly unwise to allow a cold to hang on, especially if it is a second or third cold on top of previous infection, for a bad cold or a series of colds can undermine strength and lower the body's resistance to further disease.

"Finally, a considerate patient will make every effort to prevent passing a cold on to family friends and fellow-workers. It is important to stay away from others when possible or at least to cover coughs and sneezes with a handkerchief, preferably the disposable paper kind. Special care should be taken not to transmit colds to old people or young children."

State Receives Little Federal Aid

ANNAPOLIS (Special)—The State of Maryland is a rather neglected nephew of Uncle Sam if federal aid to state governments is any indication of attention.

Maryland stands 33rd in receiving aid from the Federal government, according to a study of state finances issued by the Bureau of Census of the Department of Commerce. Maryland is 25th in rank in population according to a recent estimate. It is 41st in size.

The average state received $9.81 per capita from the Federal government against Maryland's $6.03 in the 1948 fiscal year. A total of $1,398,948,000 was distributed that year by the Federal government. Of this sum, Maryland received $12,900,000.

During the same period, Free Staters paid into Federal coffers a total of $339,025,926.

The Bureau of Census study lists eight kinds of Federal aid to states. Maryland's standing in receipts compared to other states follow: highways 43rd; public welfare, 32nd; schools, 32nd; health 18th; employment security administration 17th; natural resources 31st; agriculture 33rd and other 48th.

Total contributions by the Federal government to Maryland in the foregoing fields are: highways $2,126,000; public welfare, $5,380,000; schools $1,173,000; health $1,127,000; employment security administration $2,450,000; natural resources $644,000, including agriculture 491,000, and other, none, Maryland being alone in this category.

Social Security Payments Average $25.50

Average payments of $25.50 were being made monthly under the Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance program to retired male workers as of the end of 1948. The average for retired women was $20.10.

William J. Lanahan, manager of the Social Security Administration field office at Hagerstown, said this week that these figures are averages for the nation as a whole and that actual benefit payments during 1948 ranged between $44.80 monthly, the maximum payable and the minimum of $10 monthly for retired workers of either sex. Payments are based on a percentage of the average monthly earnings of workers in employment covered by the Social Security program.

The average benefit being paid, Mr. Lanahan said, has increased gradually since 1940 when the first monthly payments were authorized due to a number of factors. He listed the principle reasons as a change in the method of computing primary benefit amounts authorized in the 1946 amendments to the Social Security Act; the higher wages in recent years on which benefits are based; and the increased number of annual increments used in computing benefit amounts. He also explained that the Veterans Amendment to the Social Security Act and 1946 amendments to the Railroad Retirement Act had contributed to the increase.

Wages earned by beneficiaries after they have established entitlement to benefits can be taken into account and the benefit rate recomputed to increase the payments to persons already on the rolls. Mr. Lanahan explained that a beneficiary may not receive payments while he is working for more than $14.99 a month in jobs covered by the Federal insurance plan but he may work on jobs not covered by the program or run an unincorporated business of his own and continue to receive payments regardless of how much he may earn.

School Safety Patrols Organized

Through the co-operation of the AAA Club in Frederick, the Emmitsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars Post has secured a safety patrol unit for the students of two schools.

The needed patrol in this district will be seen at St. Euphemia's and St. Anthony's Schools. Ten boys have enrolled at the former while six are in the unit at St. Anthony's.

The guarding patrol is used in assisting the young students morning, noon and evening in crossing streets, loading and unloading of school buses, and supervises action on the playground.

The young lads were furnished the necessary wearing apparel badges and white belts which the VFW Post donated, while in the future the post plans to donate raincoats to the patrol.

The population of Pennsylvania in 1790 was 434,373.

Bowling Opener Displays Keen Competition

The bowling season got off auspiciously Monday evening at the Emmitsburg Recreation Center.

Two teams in the American League vied for honors, with the Hod Carriers taking three straight games and the Diplomats winning two from the Senators.

On Tuesday night Hanover Shoe booted the Bald Head Row twice, while St. Joseph's split more pins than their opponents, the Pin Splitters.

Tweed-Duet

Any resemblance between this girl's outfit and her beau's sport togs is purely deliberate—for sentimental as well as practical reasons. The odd jacket is a distaff version of his favorite wool tweed, and the skirt, of similar material, will keep in fashion stride with his slacks. She chose the jacket from a gray, green or brick assortment—for about $15—and the skirt, in black spiked with red checks or green with gold, was hers for about $11.

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

Maryland Grain Market

Baltimore grain markets held steady for the week ended Sept. 23. Wheat markets in Baltimore and Western Maryland were steady to slightly higher while wheat advanced about 9 cents per bushel in Central Maryland. Yellow corn showed no changes for the week. Barley held firm on the Baltimore market. White oats remain unchanged. Demand for all grains is below normal.

Grain Market

Markets were unsettled during the week ended Sept. 22, influenced in part by the devaluation of British and Canadian currency. Wheat futures declined slightly during the week, but cash wheat prices held fairly steady, supported by large Commodity Credit Corp. purchases. Rye declined sharply at Minneapolis, when lower values of Canadian money brought Canadian rye prices to nearly a level that would permit exports to the U. S. Corn prices weakened materially, with larger market receipts and increased offerings of new corn in the southwest markets. Oats and feeding types of barley turned downward with corn. Flaxseed and soybeans held about unchanged. Grain sorghums declined slightly as marketings of new crop grain increased in North Texas and Oklahoma. The soybean market at Chicago was quiet with no sales reported. Crushers were bidding $2.19 per bushel for country points from new crop soybeans for shipment during September. The bids for October-November shipments ranged from $2.17 per bushel for Indiana country points to $2.18 at Illinois points.

Maryland Feed Market

The Baltimore feed market, following the national trend, averaged higher for the week ended Sept. 23. Wheat millfeeds advanced sharply on the Baltimore market: standard bran over 4%—$2.70 per ton higher than a week ago and standard middlings over 6%—$4.32 per ton higher. 50% meat scrap, which has shown a series of sharp declines since Aug. 26 of this year, advanced over 2% on the Baltimore market this week—$2.79 per ton higher. 16% dairy feed advanced over 3%—$2.36 per ton more than the average prices in Baltimore a week ago.

Soybean oil meal dropped over 5%—$5.64 per ton less than a week ago, $17.23 per ton less than a month ago. Gluten feed declined over 2% on the Baltimore market—$1.66 per ton less than last week's average.

The broiler-feed ratio was less favorable for Maryland producers for the week ended Sept. 22. Broiler prices averaged 27.6 cents per pound while 20% broiler mash averaged $94.80 per ton on the Eastern Shore. On this basis, the pound live weight of broilers would buy 5.8 pounds of feed—6.1 pounds last week.

National Feed Market

Feedstuff markets were unsettled during the week ended Sept. 20, according to reports to the Dept. of Agriculture. Offerings of the principal feeds, except middlings and shorts, were generally sufficient for current trade needs. Demand slackened toward the close of the week and feeders turned more to lower priced grains. Middlings and shorts advanced on an average of about $3 per ton, influenced principally by an active demand from mixed feed manufacturers for use in poultry mashes and hog feed. Bran prices and gluten feed held steady but hominy feed was about $2 per ton higher. Alfalfa meal, under a steady demand, gained $1 per ton compared with a week ago. Distillers' dried grains held unchanged but brewers' dried grains advanced about $1.50 per ton. Soybean meal declined on an average of $3.50 per ton, while linseed meal gained about $1.50 and cottonseed meal held steady. The number of wholesale feed prices advanced about one point, to 217.2 compared with 219.2 a year ago. The feed grain index declined a little over three points as a result of lower corn and oats prices and stood at 182.8 at the close of the week compared with 240.3 last year.

Mounties Off To Good Start; Victors By 47-0

John Law's Mt. St. Mary's college gridder opened their 1949 campaign auspiciously last Friday evening by crushing King's College, 47-0, on McDevitt Field at Harrisburg before more than 3,000 fans.

Walt Bellardinelli, heralded Mount ace, accounted for three touchdowns but the thrills were provided by Bud Veltri, 140-pound back, and Jim Leahy, who scampered 90 yards on a pass interception.

The Mountaineers scored in the opening period after Nicola recovered a fumble on the King's College 12. Adams slashing over tackle on the fourth play of the game.

Bellardinelli slammed over from the three early in the second period with Trout converting. Midway in the quarter Veltri took a Monarch punt on his 25 and raced 75 yards for the score. Trout again converted. The third touchdown of the period came when Adams broke through center and raced 35 yards for a score just before the half ended.

There was no scoring in the third period but the Mountaineers came up with four touchdowns in the final stanza. A pass, Green to Tumulty, produced another score early in the period and a short time later a King's College punt was blocked and went out of play for a Mountaineer safety. Following a long pass, Green to Vonderlehr, followed by a lateral to Ward, Bellardinelli battled across from the 10-yard line. Shortly before the game ended the Mount ace pounded through from the 27 for his third touchdown of the evening.

Start Perennials New Easy to Make SEED FRAME

Anyone handy with a hammer and saw can construct this sturdy seed frame. It is made up of four sides, and a hinged top glazed with Vimlite, flexible plastic glazing. Vimlite is used because it is shatterproof, lightweight, has good insulation qualities and is easy to install. No grooving of the frame, or putting in is necessary. Vimlite is merely tacked in place like fly screen.

The standard size for seed frames is 3 feet x 6 feet. To protect it against rot and decay, the lumber used should be treated with Dow's pentachlorophenol. This chemical and Vimlite can be obtained at hardware, lumber and building supply stores.

Assemble the four sides, center partition, and top frames according to the sketch. For permanent construction it is advisable to use gal-

Can we prevent early molt?

The molt which means the shedding of feathers and replacing them by a "brand new set of clothes" can not be prevented after a laying bird has worked a full year for you and has been producing many eggs. Wild birds, which molt in the fall, do not lay in winter time. When we hatch chicks without mother hen in January, which means several months earlier than the natural hatching in spring time, we do not want the pullets to molt in fall, just about when their eggs start qualifying for hen size. It is most dangerous to molt when it is cold, they usually shed their feathers more rapidly and by being "undressed" until the new plumage grows back the birds are liable to catch colds.

Molting does not only renew the birds plumage it also gives them a rest from laying. The average time to molt is 90 days, however some birds molt much faster, and others may take as long as six months; the latter were probably lacking proper nourishment. A good hen loses weight from heavy laying, and the molt or rest period is her natural protection to save her life and regain her strength.

A young pullet which has started laying eggs is sexually mature, but not yet physically; she still has to gain strength and body weight. Therefore she does not only need feed for sustaining life, but also for laying eggs, and gaining body weight. She has to store fat in her body from which she can draw when ever necessary. Thin pullets are the most likely to molt and it only can be prevented by good management, under which condition a full year's production ought to be obtained; birds with 15 months of "laying history" are not rare anymore.

A good method of preventing pullets from early molt depends on your ability to keep them eating as much as possible. It is a good idea to weigh a few birds when they begin laying; band them and keep record of their weight and of their average weight. Continue weighing the same birds every week and figure out whether they gained, lost or just held their own. There will be no reason to change your feeding schedule if your birds have gained, however, if you notice they have not gained or have even lost weight, then you must find ways to make them eat more immediately. Any method to accomplish a larger feed intake ought to be all right. An extra feeding of a different type of feed than the ones you kept before them all the time will be stimulating. There is no difference whether you give them pellets, grain, hot mash, milk or milk byproducts. The main thing is to keep them eating and to increase their weight. See to it that they fill up with grain before they go to roost.

"the periphery of the Iron Curtain" — the atom bomb and the American press. Taylor, who was gone three months, reported that one of the major problems in the world today is the unpredictability of the Russians. Illustrating this he described an experience when leaving the Vienna airport. Though they had been inactive for many months, the Russians without warning began maneuvers with live ammunition buzzing all the planes in the air and inviting what easily might have been a serious situation.

SHORT STORY

Mr. Diggles On Duty

By MARY WHITEFORD

MR. DIGGLES kept his head down as though he were studying the prescription, scarcely hearing Mrs. Tompkins' voice through the noise of blood thudding in his temples. When he tried to speak, his lips were dry and his tongue moved nervously over them. "I beg your pardon, Mrs. Tompkins, what was that you said?"

"I said if you haven't a delivery boy I'll wait for the three o'clock bus, but I'm anxious to get back as soon as I can."

He looked again at Dr. Price's cramped handwriting. "Oh, I'll deliver it, Mrs. Tompkins. I'm sorry to learn Mr. Tompkins isn't well."

"I told him it's just his bad disposition coming out. I told Dr. Price I certainly hated to drag him out in weather like this just for a stomach ache. Doctor says he'll be all right in a day or two."

Mr. Diggles took the handkerchief from the pocket of his grey alpaca coat and wiped his forehead. The moment he used to dream of years ago, was here at last. This would cost Dr. Price his practice.

The pity was, Dr. Price would never know he could have saved himself, if he hadn't made it so clear that a man who mixed prescriptions wasn't supposed to know about diagnosis. Dr. Price would never know what he'd done to himself when he told Mrs. White she might as well give the twins a chocolate soda as Diggles' Own Whooping Cough Mixture. Because of Dr. Price's new ways of doing things, no one bought Diggles' Ready Rheumatism Reliever now. Shots, it was, the doctor was giving for everything. Not prescriptions.

Manslaughter, they called it. He wet his lips. Well, no one could expect Mr. Diggles to interfere with Dr. Price's prescriptions again. Not a second time.

Though it was so many years ago, he could feel the flush of anger that flooded his face remembering the day he'd called Dr. Price up, and suggested that maybe the heart medicine he ordered for Mr. Venables was too strong.

"I know what I'm doing. Just mind your own business, Diggles, and I can mind mine."

He looked again at the prescription. There was no mistaking the symbol and he'd fill it as it stood.

He reached for the bottle and removed the cork. Carefully, he measured out the prescribed dose.

MR. DIGGLES straightened suddenly, staring at the partly filled mortar. A feeling of nausea swept through him as he snatched it up and flung the contents into the sink. His hand, replacing the bottle on the shelf, trembled.

Outside, the wind howled and flakes of ice made a cold noise beating the window pane.

Slowly, he walked toward the telephone. After all, just as many people swore by Dr. Price as trusted Diggles.

As he waited, listening to Dr. Price's telephone bell ringing, the shop door opened. Mr. Diggles put down the receiver and went to the front. Dr. Price was on the mat, stamping the snow from his feet.

"Diggles, will you let me see the prescription Mrs. Tompkins just brought in?"

"I was just trying to call you about it, Dr. Price. I felt there was some little inaccuracy."

Dr. Price nodded. "Something told me. But I wasn't really worried. I knew you'd catch a mistake if there was one. It's a great comfort to me to know that a substantial man like you is checking up on me, Diggles."

"I have to do what I can. A man has to do his duty. He smiled and stood up."

"That's right, doctor. I guess duty becomes a habit if you do it long enough." The wind screamed into the shop as Dr. Price opened the door and went out. It was a bleak, bitter day, but in Mr. Diggles' heart it was suddenly summer.

When mattresses are aired, bed-springs should also be checked for loose wires and chipped enamel, and needed repairs made

Dr. Price sat down and mopped his forehead.

Defends Maryland Method

James M. Hephorn, chairman of the state's Criminal Justice Commission, has defended hanging as a means of exacting the death penalty in Maryland. A storm of controversy has grown out of the recent hanging of Eugene James, convicted slayer of an 11-year-old girl, at the Maryland penitentiary. James died of strangulation and a broken neck when the knot in the hangman's rope slipped.

Bags of calcium chloride may be used in closets and cellars to absorb moisture and prevent mildew in homes.

Mahoney Raps Administration's Lavish Spending

George P. Mahoney, former chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, told the Brunswick Rotary Club in an address last Thursday night that "we are going deeper into debt with almost 100 per cent more revenue," in charging lavish spending by the present State administration.

Mr. Mahoney, in recalling his services as head of the racing commission, said that in his tenure he found that major race tracks were using funds intended for track improvements to pay dividends to stockholders.

He succeeded, he said, in getting legislation that forced the track operators to pay nearly two million dollars back into the State treasury to a sum known as the improvement fund the commission had allowed the racing association in the year 1938.

Mr. Mahoney was also instrumental in getting legislation passed to compel the tracks to make improvements to their racing plants.

This fund has raised over $2,500,000 for improvements to Pimlico, Laurel, Havre de Grace and Bowie.

The speaker said, despite the fact that State revenue had been increased approximately 91 per cent, the State now has a bonded indebtedness of $10,000,000 more than when the present administration took over. In other words, Mr. Mahoney stated, "we are going deeper in debt with almost 100 per cent more revenue."

As an illustration, he said that the previous administration's revenue was $93,000,000. That of the present administration in 1949 was $184,000,000.

Without mentioning Gov. Lane, the speaker charged lavish spending by the present State administration. He pointed to increased gasoline taxes, increased income taxes, the sales tax and new levies.

He said it is time someone considered the ability of the people to pay.

"The ability to pay," Mr. Mahoney concluded, "must have priority over the desire to spend."

"Buzzing" Costs Pilot Fine

It cost Paul Porter, Harrington, Del., $50 to scare the wits out of Thurmont resident last Saturday afternoon.

A plane, which Porter admitted piloting, flew so low over the town that residents said they feared for safety of their homes. They lodged vigorous complaints with all available law enforcement officials.

At a hearing before Magistrate William J. Stoner in Thurmont last Saturday night, Porter pled guilty to the charge, explaining that he did not know Maryland law forbade flying low. He said he "buzzed" the town several times at between 200 and 250 feet altitude.

Magistrate Stoner explained that the law bans any flying over towns at less than 1,000 feet.

After several "passes" over Thurmont, Porter landed his plane at the Stevens Airport, Lewis-town, where he soon learned that Thurmont was aroused over his antics. He went to Thurmont and reported to State Trooper H. J. Brown, who preferred the charge and made arrangements for an immediate hearing.

Thurmont Girl Hit By Auto

Shirley Few, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Few, Thurmont, remained in Frederick Memorial Hospital this week with injuries suffered about eight o'clock Saturday evening in Thurmont, when struck by an automobile as she was walking across the street.

The child suffered a severe cut on her leg and head bruises, preliminary Trooper James Stoner's preliminary examination revealed. He said the girl stepped from the curb at the north side of the Square in Thurmont into the path of a car driven by Merle Knott, Thurmont, Route 2. The child was brought to the Frederick hospital by a passing motorist.

Knott was released pending the result of the investigation.

Favorable results have been reported by doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital in their clinical investigation as to the effectiveness of aureomycin, the wonder drug, in the treatment of respiratory diseases.

So You Want To Act!

Charming Lucille Wall, who plays "Portia" in NBC's "Portia Faces Life," seems to attract young hopefuls who want to act. Lucille, who has been an actress most of her life, is always interested in the problems of beginners. But the one question that stumps her is "Should I try acting?" "If you're fascinated by the life of a star," says Lucille, "or if you think you'd like to act—forget it! If you're a real actor, nothing will keep you from acting. But don't think you can start out in summer stock and work up gradually to be a star by the time you're thirty. There are plenty who, after years of acting, are still playing bit parts. It's a lot of work, and only an all-consuming desire to act can keep you going when the breaks are against you. But if that's what you feel you have to do, go to it—and good luck!"

Marlboro Bets Increase Over Last Season

The only half-mile track in Maryland to show an increase over last year's betting was Marlboro.

A closing-day crowd of more than six thousand bet $366,385 through the mutuels last Thursday. The mutual handle for the meet totaled $3,373,287, compared with $2,667,840 for last year.

The Southern Maryland racing plant was the only one of Maryland's five minor tracks which did not have the benefit of two Saturday programs.

The 1949 and 1948 daily average betting at the five tracks:

	1949	1948
Marlboro	$337,328	$266,784
Bel Air	329,390	359,275
Timonium	307,859	314,990
Cumberland	214,563	264,547
Hagerstown	212,006	262,615

With the close of the 50-day summer racing season, Maryland race-goers turned their attention to Laurel which opened last Saturday for a 25-day meet.

Pimlico follows with 17 days starting Oct. 25. The Old Hilltop plant also will be the scene of four days sponsored by Havre de Grace, which used up the rest of its allotted time in the spring and recided not to re-open its own track for the short period.

Bowie will have its 13-day stand starting Saturday, Nov. 19. Ward Wolfe, employes of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette were visitors at the Chronicle Office this week.

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

Who buys a new kitchen sink as often as she does a hat? No one, of course, for a porcelain enamel sink is a piece of durable furniture that doesn't go out of style and is expected to last many years. You'll want to take good care of this sink, then, since it's going to be in your kitchen year in, year out.

Aside from removing dirt that might accumulate through neglect, porcelain enamel needs no stronger cleaning agent than soap and water. When food spills, remove it immediately before it dries and hardens. If food has become firmly attached to the porcelain, rubbing with either a hot, strong solution of soda in water, or a weak ammonia solution will help loosen it, without resorting to harsh, harmful abrasives.

The fact that porcelain enamel has unusual wearing qualities is proved. Celtic shield found in the Thames River in England washed by the swift-flowing water for over 2000 years, bore round decorations of red porcelain enamel—still in perfect condition when discovered.

Are you trying to interest your young daughter in cooking? Don't start her on too-complicated dishes that will confuse and discourage her. One suggestion for a young chef is making a packaged quick-mix cake.

Here is the first lesson the amateur can learn about (1) setting the oven temperature before beginning, (2) greasing the bottom, not the sides, of the cake pan, (3) stirring flour and liquid, (4) scraping out the bowl and leveling the batter, (5) testing the cake for done-ness, (6) removing it from the pan, and (7) frosting it. Even that is quite a big order for a little girl.

Marines Still Recruiting

It has been announced by the Marine Corps recruiting office in Hagerstown that the Marine Corps is accepting young men with no waiting period required. All men who applied for the Marine Corps prior to September have been enlisted and there are now openings for new applicants.

Men applying for enlistment must be between the ages of 17 and 29 and can enlist for a period of three or four years. Applications are still being accepted for Women Marines from young ladies between the ages of 20 and 30.

The Hagerstown Recruiting Office, located in the Postoffice Bldg., is open daily from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Gov. Proclaims Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 9 to 15

Gov. Lane has proclaimed the week of Oct. 9 to 15 as Fire Prevention Week in Maryland.

The battle against fire can be, and is, being won. A single afternoon or evening will be enough time to rid your home of the most common fire hazards, said Commissioner Claude A. Hanley, State Insurance Commissioner, in urging all citizens to join in the nation-wide observance of Fire Prevention Week. Commissioner Hanley particularly emphasizes the following points.

1—Rubbish fires are causing a great deal of damage in our State, and citizens are urged to remove rubbish from cellars, attics and closets to help reduce fire losses.

2—A large number of fires are caused by the careless use of matches and smoking. Matches should be kept out of the reach of small children. Great care should be taken while smoking to use each tray.

Mr. Hanley further states that it is his feeling that the public can well afford to take a few minutes out of their busy lives during this Fire Prevention Week not only to think about some of these problems, but to take active steps to eliminate the hazards

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

A change in the method of supporting the average farm price of hogs is being planned for this fall and winter, if such supports become necessary. Support thru Mar. 31, 1950 at 90 per cent of parity has been announced by the Dept. of Agriculture. However, the plan this year is to figure the support on monthly intervals instead of weekly as has been done in the past.

The September national average support price is $17.70 per hundred pounds based on 90 per cent of parity for March 15, 1949. Farmers on Aug. 15, 1949, received an average price of $19.40 per hundred.

The change in method of support announced recently, according to Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee, will permit maintenance of the United States average price received by farmers at the national average support level. It will also make better allowance for variations that occur in hog prices among the different areas from time to time. While support prices will not be established for local markets, operations will be conducted as far as practical to maintain hog prices by areas in line with the usual relationship to the United States average. The average support price will vary from month to month in accordance with usual seasonal price variations. The monthly support levels and weekly guides for the October, 1949-March 1950 period will be announced before October 1 on the basis of the Sept. 15 parity price for hogs.

Since purchase of live hogs for price support do not now appear feasible, purchases of pork and pork products will be the method used if support prices become necessary. The Department will buy pork only from packers operating under Federal inspection since pork products by other slaughters cannot be shipped across state lines or exported from the United States.

Cover Crop Seed Encouraged
Price supports have been established by the government to encourage production of more seed for winter cover crops. The price is to be based on parity prices for April 1, 1950. If these prices are the same as the computed parity or comparable prices on July 15, 1949, the average support prices for clean bagged seed will be: Hairy vetch, 13.54c per pound; common and Williamette vetch, 6.34; crimson clover, 16.03; common ryegrass, 7.00; Austrian winter peas, 4.62; blue lupine, 4.53, and rough peas, 6c per pound.

More seed of winter cover crops is urgently needed in this country, according to Mr. Blandford. Over 72 million pounds of Austrian pea seed will be needed in 1950; that is an increase of more than 46 per cent over the 49-million-pound 1944-48 average production. More than 48 million pounds of hairy vetch will be needed — nearly 185 per cent greater than the 5-year average commercial production of 17 million pounds. Around 24 million pounds of crimson clover seed will be required—an increase of nearly 70 per cent over the 5-year production and 34 per cent more than the large 1949 crop. About 56 million pounds of blue lupine seed will be needed—an increase of 109 per cent over the average and over six million pounds more than the highest production of any one year. About 12 million pounds of rough peas are needed, a substantial increase over the quantities heretofore included in the purchase order program of the Agricultural Conservation Program. If production next year equals the average of the past five years, we will have about enough common and Williamette vetches and common ryegrass.

Corn Acreage Being Secured
Community committeemen are being called on to secure corn acreage data on Maryland farms for the years 1947, '48 and '49 in order that allotments may be set up on the 1950 corn crop, according to Mr. Blandford. Data is now being gathered in Baltimore, Caroline, Cecil, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Somerset, Talbot, Washington and Wicomico counties. Alleghany, Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Prince Georges and St. Marys counties will not have a corn allotment program. Counties listed in the first group may, on the basis of the survey now in progress, be transferred to the group in which allotments will not apply. Allotments will be effective in Carroll, Frederick, Kent, Queen Annes and Worcester counties should the Secretary of Agriculture proclaim allotments on the 1950 corn crop.

Corn producing counties are divided into commercial and non-commercial groups on the basis of acreage production history over the past 10 years. Commercial counties must have averaged 450 bushels per farm or four bushels per acre of farmland. Commercial counties will have corn allotments if the Secretary proclaims allotments to be in effect. Non-commercial counties will not have allotments.

Should allotments be proclaimed in 1950, under present legislation the price of corn produced in the commercial areas will be supported at 90 per cent of parity. Corn produced in the non-commercial area will be supported at 75 per cent of the commercial area support figure.

Under the allotment program "corn" has been determined to include field corn for grain or silage, but does not include popcorn or sweetcorn.

Non-Laying Birds Termed Parasites

Are the appetites of your laying hens up to par?

The same question could as well be put this way: how well are your birds laying and how much money are they making for you? Other things being equal, there is a closely drawn line between feed consumption and egg production. Poor feeding and good production just don't go together.

Feeding Economy
Birds with healthy appetites almost invariably produce more eggs than those that don't get their share at the feed trough. And yet the cost of feeding a flock of poor eaters, when judged against the comparative amount of eggs produced, is greater than the expense of providing for a similar number of healthy birds.

For instance, statistics have shown that 100 four-pound hens which are in 40 per cent production will require nine days to produce a case of eggs and that during this time they will consume 216 pounds of feed. A similar number of four-pound hens having healthy appetites and producing at the rate of 70 per cent will lay a case of eggs in 5.1 days while consuming 153 pounds of feed. In other words, while the bird with a vigorous appetite eats more each day, her production of eggs is so rapid that she is a far more economical boarder than her weaker sister. She is paying her way.

Poor Layers Really Use More
The 40 per cent flock consumes 24 pounds of feed daily compared to 30 for the better producers, but their owner has to supply more feed to get a case of eggs out of them.
Good feeding and good laying can be regulated. How you feed and what you feed can determine how much profit your flock will show.

Taxidermists Must Apply For License Under New Ruling

Fur dealers and taxidermists of Maryland are required to obtain State permits in order to conduct business, it was pointed out last week by Regional Game Warden Benjamin F. Phebus.
The law was passed by the last session of the General Assembly in order to keep a more accurate record on the number of fur-bearing animals killed in the State during any one year.

Fur dealers' permits will cost $2 and taxidermist and tanner's license fee is $5 annually. Mr. Phebus said that applications for licenses may be made through headquarters of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission for certification and then returned to each individual applicant.

The permits are good for a 12-month period from July 1 to June 30 of the following year. Penalties are provided for violations.

Miss Doris Hemler of near St. Anthony's has returned home after visiting for several days with friends in Baltimore.

100-Mile-200-Lap Championship Midget Race at Williams Grove Speedway Sun.

The annual National Championship, Midget Classic held at WILLIAMS GROVE SPEEDWAY each year has been appropriately called the "LITTLE INDIANAPOLIS" by many race fans, for the reason that RACE CARS are started in true INDIANAPOLIS FORM—and it is expected that the traditional 33 fastest cars will line up for the feature race of 100 MILES—200 LAPS and take the starters GREEN FLAG under exactly the same lineup and rules under which the famous "500" is run at INDIANAPOLIS ON MEMORIAL DAY.

For many years this NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP MIDGET RACE, held at WILLIAMS GROVE SPEEDWAY each year, has attracted the Nation's leading Midget Cars and drivers, for the reason that it is open to the world, and the purse is the largest ever paid for an event of this kind.

PIT STOPS for tire changes—fuel—minor adjustments, etc., combined with the LAP BOARDS—used by the PIT ATTENDANTS—will add much to the color and thrills of this GREAT CHAMPIONSHIP RACE.

This 100-MILE CHAMPIONSHIP RACE will be the longest race ever run on the WILLIAMS GROVE SPEEDWAY—and after a few elimination races, starting at 1 p. m.—the feature race of 200 LAPS—100 MILES—should get under way about 2:15 p. m.

PARKING IS FREE—FREE PROGRAMS—and the admission prices for this great race have been increased only 42c plus tax for each type of accommodation. We would suggest however, if you plan to attend this CHAMPIONSHIP RACE and want a seat in the GRANDSTAND, that you make your reservations—NOW!

Tuberculosis and Older People

One widespread but dangerous fallacy about tuberculosis is that older people do not get the disease because it occurs primarily among the young.

It is true that tuberculosis is the leading cause of death from disease among young adults between the ages of 15 and 34. Yet the proportion of deaths from tuberculosis among Americans over 45 years of age has been steadily increasing in the past few years.

In 1947, the year for which we have the most recent figures, for the first time more than half the persons who died of tuberculosis in this country were over 45.

This fact does not necessarily mean that people over 45 are more susceptible to tuberculosis than younger people. The larger number of deaths, in comparison with other age groups, may be explained by the fact that people are living longer today and that tuberculosis treatment is more effective today than it was 20 years ago. Moreover, the decrease in deaths from tuberculosis has been more rapid among the young than among the older age groups.

But the number of deaths from tuberculosis among people over 45 does prove that no age is safe from the disease—that reaching the age of 45 does not mean a person has "outgrown" the possibility of getting tuberculosis.

Hence, those who think they no longer need take precautions against tuberculosis or check on the health of their lungs because they are 45 years of age or over are taking foolish and unnecessary chances.

Regular physical examinations, including chest X-rays, are important for all adults, no matter what age group. The disease has no obvious symptoms in an early stage, but periodic medical examinations and chest X-rays give a person his best chance of detecting the disease, if it strikes, in a stage when it is easiest to cure.

New High-Altitude Mask Is Developed

A paper-weight, disposable oxygen mask, which will cost 25 cents when in mass production, has been developed by the Air Force in conjunction with the University of Washington and the Burns Co. of Portland, Ore.

The new mask designed at the request of the Military Air Transport Service is inexpensive, practical, and efficient for passengers in planes flying above normal altitudes.

Light and easy to wear, the mask fits in a 5x7 flat envelope. It can be attached to the standard oxygen-flow equipment, and is effective up to 25,000 feet from four to five hours.

The rubber-type oxygen masks now supplied to air passengers must be checked out, fitted, checked in, and sterilized after using. The new masks require no prior fitting, and can be thrown away after using.

Fighter and bomber pilots will not use the expendable masks as they are not expected to be satisfactory at altitudes above 25,000 feet.

After skirmishes of two weeks ago and the advance guard encounters of the past week-end, the main force swings into action. Big guns boom along the front lines on this Saturday. Some 300 listed college units come up to the firing lines and the rah-rah bunting unfurls in every nook and cranny.

Locally the men of Mt. St. Mary's engage the Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley, Friday at Harrisburg, and the Dutchmen are smarting after that Gettysburg defeat. Some indication as to the actual status at the Mount should be forthcoming at this trial. For where such disparity between contestants exists, as in the 47-0 King's College affair, practical evaluation is imaginary at best and provides no workable clue for the future. Could be that John Law does have something there.

No Mason-Dixon Conference games on tap, although all clubs see action. Western Maryland at Gettysburg shapes up like the game most conducive to interest at the Mount. The Terrors swept by Dickinson, 27-7, while the Gettysburg Bulldogs showed a 33-14 margin over Lebanon Valley.

Where In The East
Much touted Army bunch collides with a Nittany Lion scarcely in the best of humor after the Villanova pasting, and here may lie a story.

Cornell, another pre-season favorite, tangles with Colgate, but a victory apiece, each on a par, this could be a nip and tuck affair.

The Ivy League gets under way in a brace of duels. The Harvard Crimson, humiliated by Stanford, meets the Columbia Lion fresh from a tune-up session, while the Dartmouth Indians and the Red and Blue of Penn come up to the wire in initial starts.

Elsewhere hereabouts, Boston College entertains the Deacons of Wake Forest, Brown and Holy Cross lock horns, the Navy Goat and the Princeton Tiger square off in Babe Ruth Stadium, Temple engages a promising Rutgers, Yale and Fordham meet in the bowl, Buckham matches strides with NYU, and the Mules of Muhlenberg are hosts to Duquesne's Dukes.

A Look At The South
Maryland versus Georgetown like a game to watch. The Terps are more than anxious to show what they've got, but the Hoyas from the heights appear a tough aggregation.

The Southeastern Conference offers Kentucky at Ole Miss, Alabama and Vandy, Georgia Tech at Tulane, while the Southern Conference puts Clemson at North Carolina State, Furman at South Carolina, and W. & M. against VPI.

Possibly of most interest, however, are the inter-Conference tilts which pit the Georgia Bulldogs against the Tarheels of North Carolina, and Duke at Tennessee.

Other competition will see the Rice Owls at LSU, Mississippi State and Baylor, VMI and George Washington, Virginia and Miami (of Ohio).

The Mid-West Offerings
Wisconsin, which got off to a flying start against Marquette last week, takes on the Fighting Illini, tied by Iowa State; Indiana, hapless victim of Notre Dame, meets the questionable Buckeyes of Ohio State; Iowa meets Purdue, each short end last week. There are Big Ten brawls.

The Big Seven shows Iowa State at Kansas, and Colorado at Kansas State.

Non-league tilts in the midlands offer Minnesota's Gophers at Nebraska, the erstwhile potent Panther of Pitt at Northwestern, a smart looking Villanova in an intersecting at Detroit, and Marquette at Michigan State. The Spartans of Michigan State, incidentally, made an auspicious entry into the Big Ten last week in spite of their loss to the Wolverines, 3-7. A rabid November crowd of nearly 100,000 assuredly attests the same.

Southwest and the Far West

Arkansas and TCU provide the only Southwest Conference game of the day. Texas A. & M. meets Oklahoma, SMU plays Missouri, and Texas takes on Idaho in the other game of reasonable merit.

The Pacific Coast Conference has the Golden Bears of California, conquerors of St. Mary's Gaels, at Oregon State; Washington State at Southern California, vanquishers of the Navy, and Oregon at UCLA in a slam bang-go.

Notre Dame, of course, meets the Huskies of Washington at Seattle, but the game of the day in these parts is quite likely to be head on crash of Michigan's Wolverines and the Stanford Indians at Palo Alto.

Santa Clara at Fresno State and Nevada at St. Mary's rounds out the coastal card.

The overall week-end slate should provide a fair picture of things to come.

40 Hours Devotion Ends At College

Forty Hours Devotions opened at St. Joseph's College last Sunday with High Mass celebrated by the Very Rev. Francis J. Dodd, C.M., Ph.D., president of the college. Seminarians from Mt. St. Mary's assisted at the Mass and in the procession which followed. College students in academic attire sang the Mass and were present for a adoration throughout the day.

Students also attended the Pep Rally held at Mt. St. Mary's College last night. The rally, complete with traditional bonfire, was held in preparation for the Mount's game with Lebanon Valley Saturday evening, students will attend the annual Pigskin Hop to be held in Flynn Hall at the Mount. A blanket invitation has been extended to all students.

HELEN HAYES

POSTPONES SCHEDULE

It was announced this week that due to shock occasioned by the sudden death of her daughter, Helen Hayes will be unable to appear in the Electric Theatre of the Air broadcasts until late October or nearly November. Miss Hayes' daughter, Mary MacArthur, died Sept. 22.

Miss Hayes was scheduled to begin her 1949-50 season with the Electric Theatre on Oct. 9, and announcements to that effect have been sent out to The Potomac Edison Co. customers. This company sponsors the Helen Hayes broadcasts in co-operation with other business-owned, tax-paying utility companies from coast to coast.

The PE stated that newspapers and other publications will carry a series of advertisements announcing the date of Miss Hayes' appearance on the Electric Theatre programs when she is able to return to the air.

100-Mile Race At Williams Grove Speedway

Eagerly awaited every year by auto racing fans, the "Little Indianapolis," the annual National Championship midget racing classic on the half-mile Williams Grove Speedway, bigger and better than ever, will be run Sunday, Oct. 2.

This year for the first time the doodlebugs will go for a distance of 200 laps, or 100 miles, longest race in the history of the "Ascot of the East."

Drivers will warm-up for the big event the day before at the Bloomsburg Fair where Roy Richwine, owner of the Cumberland County oval, has been selected for the third consecutive year, to conduct the racing program. The feature race at the Bloomsburg Fair will be a distance of 50 laps, giving drivers chance to work the "bugs" out of their cars for the gruelling 100-mile test at Williams Grove.

Great name drivers, both from big car and midget racing ranks, are expected to appear at both races.

Typical of the Indianapolis Classic itself, the powerful little midgets will line up in "500" fashion.

Thirty-three cars and drivers—the same as at Indianapolis—will line up in tiers of three, starting 11 rows for the century test of speed, skill, and stamina.

Fans will have all the atmosphere of the Classic itself, with drivers making pit stops for tires, gas, oil, and repairs. Boards similar to those used in the "500" to signal drivers their position, the lap they are in, etc., will be put into use by pit crews to help their car and driver to victory.

Mr. Richwine announced this week that there has been a heavy advance sale of tickets for the "Little Indianapolis" and advises fans who want to be assured of seats to make their reservations immediately for one of the greatest races of the year on any half-mile oval in the country.

Grange Holds Regular Meeting

Approximately 35 members were present. The matter of exhibits to be entered at the Frederick Fair was largely discussed.

The population of American Samoa was 13,273 in 1940.

Nancy Holmes SUGGESTS

ITS football season all over! That means gay, informal supper parties where you will have to carry the ball to provide plenty of delicious food to satisfy enormous appetites, whetted by an afternoon in the fresh air.

To the rescue comes Best Foods home economist Nancy Holmes, with the suggestion that you serve Gridiron Casserole, teamed with Pennant Salads. Whether you're a teen-ager, young bride or expert cook you're bound to draw cheers for this tasty menu.

Gridiron Casserole
4 tablespoons vitaminized margarine
1 medium onion, chopped fine
1 pound hamburger
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 can condensed tomato soup
1 cup water
1 6-ounce package noodles
1 medium can whole kernel corn
12 pitted ripe olives
1 cup grated cheese
Parsley

Melt margarine in skillet, add onion and brown lightly. Add hamburger and brown. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add tomato soup and water. Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and add to meat mixture with corn and ripe olives. Pour into greased casserole and sprinkle grated cheese over top. Bake in moderately hot oven (375°F.) 20 minutes. Yield: 6 generous servings.

Pennant Salads
Cut red skinned apples into thin slices; remove center. Spread half of the slices with a mixture of 1/2 cup raisins, 1/2 cup peanut butter and 2 tablespoons real mayonnaise. Top with remaining slices, sandwich-fashion. Cut in halves and arrange on lettuce leaves. Serve with additional mayonnaise. Anchor miniature pennants in red cherries and top each salad with one.

Reregistration Of County Voters Undecided

No final decision has been reached as yet on the possibility of a general reregistration of all Frederick County voters in 1950 prior to the State and County primaries, it was learned this week.

Although it had been taken for granted that his reregistration would occur, there are a number of questions involved which have not been settled and conceivably could delay the reregistration for another two years.

It is considered probable that an act would have to be passed by the General Assembly authorizing the reregistration. Although the session of the legislature early in 1950 is reported scheduled to consider only budgetary items, there is a belief that an emergency act might get through.

However, some time before the legislature meets, the County Commissioners will prepare and adopt their 1950 budget. That takes place before the first of the year. In the budget must be included any funds for a reregistration, which will require quite an expenditure.

There were reports recently, one commissioner said, that it might not be possible to get new registration books in time for the reregistration. Many of these books will be necessary. There are 60 precincts in the county and several books are needed for each precinct.

Each book must contain spaces for such items as the registrant's residence and address, name, party affiliation, age and a number of other items along with spaces at the end where the registration judge can make a check mark to indicate whether the registrant voted in the latest primary and election.

It is the exhausting of these spaces on the old books that makes a new registration a virtual necessity. The last spaces where the judges could check persons who vote were for the 1949 primaries and elections.

It would be possible, if legal and necessary, to line off additional spaces in the old books for use at the 1950 primaries and election. This would be in the space reserved for "remarks." However, this would take much time and might not be considered lawful. A reregistration would still be necessary at the next primary and election in 1952.

Deer Season May Open As Usual

The likelihood of Maryland's deer-hunting season's being canceled or curtailed because of the unexpected deaths of the animals at Aberdeen and in far Western Maryland appears remote following week-end surveys, State Game Director Ernest A. Vaughn said Wednesday.

No new fatalities were reported at Aberdeen after a large force of men had combed the wooded areas, Director Vaughn said.

"Whatever the cause, it appears to have stopped as suddenly as it started," declared Director Vaughn, "and unless there is a fresh outbreak we certainly shall not curb the State's deer-hunting season."

The carcass of one deer was found by a farmer on Warrior Mountain about 15 miles from Cumberland over the week-end and was examined by a Hagerstown veterinarian who said its death was due to blackleg, a cattle disease which has been suggested as the cause. This was the tenth deer that has been found dead in the far Western Maryland areas.

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke removed the vital organs of the animal and shipped them to the University of Maryland for further examination.

Director Vaughn leans more to the theory that the Aberdeen deer deaths were due to some sort of chemical sprayed on foliage from shell fire or bomb blast.

Sense In Scents

Lovely star Lucille Wall, of NBC's "Portia Faces Life," claims the best guide to perfume selection is the rule of three: the time, the place and the person. "Check mentally on ALL three," she says, "before you choose sweet, subtle or sultry scents for that big date!" Don't feel that there is only one perfume for you, because you can be more than ONE person!
