GOOD OLE EST

Much as I'm in favor of daylight saving time, I must admit that I was glad to return to good old Eastern Standard. During the summer when it was hot and humid, it was great to be able to go swimming after a hard day's work, or get a couple 'o rounds of golf in while it was still daylight, especially knowing that you could still get a good night's sleep in due to the extra hour of daylight. But, oh boy, come September when old Sol goes behind the clouds early in the evening and the earth is clothed in darkness by 6 p. m., who wants to stick to Daylight Saving time, when it means getting up in the dark to go to work, shivering in the cold early morning dampness? Not yours truly certainly. . . . So, as I said before, I'm all for DST during the summer months but certainly I was vastly relieved when we turned the various Big and Little Bens back an hour recently.

Apologies of declining temperatures comes the sudden reminder that Christmas isn't far off as you might be wont to think. I haven't gone so far as to count the actual shopping days till Christmas, but I HAVE figured by "high" calculus that in round figures there are but THREE months till the big day itself.

So don't say I didn't warn you. Look around you at the beautiful multi-colored leaves on the trees. Leaves that don't appear quite so lovely when they clutter your pavement up as fast as you can clean them up, I might add.

Certainly one glance at our gorgeous Blue Ridge Mountains clothed in her orgy of vivid, riotous color should convince you that Fall is here. . . . and can winter be far behind? Yuh know, there are times when I'm quite positive that Spring is the most wonderful season after all here in our fair villa. . . . Then comes summer, and I convince myself that there's no better place in the world to be during the hot months than right here in this quiet little hamlet with its nearby swimming "holes."

Then Fall takes over and splashes everything with such a riot of rich hues that I tell myself, This is IT. This is perfection."

So it is until 'ole man Winter wraps his fleecy white blanket of snow over everything and once again my mind is changed. . . . Fickle? Well, no, I don't believe you could in any fairness call it that. I think it's just that I'm grateful to God and appreciation of ALL the seasons with ALL their respective accompanying beauty.

PERHAPS LATER

I'm in mourning with a lot of other folks for the Boston Redsox over their inevitable defeat last Sunday. I say "inevitable" because I think that's just the way it always HAS been for some reason or other. The Yanks worked hard for their victories, but gee whiz, just for once I'd like to see some one else get to the top of the heap of it. I was certain that the Sox would do it this time, but somehow it just wasn't in the cards again. Oh well, maybe next season, who knows?

COLD POISON

John, our favorite bartender, would have you believe he read it in an insurance company report: "The reason a bartender lives 13 years less than the average citizen was found after a two-year extensive survey. Not for the whisky he might consume, but it was discovered that the average bartender drank six and one-half glasses of ice water a day. This tends to make him a poor risk."

MOUNTAINEERS PRIMED FOR WAYNESBURG

Coach Law Makes Revisions In Lineup After Lebanon Game

Although most of John Law's Mountaineer gridders came through the heartbreaking defeat at the hands of Lebanon Valley in the last 30 seconds of play in good shape, Law will be forced to do some shuffling with his backfield for tomorrow's game with Waynesburg.

Jimmy Adams, who has starred from his righthalf slot, will definitely miss the Waynesburg tilt because of a shoulder separation.

As things look now, Law is expected to shift Leahy into full-back and run Belardinelli and Veltri from the halves. This should give the Mountaineers great explosive power to either side.

While depressed because of the defeat and rather inadequate pass defense, Coach Law saw some bright spots in the Lebanon game. The defensive line played excellent ball although the mentor expects his ends to exert more pressure on the Waynesburg passers than they did on the Lebanon passers. The team will operate against Waynesburg using the two-platoon system that has characterized Mountaineer play all year. John Borsuk, the best lineman on the field against Lebanon, will again see action both with offense and defense.

Pass defense and offensive blocking headed the list of practice chores for the Mountaineers this week. Coach Law was disappointed with his downfield blocking, since time and time again Veltri and Belardinelli were thrown by secondary defenders when good blocks would have set up touchdowns. While pass defense against long heaves seemed adequate, too often Lebanon receivers were open to passes of only ten yards. The Coach hopes to work out a thorough defense for anything Waynesburg may throw against the Mounties.

For several of the Lawmen the Waynesburg game will be an opportunity to show off before home folks. But Veltri has been sensational in both Mountaineer tests, chipping in a 45-yard dash against Lebanon to go with his 75-yard punt return in the Kings game. Andy Kerr was full of enthusiastic comments about the little Vandergriff halfback who almost wrecked the Flying Dutchmen. Quarterback Frank Bono, Leeburg, Guard Joe Curci of Vandergriff, will also be coming close to home.

Pittsburgh Negro Hangs Self In Frederick Jail

A 22-year-old Pittsburgh colored man committed suicide by hanging himself from the Frederick City lockup window-screen last Saturday evening.

Joseph C. Brown, 709 Avery St., honorably discharged soldier, according to Army papers carried on him, was arrested about 5:30 p. m. in Frederick last Saturday for investigation of disorderly conduct.

The colored man stopped off in Frederick, en route to his home in Pittsburgh. He carried a bus ticket to that destination, via Washington Grove, Pa., authorities said.

No Motive Found

No motive for the suicide could be given by police. The man was placed in the lockup about 5:30 o'clock. Shortly before 6 p. m. Desk Sgt. Phil Culler found the prisoner dangling from a belt- noose from the high window screening of the compartment at the south end of the hallway.

A galvanized water bucket had been used by the suicide victim, to reach up to tie the upper end of his belt into the screen of the window. Then Brown either stepped off of the inverted bucket or kicked it aside.

Deputy Sheriff R. Paul Buhrman brought in the County Medical Examiner. Cause of death was given as suffocation by strangulation, self-inflicted.

Legion Auxiliary Is Planning Halloween Party

Proceeds from the rummage sale held Sept. 10, netted the Auxiliary $52.65.

Permission was granted Jack Rosensteel to use the meeting rooms for his business of handling the American Legion junior baseball team.

Plans were discussed for the annual Halloween party and the date set at Tuesday, Oct. 25, in the Post Home. All regular and social members are invited.

Attention is called to members that the next regular meeting will be held at 8 o'clock instead of the regular meeting time, 8:30.

Permission was granted to Dr. Easterday, county health head, and Mrs. Ward, county health nurse, to use the meeting headquarters for a child welfare and pre-natal clinic.

Merchant Succumbs

Funeral Services For Merchant Held Tuesday

One of Emmitsburg's most well-known merchants died suddenly Saturday evening. J. Edward Houck, owner and operator of the Emmitsburg Quality Soap company, succumbed to a heart attack at his home on the Square about 5 o'clock Saturday evening. Mr. Houck had been ill for the past few months. The deceased was aged 63 years and was the son of the late George and Mary (Elder) Houck.

Prior to his entering business here, Mr. Houck was associated for many years with the Airtight Steel Tank Company, Pittsburgh, and later opened a business establishment in Baltimore. Coming to Emmitsburg about 25 years ago, Mr. Houck founded the present clothing concern and operated it until the time of his demise.

The deceased enjoyed a wide circle of friends and business associates and was a former member of the Lions Club and the Knights of Columbus. He was a member of the Holy Name Society up until his death.

Mr. Houck was always interested in the future of Emmitsburg and did many things to further the development of the Town. For several years he acted as president of the Emmitt Gardens Development and held that office up until three months before he died, when he resigned the position because of failing health. He was also a member of the Modern Woodmen of America.

Mr. Houck was a devout member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Surviving besides his widow, Agnes (Rosensteel) Houck, are two daughters, Margaret, Mary Teresa and a son, Edward Houck, Jr.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning with a requiem mass celebrated by the Rev. Francis Stauble, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Roy Bollinger, Walter Crouse, Os Sprigg, Floyd Miller, John Walters and Jack Humerick.

Mrs. Rial Deeds Roddy Quarry To Mt. St. Mary's

Mrs. Marie Gloninger Rial of St. Anthony's, has transferred to the President and Council of Mt. St. Mary's College what is known as the old Roddy quarry, near the college, according to a deed recorded in the clerk's office, Frederick. Certain easements are also included.

The President and Council of the college agree to establish a tuitional scholarship in Mt. St. Mary's Seminary to be known as the Marie Gloninger Rial scholarship and also make certain other covenants.

The deed recites that in appreciation and support of the traditional work carried on by the college for nearly 150 years, the transfer of property, embracing about 1.95 acres, is made.

A right of way is given over such part of the Clairvaux farm, also owned by Mrs. Rial, as shall provide a direct and convenient approach for a water line to the college, together with a right of way over land extending six feet on each side of the water line. All improvements at the quarry are included, along with the right to maintain a pole and power lines in the place in which equipment is now located or such suitable place as the college may find expedient for the purpose of bringing power to the pumps at the quarry.

The grantor reserves full non-commercial swimming, fishing and boating privileges in the quarry to the extent that they will not interfere with the grantee (college's) rights.

The college must build and maintain a fence around the quarry to protect livestock. They must also build and maintain for 10 years a pier or dock suitable for use of swimmers in the quarry.

It is understood that Mrs. Rial is also deeding to the college the historical old Elder graveyard on her property. The consideration is nominal.

By another deed, Mrs. Rial and Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Moser clarify the boundaries of their respective lands, which are contiguous.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

It should not be assumed that all merchants of Emmitsburg are men. Else there would have to be omitted a very attractive little store which is popular with the women in particular. That is the unique Utility Shop operated by Miss Ruth Gillean. She has a sister named Rhoda, meaning rose, retired angel of mercy. These two ladies, held in such high regard in the community, remind us of the Biblical story of Mary and Martha. They live in a state of single blessedness with Miss Ruth, like Martha, playing the roll of the successful business executive.

GILLELAN

This popular name in Scotland, means Servant of the Land. It is derived from a combination of two forms into one.

The first is Gille. This is derived from the Latin Julius popularized by the famed Julius Caesar. Since July came from this source, originally meaning The Divine, this name, with its many forms, became popular for persons born in the seventh month. One of the popular English forms of Julian is Gillian which was brought to England and recorded in the Hunden Roll, a census taken in 1273.

Ten saints called Julian clothed the name with a christian glory. The best known was Saint Julian, the legendary Hospitalizer, the patron saint of

PEN-MAR BASEBALL LEAGUE IS FORMED HERE

Officials Elected; Unit Has Opening For Another Club

Formation of a new baseball league took place Tuesday evening in the Firemen's Hall, Emmitsburg. A rebellious aggregation of the old Penn-Maryland League took steps to withdraw from that organization and founded the new Pen-Mar League. The circuit contains seven clubs at the present time, with the intention of admitting another in the near future.

Comprising the association are these clubs: Emmitsburg, Thurmont, Taneytown, Blue Ridge Summit, McSherrystown, Hanover and Littlestown.

New officials of the unit were nominated and elected at Tuesday's session. Installed as president was Dr. D. L. Beegle, Emmitsburg; Bernard Weaver, Littlestown, vice president; C. A. Elder, secretary-treasurer, Emmitsburg. A new innovation of the group is the inauguration of a board of arbitrators. This board is comprised of Ray McGlaughlin, Emmitsburg, Capt. Euodard Grenier, Hanover, and Rev. Frank Reynolds, Littlestown. The three-man board will rule on all disputes arising during the season.

Many of the old by-laws of the Penn-Maryland League were adopted and quite a few were accepted only after rigid revision. Retained was the 15-mile player eligibility rule. The rule prohibiting the use of Negro players in the circuit was repealed, thus paving the way for use of the colored athletes in the new league.

The next meeting of the newly-formed association will be held in Littlestown at the VFW Hall on Nov. 15. All clubs are requested to attend.

Play Littlestown Sunday

Business Manager Norman Flax announced this week that the Emmitsburg Baseball Club will engage Littlestown at the latter's field this Sunday. A repeat performance of the two clubs will be staged at Community Field, Emmitsburg, on Sunday, Oct. 16, at 2:30 p. m.

Elected Treasurer

Mrs. William A. Frailey was elected treasurer and financial secretary of Trinity Methodist Church at the Quarterly Conference which met in Thurmont Methodist Church on Sept. 25.

travelers. Another was said to be Saint Julian. She was a woman who became a martyr sacred to the Low Countries.

Well known names have come from Gille. One is Jill which was made famous in the popular nursery rhyme of Jack and Jill. Other forms are Gilson, Joliet, Jowett, Gillett, Giles, Jules, Jewett, etc.

Likewise, the name of Gille serves as a prefix to many prominent names today such as Gilchrist, meaning Servant of Christ; Gilfred, meaning Servant of Peace; Gilmore, meaning Servant of the Virgin Mary; Gilroy, Servant of the King; Gillespie, Servant of the Bishop; Gillian, Servant of the Saints; Gillean, Servant of the Land.

This suggests the second half of the name. That is Land, shortened into Lan. This part of the name usually referred to the Chief's or King's estate. As such it suggests that the Gillean was associated with the royalty in the olden days. This was true in particular in Scotland. In England where the name was first brought by the saints in the 12th century, Gille with its various forms, became popular among new converts to the faith as a baptismal name meaning Servant of Christ.

Thus, in either case, the name seems to have been closely associated with both heavenly and earthly royalty, implying fidelity to both.

THE NEW WAGE-HOUR LAW

The new wage-hour bill, as passed by the House, establishes a flat 75-cent minimum. It also continues the existing retail establishment exemption, with minor modifications.

It is important that the public understand the reason for the last provision, inasmuch as efforts were made to knock it out of the new bill, and that may happen again. Retailing, especially in the smaller communities, has peculiarities which are not shared by most other industries and businesses. For example, it is usually impossible for a retail store to operate on a 40-hour week—many people can shop only on Saturdays, or on certain evenings.

Furthermore, retailing has room for beginners, part-time workers, and unskilled labor whose services cannot justify a high wage—and who might not be employed at all in many cases if a high wage and overtime payments were made legally mandatory. These people can earn a modest wage developing skills and responsibilities which will bring them higher pay as time goes along. The consensus of the experts was that it was necessary to continue the retail exemption in order to assure the perpetuation of this kind of employment. If the exemption had been eliminated, many people, whom the wage-hour law is supposed to help, would have been hurt.

The House, in framing the new bill took these facts, which are based on years of operating experience by thousands of retail stores, into consideration. In that regard, it acted wisely.

Million and Half Families Drawing Security Insurance

One million six hundred thousand families are directly benefiting from the operations of the Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance program.

At least one individual in that many families is receiving a monthly benefit payment for a monthly total of almost $51,000,000 to the more than 2,500,000 persons involved. William J. Lanahan, manager of the field office of the Social Security Administration in Hagerstown, revealed that almost two thirds of these receiving the monthly payments were retired workers or members of their families. The other third of the payments are to the survivors of insured workers who have died.

This government insurance system operates only for wages and salary earners in private industry and commerce, for their families, and for the survivors of certain World War II veterans. Not covered by the law are, in general, jobs in agriculture, domestic service in private homes. Federal, state or local government service, and work in religious, charitable and certain other non-profit organizations. The self-employed also are not protected.

Contrary to some people's ideas, Mr. Lanahan explained, the application of the law is not based on the number of workers an employer may have. All employers of one or more workers, even part-time workers, are subject to the Social Security Act if the type of work is covered by the law.

Betty Winkler and George Keane, popular radio couple, wear their trim "husband and wife" sweaters. Neat, smart, and easy to knit, the sweaters have been designed for active use. Betty and George—married in real life—are starred as Mr. and Mrs. in CBS's "Rosemary," popular weekday serial.

"For sports, lounging, and even for chilly air-conditioned radio studios, these sweaters really fill the bill," says Betty, who knit the pair shown above from instructions found in the Winter issue of McCall Needlework Magazine. Utilizing the same pattern, Betty varied necklines for masculine and feminine styles.

What goes on here?

Referee makes first down—or did he really just miss it? Field judge blocks out the nearest tackler—or was it clipping? If the officials call 'em—and play too—what kind of a game is that?

You wouldn't stand for that sort of thing on a football field—but it happens every day in the electric light and power business. Government not only regulates the electric companies—but is in competition with them at the same time!

The catch is that government sets up two different sets of rules. Government electric agencies pay little or no interest on borrowed money, and pay no Federal taxes—but electric companies do, and expect to. When government-in-the-power-business can't make ends meet—it gets a handout of tax money from the U.S. Treasury. Who foots the bill? American taxpayers—of which you are one.

If government can get into the light and power business this way—it can get into every other business in just exactly the same way.

In sixty-odd years, the self-supporting electric companies have built for America the most and the best electric service in the world. While costs of everything else are way up (including the costs of making and delivering electricity) electric service is still the best bargain in the American family's budget... it does so much, and costs so little.

This is a good record for the thousands of people who work in power companies, and for the millions of people who invest savings in them.

Don't you think these men and women deserve a fair break?

The answer is yours to make, for government money is your money.

LOOKING AT RELIGION

Too Many Good Cigars

When John Tarlach, 39, of Elizabeth, N. J., switched from evil-smelling stogies to fragrant Havanas, neighbors and police became suspicious. Tarlach admitted the theft of 540 cigars valued at $10,000.

When you're entertaining and want to be free of pot-watching, serve Hamburger Goulash. It's full of savor, combines nicely with a tossed green salad and suffers no damage if it must stand and wait for late guests' arrival. Fry 4 slices bacon and add 1 lb. cubed beef, 1 lb. cubed pork, 1 cup chopped onion. Brown lightly. Add 4 slices tomatoes, 1/2 tsp. paprika, 1/2 tsp. caraway seed, 1/2 tsp. marjoram, 1 tsp. salt, 2 cups stock. Simmer over low flame until beef is tender (about 2 hrs.). Yield: 6 portions. Place the goulash in a ring of fluffy white rice or mashed potatoes.

Dust and lint in the air collect on the air filters of your gas furnace. Now is an excellent time to replace this inexpensive protection obtainable from your hardware dealer or furnace repairman.

Soup sometimes becomes quite greasy. Drop a few lettuce leaves in it to absorb excess fat, then remove them just before serving.

Any acid foods allowed to remain on porcelain surfaces of sink or gas range will stain them. Wipe up spills at once with a soft paper towel.

Your finest linens will have a smoother finished texture if they are damp-dried in the gas dryer instead of dried out completely. They'll be easier to iron too.

Diced bacon flavors hamburgers and helps to keep them moist. Use about 4 slices bacon to 1-lb hamburger.

Housing Boom in Norway

Henry Ford Film To Be Presented By Lutherans

Henry Ford's last major activity was to help Perry Hyden, the Quaker miller of Tecumseh, Michigan, stage a phenomenal tithing demonstration which has been preserved in a color sound movie entitled, "God Is My Landlord," and is to be shown free of charge this Sunday night, October 9, at 7 p. m. in the Lutheran Parish House, Emmitsburg.

This unusual human interest story of how one cubic inch of wheat fed thousands of starving people in Europe and taught the entire world a simple biblical lesson on tithing, has been pictured in LIFE and other national magazines as well as newsreels and newspapers all over the world.

Robert Ripley featured the famous experiment which was based on John 12:24: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, except a corn (kernel) of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit," and declared that the growth of the dynamic kernels would cover the entire globe within 13 years if continued.

Sometime before his death, Mr. Ford made the following statement: "I believe the lesson on tithing that we taught at Tecumseh, will eclipse any of my other accomplishments—it is surely destined to go around the world."

The picture will be preceded by a 15-minute period of devotion led by the pastor. The entire public is invited to attend.

CARE Offers Help In Sending Food Abroad

Garafoulia Banzou has brown eyes and dark brown hair which is tied in two stiff little braids with blue rags. Her broken shoes are fastened to her feet with strips of blue cloth. Garafoulia likes to go to school, and says she wants to be a seamstress, so that some day she can make herself a new dress. She is 9 years old.

Garafoulia's father died of malnutrition during the German occupation, in the starvation winter of 1941. Her mother, who was still young and pretty, went to work in a factory to support her two children. Someone saw her, offered to marry her, and then disappeared when he learned she was expecting another baby. Then Garafoulia's grandmother, with whom they had been living, became angry and ordered her erring daughter's family out of her home. The local schoolmaster took pity on them and let them move into a small closet room in the schoolhouse. There they are still living—the mother, who is racked with tuberculosis and has to stay in bed much of the day; 16-year-old Theocharis; Garafoulia, and the baby, John, the innocent cause of much of the family's trouble.

Their room is clean but almost completely bare; their only furniture is a single bed, without a mattress or blankets, on which all four members of the family sleep. The oldest boy already has heart trouble and cannot go to work. He goes to school regularly and is anxious to get more education. All of the Banzou children need more food, warm clothing, and beds of their own, so they will not contract the disease which is rapidly wasting away their mother's life.

CARE offers a quick, sure and efficient way to ease the hardship of this and other helpless families overseas. A $10 CARE food package contains 24 pounds of the kinds of food most needed abroad and most difficult for the average family to obtain. Also available is a $5.50 Thrift food package. Orders or contributions in lesser amounts may be sent to CARE, 20 Broad St., New York 5, or any CARE office in this country).

Fascinatin' Fashions

By Judy Seaton

"A rose is a rose is a Rose-feld!" Actress Joan Alexander read the flowery inscription, then exclaimed: "And it's so true! I've never found dresses so 'ready-to-wear' before!" Joan marveled at the latest designs, and finally chose this striped Cohama Jersey for the picture.

Besides her role as Della Street over CBS on "Perry Mason," Joan also plays Audrey Roberts on "Rosemary." "With those two and frequent calls for nighttime half-hour shows," she says, "I have to have a wardrobe that's ready for anything!"

The simple lines and beautiful cut of this dress illustrate today's trend in fashion toward easily adaptable clothes.

Most important, this nylon jersey heralds a revolution in warm weather convenience. No longer does summer mean hours of ironing, tedious time spent over a heavy wash. For now, with the brand-new nylon weaves, in exactly one hour after tubbing, the dress is ready to wear, without even ironing!

"It's just what I need with my schedule," said Joan. "But does it really dry that fast?" An on-the-spot test convinced her—a swatch of material was washed, and when Joan left a half hour later, it was bone dry!

PE Company Offers Advice On Household Safety

Residents of this area today were again advised by local power company officials to exert special caution when using ladders—and, especially metal ladders—when working near any electric wires.

The Potomac Edison Company spokesman said that this warning especially applies to farmers and fruit growers, for in their type of work they often employ ladders in close proximity to the power lines.

"The new metal ladders are light, easily carried and tall," the safety expert stated, "but they are also excellent conductors of electricity. When using ladders of any type, but especially the metal ones, be sure for your own sake to watch out for, and avoid contact with lethal electric wires."

Only very recently, newspapers carried the story of an orchard worker who was killed while carrying a metal ladder which came in contact with overhead electric lines. While this unfortunate accident did not occur in this area, it tragically demonstrates the hazard which exists.

"A new type of danger has come to our attention," the spokesman said. "The erection of television antennae often requires work near electric wires. These long metal poles are also excellent conductors of electricity, and we therefore strongly caution television workmen to inspect the area before they start to work and give due regard to the presence of electric wires."

Allergies Of Many People Not Considered New Disease

Allergy, or sensitivity to various substances, is not a new ailment that suddenly struck for the first time during this generation, but the fact that allergy is responsible for a number of conditions which were formerly unexplained has been known to medical science only for the past few years.

The person who is allergic reacts peculiarly to contact with a certain substance or agent that is harmless to most people. The allergic person is usually normal and healthy in all other respects.

When the offending agent affects the skin of an allergy patient, it causes a rash similar to eczema. Another common allergic reaction is hay fever, a condition resulting when the eyes and nose of the sufferers are sensitive to ragweed pollen or pollen of other plants.

An allergic person whose bronchial tubes are affected by some agent, causing difficulty in breathing, is said to have asthma.

We still have a lot to learn about allergies, but progress is constantly being made toward relieving and even curing allergic patients. When he seeks medical treatment, the person with allergic reactions will find that the doctor questions him thoroughly about his habits, his occupations, his home life, environment, diet and other living habits.

Before he can specifically advise or treat his allergic patient, the doctor must act as a detective and a complete history of the patient furnishes him with "clues" in finding the offending agents and substances.

Then the doctor can advise his patient in avoiding things to which the sufferer is sensitive, and, in some cases, the doctor can even treat his patient so that he will build up resistance to the substances bothering him.

In his search for the offending agents, the doctor may also use skin tests on his allergic patients. Among the most common substances causing sensitivity are milk, eggs, fish, alcoholic beverages, spices, plant pollens, house

SHORT STORY

Mr. Diggles On Duty

By MARY WHITEFORD

MR. DIGGLES kept his head down as though he were studying the prescription, scarcely hearing Mrs. Tompkins' voice through the noise of blood thudding in his temples. When he tried to speak, his lips were dry and his tongue moved nervously over them. "I beg your pardon, Mrs. Tompkins, what was that you said?"

"Wait for the three o'clock bus, but I'm anxious to get back as soon as I can."

He looked again at Dr. Price's cramped handwriting. "Oh, I'll deliver it, Mrs. Tompkins. I'm sorry to learn Mr. Tompkins isn't well." "I told him it's just his bad disposition coming out. I told Dr. Price I certainly hated to drag him out in weather like this just for a stomach ache. Doctor says he'll be all right in a day or two."

Mr. Diggles took the handkerchief from the pocket of his grey alpaca coat and wiped his forehead. The moment he was used to dream of years ago, he was here at last. This would cost Dr. Price his practice. The pity was, Dr. Price would never know he could have saved himself, if he hadn't made it so clear that a man who mixed prescriptions wasn't supposed to know about diagnosis. Dr. Price would never know what he'd done to himself when he told Mrs. White she might as well give the twins a chocolate soda as Diggles' Own Whooping Cough Mixture. Because of Dr. Price's new ways of doing things, no one bought Diggles' Ready Rheumatism Reliever now. Shots, it was, the doctor was giving for everything. Not prescriptions.

Slamming the door, they called it. Let his lips. Well, no one could expect Mr. Diggles to interfere with Dr. Price's prescriptions again. Not a second time.

Though it was so many years ago, he could feel the flush of anger that flooded his face remembering the day he'd called Dr. Price up, and suggested that maybe the heart medicine he ordered for Mr. Venables was too strong.

"I know what I'm doing. Just mind your own business, Diggles, and I can mind mine."

He looked again at the prescription. There was no mistaking the symbol and he'd fill it as it stood. He reached for the bottle and removed the cork. Carefully, he measured out the prescribed dose.

MR. DIGGLES straightened suddenly, staring at the partly filled mortar. A feeling of nausea swept through him as he snatched it up and flung the contents into the sink. His hand, replacing the bottle on the shelf, trembled. Outside, the wind howled and flakes of ice made a cold noise beating the window pane.

Slowly, he walked toward the telephone. After all, just as many people swore by Dr. Price as trusted Diggles.

As he waited, listening to Dr. Price's telephone bell ringing, the shop door opened. Mr. Diggles put down the receiver and went to the front. Dr. Price was on the mat, stamping the snow from his feet.

"Diggles, will you let me see the prescription Mrs. Tompkins just brought in?"

"I was just trying to call you about it, Dr. Price. I felt there was some little inaccuracy."

Dr. Price nodded. "Something told me. But I wasn't really worried. I knew you'd catch a mistake if there was one. It's a great comfort to me to know that a substantial man like you is checking up on me, Diggles."

"I have to do what I can. A man has to do his duty. He smiled and stood up.

"That's right, doctor. I guess duty becomes a habit if you do it long enough." The wind screamed into the shop as Dr. Price opened the door and went out. It was a bleak, bitter day, but in Mr. Diggles' heart it was suddenly summer.

It was not until 1802 that a method for extracting sugar from beets was perfected.

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

Busy, nippy Autumn days call for hearty desserts. Steamed puddings, that can be made in advance, are a good choice for this season.

Margaret McPheeters, extension nutrition specialist, points out that fruit as well as suet puddings can be steamed. Using the pressure saucepan cuts down the cooking time.

Any type container may be used to steam a pudding, as long as it is covered to keep out moisture. Tight lids should have several holes punched in them to allow steam to escape. Try individual baking cups, covered with several thicknesses of heavy waxed paper held in place by rubber bands, for a company or bridge dessert. Grease all containers, and fill them only two-thirds full so the mixture may rise.

Keep the puddings in the refrigerator, wrapped in waxed paper or aluminum foil, in the cans in which they were baked. They can be reheated in a few minutes to serve with hot lemon sauce, cold hard sauce or whipped cream.

Keep pad and pencil handy when you're packing away summer clothes and equipment this fall. Then you can jot down what you put away and where.

This memo will spare your household a spring hunting season when Dad goes searching for his fishing tackle, Junior hunts for his tennis shoes, Sis tries to find her Easter hat and the familiar cry of "Mother, where did you put my . . ." is heard from cellar to attic.

Some practical housekeepers list on attic or closed doors the articles stored therein. Others label each trunk, box and bag with

Essex Potato is Resistant To Late Blight

A new potato variety, which is very resistant to late blight, topped Maryland yield tests this year. The University of Maryland re-year. State plant pathologist at ports that in his trials at Pocomoke, the Essex potato produced 433 bushels of U. S. No. 1 potatoes per acre. This potato, which was developed at Cornell University, matures at about the same time at Katahdin.

Irish Cobblers, usually grown in the area, produced 337 bushels per acre from Maine grown seed and 371 bushels from locally grown seed. A seedling and the variety Marygold, both developed by the University in cooperation with the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, were next to the highest in yield. The new seedling, a long potato with shallow eyes, rusty skin and superior baking quality, averaged 384. The Marygold yield was 370 bushels per acre.

The pathologist reports that he is very pleased with the blight resistance of the Essex variety and believes it offers some promise as a desirable variety for Maryland growers. Its shape and quality are similar to Irish Cobbler, but it has more shallow eyes.

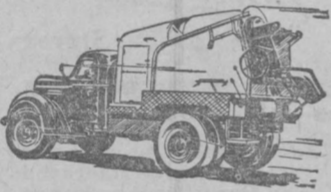

Another variety which has attracted some attention during the past year or two is the Kennebec. It averaged 409 bushels of U. S. No. 1 potatoes per acre in trials during the past two years. However, it matures much later than Irish Cobbler and when planted in March cannot be dug until the middle of August unless the vines are killed or pulled.

The 1940 U. S. census gave the number of American Indians as 329,476.

Young Democrats Meet To Map Campaign Strategy

Official headquarters for the 1949 Young Democratic National Convention was opened last week in Chattanooga, Tenn., where several thousand Young Democrats from throughout the U. S. will gather Nov. 17-19 for their biennial meeting. Roy G. Baker, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, announced.

Preliminary arrangements for the program were ironed out at a meeting of the convention program committee in Kansas City, Mr. Baker said.

"We have an outstanding program of speakers tentatively agreed upon and from this standpoint I believe we can guarantee the most successful convention in our organization's history," Mr. Baker stated.

Many of the speakers, top-level government and party officials, are men and women who made their entry into political life through the Young Democratic movement, Baker indicated.

The convention will also set the strategy for Young Democratic participation in the 1950 campaign, through discussions of political organization techniques.

October Is Fire Prevention Month —
Help By Removing All Hazards!

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

The Committees of farmers who administer the Agricultural Conservation Program in Maryland are helping provide a special service to dairymen in parts of the Northeast where there is a shortage of hay.

The prolonged dry weather in New England this summer damaged haylands and pasture in many areas and caused a greater than usual need for roughage supplies. Many farmers have had to buy hay for the first time in several years, and others have found they can't get hay through the usual sources.

ACP Committees in Ohio, Virginia, and Maryland, and in the hay-surplus areas of New York, Pennsylvania and Maine, have conducted a county-by-county survey of the amounts and kinds of hay available and have listed the names of farmers, dealers, and producer-cooperatives having hay to sell, according to Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee. He estimates that more than 2,000 tons were located in the Free State.

This information has been passed on through PMA channels to county committees in areas of the Northeast where hay is short. Any farmer in the region from southern New Jersey north, who is having difficulty locating hay is urged to get in touch with his county ACP office. From there he can get a list of possible suppliers with whom he may make his own transaction.

In several states, the Extension Service is cooperating closely in the program and a great deal of hay has already been moved. Many dairymen have been enabled to secure hay suppliers from sources within their own states, as well as from parts of New York, Pennsylvania, and Maine that were not affected by the drought.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan recently stated, "A basic reason for price support programs is to give the farmer greater independence in choosing the time and the price at which he is willing to sell." This explanation, given by the Secretary at a recent Congressional Committee hearing, has been called to the attention of Maryland farmers by Mr. Blandford.

Other points which he stressed are: "Industry has cut production to maintain price, while the farmer traditionally has gone on producing while his prices went farther down out of line with industrial prices."

Between 1929 and the depression of the early 1930's, here is what happened in certain industries: Agricultural implements—prices declined 14 per cent, payrolls declined 83 per cent; iron and steel—price went down 16 per cent, payrolls went down 75 per cent; cement—prices went down 13, payrolls, 72; aluminum—prices went down 21 per cent, payrolls 69.

At that same time, farm prices went down by two-thirds, and in self-protection many farmers increased their crop acreages.

From 1932 to 1938 industrial production averaged about 25 per cent below that of 1929 while farm production averaged approximately the same as in 1929. Since the end of 1947 the prices of farm machinery have gone up 20 per cent and other farm equipment and supplies have gone up nearly 10 per cent. But prices received by farmers for their commodities have dropped 18 per cent.

As an offset to the economic power which is used to cut production and maintain the prices of goods sold to farmers, we must maintain the strongest possible farm price support program and provide the means for storing supplies which are not currently needed and for shifting gradually from production of commodities faced with declining demand to others where consumption can be expanded.

The amount of grain under price support with the Commodity Credit Corp. is running some 80 million bushels ahead of last year. In announcement this week, Mr. Blandford said that total amounts of wheat, barley, oats, rye and grain sorghums under the support program now exceed 188 million bushels. This is contrast to the 103 million bushels in the program on Sept. 1 a year ago.

In Maryland this year, farmers have placed more than 1142 thousand bushels of wheat and barley under loan in comparison to 323 thousand last year.

The Dept. of Agriculture also reports that it has re-sealed almost four and one-half million bushels of the 1948 wheat crop, one and one-third million bushels of oats, and more than two million bushels of barley.

One of the major networks shifts this fall concerns "The Railroad Hour," starring handsome baritone Gordon MacRae. The program, which presents operettas and musical comedies every Monday night, will move to the National Broadcasting Company network on Monday, October 3rd. "The Railroad Hour," in the year it has been on the air, has drawn plaudits from radio editors and listeners all over the country for giving listeners the opportunity, which they might never have had before, to hear great musical shows sung and portrayed by stars of the stage, films, radio, concert, and opera.

Gordon MacRae, who has been drawn plaudits from radio editors and listeners all over the country for giving listeners the opportunity, which they might never have had before, to hear great musical shows sung and portrayed by stars of the stage, films, radio, concert, and opera.

Lovely Florence Freeman, who plays the starring role in CBS's "Wendy Warren and the News" notified the show's director that she's expecting a baby "about September 27th." Knowing that Florence, whose two daughters are now 10 and 11, has always come through right on time, Director Tom McDermott has set up a schedule for recording the program for the necessary period of time, based on the date Florence has given. "But," says Tom, "she'd better be her usual punctual self this time, or we'll have to broadcast from the hospital."

A recent television broadcast of CBS's period comedy, "Mama," included a live cat in the cast—but it wasn't easy. Dickie Van Patten, who plays Nels Hanson, volunteered to bring his cat for the part. But on the way to rehearsal, the cat bolted from the taxi. Dickie and the burly cab-driver chanted "kitty, kitty" through the neighborhood. Dickie Van Patten but eventually had to give up. Dickie was an hour and a half late for rehearsal, and the cab-driver's cat wound up with an unexpected break on television. Dickie reports that his own cat is still brooding over having missed his chance at fame.

"After the excitement attending Jack Berch's departure for his hunting and fishing trip to the Yukon had died down, his wife, Margo, found her tape measure was missing. Little Johnny, who's just starting school, explained, 'Oh, I packed that with Daddy's gear.' It turned out that the boy had heard his father, star of NBC's Jack Berch show, remark that any of the giant Dall sheep he brought down would have to have horns measuring at least 40 inches to qualify as trophies. Johnny didn't want his father to make any mistakes!

Ex-Policeman Hangs Self In County Jail

Apparently depressed because of ill health, Roger Stemple Quinn, 67, one-time Frederick City policeman, hanged himself with a belt in the room that he was occupying at Montevue last Sunday night.

Authorities said Quinn strangled himself in the same manner employed by a colored man to commit suicide in the City Hall lockup last Saturday evening.

They reported that the Frederick man made a noose of his belt by using the buckle and placed this around his neck. He then apparently attached the loose end of the belt to the heavy mesh screening which permanently covers windows at the almshouse.

Quinn evidently tied the belt to the screening while standing on his bed. Then he stepped off the bed, strangling himself. His feet were about touching the floor when he was found.

Sheriff Guy Anders was notified and made an investigation with the county medical examiner. A verdict of suicide was returned.

Everybody Jittery

Being jittery helped two gunmen get away with a $3,100 payroll of a Brooklyn textile printing plant. Ledon Reeder, the firm's treasurer, said when the pair asked where the cash was, "they started shaking so much I was afraid their guns would go off by accident." He lost no time in telling them what they wanted to know.

Contest Craze Goes To The Dogs With Launching Of "Lucky Dog"

"It Should Happen To Us," Say Nation's Canny Canines

NEW YORK—Some days you can't make a dollar, but if you're a "Lucky Dog," you might not need to. Currently sweeping the country is the doggondest contest you ever saw—it's for four-footed bowlers only, and the lucky dogs who win will be given "everything any red-blooded dog could want."

Sponsored by Gaines dog foods, it's the wackiest merchandising idea to hit town in many a moon, and every pup, poodle and pooch hopes it should happen to him. A burlesque of every serious contest and giveaway show ever conducted, it offers a prize list that not only lampoons, but actually puts giveaway shows to shame, and the news of it has all the neighboring dog houses agog with activity.

"Cut, tear or bite (but neatly) the top off your Gaines container," say the contest posters—"Win a television set so you can see the man fights"—"A Crosley Station Wagon so you can ride in comfort with plenty of tail room"—"A custom-built Koven steel swimming pool with sliding board, ramp and water hydrant!"

There'll be 105 winners, but prime interest centers around the "top dog" who, among other things, will be flown to New York with his two closest two-legged friends via luxurious Trans World Airlines (TWA Constellation), for five glamorous, cost-free days. There, he'll be tendered a reception by a committee comprised of the city's doggiest tail-waggers and given a "bone" to the city. He'll be wine-dined and dog-flooded in New York's classiest night-spots and restaurants. Autograph hunters will clamor for his paw-print and bobby-sox shoe-dogs will swoon when he barks!

Arriving at LaGuardia, the Lucky

Dog will be met by his own Crosley Station Wagon, driven and attended by lavender-liveried chauffeur and footman. Upon descent from the Constellation, he'll be swathed in a Saks Fifth Avenue custom-tailored, fur-lined dog-jacket, and make his way across a red carpet to the waiting Crosley. Once in town, he'll check in at the swankiest suite in the exclusive Plaza Hotel. He'll be beautified under the personal supervision of Blanche Saunders, painted by Lyn Godwin, photographed by Ylla, registered by Identacode, and custom-fitted at Saks Fifth Avenue for a complete year-round wardrobe. He'll be given a lifetime supply of Gaines Dog Foods, a Crosley "Popularity" television set, and a Koven steel swimming pool.

With a $500 gift certificate clenched in his teeth, he'll paw over the canine equipment at Saks Fifth Avenue and come away loaded down with everything from a gold name tag, to a custom-built dog house with a picture window, vestibule and specially-installed bark-proofing. He'll sniff through the dog deodorant department and select a dram or two of Saks special pooch perfume. He'll get grooming chests, carrying crates, crackle bones, imported brushes, books, booties, raincoats—

And, oh yes—one can of flea powder.

Road Commission, Motor Commissioner Study Weight Load

A joint resolution, accepted by the State Roads Commission and the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, ironing out a technical discrepancy between the gross weight for which commercial vehicles are registered and the axle, tire and gross weight allowances prescribed by the Annotated Code of Maryland, was received last Saturday by Trial Magistrate Alton Y. Bennett.

It was explained by the magistrate that in many of the recent cases tried in Peoples Court, Frederick, sessions, truck operators have testified that while their vehicle was registered with the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to carry a certain load, that certain load would be over weight in another respect, such as formula or axle. Most of them said they knew nothing about restrictions in that respect.

Authority has been granted by the Maryland Code to the State Roads Commission and the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to enact a resolution to remedy the situation.

In easing the technicality, they have approved stamping of all information about the commercial vehicle on the registration card so that its owner will have that knowledge; an examination of the vehicle's dimensions given on the applications for registration will be made by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to assure that one allowance can not bring about the violation of another; all trucks must display operating and gross weights on the side; study of truck registrations issued from April 1, 1949 to the present date, in addition to a study of the registrations belonging to Vehicles already found to be in violation.

The regulation went into effect on September 15.

A big rectangle of lacy wool, a delicate Madeira shawl or other possible variations of Peggy Wood's use of the casual scarf as an evening accessory.

"Love of unusual, eye-catching accessories is inborn in all theatrical people, I suppose," said Peggy Wood, lovely star of "Mama." We had just come from her dressing room on the fourth floor of Grand Central Station, where we'd been looking at her costumes for the exciting new Friday evening television show, "Mama." This is the CBS tele-version of the famous stage and film hit, "I Remember Mama."

While waiting for rehearsals to begin, we stood amid the colorful clutter of the studio and discussed accessories.

"A shawl I wear as Mama—an example of what I mean," Peggy Wood went on, "a soft grey wool, fringed with white. It's a part of the 1910 wardrobe of Mama Hanson, but I've adapted it to 1949 use!"

With a lovely, flame-colored chiffon evening gown, Miss Wood tosses the graceful, contrasting shawl across her shoulders for a different—and very chic—evening wrap. And one which she can count on to stay fresh and unwrinkled.

Gov. Lane Proves Necessity Of Sales Tax

A report of his two-and-a-half-year administration was given Fredericktonians Wednesday when as guest speaker at the "Governor's Day" luncheon of the Rotary Club, Gov. Preston Lane Jr., contrasted Maryland's present position in schools, highways and hospitals with the status when he took office.

Strong endorsement of the sales tax as an equitable means of raising revenue was voiced by the chief executive when he said that to raise a sum equal to Frederick County's share in the State fund would push the Frederick rate up by $1.13. Some communities since the sales tax was imposed have cut levies, he reminded, naming Clearspring in his own Washington County which has eliminated water rents.

Without the "pennies for Lane," Maryland could not have the present hospital building program which is being paid for in cash, the governor said, nor could salaries of teachers be raised from a minimum of $1,500 to $2,200 and new schools constructed in an per-all program which has pulled the state from a national rating in the 40's to second place in education.

"It is a healthy thing for the people to be tax conscious and to focus on what is done with the money," Gov. Lane said as he praised the roles of county legislators in passing the sales tax law at the 1947 legislative session.

He named Senator Edward D. Storm, and Delegates C. Clifton V. Melvin H. Derr, Horace M. Alexander, and William E. Hauser as deserving thanks of the state for their part in that tax program, which contributes $27,500,000 a year toward the $130,000,000 state budget.

Frederick County has just received over a million dollars in gifts and loans for Liberty and Middletown schools, Libertytown junior high school will have an additional four rooms and the Middletown junior and senior high school a 14-room building through the $262,377 given and $786,924 lent on state credit.

DeLAUTER-RIDENOUR

Amid a setting of white glad- ioli, lighted tapers and palms, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Sabillasville, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Miss Pauline Louise Ridenour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Ridenour of Lantz, became the bride of Edgar E. DeLauter, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. DeLauter, of Sabillasville. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles H. Corbett, pastor of the bride, in the presence of relatives and friends.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white brocaded nylon with net yoke and bertha collar and long sleeves ending in a point over the hands. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. The white veil of illusion edged in lace fell from a tiara of seed pearls. White roses amid baby's breath caught with white ribbon served as the bridal bouquet.

Miss Esther Valentine of Rocky Ridge, was maid of honor. Her gown was of ice blue brocaded nylon and was fashioned as the bride's. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Serving as best man was George D. DeLauter, brother of the groom. Ushers were Edwin DeLauter, brother of the groom, and Walter Lantz Jr., cousin of the bride, both of Sabillasville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ridenour chose a grey gown, black accessories and a pink rosebud corsage. Mrs. DeLauter selected a green street length frock and black accessories. She wore a yellow rosebud corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride, when the large five-tiered bride's cake was cut by the young couple.

Locals Win Over Frederick Post, 6-4

Several hundred fans saw the Emmitsburg Baseball team last Sunday gain revenge in defeating the colored American Legion Post of Frederick, 6-4. Earlier in the season, the opponents trounced the locals here.

The local nine's defensive and offensive play was considerably bolstered by three newcomers to local fans, McGlaughlin, Chalmers and Brown.

While the local club was hitting freely, Wayne McGlaughlin held the visitors to four hits. At the bat, Brown and Chalmers each connected with a single and a triple.

MARYLAND GRAIN MARKET

Baltimore grain markets strengthened somewhat for the week ended Sept. 30. Wheat markets were steady in Baltimore, Central and Eastern Maryland, while wheat advanced about three cents per bushel in Western Maryland. Markets for old crop yellow shelled corn were firm throughout the State. Old crop yellow ear corn remain unchanged on the Baltimore market but weakened on Central Maryland Eastern Shore markets. The latter market for old crop yellow ear corn dropped about seven cents per bushel. Barley strengthened throughout the state with an advance of about five cents per bushel in Baltimore and in Central Maryland. Western white oats were steady on the Baltimore market.

Down The Field

By JACK LORING

Clamping down in October's groove the gridiron stalwarts nitch the belt a notch and settle down to hard pan.

Football's stormiest clouds converge on the Middle West, and the thunder and quaking terrain will doubtless give Chicago University's seismologists a rough afternoon.

Army at Michigan, Notre Dame at Purdue, California at Wisconsin, Minnesota at Northwestern and Maryland at Michigan State provide the fireworks in which six aggregations lay unblemished records on the line. Army or Michigan can't come out unscathed.

The East, South, Southwest and Pacific Coast each come up with a game or two of equal importance. St. Mary's Gaels meet undefeated Villanova in Philadelphia, and Duke tests a reborn Navy. With Georgia at Kentucky, Oklahoma at Texas, Arkansas at Baylor, Ohio State at Southern Cal, seven unsullied records go to the post from which at least three will emerge as also-rans.

From this staggering presentation the Army-Michigan and Oklahoma-Texas brawls stand out the undisputed co-games of the week. Indeed, there is little or naught to choose between them, unless it be the longer undefeated strings which go on the line in the Army-Michigan meeting.

District Games
Of particular interest in the district are the Mount St. Mary's-Waynesburg and Western Maryland-Lebanon Valley tilts.

The Mount came out of the Lebanon Valley fray last week much better off for the experience, on the short end of 7-14 notwithstanding. Now it seems the Mounties have what it takes but they've got to get that offense working. This could make all the difference at Waynesburg and thereafter.

The Western Maryland Terrers and the Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley, twin victims of Gettysburg, present a poser in their forthcoming entanglement to salvage something against the roadblocks ahead.

Looking Over the Field
The East
St. Mary's at Villanova—The Gaels are always tough in intersectionals, but the Villanova Wildcats present the best current record in the East and far beyond. Look for Villanova to carry on.

Pitt at West Virginia—The Panther is revitalized indeed, as W. & M. and Northwestern can attest. Should take a so-so West Virginia handily.

Princeton at Penn—Bowling over Dartmouth the Red and Blue goes after its second Ivy Leaguer. Princeton has a knack of being troublesome with Penn, but the Quakers get the call.

Yale at Columbia—The Columbia Lions would like to make this a second Ivy win also, but there is some question as to whether the Eli will get to the post due to a polio quarantine. Toss-up.

Duke at Navy—Undeclared Duke gets a real test in the Navy, which came out of a long winless streak at Princeton's expense. This is a tough one, but if the Middies' defense holds up, look out. Way out on the limb for Navy.

Boston College at Penn State—The Eagles come to Penn State in high hopes. Doesn't seem likely the Nittany Lion can recover in time from those two wallpings. Fast nod to B. C.

Mt. St. Mary's at Waynesburg—Like Duke-Navy, this is a tough one. It's all bound up in the Mount's potential punch. Could do, so make room on that limb, bub; Hunch nod to Mt. St. Mary's.

Western Maryland at Lebanon Valley—Picking this one is like splitting hairs. W. M. showed a better defense against the Gettysburg Bullets, L. V. a better defense against the same. Toss of the coin says Lebanon Valley.

Also—Cornell over Harvard in an Ivy League go, Colgate to take Boston U., Brown over Rhode Island, Gettysburg to shell Drexel, Holy Cross and Dartmouth even-stevens game and Syracuse ditto.

Georgia at Kentucky—Top game in the South, with Kentucky after its third straight S. E. Conference win. Georgia may prove tough but Kentucky looks like the class of the league so far. Vote for Kentucky.

Texas A & M at Louisiana State—Two good clubs in an inter-league tilt which could go either way. Whichever to LSU.

Georgetown at Wake Forest—The Hoyas had that bubble broken last week; Wake Forest playing a tighter brand of ball. Call to the Deacons of W. F.

Duquesne at Alabama—Bama should have a little too much for the Dukes.

Also—Vandy over Ole Miss, Virginia measures VPI, Georgia Tech to topple W. & L., North Carolina and Justice roll over South Carolina, W. & W. to shade VMI, and Tulane takes a holiday at S. E. Louisiana.

The Midlands
Army at Michigan—The atom bomb test and co-game of the week. The Wolverines snuffed out Stanford's hopes last weekend, while the Cadets romped over Penn State (in the second half of that peculiar game).

Michigan puts a long string of wins on the barrel head against a lot of Army medals, and somebody's got to go. If the going gets close Galiffa could make the difference, but from this corner it looks like Michigan marches on.

Notre Dame at Purdue—The Fighting Irish turned back a valiant Washington crew last week, and should do no less against the Boilermakers.

California at Wisconsin—The Golden Bears are riding high and mighty, though the Badgers could make it plenty tough. Call to California.

Maryland at Michigan State—The Terps looked good in downing Georgetown last week, but Michigan State's in a different league. Could be a nice game at that, but the gesture goes to M. S.

Northwestern at Minnesota—The Wildcats will be in there fighting, but Minnesota's steam roller tactics should do the trick.

Also—Illinois to edge Iowa, TCU to nudge Indiana, Iowa State over Colorado, Nebraska to trim Kansas State. Call to get by George Washington and Missouri to take Oklahoma Aggies in a slam banger.

The Southwest and Far West
Oklahoma at Texas—The Titan of the Southwest and the Colossus of the Missouri Valley slug it out in the other game of the week. The Longhorns boast 153 points to 7 in rolling over Texas Tech, Temple and Idaho, while the Sooners show a margin of 79 to 13 in turning back Boston College and Texas Aggies. The victor of this fracas is apt to go a long way in the national picture. Weighing merits of respective opposition to date, a camera shutter wink to Oklahoma.

Arkansas at Baylor—A Southwest Conference game in which the Arky Razorbacks go after a second league win before next week's collision with Texas. Baylor, too, is undefeated in two starts, but the call is given Arkansas.

Ohio State at Southern California—Somebody drops by the wayside here, and out of the beaten ranks. A high-scoring melee in which either side can turn the trick. Like the eyes in a rough and tumble.

Also—Stanford on the rebound over UCLA, Washington over Oregon State, Oregon over Wash. State: All conference games. Here's hoping.

Luncheon Scoops

by Wendy Warren

John Raby

John Raby, who plays "Harry Davis," the male lead on NBC's top-rated "When a Girl Marries," introduced me to The Lobster, a restaurant near Broadway. Oddly enough, we ordered lobster. At first, I had some trouble getting him to talk about himself. As soon as we were seated, he was asking me about my program, CBS's "Wendy Warren and The News."

But I pulled an old trick on him—I got him to talk about his children, who are both boys, one aged five years and the other ten months. An avid fisherman, John says he took little Johnny along last time he went after bass, only to have the youngster yell, "Daddy, throw that old thing away!" when he succeeded in landing a big one.

John is at the same time easy-going and alert, with the enviable ability to plunge into conversation on any subject and hold your attention until you forget all about time.

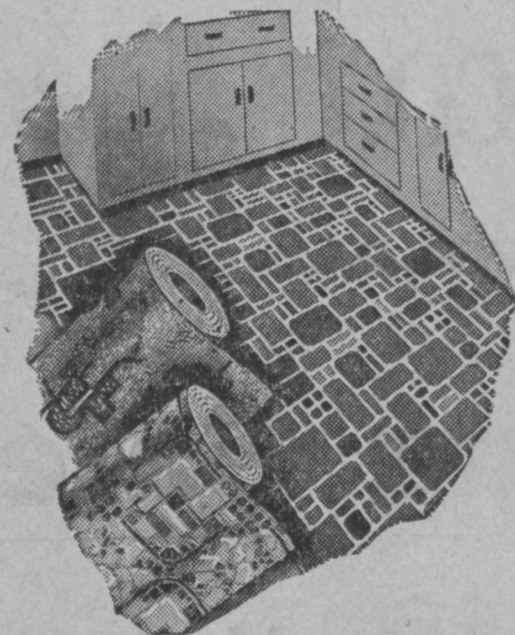

Two years ago, John walked into a studio for an audition—and came out with his first radio job, a leading part in "When a Girl Marries." He had already acted in some movie shorts, and starred in "Brother Rat" on Broadway. With this combination of radio, stage and screen experience, John is a natural for television, and has recently taken over the male lead in television's first daytime serial, "A Woman to Remember."

Just as we were getting up to leave, I asked John if he had much time for sports, besides fishing. "Not much," he admitted—and then capped our luncheon with his favorite subject—Johnny. It seems the little boy recently found his father taking a few practice swings with an old, long-hidden tennis racket. "Daddy," he piped, "what are you doing with the baseball strainer?"

Thurmont Trounces Local Soccerities, 3-0

Thurmont High School booters blanked their ancient rivals from Emmitsburg, 3-0 in second round games of the opening of the County Interscholastic Soccer League at Thurmont last Friday afternoon.

Trailing all the way Emmitsburg still looked much better than they did in losing their opening game, on a 5-0 shut-out to Walkersville. Thurmont also lost their inaugural, bowing narrowly 2-1 to Brunswick.

Friday's win was a large tribute to Thurmont's Sweeney. He ran wild in the first period to kick through two goals, giving his club a lead which was never overcome.

Thurmont did not get their final score until the third stanza, when M. Clarke booted one through from scrimmage.
