

Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

Much has been said and nothing done about Toll Gate Hill curve. This week word was received of the death of a soldier injured in an accident on the curve recently. Thus is added to the ever-growing list of fatalities for that stretch of road. Again this week, Monday two more cars piled up on the bend.

While it is believed that a new highway will be constructed in this vicinity, there is no reason not to eliminate this dangerous curve, for it will still serve as the main traffic artery to Thurmont and southern parts of Frederick County and the county seat.

Toll Gate Hill has been the scene of numerous accidents, several of them fatal, in the past two decades. It is understood that one of the local colleges has willingly consented to give a stretch of land at that particular spot if the State Roads Commission will do the elimination work.

Hardly a week passes that there is not some vehicular accident on this dangerous bend. While the Commission sits idly by and watches the slaughter is beyond my comprehension.

Recently a stretch of road west of Emmitsburg was improved at an estimated expense of $75,000. In my estimation this project was not necessary. The road was in a good state of repair and no curve to it at all, just a medium-sized hill. The Commission saw fit to invest this huge sum in leveling off the peak of the hill by several feet. About all this did was give the motorist a better chance to speed up his vehicle and come tearing through the west end of town, only to run smack into that vicious bend beside the Beagle property. Numerous wrecks have occurred there as the result of the so-called improvement.

To me that appropriation by the State Roads Commission would have been more well spent had it been used for the elimination of Toll Gate Hill curve, a perfect right angle on the main highway leading to the Capital of the nation.

And to add to the miseries of the Indian Trail road, two other machines piled up Monday night a short piece south of Franklinville, north of Thurmont. This is not just a coincidence, these numerous wrecks on this road, but a weekly occurrence.

Do you want to help a worthy cause? Well, Sunday is your opportunity. The local Lions Club is sponsoring a Horse Show at Community Field. Net proceeds of this affair are to go to the Child Welfare Fund of Emmitsburg. Many of our children are badly in need of assistance, not only for their eyes, but other defects. The show starts at 12:15 and will last approximately 5 hours, all for 50 cents. I think it's the duty of all those who can to attend this show. Perhaps, your own children will benefit from it in the future.

Little Damage Done In Wreck

Slight damage was done to the car of Robert L. Topper, Saturday morning as the result of a tow truck driven by Miss Marie E. Maguire, crashing into the left rear fender of the Topper car.

Miss Maguire of Wilmington, Del., was driving west of the Square on Rt. 32, and as she tried to negotiate the turn to Rt. 15, hit the fender of Topper's car, parked in front of the local post-office.

Chief of Police H. C. Woodring, investigating, placed no charges against Miss Maguire. She agreed to pay all damages.

Prof. and Mrs. B. J. Eckenrode, Mrs. Quinn Topper and daughter, Jeanne, and Mrs. D. L. Beagle, spent Tuesday in Baltimore.

The new gymnasium, not fully completed as yet, is the gift of the alumni association.

P-TA HOST AT DANCE

Members of the Parent-Teachers' Assn. of St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg, were hosts to the student body at a Halloween dance held last Friday evening.

The auditorium was appropriately decorated with corn shocks, pumpkins, cats and witches. Sweet cider, doughnuts and apples were served as refreshments.

Mrs. Bernard Boyle was chairman of the committee, assisted by Mrs. Guy Baker.

40 Witnesses Win Traffic Case Over Local Man

Surprised by more than 40 witnesses, J. Russell Wantz, Emmitsburg, was balked in a single-handed endeavor to recover an alleged $100 damage to his car in Frederick last Friday night.

Wantz had Remell Housem, Negro, Tallahassee, Fla., hailed to police headquarters there, following Wantz' collision with the Housem truck at about 6 p. m.

The Wantz' car fender, headlight and radiator were badly damaged, the local man said, "when the truck backed into my right-of-way as I was going north on Market St."

Housem jumped out of the truck, ripped off the tarpaulin covering his stake-body truck and Wantz was confronted with 44 Negro potato-diggers as witnesses. They were returning South from work in New York.

The potato-diggers testified to officers that the truck in which they were riding was pulled up into a service station with the tail-gate protruding into Market St., completely stationary, when struck by Wantz' northbound passenger car.

No charges were preferred and Wantz, out-witnessed, gave up and returned home. He was unaccompanied at the time of the accident.

HALLOWEEN QUIET

On the local Halloween scene, things were comparatively quiet. Oldtimers said it was one of the quietest Halloweens they can remember.

While much cornfodder adorned the Square, not much destruction of property occurred.

A bicycle bedecked the top of the flagpole in front of Emmitsburg High School and a sliding board that was recently presented to St. Euphemia's School by the VFW, was overturned, resulting in damage to the slide. A grocery bin was removed from the front of Frailey's Store to a nearby location.

No arrests were reported. Chief of Police Woodring remained on duty until a late hour Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Eversole of Emmitsburg, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son born Wednesday at the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa. Mrs. Eversole is the former Freda Wagerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wagerman.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

38
This week's column is a continuation of last week's edition. For one cannot pass by, without stopping in, that most neat and attractive barber parlor in the basement of the Hotel on the Square.

THE BARBER POLE

Near the door is the modest little barber pole to identify the place. With its characteristic stripes, it does not spin on the pinion of its ancient fame as many such poles. But it stands in silence to betoken the noted place of the barber as the ancestral father of the modern surgeon. In the olden days the barber, skilled in the use of sharp instruments, was not only the shaver of beards and the dresser of hair, but also the dresser of wounds, the professional blood-letter, and performer of surgical operations. For the art of shaving and surgery were one and the same.

In 1461 King Edward IV, of England, incorporated barbering for the above dual purpose. France, later, under Louis XIV, was the first country to separate the barber and the surgeon into two professions. This was done in 1745.

Now the barber pole still remains until this day as the ancient emblem of the blood-letting. The striped fillet around the pole is the emblem of the bandage twisted around the arm in preparation for the blood-letting. And the vessel below, now seldom seen in America, typified the basin that received the blood.

The old theory was based on the assumption that a reduction of the amount of blood in the system, possessed healing virtues for many ailments. This writer has found people who still believe in, and sometimes have practiced that theory to day. But happily the ancient practice is now obsolete except in the vicarious cases of sparing a little blood for the blood bank that others may be healed. Thus the barber, relinquishing his ancient heritage to the more skilled hands of the modern surgeon, still remains as the proficient expert in the modern science of head culture for men.

RAY McGLAUGHLIN

Operator of Mac's Barber Shop in the parlor under the Hotel, conveniently located at the four corners in the center of town, Ray McGlaughlin, with his equally handsome assistant, Frankie Wastler, offers as fine and courteous a service as can be found anywhere.

McGlaughlin is a name of famous ancestry. It is supposed to go back to the noted Gaelic warrior, Laochail. As such the name came to mean the Renowned Warrior. The prefix, denotes probable Irish ancestry. The similar prefix, Mac, often found, denotes Scottish ancestry. Whether Mc or Mac, they both mean the same as a prefix to a name. They mean Son of. Thus, McGlaughlin means the Son of Laochail. This name later was smoothed out into a more euphonious form of Lachlan or Laughlan or Loughlan or Glaughlan.

Laochail originally derived his name, no doubt, from the lake country in which he lived. For it meant the Famous Warrior from the Land of the Lakes or Lakeland.

The lineal or spiritual descendants of the ancient King of glorious renown, have usually lived up to the reputation of their royal heritage so far as this writer has observed among many families who have had the name.

M. F. Shuff, Sr., Celebrates His 90th Birthday

M. F. Shuff, president of the Farmers State Bank, Emmitsburg, Wednesday, celebrated his ninetieth birthday.

Despite his advanced age, Mr. Shuff remains very active and still takes a decisive part in affairs of the bank which he has been president for 23 years. He also was the first director since the organization in 1921, besides being vice president of the institution. Mr. Shuff attends bank meetings regularly and is keenly interested in banking problems as well as affairs of the community.

A son of Henry and Margaret Long Shuff, Mr. Shuff was born in Graceham and has lived in Emmitsburg about 70 years. While he has been retired for 20 years, and goes to the bank only for board meetings, his interest in local affairs never has lagged. His health is excellent, his eyesight and hearing as acute as might be expected in a man half his years. He reads a great deal and keeps up with world news through daily papers.

A family dinner in honor of Mr. Shuff's anniversary was given at his home Sunday when his six children and their families gathered with their father.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rowe, Emmitsburg; Miss Mary Shuff, Frederick; Miss Ruth Shuff, who lives with her father; Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Shuff, Jr., Emmitsburg, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Shuff, Emmitsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Shuff, Merion, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Lumen Norris and little Nickey and Becky Norris, of Emmitsburg. Mrs. Norris is one of Mr. Shuff's two grandchildren, the other being M. F. Shuff III, of Yakima, Wash., who has one son, M. F. Shuff IV.

Mr. Shuff has been a member of the Emmitsburg Lutheran Church for a number of years and attends services each Sunday except when the weather is very bad.

Leonard Wantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wantz of DePaul St., celebrated his ninth birthday.

Joanne Downey, Dolores Maher, Joan Brucker and Mary Anne Kelly served as committeewomen for the dance.

Discharged From Hospital

Donald Flax, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman Flax, E. Main St., was released from the University Baltimore, this week, after undergoing a knee operation.

Two or three large dips of ice cream will furnish the same amount of calcium as a cup of milk does.

MOUNTAINEERS MEET SHIPPENSB'G HERE SATURDAY

Game To Be Played
At Echo Field;
Team in Good Shape

On Saturday, Coach John Law will send his crippled Mountaineer gridders against Shippensburg State Teachers' College at Echo Field, Emmitsburg.

Happy to get back in the win column, the Mountaineer headman was little pleased by the pass defense against Catholic U. Pass defense has been a sore spot all year and only the poor aim of the CU passers kept the Washington team from making last Saturday's game closer than it was.

Injuries in both line and backfield make it necessary for the Mounties to pass up all contact work this week. Marty Green, who saw only a few minutes' action against the Cardinals, will definitely be sidelined against Shippensburg.

Frank Bono, Green's understudy, called a steady game last week, but still is unable to pass because of a badly bruised and swollen right hand.

Joe Curci, at guard, will also sit this one out unless he stages a remarkable recovery, as will Jimmy Adams, who is not nearly near peak because of a bad shoulder.

Ed Ward, Frank Tumulty, Hekker Trout, Johnny Borusk, and Phil Waterman also have injuries but are expected to answer the starting whistle Saturday.

Brightest note in Saturday's picture was the form reversal of Walt Belardinelli. Last Saturday Walt looked like last year's Mount hero as he tore through the Cardinal line for long gains. It was the first time that the Bethel youngster flashed any of last year's drive or spirit. Coach Law hopes that his moody back has found himself for the rest of the season. Bud Veltri at left half turned in his usual sterling performance — the kind that has made him Law's most dependable performer.

Shippensburg brings to Echo Field a record nearly as disappointing as that of the Mountaineers. While the teachers have lost all their games, they have never been defeated by more than a single TD.

The Mountaineers realize that they have to go on from here to salvage the season. St. Vincent's just a week away is still undefeated, untied, and unscored on, as by the way is Gannon College, who defeated the Mounties earlier.

Coach Law feels that his men will play better ball from here on in, if only because they have learned the hard way from a group of tough little colleges.

Mrs. Richard McCullough Expires

Mrs. Madelyn Louis McCullough, wife of Richard J. McCullough, St. Anthony's, a professor at Mt. St. Mary's College, died Tuesday morning at 1 a. m. at the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa., following an illness of several years.

She was a daughter of the late John and Cecilia Ball Griffith of York, Pa. She was a member of St. Anthony's Catholic Church and the Blessed Virgin Sodality. In addition to her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Elizabeth, and two brothers, John and Gordon Griffith of York.

Requiem mass was said Thursday morning at nine o'clock in St. Anthony's Church. Present in the sanctuary were the following priests from Mt. St. Mary's College and St. Joseph's Parish, Emmitsburg: Msgr. John L. Sheridan, Rev. Culhane, Rev. O'Donnell, Rev. Fives, Rev. Berry, Killeen, Rev. Coad, Rev. Keefe, Rev. O'Brien and Rev. Kennedy. Her nephew, the Rev. Fr. Louis Dougherty, Harrisburg, conducted the service; Rev. Stanley Scarf, pastor of St. Anthony's Church, delivered the sermon.

Pallbearers were John W. Walters, William Walters, J. Harry Scott, John R. Roddy, Prof. Dominic Greco and Fritz Hemler. Interment in church cemetery.

OFFICIALS OKAY NEW STREET LIGHTING SYSTEM

Project Expected To Be Completed
By January 1

Emmitsburg's "Great White Way" was practically assured Tuesday night when the Mayor and Commissioners of the Town okayed the plan to relight Emmitsburg in a modern way.

The board accepted the revised plan of the Potomac-Edison Co. which was presented several weeks ago. Under the new setup the entire lighting system will be rewired and will be photo-electrically operated. They will work automatically with the intensity of light.

It is believed that another five lights will be added to the present number, bringing the total to approximately 70. Additional and brighter lighting is planned for the alleys and Federal Hill.

The new system will cost the town treasury about $500 more per annum. At the present, the current bill for Emmitsburg is around $1200 per year.

Mayor Thornton W. Rodgers emphasized at the Tuesday evening session that the present tax rate will remain the same for the next year.

After contacting officials of the Potomac-Edison Co. this week, Chairman of the Board James T. Hays stated the company was planning to have the new system in operation on or before January 1. Estimates on installation of the lights run around $25,000 and will be borne by the power company.

The new-type lights will be placed on the south side of East and West Main Streets and will hang from side arms. Many neighboring towns and cities have adopted the new system.

The solons announced that another parking meter will be placed in front of the Mondorff Apts. on the Square, bringing the total number of meters to 5 for that particular frontage.

Chief H. C. Woodring's monthly report to the board showed 33 arrests for overtime parking. The attention is called to those motorists who have not paid their fines that these will be turned over to state police for collection.

Rocky Ridge Delegation Appeals To County Officials

A delegation from Rocky Ridge appeared before the County Commissioners last week in the interest of improving a short section of roadway leading from the main road to a large pond which has been procured by residents for fire protection purposes.

Presenting a petition signed by a large number of residents of the area, delegation spokesmen asked that the County provide several loads of stone to make the roadway to the pond passable during bad weather. County Engineer Roger H. Willard told the delegation the matter would be taken up at the next meeting of the Roads Board and it was felt there would be favorable action.

It was stated the road to the pond has been graded to some extent and an "apron" provided from the main road. Both Emmitsburg and Thurmont firemen joined in the petition, it is understood, since the apparatus from these towns will use pond water should fire break out at Rocky Ridge, which has no apparatus of its own. Using hose from both companies, it would be possible to reach almost any point in the village.

STRICKEN IN TAVERN

Stricken with a heart attack, Oscar Milton Baughman, aged 61 years, of Hanover, Pa., succumbed while in a tavern along Rt. 32, near Emmitsburg, about 6:30 p. m. Sunday.

State Trooper Kenneth Bond investigated and summoned the medical examiner, who subsequently pronounced death due to a cardiac condition.

The body was removed to the Allisen Funeral Home, Emmitsburg.

100 Attend VFW Halloween Party

Approximately 100 Emmitsburg VFW Auxiliary members and their husbands enjoyed the Halloween party given by the Auxiliary last Thursday evening at the VFW Home, Emmitsburg.

The decorations which were very elaborate, were in keeping with the Halloween spirit. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Pecher Orchestra. Refreshments were served buffet style.

More than half of those in attendance wore costumes for which prizes were given to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Willard Weikert, best dressed couple; George Gingell, who impersonated Frankenstein; Mrs. Mary Bell, most original, as Little Old Lady; Mrs. Mabert Hoffman, prettiest costume, dressed as a gypsy. A prize for identifying the gypsy was won by Mrs. Richard Rosensteel. The highlight of the evening was Mrs. Hoffman, who was not only attractive in her gypsy gown, but her representation as a fortune teller, held the attention of everyone. A booth was erected for her, above which hung the sign "Madame Beleaf" and near the booth a record player softly played the song, "The Gypsy" throughout the evening.

The judges for the prizes were Louis Cooper, Joseph Elder and Thornton W. Rodgers. General Chairman for the party was Mrs. Irene Zurgable, who was also in charge of refreshments; Mrs. Idella Fitezh had charge of decorations and Mrs. Helen Daugherty headed the committee for entertainment.

Interesting Travelogue Describes Historic Monticello

MONTICELLO

Our gallant guide, mentioned last week, was a handsome gifted young man from Arlington. He was a junior in the Medical school. His name was Adrian Wainwright, relative of General Wainwright, hero of Corregidor. Being quite familiar with the home of Thomas Jefferson and having a pass thereto, he graciously volunteered to take us to Monticello and act as our guide there.

The mansion is located on top of a little mountain about two miles away from the University, close enough that Jefferson could watch the progress of the builders by means of his big telescope. Monticello is the name Jefferson coined himself, being formed by the French "Monti," meaning mountain, and the Italian "Cello," meaning little, and together meaning Little Mountain. It is a beautiful mansion designed by Jefferson himself who brought his bride there and lived in a little pavilion while he supervised its erection and landscaping. Now it is being kept up by a patriotic association.

It is one of the most unique structures I have ever seen. While most of the colonial fathers built their mansions in the fertile valleys, Jefferson built his on top of a mountain, symbolic perhaps of an elevated soul. The most unique feature about it is this: The plantation houses are all invisible. None of them can be seen. This is the way he did it. On the west front he fashioned a big lawn, shaped like a horse's head, with the mansion at the open end. On the north side of the terraced lawn, he sunk the stables, carriage barns, ice house, and laundry, back into the ground with the roof level with the lawn. Into the south side of the terrace he sunk the kitchen, dairy, living quarters for his 125 slaves, in the same way. The roof of these buildings blended with the lawn bordered with flowers, and adorned with a fish pond. On the east side of the mansion, he fashioned a beautiful park adorned with shrubbery of almost every variety.

As one enters the mansion he is deeply impressed with the genius of Thomas Jefferson in almost every area of life. In the day when there were no convenient gadgets in the house, he fashioned many for himself. He invented the automatic double door, fashioned a device to register each day of the week, designed and had made an order most of the rich furnishings of the house, ranging all the way from window curtains to the silver teapots on the table.

At the east front is a grand clock above the door which is still running. It has a face on both sides so the time may be seen whether in or out of the house. It is operated by means of a cannon ball attached to a pulley. The clock was wound by a servant each Sunday morning by means of a folding ladder and a big crank like Henry Ford used to make for his cars. As the cannon ball unwound down the wall through a hole in the door to the basement, it registered each day of the week as well as the hours. The house was richly furnished in the most attractive fashion. Much of the original furnishings are there including some of the glass in the big windows which is rougher and more cloudy than modern glass. I have stereoscope pictures of the mansion and its furnishings which anyone may see by calling at the house.

The superb genius of this patriot in almost every area of life, reached its flower in the form of one of the world's greatest statesmen. Few men, if any, did more to shape the character and destiny of our country. He filled with brilliant success almost every political office of his day: Governor of Virginia, Ambassador to France, Vice President, Secretary of State, President of the U. S. for two terms. He devised the U. S. decimal system of money and secured its adoption. Almost 100 years before the Civil War he advised the abolition of slavery. Looking ahead to a nation from coast to coast, he negotiated the Louisiana Purchase and sent Lewis and Clark on an expedition to explore the far west.

He had hundreds of honors, either one of which would make a man famous. But on his tomb in the family cemetery, near the mansion, he chose to be remembered by three things. Strange as it may seem, he did mention that he was President of the U. S. That is the highest honor within the gift of our country. But Jefferson had still more brilliant. Here are the three honors he chose as the highest by which to be remembered:

(1) That he was author of the Declaration of Independence — one of the most famous documents of all history; (2) That he was author of the Statute of Religious Liberty, so deeply cherished in American tradition; (3) That he was the father of the University of Virginia.

Here is the epitaph inscribed on the granite shaft at the head of his grave:

"Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of American Independence, of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, and Father of University of Virginia."

To visit such a shrine of democracy is an inspiring lesson in patriotism. If some of our communists and fellow travellers should visit a place like that, they might be cured of their illness.

(To be continued next week)

Singer Discontinues Radio Program

Helen Hayes, last season's star of the "Electric Theater" heard Sunday nights on CBS, has decided to forego any regular radio commitments this season and to devote all her time to her private life. The decision was arrived at by Miss Hayes following the tragic death of her daughter, 19-year-old Mary MacArthur, in September.

Miss Hayes was to have started her winter series of radio adaptations of stage and screen plays and original stories on October 9. "Meet Corliss Archer," a radio series starring Janet Waldo, which had substituted for the "Electric Theater" during the summer hiatus period, will continue in the 9:00 p. m. EST spot on CBS Sunday nights.

In a letter to her sponsors' agency, N. W. Ayer and Son, Inc., Miss Hayes said: "I'm sorry about this decision not to go on with the program. I wish I could have done it, but there are many things to consider and I believe I am making a wise move."

The cultivation of apples began before recorded history. Remains of the fruit have been found in the prehistoric Lake Dwellings in Switzerland.

National Hotel Show To Have Numerous Ingenious Devices

Cooking meat and poultry in a few minutes by infra-red heat instead of requiring a couple of hours in the usual fashion; new systems for conditioning and purifying the air in rooms and corridors; modern lighting, safety and health-promoting ideas, are among the novel inventions and improvements to be exhibited at the 34th National Hotel Exposition. This huge display which attracts more than 125,000 visitors during its annual five days run will be staged from November 7 to 11 in Grand Central Palace, New York. It will be the largest yet held. More than 500 exhibitors will offer their products and services on the four spacious exhibition floors of the famous building — covering nearly four acres. Practically every sort of product adaptable to hotel use (which, of course, in many cases applies to clubs, transportation lines, schools, colleges and institutions) will be on display in a manner that affords easy comparison.

Frank A. Paget, chairman of the Exposition committee, and manager Arthur L. Lee, remark that recently much attention has been given by manufacturers and hotel owners to the matter of providing increased comfort and homelike atmosphere for guests.

Considerable attention has been given by the industry to modernizing hotel operation itself. At the show there will be offered the latest in kitchen, dining room and bar equipment, making for speedier, more efficient labor-saving service. An interesting feature is a beverage fountain which will make its debut. This is "in action" with colored lights playing on it and affords a continuous serving of champagne, punches or cocktails. A $10,000 dish washer model — a truly remarkable creation — and other less costly ones are to be exhibited. There will be an ingenious device to prevent annoying "table wobble." "Foldaway" tables with legs that fold up and can be carried like light luggage are a boon to those whose job is moving dining equipment from one location to another; the latest in fiber and plastic curtains (some hand-painted), also new nylon bathroom curtains; several styles of easily cleaned wall coverings; a new type of crystalware approximately twenty times as strong as ordinary crystal; Jade-ite heat-proof dishes, and many other recently manufactured products to reach the market will be shown.

The average American gets nearly one-third of his calories from fats, sugars, and alcohols — foods which provide little or no nutrients besides calories.

A delicious refreshment for fall parties can be made by putting a baked apple in a large mug and filling the mug with hot spiced cider.

Poultry Pointers

By FREDERICK BLOCK
What time is best to buy purpose bred birds?

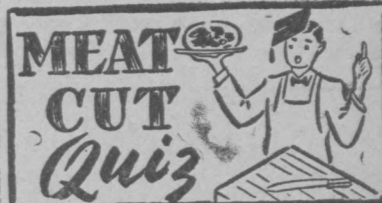

The prize is usually best when neglected flocks quit laying in the fall and the spring hatched pullets do not qualify for hen eggs. If you have a well insulated brooder house in which chicks can be raised without exposing them to lower temperatures than 68 degrees, it will be the best time to start raising peeps in January (68 degrees means all over the house, but not under the hover, where starting temperature has to be around 95). Such chicks, if managed well, gain more weight on less feed than later hatched ones, and they will start laying pullet eggs in June, so that you can expect large eggs by August.

Purpose bred birds descend from hens which were bred for certain favorable purposes as being rare in winter pause and broodiness, or fast in feathering and weight gaining, or high in egg production. There are more purposes birds ought to be selected, such as resistancy to certain diseases as for instance: coccidiosis or the most costly poultry disease avian leukosis.

In the important so called duo purpose breed New Hampshire are strains which were developed for highest egg production, and others for efficient meat production. The latter ones are non-profitable layers. Breeders who improve chicks have much more overhead expenses than producers who are not involved in this most difficult type of work. If you obtain peeps from an improved strain, which will lay several additional dozens of eggs per year than others, you should not worry about the higher purchasing cost of such chicks. The old saying that nothing is more worth than it costs is particularly true when it comes to the buying of baby chicks. Select your source of peeps carefully for your particular purpose, make sure that all are pullorem clean. It will not be too late to order chicks for January, when previous mentioned housing conditions apply for you. If your brooder house does not meet such requirements, then you are better off to start brooding in spring when no extremely low temperatures have to be expected.

Will you leave these to your children?

Men have died to leave you these 4 symbols of freedom:

A door key — your right to lock your door against illegal government force and prying.

(Fourth Amendment, U. S. Constitution)

A Holy Bible — symbol of your right to worship as you wish.

(First Amendment, U. S. Constitution)

A pencil — freedom to speak or write what you think, whether you agree with the government or not.

(First Amendment, U. S. Constitution)

And a free ballot — your right to choose the kind of government you want — your protection against government tyranny.

(Article I, U. S. Constitution)

These symbols have no meaning in countries where government controls everything — for there the individual man or woman has no freedoms.

But there are people who are trying to give the U. S. government more and more control over American life. "Let the government start," they say, "by taking over certain industries and services — the doctors, the railroads, the electric light and power companies."

Most of these people — like most Americans — don't want a socialistic U. S. A. They have other reasons for government control. But when government, moving step by step, controls enough things, you have a socialist government, whether you want it or not. You'll be controlled, too. Then what freedoms will you be able to pass on to your children?

HEALTH COLUMN

The Family Medicine Cabinet

The household medicine chest, neatly stocked with helpful but harmless first aid equipment, could and should be one of the most important pieces of equipment in the home.

Jammed as it is, in many an American bathroom, with rusted razor blades, aged medicine bottles, various cosmetics and even unprotected insect poisons, it can be a menace.

Cleaning out the family medicine cabinet should not be left until the time when it is stuffed to capacity. It is a good rule to "weed out" the useless or harmful articles about once every two or three months, and at the same time check on the stock of necessary first aid supplies to be prepared for emergencies.

It should be unnecessary to warn that every bottle, jar or box in the medicine cabinet should be carefully labeled. Yet there are accidents every week caused by people drinking from or using toxic preparations taken from unlabeled or wrongly labeled containers.

Dangerous poisons, labeled or not, should never be placed in the medicine cabinet. They should be kept far out of reach of children, or of adults who might hurriedly be looking for a pain remedy and instead use something that might cause serious illness or even death.

Medicines prescribed by the doctor for a certain illness at a certain time should not be "hoarded" in the medicine cabinet for future use. Most prescriptions lose their usefulness with age and are likely to be harmful rather than useful if retained for future remedy.

Among first aid supplies that should be kept freshly stocked are sterile cotton, sterile gauze bandage, adhesive tape and antiseptics to prevent infection in minor cuts and bruises. A good antiseptic is mild tincture of iodine.

Most families prefer to keep on hand a mild laxative and a "head-ache reliever" like aspirin. While these remedies are not dangerous under ordinary circumstances, when taken infrequently and in small amounts, they are best used under the doctor's prescription and advice because there are times when they can become harmful or habit-forming.

When materials in the medicine chest are kept in an orderly and easily accessible fashion, time is saved in emergencies and neatness and cleanliness can be maintained in a part of the household where they are of special importance.

Taste-Teasers

By NANCY COOK

There is practically no limit to the kinds of cakes or cookies you can make with one box of white cake mix... birthday cake for Jim... nut loaf for your bridge club... cookies for the children's lunch boxes. By keeping several packages on your shelf, you can be ready for any cake making assignment in no time at all—for this versatile cake mix not only makes a downy textured white cake when only milk is added to the contents of the package, but with easy changes it becomes a chocolate cake, a yellow cake, a spice cake, cup cakes, brownies or cookies, ... and all these can be varied by different frostings and toppings.

But versatility is not the only thing that is important about a cake mix. What delights me, is that—whether you're an experienced cook or even if it's the first cake you've ever baked in your life—you can turn out a perfect cake every time with a light downy texture.

Complete directions are on each package for the basic cake and many variations... and here's a recipe for the delicious Orange Frostings pictured above:

ORANGE MIST FROSTING

2 egg whites, unbeaten
1½ cups sugar
Dash of salt
4½ tablespoons orange juice
½ tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
Combine egg whites, sugar, salt, orange juice, lemon juice in top of double boiler, mixing thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater (or at high speed of electric mixer), and cook 7 minutes, or until the frosting will stand up in peaks.

Remove from boiling water; add grated orange rind and beat until thick enough to spread. Garnish with orange segments.

Lois lives in mid-town Manhattan in her newly decorated apartment... has a cunning little Pekinese dog who goes with her even on appointments. She likes people and parties, and entertains just as often as her busy schedule permits. Here's one of her "party" recipes:

PEACH GLAZE

ORANGE TARTS

1 box quick-frozen peaches
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 package orange flavored gelatin
¾ cup hot water
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup heavy cream
6 baked 3½-inch tart shells
Pour lemon juice over drained and thawed peaches. Dissolve gelatin mixture in hot water; add peach juice, salt, and sugar. Reserve ½ cup gelatin mixture for glaze. Chill until slightly thickened. Reserve 6 peach slices for garnish. Chop remaining peaches and add to gelatin mixture. Chill until slightly thickened, then fold in whipped cream. Turn into baked tart shells. Chill until firm. Garnish with peach slice. Pour glaze over tops and chill until firm.

SHORT STORY

Lovingly, Temple

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

"DEAR TEMPLE: I was indeed glad to learn that you had obtained such a satisfactory position. I am sure that you will make a most efficient secretary. Frankly, I have been entertaining some misgivings about your future. Serving in the capacity of guardian to modern young ladies is, after all, hardly a career, although I was only too glad to look after the daughter of my close friend, Tom Creighton, when he so unexpectedly passed away. I imagine you are quite a grown up young lady now, though it is hard for me to visualize you in any other form than a girl in pigtails and short dresses—"

Aaron Bell, 34, looking 10 years younger, abruptly ceased dictating and stared hard at his stenographer. The stenographer, Miss Daniels by name, was small, dark, vivacious and exceedingly attractive. She had come to work in the law office of Attorney Aaron Bell two weeks previous. She was a capable girl, yet for some unexplainable reason Aaron hadn't been able to get used to her. That is to say, he felt nervous whenever he was dictating letters.

During the next few days Aaron began to get an inkling of why it was that he felt uneasy when dictating letters to Miss Daniels. He began to wonder if heretofore he hadn't been attempting to evade an issue. He asked himself, secretly, if Miss Daniels was becoming to mean more to him than just a secretary.

TWO DAYS LATER Aaron was rudely swept out of the realm of ecstasy (a state of mind brought about by his dinner date with Miss Daniels) by receiving another letter from his ward.

"Dear Guardian: My boss is really quite lovely, and has been displaying an unusual amount of interest in me since my last letter. I am not a little flattered by his attention and very much thrilled. In fact, I believe I could fall in love with him very easily."

Aaron rang for Miss Daniels. "Dear Temple: I demand that you resign from your present position at once. It's silly and absurd to think of a girl your age falling in love, especially with a man who loves to every stenographer his boys."

That night Aaron suggested a drive through the country and was delighted when Miss Daniels accepted. It was a beautiful June evening, with a full moon and a cooling breeze blowing off the ocean. It might have been the atmospheric conditions which stirred to life the slumbering romance that lurks within the breast of every man, or it might have been the simple desire of a man for a mate. At any rate Aaron took Miss Daniels in his arms and kissed her and whispered nonsensical things that somehow seemed to fit the occasion.

THE NEXT MORNING he found another letter from Temple Creighton on his desk. "Dear Guardian: I'm sorry, but commands and demands from folks like you don't mean a thing when a girl is in love. And your little Temple is certainly in love. I expect she'll be proposed to in the very near future."

Aaron buzzed for Miss Daniels. "Dear Temple: This thing has gone far enough. It's a pity you couldn't have been endowed with at least a fraction of your father's good sense. It is my wish that you immediately send me the name and address of this boss of yours. I shall write to him at once."

Aaron had hoped that that night he would find himself courageous enough to offer a proposal of marriage to Miss Daniels. Yet when again they were seated on the cliff watching the moon come up out of the ocean, his courage failed.

Heavy-eyed he went to the office next morning to find a letter awaiting him from Temple Creighton. "Dear Guardian: You were right. He isn't the man I thought he was. Apparently he has just been amusing himself, with no idea of asking me to marry him. I do wish you'd talk to him. His name is Aaron Bell. Lovingly, Temple."

Baltimore Shriners Sponsor November Circus, Parade

With extreme pleasure and pride, illustrious Potentate Preston A. Pairo, of Boumi Temple, announces the annual Shrine Circus, to be produced and presented under the direction of "Polack Bros.," producers of the world's finest indoor spectacles, at the Fifth Regiment Armory for 8 days, beginning with a matinee, Saturday, Nov. 12 and continuing for two daily performances at 2:15 and 8:15. This means eight big days for the Shriners of Boumi Temple to entertain their youngsters and oldsters of Baltimore City and vicinity. There will be a gigantic street parade immediately preceding the opening day matinee performance (route of parade to be announced). Baltimore has not had a circus parade in many years and Baltimore has never had a circus parade that will compare to this, Boumi Temple uniformed units comprised of over 500 members in all their glory, with bands, patrols and mobile units combined with the complete retinue of circus acts.

Boumi Temple depends upon its revenue from the circus to meet the many demands that are made upon it for charitable purposes. Last year Boumi Temple was able to contribute $20,000 to local charities in addition to its contribution to the Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children.

Mahoney Appears Certainty to File For Governorship

George P. Mahoney, former racing commission chairman, appeared this week to be a sure candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in the Democratic primary next spring.

All that is missing is his formal declaration. After a closed meeting of Democratic leaders of Western Maryland in Hagerstown last Thursday night, he left no doubt as to his intentions.

"I can't conceive of any Marylander not accepting the highest honor the citizens of the state have to offer," Mahoney said.

Francis Petrott, Frederick, one-time Secretary of State, under former Gov. O'Connor, acted as spokesman for the gathering from five counties attending the dinner meeting.

Conspicuous by his presence was W. Lee Elgin, of Hagerstown, a long-time political rival of Governor Lane. He sat next to Mahoney.

Former Hagerstown Mayor Richard H. Sweeney also was present. When questioned if his presence signified he was supporting Mahoney, Sweeney joked and said:

"This man might be the next governor. I can't afford to be out in the cold."

Mahoney steered shy of the controversial subject of the sales tax with the explanation that his advisors were making a study of it. He said he probably would be ready to take a definite stand on the tax in about four months.

He was plainly critical of the way the present administration was handling the tax revenues.

Charles Orndorff, Altoona, Pa., has returned home after visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orndorff.

In the opinion of Bart Robinson, who plays Walter Manning, Portia's husband on the NBC dramatic show "Portia Faces Life," good acting is the result of an accumulation of experience in meeting people, so that their inflections, their mannerisms, their reactions, all become an integral — and invaluable — part of your stock in trade for future characterizations.

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

Maryland Grain Markets

Baltimore grain markets weakened slightly during the week ended Oct. 28. Supplies of all grains were ample, demand light. Wheat markets in Baltimore and in Central Maryland declined about two cents per bushel. Corn and barley showed little change. White oats gained about two cents per bushel. The soybean market weakened during the past week with a decline of about six cents per bushel in No. 2 yellow soybeans and in No. 2 black soybeans.

National Grain Market

Grain markets became more settled during the week ended Oct. 29, according to reports of the Dept. of Agriculture. Open market offerings of wheat continued small but were about equal to the moderate mill demand. Corn marketing held fairly steady with little change in price despite increased marketing of new corn. Oats and barley were independently firm and prices made moderate gains at central western markets. Rye markets declined about four cents per bushel, reflecting moderately large imports of Canadian rye. Flaxseed prices held steady. Soybeans declined seven to eight cents per bushel as marketing of the new soybeans increased and demand continued only fair.

Maryland Feed Market

The Baltimore feed market weakened materially during the week ended Oct. 28, with weakness most pronounced in 50% meat scrap which dropped sharply over 9%—$10.80 per ton less than last week. Dehydrated alfalfa meal weakened on the Baltimore market for the first time since Sept. 23 with a sharp decline of more than 4%—$3.67 per ton less. Coarse cracked corn ($2.19 per ton less) and distillers' dried grains ($2.50 per ton less) declined over 3% during the week ended Oct. 28. Linseed oil meal and cottonseed oil meal held firm, but soybean oil meal declined over 3% ($2.80 per ton less on the Baltimore market. Feeds showing a decrease of over 2% on the market were: 32% dairy feed ($2.52 per ton less), 20% broiler mash ($2.13 per ton less) and 20% laying mash ($2.36 per ton less).

Standard bran ($1.74 per ton higher) and brewers' dried grains ($1.40 per ton higher) were the only feeds showing an upward trend on the Baltimore market.

The broiler-feed ratio was more favorable for the week. A pound of live broilers would buy 5.7 pounds of feed based on the average price for 20% broiler mash on lower Eastern Shore. Maryland broiler producers received an average of 26c per pound during this period (24.8c last week) and had to pay an average of $91.07 per ton for feed ($93.29 per ton last week).

National Feed Market

Feedstuff markets made slight gains during the week ended Oct. 25, reports to the Dept. of Agriculture indicate. Advance in feed grain prices and a more active demand from distributors and feeders were strengthening influences. Principal price gains were in cottonseed meal, soybean meal, alfalfa meal, and brewers' dried grains. Hominy feed was down about $1 per ton, while gluten feed held about unchanged. Wheat millfeeds averaged slightly higher than a week ago. The index of wholesale feedstuff prices advanced about 2½ points, to 210.2. The feed grain index, reflecting principally an advance of $2.00 per ton in oats prices, was up nearly 3 points, to 168.8. A year ago the feedstuff index was 219.8 and feed grain index 193.9.

Supplies of feed grains for '49-'50 will be the largest of record both in quantity and in relation to number of livestock units. Feed grain supplies on October 1 (stocks of corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums, plus October 1 production of corn and grain sorghums) totaled 148 million tons this year, compared with 137 million a year ago and 100 million two years ago. The large carry-over of corn on October 1 more than offset smaller October stocks of oats and barley. The number of grain consuming animal units to be fed during the 1949-50 season is now estimated at 167.0 million units compared with 161.9 million fed in 1948-49 and 155.5

Pumpkin Pie Pleases "Papa"

June Whitley and Bob Young as the "Andersons"

June Whitley, glamorous "Mother Anderson" of NBC's Thursday evening program, "Father Knows Best," doesn't have to rely on her acting talent to be at home in the kitchen. At one time food editor of a Canadian newspaper and a well-known home economics expert, June still prides herself on her cookery.

But this year June finds that she has to do double-duty. When she baked a Pumpkin Chiffon Pie for her husband, radio newsman Bill Whitley, Jr., she also had to make up a large family-size pie for Robert Young and the rest of her "Father Knows Best" family.

This recipe is equally appropriate for Hallowe'en or for Thanksgiving:

Pumpkin Chiffon Pie

Combine ¾ cup strained cooked pumpkin
¾ cup brown sugar
¾ cup milk
2 tbs. molasses
3 egg yolks
1 tbs. butter
½ tsp. ginger
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
Cook slowly for 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Cool.
Beat 3 egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Slowly add ¼ cup sugar, beating constantly. Fold into pumpkin mixture. Pour into baked corn flake crust. Chill until set.

Corn Flake Crust

Mix 1 cup corn flake crumbs
¾ cup shortening
3 tbs. sugar
Press into 9-inch pan. Bake at 325° for 5 minutes.

A card party was held at the home of Mrs. Harry S. Boyle last Thursday evening for the benefit of the Christ Child Society. There were 38 present.

About $72 was cleared at the recent PTA party of St. Joseph's High School PTA. The committee in charge of the affair comprised Mrs. Clarence Wachter, Mrs. Andrew Jordan, Mrs. Curtis Topper, Mrs. Charles Hemler, and Mrs. A. Karlquist.

Mr. and Mrs. Rockford Eyster, Philadelphia, have moved into the Charles D. Gillelan home, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Little.

Mrs. Marie Rial, St. Anthony's, is spending some time with her friends and relatives in Pittsburgh, Pa.

million units fed in 1947-48. On this basis, there are .89 tons of feed available per animal unit this season compared with .85 last year and .64 tons for the 1947-48 season.

EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

"Fall is a good time to begin the renovation of permanent pastures," says Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee. This is one of the practices encouraged by the 1950 Agricultural Conservation Program.

"Usually the first step in the renovation of a pasture is the application of lime and manure if it is available." "The next step," so the Chairman said, "is to dig up the pasture to kill the poor grasses and weeds that make up its growth."

Sometimes the digging is done with an implement which has come to have the name of bog harrow. It looks much like a very large cutaway disc harrow. Farmers who do not have an opportunity to use such an implement use an ordinary tandem disc harrow or a spring tooth harrow. Whatever the implement, the ground is worked up thoroughly so that all growth is torn loose and lies on top of the ground in loose chunks. In that condition most of the vegetation dies over winter but covers the ground well enough to prevent a good deal of erosion.

Mr. Blandford pointed out that renovation increases the production of pastures considerably. He invited attention to the results reported by the Beltsville, Md., experiment station of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. There the renovation was completed in the spring. In what remained of that same year, the renovated pasture produced 70 per cent as much forage as it previously produced in an entire year. The following year, it produced 56 per cent more . . . the year after that, 45 per cent more.

Administrator Ralph S. Trigg recently told a group of farmers and businessmen that farm buying power is of direct concern to the whole economy.

Mr. Trigg pointed out that the American farmer has lately been a 30-million-dollar customer for American business. He said " . . . sound farm programs—including price support programs—are essential for a prosperous agriculture."

" . . . abundance must be a 'balanced abundance' . . . It does no one any good to have over production of commodities for which there is no effective market, and possibly an under production of some others which are needed."

" . . . We should never turn to production adjustments until we have exhausted all means of distribution, both at home and abroad.

" . . . It is not enough for Congress to authorize farm programs, and for an agency in Washington to outline details and make them available . . . The farmer himself must make the programs work . . . Producers cannot expect the government to do it all.

" . . . The Agricultural Conservation Program is now ready for our farmers' use, under the direction of their own elected committee system, in carrying out the conservation practices which will protect the land for the future."

Health Dept. Stresses Promotion Of Youth

"Promotion of the mental, emotional and spiritual growth needed by every child for personal happiness and good citizenship, the stated goal of the Midcentury White House Conference for Children and Youth to be held in Washington next winter, is an apt expression of this department's long-term goal for Maryland boys and girls," according to Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Dept. of Health. "Our state public health program has for many years stressed the prevention of illness among children, the basis for every youngster's greatest possible development.

"Physical health rather than mental and spiritual growth has customarily been the prime consideration of this Department. However, the concept of the development of the whole child has gained acceptance and is well reflected in the new definition adopted by sixty-four nations that 'health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being, not merely the absence of illness or infirmity.' In recent years the mental hygiene program, organized in 1946, has concerned itself directly with the mental and emotional needs of children.

"Preventive measures—prenatal care for mothers of Maryland children, routine examination of infants and pre-school children, health education and immunizations—have been stressed since 1922, when the maternal and child health program was established in this state. Clinics to provide these services.

"The school health program now being developed in co-operation with the state and county departments of education serves school children of all ages. Routine examinations and other health services are combined with classroom instruction concerning personal and community health.

"Curative and corrective measures are also prominent among the services that the state and county health departments provide for young Marylanders. For many years services for crippled children have supplied treatments, hospitalization and appliances for boys and girls with orthopedic defects. During the last few years there has been increasing attention to the needs of those with heart disease and defects of hearing or vision. A large proportion of the county residents receiving treatment from their own physicians under the medical care program are young people under the age of fifteen years.

"The State Department of Health welcomes the emphasis of the White House Conference upon mental, emotional and spiritual needs. It should help those interested in children to keep sight of the long-range goal—the best possible development of every boy and girl."

Down The Field

By JACK LORING

Storming into November's stretch it's hit or miss, touch and go, devil take the hindmost.

Minnesota and North Carolina started out like giant fire crackers, but each having dropped two in a row now appear but dampened squibs behind the eight ball.

No team ever deserved more than did Pitt, who turned back Penn to the tune of 22-21. After all the breaks in the book on Penn's side, the valiant Panthers cashed in on that blocked kick which boomeranged against the Quakers in the end zone. Remember?

This week Notre Dame runs up against its sternest test to date in the Spartans of Michigan State, rated as strong as any in the country. The game of the week for the Western partisans.

Army bumps into the Fordham Ram, a sleeper on the schedule. Short weeks ago, the handicappers regarded Fordham as just another soft touch, but the tongue is in the other cheek and there are those who talk of even money now.

Question here is how much damage did lolling under the fig trees of Harvard, Columbia, and VMI do the Cadets? Fordham is big and tough, backs with a punch and a line known as the Seven Samson. The game of the week for the Eastern fans.

Otherwise supporting cards throughout the national lot are excellent. Conference tilts to warm the cockles of any heart, and such non-league brawls as undefeated Virginia at Penn, Villanova at Georgetown, Kentucky at unbeaten Xavier (O.)

The District Outlook
It's homecoming at Mt. St. Mary's and the Mounties entertain Shippensburg. The Western Maryland Terrors take their brawn to Catholic U., Swarthmore treks to Johns Hopkins and Gettysburg dares the Bucknell Bisons.

Gala doings are on tap at the Mount, incidental with dedicating the new field house. The boys came out on top at Catholic U., and it is hoped that the game with Shippensburg will result in keeping with the festive mood of the occasion.

A Bit of Inventory
Now as the gridiron divisions round the final turn and head into the stretch, let's take a look at the unbeaten, the once beaten and the two conferences concerned with the Rose Bowl extravaganza. Next week, space permitting, we'll run over the remaining major conference standings.

The Unbeaten-Untied
California, Wyoming, College of Pacific, Army, Oklahoma, Baylor, Cornell, Virginia, Xavier (O.), Notre Dame, Boston U., and Fordham.
The Once Beaten-Untied

Villanova, Kentucky, SFU, Michigan State, Rice, Pitt, Tulane, Duke, SMU, Maryland, Penn, Dartmouth, Brown, Bucknell, and Miami (Fla.).

Calling the Turn

Notre Dame at Michigan St.—Look for the Irish depth to get them by the tough Spartans.

Army at Fordham—Figure Galiffa to get the Cadets past Fordham by the air lift.

Kentucky at Xavier—Xavier is a good TD better than Cincinnati. Ciney lost to Kentucky last week by this very margin.

Stringing with Kentucky in a close one.

Villanova at Georgetown—Much color has been erased from this one by the Hoyas' stinging defeat at the hands of Fordham. Take Villanova.

Virginia at Penn—Penn to topple the Cavaliers.

Stanford at USC—Loser here drops out of the Coast Conference title run. Like Stanford to turn back the Trojans.

Iowa at Minnesota—Could be the Gophers are lying down: its been done before. Eenie-meenie nod to Iowa.

Baylor at Texas—The Longhorns have traveled the rougher road. Like Texas to set down the undefeated Baylor club.

Also—Boston U. over Temple, Bucknell dumps Gettysburg, Colgate nudges Holy Cross, Gannon trims St. Francis, NYU edges Kings Point, Lehigh takes Muhlenberg, Penn State trips West Virginia, Ohio State rocks Pitt, Cornell tramples Syracuse, Brown tumbles Yale, Dartmouth whales Columbia, Princeton swamps Harvard, Mt. St. Marys tips Shippensburg, Johns Hopkins slams Swarthmore, Western Maryland routs Catholic U., Washington College shades Randolph-Macon, St. Vincents takes West Virginia Wesleyan, Rutgers-Lafayette tossup.

Boston College slaps Clemson, Navy trims Tulane, Ole Miss wallops Chattanooga, Auburn trips Mississippi State, Georgia edges Florida, LSU beats Vandy, VMI nudges Davidson, Maryland over George Washington, W. & L. decisions VPI, George Tech-Tennessee tossup, Duke-Wake Forest ditto, North Carolina-W. & M. the same, Richmond-North Carolina State likewise, Detroit-Miami (Fla.) also.

Marquette edges South Carolina, Illinois thumps Indiana, Michigan takes Purdue, Missouri bounces Colorado, Kansas shades Nebraska, Oklahoma trims Kansas State, Wichita nudges St. Louis, Cincinnati over Ohio U., Miami (Ohio) beats Western Reserve, Wyoming passes Colorado State, Utah State shades BYU, Colorado A. & M. trips Utah, North Dakota tips South Dakota State, Wisconsin - Northwestern even money, Iowa State-Drake even-steven, Tulsa-Oklahoma A. & M. tossup, Nevada-Dayton also.

Rice bumps Arkansas, SMU routs Texas A. & M., California passes Washington State, Oregon State takes Idaho, College of Pacific over Santa Barbara, SFU hairlines Santa Clara, San Jose over Caltech, Oregon-Washington tossup, Denver-St. Marys the same.

Amen.

EHS Drops Soccer Game to Frederick

Depth of reserves counted heavily as Frederick High soccerites overcame Emmitsburg, 4-1, in the closing half of Monday's interscholastic League tilt played in Frederick.

Manpower-scarce Emmitsburg valiantly battled Frederick's starting lineup to a standstill during the first half. Only one substitution was made by the losers during the entire contest.

Three of the Cadets second-half points were netted by fresh, first-string replacements. Frederick had 29 players in the game against six visitors 12.

Neither side scored in the first two quarters. Emmitsburg's only counter came in the third period by B. Damuth, on a well-managed field goal with assists by almost every Emmitsburg player.

ROELECKE—WITHEROW

Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, was the scene of a pretty wedding last Saturday at 2 p. m., when Miss Selma Maye Witherow, Emmitsburg, became the bride of Frederick O. Roelcke Jr., Taneytown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick O. Roelcke Sr., Baltimore.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin brocade, fashioned with a tight-fitting bodice and illusion neckline with tiny self-covered buttons below the waist. Leg-o-mutton sleeves ended in points over the hands. The full skirt ended in a long train. Her fingertip veil of illusion net fell from a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid with white satin streamers and tied with white satin ribbon. Her only jewelry was a three-strand pearl necklace that was worn by her mother at her wedding.

Miss Gertrude Witherow, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Chester Witherow, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Ross Linebaugh of Harrisburg, a cousin of the bride, and Douglas Strong of Baltimore, cousin of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the parish hall adjoining the church for approximately 100 guests.

Upon return from their honeymoon, they will go to housekeeping in the home near Taneytown, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Keilholtz and son, Wayne, of Washington, D. C., recently visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Keilholtz, E. Main St.

Miss Rhoda Gillelan and Mrs. J. W. Houser spent Monday in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. Shorb of Keymar, announce the birth of a son born Sunday at the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa.

Papers were read by Sandra Hall and Patricia Fitzgerald and the student body was led in a pledge to Our Lady by William Myers. Appropriately hymns were sung and a sound, interesting, and elevating talk was given by Fr. Michael O'Brien, C.M., a member of the faculty.

Mounties Knock Off Catholic U.

Held even in the first half by a stubborn Catholic U eleven, Mt. St. Mary's broke loose in the last half to score a 26-6 victory last Saturday in a Mason-Dixon Conference football game.

It was the Saints' second win of the season and snapped a four-game losing streak. For a while there was some doubt whether Coach John Law's team could triumph, but Catholic U's meager manpower gradually cracked under the consistent pounding of Law's two-platoon system.

Catholic U scored first in the opening period, after recovering two fumbles. One halted a Mount drive on the C U 25-yard line, where Ed Boegel snatched the ball as it bounced out of Walt Bellardinelli's hands. The second occurred on the Mounts' 16 and was recovered by Orsini.

Bill Holl's 35-yard gallop had helped move the ball deep into Mountaineer territory before the local team held for downs on its 18-yard line. Frank Bono made the second miscue and the Cards went from there for six points. Bill DeYoung plunged over from the 6-inch line.

But both Bellardinelli and Bono atoned for their mistakes. Bono handled the Mounts' offense expertly and Bellardinelli, showing his power for the first time this season, shared the ball-packing spotlight with Bud Veltri, a little speedy gent.

Bellardinelli and Veltri each chalked up 143 yards from scrimmage and each scored two touchdowns. Bellardinelli turned in the day's longest scoring jaunt — an even 50 yards. Veltri scampered 53, but Bucky Ennis pulled him down from behind to save C U another score.

Mount St. Mary's drove 62 yards for the tying touchdown early in the second period, Veltri going over from the three-yard line. The same player's running climaxed by a 10-yard jaunt, and featured a 68-yard advance for the second score early in the third quarter.

Bellardinelli traveled 50 for the Mount's third score, and then put the finishing 20 yards to Veltri's 53-yard gallop for the last.
