Abigail of Emmitsburg citizenry last week showed their keen interest in humanity when they banded together and became the nucleus for a local Community Fund. This has been needed for some time here, but as the old saying goes, "better late than never." Practically all large cities have similar funds for the same type of community welfare and also cover many more hardship cases. Chairman Floyd Miller, when contacted this week, stated that donations were being received at a satisfactory rate. Several other events are scheduled in the near future, which are expected to swell the fund. It is the intention of those in charge to make the Community Fund a permanent fixture here, and will maintain an annual drive. We sincerely believe that it is the duty of every resident to participate in making this excellent, humanitarian movement a success. One never knows when he will become a victim of adverse circumstances, and might some day have to be aided by this organization. So let's get busy folks. Send in your contributions to Floyd Miller, regardless of how small or how large they may be. Get the drive into high gear!

The purchasing of a lot from Miss Elizabeth Neck last week by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company, substantiates our prediction somewhat earlier in the year, that the company has planned something new for Emmitsburg.

In case you haven't noticed, folks, Christmas is just around the corner. Newspapers are taking on that "Christmas" appearance and the Lions Club is preparing to decorate the Square in their annual fashion. Several merchants already have decorated their fronts with the usual holly, pine, lights, etc. After talking with most of the storekeepers, I believe that the old burg will be one of the best-dressed around these parts. They plan an all-out effort this year. Let's hope they achieve their goal. . . every establishment to be adorned in a Christmas-like fashion.

Can't help but wonder the other night, how those fire ladders felt, climbing out of bed at 2 a. m. It is remarkable how they find the courage to hit the floor and then in two or three minutes are out in the cold, blustery winter. These boys work faithfully — and without compensation. A good way to express your appreciation to them, is to attend the "corn" games they are staging every Saturday night in their hall at 8 p. m.

Gettysburg, Hanover To Stage Parades

Santa Claus is coming to Gettysburg, Pa.
The genial patron saint of the Yuletide season will be in Center Square Saturday night, according to the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce.

Santa will make his appearance coincident with the turning on of the Christmas street lights. In his bag of gifts will be candy treats for all the youngsters who come to the Square to meet him.

The route to be followed by the Community Christmas parade in Hanover this evening (Friday) was announced this week. It is scheduled to move off at eight o'clock.

Pat Freeman of Washington, D. C., and Ruth Freeman of Baltimore, spent the Thanksgiving holidays at the home of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Freeman of E. Main St.

Paul Goulden of Washington, D. C., spent the holidays at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ida Goulden of E. Main St.

SENATOR STORM ADVOCATES LOWERING TAXES

Politico Says Amount
Could Be Lowered
Without Impairment

State Senator Edward D. Storm believes State taxes can be reduced between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 without impairing the maintenance of present programs to which the Maryland government is committed.

The senator is sounding out public opinion on the best method of effecting reductions. At the regular luncheon of the Frederick County Bar Assn., he asked members to give thought to the subject before the coming session of the General Assembly.

At a December open forum of the Chamber of Commerce, Frederick, the subject of state tax reductions will be the principal topic.

"We have now reached the point where, if no emergency expenses become necessary, we should be able to reduce State taxes four to five million dollars," Sen. Storm said. He made it plain that this contemplated the continuance of school and mental hospital improvement programs and no change in the "terrific contributions" from the State to county and city governments.

Amplifying, the Senator said there are several possibilities which could be considered from a tax reduction angle. One would be to remove the real estate tax entirely, which would knock off about five million dollars—around $5 on a $5,000 realty assessment.

Another would be to make adjustments in the State income tax setup. Exemptions might be raised, he said, or the amounts granted for dependents might be increased. The rate on investment income might be readjusted downward.

There may be other forms of State taxes which could be cut, he added.

He said he had sent out letters some time ago to a few citizens in the county asking their views on the subject, and response seemed to indicate that most felt an income tax readjustment would be the fairest method, eliminating any tax of this nature for the lower wage brackets. There is also a good deal of sentiment in some quarters for a saving on the State real estate tax, he said, but the majority seemed to feel his tax should be continued to care for bond issues.

Petit Jury Is Selected

The petit jury for the December term of Circuit Court was drawn last Saturday at the Court house, Frederick, in presence of Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer. The term will open on Monday, Dec. 12.

The December term is a non-grand jury term and is usually devoted to civil matters. There are a number of cases on the trials docket.

The jury, as drawn, is as follows:

Frederick: William B. Bural, Elizabeth A. McCain, John A. Derr, Susan G. Lane, Mildred W. Morgan.
Buckeystown: Clarence C. Dudrow.
Creagerstown: Richard C. Free.
Emmitsburg: Virgie L. Ogle.

Benefit Basketball Game To Be Played

One of the first activities to be held to raise monies for the purchase of a television set for young "Buddy" Stinson, who recently had his left leg amputated, will take place next Tuesday. The benefit will be in the form of a basketball game between St. Joseph's High School and Emmitsburg High School.

The contest will be staged in the auditorium of St. Joseph's High School and will get under way at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 6. A record turnout is expected for the event.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wilhide and children, and Mrs. Estelle Watkins visited relatives and friends at Kempton on Thanksgiving Day.

MOUNT GLEE CLUB TO PRESENT WINTER CONCERT

Affair Will Take Place In St. Joseph's
College Auditorium

The Mount Saint Mary's College Glee club will present a Christmas recital in the auditorium of St. Joseph's college, Emmitsburg, on the evening of December 5, the Rev. David W. Shaum, director, has announced.

Guest soloist for the performance will be Mrs. Mae O'Keefe, a mezzo-soprano, of Baltimore. The glee club will be accompanied by William M. Yannuzzi, a student of Austin Conradi of the Peabody school of music.

Among the songs to be presented will be the traditional carols, "Silent Night," "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," "Cantique Noel" and "With Glory Lit, the Midnight Air Revealed," written by Doctor Dielman, a former professor of music at Mount Saint Mary's.

Two numbers of Russian origin, "Dance, My Comrades," and "The Sleigh Song" will be sung as will "An English Hiking Song" and "Some Enchanted Evening" from the musical "South Pacific."

To Give Second Concert
Baritone soloist for the presentation of Fred Waring's arrangement of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" will be Stephen Burke, a Mt. St. Mary's student from Georgia.

Mrs. O'Keefe will assist the glee club in the presentation of the finale, "Romany Life," which will be sung in gypsy costume. Mrs. O'Keefe, who is appearing for the second time as the glee club's guest soloist, will sing "None Ver," "Where My Caravan Has Rested" and "Tristesse Eternelle" in observance of the 100th anniversary of Chopin's death. She will also assist the glee club in the singing of "Cantique Noel" and the finale.

Forty students comprise the glee club. Its director, Father Shaum, is a graduate of Mt. St. Mary's College and Mt. St. Mary's Seminary with the class of 1946. At present he is instructor in sacred music at the Mount Seminary and instructor in the philosophy department of the college in addition to serving as assistant rector of St. Vincent's Church, Baltimore.

A second concert of the Mount Glee Club is scheduled for Hanover, December 8.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

As previously promised, the next few columns will be given to the pastors of the community. Here is a most important group of men. They exercise an influence for good far out of proportion to their number. Their voice is constantly heard, and their counsel sought.

It would be difficult indeed to conceive of a community without a church or pastor. What it would be like, is not easy to imagine. A certain college professor, in making some national survey, is said to have found such a community in America. He reported that it was the worst place that he had ever seen. This may well be true. For the church and pastor deal in those intangible cohesions that bind people together into a community.

PASTORS OF EMMITSBURG

Here are a gifted and consecrated group of men, who are second to none. The very place of their peculiar position thrust them into the limelight and make them the object of public attention. Just because it is so, and because human nature is what it is, these men are idolized by their friends, criticized by their foes, idealized by the saints, scandalized by the sinners, publicized by the press, and scrutinized by the public.

Not only so, but they are a group of men from whom the impossible is often expected. They are expected to have the eloquence of a Webster, the wisdom of a sage, the grace of a fairy, the tact of a diplomat, the purity of an angel, the courage of a soldier, the piety of a saint, and the faith of a martyr. Fortunate indeed, is the church with a pastor who possesses even a small trace of a few of these exalted virtues. And Emmitsburg is thus fortunate.

PHILIP BOWER

The first name to be drawn is the pastor of the Lutheran Church. Here is a gifted and efficient pastor who excels in many recognized qualities of leadership. His excellency as a priest in administering the holy rites of the church to the people, is well-known in the community. Likewise, he is a good organizer. Through his genius in this regard, he has placed the Lutheran Church of Emmitsburg on the map. Through persistent and consecrated service to the people, he has worked day and night to build up a strong organization housed in a well-equipped plant built under his ministry.

The mansion in which he lives is one of the ornaments of Emmitsburg, a tribute to the consecrated pride of his people. And the church he serves, which now could not be reproduced for a fortune, well reminds one of a stately cathedral. And the magnificent Parish House which he built will long remain as a monument to the genius of Pastor who has served in the community for a quarter of a century and yet maintains his youthful appearance.

Pastor Bower is a man of kindly nature, exemplary character, affable disposition, transparent sincerity, deep understanding, and a good counselor for the troubled. His many years' service in Emmitsburg as pastor of the Lutheran Church, is a high tribute to the excellence of his character and the efficiency of his work.

THE NAME OF BOWER

This is a name of German ancestry. It is derived from the trade after which the founder named himself. It also suggests the place where the founder lived. That is, he lived in the country instead of the city or village, and that he was engaged in the occupation of agriculture.

It is natural that people in every land should name themselves after this most vital occupation. For the farmer always has been, and always will be the most important man in the world. He is engaged in the most important occupation in the world. Without him, life could not endure. He feeds the world. He produces the first basic necessity of existence. That is food to satisfy human hunger.

Therefore, Bower, if of German origin, means the farmer who lives in the country. Originally, it was spelled Bauer. In the Americanized form it is spelled Bower, or more frequently Bowers.

Owen Travelogue Describes Picturesque Indian Villages

By REV. CHARLES S. OWEN

INDIAN VILLAGE

At the eastern border of the Great Smoky Mountain Park, on the N. C. side, is located the widely known Indian village called Cherokee, the capital of the Cherokee Indian Reservation. It is a quaint little village filled with attractive shops selling Indian relics and souvenirs to the tourists. Cars from almost every state in the Union in general, and the Southern States in particular, crowd the place during the vacation season. The quaint shops, fashioned usually out of logs, are well stocked with Indian relics and novelties. Also, they are equipped with lunch tables where the Indian maidens serve the hungry tourists. Some of the novelties appear to be of genuine Indian make as if fashioned by the local tribesmen themselves. A lot of these souvenirs, however appear to be spurious in the sense that they have been bought from the five and ten-cent store salesmen. Of course, an Indian monogram is carved or pasted on them to create a native appearance. There is little doubt that the owners of these shops make good money during the tourist season.

CONTEMPORARY ANCESTORS

Here one sees a contemporary admixture of the primitive and the modern side by side. As we approached the village over the mountain highway we saw many evidences that it was market day with the Indians. Along the road for miles out, we saw families on their way to market. Every form of travel, from the most primitive to the most modern, was in evidence. The first family we overtook, several miles out from the village, were on foot. The squaw was carrying her papoose on her back and a bundle of produce under her arm and another bundle balanced on her head while the husband and children accompanied her as a family unit.

The next family appeared to be a bit more modern. They, too, were on foot. But the squaw was pushing a baby carriage loaded with some kind of produce for market. Having progressed from the papoose stage to the baby carriage state, she was now using the simple vehicle as an instrument of commercial transportation. The next family group, some distance ahead, was still more modern. They traveled in a rickety buggy of antiquated make. The warped wheels swayed zack and forth as they were drawn along by a skinny and hungry-looking horse. The children were hanging on wherever there was a vacant grip.

The next family, quite a distance ahead, were riding in an antiquated Model T Ford which was running on three cylinders. The whole family therein, with faces set straight ahead, seemed to vibrate with the tin. Still further ahead, we overtook families traveling in the more up-to-date cars. They all seemed to be going in family groups and carrying

COMMUNITY UNIT TO ELECT OFFICERS

Public Meeting Is Scheduled For Tuesday, Dec. 12

Plans for the election and installation of officers for the newly-formed Community Fund are completed, Temporary Chairman Floyd C. Miller announced this week. The installation is to take place at a public meeting of the citizens and civic organizations to be held in the Firemen's Hall on Monday, Dec. 12, at 8 p. m.

Chairman Miller disclosed that the first activity of the organization, the purchasing of a television set for "Buddy" Stinson has been accomplished. Francis S. K. Matthews, local merchant, gave the set, at cost, to the cause and Wormley's Radio Service completed the installation this week.

Young Stinson is expected to arrive home from the hospital this week-end. The whole affair will be a surprise to him.

The chairman announced that he has had many inquiries about donating to the fund and stated that all contributions either be given to him personally or mailed to Floyd C. Miller, Box 227, Emmitsburg. Mr. Miller's telephone number is Emmitsburg 170. According to his last calculation, Mr. Miller said that about $200 had been either pledged or raised.

After the installation of regular officers at the next meeting, the organization will become a fixed unit in the community life of Emmitsburg and has the pledged support of many of the local civic groups and the people of the town.

Keymar Youth Wins Scholarship

Donald Wachter of Keymar, was awarded a $300 scholarship, it was announced this week at the 4-H Congress meeting in Chicago.

Wachter, who is 20, won the prize for his farm safety project, the highlight of which was a newspaper column he conducted on the subject.

Expenses for his Chicago trip also are paid under the prize.

Christmas Party Committees Are Named

President Robert Daugherty of the local Lions Club this week announced the following committees which are to handle the annual Christmas celebration, Saturday, Dec. 24:

Advertising — Rev. Philip Bower, Edward Stull, Herbert Roger, John J. Hollinger, Dr. D. L. Beagle and C. A. Elder.

Treat committee — Rev. Philip Bower, Dr. John J. Dillon and Harold Hoke.

Tree committee — John Payne, Morris A. Zentz, Quinn Topper, and Mervin Tate.

Community decorating committee — Ralph McDonnell, Philip Sharpe, Charles F. Troxell, Clarence Hahn and Charles Sprigg.

Santa transport committee — John J. Hollinger, Morris A. Zentz, Philip Sharpe, and Geo. Gingell.

Safety committee — William Kelz, Lumen Norris, Ernest R. Shriver, Geo. L. Wilhide, and Prof. William S. Sterbinsky.

It is believed that the celebration will follow the usual pattern of previous years, by having a free movie in the morning, and a light lunch later, followed by the distribution of gifts to the kiddies of the community.

Fire Destroys Summer Kitchen

The Vigilant Hose Company was called Monday at 2 a. m. to the John Long property on the old Frederick Road, south of Emmitsburg to extinguish a blaz raging in a summer kitchen. The property was entirely destroyed by the flames and all the local hose company could do was save the home and other outbuildings. The home is occupied by the Roy Miller family.

MOUNT RELEASES BASKETBALL CARD; 21 GAMES LISTED

Will Use Frederick
Armory Floor
For Conference Games

Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, last week, released its 1949-50 varsity basketball schedule of 21 games; nine of which will be played against Mason-Dixon Conference quints in the Frederick armory, as the home games for the collegians.

The Mounties opened in a Conference tilt last night with Hampden-Sydney, Va., and will close Feb. 28 with Western Maryland College.

In between, the Mount cagers will play 17 Conference tilts, nine in Frederick and eight away; intermingled with four non-conference road tilts:

Dec. 7, at Gettysburg, Pa., College; 16, Villanova College at Philadelphia; 17, Iona College at New Rochelle, N. Y., and Jan. 6, Shippensburg State Teachers at Shippensburg, Pa.

Conference games way from home include: Catholic U., Dec. 10 and American U., Jan. 13, both at Washington; Baltimore U., Jan. 21 and Loyola College, Feb. 10, both at Baltimore; Hampden-Sydney, Dec. 1, and Roanoke College, Dec. 2, both in the Virginia College towns.

Western Maryland College at Westminster, Jan. 17, and Washington College at Chestertown, Feb. 18.

Mason-Dixon games to be played in Frederick include: Towson State Teachers on Jan. 10; Loyola of Baltimore, Jan. 10; Washington College, Jan. 24.

Feb. 7, Baltimore University; 11, Bridgewater College; 14, Roanoke College; 21, Catholic U.; 25, American U., and closing the season, Feb. 28, Western Maryland College.

Junior varsity games will precede all home games. The Jayvees are coached by Pete Clark, who last year was a strong Frederick favorite as captain and sparkplug of the Mounties.

In addition Pete Clark will help Coach John McMahon get the varsity five in shape for the season. The new varsity quint mentor has an enviable record.

Mr. McMahon won 14 letters in sports at his hometown high school, Walden, N. Y. He starred four years in both football and basketball; three years each in track and baseball, before going to Notre Dame.

His studies at South Bend, Ind., were interrupted by military service when for three years he was bounced around as a tail-gunner in heavy bombers over the CBI war theater.

In addition to playing experience with the "Fighting Irish," Coach McMahon got a good workout in coaching there before coming to Mt. St. Mary's. At Notre Dame he handled the championship 'Hall' basketball team and handled the South Bend CYO quint which captured its league championship.

The half-pint package of athletic dynamite falls heir to a Mount team stripped almost completely of the stars who performed with the Mounties last season.

Lions Club Stages 20th Charter Night

The Emmitsburg Lions Club celebrated in gala fashion Tuesday night the 20th year of its charter granting.

The program was replete with music, dancing, and addresses. Dr. John D. Dillon, acting as toastmaster, had the members and guests on edge all evening, no one knowing when he was going to be singled out for participation in a bit of humor.

Highlight of the evening was an address by the Rev. Fr. Marlow Kline, prefect of discipline at Mt. St. Mary's College.

The gathering was pleasantly entertained by a group of girls from St. Joseph's College, which sang several vocal selections, accompanied by a pianist. Music for the dancing was provided by a 12-piece orchestra from the Mount.

Mrs. Anne Orend'ff Elected President Of Homemakers

The Homemakers Club of Emmitsburg held their monthly meeting last Friday in the Firemen's Hall, with the president, Mrs. Morris Zentz, presiding.

At the meeting the club agreed to join with the other local organizations of the town to donate to a Community Fund.

Plans for the Christmas party were discussed and the following committees were named:

Refreshments, Mrs. George Eyster, Mrs. Charles Harner, Mrs. Mervin Tate and Mrs. Morris Zentz.

Gifts, Mrs. R. M. Zacharias and Mrs. John Zacharias.

Prizes—Miss Ann Codori and Mrs. Thornton Rodgers.

Hostesses—Mrs. Harry Boyle, Mrs. O. H. Stinson and Mrs. Robert Gillelan.

Cards, pencils and tallies — Mrs. Roy Bollinger, Mrs. Lewis Higbee, Mrs. Carrie Hartzell and Miss Grace Rowe.

The date selected for the Christmas party was Dec. 29 and will be held in the Firemen's Hall.

Elected to the office of president for the coming year was Mrs. Laurence Orendorff. Other officers elected were Mrs. Harry Boyle, vice president; Mrs. Thornton Rodgers, secretary; Miss Louise Sobold, director, and Mrs. George Eyster, assistant director.

Mrs. John White, chairman of the International Relations, reported on the Paintels — the French family, the club has adopted.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Sharrer Dec. 8th.

P-TA Planning Card Party

The Emmitsburg Public School Parent-Teachers Association has been very active in both school and civic interests this year. On Wednesday they sponsored a workshop meeting at which time they mended and refurnished toys and clothing, to be distributed to the children of the community, who otherwise might not receive much in the way of playthings for Christmas.

Another project in view is to obtain a moving picture projector for the school, to aid in the visual education of the pupils. To that end, a card party has been planned for December 9, in the Emmitsburg High School auditorium at 8 p. m. Bridge, pitch and 500 will be played. There will be a door prize as well as prizes for high scores. Refreshments will be served.

This paper makes an excellent Christmas gift! $2.00 annually.

GOULDEN—ABELL

At ten o'clock last Saturday morning in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Taneytown, Miss Helen Abell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kepner of Emmitsburg, became the bride of Joseph Eugene Goulden, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vincent Goulden of Kingsdale. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Fr. Welker, pastor of the church.

The bride wore a white taffeta gown with a finger-tip veil. Dorothy Goulden, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor. David Goulden, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Louise Hardman, a friend of the bride, and Miss Anna Mae Goulden, sister of the bridegroom. Kathryn Ann Abell, a sister of the bride, was the flower girl. Norbert Goulden and Michael Erick were ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the White House Inn, Emmitsburg.

After a short honeymoon, the couple will make their home in Taneytown.

Youth Accused Of Fleeing Accident Scene

Fleeing the scene of a collision, Charles Ernest Barnhart, 19, of Taneytown, and formerly of Emmitsburg R. D. 2, upset his car on the Uniontown road a mile and a half west of Westminster, Saturday night, injured himself and received a State summons to a hearing tomorrow for failing to stop after an accident and reckless driving.

Barnhart allegedly sidwiped an automobile driven by Preston S. Flickenger, Route 5, Westminster, about 9:30 p. m. on College Hill, Westminster. Flickenger followed in pursuit.

Flickenger said Barnhart left the scene of the collision without identifying himself. The Westminster man described how, Barnhart, driving at a high rate of speed, trying to out-distance his pursuers, failed to negotiate a curve a little over a mile from the scene of the accident.

This paper makes an excellent Christmas gift! $2.00 annually.

"Corn" Game Saturday Night

The regular Saturday night "corn game", held jointly by the Vigilant Hose Co. of Emmitsburg and the local baseball association, will be staged in the Firemen's Hall at eight o'clock.

Poultry Pointers

By FREDERICK BLOCK

Who Needs Fish Oil For Poultry?

No drug replaces good management, but fish oils, of which cod liver oil is the most popular on for poultry, are no drugs. Oil is a very important by-product of the fish industry.

Success in raising of poultry in winter without fish oil is a present time unthinkable. The belief that additional fish oil gets sick birds well is wrong. However in many cases, it will help birds and chickens as well as turkeys to overcome minor disturbances.

The oil's fat content is not important. The small amount of fat which birds require will be sufficiently furnished by grains. It is the vitamin content which counts, vitamins A and D, and the so-called "unknown factor."

If you use about two thirds of your feeding a good commercial laying mash and only one third additional grain or pellets, then you do not have to add any fish oil because every good commercial mash contains the necessary amount of it. If you use a highly concentrated mash and two thirds of grain in winter time, there may be the danger occurs that your birds lack either vitamins A or D.

The mixing of half a pint of fish oil for every 100 pounds of grain is advisable, unless you can afford to feed daily carrots or green fresh feed. How birds profit from the oil has not been thoroughly understood, but the facts have been established that birds use it profitably. Vitamins do not seem to be a nourishment, they rather act like the oxygen of fresh air in a fire, which otherwise can not burn. Birds require a grain much better with additional vitamins. Lack of hatchability can often be corrected by additional fish oil; it also speeds the growth of baby chicks up to the age of eight weeks.

If cod liver oil is too expensive in small quantities, it can be bought by the gallons at the various co-ops and other establishments for a reasonable price.

It is difficult to mix oil with grain thoroughly. Mix the oil first with 25 pounds of grain, and after you have mixed this thoroughly, mix it with the rest of the grain to be mixed, and you will get an even distribution of the oil over the whole amount of feed.

Thurmont Hall Brings $500

The Thurmont Town Hall building was sold at public auction Saturday to Miss Sannie Dotterer, of near Creagerstown, for $500. The frame structure will be razed and the material used for cowbarn construction on the Dotterer farm, which is between Creagerstown and Graceham, it was reported. Bidding began at $50 and was rather spirited.

Due to last-minute script changes, a somewhat hasty job of casting had to be done on NBC's "When A Girl Marries" last week. It was so hasty, in fact, that the actor was selected from the cast sheet, which specified that "A man" was needed in the cast on three different days. Accordingly, actor John Holbrook was hired. Closer examination of the script, however, revealed that what had really been required were three different men. Result was that when Ed Stehli, as "Terry McDonough," got into a cab, the driver was John Holbrook; next day when—still in the script—he boarded a train, a fellow passenger was—John Holbrook; and when he arrived at his fictional destination, Summerville, the clerk at the hotel was, yes, John again! Fortunately for all concerned, Mr. Holbrook, an actor of versatility, managed to sound completely different in each of his three roles as "A man."

Tremendous Upkeep Of Mental Institutions Revealed By New Figures

The population of Maryland's five mental hospitals (10,470 including the patients paroled under the supervision of psychiatric social workers), plus the total number of authorized personnel now being recruited to operate these institutions (2055), closely approximates the total population of two counties of Maryland. This comparison clearly indicates the size of the State's mental hospital program and gives point to statistical information to be found in a review of the employment situation.

Employment at state mental hospitals has risen to 84 per cent of its total, with only 348 vacancies remaining. Distribution of positions and vacancies is made in four groups: Patient care, which includes medical, nursing, and attendant services; administrative positions; maintenance and farm work, and institutional work,

SHORT STORY

Trapper Joe

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

THE BLIZZARD, first of the season, was roaring fitfully when Trapper Joe climbed over the river bank and approached his cabin. Midway across the intervening clearing he stumbled over something and almost fell. The something, he discovered, was a man, almost buried by a snow, unconscious.

3-Minute Fiction

Trapper Joe rolled the stiff form over and saw a huge pack strapped to the man's back. He grunted, picked up pack and man, and carried both into his cabin.

Trapper Joe examined the pack and found that it contained five pouches, each filled to capacity with gold dust. There must, he reflected, be thousands of dollars worth.

PRESENTLY the blanket-swathed figure stirred. Trapper Joe stared down at it solemnly. The unconscious man's eyelids fluttered, then opened.

"Take it easy, pardner," said Trapper Joe. "You're coming around."

The man stared at Trapper Joe, then sat bolt upright.

"Where am I?" he demanded.

"Your cabin, but—"

"What happened? I remember setting out for the Post. It began to snow. I kept falling. Then I saw—"

"But you didn't have the strength to make it. I found you almost dead. I lugged you back here and—"

"You're safe, and so's your gold."

"You—know what's in there?"

"Sure. Some of it spilled out. You must have made a rich strike."

"I did. A pocket. I stayed too late in order to get it all out. My name's Tim McLeary." He eyed Trapper Joe curiously.

"Kinda queer having this happen: waking up and finding myself alive and—up and finding myself alive and—"

"Trapper Joe nodded. "You're wondering why I didn't leave you there to die and appropriate the dust, eh? Well, I considered it. Then thought of what a chance I'd be taking. I think: When he wakes up he'll see I saved his life. He'll see I saved his life. He'll see I saved his life."

McLeary brushed a hand across his face. His lips tightened. "I get it. You were scared to snatch the stuff. You figured I'd give you half of it on account of you saved my life."

"You're a cool one all right."

McLeary twisted his thin lips into a grin. "Mebbe it was good figurin' at that. Mind if I take a sleep? I feel sorta weak."

"Drink some more soup first. Warm you up inside."

OUTSIDE the storm beat and tore at the tiny cabin. Presently Trapper Joe slept. Time passed. The storm diminished in volume, died. The figure near the fire stirred, sat up, listened to Trapper Joe's deep breathing and reached for a stick of firewood.

Trapper Joe returned to consciousness to find himself bound in his bunk. He struggled at his bonds.

After an interminably long time he freed himself, chafed his wrists, flexed his muscles. Then he built up the fire. There was a note above the mantel. "Sorry, old timer, I've been dreaming of a strike like this for years. I'm young and can enjoy the money. There's not enough for two. I've tied you lightly and left enough supplies to see you through the winter. Thanks for the lift."

Trapper Joe folded the note and put it in his shirt pocket.

"Time to celebrate," he said aloud. "Sides, I'll be wantin' to travel light so's I can reach the Indian village in three days' time."

Before sitting down to his feast he lifted a loose board behind the chimney and hoisted up a gallon can. He opened the can and his eyes lighted at sight of the yellow gleaming particles of dust there.

He chuckled and replaced the can. "Well," he soliloquized, "the kid had a chance to play fair, and didn't take it. If he'd been willin' to split I'd have come half way. It'll take him a week to reach the post. By that time I'll be safe and sound. Now won't he be surprised to find them pouches of his full of—"

And me with this note in his own handwritin' to clear myself."

Postmaster Issues Instructions For Yuletide Mailing of Letters, Parcels

Postmaster Lewis H. Stoner announced today that a number of instructions have been received from the Postoffice Department regarding preparation of Christmas mails for the coming holiday, which is expected to be a record-breaker in local postoffice history.

The most essential fact to remember, Mr. Stoner points out, is the postoffice department's recommendation, "mail early for assured delivery before Christmas." Also of great importance is their reminder to address, carefully and completely, and wrap parcels securely.

Greeting cards, the largest single item to be handled during the holiday rush, should be sent as first class mail. The cost of sending is the same as sending an ordinary letter, 3 cents an ounce. Such greetings, sent as first class mail, receive many advantages which other classes of mail do not get. They will be forwarded to a new address if the addressee has moved, returned to the writer if not delivered, handled first before other classes of mail and may contain written messages and be sealed without any additional charge.

Unsealed Christmas cards without unauthorized writing enclosed now cost 2 cents to mail (if not over 2 ounces in weight). The public is especially advised of this fact, because for many years this type of card could be mailed for 1½ cents.

In any case, persons who have a large amount of greeting cards to mail are requested to tie their letters in bundles with the addresses and stamps all facing the same way. Mail thus prepared can be handled much quicker and will be sorted and dispatched faster in the postoffice.

Any greeting card which bears particles of glass, metal, mica, tinsel and other similar substances for decorative purposes, which is likely to rub off and injure postal employees or damage cancelling machines, must be enclosed in a tightly-sealed envelope and prepaid at the first class rate of postage, in order that it may be accepted for mailing.

Postage stamps for mailing greeting cards should be bought in advance of the rush period, in order to avoid the lobby rush which usually occurs at Christmas time.

When addressing parcel labels in ink, give the street address, and cards or letters, preferably or postoffice box number, or rural route and rural box number if at all possible. Mail intended for delivery in the larger cities should include the delivery zone number when applicable. The sender's return address should be written in the upper left corner of the address side. Address tags should not be used unless absolutely necessary, in which case a copy of the address and the sender's name and address should be placed inside the parcel for the purpose of identification, if necessary.

When mailing parcels, pack the articles carefully and tightly in strong, durable containers. Wrap and tie packages securely with good quality paper and cord. Parcels which are sealed are charged with the first class rate of postage, 3 cents per ounce, unless the label "Contents, Merchandise—Postmaster: This parcel may be opened for postal inspection, if necessary" appears on the address side of the parcel. Parcels containing written messages are also charged with the 3 cent per ounce rate. However, simple written salutations, such as "Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year, or numbers, symbols, etc., may be included in parcels for the purpose of description. If a letter or message must accompany a package, it can be pasted to the outside of the parcel, on the address side if postage at the rate of 3 cents per ounce is paid on the letter.

Parcels mailed to addresses in the United States are limited to the size of 100 inches, length and girth combined, and to the weight of 70 pounds. These limits apply both to ordinary parcel post, and air parcel post.

Valuable gifts mailed should be insured against loss, damage, or rifling. Money sent as a gift should not be sent loose in the mails. Money gift envelopes should be registered. The rates for insurance and registry will be furnished at the mailing window at the time of mailing. Other conveniences for expediting the handling of mail includes the special delivery and special handling services. These services speed the handling and delivery of letters and parcels at a nominal fee.

Articles which are likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery are not acceptable for mailing.

As a last precaution, the attention of the mailing public is called by the postmaster to the matter that all mail should be fully prepaid. A double check on all mailings may save the embarrassment of non-delivery, or the collection of postage due from a friend, or delay until after the holiday in the delivery of a greeting or gift parcel.

Church Planning Christmas Program

Arrangements for a Christmas program were made this week by the executives of the Lutheran Sunday School, Emmitsburg.

The program is scheduled to be presented Monday evening, Dec. 26.

The Beginners, Primary and Junior departments will each have their part of the program after which a Christmas play, entitled "Christmas in the Home," will be presented.

Miss Mary Ellen is to be the teacher of the Junior department of the Sunday School and Mrs. Robert Daugherty the assistant teacher. It was decided to give a Christmas treat to the children of the Sunday School.

William Comer, Gettysburg, Pa., was a visitor in town on Wednesday.

State Sanitarium To Be Improved

A contract has been awarded but not signed authorizing alterations to several buildings at the Victor Cullen State Hospital at Sabillasville, estimated to require an expenditure of $28,282, it was learned this week. Henry A. Knott, Inc. of Baltimore, was the low bidder when estimates were received last week.

Bids will also be received within the next several weeks for improvements to other institutions. At Sabillasville, most of the alterations will be interior work. Frame partitions, sheet-rocking and new wooden floors are included in the contract specifications.

DANCE HELD

Approximately 100 students and guests attended the dance last Wednesday night by the senior class of St. Joseph's High School.

Chaperons were Mrs. A. Karlquist, Mrs. Clarence Wachter, Mrs. Leonard Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rock, Mrs. Andrew Jordan and Francis Kelly. Music for the occasion was furnished by a juke box. Refreshments were served.

Earl M. Glass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milburn M. Glass, near Emmitsburg, will leave on Thursday for Norfolk, Va., where he has re-enlisted in the Navy for another six years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Sharer spent Thanksgiving in Denton visiting with Mrs. Sharer's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Yake.

Auto Registrations Reach All-Time High In State

Automobile and driver registration is big business in Maryland. It brought $15,139,094 into the State Treasury during the last fiscal year.

This figure is contained in the annual report of Arthur H. Brice, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, submitted to Gov. Lane recently.

Mr. Brice reported that the last fiscal year was a year in which there were more automobiles on the road in Maryland than at any time in State history. Registration totaled 641,531 vehicles. This was an increase of 24,458 or 5.7 per cent over the preceding year.

More cars on the road meant more accidents and more motor law violations.

The financial responsibility division noted there were 73,611 accidents reported, resulting in the issuance of 13,878 notices of suspension of licenses.

State police made 45,403 arrests for motor vehicle law violations. This was a jump of 28.5 per cent over the previous year.

At the same time Baltimore police made 20,694 arrests compared to 18,717 during the preceding year.

A total of $862,473 in fines and costs were imposed throughout the State for law violations.

New drivers licenses were issued to 61,312 by the department. In administering tests, it was found approximately 10 per cent of the persons failed on answering questions of law and about 22 per cent failed the driving test.

Of the total funds collected by the Department of Motor Vehicles, the sum of $388,230 in special funds was allotted to the counties and Baltimore City under the new policy of distributing certain State receipts to the smaller governmental units.

PAROLED

Joseph M. Condon, Emmitsburg, R. D. 3, who was sentenced on August 27 to serve from three to six months on a charge of aggravated assault and battery, was paroled by the Adams County Court this week. Condon was placed on probation for one year.

Johns Hopkins Doctors Discover New Cure For "Bronze Disease"

A chemist and an art curator at the Johns Hopkins University have refined and developed a cure for bronze disease, on which scientists have been working for the past quarter of a century.

Before one rushes to the doctor to ask if he has bronze disease, it had better be stated that it is not possible for a human to catch it—it is a malignant disease contracted only by ancient bronze objects from Egypt and other countries of antiquity.

For decades the problem of bronze disease has plagued museum curators. The antique bronzes, large and small, thick and thin, in museums all over the world have been subject to a corrosion which is first noticed when the bronze figure breaks out with a green, cancerous-looking rash on one or more parts of the figure. The bronze disease continues to grow into a hard, thick crust, then spreads until many bronze figures become so covered with a crust so massive that recognition of the figure is impossible. If the object is an ancient flask, or other thin object, the disease will often eat through the object and destroy it.

The nature and causes of the disease have been under investigation for many years. First step toward a solution of the causes and cure was made when scholars learned that bronze objects buried for centuries in the desert had not contracted the disease. But, when brought to this country, they often became diseased. In reverse, bronze art objects found in humid countries were often already effected with the disease.

Further investigation shows the disease is due to chlorides present in the moist soil in which the bronze objects were buried for centuries. The alloys in the bronze are slowly converted into the crusting sores, which are merely the separation of the alloys of which the bronze is composed.

Dr. Sarah Freeman, Curator of Fine Arts at Johns Hopkins, and Dr. Alsoph Corwin, professor of Chemistry, who together have worked on the cure of bronze disease, stated that bronze is often induced by an object being handled by a person whose moist hand has the proper salt content to start the chemical action on the surface of the bronze object.

Scientific investigations into the disease led to the belief that the action of the disease is due to an electrolytic process which closely resembles the process of rusting. This produces an effect on the art object which is like that of a badly weathered piece of rusty iron.

Because the disease progresses when the bronze is in contact with moist soil or air, museums long ago found the growth of the disease could be arrested by encasing the objects in moisture-proof containers. But, this did not cure the disease, or remove the offending spottings and crustings . . . it could not be cured.

This theory was proved to be correct. The disintegration is caused by an electrolytic process. Scientists then reasoned that if the disintegration was electrolytic, the disease could be cured and the bronzes could be restored by an electrolytic process in reverse. Their reasoning was correct.

The "cure" for bronze disease effected at Johns Hopkins is brought about much the same way as the garageman charges an automobile battery. A large, square glass jar is filled with an ordinary solution of lye. The bronze object to be cured is immersed in this solution. To the object is attached an electric wire converts the object into a cathode (negative electrode). A strip of sheet iron is also immersed, connected to an electric wire and becomes the anode (positive electrode). The source of electricity is provided by batteries.

The currents of electricity pass through the bronze object and the solution at a certain constant voltage, and in the process performs a chemical change in the bronze object which reverses the process of corrosion. The electric current detaches the crustation from the bronze and dissolves it in the lye solution, as well as stopping the progress of the disease.

As yet no method has discovered which will effect a permanent cure. Because, like the common cold in human beings, the bronze object can again contract the disease if the object again comes into contact with the proper combination of salt and be further explored by scientists and art scholars.

TURKEY DINNER

A Thanksgiving turkey dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milburn M. Glass, near here. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Glass, Earl M. Glass, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Sheeley and son, Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Glass, Thurmont; Miss Wilma Jean Glass, Westminister; Mr. A. M. Morgan, Danville, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Milburn M. Glass.

Work Progresses On Expressway

Only two county roads will be bisected by the first section of the new Washington Expressway from near Frederick to near Urbana, it was learned last week.

County Engineer Roger H. Willard identified these roads as the Baker Valley Rd., just south of Frederick Junction, and the "stone barn" or Amelung Glass Works Rd. to Park Mills, which branches from the present Rt. 240 about a mile north of Urbana.

Mr. Willard indicated that plans call for the Baker Valley Rd. to be carried under the new Washington dual lane highway and the Amelung Rd. to be carried over new Rt. 240. Thus there will be one underpass and one overpass.

On the second section of the expressway from near Urbana to near Hyattstown, there are three county roads involved. All are located within a short distance of each other near Hyattstown and no decision has been reached as to what will be done.

The underpass and overpass will be built with State funds. Maps of the proposed new expressway indicate that it will pass some distance to the west of Hyattstown but will be rather close to the outskirts of Urbana.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hodge and daughter of Philadelphia, Pa., visited over the Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. Hodge's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Timmerman.

Dinner guests Thanksgiving Day of Mr. and Mrs. William Rodgers were Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Rodgers and sons, Eugene and Donald, and Miss Lilian Gelwicks.

Gov. Proclaims Sunday Seal Day

Sunday, Dec. 5, has been proclaimed "Christmas Seal Sunday" by Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., it was announced this week by the Maryland Tuberculosis Assn.

Christmas Seal Sunday is observed each year throughout the State during the annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Maryland Tuberculosis Assn.

For many years Gov. Lane has recognized the alarming tuberculosis problem in Maryland and has taken an active part in promoting legislation to improve medical facilities needed to combat the high tuberculosis death rate in the State.

In making the "Christmas Seal Sunday" proclamation, Gov. Lane reminded the people of Maryland of the important work of the Maryland Tuberculosis Assn. in helping to reduce the tuberculosis death rate and eventually eradicate the disease.

HEALTH COLUMN

DIABETES

There are at present about one million people in the United States under medical treatment for diabetes. The great majority of them are in no immediate danger since, these days, a diabetic under the care of a physician and following his doctor's advice stands a good chance of leading as long and as useful a life as if he did not have the disease.

It is estimated, however, that there are another 800,000 diabetics who are in grave danger because they either do not know that they have diabetes or are delaying supervised medical treatment necessary to control it. In either case, the disease is getting the upper hand, threatening the health and menacing the lives of its victims.

Diabetes is not a new disease. There are descriptions of it in records of the ancient Greek doctors dating back to about 1500 B. C. Thus, it may be assumed that the lack of physical exercise and rich food, characteristic of modern civilization, are not exclusively the causes of diabetes as was once believed.

Actually, although diabetes can now be controlled with the proper treatment, it is not yet fully understood. Doctors believe that diabetes results when the gland called the pancreas fails to perform its vital function of providing a necessary substance insulin. This substance, in a well person, enables the body to use the sugar it gets in its food in order to keep the body warm and furnish it with energy.

But in the diabetic, when there is no insulin to convert the sugar into a form the body can use, the sugar goes into the blood stream or is poured out of the body in urine. The diabetic, therefore, is undernourished and weak because his body cannot make the proper use of the sugar it takes in.

All diabetics should be under the doctor's care. The doctor is the only one who can help and advise the diabetic to keep his disease under control. When diabetes is mild, or is detected early, it can often be controlled by eating the proper foods. But most diabetics need, in addition to a special diet, injections of insulin. This is an extract from the pancreas of animals. The doctor decides for the individual patient whether or not insulin is necessary, and how often and in what quantity the insulin should be taken.

From the standpoint of detecting and controlling all illness, the annual physical examination is important for everyone. But it is of special significance in controlling such diseases as diabetes which can be treated most easily and most successfully when caught in an early stage.

ENTERTAINS AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fuss entertained Thanksgiving Day Mrs. Mary C. Fuss, Mrs. Carrie Fuss Long, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fuss, Mr. and Mrs. John Fuss, Miss Emmabel Fuss, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fuss, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cregger, Miss Emma Ohler, Edward Clengan, Jamie Lloyd Mead, Robert Fuss, and Carl Cregger at a turkey dinner.

Cosmopolitan Look

Park Avenue Look? Yes—or Michigan Boulevard or Champs Elysee or your own Main Street. In short, it's "The Cosmopolitan Look" as achieved in this shimmering satin dress-suit. Top of the dress is black with short sleeves. You can choose from copper, turquoise or mauve pink for the background color, the dots remaining black. And Cosmopolitan magazine's fashion editor recommends it at about $23.

FOR EGGNOG TIME

They'll think you opened your bonus before Christmas when you grace the office party in this Kay Whitney rayon-crepe eye-catcher. Besides Gaud Housekeeping magazine's "Facts-First tag," the dress comes with its own black patent leather belt and snap-in self-covered shoulder pads. In green, fuchsia, or toast, with black geometric figures, its $9 price tag will be your safest secret of the holiday season—and a good while afterward.

Six Basic Points Listed to Aid Women Purchasing Silverware

DESIGNED for women who prefer beautiful home furnishings, the new cabinet chest of 1847 Rogers Bros. (shown above) also is extremely convenient for daily use. It is made of solid hardwood, walnut grained, with tarnish resisting lining of a rich maroon color. It is a marked advancement in cabinet designing.

MANY a wartime bride . . . thanks to the G. I. insurance bonus . . . soon will be getting the silverware she has been longing for to complete her service.

To some brides this will pose a problem. Particularly to the brides who have taken for granted the silverware they use at least three times a day. They'll be wondering how they can be certain of making the best possible silverware purchase.

The problem isn't as perplexing as it may seem. According to 1847 Rogers Bros., there are only six basic points to be remembered when selecting silverplate. The six points are:

1. Buy silverplate at a store you trust.
2. Ask to see reputable and well-known brands.
3. Compare details of ornamentation of the different brands.

Unless there is a refinement in detail, it cannot be regarded as quality silverplate. This exactness can only be obtained through skilled craftsmanship and modern equipment.

4. Study the gracefulness and rhythm of each design. An inferior design can easily be detected by lack of over-all beauty.

5. Test the balance of a knife, fork and spoon. When the tip of a finger is placed under the shank of a spoon, for example, there should be perfect balance between the handle and bowl.

6. Compare the finish and workmanship of each individual piece. The finish of silverplate is as important as the finish given a suit of clothes.

The same basic points, according to The International Silver Company, should be followed when selecting sterling silverware.

Down the Field

By JACK LORING

Champions in the dozen leagues we have been considering are on the record now.

Thanksgiving, as you know, a Cornell team, badly beaten in the first half, came from behind to smear Penn and put on the Ivy mantle. And, on the same day, Detroit turned back Wichita to clinch the Valley Conference laurel while Wyoming pasted Denver to assume the skyline title.

Saturday, in the southwest, the Rice Owls turned the key in the lock at Baylor's expense, becoming the SW champ; while Texas Tech set down the Hardin Simmons Cowboys to tuck away the Border diadem. Tech, in passing, turned down the Sun Bowl bid. Also, last week, five Baby Bowls were played off, four on Turkey Day and a single the Saturday after.

In the Burley Bowl, Emory & Henry defeated Hanover (Indiana) 32-0; in the Smoky Mountain Bowl West Liberty turned back West Carolina 20-0; in the Bean Bowl Idaho State dumped Chadron (Neb.) Teachers 20-2; and in the Pearl Bowl Pacific U. (not to be confused with College of Pacific) laced the California Aggies 33-15.

Saturday saw Austin (Tex.) beat down E. Central Oklahoma 27-6 in the Texoma Bowl.

Conference Champs

Running over four dozen loops the final picture shows the following title holders crowned (conference records in parentheses):

League: Cornell (5-1-0); Mason-Dixon, Western Maryland (4-0-0); Southern Conference, North Carolina (5-0-0); SE Conference, Tulane (5-1-0); Big Ten, Ohio State and Michigan (4-1-1 each); Skyline Six, Wyoming (5-0-0); Big Seven, Oklahoma (5-0-0); Missouri Valley, Detroit (4-0-0); Rocky Mountain Four, Colorado College (3-0-0), SW Conference, Rice (6-0-0); Border, Texas Tech (5-0-0); Coast Conference, California (7-0-0). Bowl Business

At this writing twelve bowl pairings of relative importance are on the table, with several more in the offing. Two of the finest teams in the country are yet to be placed, and the mystery thickens as to why Villanova and College of Pacific were not accorded one of the bigger bowls (in point of attendance capacity).

The real bigness of a bowl, however, as with any contest, is determined fundamentally by the contestants concerned. Villanova and College of Pacific may not even play in a bowl this year, but if these two could be brought together, say in Kezar Stadium, San Francisco, you would have perhaps the finest attraction of all. Efforts to this end have been unsuccessful so far.

The pairings to date, of course, are quite good, in spite of smirched records throughout the card. They are good because of the evenness they present in respective pairings, and present a stout job to the forecasters.

So far the dozen bowls at hand shape up as follows:

Rose (Pasadena, California and Ohio State; Sugar (New Orleans), LSU and Oklahoma; Cotton (Dallas), Rice and North Carolina; Orange (Miami), Kentucky and Santa Clara; Gator (Jacksonville), Maryland and Missouri; Salad (Phoenix), Arizona State (Tempe), Teachers and Xavier (Ohio); Pineapple (Honolulu), Hawaii and Stanford; Sun (El Paso), Texas Mines (also known as Texas Western) and Georgetown; Tangerine (Orlando), Emory & Henry and St. Vincent's (Pa.); Cigar (Tampa), Wofford and Florida State; Oleander (Galveston), McMurray (Tex.) and Missouri Valley.

The above are slated for January second. The Raisin Bowl at Fresno comes off December 31, and pairs San Jose and Wyoming.

It will be noted in passing that Emory & Henry's game with St. Vincent's will mark the second appearance of E. & H. in a bowl this season.

Bowls of possible interest still to be filled are: Harbor (San Diego), Dixie (Birmingham) and Delta (Memphis).

When the entire setup is complete, we will analyze the situations one by one, giving you all the dope and finally predicting.

The Score Sheet

This column's record was last given you as of Nov. 12, at which time the overall picking percentage was reported as .776 the stricter way, or .787 according to the oddsmakers' way (which disregards ties).

Since then the subsequent picks have run as follows (where WE is week-end or date, R is right, W is wrong, T is tie, and Pct. the percentage):

WE	R	W	T	Pct.
11-19	47	16	1	.742
11-24	14	3	1	.806
11-26	18	1	1	.925

To date 301 80 14 .780

By the money approach these percentages are upped slightly and appear in the following consecutive manner: .770, .824, .947, giving a grand total of .790.

Over the season there are but two or three results which still remain in abeyance, and do not figure in our table. These results never came over the news service wires, and we are checking them at the sources.

Their inclusion, however, can make little difference where several hundred picks are concerned; although their fractional effect may have a bearing on whether our final selection average hovers above or below the .800 mark.

So we will give you the exact figures before terminating the season's commentary on football.

The Stragglers

Coming up this week-end we have a half dozen finals, closing the regular schedules, and another early bowl engagement of rather interesting moment. Calling the turn:

Alabama at Auburn—Bama after a poor start came along strongly. The Plainsmen of Auburn started poorly, too, but never quite got out of the groove. Like Bama.

South Carolina at Citadel—Both of these Southern Conference clubs played in and out ball. Citadel came along a little more consistently than did the Gamecocks, but the latter's opposition was stronger. Take South Carolina.

Maryland at Miami (Fla.)—A very good Terp team can add to its stature by passing this real tough Miami outfit. Such a win is most desirable to the Marylanders, particularly in view of their coming bowl engagement with Missouri. This may not be an easy job, but the edge goes to Maryland.

Notre Dame at SMU—Should be just another game on the Irish schedule. No more, no less. SMU consistently over-rated. The call to Notre Dame.

Utah State at Tempe—Utah State fared poorly in the Skyline run, while Tempe (Arizona State Teachers of Tempe) dropped only to Hardin Simmons in the Border stakes. Tempe has a bowling match coming up with the red hot Xavier from Ohio, and they need this Utah State game to preserve prestige. In a game which may possibly run close, the nod to Tempe.

Hardin Simmons at Trinity (Tex.)—This is a real tough one, about the closest of the bunch. Both have shown sparks of real fire over rough schedules. Whisper to Hardin Simmons.

HOSPITAL UNIT SERVED TEA

The members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Annie Warner Hospital were served tea by the Emmitsburg unit of that organization at its regular meeting, Nov. 28. Mrs. Charles Harner and Miss Grace Rowe poured the tea and Mrs. E. R. Shriver, Mrs. Morris A. Zent, Mrs. Andrew Keiholtz and Mrs. Harry S. Boyle served.

ATTEND RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. John A. O'Donoghue of Emmitsburg, attended the wedding and reception of their niece, Miss Mary Elizabeth O'Donoghue to Mr. Stanley Pototsky, at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. David A. O'Donoghue of Baltimore, parents of the bride, were also in attendance as well as their children.

Mrs. John L. Fitzgerald, the former Dolly O'Donoghue, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. Fr. James Caulfield performed the ceremony.

Among the many who attended were Dr. and Mrs. Simon Koski and daughter, Susan, Washington; Mrs. Marie Glonger Rial and daughter, Miss Ledlie Rial of Emmitsburg; Miss Pauline Bowers of Thurmont, and Mr. and Mrs. David O'Donoghue Jr., of Baltimore.

Mrs. Thomas J. Norris Sr., St. Anthony's, is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Norris Jr., in Indianapolis, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gerkin and daughter, Nancy, of E. Main St., spent Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McCaffrey, Westminster.

Miss Anna Marie Boyle visited over the week-end in Lansdowne.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Glass, Rt. 2 Emmitsburg, over the holidays were Miss Anna Cool, and Miss Nola Craig of Taneytown.

Miss Jeanne Romair of Philadelphia, Pa., has been spending the week at Bella Vista while assisting the photographer on the Pridwin, the Mt. St. Mary's College year book.

Local Sportsmen Plan Clubhouse

The Indian Lookout Conservation Club met in regular session Tuesday evening in the Firemen's Hall, Emmitsburg, Guy A. Baker Sr., presiding in the absence of President "Fete" Aldrich.

Plans for a clubhouse were discussed at length and it is believed that direct action will be taken on this matter at a special meeting of the group to be called in the near future. The 20 members present at the meeting thoroughly discussed the raising of the license fees for hunting.

TRAVELOGUE

While the Federal government has instituted up-to-date education and modern ways of living, some of the Indians still cling to the old ways and customs.

One of the native white men, seeing that our car had Maryland license, rushed up and, in a very talkative fashion, introduced himself. He said that, during the war, he had worked in Baltimore. I asked him why he came back to that area?

Said he, "If ye ever git yer feet wet in these here mountain streams, ye can't stay 'way for long." He wanted to go with us as a guide through the Great Smoky Mountain Park, and insisted that, from the top of Clingman's Dome, the highest peak in the Park, he could point out to us the City of Baltimore about 400 miles away.

THE OWLS The big befeathered chief with his genial smile, stood near by. After taking his picture in company with one of our children, I asked him about his people. He said that while some of the Indians clung to their primitive ways, others had become very modern.

GRUB SOUP Cherokee is a historic Indian Village. In Colonial times they were a powerful tribe. In 1817-19, the Federal government entered into an agreement by which to transfer the Cherokees to a reservation west of the Mississippi.

Iroquois. He is pastor of the Larger Parish in the Cattaraugus Reservation in Western New York. I used to know David and see him frequently in the Buffalo area. He was a distinguished leader in the religious life of that section. In the annual Presbyterian publication of Who's Who in the Year Book of Prayer for Missions, 1948, occurs the name of David W. Owl on page 61. He is a well-known figure who has appeared on the program of many religious assemblies in America.

I asked the chief if he could have an Indian War Whoop Dance put on for us. He gladly obliged. But there didn't seem to be much war in the whoop or much whoop in the dance. But the men do like to play Cherokee Bill which is said to be about the most strenuous sport known. They play it with all the fury of a fire fighter.

mitted to remain on the old reservation.

About 60 years ago my father was sent for a time as missionary to the Cherokees. He relates the story of being invited out, on one occasion, to an Indian home for dinner where he was served Grub Soup. Not knowing what Grub Soup was, he ate it until the squaw urged him to dip deeper into the bowl. Thereupon, he dipped up a spoonful of grub worms.

Before taking leave of the little Indian village, I asked the big chief what his people did for a living? Said he, "In the summer we sell relics and novelties to the tourists." Then I asked him what they did for a living in the winter? Said he, "In the winter, we make relics and novelties to sell to the tourists in the summer."

Several Local Men Shoot Deer

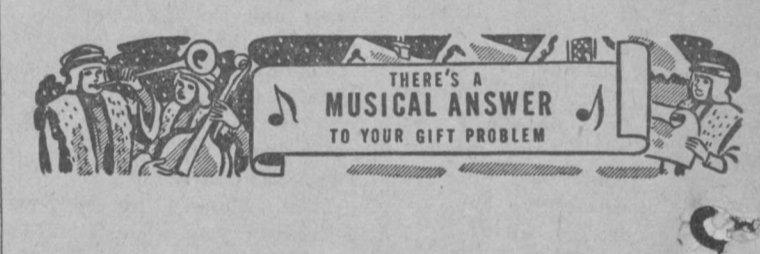

Frederick County's five-day deer season opens Monday. It was announced this week that Snook's Feed Mill at Lewistown, has been named as a checking station where reports on deer killed in Frederick County must be handled.
