TAKE HEED

Those of us who are denying ourselves the small luxuries of life in order to build up a vast bank account, would do well to listen to the little ditty that's being played on the radio quite a lot these days. . . . Title of said ditty—"Enjoy Yourself, It's Later Than You Think." . . . There's a real moral to the little number, and much truth and sagacity in its practical lyrics. . . . Nine times out of ten, just when we get around to thinking that we're tired of working and slaving, and decide to start reaping what we sow, we up and kick the bucket and someone else gets all the fun out of life that should have been ours. Let's wake up and stop playing the sucker's role. . . . Yea, enjoy yourself, it's later than you think. . . . For, (to quote from the clever little song) "How Far Can You Travel When You're Six Feet Underground." . . . Ugh!

WAIT & HOPE

We can scarcely wait for the following:

- 1—Completion of the town's new lighting system;
- 2—Dial phones to be installed in our homes. This is in the climactic stage now. I understand;
- 3—The first baseball game of the season;
- 4—Garbage collection as part of our town privileges. (This seems to have reached a stalemate) . . . Haven't heard a word about it for some time. Do hope they haven't given it up as a lost cause!
- 5—A new streamlined highway, free of hairpin curves, etc., between here and Frederick—Nay, in fact why not straight through to Washington, our Nation's Capital while we're at it? Give the itinerants a break, so to speak;
- 6—A new, modern, up-to-date theater with pleasant surroundings and adequate seating capacity;
- 7—Street signs and markers to facilitate our visitors' finding the residences they're looking for;
- 8—Certain of the male gentry to give up their reserved seats on the Square and get a job doing something useful. I personally feel that no one will kidnap the old Square and hold it for a ransom if said self-appointed "guards" relax their vigilance. True, their familiar countenances will be missed for a time, but I believe Emmitsburg can hold up under the strain.

Like the well-known Durante, "I got a million of 'em", gripes, pet peeves, yuh know, but I won't tell you any more. Not right now, that is, you might labor under the misapprehension that I'm a perennial gripper, and you know that's not true. . . . hmm.

MOTHER OF INVENTION

Last week I mentioned there was quite a collection of debris and trash littering the streets, particularly around the Square, and guess what happened? The Potomac Edison Company, which has been working on the new street lights, and had to excavate and tear away certain sections of the cement necessary to the installation of poles, etc., and in order to protect pedestrians from stumbling and tripping over said fixtures jutting out of the streets, placed a large empty barrel-like container over each place—and so help me Hannah, within a day or two the receptacles were filled with trash by well-meaning citizens who believed they were placed there for that specific purpose.

Which only goes to show that our townpeople aren't hard to get along with. They're very co-operative, really. . . . Many of them earnestly believed the cans were placed there by the

BUSINESSMEN TO FORM CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Merwyn Fuss To Address First Public Meeting

The initial step toward establishing a local Chamber of Commerce is finally materializing under the able supervision of several local aggressive business men, it was announced this week. The dire need for just such an organization has been all too apparent for many years, and the fact that neighboring towns of Thurmont and Taneytown have recently recruited the establishment and development of two new business enterprises in the form of additional factories within their corporate limits, has convinced even the "die-hards" in Emmitsburg that a Chamber of Commerce has now become a necessity.

Emmitsburg is, and has been, at a complete standstill in comparison with other towns and cities where introducing new enterprises in our locality is concerned. More enterprises mean more employment, which logically enough means a greater population and larger patronage of local stores, business establishments, etc.

Several years ago there were a few earnest attempts made by certain well-meaning business men to encourage more industries to locate here, but the plans were thwarted in their infantile stage by three or four selfish individuals who protested so violently that the movement was dropped. However, over a period of years, sage Emmitsburgians have seen the harm done and have become aware that other far-sighted corporations have gone progressively ahead while Emmitsburg has remained behind, consequently missing out on the benefits that naturally follow the institution and adoption of new industries.

A meeting of approximately 40 business men, interested in forming a local Chamber of Commerce, will meet Tuesday evening, April 25 at 8 p. m. in the Firemen's Hall, to discuss forming the nucleus of their new organization.

It is the earnest desire of your committee to assure Emmitsburgians the meeting will be wide open to any and all business men and leaders who are desirous of attending same. Helpful ideas, suggestions, etc., are sincerely solicited.

M. Merwyn Fuss, well-known Taneytown businessman, will be guest speaker at the meeting, and is believed to be able to lend much valuable assistance and information regarding the procedure taken to form such an organization. Mr. Fuss has a store of knowledge on the matter, obtained from his many years of experience as president of the Taneytown Chamber.

Boy Injured When Hit By Car

A six-year-old Emmitsburg boy was injured when hit by a car in Emmitsburg last Saturday afternoon.

Robert T. Hardman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hardman of W. Main St., escaped with a severe head laceration, other cuts and bruises when struck by a car on Rt. 32 at the eastern limits of Emmitsburg about 2:15 in the afternoon. He was removed to a physician's office where nine stitches were required to close the scalp wound. He later returned to his home and was reported satisfactory this week.

State Trooper Kenneth Bond said the boy was playing with others along the highway and darted into the path of a car operated by Mrs. Christina McGowan, 55, of Waynesboro, Pa. No charges were preferred.

Promoted

E. L. Annan, III, of New Castle, Pa., has been transferred to Indianopolis. Along with the transfer, "Bud," as he is familiarly known to friends here, has been promoted to branch manager of that district. He is employed by the Clarke Mfg. Co. Mr. Annan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Annan Jr. of W.

Trout Season Opens Tomorrow Morning at 5:30 p. m.

Stocking of Frederick County trout streams was completed earlier in the week for opening at 5:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Regional Game Warden Benjamin F. Phebus stated Monday night. A total of 11,000 legal-size browns, brooks, and rainbows will be in county streams for the inaugural, he said.

Three thousand trout are already in Big Hunting Creek, which is restricted to fly fishermen. Two thousand have been released in Fishing Creek above the dam, and an additional 1,500 below the dam. In addition 500 more will go into the right fork of Fishing Creek.

Little Hunting Creek, below Rt. 15, and Friends Creek, received 1,000 trout, while 2,000 were released in Middle Creek.

A total of 25,000 fish have been allotted Frederick County and all will be turned loose by May 30. Big Hunting Creek will receive another 1,500 next week, and Fishing Creek will be stocked with 2,000 two weeks after the opening, Phebus said. Stockings will take place at two-week intervals until May 30 when last of the fish will go out.

The warden explained that the final stocking will take place the last of May, leaving the last 45 days of the season without any fresh stocking, because of the need of hatchery space. Improvements necessary to bring the Beaver Creek Hatchery in Washington County to peak production are being held in abeyance until the fish are stocked and rearing ponds can be utilized for smaller fish.

Mr. Phebus warned anglers that they cannot fish before 5:30 o'clock Saturday morning. "The law says 5:30 and that's what it means," the warden declared. He explained that summonses will be issued to all those caught violating the law and the fines run from $10 to $21. Extra wardens are being brought into the county to patrol streams for the opening.

Gas Tax May Again Be Hiked; Roads Needed

To provide additional revenue for its roads program, the State may have to increase its gasoline tax and impose tolls on some new highways, Robert M. Reindollar, chairman of the State Roads Commission, declared last week.

In addition, he said in a speech in Washington, it may be necessary to request the Legislature for additional funds from general taxation and to impose special assessments against some property owners along newly-constructed highways.

Highways which may become toll roads include the new York road, and highways between Baltimore and Frederick, Frederick and Washington, and Washington and Annapolis.

In emphasizing the need for more road funds, Mr. Reindollar pointed out that in 1940 it was estimated that it would cost $200,000,000 to rehabilitate the State's highways.

Now, because of higher construction costs, the estimated cost is $750,000,000.

By the time the $100,000,000 bond issue, which was approved by the 1947 Legislature, is exhausted, two thirds of the highways still will have to be modernized.

Increasing the State gasoline tax from the present rate of five cents to six cents a gallon would bring in an estimated $4,000,000 annually—enough to amortize a $50,000,000 bond issue.

However, Mr. Reindollar did not suggest how much of a tax increase might be necessary.

He said the imposition of tolls would permit the rapid completion of highways which otherwise might take years because of lack of funds.

ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Joseph Wormley was admitted as a patient at the Annie M. Warner Hospital this week. Discharged from the same place was Mrs. Robert Marshall and infant daughter.

Interesting Travelogue Describes Picturesque Shenandoah Valley

By REV. CHARLES S. OWEN

XVI

SHENANDOAH NATIONAL PARK

On August 18 we left the Hols-ton County, described last week, and came up the Shenandoah Valley. That is, by far, the most beautiful of Virginia, and one of the most beautiful parts of America. The Lee Highway, or Valley Pike as is usually called, follows this valley. It is one of the most direct and scenic routes between the North and South. No place in America is so rich in historic lore. From Colonial Times to the Civil War, the most glorious chapters of American history, were made in this Valley. Likewise some of the most noted underground caverns in the world, are found here. From Bristol, Tennessee to Winchester, near by, a distance of 350 miles, this Valley Pike runs between the walls of the Blue Ridge on the east and the Allegheny Range on the west. The top of both ranges can be constantly seen only a few miles away.

The Daughters of the Stars The beautiful name of Shenandoah is taken from the Indian Language. It means "Daughter of the Stars." The Indians probably took the name from the sparkling waters of its River which reflected the stars above. The Valley Pike is one of the oldest highways of Virginia and one of the first to be improved and hard surfaced. The first engineers to lay this highway, were probably the buffaloes. It has been said that the buffaloes were the first great road engineers of America. The Indians followed these buffalo trails. Then the pioneers followed the Indian trails and were fashioned into roads.

This long valley, like a narrow groove between the parallel walls of the Blue Ridge and Alleghanies, is marked off into sections by mountain ranges cut across like huge gates here and here. Only the upper section, from Staunton to Winchester, is properly called the Shenandoah. The whole long valley, however, is the same natural formation. In Colonial Times this valley served as the frontier against the Indians, and the jumping off place for the French and Indian War. Here also much of the Revolution was fought. And most Civil War was waged in this granary of the Confederacy. Romance and tragedy has made every foot of ground therein sacred with the blood of America patriots, and their glorious deeds of valor. Names like Geo. Washington, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, General Grant, and General Sheridan, and many others, have written the record of their glory in the soil of this valley. Markers along the highway, tell the story, bit by bit.

Many historic towns are located along the Valley Pike. Among them is Lexington, the West Point of the South; Staunton, the birthplace of Woodrow Wilson in the Presbyterian Parsonage; Natural Bridge, one of the great wonders of the world; Winchester, a center in Colonial Wars and Harpers Ferry, made famous by John Brown and his rebellion.

When we arrived at Staunton I got out my directions which I had written down. But I was unable to read it. Often I cannot read my own writing when it gets cold. And this was two weeks old. I was able to make out the word "Middle" but did not know what it referred to. And I was able to make out what looked like Kauff. So we went about everywhere paging Dr. Kauff—"Do you know where Dr. Kauff's Camp is?" No one ever heard of Dr. Kauff or his Camp. Finally, one man asked if it might not be Dr. Middlekauff. That was it. We found the place and had a most enjoyable visit, and a big dinner of Maryland ham. It was a real delight to see old home friends again. The camp was a magnificent place on the bluff overlooking Middle River, a few miles from Staunton. (Final Instalment Next Week)

Our purpose the first day on the Valley Pike was to reach Staunton by the middle of the afternoon, a distance of about 250 miles, and to visit, by invitation, Dr. A. A. Martin who was on vacation at the camp of Dr. Middlekauff on Middle River, near Staunton. In that area, Dr. Middlekauff is as widely known as Dr. Martin of Emmitsburg, and as well established as Dr. Cadle, and as popular as Dr. Allison. Therefore, we were supposed to have no trouble in finding the place as anybody and everybody around Staunton knew him so well.

The suits Wednesday allege Dunkinson was an unlicensed operator driving an automobile belonging to his employer, Swartz. It is claimed Smith drove from a private driveway onto the main highway without waiting for oncoming traffic to pass and the car operated by Dunkinson, allegedly operated recklessly, in missing Smith's car, swerved across the road and into a collision with the machine operated by Glass. The latter sues for damages to his automobile.

Morgan, a passenger in the Glass car, seeks damages for personal injuries and expenditures for medical and hospital bills.

Edward D. Storm is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Auto Wrecks At Rocky Ridge

Ralph S. Stull, 49, Rt. 1, Thurmont, escaped with head lacerations and probable back injuries when his car ran off Rt. 77 at Rocky Ridge about nine o'clock last Saturday night. The 1940 Buick sedan turned over in a field. Damage was estimated at $250.

Trooper Bond charged Stull operating a motor vehicle in violation of restrictions imposed by the Motor Vehicle Commissioner.

Two cars were considerably damaged at the Square in Emmitsburg about 10:10 o'clock last Sunday morning. Trooper Bond said a car driven by Edward T. Monroe, 56, railroad executive of DuBois, Pa., ran through a stop sign and struck the 1949 Kaiser sedan of Charles D. Hemler Jr., 16, Rt. 2, Thurmont, traveling north on Rt. 15.

Monroe assumed liability and no charges were preferred. Damage to Hemler's car was estimated at $150.00.

Local Team Will Meet Mt. St. Mary's College Sunday

Baseball will get under way here in Emmitsburg Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. when the local team engages Mt. St. Mary's College in an exhibition game on Community Field. Business Manager Norman Flax stated this week that all player's contracts had been signed and are safely in his hands.

Manager John Law has been working out his proteges for the past two weeks and reports them in excellent condition for the first game of the season. The game is merely a test preparatory to the opening of the official season on April 23, which brings Little-town here for the curtain-raiser.

The field has been readied by filing in with top soil and rolling the sod which was disheveled by the horse show of last fall, but now is pronounced in excellent condition.

Many merchants have donated prizes for the opening game next Sunday; these in addition to a television set will be drawn at the opening of the league, Sunday, April 23. The organization said this week that a few more chancebooks were available for those who wished them.

The Booster Club season tickets are now on sale and sell for $10 per season. Those purchasing these ducats are entitled to see every home game during the regular season.

Five-Month-Old Accident Results in Suit

An accident which delayed a wedding and slightly injured the bridegroom was the basis for two suits, each for $1,000 damages, which were entered in Circuit Court this week.

The plaintiffs are Earl M. Glass and Allen M. Morgan, both of Emmitsburg Rt. 2. The defendants are Edward J. Smith of Emmitsburg Rt. 3, and Reginald J. Dunkinson and Clarence M. Swartz of Carlisle, Pa.

The accident occurred Dec. 3 on the Emmitsburg-Waynesboro Rd. According to reports at the time, Dunkinson was to be the best man at the wedding of Jack Moser of Gettysburg, Pa., who was slightly hurt but his wedding to Miss Ann Wagerman of Emmitsburg, occurred later that day at Westminster.

The suits Wednesday allege Dunkinson was an unlicensed operator driving an automobile belonging to his employer, Swartz. It is claimed Smith drove from a private driveway onto the main highway without waiting for oncoming traffic to pass and the car operated by Dunkinson, allegedly operated recklessly, in missing Smith's car, swerved across the road and into a collision with the machine operated by Glass. Property Here Changes Hands

Deeds were recorded during the past week in the clerk's office at Frederick, for the sale of the property of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Hays to Mr. and Mrs. David Tilson, what is known as the home farm of approximately 219 acres on both sides of the Frederick-Emmitsburg Rd. in Emmitsburg District, and a tract of 14 acres of mountain land, consideration being in the neighborhood of $20,000, according to revenue stamps.

The other deed recorded was for the property of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob D. Adams to the Castle Cheese Co., Inc., tracts aggregating 209 acres and improvements in Emmitsburg District with a small section in Carroll County, on what is known as the Sixes Bridge Rd. leading from Barton's Ford on the Monocacy River to Emmitsburg, consideration being around $18,500.

"Konrad is top dog with us," they said, and agreed that Konrad deserved to win the nation-wide Gaines contest for dogs only because of his gentlemanly attitude and poised aplomb in midst of radio appearances, plush reception held for him by the Big Whoops of New York at the Plaza's Rendezvous Room, and tour of Manhattan night spots.

Back home, Konrad will be riding around in his red Crosley Station Wagon, one of his prizes, watching horse operas and man-fights over his own Crosley television set, and generally having himself a time, as Dog of Any Year.

Fascinatin' Fashions

secretary," Della Street, in the CBS daytime drama, likes simply-designed gowns which lend themselves to sharply-accented accessorizing, and thus has acquired a very sizable collection of pins and clips, necklaces, scarves and the like to point up her various moods and occasions.

"My plan," she went on, "is to keep in evidence only three or four good possibilities for accessorizing—and put the others out of sight until I'm ready for a fresh 'change of choice,' as it were!"

Right now, Joan has found that her favorites are: a rhinestone clip, which can be converted into two pins, a pair of exquisitely-made cloth roses, and a dainty set of ermine tails.

These three are good examples of accessory balance. The clip, a classic design, is nearly always right, except with definitely sporty clothes. And the roses, a current Paris decree, give a note of fresh femininity to any costume. "As for those ermine tails," Joan laughed, as she left me to begin rehearsal, "they cost a very modest sum, actually, but every time I slip them under the collar of my dress, or pin them to the lapel of my suit-jacket, I get a feeling of pampered luxury. And no woman can resist that feeling!"

Speed Demons Set For Williams Grove Opener

Another veteran of the Indianapolis Classic and a Central Pennsylvania speed veteran who will join the ranks of "500" drivers on Memorial Day are among the latest to turn in entries for the AAA big car auto races on Sunday afternoon, Apr. 16, which will open the 1950 racing season on the Williams Grove Speedway.

Roy Richwine, owner of the famous half-mile oval, announced this week he has received entries from Walt Brown of Massipequa, L. I., and Lebanon's Flying Dutchman, Mark Light.

Brown and Light join a field of drivers which is shaping up as one of the finest ever to assemble on the "Ascot of the East."

Both veterans of the raceways, the pair will have their work cut out for them since entries have already been received from Bill Holland, who formerly drove out of Reading, but now resides in Miami, Fla., winner of last year's 500-mile race and AAA Eastern Champion in 1942, and Jackie Holmes of Indianapolis, AAA Mid-western Champion in 1949.

Light, who finished third last week at Reading in a new Offenhauser he built over the winter, is busy making adjustments on the $8,500 car which he hopes will mean a victory at Williams Grove.

One of the "Big Five" in auto racing in the East before and since the war, the Lebanon lead-foot will ride in the "500" this year for the first time in the 15 years he has been in the sport. He has been nominated to chauffeur the Offy of Glessner Motors, Wheeling, W. Va.

Brown will be behind the wheel of the "Little Jewel," one of the speediest Offys in the East. Brown finished 9th in the Indianapolis Classic last year and second in a 200-mile National Championship race last fall at Milwaukee.

Advance sale of tickets for the race have been good, Mr. Richwine said this week, and advises fans to make their reservations early.

Mrs. Estelle Watkins, vice president of the Mite Society of the Methodist Church presided over the recent meeting held at the home of Mrs. George Wilhide. Approximately 17 members were present. After the business meeting, games were played and refreshments served by the hostess.

FHA Proves Beneficial to Farmers

The annual meeting of the farm families of Frederick and Washington counties, who have bought farms through the Farmers Home Administration, was held Thursday April 6, in the Beaver Creek Community Hall. The meeting was opened by Bryce Hopkins, County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration. Mr. Hopkins gave an analysis of the past years farm business, information for which was compiled from records of income and expenses kept by the farmers. These records brought out that generally 49% of the farm income goes to farm operation, while 20% is utilized toward living costs; the other 31% of income is broken down into Capital Goods purchases, farm payments and other debt payments. Mr. Hopkins brought out that in 1949 his office was unable to assist any eligible applicants in buying farms because of the high purchase prices, but he stated that this year he is already in the process of financing some farms. He stated that farms of the family size, that are basically good productive units, which need improvement, can be brought at a lower price now, than they could a year ago.

Mr. Richard Carson of the Production and Marketing Administration, gave a detailed talk on benefits available to farmers through his association. Mr. Carson pointed out that PMA wasn't giving anything away, but stressed that the government is buying conservation, and that payments made for soil improvement are made entirely on the basis of need. An interesting discussion ensued regarding the price support program to farmers.

A covered dish luncheon was served by the ladies of the group and a good farm prepared meal was enjoyed by everyone.

The Types of Tuberculosis

When we hear of tuberculosis, we usually think of "pulmonary tuberculosis" or tuberculosis of the lungs—the most common form of the disease. Pulmonary tuberculosis accounts for the great majority of the approximately 45,000 deaths annually from tuberculosis in this country, yet tuberculosis can attack almost any organ of the body, the bones and joints, and the skin.

One type of tuberculosis, that of the bones and joints, which has left many people crippled, has been almost completely eradicated in this country. Most cases of that form of the disease came from drinking raw milk from tubercular cows. Many of the victims who contracted the disease were children under five years of age.

As a result of a campaign begun in 1917, bovine (cattle) tuberculosis has been brought under almost complete control in the United States. Cattle are tested for tuberculosis and slaughtered if they show signs of the disease. As a result, bone and joint tuberculosis is today almost unknown in the United States, although it is prevalent in some other countries. Pasteurization of milk, which kills all germs, has been another factor in cutting down the spread of tuberculosis from cattle to man.

The two most acute forms of tuberculosis, which until recent years were always fatal, are tuberculous meningitis, which strikes children most frequently, affect the meninges, or membranes around the brain and the spinal cord. In military tuberculosis, the tubercule bacilli are spread by the blood stream to various parts of the body where they cause tiny lesions about the size of a millet seed, thus "miliary" TB.

Since the discovery of streptomycin and its use in tuberculosis treatment, many lives have been saved from these two acute forms of the disease. However, even with streptomycin, not all cases of tuberculous meningitis or military tuberculosis can be saved.

Tuberculosis can and often does strike such organs of the body as the eyes, the glands, and the genito-urinary tract.

Some of these types of tuberculosis are frequently complications of the pulmonary form of the disease.

Mason Launches Marijuana Manhunt

John Larkin, who plays "Perry Mason," on the famous CBS serial of that name, engages in a serious script discussion with Fran Lafferty, who plays "Nora Tragg" on the show. The newest Perry Mason case will be a hard-hitting, informative, semi-documentary dramatization of the war being waged against marijuana in this country. Scripts are based on material supplied by the Bureau of Narcotics of the U. S. Treasury Department and other sources. This unusual experiment in daytime radio drama is designed to attack public apathy to the widespread dangers of illicit traffic in narcotics.

from all forms of this communicable disease by taking care of his health generally, keeping up his body's resistance against a damaging attack of TB germs, and making certain that the milk he drinks is pasteurized. He should also have physical check-ups with his doctor, including chest X-rays (an aid in diagnosing pulmonary tuberculosis), at least once a year to play doubly safe.

Red Style Atheism

According to a visitor from Stettin, Poland, the Communists have a new trick to discourage religious practice. Communists teachers urge their young students to pray to God for candy. When no candy is forthcoming the teachers then suggest that the children pray to Premier Stalin of Russia for candy. Result: They get the candy.

SHORT STORY

Baying The Moon

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

THE ALPHA, Alpha, Alpha, Alpha fraternity at Boynton university is responsible for the fate of Percival Oakes. It happened this way.

During his freshman year the AAAA's pledged Percy to membership, and initiated him into the mystic three R's. (Rites, Rituals and Regulations.) Percy took it like a man. When ordered to imitate a dog howling at the moon, he did his level best.

The result was astonishingly successful. Percy surprised even himself.

The brother AAAA's cheered loudly and clamored for encores. Percy obliged a second time and a third. He was immensely pleased with the applause and at the attention he attracted.

The next day, en route to class, Percy was stopped by a grave-faced sophomore and asked to give his imitation of a dog howling at the moon. For a moment he hesitated, conscious of a circle of grinning faces that had silently formed about him, faintly resentful of the fact that the brothers of the AAAA had made public the discovery of his hidden genius. He glanced once more into the grave face of the youth who had accosted him and then threw back his head and bayed lustily.

A mighty roar of applause greeted the rendition. There were cries of "More!" "More!" Percival obliged a second time and then once more.

Returning to college in the fall, Percy had completely put from his mind the cause and fact of his last year's popularity. There were other and more important things to occupy his interest. He was now a sophomore, with all the rights and liberties and sensations of importance that are synonymous with that lofty position. Best of all, he was now unhampered by the 30-odd freshmen rules that had last year cramped his activities.

One sophomore caused Percy's brain to swim. Here was loveliness and intelligence and femininity all combined. Unhappily, it took him a fortnight to negotiate an introduction. Her name was Della Winter, and she was as popular as she was beautiful. This was discouraging to Percy. He had her pick of the college.

IT WAS one of the Saturday night informal dances at the college gym. They had been dancing together for perhaps 60 seconds when Della looked up at him and said: "Aren't you the boy who can imitate a dog howling at the moon?" Her eyes twinkled.

Percy reddened to the ears. He felt a chill, a horrible apprehension. "No," he bleated. "No! Whoever told you that is crazy!"

Della didn't press the subject, but Percy knew he was sunk. He let a month slip by before he could conjure enough courage to ask for a date, felt pitifully grateful when she assented.

Within the following month he kept five dates with Della, but it was always the same; the "thing" was always there between them. He thought she must think him ridiculous. She pitied him.

During the intermission at the Dartmouth victory dance, Percy and Della strolled out onto the now dry ice-skating rink and sat down on the bulwark and looked up at the moon. Because of his great and hopeless love Percy was moody, unhappy, thoughtful. Suddenly he was startled by the petulant tone of his beloved.

He looked at the moon and from his throat there came . . . rich tones of a baying hound.

"I think it must be wonderful," she said.

"What must?" asked Percival. "To be able to imitate things. I mean, anyone can play football, or learn to skate, or dance well, but it takes genius to be able to imitate things."

"Do—you mean that?" "Why, of course I do! I've always admired people who—have creative ability. Genius. Of course I mean it!"

She looked squarely at him, and the last trace of doubt vanished from Percy's soul like mist from a river bed before a rising sun. He stood up, he threw back his head, he looked at the moon and from his throat there came the clear, deep, rich tones of a baying hound.

Deficiencies of iron and copper, resulting in anemia, are common in pigs raised without access to soil.

Poultry Pointers

By FREDERICK BLOCK

NO. 79

There is no need of artificial light for your laying house now, because the day is long enough to save your current.

It will not be too long before small laying houses will be a thing of the past, because with time saving methods, and with better tools to fight and prevent diseases the small houses are no longer efficient. With lower average egg prices which one may expect in the future it is worthwhile planning to build larger type houses. Lower egg prices, which one may expect in the future do not mean necessarily poor business, and poultry raisers who keep the same amount of birds constantly will find enough reward for their efforts. However, lower prices will mean that one must watch out for good production, low mortality, and little waste of feed. As soon as egg prices drop, as a rule, "in and out goers" drop also which means that these people raise poultry only when market prices are good, that they will stay out of the business for a while, and this, of course, will not do any harm to the constantly producing poultry farmer. Good production can only be expected by starting out with the best type of chicks.

Paying 10 cents more per chick of better quality is much cheaper than 3 dozen less eggs. Both type birds, whether they lay less or more eggs, require the same amount of heat, and care, and will eat the same amount of feed. All you "saved" were the few cents per chick on the original purchase price. Better chicks, under good management, also will have the chance of living longer, which cuts down the mortality rate, which should not be higher than 10 to 15 per 100 birds in 52 weeks of laying. A good vaccination program may save you many birds. (It will be discussed in Pointer 81).

Waste of feed does not mean to lower your birds' feed intake. It may mean to make them eat more feed, and particularly mash. It ought to be remembered that mash is more important in the laying birds' diet than grain, but one ought to watch out that the mash consumption should never drop below 50% of all feed eaten. As long as you do not fill your feed hoppers more than half full, there will not be much feed wasted.

What are some essential considerations in planning a new poultry house? It should be cool in summer, warm in winter, dry and well ventilated at all times. Continuation including price calculating tables in next Pointer, No. 80.

Tearful April
April showers may bring unwelcome water spots to your clothes as well as welcome May flowers. A rub-down often is the remedy for these spots resulting from a run-in with raindrops. Splashes are a real nuisance on plain-color rayons and silks, although they are less likely to show on all-over prints.

To remove water spots, rubbing the fabric with your fingernail or the edge of a coin, or simply rubbing it between your hands. After the rub, press the whole garment with slightly damp tissue paper or pressing cloth.

The other day rehearsals on CBS's exciting daytime drama, "Perry Mason," were considerably enlivened by the presence of Joan Alexander's three-year-old daughter, Jane. Joan, who plays Perry's gal Friday, Della Street, was involved script-wise that day with a breath-taking escape from a criminal whom Perry was trying to catch. After Director Ralph Butler asked the little tyke if she would like to be an actress, too, "No," said Jane promptly, "it's scary!"

Doug Edwards, ace CBS commentator, of the daytime serial "Wendy Warren and the News," tells this one about a tense moment on a recent broadcast. An actor sitting before a table mike inadvertently pushed a small metal cap which was lying on the table off to the floor. It landed with an unexpectedly audible "Ping!" and in the ensuing second of silence, the actor said, in a very low stage whisper, "End of Round One!"

A radio listener wrote a fan letter to Wendy Barrie, who has her own television show and, in the course of general chitchat, asked jocosely "what Faye Emerson has that Wendy doesn't." Faye is also on television, with the lively Monday evening program "The Faye Emerson Show," and Wendy, who is noted for her wit wrote back this answer: "A sponsor!"

Faye Emerson

Charlie Hankinson, nine-year-old member of the MBS quiz show, "Juvenile Jury," was captain of a spelling bee team at school the other day and, according to custom, he and the other captain, a little girl, picked out team members on an alternate basis. The very first lad Charlie chose for his Charlie Hankinson side was one so noted for his poor spelling that the other captain asked incredulously, "You want him?" Charlie, a rabid baseball fan, replied in amazement, "I have to have him on my team—why, he's the best catcher in the whole fourth grade!"

Security Explained

The 10th in a series of "Our County and Social Security" illustrates how a widow may lose benefits and how she can qualify for benefits.

Did you know that there are 100,000 new widows in the U.S. every year? Are you a widow? Are you 65? You may be one of those widows who have lost or are losing Social Security benefits. I am going to tell you about benefits for AGED WIDOWS—one group protected under: Old-Age and Survivors Insurance if certain requirements are met. I believe the best way to do this is by telling of an actual case.

The other day an aged widow, we'll call her Mrs. Morgan, called at my office to see if she might be entitled to receive benefits. A friend of hers is receiving payments and this friend suggested that she come. Mr. Morgan, she told me, had worked for many years as a clerk in a clothing store. His work was covered while employed. He was insured but died before he filed for any benefits under the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program. I told Mrs. Morgan if she met certain requirements, she could get a monthly payment. What are those requirements?

Well, Mrs. Morgan must be at least 65 years old; she must not have remarried since her husband's death; and was living with Mr. Morgan at the time of his death. But this is not all. She must file an application for the benefits, which is very important. Why? Because payments never begin until an application has been filed and approved. Many persons think that benefits are just paid—that is, they think that they will begin receiving payments immediately after the death of an insured wage earner. We have no way of knowing of the wage earner's death unless some one makes an inquiry. Payments are made for only three months before the month of filing the application. To illustrate this fact, Mr. Morgan died in November, 1948. Mrs. Morgan filed her application this month, February, 1949. Since payments go back for not more than three months prior to the filing of an application, Mrs. Morgan will receive payments beginning with the month of November, '48. But suppose she had waited to file her claim in March. She would have lost payment for November, 1948. Mrs. Morgan will be entitled to monthly payments for the rest of her life unless she remarries or goes to work.

A representative of the Social Security Office will be in Emmitsburg on Monday, April 24 at the postoffice at 11:30 a. m.

Identified By His Dentures
When a Chicago bank asked a Fort Sheridan soldier for identification preparatory to cashing a war bond, the man whipped out his upper dentures. Neatly printed on the back of the plastic choppers were his name and serial number. The bank cashed the bond.

HAIL asparagus, queen of Spring vegetables and intimate of royalty since ancient Roman days. Also kin of the expensive orchid family.

Asparagus, too, is dearly priced this time of year, so shop carefully to get your money's worth. Take note of color; pass by that which looks jaded. According to Nancy Holmes, home economist of the Best Foods consumer kitchens, it is a good buy when the stalks are straight and firm and the tips are tight. It's at its tasty best when served with a rich, delicately flavored sauce such as this Easy Hollandaise.

Easy Hollandaise
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Combine real mayonnaise and milk. Cook over hot water 5 to 6 minutes, stirring constantly. Add seasonings, lemon juice and rind. Remove from hot water and serve over any desired vegetable. Yield: about 1/2 cups.

Early production for the first two months of 1950 was well ahead of a year ago.

Industrial Medical Care Program Is Set Into Action in State of Maryland

I. Alvin Pasarew, Director of the Maryland State Planning Commission, announced on March 31st that the Commission has initiated a comprehensive survey of industrial medical care facilities currently available to Maryland employees. The survey is being undertaken in cooperation with The Brookings Institution, which is conducting a nation-wide investigation of the quantity of health service present in the United States and its effectiveness in meeting the health demands of the people. "Because of Maryland's outstanding record in the field of medical care," Mr. Pasarew observed, "we have been selected to carry out this pilot study of state-wide industrial medical services. The study is consistent with the Commission's responsibilities 'to keep under constant survey the medical care and health services available to the citizens of Maryland.' The Industrial Medical Care Survey, which will cover some 2,100 firms in Maryland—continues the outstanding series of studies carried out by the Commission's Committee on Medical Care during the past ten years. Included in these studies were the following basic problems: medical care in the counties and Baltimore City, dental care for school children, hospital facilities for general, tuberculous, chronic disease, and mental patients, and long-range capital improvement needs of the hospitals operated by the State.

A confidential questionnaire is being mailed to firms operating in each of the major industry groups, i.e., construction, manufacturing, transportation, communication, utilities, wholesale and retail trade, finance, insurance, real estate, services, and miscellaneous. All firms having at least 50 employees in Baltimore City and those having 25 or more employees in the counties have been asked to provide specific information regarding any of the following health services which may be available to their employees: first-aid kit, plant dispensary, company hospital, group clinic, physical examinations, community health programs, health education, paid sick leave, cash sickness benefits, medical care benefits, and pension plan for permanently disabled employees.

In transmitting the questionnaire, Mr. Pasarew noted that "since Maryland is the first state to conduct this survey, we are eager to have as complete returns as possible." All firms have been urged to reply by April 24, 1950 whether they have only a first-aid kit in their establishment or operate a fully equipped hospital. Dr. George W. Bachman, Senior Staff Member, and Dr. Emma F. Ward Research Associate, both of The Brookings Institution, are cooperating in an advisory capacity with the Research Staff of the State Planning Commission in conducting of the survey and the analysis and interpretation of the results.

It is expected that Maryland firms will make a significant showing in the field of industrial medical care services. The December 1949 BULLETIN of the American College of Surgeons lists thirty-eight firms in the State which have been approved on the basis of meeting the "Minimum Standard for Medical Service in Industry" formulated by the American College of Surgeons. These include: Baltimore City: American Can Company, American Smelting & Refining Company, American Sugar Refining Company, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Cambell Metal Window Corporation, Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, Chevrolet Baltimore Division of the General Motors Corporation, Consolidated Gas Electric Light and Power Company of Baltimore, Crown Cork & Seal Company, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Eastern Stainless Steel Corporation, Emerson Drug Company, Esso Standard Oil Company, Fairfield Western Maryland Dairy, Fisher Body Division of the General Motors Corporation, Hutzler Brothers Company, Koppers Company, Lever Brothers Company, Maryland Casualty Company, Maryland Glass Corporation, May Company, McCormick & Company, Montgomery Ward & Company, National Enameling and Stamping Company, Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Company, Revere Copper and Brass Incorporated, Rustless Division of Armo Steel Corporation, Wm. Schlunderberg-T. J. Kurde Company, United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, Western Electric Company, Western Maryland Dairy, Western Maryland Railway Company, Cumberland Celanese Corporation of America, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Relay Calvert Distilling Company, Sparrows Point, Bethlehem Steel Company, Union Bridge, Lehigh Portland Cement Company.

LIGHTNING LOSSES

With spring thunderstorms on the way, it more than pays to protect your property against lightning damage. Loss of farm property from lightning averages about 10 million dollars a year. It is estimated that 400 people are killed, and 800 to 1000 are injured by lightning on farms each year.

What can you do? Properly installed and well-maintained lightning rods will give practically complete protection against lightning damage to buildings. For best results, install your rods according to the National Code for Protection against Lightning.

Tracks for carriers and other metal bodies inside buildings should be grounded and bonded together to prevent electric flashes from one body to another. A metal roof, electrically bonded, properly grounded, and provided with air terminals to protect chimneys and other nonmetallic projections, usually gives satisfactory protection.

"Surpluses" Explained by State PMA Chairman

"There is a tendency to lump together the inventory holdings of farm commodities in the hands of the Commodity Credit Corporation and the commodities on which CCC has loaned money to farmers. This is inaccurate and an explanation is due the public," asserts Joseph H. Blandford, Chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee. The State Chairman was hitting at the general tendency to refer to "Four billion dollars of Government surpluses." More than one-half of the money CCC has invested in loans and inventories is devoted to loans on commodities which are still owned by farmers, he explains. The figures at the end of February showed that of the total of more than 4 billion dollars invested, $2,229,810,016 are represented in loans. This means that farmers still have title to the commodity and that many of them will redeem the loans before they terminate and CCC takes ownership.

Mr. Blandford emphasizes that, until the commodities do revert to CCC, the government does not have title to them and could not dispose of them in any way. "It is entirely misleading to refer to these commodities as 'government surpluses' or to imply the government should move them," he declares.

"The inventory stocks," he explains, "do belong to the Government and are subject to the various disposal plans now being used." However, he calls attention to the difference between storable and perishable commodities.

Discussing the differences between the storables and the perishables, he pointed out that 87 percent of the commodities under loan are in the storable class. This includes wheat, corn, cotton, and tobacco. As for the inventory commodities, more than 70 percent are in the storable class. Semi-perishables amounted to less than 300 million dollars, but they represent the most crucial problem under the CCC program, according to Mr. Blandford.

The problems of basic commodities do not involve questions of emergency disposal. The solution, lies rather in the longer-range steps to adjust in line with demand. Through acreage allotments and marketing quotas it is possible to make adjustments, at least over a period of years. The effectiveness of these measures, and the time it will take to complete needed adjustments, will depend partly on weather and other uncontrollable production and harvesting conditions. It will also depend upon maintenance of sound legislative authorizations for acreage allotments. If too many exceptions are made—if the adjustment line is bent back too often—the whole program will be jeopardized, he declares.

Turkeys for School Lunch

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced plans to distribute surplus stocks of turkeys for school programs, according to Joseph H. Blandford, Chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee.

The turkeys, amounting to

Cheese Is Considered Good Protein Buy

This will be a good year for cheese lovers, reports indicate. They point out that in the last 20 years, cheese production in this country has been increasing as the production of milk has increased. Last year, with a per capita intake of 7.1 pounds, we set an all-time high in cheese eating. Last year's production was about 100 million pounds over the year before, and this year it may increase again.

Cheese is a good protein buy for your money, the nutritionists report. Ounce for ounce, it equals meat in protein value. And it has a good quota of calcium and B vitamins to offer also.

Cheese combines well with the foods plentiful at any season of the year. Right now, use it with eggs in custards and souffles, with cabbage, macaroni, and potatoes in casseroles, and with canned, dried and fresh fruits in salad. And don't forget the "crackers 'n cheese" tray for informal entertaining, either.

Kind Deed Ends In Tragedy

Miss Helen Majeski, 30, of Hart, Mich., swerved her car to avoid hitting a dog. The car collided with an oil truck. She and her sister, Alma, 38, were killed. So was Clem Merrill, the truck driver. The dog was not hurt.

about 9,000,000 pounds bought in 1949 for price support purposes, will be distributed in frozen dressed form to schools, except for quantities that may be sold under continuing offers to export buyers.

The announcement for the distribution program follows the offer of turkeys to domestic outlets at cost early in December and, more recently, the offer to exporters at reduced prices. Only one bid for the purchase of two carloads for export has been received to date.

Onions Being Promoted

Onion growers and distributors have asked all groups and organizations to give special emphasis to the sale and use of onions. This is part of a drive which is to reach peak intensity during the week of April 20 to 26 and is aimed at moving through market channels as many onions as possible.

Cold storage holdings, according to Joseph H. Blandford, Chairman, are larger than usual. He reports that the onion market has been depressed for several weeks.

Greener Pastures Contest

"The problem of making good pastures better will get a lot of attention in Maryland in 1950," says Joseph H. Blandford, Chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee. The Agronomy, Dairy, and Livestock Departments of Maryland University, responding to the Maryland trend of less garlicky low-priced wheat and more high grade livestock, are doing a fine job of servicing farmers with the necessary information to achieve success along this line.

County FMA Committees are following up the work of the specialists with Greener Pastures Contests in every county. First and second place winners in community, county, area and state contests will receive from the Governor of Maryland and the Chairman of the State PMA, handsome certificates in recognition of their efforts to improve their grazing lands.

Luncheon Scoops

by Wendy Warren

My luncheon date today was with the irrepresible Abe Burrows, famed humorous balladier, and I looked forward to it excitedly. My record collection is particularly distinguished by a set of Abe's wonderful, brash takeoffs on popular song writing . . . "Leave Us Face It, We're In Love," and "Darling, Why Shouldn't You Look Well Fed, Cause You Ate A Hunk Of My Heart," being two of my favorite Burrows satires on sentimentality.

We dropped into Cherio's in the East Fifties for lunch. Abe, who is currently in the lively new video show, "This Is Show Business," is a tall, well-built man in his middle thirties, whose eyes have a kindly twinkle vieing with a lively shrewdness.

"At New York University," Abe told me, as we launched into the interview, "I studied to be an accountant — and was, too. Also a wall paper and maple syrup salesman, a Wall Street runner, a . . . well, in 1938, Frank Gaylen and I sold a radio script for a Rudy Vallee show, one thing led to another, I found myself writer for 'Duffy's Tavern' — and there I was, with a new career. But I become an accountant-type person again every year around March 15th."

Abe Burrows' fey sense of humor is compounded of so many things, and is so spontaneous, that he finds it difficult to stick to a script — even one he has written himself. A tendency to ad lib inevitably shows up on any Burrows' appearance — thus contributing considerably to the general comic atmosphere. "This Is Show Business," on which Abe, has ample chance for impromptu observations on things in general keeps him in his element.

Somewhat bald, Abe kids that, too — and is president of the Benvolent and Protective Order of Bald Eagles, which each year elects the ten most distinguished bald-headed men. An astute chap, with keen powers of observation and a good sense of cultural values, Abe satirizes very gently — and never seems to direct his barbs at specific persons or things, but rather at attitudes.

"I guess," I suggested, as we concluded our talk, "that you've said about the last word on the overly sentimental, slushy approach to love."

"Never the last word," Abe protested, twinkling, "How about — let's see — 'Darling, this is the end, but you can get a transfer from the conductor,' or 'My heart was in my shoes — and you stepped on it,' or . . ."

"Stop," I cried, "you'll destroy my last romantic illusion!"

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

Time Savers

To speed up household tasks and have more time to enjoy Spring weather out-of-doors, try some of these quickies suggested by home economists of the University of Maryland Extension Service.

If you pack many lunchboxes, save precious minutes by assembling your lunchbox equipment — paper napkins, waxed paper, cardboard containers, extra vacuum corks, etc. in one easily accessible place — a pantry shelf or handy drawer.

Pare vegetables and fruit onto a piece of paper toweling or newspaper. Then you can discard the whole business without any extra cleaning.

In sifting flour, save bowls by using waxed paper, one on which to sift the unmeasured flour, the other on which to sift the mixed dry ingredients.

If two stacked glasses become stuck, ease them apart by pouring cold water in the upper glass and standing the lower in warm water.

Save Your C

Spare the water and save the vitamins. Six vegetables — cabbage, rutabagas, peas, asparagus, cauliflower, and spinach — were tested for vitamin C both before and after cooking. All were cooked in four different ways: (1) in a pressure cooker; (2) in a tightly covered pan with only enough water to prevent scorching; (3) in a steamer, and (4) in an open kettle with water enough to cover during the entire cooking time.

Cooking by the last method — that is, with the most water — proved most wasteful of C in all these vegetables. The other three methods proved about equally good for saving C. They also indicated a saving of fresh color and flavor.

Milk For Whipping

Whipped evaporated milk is a delicate, delectable, and inexpensive topping for Spring desserts, and there's more than one way to whip it satisfactorily, say home economists.

First be sure to chill the milk before and after whipping and until it's eaten — at 50 degrees F. or lower.

For best stability in your snowy froth, soak one-half teaspoon of gelatin in two teaspoons of cold water, and add to one cup of evaporated milk. Scald the milk in a double boiler, then chill before whipping. Or if no gelatin is used, just scald and chill the milk.

Here's a method that's somewhat less effective than the gelatin-and-scalding routine, but simpler. Allow one tablespoon of lemon juice for each one-half cup of milk (measured before whipping). Whip the chilled milk, then fold in the lemon juice and whatever other flavoring you choose.

In "Portia Faces Life" at the moment, Walter Manning, Portia's husband is faced with a number of knotty problems, not the least of which is that he has reason to believe his brother is in love with Portia. Accordingly, the other day Bart Robinson, who plays Walter in the CBS daytime serial, received a letter from a thoughtful fan who had a solution to his problem. Said the fan, "I have a nice cottage on Long Island Sound which you and Portia could use for a second honeymoon. I'm sure she'll forget all about Christopher (Walter's brother) by the time you go home."

"On 'Juvenile Jury,' the MBS Sunday junior quiz show, a young guest was confronted with the problem of what to do when one's baby sister or brother proved too hard to handle. Said the guest, aged seven, "We just tell my baby sister we'll give her back to the stork and let him drop her down another chimney."

A brush fire was extinguished last Saturday afternoon on the mountain property of the late Teresa Taylor. The Vigilant Hose Co. which treated the fire, reported no damage.

NEWEST STYLES BY JARMAN
Next day, the critics hailed Mantell's performance as "the greatest 'Richard' since the days of Booth," and before the week was out he had been signed by the late William A. Brady, under whose management he went on to achieve recognition as one of America's leading classic actors.

Recently, Theresa Helburn of the Theatre Guild offered to let me buy a small piece of "As You Like It," starring Katharine Hepburn. "In all fairness," she said, "I think I ought to tell you that Katy's contract is only until June."
"I'm not going to brood about that," I said. "The play is by Shakespeare, and if it gets over, I doubt whether Hollywood will see her again until both she and the scenery fall apart."

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET

Quality of Mercy Was Strained When Mantell Played 'Richard'

By BILLY ROSE

A few years back, I got the nobby notion of reviving "Henry VIII," by one W. Shakespeare, and the day after the first three-line announcement appeared on the drama pages my office was crammed with well known actors who were willing to work for what ordinarily would have been their agents' commissions.

Subsequently, for reasons that have nothing to do with this piece, I pigeon-holed my plans for doing "Henry," but I sure learned a lot about show folks during the month I was buddying up to the Bard.

To nine out of ten of them, I found, the pentameters of William the Great are the chocolate sauce on the profiterole, and during rehearsals they go about their business as if they were in a temple of worship. On opening night, as far as the cast is concerned, the theater has stained glass windows, and I'm not exaggerating when I say the actors would probably kill anyone who tried to foul up the performance.

Billy Rose

If you think I'm using "kill" carelessly, try this one on for sighs . . .

BACK IN 1904, an obscure thespian named Robert Mantell, who had been playing desultory one-nighters in the Midwest, received word that a choice Broadway theater would be available during the Christmas season. He promptly cancelled his road engagement and brought his troupe to New York, but shortly after his arrival he discovered that the "choice" theater he had been offered was the Princess, a small second-story auditorium on Broadway between 27th and 28th streets.

No more daunted than solvent, Mantell announced he would present his production of "Richard III" on December 5, and when friends and colleagues warned him that not a hundred people would climb a flight of rickety stairs to see a Shakespearean play during the holidays, he shrugged his threadbare shoulders and posted his rehearsal schedule.

Immediately, however, there was trouble. The stage consisted on a scenic rehearsal when the impoverished actor refused they decided to get even by fousing up his show on opening night.

On the evening of the 5th, a minute after Mantell began to declaim his way through the initial lines, a stagehand lunged at him from behind a cloth drop and almost knocked him into the pit. And a few moments later the same "accident" happened again.

When the act was over, Mantell quietly told the crew that he would kill the next man who tried to disrupt his performance—and halfway through the second act he darned near did. In the middle of a speech, he saw the outline of a hand behind the curtain try to locate him and, never faltering in his lines, he drew his dagger and plunged the blade full-force into the drop.

When he went into the wings at the end of the scene, one of the crew grabbed him and said, "You've killed our head carpenter."

"I hope to Heaven I did," said Mantell. But when he examined the stagehand he found the wound was only a gash in the thigh.

TO MAKE SURE no one would misunderstand how he felt, the actor went up to his dressing room and came down wearing the iron-studded glove that was part of his costume in the last act. "Any more trouble," he said, "and I shall brain each and every one of you."

The stagehand's looked at Mantell, at the mailed glove, and at the bleeding man on the floor. And from then until the final curtain, the crew was as quiet as a Scottish meeting house after a call for contributions.

Next day, the critics hailed Mantell's performance as "the greatest 'Richard' since the days of Booth," and before the week was out he had been signed by the late William A. Brady, under whose management he went on to achieve recognition as one of America's leading classic actors.

Recently, Theresa Helburn of the Theatre Guild offered to let me buy a small piece of "As You Like It," starring Katharine Hepburn. "In all fairness," she said, "I think I ought to tell you that Katy's contract is only until June."

"I'm not going to brood about that," I said. "The play is by Shakespeare, and if it gets over, I doubt whether Hollywood will see her again until both she and the scenery fall apart."

Candy Jones plays the title role in the CBS video drama, "Mama," which got the readers' nod as best television dramatic show; Lucille Vail, who was named the best daytime dramatic actress, also stars in the favorite daytime dramatic serial, NBC's "Portia Faces Life"; John Larkin, who portrays the famous fictional attorney in CBS's "Perry Mason," was selected the best dramatic actor.

Senators Win Bowling Contest

The Senators, champion in the American League bowling, and the Emmitsburg Yanks, winners of the National League, will bowl Tuesday and Wednesday evening at the Emmitsburg Recreation Center at eight o'clock for the trophy.

The champs of the American League nosed out St. Joseph's by four games. In third position was Bald Head Row, followed by the Hanover Shoe team.

The Senators virtually have been in first place since the league started last fall. Their continuous stamina and fine toppling of the maples kept them on top throughout the season.

Around the Studios

with Charlie Brooks

When Vera Zorina was on CBS's video show, "This Is Show Business," she was sharply queried by regular panel member George S. Kaufman on the meaning of the ballet. "One time I watched a girl in a ballet gracefully performing a dance," Kaufman told her, "and I figured out she was supposed to be a nymph skipping through a waterfall. Turned out to be an interpretation of a lady exchanging a girle at Macy's!"

Geo. S. Kaufman

Betty Winkler, lovely star of CBS's exciting daytime drama, "Rosemary," was hurrying away from the studio the other day, her mind full of the problems Rosemary is currently having in the script, adjusting herself to the strangeness of New York City, after coming from a small town. A woman came up to Betty and asked how to get to Lexington Ave., some three blocks East. "I'm sorry," said Betty, "I'm from out of town myself." It wasn't until she was well past the inquirer that Betty, who actually is a New Yorker of several years' standing, realized her own absentmindedness.

The Women's Commentator Contest, sponsored by CBS's "Wendy Warren and The News," has just ended, and Mrs. Frances Jarmon, of Radio Station WDNC in Durham, N. C., is the lucky girl to come out on top. In the opinion of the judges, Frances' inspiring story of the remarkable rehabilitation work done by Miss Antoinette Lamonte, young Superintendent of the Raleigh, N. C., Women's Prison, was the best local news story submitted. Result: Mrs. Jarmon has won a week in New York City as Wendy Warren's guest, and will see all the hit Broadway shows, and make a gay, conducted whirl of the city's high spots.

During a rehearsal of "Portia Faces Life," the cast began discussing the current New York water shortage — and relating anecdotes about the ways in which they and their friends tried to conserve. "In fact," quipped Bart Robinson, who plays Portia's husband, Walter Manning, "it has reached the point where New Yorkers are spending water like money!"

Michael Orndorff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Orndorff of Emmitsburg, is reported recovering satisfactorily after being brought home from St. Agnes Hospital, Baltimore.

The sacrament of baptism was administered in the Elias Lutheran Church last week to the following: Faye Leon Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Fleming, Peggy Ann Benschoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Benschoff, and Barbara Diane Hess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hess.

The men of the Elias Ev. Lutheran Church Wednesday evening entertained the women at the annual Ladies' night by serving approximately 125 women a full course turkey dinner.

Senator Edward D. Storm and Joseph Farace entertained the group by playing request selections on the accordion. Jasper Wantz entertained the group with several selections on the guitar, followed by a quartette consisting of Ralph McDonnell, George McDonnell, Harry and Gary Troxell. The men's chorus of the Sunday School sang several hymns and a hymn-o-logue was shown by Rev. Philip Bower as the closing part of the program.

Wearing the new shade of Blue Hyacinth, pretty Dorothy Willett models a lace trimmed bed jacket and nightgown of Celanese Trikot Jersey specially designed for Mothers. Her bed jacket has comfortably long, gathered sleeves, and a little-girl collar with looped tie-ends. The wide lace bands in matching blue form a deep diamond-shaped pattern across the front. Underneath the jacket, the nightgown has a surprise-cut neckline and draped front gathered into built-up shoulders. Imagine all this finery and breakfast, too . . . what a happy way to surprise Mother.

Mahoney Resumes Political Fight

George F. Mahoney emerged last week-end from a two-week stay in Union Memorial Hospital and braved down again to his drive for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The candidate's aides reported that he is entirely recovered from the attack on virus-X and fever which put him out of action on Mar. 24.

Simultaneously with Mr. Mahoney's return to the lists, the Central Democratic League, which supports his campaign, announced that 52,000 Marylanders have signed pledges to vote for Mr. Mahoney in the Democratic primary.

11,000 Workers Claimed
Of this group, the league said, more than 35,000 pledges were received from Baltimoreans. Also 11,000 registered Democrats were said to have agreed to work actively in promoting the Mahoney campaign.

The league has been working for the candidate for two years and now expects to be represented in eleven counties by the end of the next 60 days. Only Mr. Mahoney and his running mates for State-wide offices will be promoted by the league, which does not intend to take part in campaigning for slates.

Guests over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Gillespie and family, near town, were Mrs. Gillespie's brother-in-law and sister. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Blackburn, near Baltimore.

County Will Adopt Daylight Saving Time

Many of Maryland's counties and smaller cities haven't come to grips with the daylight saving time problem yet this year. It appears, though, that most of Maryland will switch to "fast time" on Sunday, April 30.

The pattern seems to be shaping up about as it did last year, when all but Garrett County and arm communities of several less populous counties went on the fast schedule.

Garrett County is staying on "standard" again this year, without going to the trouble of taking any official action about it.

A battle is on in Cumberland and Alleghany County.

The Hagerstown and Frederick City councils have adopted daylight saving time officially. Most Washington County communities are expected to follow the Hagerstown lead. In Frederick County it is a different story. The railroad town of Brunswick voted firmly against daylight time and most of the other communities in the county are expected to stay on standard. There was intense opposition to the move at Frederick.

Whole rural areas in many counties may hold steadfastly to "God's time," as the opponents of daylight sometimes call standard. Farmers have a deep-seated hatred of fast time.

Baltimore citizens voted right after the war to adopt fast time each summer as a regular thing and this almost automatically brings Baltimore, Howard, Carroll, Anne Arundel, and Hartford Counties into the daylight saving circle.

The national average farm wage rate for men paid by the month on July 1, 1949, was $130 with house furnished, according to the USDA Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

More than 30 members of the Goodfellowship Club of the Lutheran Church were entertained at bowling Tuesday evening at the Emmitsburg Recreation Center.

County Sanitation Program Now Being Formed

Frederick City and County officials joined forces this week in a coordinated move designed to vastly improve health and sanitation standards throughout the area.

For the first time, a uniform plan will be launched for disposition of refuse outside limits of incorporated towns and also consider proposals of cesspool waste matter from rural areas. The latter problem will be discussed at a conference between representatives of the various county towns involved.

Action was taken at a special meeting of the Mayor and Aldermen with Dr. Carroll E. Easterday, city and county health officer, and County Commissioners Samuel D. Young and Robert H. Rhoderick.

City officials will confer with those of Emmitsburg, Brunswick, Myersville and Thurmont regarding adoption of a uniform plan for disposition of cesspool waste from rural areas. This plan is being promulgated by Dr. Easterday.

Mrs. Thomas Hoke and infant daughter, Rt. 3, Emmitsburg, were discharged from the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa. this week.

Mrs. Mary Guise of Baltimore, visited with her son-in-law and daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell and family, last week.
