Just a last minute reminder that Father's Day is Sunday. Whatever you do, don't forget the "old man" . . . It doesn't matter too much what you buy him, just so you let him know that you think he's a pretty good guy. He'll mutter the conventional, "You hadn't oughta done that. This Father's Day business is just another commercial scheme for them store owners to make money," but I'll lay you two to one he'll be displaying your gift (with his usual air of indifference) to his old cronies with the proud statement—"This is what darned fool kid 'o mine give me fer Father's Day." The old codger doesn't really fool anyone . . . You know full well he'll never spend his own money on new shining rod and reel he's been wanting ever since he was a kid. Oh, I'm quite sure he could use a new razor. The one he has is positively antiquated . . . There are shirts and ties . . . Poor mom gets tired of buying them for him all the time—you KNOW you can't drag "Pop" into a haberdashery to pick his own. Say, how about a nice new straw hat or a pipe . . . or a tool kit, or, oh, heck, use your own head! I reminded you, I think that's enough.

Something that always strikes me as being humorous. On the road to Frederick there's a house where they sell antiques, novelties, etc. . . . Said establishment is operated by persons named McCurdy . . . The business slogan on the sign advertising their place reads: The McCurdy's — "Where the UNUSUAL IS USUAL" . . . Every time I read it, the thought flits through my head, "If the UNUSUAL IS USUAL, then it isn't UNUSUAL." OK. So maybe I am a kill-joy. Or perhaps I'm just a bit too technical. That's what I get for being a newspaper gal . . . I automatically proof-read everything I see.

You might not realize it, but I believe you are a resident of the "racinest" state in the Union. Are you aware that there are some thirteen race tracks in our fair state? Don't believe it? Well, I'll name them: Laurel (2), Pimlico, Havre de Grace, Bowie, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Timonium, Bel Air, Marlboro, Cumberland, Rosecroft, Ocean Downs, and Baltimore Raceways. These 13 tracks pay millions of dollars annually in Federal and State taxes. Each county derives a large portion of these taxes in which the track is located. What does Frederick County get . . . You guessed it . . . a small portion . . . unless you vote this fall on a referendum to legalize pari-mutuel betting in this county, you will continue to get a small share. Several years ago, the State Legislature passed a bill permitting a referendum on this subject for Frederick County. The Frederick Fair Assn. has sponsored a movement to inaugurate racing here . . . If you want it, Benefits derived from this source of revenue would aid in better roads, lower taxes, better schools, etc. Many Emmitsburgians are to be seen at our neighboring tracks, so why not take their money and keep it here where it will do the most good . . . See you this fall at the polls.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Eckenrode and daughter of College Park, were dinner guests last Saturday evening of Lewis Kelly and sister, Alice Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jacobs of Pittsburgh, Pa., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd W. Seiss.

Mrs. Ray Topper, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Topper and sons, Phil and Jackie, and Donald Topper visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Topper, Annapolis.

BALL TEAM BACK IN WIN COLUMN

Lambast Westminster
13-0; New Players Added

Emmitsburg's entry in the Penn-Mar Baseball League bounced back into the win column last Sunday with a resounding 13-0 triumph over the Westminster ball club.

Much of the credit of winning the contest must go to Southpaw Vince Topper, who held the opponents to three scattered belts, while striking out 10 of the enemy batsmen. Topper displayed remarkable control during the contest, walking one man.

Sunday's win brought the locals to sixth position in the league standings, but they are only four games out of first place.

Manager John Law announced this week that the two new players from Gettysburg College will be inserted into the lineup or Sunday's game with Hanover. The new members of the squad are Buhler and Civano. Buhler is a southpaw pitcher and has compiled quite an excellent record while doing mound duty for the collegians. Civano is considered an excellent outfielder and wields a heavy stick at the plate.

Activities of the other clubs last Sunday found McSherrystown avenged its only defeat of the season, blanking Blue Ridge Summit, 4-0, on the losers' diamond. The victory was the seventh in eight starts for Hen Noel's charges.

Meanwhile, Taneytown and Hanover were moving up in the league race. Taneytown climbed from fourth to second by whipping Thurmont, 5-1, and Dale George's Hanover Moose team jumped from fifth to third place by walloping Littlestown, 18-7.

Blue Ridge Summit, which had been in the runnerup spot, tumbled into fourth place, while Littlestown plunged from second to fifth. Thurmont and Westminster are still seeking their first wins.

In a night game at Taneytown Tuesday, Hanover lost to Taneytown.

Laurel Racing Geared For Opening Saturday

Maryland's pioneer harness track, Laurel Raceway, which brought the pari-mutuel betting sulky sport to the Old Line State on a big-time basis two years ago, is ready and raring to go for its third 20-night meet which opens tomorrow night.

Laurel Raceway, which is situated ideally between the thriving cities of Baltimore and Washington, with some 3,000,000 persons to draw from within a 45-mile radius, has a 1950 setup which is simply out of this world.

Following in the footsteps of a banner season at Rosecroft Raceway, which had a record-smashing meet, Dick Hutchison, Jr., Laurel Raceway president and his associates are confident that all marks in attendance, betting and trotting and pacing performances will go by the boards before the meet ends. With three rain nights, pioneer Laurel could go through July 13.

On July 14, the new Baltimore Raceway, backed by a group of prominent Maryland sportsmen, will go into action at the oval situated just off Pulaski Highway and Martin Boulevard, nine miles from Downtown Baltimore. They are going to get virtually the same brand of horses which will compete at Laurel at the $1,500,000 Baltimore oval.

Laurel Raceway did $5,274,089 last season for a nightly average of $263,704. But this year the purses have been hiked to $185,000 which includes six $10,000 races and four $5,000 events.

Among valuable horses that are candidates for the $85,000 Hambletonian at Goshen, N. Y., are these three-year-olds: Vic Song, Anthony Hanover, Banter Hanover, Choice Hanover, Clipper Hanover, Cooper Hanover, Mighty Express, Reservation, Mysteria, Nancy Lybrook, Pepper's Pride, Scotch Dean, Scotch Velvet, Star's Pride, Lord Steward, Wayline and Cherokee Hanover.

The directors of music are Mrs. Adam Grim and Robert Simpson, and Miss Carolyn McDonnell is pianist. The officers include Rev. Philip Bower, dean; Rev. Edmund Welker and Rev. Charles S. Owen, devotional leaders; Mrs. Lewis Bell, secretary, and Mrs. John White, treasurer.

Reader Abhors Stream Pollution Practices

Editor the Chronicle,
Dear Sir:

You are no doubt aware of the fact that the discharge of raw sewage into our waterways has received the adverse criticism of Legislature, the public, civic associations and much has been written in our magazines and newspapers concerning this unwholesome practice.

The Water Pollution Control Commission feels that communities which now discharge raw sewage will eventually be ordered to provide sewage treatment facilities.

In the Water Pollution Control Commission's efforts to correct industrial waste pollution, we are often reminded by the industrial officials, that some neighboring town discharges raw sewage into the same stream. You can, therefore, understand that these industries are not encouraged to comply wholeheartedly with the Commission's efforts toward pollution abatement.

In the light of the above prediction, it would be the part of wisdom that you plan for the provision of essential sewage treatment works before the pressure of orders are at hand.

If this Commission can be of assistance to you, please feel free to call on us.

Very truly yours,
PAUL W. MCKEE,
Executive Secretary

Deductible!

The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond, Va., recently ruled that money spent by a school teacher at summer school for purposes of renewing a teaching certificate properly is deductible for Federal income tax purposes. The appellate court's ruling represented a reversal of a decision handed down by the tax court of the United States in the case of a veteran Danville school teacher.

somewhat unsettled but had not yet reflected the full decline in feedstuff ingredients.

Feeding ratios continued to drop as feeding costs advanced and dairy and poultry product prices declined. At the middle of May feeding ratios for dairymen, for the country as a whole, were about seven per cent less favorable than in April, about 10 per cent below a year ago, but about six per cent above the pre-war May average. The butterfat-feed ratio at the middle of May was 20.8 compared with 22.3 in April, 23 in May, 1949, and 19.7 the prewar average. The egg-feed ratio at the middle of May was 11 per cent lower than in April, 35 per cent below a year ago, and 29 per cent under the prewar average. The egg-feed ratio at the middle of May was 9.1 compared with 10.2 in April, 14.2 in May a year ago, and 12.8 the 1935-39 May average.

Increasing Federal Revenue Is Most Difficult

If all personal incomes in excess of $10,000 a year were confiscated by Uncle Sam, it would barely give him the additional money needed to wipe out the five and one-half billion dollar deficit and finance the one billion dollar first year's cost of the new Federal spending programs proposed in the 1951 budget.

Since the nation faces a choice of submitting to higher taxes or reducing Federal spending if Uncle Sam is to live within his income, the Council of State Chambers of Commerce this week pointed up some of the difficulties in increasing Federal revenues.

This study revealed that if, for instance, the Federal Government set $50,000 as the maximum income that could be retained by individuals and took outright all income above $50,000, it would get only about $843 million more than it gets now from present taxes on those incomes. This $843 million would be enough to run the Federal government only one week.

Or suppose Uncle Sam called $25,000 the most anyone could have and took everything made above that figure. That would give the Government a little over $2 billion in additional revenue. This is just a little less than the Government intends to spend on agricultural activities and subsidies alone in 1950.

But, of course, Uncle Sam would never think of taking such a big tax bite because he knows he would destroy all personal incentives to earn that much again.

The survey showed further that in spite of the high taxes on incomes of $100,000 and over, Uncle Sam collected only $1.2 billion from 10,844 persons with such incomes in 1947 which is the latest year for which complete statistics are available. This total was only six and one-half per cent of all income taxes paid that year. And tax rates on incomes over $100,000 that year ranged from 67 per cent to as high as 91 per cent.

On the other hand, 51 million taxpayers reporting incomes of less than $5,000 in '47 paid eight and one-half billion dollars which is 48 per cent or almost half of the income taxes collected that year.

The Council said, "There is no getting around the fact that any additional burden of taxes must fall on the lower income groups. They have only two choices: submitting to more taxes or demanding cuts in present spending with a halt to new spending."

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

Baltimore grain markets weakened during last week. The Baltimore wheat market held firm with No. 2 red winter garlicky wheat gaining about two cents per bushel. Corn prices were steady. Old crop barley dropped about seven cents per bushel on the Baltimore market. According to reports received, there has been no new crop barley offered on the Baltimore market as yet, but should be offered within a few days. Nominal prices for the new crop barley range from 88 to 96 cents per bushel. Western white oats were very strong on the market. No. 2 white oats, 38 pound test, gained about seven cents per bushel. Soybeans weakened. Sharp declines of about 23 cents per bushel in No. 2 yellow and about 26 cents per bushel in No. 2 black were noted.

National Grain Market

Grain market weakened somewhat during the first week in June reports to the Dept. of Agriculture indicated. The approach of the new wheat harvest in the main belt and improvements in the condition of grain crops were the principal weakening influences. Wheat declined three to five cents per bushel with increased marketing of the new crops. Corn went down about two cents compared with the week earlier. Oats were independently firm reflecting the lateness of crops as prices advanced towards a new high in the July markets. Rye was also weakened but barley held unchanged. Grain Soybeans weakened and prices dropped seven to eight cents as sorghums weakened with corn. bushel compared with a week ago.

Maryland Feed Market

The Baltimore feed market showed little change during last week. Supplies were ample; demand, good. Wheat millfeeds weakened further with a drop of over 4% in standard bran—$2.97 per ton lower. Standard middlings declined about $1.09 per ton during the past week. Gluten feed advanced over 2% on the Baltimore market—$1.67 per ton higher. Linseed oil meal and soybean oil meal strengthened somewhat on the Baltimore market, but cottonseed oil meal showed weakness.

During the week, broiler prices averaged 26.5 cents per pound while 20% broiler mash on lower Eastern Shore averaged $98.75 per ton. On this basis, one pound live weight of broilers would buy 5.4 pounds of feed.

National Feed Market

Offerings of most feedstuffs were plentiful at the principal distributing centers during last week. Demand was less urgent than a few weeks ago as a result of improved pastures in north-central areas where they had been held back by the late spring. Less favorable feeding ratios for dairymen and poultrymen also tended to limit demand. However, buying by dealers and feed manufacturers to replenish stocks following the recent sharp drop in prices gave the market considerable support. Prices of commercial mixed feeds were

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

Price-support programs on the basic agricultural commodities (corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, peanuts, and rice) have not cost the Commodity Credit Corp. one cent from the time the program was started in 1933 down to the present time, according to Frank Woolley, deputy administrator, Production and Marketing Administration.

Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee, called attention to the statement in which Mr. Woolley said that CCC has even paid the Federal Treasury one and one-half per cent interest on its borrowings and has showed a net profit on these commodities for 17 years of more than $55 million.

We lost about $49 million on corn, $61 million on peanuts, $45 million on wheat, and around $1 million on rice," Mr. Woolley explained. "We gained $206 million dollars on cotton, and $5 million on tobacco. The net gain on these commodities as a group has been around $55 million.

It is true that it takes a great deal of money to operate the price support program, but this doesn't mean that the money used to support prices is lost. A few weeks ago, all of the loans on wheat were being labeled by opponents of price support as total losses. As a matter of fact, our 1949 wheat operations are not likely to involve any material loss.

"Of the total net realized losses of $518 million sustained by CCC on price support from October, 1933, through March, 1950, a large part has been with the perishable or semi-perishable commodities—with $367 of this total attributable to potatoes alone. Ever since 1946, the Department has been vigorously pointing out that mandatory price supports on potatoes without production control is economically unsound and not in the interest of farmers generally or of consumers. This weakness with respect to the potato program should not be used as a basis for concluding that all price-support programs are similarly unsound. Quite obviously, they are not.

Emphasizing that price supports are still needed to protect the Nation by helping stabilize the whole economy, Mr. Woolley pointed out that farm income has fallen off during the past few years while the total national income continues at high levels.

"Some downward adjustment from wartime levels in farm prices and income was to be expected," he said. "This adjustment has already taken place, and it might have been disastrous proportions if the price support program had not been available to cushion the shock."

Savings Bonds Drive
A farmer works hard to earn his money. And, once earned, that money should work for him. Of course, some cash must be kept around to meet immediate operating expenses. But many farm leaders think too much farm money is idle, according to Mr. Blandford.

And the current Independence Drive of the Savings Bonds program is a reminder for farmers to take inventory of their idle money, and put to work all of it they don't need for current expenses. Savings Bonds are a safe investment — what's more, they increase one-third in value after 10 years.

Wheat Allotment
Notices of eligibility have been sent to all Maryland wheat growers. Those who planted in excess of acreage allotments have been notified that they are not eligible for price support loans. However, Mr. Blandford, this

POULTRY POINTERS

No. 87.

Continuation on raising turkeys:

As the last Pointer gave recommendation how to rear poults up to 8 weeks, this deals with the time from 8 weeks to market size. From the brooder house the young turkeys may be moved to a rearing range. One to one and a half acres of good sod, clover or alfalfa range is generally considered sufficient for about 100 turkeys from time they are 6 or 8 weeks old until they are of marketable age. This range is divided into four sections, each being used for about a month. A very cheap roosting shelter is provided, and moved with the birds. When you want to be quite safe from blackhead move your birds ever two weeks.

Continue high energy mash up to 12 weeks, and then change to a growing mash. If fed properly with high energy rations poults should weigh 2 lbs. each at the end of 6 weeks, and 6 lbs. at the end of 12 weeks, but growth will vary with different lots. It requires approximately 7 lb. of starting mash and 35 lb. of growing mash plus 25 lb. of grain, together with green feed to grow a turkey up to 28 weeks. If an abundance of fresh green feed is available, it will replace about 25% of the grain and mash. (Pasture for poultry in Pointer 88).

Turkey mash should not be ground as finely as for chicks, coarsely ground mash is more palatable to turkeys. After 12 weeks of age change your starter to growing mash and feed grain in addition. Start out with 10% of grain, and increase the grain ration gradually so that at 14 weeks of age they may get just as much grain as they eat mash. If you replace by pellets then be certain that your pellets contain the same amount of protein as your growing mash contains.

Do not flush your birds as it is frequently recommended, because flushing offsets your birds' development considerably. In the case of coccidiosis use proven sulfa drugs as recommended in a previous Pointer.

Rectangular containers use space to best advantage in your home freezer.

week announced an appeal procedure for farmers who intentionally planted more than their allotted acreage. "This is possible," he explained, "because of small errors in the measuring device on the grain drill, or because of differences in estimating acreage of irregularly shaped fields."

"Farmers whose excess planting is unintentional should contact the county PMA committee," he said. "The committee will review the statements and the findings of its representatives and forward the information to the State Committee."

Mr. Blandford emphasized that every effort will be made to bring about fair adjustments.

Heat Affects Chickens' Laying

If nature had seen fit to provide chickens with sweat glands, the problems of the Maryland poultryman would be simplified during the summer months.

Since chickens cannot sweat, they must use other methods to dissipate heat when temperatures soar above 82 degrees F. They depend on radiation, convection, and conduction as well as evaporation of water from the respiratory passages of the body. This explains the attempt of fowls to increase their body surface by ruffling their feathers, drooping their wings, and panting.

As an additional means of holding down their body temperature, the birds also eat less. This results in slower growth or lower egg production—and less income for the producer.

Wade Rice, Extension poultryman at the University of Maryland, says, that the poultryman can take some steps to help the birds fight high summer temperatures. He lists cross-ventilation in the poultry house as one of the most important measures. This requires adequate openings at, or near, the floor level on both the front and back walls of the house. "The poultryman who does not provide such openings pays for them any way through lower production and even death of birds," he declares.

Other construction practices include insulation of roofs, use of sheet or roll aluminum roofing to reflect heat, and possible use of forced-air ventilation. Further studies are needed, he says, before the forced-air ventilation may be definitely recommended as a practical step.

The Infiltration Danger

One of the ever-present dangers to American freedom is the mistaken belief among so many of our people that our freedom-giving institutions are too strong to become critically affected by infiltration of a few Communists or Socialists.

But actually that is one of the basic secrets of the radical zealots—small and relatively unnoticed in number, cunning in strategies, powerful in influence. The public is lulled into a false sense of security; and then one day the people awake to find their national institutions controlled by the once insignificant little handful.

The Czech Downfall Czechoslovakia is the classic example of the Communist technique of conquering through infiltration. The Russian-controlled Czech Communies poisoned President Eduard Benes' mind with the idea that a Socialist economic system could be operated within the framework of Czechoslovakia's freedom-giving national government.

Never Mentioned "Socialism" John Flynn's "The Road Ahead," published in the February Readers Digest, emphasizes the English Fabian Socialists were so successful because so few became so politically powerful via the infiltration route.

England. He said the Socialist clique in England established the Labor Party and captured the support of millions by hiding its ultimate objective.

"The Fabians' cunning strategy," Flynn writes, "was to bring on socialism without mentioning the odious word—to offer to the voters one small part of the Socialist machine at a time without the Socialist label on it; to smuggle socialism into the social fabric without arousing the suspicions of the masses."

Flynn says the Fabian Socialist handful instituted their government many years ago when Great Britain was one of the mightiest nations on earth. "It was into this immense and virile (nation)," he says, "that this small coterie of Socialist doctrinaires thrust themselves. Nine years later (their) Labor Party had representatives in the British cabinet."

Bond Drive Shows Slackening Last Month

Maryland dropped from third to fourth place among the states in percentage of quota achieved in the Independence Savings Bonds Drive, according to a statement released this week by Richard H. Dixon Jr., State Director of the Savings Bonds Division for Maryland.

This was based on figures submitted by the Federal Reserve Bank for the first three periods of the Drive, May 15 through June 3. The Drive will end on July 4. With a State goal of $7.7 million, a total of $2,595,049 in E Bonds sales has been achieved thus far, or 33.57% of the quota, which is above the national average. In the previous week's reports compiled, we and Pennsylvania showed a higher percentage, but in this week's report, Illinois forged up to second place and Pennsylvania maintained its lead over Maryland by only one-tenth of one per cent.

Mr. Dixon pointed out that Maryland was down in 13th place in the report for the first period and advanced from there to 3rd

Employment Proved High in May

During the past month, job placements made by the Employment Service Division of the Dept. of Employment Security, hit an all-time record for May, exclusive of the war period, according to William H. Mahaney, chairman of the board. Throughout the State, 7,050 persons were placed in jobs, 4,250 of them in Baltimore City. This is an increase of approximately 26 per cent over last month's record, and 42 per cent greater than in last week's accounting. He expressed the hope that before next week's report are compiled, we will overtake the slight lead of our neighboring state.

Analysis of this week's report throughout the State showed Baltimore County still in the lead with 68.1% of the largest quota assigned. St. Mary's County is in second place with 63.4% and Anne Arundel, third, with 50.7%.

Mr. Dixon emphasized that while sales to date could not be considered discouraging, they cover three of the nine reporting periods allotted to the Drive and extra efforts are being urged on the part of volunteers in the city and counties to bring the State total up beyond the half-way-mark with the next or fourth report.

May, 1949. The largest gains were registered in construction and public utilities, but the increase was shared by all industry groups. Placements of women constituted 31 per cent of the total in the State as a whole and 25 per cent in Baltimore.

Reflecting, to some degree, the upward trend in employment which started in the early spring, the number of job seekers registered with the Employment Service offices dropped approximately 12 per cent from last month. At the end of May, applications for work on file state-wide were 44,550, which represents a decrease of nearly 15 per cent from May of last year. Around 36 per cent were women. In Baltimore City the total number of job seekers registered was slightly over 28,000, about 37 per cent women.

The number of job openings available in State Employment Service offices offered another indication of improvement in the employment situation. Compared with last month, there was a gain of almost 24 per cent in job openings received, and, as against May of 1949, the increase was 35 per cent.

In conjunction with the selection and effective screening of applicants for referral to certain job openings, the Employment Service offices administer various types of aptitude and proficiency tests to determine applicant's potential fitness for jobs. Over 1,200 such tests were given during the month of May.

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

Chocolate Nut Topping

Chocolate and nuts are an almost irresistible combination, especially when they are served with vanilla ice cream. That's why this "surprise sauce" made with chocolate syrup and peanut butter makes such a hit, say home economists. To make it, just blend the two ingredients together until a smooth, fudge-sauce consistency is reached.

Thicken the mixture a little with more peanut butter, and you have a luscious frosting for a devil's food cake. Served on either cake or ice cream, this flavor treat will delight your family.

For Handier Hemming

A slipshod, irregular hem can make the prettiest of dresses look cheap and untidy, and is something to be avoided. Here are some fine points on putting in hems, used either in making a garment or altering a ready-made.

After marking the hem and turning it up, pin close to the edge of the folded hemline, in as usual. Put the pins in at right angles to the hemline, and baste steady at the top of the hem over them close to the fold. After basting, remove pins and press.

Two inches is a good width for a hem. With a small transparent ruler and chalk, it's now easy to mark an even line around the hem and then cut along it.

Whether or not seam binding is used, finish the hem with a catch stitch. It's particularly good looking because the needle picks up the outer fabric only every other stitch. The inbetween stitches are taken just through the hem itself.

Linen-Like Cotton

Dept. of Agriculture chemists have developed a cotton fabric that looks, launders and wears like linen, reports Helen Shelby, University of Maryland Extension sion clothing specialist. It is beach wear, and other hot weather-made from a low grade short staple cotton, treated to give a ple product with a linen-like finish. The new material is recommended for children's play suits, dresses, dozen eggs.

How Mr. Boh Became a "National" Favorite!

1 The score was tied, the crowd was tense. Could "Boh" come thru and clear the fence?

2 "Sock it!" they cried as "Boh" came to the plate. Then he started to swing like a rusty gate.

3 The second ball pitched was again in the groove, but it came so fast "Boh" couldn't move.

4 "Boh" was certainly upon the spot, but suddenly he found his mark. He scored the winning run that day by knocking it out of the park.

5 Now as then when they hear the name the fans still rise and cheer, not only for "Boh" the slugger but for National Bohemian Beer!

The 3.3 mile section of Maryland Route 26—the Liberty Road—due for improvement this year as part of the State Roads Commission program in Carroll County, is shown on the accompanying map. The project begins about one mile west of the Baltimore County line and extends through the town of Eldersburg. For most of the distance, as can be seen from the map, the project follows the line of the existing road, a relocation having been made only where the new highway intersects Maryland Route 32 in Eldersburg. This is only one of several projects planned or in progress, to eliminate obsolete portions of Route 26 between Baltimore and Frederick.

Legion Juniors Beat Taneytown

The American Legion Junior baseball team came up with four runs in the 10th frame last Saturday afternoon to defeat the Taneytown Juniors, 10-6. The win was the third for the junior team, sponsored by the Francis X. Elder Post of Emmitsburg.

Collins received credit for the victory after he relieved Joy on the mound. By defeating their opponents, the local juniors are tied for first position with Westminster and Taneytown.

The Wednesday twilight game played on the Community field was deadlocked at 6-6 when it was called because of darkness. Manager Jack Rosensteel said he was very much disappointed at the showing his team made against Hampstead, after playing their best game downing Taneytown.
