BY ABIGAIL

Yesterday was payday. As I received my weekly stipend I was debating whether to buy a couple of lace handkerchiefs or a half-pound of hamburger with it when Phil Sharpe barged in with a letter from one of his friends in Montevideo, Uruguay. This South American had just returned from an extended visit in the Argentine, and told of things as they are in our neighboring country to the South of us.

Of course Phil's friend is a "gunbug"—one of those chaps who seems to idolize guns. I know nothing about them—except to stay away from them—and care less, but there are some local boys and girls who do like them, so here's a few extracts from the long airmail letter from the Montevideoan.

"In the Argentine, I tried to get some guns. It is very dangerous business, even for a collector. With the regime down there, you probably will find yourself in the calaboose. There used to be a lot of collectors, but no one wants to talk about it and have hidden or got rid of everything. All of this is now happening in the Argentine and is a real pity, since it is an amazingly rich and a country with wonderful possibilities. However, you can have a splendid life as a tourist. Buenos Aires, the capital, has about three million inhabitants and is really a beautiful city. The currency has been so devalued that things are very cheap.

"For instance, one of the best hotels—much better in my opinion—than the Waldorf in New York, costs for a couple for a day in their best rooms, only $4.50 U. S. And the food is something terrific. I think, and so does everybody else, that after Paris, the food is the best in the world. A meal at the most luxurious place, having the best dishes, costs at the most, $2 U. S. per person. But you can eat splendidly in a good, not luxurious restaurant, for 50 to 75 cents U. S. per person. Every restaurant, however good it may be, has a compulsory menu for poor people. It really is pretty good and costs in U. S. money, 18 cents per person.

"On the other hand, you find few imported things, especially cars, of which you could see plenty, are imported by the military, or high Government officials, for personal profit. A new Chevrolet here costs about $7,000 U. S. money!

"Perhaps you are envious about the price of food—but we all eat regularly. It is the luxury items which count. And they cost plenty down here."

I made notes from the letter to Phil. I read them and pondered the situation with all of my 107 years of writing. Pardon me, I'm going out and spend a dime for a "cuppa-cawfee." Emmitsburg isn't such a bad place to live in, after all.

BRASS KNUCKLES

The sale of brass knuckles is expected to rise smartly here in town. It seems that a good many of the "wise" motorists found a way to beat the parking meters. As told to yours truly, the "chiseler" puts the penny in, wraps the lever with his knuckles a terrific jolt, and presto, up goes the time hand to 45 instead of 12 minutes. Here's the rib, however, this week a representative of the meter company visited town and with a pair of bolt cutters, nipped the ends off all the handles. Apparently from now on the boys will be sporting sore knuckles. Toodle-do.

CORRECTION

In printing the obituary of Mrs. Bruce E. Wenschof in last week's issue of the Chronicle, the name of Rev. Philip Bower, one of the officiating ministers, was inadvertently omitted. We regret the omission.

Output of Rumania's heavy industry is said to top 1939 level.

COMMUNITY FUND STUDIES TWO CASES

The Community Fund of Emmitsburg remains very active in local affairs. At the regular meeting of the organization held last Friday evening in the VFW Home and presided over by Chairman Lumen F. Norris, two cases were brought up and discussed.

In action taken at Friday's session, the Fund passed on the purchase of a radio set for blind Paula Bowers, recently committed to the Home for the Blind at Overlea, Md. If regulations of the institution permit, a radio set will be purchased and presented to the child.

Another case, involving a crippled girl, 13 years old, was discussed. The child apparently is a victim of the dreaded polio and has been unable to walk for several years. It is understood that nothing medically has been done for the child all these years. The situation will be investigated thoroughly by the Fund and if aid cannot be had from the county and National Foundation for Polio, the local organization will come to the assistance.

Unable to motivate her body, the child, naturally has been out of school for several years. It is believed a television set would provide immeasurable pleasure for the victim. Mrs. Mary Cinegran, Mrs. O. H. Stinson, and Mrs. Harry S. Boyle were appointed a committee to ferret out the details of the case and to bring in a recommendation.

Francis Sanders was appointed as delegate from the American Legion and was placed on the board of directors.

Plans for the proposed fall minstrel were temporarily set back to January. The next meeting the organization will be held Monday, Oct. 9, in the VFW Home.

New Addition To Mt. St. Mary's Faculty

Announcement was made this week of the appointment to the faculty of Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, of James McSherry, Frederick attorney.

Mr. McSherry received his B.S.S. from Georgetown University and also was graduated from the University of Maryland. He was admitted to the Maryland State Bar Assn. in 1948.

The lawyer will begin his duties at the Mount Monday morning. The acquisition of Mr. Mc-

Sherry gives the college a complete course in commercial law.

Col. Thomas J. Frailey of Emmitsburg, will teach Law I and II, while Mr. McSherry will instruct in Law III and IV.

The young Frederick attorney follows in his association with the college those of his father and grandfather, both graduates from the institution.

Besides practicing and teaching law, Mr. McSherry is interested in politics, having recently been nominated to the House of Delegates on the Democratic slate.

Sergeant's Motto: "Keep 'Em Rolling"

"Keep 'em Rolling" is the slogan at Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha, Neb. Chief dispatcher at Camp Offutt is Staff Sergeant Charles A. Myers, son of Charles E. Myers, Emmitsburg, pictured above. Sgt. Myers, a veteran of five and a half year's service is currently on a 25-day re-enlistment furlough and is visiting his father, brothers and sisters here. According to the soldier, "something new has been added" to the Air Force. All trucks (there are 280 at the base) are painted light blue for the Air Force and Ground Forces vehicles are the regular khaki.

The motor pool soon will receive forty more new vehicles. The vehicles will be the carry-all and two-and-a-half-ton types. The two-and-a-half-ton truck will replace many of Offutt's out-dated heavy vehicles. The majority of these trucks are from six to seven years old. The motor pool is now dispatching a total of 200 vehicles a day. The pool is open on a 24-hour basis.

Many Voters Registered Here Tuesday

Approximately 900 new names were added to the registration books in Frederick County on Tuesday, it was estimated by election officials, on the basis of meagre reports. From 10 to 20 names were added in each of the 60 precincts in preparation for the Nov. 7 general election. Another opportunity to register will be provided next Tuesday, when registration officials will sit in each precinct to qualify voters.

Registration of voters at all the precincts of the Emmitsburg District were conducted by Eugene Kraemer and Roy Maxell, precinct No. 1; George Martin and Lloyd Ohler, precinct No. 2 at Edward Storm's office on E. Main St., and at St. Anthony's School House, by Robert Fitez and Edward Seltzer. The registration was extremely light.

Precinct No. 1 registered 10 Republicans and two Democrats; Precinct No. 2 registered 12 Republicans and Democrats, and Precinct No. 3, seven Republicans and 34 Democrats. Total for all three precincts was 65.

The final registration Tuesday will be held at the same places from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Revision day for an opportunity to transfer registrations from voting place to another will be conducted Tuesday, Oct. 17.

New Date Set For "Old Timers" Ball Game

Due to the conflict with the World Series, the date for the "Old Timers" vs. Hanover Shoe baseball game has been changed to Saturday, Oct. 14, at 2 p. m.

The Old Timers are having success in contacting and rounding up a good number for the coming tilt with the Hanover Shoe baseball team. It is expected that there will be a sufficient number of the Old Timers in the line up that frequent substitutions can be made.

The Old Timers hope to make the affair a little homecoming occasion and they hope that many former Emmitsburgians will be coming home, not only for the game, but for a week-end.

All Old Timers are asked to take notice of the above announcement of change in date for the game and also to consider this an invitation for their cooperation and participation in the game Sat., Oct. 14, on the Community Field.

Allen Bouey, Harold Hoke, Guy McGlaughlin, C. Arthur Elder, and Bernard J. Eckenrode are some of the "Old Timers" helping to promote and arrange the game.

The Post has decided to erect a new honor roll, replacing the one now standing in front of the Home. Lumen F. Norris was appointed chairman. Mr. Norris stated he hopes to secure a bronze plaque to be placed in stone or other formidable structure. If everything works out as planned, the dedication of the new honor roll will be Armistice Day, Nov. 11.

The basement of the Legion Home has been given for use to high school students. Through County Health Officer Dr. C. E. Easterday, courses in practical nursing will be offered.

Legionnaire J. Albert Saffer commented on the excellent work the Francis Scott Key Post, Frederick, did in preparing Christmas packages for veterans who are patients in the Newton D. Baker Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va. The Post decided to donate $25 to a general fund of which four other County Posts are members, to buy gifts to give to veterans at the Veterans' Hospital this year.

The Post decided at Tuesday night's meeting to finish the reading room. New books and magazines have been bought and will be available to Legionnaires in their leisure.

Highway Safety Slogan Calls For: "Slow Down at Night"

The highway safety slogan of the Maryland State Police for the month of October is "Slow Down At Night," which is based on the theme of night-time driving hazards.

Commenting on the new slogan, Major Ruxton M. Ridgely, executive officer, pointed out that "in the back of the mind of practically every motorist lies the knowledge that night-time is the time to drive carefully. Unfortunately, however, this small voice of common sense is neither sufficiently loud, nor persistent enough to save thousands of thoughtless and careless motorists each year in spite of the fact that statistics indicate that the night-time death rate is about three times the day rate."

Maj. Ridgely listed the following hazards as factors in the high total of night-time traffic accidents:

- 1—Glaring headlights.
- 2—Reduced visibility.
- 3—Fatigue.
- 4—Operators and pedestrians under the influence of liquor.
- 5—Failure of pedestrians to comprehend that approaching motorists cannot see them as rapidly nor as clearly as the walker can see the car.

"SLOW DOWN AT NIGHT."

Highway Construction Tedious Process

Road-building techniques have come a long way since the days of pick-and-shovel gangs and horse-drawn dump carts, but highway construction is still a slow, tedious process. As fast as the equipment manufacturers develop new machines to do the necessary work in less time, the engineers responsible for designing the roads raise their sights another notch nearer perfection and give the road-builders still more difficult problems to solve. Modern traffic demands straight, level roads, regardless of the natural terrain. That means deep cuts through hills and long fills across valleys. And when a fill is made it has to be packed down layer by layer, so it won't settle or shift after the surfacing is down and the traffic is moving across it.

Packing down fill dirt is the job of the odd-looking machine in the accompanying photo. It's a sheeps-foot roller and all day long it is pulled back and forth by tractor across the fill area, each revolution of its massive barrel-like wheels tamping down the fresh earth with hundreds of steel "hooves." The job on which the roller is working in this picture from the Maryland State Roads Commission, is a relocation of a section of U. S. Route 219, across valleys. And when a fill is made it has to be packed down

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

Light and heat both weaken curtains and draperies, often causing them to break through or go to pieces. Some fabrics are affected more than others, a matter of concern to homemakers who want the fabrics which stand up longest against sunlight or heat from radiator or registers.

The most durable materials for window hangings are acetate rayon and glass fabric—a comparatively new fabric woven of tiny glass rods. These were found most resistant to both light and heat. Silk, nylon and plastics were the fabric most weakened by light, and linen and nylon by heat.

Meat Substitutes—again!

As meat prices threaten to go out of sight home economists of the Maryland Extension Service toss a lifeline to worried homemakers. Here is their list of alternatives for a serving of meat:

Two medium eggs, cooked any way; one pint of milk, whole, skim, or buttermilk; about six tablespoons of cottage cheese; about ½ cup grated American cheese; four tablespoons of peanut butter (this should be supplemented with milk); about ½ cup cooked soy beans; about one cup of cooked dried peas, beans, or lentils; one cup of cereal main dish, such as macaroni and cheese, or cheese fondue, or two slices of French toast.

One reminder—if serving dried beans, peas, or lentils, or cereal products, be sure to combine with, or include in the meal, a small amount of one or more of such high quality protein foods as milk, eggs, cheese, fish, meat, or poultry.

Family Conclave on "Mama"

As usual, something lively is brewing in the Hansen family, consisting of Nels, Katrin, Dagmar and Mama and Papa Hansen, on CBS-TV's "Mama." The occasion this time is a pet show, in which Dagmar enters her dog. During the rehearsal of this sequence of the domestic drama, which stars Peggy Wood as "Mama," Director Ralph Nelson found that with ten youngsters—and pets—for the pet show scene, he had to group them carefully. However the pets were "miscellaneous"—which meant everything from guinea pigs to canaries, so when Director Nelson asked one little boy to stand nearer another child, he got this answer. "But I can't, Mr. Nelsen, I have a St. Bernard — and he has a white mouse!" Dickie Van Patten is the Hansen son "Nels," Rosemary Rice plays "Katrin," Robin Morgan is "Dagmar," and "Papa" is portrayed by Judson Laire.

Scrolls Are Circulated Here

Freedom Scrolls are now being circulated throughout Maryland by Boy and Girl Scouts, civic groups, labor organizations, business and religious groups.

"Signing the Freedom Scrolls offers every individual in this country a chance to register his personal protest against Communism," William C. Purnell, state chairman of the Crusade for Freedom, has announced. "Even more than that," he added, "the Freedom Crusade gives us a chance to prove that millions of Americans believe in freedom and are completely opposed to aggression and tyranny wherever they exist on earth."

The Freedom Scrolls state: "I believe in the sacredness and dignity of the individual. I believe that all men derive the right to freedom equally from God. I pledge to resist aggression and tyranny wherever they exist on earth."

earth."

The National Crusade for Freedom is headed by General Lucius D. Clay, who was commander of Berlin during the days of the air lift, and General Clay believes the Crusade is a "spiritual airlift" in the battle to win control of men's minds.

All of the signatures that appear on Freedom Scrolls will be permanently enshrined in the base of the World Freedom Bell in Berlin. This bell which is eight feet high, and weighs 10 tons, is now making a tour of the United States.

The middle of this month the Bell will leave New York, and on United Nations Day, Oct. 24, it will be hung in Berlin. In years to come, the world will revere this bell, just as Americans honor the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Maryland state headquarters for the Crusade are in the Southern Hotel, Light and Redwood Sts., Baltimore 3, and regional campaign offices have been set up in Westminster, Frederick, Hagerstown, Cumberland and other towns on the Eastern Shore.

SHORT STORY

Knolton's Case

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

KNOLTON'S ACT was the result of two years of planning. There was little chance that anything would go wrong. He had served as clerk at the lumber camp for two long years. And from the moment he first saw the payroll left unguarded in the office while the bank guard went out and a camp paymaster came in from that moment Knolton knew that some day he'd steal that payroll and make a get-away.

The day that Knolton had chosen for the robbery was not unlike a thousand others. At exactly noon the payroll car drove up. A guard stepped into the office and deposited the heavy bag by Knolton's chair. Knolton greeted him carelessly, nodded at the bag and bent to his work. The guard went out.

The moment the door closed Knolton's head came up. He listened intently. Outside he could hear the bank guard in conversation with Raymond, the camp paymaster. There wasn't a moment to lose.

Quickly Knolton lifted up the cover of his desk, removed from inside a bag almost identical to the one on the floor and equally as heavy. He made the transfer deftly, unhurriedly.

The door opened and Raymond came inside. He nodded briefly to Knolton, picked up the decoy bag and went out again.

Knolton stepped outside and walked leisurely toward the river. Unobserved he climbed into the canoe which was hidden there, and pushed off.

By mid-afternoon Knolton reached a tributary and turned off the main stream. He paddled up this smaller waterway for more than a mile.

He set the canoe adrift and headed inland, swinging southward. By dusk he had come to a virgin stand of timber, mighty monarchs of the forest as yet unscathed by the lumberman's axe. His steps led him to a huge pine, larger than the rest with thick undergrowth at the base. He parted the growth, pulled at a tuft of dirt. The tuft came away, revealing a shallow hole. Knolton had dug the hole months before, allowed the under growth to grow over it so that no trace of his recent visit would be in evidence.

He deposited the bag in the hole and carefully replaced the dirt.

IT WAS A MONTH before Knolton reached his destination; a tiny village hundreds of miles south of the lumber camp. Here he paused to rest with a friend. By now he had grown a beard. The friend provided dye and Knolton changed the color of his hair from light brown to black.

Six months later Knolton, now known as Carl Hedman, with no trace of the one-time clerk showing beneath his perfect disguise, rode leisurely back toward the scene of his crime.

The lumbermen gave him no more than a passing glance. Satisfied that he had not been recognized, Knolton followed the river to the mouth of the tributary.

With pounding heart he mounted the ridge and paused to look. It was as if a hand had suddenly reached out and was squeezing him in a powerful grip. He stood rooted, mouth ajar, staring in stupefied incredulity at the country below. With a sense of horror he realized what had happened. The entire area had been logged by the lumber company, swept bare of every standing tree and piece of timber.

Every tree stump looked alike; none was larger or different from its neighbor. He surmounted great piles of slash, tearing at them frantically, hunting for the stump, the stump of the great pine tree.

Thus unmindful of his direction he came again to the river bank. And when at length he reached the top of another hill he paused to rest, overcome by fatigue. Too late he felt the slash pile beneath him slipping away. Too late he realized that the slash had been thrown on the brink of a precipice overhanging the river.

Knolton, with a pitiful cry on his lips, went over the brink. Far, far below he lay, a broken human body on the jagged rocks.

Large supplies of turkeys are expected on markets early this fall says the USDA.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

In the face of a record breaking crop of 271 million bushels it is more important for farmers to avoid dumping their soybeans on the market this year than ever before, in the opinion of Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland P.M.A. State Committee.

The farmer who markets his soybeans at harvest time or immediately after is likely to get less for his crop than if he waited, says the chairman. In the past 25 years, he points out, during the period from July through November, prices have averaged 20 per cent below the annual level.

The Commodity Credit Corporation and purchase agreement programs, he explains, are designed to help farmers avoid the depressed markets at harvest time. Under the loan program farmers can store their soybeans on their farms and get a CCC loan to tide them over the seasonal low spot. The loan this year is $2.01 per bushel in Maryland.

Under the purchase agreement program the farmer is assured of a market for his soybeans at the same price as the loan rate.

Both loans and purchase agreements may be signed up at the county PMA office at any time between now and Jan. 31, 1951.

To Select Committeemen

It is now time to begin thinking about the selection of farmers to administer the 1951 agricultural conservation and other PMA programs, says Mr. Blandford.

Chairman Blandford holds that the provision for farmers to elect their neighbors as committeemen, and to be elected as committeemen are called into consultation with one of the most significant and progressive developments in agriculture. He adds, however, that "unless farmers give careful consideration to the selections of committeemen and participate in elections, the administration of the farm program is not truly democratic nor representative."

He calls attention to the fact that many administrative positions in the nation's agricultural structure ranging from state committeemen to the Undersecretary of Agriculture have been filled from committeemen ranks, indicating the important place the relatively new farmer-administrative system has attained.

As representatives of the farmers in their community the chairman points out, community committeemen are called into consultation to discuss and make recommendations on provisions of the various PMA programs as well as to help carry out the resulting programs in their communities.

County committeemen, he explains, are largely elected from the ranks of the community committeemen, and these farmers administer PMA programs on a county level.

State committeemen, although appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture, usually are selected from the county committee ranks. State committees administer PMA programs at the state level and have a voice in formulating and administering national programs.

Mr. Blandford says that he is sure that if farmers realized the importance of the "committee way of administering farm programs" and what it means to the farmers of Maryland to have these programs administered by farmers they have had a voice in selecting, "there would be no need to encourage greater attention and more participation in committee elections. Every thinking farmer would be eager to carry his share of the responsibility."

Efficient Use of Cars Urged
Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan has requested all shippers of agricultural commodities to load and unload box cars promptly, and to fill them to maximum capacity.

"Maximum use of box cars by shippers of agricultural freight is imperative under present conditions," says the Secretary. "The grain harvest, the war in Korea, the increased tempo of defense preparations, and the high overall level of freight movement—all these have accentuated an already grave situation."

He adds that we are faced with a critical shortage of box cars, estimated at a daily average of more than 20 thousand. It will become increasingly acute as heavier movement of bulk grain gets under way, with the peak shortage expected this month. With the shortage already being felt by shippers, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture transportation specialists say that only more efficient use of equipment will be immediately effective in easing the shipping situation.

To set an example for other shippers, the PMA, which handles the shipment of grain controlled by the CCC, is loading cars to maximum capacity, and trying to eliminate all unnecessary delays in loading and unloading. Observance of these measures by all shippers, together with faster turn-arounds by the railroads, will do much to "stretch" the use of scarce equipment.

HEALTH COLUMN

Breakfast Habits

Cartoons and comic strips frequently picture the American commuter clutching a steaming cup of coffee in his hand as he runs for his bus or train in the morning. The implication is that most of us give ourselves little or no time for breakfast, which is considered by many doctors and nutritionists as the most important meal of the day.

While cartoonists may exaggerate a bit, it is true that many of us, especially city-dwellers with jobs, habitually neglect eating a proper breakfast. Breakfast is uninteresting, unimportant, and time-consuming to some people, and many seem to feel that they have the remainder of the day to make up nutritional needs.

However, nutritionists warn us that breakfast is an important meal and should constitute from one-fourth to a third of the day's intake of food. Nutrition experts point out that, ordinarily, the stretch from dinner in the evening to breakfast the following morning is the longest period in which the body goes without food, and nourishment is needed early in the morning.

As a matter of fact, the person who skips breakfast and waits till lunch can be "losing" every morning of his working day in terms of production and enjoyment. Results of many experiments among students, housewives, and working people show that those who neglect breakfast are generally less efficient and less alert during the morning than people engaged in similar pursuits who start the day with a nourishing meal.

Like all meals, a "good breakfast" doesn't necessarily mean a great deal of food, but rather a well-balanced menu of "energy foods" and those which build tissue and supply vitamins and minerals. A satisfactory breakfast, one that can give a person a good start for the day's tasks, can consist of fruit or fruit juice, an egg, milk, bread (preferably whole wheat or enriched) or cereal.

Lack of time to prepare a nutritious breakfast is not a valid excuse these days. Modern packaging of breakfast foods has reduced the time needed for preparing and serving them to a minimum. Actually, most of us could enjoy a tasty, healthful breakfast if we got up a few minutes earlier. And the formation of this habit can mean generally improved health, more efficiency for the day's tasks, and even greater enjoyment of living.

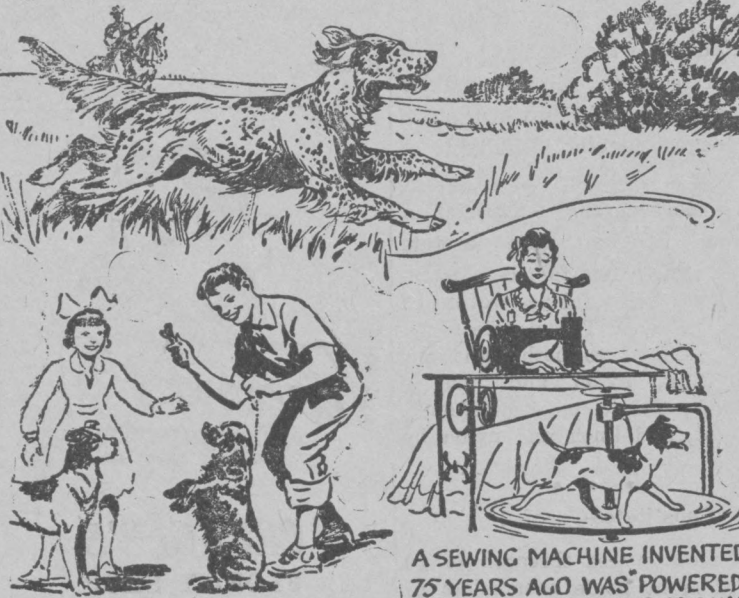

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. A boneless beef chuck pot-roast.
Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?
A. It is chuck which has been boned and rolled.
Q. How is it prepared?
A. By braising. The meat is floured, if desired, then browned in lard or drippings. Seasoned. A small amount of water is added, the pan covered and the meat cooked until tender. Often vegetables are added near the end of cooking time. For a 3 to 5 pound boneless chuck, 3 to 4 hours cooking time is required.

State Health Department Keeps Rigid Inspection on Oyster Shipments

"Seafood lovers can enjoy the oysters that are now a prominent feature of home and restaurant menus with the assurance that public health officials are making every effort to protect their sanitary quality," according to a statement made this week by Dr. R. H. Riley, director of health. "Throughout the year, but especially during the R months, the state and county health departments devote much time to attempts to keep Maryland oysters safe and wholesome by checking the purity of waters overlying the bars and by inspecting their handling, shucking, and shipment. In addition, the oysters themselves are checked both in the shell and shucked."

"Representatives of the State Dept. of Health and sanitarians in tidewater counties have cooperated closely with the U. S. Public Health Service in order to enforce strict regulations regarding oyster waters and sanitary conditions in packing houses. As a result of the intensified campaign of recent years, Maryland oysters have received a higher sanitary rating from the Public Health Service and should be safer than ever."

"Since oysters grown in polluted waters are usually contaminated and unfit for human consumption, the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering has been greatly concerned with preventing the discharge of sewage and industrial wastes in oyster-producing waters. During the last season several thousand samples of water overlying oyster bars were obtained. There have been many detailed surveys of the sewerage facilities of shore properties bordering upon oyster areas and many corrections of conditions causing pollution in these waters. The bureau has also led an active campaign to enlist the cooperation of yachtsmen to prevent the discharge of sewage from small pleasure boats into waters adjacent to oyster bars.

"Members of this Department's Bureau of Food and Drugs, as well as health officers and sanitarians, have made numerous inspections of oyster houses. They have tried, usually with success, to obtain the willing cooperation of packers in maintaining satisfactory sanitary conditions and in handling oysters according to accepted standards. In the past summer they made a concerted effort to obtain necessary corrections of unsatisfactory conditions before the beginning of the oyster season."

"Public health laboratories have made an important contribution toward the protection of Maryland oysters. The Bureau of Bacteriology examines an ever-increasing number of oyster samples and oyster waters in its central and branch laboratories. The Bureau of Chemistry also examines oysters suspected of adulteration, contamination or spoilage."

"Thanks to these safeguards, there is every likelihood that the Maryland oysters that reach our tables this season will be as safe as they are delicious. Residents of Maryland and other areas where our oysters are marketed can eat with confidence."

Looking Ahead

Behind the China Curtain

With world attention centered on the Orient, and especially on China and its behavior under Communist masters, it is well for us to know what's going on behind the scenes in this area so important to the future of Asia and, indeed, the whole world. I've just had as my guest a Chinese business man who has spent his lifetime in China, who has had personal contact with the Chinese Communists and has observed at first hand the turn of events since they occupied the country. He is a university graduate, a highly intelligent, unusually well-informed person; in fact, he was with American intelligence in China during World War II.

Any war today involving the United States against world communism would find the masses of the Chinese people "ready and anxious to revolt" against their Communist masters, he says. "But if the Communists are given 10 years in China," he says, "they will have indoctrinated our young people so thoroughly and enslaved the others so completely that any spirit of revolt remaining alive will have been rendered impotent." This is a significant opinion in view of the theory, long projected by some of our foreign policy leaders, that China "is too big for the Communists to swallow."

Opportunity Closed

"Nine-tenths of all the people of China are against Communism now," he says. "They have discovered by personal experience that Communism permits only a bare existence, at best, if they order their lives in the Communist mold there is absolutely no hope or promise of rising above the existence level. Though there have been severe obstacles through the centuries, my people have always been conscious of the opportunity, however difficult, for anyone to rise above the station of peasantry. The opportunity now is closed."

The Communists turn a benign face to the Chinese people, he says. "But their unspoken threats loom terrible behind their politeness. To oppose or even to question their 'suggestions' means imprisonment or death, or both. All Chinese people have become aware of this fact—by observation in their communities."

No Land Reforms

The Chinese people, he says, "have found, too, that the promised Communist land reforms will not materialize. It is true that the crushing high rentals which many landlords had imposed for generations have ceased going to the landlords, but it is not true that Chinese peasants have been 'given' land. The Communist 'State' in every case has retained ownership. The peasant on his parcel of land merely has changed landlords."

"He is permitted to keep from his rice harvest only a small portion above his diet requirements and with this he must meet all of the living expenses. The remainder is taken away by the Communist government. With his allotment he must earmark a quantity to exchange for the everyday family and home necessities and conserve the rest as the chief item of the family diet. The allotment represents his whole income."

Communist "Democracy"

The seizing of land and other wealth goes down to the lowest level of ownership. The landlord owning five acres is approached, for instance, and told he needs only one acre. Ownership of four acres is taken from him. And the Communist officials says, "Oh, by the way, the rental you've charged during the past has been rather high. We think you should have charged only half as much. You will please return 50 per cent of the rentals you've collected during the past three years." To whom? To the Communist government not the tenant! If the owner hasn't the money and can't, in desperation, raise it, he goes to prison. He is not even permitted to make installment payments with the income from the one-acre left to him."

My guest is not a "follower" of Gen. Chian Kai-shek, the

THE PRICE—AND WHO ISN'T WILLING TO PAY IT!

CASSANDRA T. HESSON

Veteran of more than 30 years teaching in the Thurmont elementary schools, Miss Cassandra T. Hesson, died last Saturday evening, Sept. 28, at Annie M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa., of a malignant ailment from which she had suffered for the past two years and which culminated in her being hospitalized five weeks ago.

Nationalist leader. However, he says the "graft and corruption" attributed to the Chiang regime has been "inflated out of all proportions" by Communist propagandists, their allies and unwitting dupes. He doubts it would even be "out of scale" with the political graft and corruption in some American cities. He says also that before Communists occupied Central and South China, land reform laws had been passed by the Chiang government which would ultimately have ended the worst features of Chinese landlordism.

She was one of the best known teachers in the Thurmont Public Schools, where she took up her profession in 1920 having taught several terms previously at Brunswick and Oak Orchard. Miss Hesson died at the age of 53 years, six months, and 28 days. She was a daughter of the late Frank and Mettie Reightler Hesson and is survived by an aunt, four uncles and a number of cousins.

In addition to public school teaching, Miss Hesson was an active church-worker until her recent illness. Holding membership in the Thurmont Ev. United Brethren Church, for many years she taught a Sunday School class there and was the church organist.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the United Brethren Church. Her pastor, Rev. Ivan G. Naugle, officiated. Interment in church cemetery.

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

Baltimore grain markets weakened last week. No. 2 red winter garlicky wheat declined about two cents per bushel. Old crop yellow shelled corn advanced about two cents per bushel. No. 2 new crop yellow shelled corn was quoted at $1.62-1.63 per bushel. Barley and oats declined about one cent per bushel on the Baltimore market. New crop soybeans are beginning to move from the West.

National Grain Market

Grain markets developed further weakness during the last week of September influenced by favorable Korean news, diminishing danger from frost damage and continued slow export demand, reports to the Dept. of Agriculture indicated. Wheat declined two to four cents per bushel while feed grain prices were irregularly low at leading markets. Oil seed markets weakened further influenced by increasing marketing of new crop seed and a decline in oil prices. No. 2 yellow soybeans were down three to five cents per bushel and were quoted at Chicago at $2.31 per bushel for October and November shipments.

Maryland Feed Market

The Baltimore feed market weakened during last week. Soybean oil meal ($2.98 per ton lower) and brewers' dried grains ($2.06 per ton lower) declined over three per cent. Feeds showing declines of about two-three per cent on the Baltimore market were distillers' dried grains, 50% meat scrap, linseed oil meal, and standard bran.

During the past week, one pound live weight broilers would buy 5.6 pounds of feed, based on the average retail cash price of 20% broiler mash on Lower Eastern Shore. Maryland broiler producers received an average of 27.3 cents per pound for broilers and had to pay an average of $96.88 per ton for feed.

National Feed Market

Feed markets turned weaker during the last week in September, reports to the Dept. of Agriculture indicated. Offerings of most grain byproduct feeds were plentiful as a result of increased production. Linseed and soybean meals were also offered more freely as production of new crop meal expanded. Demand, on the other hand, was slow, influenced by abundant supplies of grown grains and good fall pastures in important feeding areas. Prospects of imports of Canadian frosted wheat were a further weakening influence in northern and eastern markets. The index of wholesale feedstuff prices dropped about two points to 216.6 compared with 214.8 a year ago. The feed grain index advanced slightly to 209.2 which compares with 178.8 a year ago.

Hagerstown Rent Board Advocates Fair Increase

At a request made by the Hagerstown Rent Control Board, the acting area rent director has been asked to grant landlords "just and equitable increases in their ceiling rents." The Board's recommendation was made after studying increases in costs of operating and maintaining retail properties.

Rent controls will expire in his area Dec. 31 unless some action is taken.

Eighth-Graders Attend Unveiling Of Seton Statue

The eighth grade of St. Euphemia's Parochial School attended the unveiling of the new statue of Mother Seton last Wednesday at 2:15 p. m. at St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg.

While walking out, the Rosary and the Gloria were recited. The Hail Mary, Star Crowned Virgin, Immaculate Heart of Mary and O Marie Conceived Sans Pecc (O Mary Conceived Without Sin) were sung. The line which was formed in two's and order of size was led by three patrol boys, Eugene Rosensteel, William Greco and Floyd Miller. After reaching St. Joseph's, a double line was formed to see the unveiling.

The students of St. Joseph's sang a hymn which was followed by the unveiling. A very interesting speech was delivered by Bishop McNamara about Mother Seton and then a hymn was sung. The Most Honored Mother Marie Antoinette Blanchet and Most Honored Father Slattery were present besides many priests and sisters. After the unveiling was over, the eighth grade and their teacher, Sister Barbara went to "Our Lady of the Fields" which as legend says that Blessed Mother appeared to Ottawanta, an Indian Chief. Around the statue a few yards away are the graves of Ottawanta, his wife, daughter, and seven sons that are marked by trees, which the Indian Chief planted over each grave. After this visit, the students returned to Emmitsburg.

Babson Discusses Korea

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK — During the past few days I have again been in New York City where I contacted some very important people. Perhaps you would like a brief summary of what these real thinkers believe regarding the Korean situation and the world in general.

Outlook for China

Even some leading Republicans feel that we have pursued a wise Chinese policy in accepting the theory that Communism would inevitably run throughout China. When I visited China, I found terrible poverty and suffering amongst these hundreds of millions of people. I am not surprised that they blindly grasp at the promises of the Communists. The State Department, therefore, may have been prudent in not backing Chiang Kai-shek; it may be unjust for us to persecute Lattimore or any other honest man for taking a similar position.

Certainly, at all costs, we should hold Formosa but avoid war with China. These people have always been friendly to us. By a "hands off" attitude, we can again have their friendship after the present storm is over. People, in close touch with the Far East, believe that Communism is less likely to spread throughout Indo-China, Burma and India if we stick to the State Department's much criticized position.

What About Europe?

My knowledge of Europe indicates that our policy there should be "to hope for the best but prepare for the worst." The people in Western Europe are unhappy and this includes the English people. They have been through two wars and feel that if World War III comes, their homes and farms will be the center of the conflict and they would suffer tremendously whoever wins. Certainly, their only hope is for the formation of a United Western Europe and Great Britain with a combined army, navy and air force as urged by Winston Churchill. Governments will attempt this, but what the reaction of the masses will be at that time is uncertain. The Communists are making great promises while the Conservatives have little to promise excepting the status quo.

It is hoped by the common people of Western Europe and Great Britain that Russia will not risk a World War III, but if Russia does, that they can remain neutral. However, it is up to us now to help arm these people and aid them in every way. Otherwise, if we should get into war with Russia, our boys might be left to fight Russia pretty much alone. I have no fear of Russia licking us; but it is possible we cannot lick Russia. My present guess is there will be no World War III now, but that the Cold War will surely become hotter and more expensive. Let's Look at History

All readers should secure from their local library Wells' Outline of History or some popular History of England and read same. Starting several hundred years ago, when our ancestors were all serfs and had no property or other rights up to the present time, there has been a continuous series of revolutions. These have come about once every 50 years and have been accompanied by bloodshed, sabotage and most inhuman actions by the masses against large property owners. The same frightful practices, now used by the Russians and their allies, were common during the days of the English Commonwealth, the French Revolution and the Thirty Years European War. This does not justify present Russian practices, but it indicates that through such crimes, dishonesty and atrocities have the masses secured for us the freedom we today enjoy.

The fate of wealthy people in Poland, Bulgaria, Hungary and other Russian satellites is only a repetition of what has happened many times before. Those who owned only their own homes and land which they themselves cultivated, were not disturbed, but the rich who collected rents for houses or land or interest on money suffered great losses. Those who had most of their assets well diversified among many things including small amounts of coins, jewelry, good furniture, useful tools, etc., got by. Those who had some trade or profession were protected. This included stone masons, carpenters, mechanics, shoemakers and even musicians, artists and poets. All these revolutions were, however, followed by periods of destructive inflation which today would seem to make a well-diversified list of good common stocks and especially convertible bonds the best hedge. Of course, a home in the country, in good repair having all modern conveniences and enough fertile land for self support, with well-educated grandchildren, is our best protection.

POULTRY POINTERS

Lighting of Pullets

While this Pointer deals with the lighting of pullets, the next one will consider lighting of yearling hens and chicks.

Many laying flocks average less than 140 eggs per bird per year, but it is not rare to have pullet flocks averaging 210. Superior strains of chickens are able to manufacture each egg in 24 hours but most chickens need 26 hours to do this job. Therefore it happens that a pullet lays her egg every day about two hours later than the preceding one. Since birds do not lay at night they must skip the day at which it will be dark when their 26 hours of "egg manufacturing" time is up. This cuts egg production down when the days grow shorter. Light stimulates the pituitary gland of chickens through the reaction of the bird's eye, and this stimulates egg laying. The yearly number of eggs is not increased by light stimulation, but one can change the time of laying in order to get more eggs in the fall when average production is low and the prices are high.

It makes no difference whether you use lights in the morning or in the evening. I prefer lights in the morning, not the least of my reasons is that it does not need a dimming system, which is necessary when night lights are applied. When evening lights are turned off, and it is suddenly dark, you scare your birds, and they cannot find a space to roost without crowding each other. However, time changing devices can be bought for economical prices, they are dependable and you do not have to get up earlier.

One and a half watts for each five square feet of floor space ought to have the most effective results, no matter how many birds are housed. Your pullets do not need more than 14 hours of light including the natural daylight. Distribute the light evenly over the pens. It takes four weeks to observe results, therefore, one should start with lights for pullets as soon as the days grow shorter than 13 hours.

There are any number of teachers who know the difference between learning and teaching but who cannot teach.

Saint Joseph's High School News

On Saturday, Sept. 30, the Most Honored Mother of the Sisters of Charity visited St. Joseph's High School.

Plans are being formulated for a program to be held some time next week since that is the week of Maryland Land. The World Geography Class are the participants in the program. Richard Sprinkle is the announcer and the following students are the "Quiz Kids of SJHC": Margaret Wivell, Jean Joy, Marie Topper, Kenneth Van Brakle, Allen Stoner and Robert Chen.

The senior class began the third degree on the freshman Monday morning. Initiation has commenced at SJHC. Besides having to drag their books to each class, the girls have to wear their hair in plaits, plaids or bunches, various assortments of stockings. The boys on the other hand, wear their pants legs rolled up, their coats on backwards, and dragging their books. When a senior yells "Air Raid," that is the signal for all the freshmen within hearing distance to get on their knees and place their hands over their heads. Whenever asked, they must recite a speech and tell what each word means. Thursday shall be judgment day for the freshmen.

Since this is the month of the Most Holy Rosary, the faculty and the students assemble in the corridor on the main floor of the school for prayers and the singing of an appropriate hymn. The classes then return to the homeroom for recitation of the Rosary which is led either by the teacher or a student.

The freshman class held its first meeting of the school year on Tuesday. At this meeting election of officers was held with the following results: President, Angela Rocks; vice president, George Arnold; secretary, Edward O'Brien, and treasurer, Dolores Topper.

Well Made Plans Of Many Men Go Wrong—Without Murder

By BILLY ROSE

If you've nothing better to do for the next three minutes, let's play a game called "Answer Yes or No."

Question: If a doctor were accused of allowing a mean old man to die who only had a week to live anyhow, and you were on the jury, would you find him guilty of murder?

A dopey question, you say, because it leaves you no choice? Well, let me brief you on the events leading up to the crime and then put the question to you again.

The mean old man—let's call him Andrew Horton—was a millionaire of the almost extinct rough-em-up Jay Gould school, and among the people he delighted in pushing around was his son, Andrew, Jr. To round out the picture, it must be admitted that the youngster pretty much rated this treatment: He was a weak-chinned and weak-willed society kid who in his teens had developed a cordial dislike for two things—(a) work, and (b) his father who insisted on it.

A few months after the boy's 21st birthday, the old man came down with a heart attack that all but did him in, and the specialist who was called in informed the son that his pop didn't figure to live more than a week or so.

THAT NIGHT, to celebrate his coming of fortune, the young man went out and tied on quite a package, and on the way home drove his car through a plate-glass window on Madison avenue. He was arrested and promptly bailed out, but the story hit all the front pages.

When his father saw the papers the next morning, he almost had another stroke, and it didn't help when the boy faced up to him and blurted out that in a short time he'd be doing as he darn well pleased.

When his son left, the millionaire sent for his lawyer, "I'm going to teach that kid of mine a lesson," he told him. "Fix up a new will where he doesn't get a penny and bring it back this afternoon. The doctor can witness my signature."

"What beneficiary do you want to name?" asked the lawyer.

"Make it out to one of those outfits for medical research," said the old man.

THAT AFTERNOON the will was executed in the presence of the doctor.

"That's a fine gesture," the physician told his patient when the lawyer had gone. "That amount of money will finance a lot of important work."

"Only idiots leave money to institutions instead of their own kin," said the old millionaire. "I didn't bother telling that fool lawyer, but the will you witnessed is only intended to throw a scare into my son. Tomorrow or the next day when he comes to his senses, I'm going to tear it up and reinstate the old will."

Late that night the patient had another attack, and when the doctor examined him he knew it was touch and go—given the proper medication, the old skinflint might be kept alive long enough to reinstate the original will, a slightly different dose, however, and he didn't figure to survive the night.

Well, as I get the story, he died a few hours later and his millions were used to set up one of the important research centers in the East. As for the son, he turned out to be as big a bum without money as with.

Now to get back to my original question: With the facts before you, would you find the doctor guilty or not guilty of murder?

CONCOCTIONS SUGGESTS

HOW often we stand at the meat counter these days doing mental gymnastics with pounds and pennies! This week, Nancy Holmes of the Best Foods test kitchen suggests that budgeteers cast an eye toward the fish department. Good buy there in those trim cod steaks, with four bountiful servings for a dollar or less. And good eating, too, when prepared with this pungent Spanish sauce.

Spanish Cod
4 cod steaks 1 cup chopped celery
1/2 large green pepper, chopped 1 teaspoon salt
1 large onion, chopped 1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup vitaminized margarine 1/2 teaspoon each basil, thyme and cayenne
2 1/2 cups canned tomatoes

Brown cod steaks in a little melted margarine. Lightly brown green pepper and onion in 1/4 cup melted margarine. Combine tomatoes, celery and seasonings. Add green pepper and onion. Mix well. Pour sauce over cod in a casserole and bake in a hot oven (400°F.) 15 minutes. Serves 4.

"SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

Despite reports circulated by hopeful bureaucrats, the nation's small independent businessmen are almost equally divided on government control of prices and wages, rationing.

A nationwide poll just completed by the National Federation of Independent Business on this issue, and others, reveals 44% for; 50% against; 6% undecided.

These thousands and thousands of ballots, sent as usual directly to Congressmen, are causing many a solon who voted these powers to the President embarrassment.

The rapid, severe price jumps have hurt small businessmen even more than consumers.

But apparently there is a reluctance to jump from the frying pan into the fire.

It is felt if government had shown competence in dealing with defense, taxation, other grave matters, there would be more confidence in government intervention in the domestic economy.

Now, there seems to be one big question.

"What has the greater destructive power—the present inflationary trend which may be stopped by American common sense—or bureaucratic meddling which once started may never make sense, or never be stopped?" This attitude of small businessmen might be the most significant vote of no confidence yet registered.

On the same ballot independent businessmen voted almost unanimously for a law that will require co-operatives to pay a fair share of taxes.

National Bohemian Beer Show Now Television's Largest

Double the time, double the news, double the give-aways (now four a day), double the fun! That's the big story on the National Sports Parade, biggest TV show on the air.

Now, National Bohemian Beer brings TV fans two solid hours of top entertainment from four to six every week-day afternoon over WMAR-TV, Channel 2, in Baltimore, and WMAL-TV, Channel 7, in Washington.

This expansion of the Sports Parade is one of the finest steps of the National Brewing Co. has taken in cementing its good will with the public. For while it represents a heavy investment for the company, the public is quick

Miss Margaret Riffe, RN, University Hospital, Baltimore, spent the week-end with her mother and sister, Mrs. C. C. Riffe and Mrs. James Saylor of Motters Station. Miss Riffe was accompanied by Margaret and Thomas Webster, children of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Webster, Baltimore.

The vote was 98% for; 1% against; 1% undecided. Businessmen have the support of the Treasury Department, anxious to plug loopholes which have been permitting a billion dollars of tax income to escape yearly.

This issue will take the spotlight in Congress soon. And as usual, the lobbyists opposing any action will shed copious tears over the "unwarranted attack on the farmer."

Actually, bona-fide farm co-operatives would be affected but little. Farmers themselves will be shocked at the coming disclosures which will show that abuse of the present regulations has been the highroad by which many big companies have escaped taxes.

Congressman Huber of Ohio created some discomfort the other day for Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board. Symington has just appointed a 12 member mobilization committee that will function when, and if, price controls, rationing is started.

The Congressman pointed out that labor, agriculture, industry and the public are represented on the board. But the distributive industry, employing 12.5 million, second only to manufacturing, is not represented. And the distributive industry will have to post prices, collect ration coupons, do most of the work.

But this obvious deficiency was apparently ignored.

As one newspaperman remarked, "The trouble with Congressman Huber's comment is that it makes common sense, and in Washington, the keynote is 'billion for theories, but not one cent for practical experience'."

Playoff In Finals

The Hanover Shoe team in the Penn-Maryland League narrowly escaped winning its first game in the final best-of three series here Sunday afternoon.

The Emmitsburg team came up with two runs in the last half of the ninth to top Middleburg, 6-5.

Jason Sanders' second extra base blow of the game, a triple, scored the winning run after Emmitsburg had knotted the count at 5 all.

Ace Righthander Allen Davis is slated to hurl against Middleburg Sunday, when the two teams clash in their second game at 1:30 p. m.

It's a good idea to start up the silo cutter and let it run a little while before you enter the silo after the noon hour, says Norval Wardle, extension farm safety specialist at Iowa State College. It will blow out the carbon dioxide that may have formed.
