

Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

While most of us sit complacently by, twiddling our thumbs in anticipation of the coming Spring, other forces are at work planning events for the welfare of the town. It has been found by experience that long-range planning pays off better dividends than a makeshift program, hence all the early meetings and plotting.

From all indications it is going to be a busy summer for most of us. For some, it will be a form of grand entertainment, and for others, the usual headache of committee details and actual labor. I salute those of you who have banded together in the interest of the community. Two Block Parties are scheduled this summer and the public is asked not to have conflicting events on these set dates. The local VFW has set side two dates for these parties and both portend to bring outsiders and money into the town. One is sponsored solely to maintain the fine ambulance service donated to the community and the other will be dumped into the treasury of the building fund of the Memorial Hall Assn.

Another function for the same beneficiary will be promoted by the industrious members of the Chamber of Commerce. No sooner had the minstrel benefit terminated and a final report was made than the Chamber started planning for its annual banquet on May 13, to be followed by the annual carnival which is scheduled for July 10-11-12, a three-day event. This latter promotion requires the efforts of many individuals of the community who are not members of the organization, but who give willingly and unselfishly of their valuable time, and sometimes their own money. Committees already are laying the groundwork for the occasion and rides, concessions and the like are being contracted for right now, so that when the big days roll around success will be assured. Many who did committee work last year, swore they would never again become involved in another affair, but they can't help weaken when asked to serve again. They realize that their efforts have not been in vain, with practically every organization in Emmitsburg becoming active on behalf of the cause. The cause? Why, of course, the Memorial Hall. The treasury is fattening more rapidly than most of us ever dared hoped, but the end isn't yet in sight, not by a long shot, but then, they say Rome wasn't built in a day, and also that all good things come to those who wait. Many of last year's committeemen are back at the old stand again, delving into their duties with an even greater vigor than last year and feel real proud of the part they are playing in helping to swell the fund.

One of the biggest attempts ever conceived to publicize Emmitsburg, will be made very shortly by the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce. Emmitsburg will be signally honored in a special television show from Baltimore. Important historic, industrial and civic literature is being compiled by a specially-created commission of the Chamber to have the information available to the station for presentation on June 12. Emmitsburgians will be surprised to view many time-honored landmarks of the community on the magic screen, and to hear a good deal of history of the town recited by trained telecasters. Many of our living local notables will appear on the program. The event will not be one of those "spot" affairs. Months of writing and sundry other details are being compiled at the present time and the "show" will be one of genuine character. The Chamber has designated its efficient secretary, John M. Roddy, Jr., as chairman of the commission and he is asking the cooperation of everyone to make the affair a tremendous success. He is intensely interested in historic pictures, histories and pertinent facts concerning Emmitsburg, also any statistics of the economic and industrial life of the community. Anyone who has anything that he believes might be of interest in the betterment of the program, is asked to contact Mr. Roddy. Emmitsburg's (Continued on Page Seven)

Asphyxiation Victim Services Held

Deadly gas fumes from a faulty hot air furnace snuffed out the life of Miss Grace Louise Keckler, 29, of Emmitsburg sometime last Wednesday night, Mar. 12, and made seriously ill Hoyo Boone Martin, 30, or Rt. 1, Fairfield, Pa., who is recovering at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg.

The lifeless body of Miss Keckler was found in an upstairs bedroom of her home, on Frailey Rd., about six o'clock Thursday evening by her brother-in-law, Jason Eugene Sanders, of near Emmitsburg. Dr. W. R. Cadle, Emmitsburg, deputy county medical examiner, estimated the victim had been dead about 24 hours.

Martin, a friend of Miss Keckler's for some years, was found sprawled unconscious on the floor of a downstairs room, where he had apparently fallen from a chair.

Martin was rushed to Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, where he was immediately placed in oxygen. Hospital attaches said that while his condition is serious, he is expected to recover.

State Trooper Kenneth Bond, who conducted the investigation, said Miss Keckler had been nervous and ill recently through taking pills to reduce her weight. Martin, as was his custom, stopped at the house Wednesday evening to bank the coal furnace for the night.

The trooper theorized that the coal, made damp by the moist atmosphere of recent days, generated gas fumes that seeped from the leaky pipe leading from the furnace to the air ducts. A bucket-a-day stove next to the furnace was also found filled with coal with the lid open.

Martin apparently sat in a chair to read a newspaper before returning to his home, Trooper Bond said. He fell from the chair onto the floor, which probably saved his life since he was able to breathe sufficient oxygen to keep alive.

The trooper said the house in which Miss Keckler resided alone, was filled with coal gas fumes when the couple was found.

Sanders investigated Thursday evening when he observed Martin's car parked in the same spot that it was early Thursday morning when he passed the Keckler home en route to work. He immediately notified authorities. A verdict of accidental death was given.

Miss Keckler, a native of Adams County, Pa., had resided in Emmitsburg about six years. She was a timekeeper at the Emmitsburg Manufacturing Co. and had worked Wednesday. Martin is employed at the Fairchild Aircraft Division in Hagerstown.

The deceased was a daughter of Robert and the late Etta P. Mort Keckler, and was a member of Incarnation Evangelical and Reformed Church, Emmitsburg, and the Women's Guild.

Surviving besides her father, who resides in Plainsboro, N. J., are a brother, Richard S. Keckler, Rt. 1, Emmitsburg, and a sister, Mrs. Jason E. Sanders, Rt. 1, Emmitsburg.

Funeral services were held last Sunday afternoon at two o'clock from Incarnation Evangelical and Reformed Church with the Rev. Edmund Welker officiating. Interment was in Mountainview Cemetery.

The pallbearers were Joseph Stahley, John Ohler, Richard Rosensteel, William Simpson, Harry Troxell, and Glenn Springer.

Local GOP To Meet

Col. Thomas J. Frailey, chairman of the Republican Central Committee of Emmitsburg, has announced that there will be a meeting of the local Republican Central Committee on Saturday evening, Mar. 22, at the home of Miss Rhoda Gillean at 8 o'clock. All members of the committee are urged to be present as matters of importance will be presented for discussion.

CHANGE OF RATES ON POSTCARDS ANNOUNCED

On and after March 22, post-offices will discontinue the collection of the 10% additional charge and sell all postal cards at face value, regardless of quantity.

Little Rhode Island has about 185 miles of railroads within its boundaries.

Improvements To Route 15 Will Start

Proposed improvements to U. S. Route 15, principally between Emmitsburg and Thurmont, will be carried out this year, contrary to "sidetracking" rumors, it was revealed this week.

Ernest P. Hammaker, well-known Thurmont businessman and a member of the Thurmont Lions Club, working in conjunction with the Emmitsburg Lions Club, the local Grange and the Route 15 Improvement Assn., which has been plugging for large-scale improvements to the main road north, said he had been assured by Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, that the project would be carried out this year.

Mr. Hammaker said Mr. McCain told him that at a recent meeting of the commission, it was definitely determined to go ahead with the project this summer. The roads commission chairman intimated that drafting of actual plans for the work would be ready for the asking of bids by early summer.

There had been reports circulating in Emmitsburg that the project had been "sidetracked" for 1952 and the Route 15 Association heads were preparing to get busy with new demands for action when the assurance was received that the work would be done.

A definite relocation at the twin bridges at Franklinville, north of Thurmont, is contemplated, it is understood, along with modification of a severe curve at the old Franklinville school. Some other curves between the two towns will also probably be modified or eliminated, it is understood.

It is reported that the work, to be included in a one-package project, may also embrace improvements to a curve at Lewistown Hill on the outskirts of Lewistown as well as Moser's Curve, just south of Thurmont.

Rumors had circulated in Emmitsburg recently that an extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike might be connected with a major road to Baltimore, diverting work from Route 15. However, it appears that any southward extension of the Turnpike is at least a year or two away and the Maryland commission has not reported any commitments toward large-scale improvements of any new possible connecting highway to Baltimore from the Pennsylvania line on the Waynesboro Road.

Fox Rabies Penetrate State

According to the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission the serious outbreak of rabies in foxes in eastern Pennsylvania and Virginia is causing considerable concern in Maryland. Marauding foxes with rabies can cause considerable damage by infecting humans, dogs, rabbits and other animals; and officials of the game commission and also the State Health Dept. desire to control its spread into Maryland so far as possible. Under regulation, it is unlawful to import any animals into Maryland excepting under permit, and persons are urged to observe the law and not attempt to bring into Maryland any foxes, rabbits, squirrels, raccoons or other animals legally or otherwise, at this time.

The worst afflicted area seems at present to be eastern Pennsylvania where several persons have been bitten and numerous others attacked. Also many pigs, sheep, and dogs have been bitten and if they have contracted rabies, may spread the disease. All persons should be on the lookout for rabid foxes, and any cases found should be taken to a veterinarian for proper diagnosis and the case reported either to the State Health Dept. or the Game and Inland Fish Commission.

There is a bright side to the picture, however, as for some time there have been too many foxes in some sections, to the detriment of game particularly rabbits and also poultry. The disease undoubtedly will result in considerable thinning out of the fox population where it is rampant, and result in a benefit to the game, on which the foxes prey. It is nature's way of establishing balances.

New Oxford Nabs Taneytown's Pen-Mar Berth

New Oxford was added as the eighth team to complete the roster of the Pen-Mar Baseball League at a meeting held Tuesday evening at the VFW Home in Littlestown. The Adams County team replaces Taneytown who withdrew.

The league will be composed of the following teams during the coming season: Cashtown, Fairfield, Littlestown, McSherrystown, New Oxford, Emmitsburg, Thurmont, and Westminster.

It was decided a 21-game schedule will again be played and Sunday, May 4, was set as the opening date. Games will be played each Sunday in addition to May 30, July 4 and Labor Day when the regular season will end.

The four top teams in the regular league campaign will again participate in a Shaughnessy playoff.

Other routine business transacted included the completion of new bylaws.

President D. L. Beegle of Emmitsburg, presided at the meeting with all teams represented.

Manager Jack Rosensteel of the local Pen-Mar Baseball League team, has issued the initial call for baseball practice Sunday at 1 p. m. on the Community Field, weather permitting. All those interested in making the squad are asked to be present Sunday.

Business Manager Norman Flax announced the addition of Dr. Beegle to the Booster Club membership. To date 15 players have been signed up, Manager Rosensteel states.

Action Planned To Stop Dumping Trash On Roads

Paper and bottles being dumped on county roads have become an unsightly and costly annoyance the members of the County Roads Board learned at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night.

Three trucks with three men to a truck have been working for about a week to clean up roads so that mowers and other machinery can operate without being damaged. As an example of the amount of trash being collected, Roger H. Willard, roads engineer, told the board that on the Pleasant View Road three truck loads of trash were hauled away. On the Lander-Jefferson road 12 loads were taken away. Over half of this trash, according to workmen, is the throw-away type of beer bottle. Cans will rust and eventually decompose, said Mr. Willard, but the bottles are a continual menace to cattle and equipment.

The officials pointed out that if it were not necessary to have to clean this trash up, their working crews could annually lay several more miles of county highway, to the convenience of all. Cooperation of the public is asked in this matter.

The Board went on record as recommending that a law, outlawing throw-away bottles introduced in the last session of the Legislature, by the Montgomery County delegation, be passed at the next session. The bill was not voted on at the last session due to the rush of other business, it is understood.

One way to curb the growing amount of trash on the roads is for people to take advantage of present dumps for non-burnable trash or to establish new ones, said the Board. The County Commissioners are at present paying money for the privilege of county people to use the Frederick City dump near the Fairgrounds. The Roads Board and the Commissioners recommend that farm groups, such as the Grange, establish or promote the use of old quarries or ravines. The county equipment would be available to keep the material pushed back and to cover it.

The matter of hauling would necessarily be a community project, said the Board. The county authorities could not be responsible for locating such dumping grounds, it also was stated. They are willing to cooperate in the ways suggested if the communities establish the badly needed dumps, they said.

Robert Rosenwald, USN, is spending a furlough with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Rosenwald. He has been attending aviation and mechanics school in Memphis, Tenn. At the termination of his furlough he will report to the naval air base at Chincoteague.

OBITUARIES Registrations For Election Close April 4

MRS. FLOYD L. WOODS

Mrs. Nora Jean Woods, wife of Floyd L. Woods, near Emmitsburg, died Sunday morning at 7:40 o'clock at her home after a five-months illness, aged 58 years. She was a native of Morristown, Tenn., and a daughter of the late Samuel and Mary Jane Talley Owen. She was a member of the Tom's Creek Methodist Church. ## C. of C. Sponsors Television Show In June Nomination of officers for 1952-53 for the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce took place at the regular meeting of that group Tuesday night in the Fire Hall. Candidates nominated for the presidency include the incumbent, Samuel C. Hays and Bernard H. Boyle; first vice president, Ralph Irelan; second vice president, Morris A. Zentz; treasurer, Guy A. Baker Jr., and secretary, John M. Roddy Jr., who presently holds that position. Nominations remain open until the April meeting, when the election will take place.

Treasurer Louis H. Stoner reported that $250.73 had been netted from the recent minstrel and that the check for that amount will be formally presented to the Memorial Hall Assn. at the organization's annual banquet in May.

President Hays, presiding at the meeting, appointed a committee to make necessary plans for the annual Founder's Day banquet to be held on May 13. Mrs. Helen E. Daugherty was appointed chairman of this committee, assisted by C. A. Elder, Col. Thomas J. Frailey has been engaged as toastmaster for the occasion.

The Chamber voted a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. Daugherty for her part in promoting the minstrel and also expressed its sincere appreciation to all those who helped on committee details.

A communication from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce inviting the local unit to send a delegation to the national convention in Washington was read.

The local Chamber, in cooperation with TV Station WAAM in Baltimore will immediately set to work on a television show publicizing Emmitsburg to be staged about June 12. The promotion, a full-fledged television show, will depict the early history of the town, as well as its present-day status. Secretary John M. Roddy Jr., was named as chairman of the TV show committee, assisted by C. A. Elder, Col. T. J. Frailey and Mrs. Helen Daugherty. Emmitsburg's industrial potentialities will be stressed on the program and residents are expected to be thrilled to view photographs of familiar landmarks and faces of its leading citizens on the TV screen. Chairman Roddy asks the cooperation of all the citizenry in helping his committee to compile the necessary data. Anyone with interesting information or pictures concerning Emmitsburg and feeling it would be of value in promotion of the show is asked to contact any of the committee members.

In keeping with its announcement last year of making the carnival an annual affair, President Hays has set about appointing the various committees necessary for the staging of the affair. It was decided to hold the carnival three days this year and the Chamber has selected the dates of July 10, 11, and 12. Committees already are in action securing, rides amusements, concessions, entertainment, etc.

It was disclosed at Tuesday's meeting that an out-of-town contractor is interested in constructing a suitable building for the Sears, Roebuck Co., of Chicago, which is seeking a location here. One offer of free land was announced at the session. The company is planning a garment factory which would employ hundreds, if finally induced to come here.

THE DEFEAT OF UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING

By a number of adroit parliamentary moves, Universal Military Training has been beaten in the House. Thus, for still longer, America must rely on the haphazard defense methods that in the past have cost so much in lives and treasure.

What, after all, is the chief purpose of UMT but to provide the nation long-term security insurance at the cheapest rate? It is meant, in General Marshall's words, to give us "a durable layer of military protection that would survive the alternate moods of public alarm or complacency."

The cyclic swing from alarm to complacency has up to now regulated the state of American preparedness. When crisis comes, we hurriedly set up draft and training machinery and get to building a standing force as fast as we can. When the crisis passes, we sink into the wonted apathy and scuttle what we have built.

This system of defense according to public mood is highly expensive. In time of crisis, no thought is taken of cost, since the object is to strengthen the armed forces at all possible speed. And, in time of apathy, there's little regard for prudence, since the political object is to strip down those armed forces at all possible speed.

Nor is the cost of this on-again off-again system to be reckoned in money alone. Thousands of American boys have been slain on battlefields throughout the world because, under the urgent demands of the hour, they have had to go forth without adequate training. And let us not forget that American unreadiness has been and in the future will be even more so a signal to aggressors to try some "cheap" adventure.

The UMT plan that the House killed was by no means perfect. But its general provisions—for training 18-year-olds for six months and then making them available in reserve units for a period of years—were in line with what is needed as a continuing protection for America over at least the next decade. The need may not be so apparent now, what with the draft in operation and a large standing force already under arms. Yet, the sooner UMT is adopted, the sooner, assuming the cold war grows no hotter than now, we can safely end the draft and scale down the size of the standing force.

Admittedly, it is asking a lot of lawmakers, in this election year, to forget politics and emotion on this issue and vote according to what reason dictates for the long-term good of the nation. But if they could so forget, approval of UMT legislation at this session, despite an initial reverse in the House, would be assured.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

"IT'S A FREE COUNTRY!"

—A TRUE PHRASE, BUT ONE USED TOO OFTEN IN DEFENSE OF AN UNFAIR OR UNSOCIAL ACT OR SPEECH.

THIS IS A FREE COUNTRY—BUT THAT FREEDOM CARRIES WITH IT THE RESPONSIBILITY OF RESPECT FOR THE RIGHTS OF OTHERS, AND OF OBSERVING THE LAWS MADE BY THE ELECTED REPRESENTATIVES OF A FREE PEOPLE. FOR THE CITIZENS OF OUR DEMOCRACY, THE VITAL TASK IS TO MAINTAIN THE PRINCIPLE THAT PERSONAL LIBERTY MEANS PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY—SO WE CAN KEEP OURS A FREE COUNTRY.

College Will Hold Astronomy Classes

An astronomy class for adults owning small telescopes will begin Saturday, Mar. 29, at the Williams Observatory, Hood College. The five two-hour sessions are being offered in response to requests from the public for this type of study.

Miss Leah B. Allen, professor of astronomy at Hood, will teach the course, using informal lectures, lantern slides and observations with the eight-inch refractor and the naked eye. The class will be limited to the first 10 persons to apply. Registration and payment of the $5 fee is set for eight p. m. Mar. 29 with the first class following. Other class dates are Friday, April 4; Monday, April 7, and Saturday, April 19. The final class will be held in June so that the summer sky may be viewed.

The one-hour lectures will be given at 8:30 p. m. on the scheduled dates, regardless of weather. In case of cloudy skies, the observation during the second hour of the class will be postponed until the following night at 9:30.

SJHS News

President Michael Boyle presided at the CSMC meeting held on Tuesday, March 18, at which plans for the re-awakening of the oratorical contests were discussed. The winner of the school's preliminary contests will represent St. Joseph's in the Blue Ridge Conference Contest on April 6 at St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg.

Friday, March 14 the Fourth and Third Year students attended Annual Career Day at Gettysburg College. The group was entertained by the college choir followed by an address by Dr. Hanson, president of the college. Then the students dispersed to various parts of the campus to attend lectures of their choice. For the third it was a new experience—provoking a more serious outlook on the future; while for the fourth year it was an invaluable aid in the choice of a life's work.

Approximately 100 students received X-rays on Monday afternoon, Mar. 17, through the courtesy of the mobile unit of the Maryland State Health Dept. Movies! Movies!

"For Years to Come" and "Know Your Land," two movies on the Conservation Program were shown the history classes on March 18.

The agriculture class on March 14, viewed a movie entitled "Mechanical Farming" showing the improvements over hand-farming.

Students of the biology classes saw the movie, "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" which depicted the discovery of tin cans for the preservation of food by Mr. Heinz who began his life's work at 16, after studying Appert and Pasteur.

SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise party was tendered Mr. Charles Ohler on the occasion of his 56th birthday, recently at the home of his sister-in-law and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Ohler. Among those present were the Misses Ruth Weaver and Estelle Wine of Littlestown; Mr. Bruce Miller and Mr. Allen Storm also of Littlestown and Samuel Brewer, William Ohler, J. Emory Ohler, Guy W. Ohler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Ohler, all of Emmitsburg. Refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Paul Bunyan was a legendary hero of tales of the lumber camps throughout the West.

Mrs. Boyle. He received the name of Bernard Bruce. The sponsors were George Grice of Baltimore, and Mrs. Harry Boyle of Emmitsburg, uncle and grandmother of the baby. This is the couple's fifth child.

Lutheran Church Activities

Choir rehearsals at Elias Ev. Lutheran Church have been changed this week from Tuesday to Thursday night. The Children's and Junior Choirs will meet on Thursday evening at 6:45 o'clock and the Chapel Choir will meet at 7:30. These choirs are preparing, under the direction of Mrs. Reginald Zepp, for a special service of music which will be held in the church on Palm Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. All three choirs will participate in this festival of music. The Junior Choir also will sing at the vespers service Sunday evening, March 30, at 7 p. m.

The pastor announces the pre-Easter, Holy Week and master every Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock with sermon by the pastor and special music by the Chapel Choir. Lenten vespers are being held every Sunday night at 7 o'clock with prominent laymen as guest speakers. The speaker for Sunday night will be Mr. Merwyn Fuss of Taneytown. Attorney Eugene Hartman of Gettysburg will speak Sunday, March 30. A festival of music will be held on Palm Sunday, April 6. An Easter program will be given by the Sunday School on Easter Sunday evening, April 13.

Lenten devotions are being conducted every Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock with a meditation by the pastor. The history of the Passion of Our Lord as recorded by the Four Evangelists is being used at these lenten devotions and the Litany prayers are being read by the pastor and people. A special feature of lenten devotions on Wednesday night, March 26, will be a hymn sing by the choir and congregation. Holy Week services will include devotions and a film sponsored by the LOYAL Group Tuesday night, April 8, at 7:30 o'clock.

At the court of Henry VIII, of England, duchesses were allowed three gallons of ale and a pitcher of wine every day.

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College

The Family That Survived
There once lived a family named Smith. There were a father and mother and nine children. They had a good farm and two of the three older Smith boys had finished high school and were helping their father farm. A third son, just out of high school, worked in a radio repair shop in the nearest town, three miles away. He had a $200 jalopy that he proudly drove back and forth to work. One daughter had finished high school and the family was helping to pay her way through college; she worked in the college kitchen to help with the expenses. The other five children were in grammar school.

A year came when the cotton fields on the rich Smith acres wilted under some strange type of blight. The crop was a dismal failure. A soil expert was called in. After a long series of tests it was discovered that a rare kind of bacteria had invaded the soil. Smith called in chemists. In their laboratories they experimented with chemicals that might eradicate the bacteria and leave the soil unharmed. Finally they found one. But the chemical would have to be applied over a two-year period. The farmland would be unproductive that long and the cost of the disease-killing program would be $5,000. It was a disastrous blow.

In Debt

The Smiths had $1,200 in the bank but also an unpaid $1,000 crop loan note. John Smith called his wife and older children together and they discussed the situation. The farm might stand as collateral for a $10,000 loan, but if, after getting back into production, a crop should fail or other adversity should strike, bankruptcy and loss of the farm would stare them in the face. At the end of the family conference, the Smiths had a plan, and all were for it.

The daughter Mary withdrew from college and took a stenographic job in a law office; and by scrimping she could send money home each month. The son who already worked in town sold his jalopy and began walking the three miles or hitching rides. One son remained on the farm full time to assist his dad with application of the chemical bacteria killer and the other chores. The other son took a job in a nearby industry. The five young Smith children continued their schooling, but the family went on a frugal budget and spent money only for dire necessities.

Strengthening Experience

At the end of two years the farm land came back into production, the daughter went back to college, and not one of the family seemed the least bit injured by the experience. In fact, John Smith knew that all had gained strength because of it. He and his wife remarked that the family ties had never been so well cemented. The Smith family had tightened its belt for two years and its muscles and heart had been immeasurably strengthened.

This story has an application. A disaster like the one that overtook the Smith family has now overtaken the American family of which we're all members. The bacteria that threatens us is Communism. It has built up a powerful military force and has outmaneuvered our government in every development so far. The expenditure of a great amount of money is necessary to make our nation safe and ultimately free again to produce and progress normally. But wisdom, too, is needed; it is indispensable. Need for Common Sense

We're in debt far beyond a safe margin as a result of huge expenditures for World War II and because of non-essential spending and years of gross waste and graft in government. The same common sense budget rules which govern the family unit should, of course, apply to the government. If the waste were stopped, and every government department were forced to tighten its belt as John Smith's family did, $15 or $25 billion could be trimmed off the Federal tax bill annually and we could safely ride out the danger of fiscal bankruptcy.

The big spenders, however, are insisting that big spending go on as usual in most departments of the Federal government. They are demanding passage of an $85.4 billion budget for the fiscal year beginning in June. The plan is to assess $71 billion in taxes on the people and issue IOUs for $14.4. This would push the national debt close to $280 billion—and would demonstrate a refusal on the part of our government to follow a common sense solution to our gravest problems. Just as the family of John Smith had to readjust its entire living scale to ride safely through troubled times, so too must our Federal government. As members of the American family the future of each of us depends upon our insistence that the wasters and grafters and big spenders be restrained and that economy of the very strictest kind be applied throughout our government.

Knowledge is Power

1. HOW CAN WE IMPROVE MORALITY IN GOVERNMENT?

2. SHOULD SCHOOLS TEACH PUPILS ABOUT DRUG DANGERS?

3. WHO MURDERED LEON TROTSKY?

(1.) There are three steps, according to Eugene J. McCarthy, Minnesota Congressman, who analyzes the question in "Commonweal." (1) Raise the general level of morality in the U. S. "This is basically an individual problem, but it is also the responsibility of government, and all constructive social institutions," he points out.

(2) Raise ethical standards in business and in the professions since they have a bearing on political activity. (3) Take immediate action to develop in the U. S. a code of ethics for men in public office.

(2.) "I cannot overemphasize the folly of letting children know too much about the use of narcotics," says Harry J. Anslinger, U. S. commissioner of narcotics. New York public school teachers describe the nature and effects of narcotics to children of the seventh grade through senior high school. Anslinger's stand is outlined in an article by James C. G. Conniff in the February "Catholic Digest." Anslinger adds, "People who have made a lifelong study of the matter are opposed to giving even adults too much information on this treacherous subject. Think how much worse it is to be making the effects of dope a topic of daily conversation among the young."

(3.) The man who murdered Trotsky has been in a Mexican prison almost nine years now, but he has never revealed his real name, his origin or even his nationality. Joseph Bornstein in his book, "The Politics of Murder," tells the story of the assassin's elaborate preparations which began in Paris two years before he killed Trotsky with a pickaxe. The mysterious prisoner is now serving a 20-year term for Trotsky's murder. He has an extensive library in his cell, his meals and liquor are brought to the prison from an expensive restaurant, and the bills are paid from funds whose sources have never been revealed.

Writes . . .

By ROGER BABSON

Babson Discusses Highways

BABSON PARK, Fla., March 20—I have had so many letters from readers "pro and con," regarding my column in this paper about highways — (see Jan. 18, 1952) — that I have collected some more facts which for two reasons I should pass on to my readers. First, because I was perhaps unfair to the trucks; and second, because I wish to submit a constructive suggestion to road builders.

The Truth About Highways
My first job after graduating from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a civil engineer was to build state highways. I soon learned that the politicians want to spend money on the black tops which can be seen instead of in the highway foundations which the voters do not see. Then when a road cracks, these politicians blame it on the motor vehicles.

That these politicians are wrong is proven by driving along any state roads with cracks or patches. If it were the motor vehicles which caused the cracking, then every slab or section would be cracked or patched. The fact that only a few are cracked or patched proves that the foundation was skimped at certain points when being built. Let me here add that in 1950 motor vehicles paid about three billion dollars in taxes.

"Hoggin" The Roads

If motor vehicles do not move to the side when you blow your horn, or if they cross two solid lines painted on the center of a road, then you should report them. In this connection, state officials say that ignoring and crossing double solid lines is responsible for most of the bad accidents.

The real "hogging" is done by us privately-owned car drivers who park on streets from which trucks are excluded. Furthermore, this parking by us is so choking the downtown business streets that—if not forbidden—it will severely harm retail trade and depress the value of business property. I am very serious about this and—if space permitted—would like to say a good word for the bus companies.

Need More Legislation

I am opposed to the so-called ton-mile tax unless it applies to all vehicles. In fact, there are only three legitimate purposes for the regulation of highway traffic: (1) Safety of all cars and persons; (2) honest foundations for all roads; and (3) making both trucking and railroad rates so as to be fair to every business and section. When railroads or trucks object to any of these goals, they are "hogging" legislation.

It surely would seem reasonable to give the Interstate Commerce Commission the right to designate the construction of all highways to be used by trucks whose rates it now regulates. This commission already closely watches the roadbed and traffic regulations of the railroads.

The Real Solution

Both the protection of our highways and lower taxes will come from the discovery of some alloy which will partially reduce the pull of gravity. Studies to accomplish this are being encouraged by the Gravity Research Foundation of New Boston, New Hampshire. In other words, the goal of all highway engineers, all vehicle owners, all consumers and all taxpayers should be to reduce weight. Excess weight is the real cause of highway trouble and excessive trucking rates.

I visualize before many years, large trucks will have "air-tight" bodies such as are now used by refrigerator trailers to carry perishable or frozen foods. The body of such future trucks will be made of an alloy which will partially deflect the gravity waves from the contents of the trucks thus reducing the weight of the contents from 30,000 lbs. to perhaps 5,000 lbs. Such gravity resisting alloys have not yet been discovered, but some alloys have been found to partially deflect magnetic, heat and light waves.

Rev. Francis Stauble, former pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, and now stationed at the Mary Immaculate Seminary, at Northampton, Pa., visited in Emmitsburg on Friday.

Staunch Democratic Leader Lends Support to Mahoney Campaign

Mrs. Mary H. Duvall, chairman of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland and vice-chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee for Maryland, has endorsed George P. Mahoney for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

At the same time Mrs. Duvall announced she has accepted the chairmanship of the Women's Division of the Mahoney Campaign Committee.

Mrs. Duvall has been active in Democratic politics for the past 30 years. During her career she has taken part in many campaigns and has been the moving spirit in the organization of scores of Democratic Clubs in the city and state.

In announcing that she would support Mr. Mahoney for the Senate, Mrs. Duvall said:

"George P. Mahoney is a man that the Democratic party can offer with pride as its candidate for the United States Senate. He is a man that all of the people of our state can support with confidence for this high public office.

"I feel that he has those qualities that are needed in Washington today. He is a successful businessman with a tried and proven record. He is a man who hates waste and inefficiency. He is the sworn enemy of crime, corruption and communism, three things that threaten the welfare of our country today.

"Mr. Mahoney is a man of unquestioned integrity and courage. He is a Democrat, but will never be a 'rubber stamp.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kelly and family, of Baltimore, spent the weekend visiting with Mrs. Kelly's mother, Mrs. Charles Stouter and with Mr. Kelly's father, Frank Kelly.

YOU and YOUR

(Sponsored By the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce)

WASHINGTON—A strange atmosphere will surround Congressional debate on price controls when it begins within the next several weeks.

For one thing, members of Congress will recall that during last year's debate on the subject, most of them could not determine how their constituents felt about the matter.

The public was mostly apathetic, judging from the small amount of mail received on Capitol Hill. That made it difficult for those members of Congress who were trying to decide what the people wanted done.

The apathy then was ascribed mainly to the fact that most prices had begun to level off in the spring.

This year there is expected to be even less public interest than last, because many prices have declined since then. Members of Congress are not likely to get as much direction from the public as last year, which was little enough. Yet the subject must be considered even though the public again appears to be only mildly interested.

The Defense Production Act, which authorizes the economic and production controls, is scheduled to expire June 30. At the moment, no serious thought is given to ending production controls then. But there is considerable question about the need for continuing price and wage controls, which must go hand-in-hand under the Act.

Excepting little help from the general public in answering that question, many members are preparing for the debate without enthusiasm.

Members of Congress are especially anxious to do what the majority of voters wish in an election year. What does the public want done about price controls? The question poses a strange dilemma for many in Congress.

Another odd aspect of the situation is that while the Administration calls for a renewed Act, "strengthened in a number of respects," the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) is trying to justify its existence.

Some prices have fallen so far below their official OPS ceilings that the agency has had to lower the ceilings to keep from looking foolish.

The official Consumers' Price Index, cost-of-living yardstick, has been stationary for the last two months. Meanwhile, wholesale prices have turned downward and promise to reflect themselves in even lower retail prices.

Consequently, at least partial removal of price controls now is being advocated by some members of Congress who formerly favored tight controls. Among them is Chairman Maybank (D., S.C.), of the Senate Banking Committee, which is considering renewal of the Act.

Bending before that sentiment, the OPS says it is developing programs under which some prices would be decontrolled if and when the OPS considered such action to be warranted.

This year, as before, Administration supporters will argue that only the "pressure groups," which they do not define, want price controls removed. Listening to that argument, some members of Congress find it difficult to square it with some recent testimony, such as that of a Rhode Island grocer and meat cutter.

The OPS, he said, will not allow him any more margin on "choice" than on "straight line" canned fruits and vegetables—even though, as a small independent grocer, he always received such margin. Moreover, he added, OPS computes his allowable gross on meat sales on the assumption that all meat will sell at the ceiling prices, whereas some cuts have been selling below ceilings. It seems that housewives do not go by OPS reckoning.

As a result, this man said, his gross profit last year was 12.48 per cent while his expenses were 14.11 per cent, leaving him a loss of 1.63 per cent. His dollar volume was only $400 different from that of 1950 when there was no price control.

SMALLPOX

An outbreak of smallpox in the East a few years ago, when the disease was brought into the state by a traveler, shocked and surprised many people who had assumed that the hideous disease had been wiped out forever in this country.

Modern medical techniques have greatly improved the picture of times when the disease was striking heavily at ever continent, killing a fourth of its victims and leaving survivors disfigured by scars.

Today we have dependable protection against smallpox in vaccination which is primarily responsible for the gradual reduction of cases in the United States to 56 in 1949 as compared, for example, with the 102-787 cases reported in 1921.

Vaccination of small children has become routine in many sections of our country. Its continued dependability is proved by studies in recent years which show that a case of smallpox is rare in areas where vaccination is required before school enrollment.

To be on the safe side, doctors recommend that a baby be vaccinated against smallpox during the first few months of his life and immunized against smallpox again later in life whenever the doctor advises. For we have no guarantee that smallpox, perhaps in the fatal, disfiguring form, will not be brought into this country at some future date and spread rapidly among those unprotected by vaccination.

Smallpox is caused by a virus and spread when the sick person coughs or sneezes and spreads germs into the air. A person can also pick up the germs from the patient's sores or scabs or by handling his soiled articles.

Symptoms of smallpox, which show up about 12 days after exposure to the disease, include fever, headache, and aches and pains. Later the characteristic rash appears which in severe cases consists of blister-like lesions filled with pus. The eruptions from crusting which gradually fall off, often leaving permanent pits or scars in the skin.

Babies should be vaccinated against smallpox between the second and sixth month of their lives. For maximum protection, it is wise to revaccinate a least every five years and whenever cases are present in the community. Anyone who has been exposed to smallpox should, of course, be vaccinated immediately.

Since vaccination has been made available to all of us, it has been said there is no disease of mankind as easy to control as smallpox. Taking advantage of this protection is the best way of keeping smallpox under control in this country.

Corpl. Linwood Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Brown, who has been in Korea for the past year, is spending a 30-day furlough at his home. He will be stationed at Camp Meade, Md., after his furlough.

Odds And Ends

By ANNABELLE HARTMAN

Several months ago I mentioned the citizens' service organization that I was becoming better acquainted with since retirement and finding so thrilling for a variety of reasons. I thought it might be interesting and worthwhile to give a "close-up" of this organization at work as I was seeing it—but let me add at once that what I saw was only a small part of CPHA's total schedule of activities; no authority except the Executive Secretary or her notebook could give an adequate idea of all the things that are all the time going on!

But before I could get to this personal experience so entirely different from my sight-seeing trip of last year and yet a kind of traveling, too, along unfamiliar ways, it seemed necessary to give readers outside of Baltimore some general facts about Baltimore's housing problem, which is CPHA's special interest, and show how this volunteer service organization was succeeding in helping the city solve it. I now must trust that something of that story as previously told is recalled by my readers, especially the contrast between slum conditions today in Baltimore and 10 years ago when the Citizens Planning and Housing Association went into action.

Having been placed, to start with, on the Membership Committee of CPHA (the object of which is to educate as well as secure new members, it is one of 15 active committees) I have attended a regular series of meetings of this Committee—one every two weeks. These are luncheon meetings, at an hour when busy people can combine a mid-day "snack" (a sandwich, a cup of coffee, a bit of pastry) with consideration of membership techniques and statistics and listening to an informal talk on some topic in the general field of housing. At these meetings, on the top floor of a small office building on downtown Charles Street, I have traveled mentally in various directions in and outside of Baltimore ("arm-chair traveling" this sort of thing is sometimes called, but there are no arm-chairs in the CPHA office).

One of my earliest such trips was to Towson, where a young instructor in urban geography at State Teachers College led a class in making a survey of the area which will be of practical use in its further development. At another time I visited a reclaimed slum section in Northwest Baltimore where a single member of the Guilford Garden Club carried out for the Club a program of getting the residents of the section interested and giving them the practical help of top soil, seeds and cuttings—with the result of getting more and more backyards turned from unsightly deserts into attractive flower gardens. (This pleasant but not-so-easy project was part of a larger one initiated several years ago by McCall's Magazine under the name "Yardville, U.S.A." (You may have read about it).)

Under the energetic guidance of a member of the Women's Civic League I was given a flying trip to the Governor's office at Annapolis, to the Baltimore offices of various city and state agencies (all in an unsuccessful effort to get some specific action) and especially to a South Baltimore industrial-residential area where there was a bad case of air pollution. On this trip I realized as never before what a difficult and dangerous condition this is for those who have to live where it exists—and how little those who don't are concerned about it. And to mention just one more such guided trip, I was whisked around the city to inspect the different sites proposed by the City Planning Department as possible for a State Office Building should it be decided to locate it in Baltimore, learning on the way the advantages and disadvantages of each as carefully listed by the Department. All who looked at the maps and listened to the report seemed impressed by the thoroughness of the survey. (As readers no doubt know, the recent special session of the General Assembly made no decision about the building, but Baltimore has a book of facts and figures all ready to be used!)

On my first visit I took the guided tour that was part of a course for public school teachers concerned to know more about this admittedly complicated (because the whole point of it is to get all possible agencies and groups concerned to work together on it) "Pilot Program." In the group were 10 colored teachers of an elementary colored school located in the Area and several others from outside the neighborhood. As we walked about through the streets and alleys we saw something of the material side of this great project: (1) rows of houses that had already been lifted to the level of decent living, their acute dilapidation repaired, their harboring-places for vermin and rats cleaned out and sealed against invasion, their yards cleared of accumulated rubbish . . . (2) remnants of the "impossible" kind of dwellings, with their crude inadequate frame additions, sagging and leaking roofs, defective walls, choked outside toilets—all violating in many ways the respective codes governing the "minimum requirements" for health and safety; (3) a large bare section where such "rock-bottom" slum dwellings have already been completely razed (their occupants relocated) and where an adequate new school building is to be put up; (4) and finally, as the climax of our tour, the attractive little Pilot House serving as a kind of coordinating center for all the activities going on here. (Its full name is "The Brotherhood Pilot House" because it was bought and restored, with the help of the Maryland Home Builders Association and other interested groups) by the Church of the Brethren, desiring to undertake among its many projects to serve humanity one to help the people in a sub-standard housing area here in Baltimore (that idea fitted splendidly into the Pilot Program). Here we met the five young people who staff the House, also placed there by the Brethren Volunteer Service. (The story of this branch of "Dunkard" activity cannot be told here, but anyone can get it by writing or visiting their Service Center at New Windsor).

So far in this account of my arm-chair (I should really say folding-chair traveling) I have illustrated only one of CPHA's activities, its work with membership, and even then have not mentioned the various means that that Committee uses to get new members—but that is not my present story. I turn now to my travels with CPHA in the more usual sense of the term, actual trips I took to see some of its connections with official civic agencies responsible for the city's welfare.

It happened that within the couple of months' sight-seeing trips I am reporting on here I had some very interesting glimpses of

Luncheon Scoops

by Wendy Warren

This ideal triangle is composed of a man and his two wives! Well, anyway, that's nearly the way it is—since the girl on the left is lovely Anne Sargent, who portrays "Chris Thayer's" bride on CBS-TV's "The First Hundred Years"—the lad in the middle is Jimmy Lydon, who stars as the lucky "Chris"—and the pretty girl on his right is his fiancée in real life, Betty Lou Nedell. Jimmy and Betty met years ago when Jimmy was playing the juvenile lead in the Aldrich Family movie series. At that time, well-known actress, Olive Blakeney, played his screen mother and—as she is the mother of Betty Lou — she will become Jimmy's mother-in-law!

Before he became engaged to Betty Lou, Jimmy, as an eligible bachelor, was interviewed on the subject of just what he would like in a girl. Jimmy, a collector of argyle socks, announced then that he would like a girl who could knit socks to add to his collection, so the very first card of congratulation the couple received on their engagement contained a clipping of his quoted yearning for argyles! Betty Lou has promised to give the matter serious thought!

CPHA's working relations with Baltimore's Department of Education, Housing Bureau (of the Health Department), Planning Commission, Board of Municipal and Zoning Appeals, and City Council—a pretty imposing list of contacts to represent only the ones that I happened to note in that time.

Twice I visited a part of East Baltimore I had never seen before, a particular slum area of 27 blocks crossing Broadway not far north of Johns Hopkins Hospital. It is now known as the Pilot Area because there an experiment in the rehabilitation of a neighborhood is going on that can later be used as a guide for similar work in other slum areas (the city still has about 2,000 blocks of these).

But to go back to CPHA: the course for teachers of which this enlightening tour was a part under the very capable direction of CPHA's Executive Secretary, Miss Frances Morton, as a special division of the Department of Education's Workshop in Community Problems which Miss Morton was partly responsible for getting started some six years ago and which has attracted attention all

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

It Isn't the Heat—
It's the Hide!

Big discussion after the Grange meeting Friday night. Tik Anderson was arguing that hogs were lots more affected by the hot weather than cattle. Skeeter Morgan declared that it wasn't so—that he never saw any hogs bothered by the hot sun like his cows were.

I was glad when Rusty Robinson stepped in.

"Boys," he says, "don't get so riled up. It all depends on what color the livestock are. Hogs or cattle, the ones with light-colored coats absorb less heat from the sun's rays than animals with dark coats. So you're both right!"

From where I sit, so many useless arguments could be avoided if a person would remember he doesn't have all the right on his side. Reminds me of folks who insist that coffee, for instance, is the only drink, forgetting that other people have a right to a glass of beer now and then. If we wouldn't get so "het up" about our prejudices—we'd all be better off!

over the country. The teachers being educated here in the Pilot Program are increasingly able to interest their pupils, and through them the parents, in the total program and to direct them in activities by which they can share in the total effort. And that is the main objective of CPHA's work with the Department of Education: to help the public schools to be more truly democratic through the educating of their pupils to wish and to be able to take part in improving living conditions (and so living itself) in the immediate and the larger community in which they live.

This training of teachers and through them our future citizens went on in a way especially fascinating to me on my second visit to the Pilot Area. In a basement room of the most active Pilot Area school the group heard direct reports from representatives of the official city agencies working together under the Housing Bureau, the men who are doing the house-to-house inspection, the necessary follow-up, the referral to the Housing Court for continued violators, i. e., the basic necessary steps in slum rehabilitation. It seemed truly remarkable that these busy men should be so interested in speaking to a small group about the problems and accomplishments of the law enforcement program as it dealt with requirements of the Building, the Health, the Housing, the Fire, and other Departments (there is overlapping here which confuses me, but the main point is clear

ABIGAIL

(Continued from Page One) industrial potentialities are to be stressed. Let's get behind this project, Emmitsburg! You will really be proud when you see the old burg on your TV set, familiar settings, dear faces and interesting information. And while we are at it, we would like to stress the importance of becoming a member of this fine little group striving to advertise Emmitsburg. The membership fee is only $10 per year and the investment is well worth while considering the satisfaction you derive in knowing you are doing your part in helping Emmitsburg progress. Anyone can join. You don't have to be a business man and you don't have to be asked to join. Just plunk your 10 bucks in the mail to Treasurer Louis H. Stoner. The only prerequisite is that you have the welfare of your community at heart. Male or female, you all are invited to become members!

Laurel Honors Famed Steeplechaser

Dedication of a statue to the famed steeplechase horse, Billy Barton, last week in connection with the annual press party, and the actual opening of the meeting tomorrow with the running of the Capitol Handicap were the highlights in Maryland racing.

John D. Schapiro, president of Laurel, unveiled the statue of Billy Barton before a gathering of more than 300 persons.

Billy Barton, owned by Howard Bruce, Maryland sportsman, was second in the 1928 Grand National at Aintree, England. He led over the final jump, only to slip and unseat his rider, then was remounted and finished second to Tipperary Tim. These two were the only horses in a field of 42 to finish the gruelling Grand National course.

When Billy Barton died last spring at the age of 33, Mrs. Marjorie Bond, well-known Maryland owner and horsewoman, suggested some tribute be paid to the memory of the gallant thoroughbred. Mr. Schapiro not only announced he'd pick a suitable site for a statue, but decided to finance the project instead of seeking public contributions, as had been suggested.

Sculptor Henri Brenner, a native Marylander, has worked almost a year and the life-size bronze statue of Billy Barton now stands on a pedestal just in the rear of the clubhouse, where motorists driving in and railroad fans walking to the grandstand entrance may see it.

Meanwhile, horses have been

Congressman Judd To Address Public Meeting In Frederick

Congressman Walter H. Judd, Republican member of the House of Representatives from Minnesota, will be the principal speaker at a large public meeting in Winchester Hall, Frederick, on Mar. 25 at 8:15 p. m. Subject of the meeting, which is being sponsored by the Frederick Chapter of the United World Federalists, is "Can We Keep the Peace?"

Dr. Edwin H. Sponseller of Frederick, will be master of ceremonies for the meeting, and J. William Brosius Jr., also of Frederick, who was president of the United World Federalists in Maryland last year, will also be on the program.

Dr. Judd was a medical missionary in China for 10 years before the last war, and is recognized as the top authority in Congress on Far Eastern affairs. The United World Federalist organization is a national federation whose aims are the strengthening of the United Nations into a world government with adequate powers to prevent wars. A branch was organized in Frederick County several years ago.

The Community Fund basketball benefit games held last Thursday in the new gym at Mt. St. Mary's College were won by St. Joseph's High and Junior Police Club. St. Joe's downed Union Bridge by a 44-41 score, while Fairfield was losing to the Juniors 27-45.

Local Grange Seeks Modernization Of High School Agriculture Room

The Emmitsburg Grange met Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Emmitsburg High School, 30 members and six guests present. The master, Edgar G. Emrich, presided. Nine applications for membership were read and received. Committees on the new applications were appointed. Morris Zentz made the report for the membership committee. William Baker gave a report for the education committee. He spoke concerning the Grange's effort to improve the vocational agriculture facilities in the local school. It was decided to take this before the County Grange and also before the Farm Bureau for their consideration. A letter from Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, stating that the promised improvements to Route 15 will definitely be accomplished in 1952, was read by Master Emrich. The local Grange accepted an invitation from the Ballenger Grange to attend their Friendship Night meeting on the 25th of April. The local Grange will furnish the program.

A card of thanks was acknowledged from Mrs. Grier Keilholtz. It was announced that Mrs. Keilholtz has been ill at her home for the past several weeks. The sick committee also reported that Mrs. George Gartrell is a patient at the Gettysburg Hospital. A report on the scrap drive showed that $195 has been realized to date with the drive being continued. Granger Zentz has furnished the truck and driver and the scrap has been collected by Charles R. Fuss and Edgar G. Emrich. All proceeds from the scrap drive are for the Memorial Hall.

Brother Charles Fuss reporting for the roads committee, stated that he was a member of the County Roads Board and that at their last meeting the board had spent a good deal of time considering the matter of how to overcome the throwing of cans, bottles and other trash along the road side. After a discussion this was held over for the next meeting.

Pamona Master Bruce Crum of Walkersville Grange, gave a short talk on a new Grange project, "Improving Our Government." He asked the local organization to cooperate in the project by a canvass of the district to secure a more complete registration of all voters and to work to encourage more citizens to take part in elections by voting. He said that he always thought that "how a man voted was his own business, but that he voted was everyone's business." No action was taken on this matter by the Grange. It was stated that prizes ranging from $75 to $125 will be offered to the Grange getting the greatest number of new registrations in their district and achieving the highest percentage of voters actually voting in the elections for the year. The contest will run until after the fall elections.

The county deputy, Mr. Howard Quinn was introduced and presented to the Grange for the purpose of reviewing the ritualistic work. Mr. Quinn gave about a half-hour lecture on this work. He announced that he would visit the local Grange in the near future to finish this instruction.

Visitors were: County Deputy and Mrs. Howard Quinn, New Market; Pamona Master and Mrs. Bruce Crum of Walkersville; Mrs. Martin and son, of McKnightstown, Pa. Refreshments of ham and chicken salad sandwiches, coconut cake and coffee were served at the conclusion of the meeting. The next program will be by the home economic committee, Mrs. Ethel Baumgardner, chairman, Mrs. Estella Zentz and Miss Catherine Wivell.

Plans Lenten Sermons

Rev. Philip Bower, pastor of Elias Ev. Lutheran Church, announced this week a series of sermons which he will deliver to the congregation at the Sunday morning and Wednesday evening services from now to Palm Sunday.

These sermons will be on the general theme: "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?" They will include Sunday, March 23, "The Sins That And the Spot Where They Crucified Him"; Wednesday, March 26, "Caiaphas, Herod and Pilate, The World's Worst 'Triumvirate'"; Sunday, March 30, "The Cross: Sin Caused and Sin's Cure"; Wednesday, Apr. 2, "Friends of the Crucified Were Also at the Cross."

The Sunday morning services start at 10:30 o'clock and the Wednesday night services are at 7:30 p. m. The public is invited and visitors always are welcomed.

Frank Ridenour, U.S.A., Germany, spent several days last week visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Ohler and son at their home, Taneytown Road. He left Sunday on his departure to Germany.

A Dream Come True!

Roy Rogers, King of the Cowboys, whose program, "The Roy Rogers Show," is heard on radio Fridays and on television Sundays, over NBC channels, awards a pony, "Postie," to John Fredricks, Houston, Texas, for turning in the most Post Cereals boxtops. The boy accumulated 1,136 during the contest, which was conducted in the Houston area from January 7th, through February 6, 1952. Award was made at the Houston Fat Stock Show and Rodeo held at the Houston Coliseum, January 30 to February 10, where the King of the Cowboys personally appeared with Dale Evans and the Roy Rogers Show troupe.
