Most Anything At A Glance

—BY ABIGAIL—

Emmitsburg really turned out in grandiose style last evening on the occasion of the Governor's visit here as the guest of the Chamber of Commerce. Elements of both political parties waived their affiliations for a time to pay tribute to the state's Chief Executive as more than 200 enjoyed the affair. Interest mounted when the Governor's police escort entered the town limits and proceeded to meet the receiving committee. It long will remain a pleasant memory in the minds of those fortunate enough to have been able to attend the banquet, for seldom, if ever, does a town of our size, have the privilege of entertaining the governor of a state. I am reminded by a friend that this is not Governor McKeldin's first visit here. In fact, it was his third, having campaigned here previously seeking other state offices. Indeed, Mr. McKeldin is well aware of the location of our little hamlet. After hearing him speak, I was really impressed by his brilliant oratory and do hope he can see fit to return among us at some future date. This is indeed an accomplishment of our local Chamber of Commerce and will help in a large measure to bring it the well-deserved public recognition it so deserves.

Well, maybe you won't believe it, with all this rain, fog, and chilly California weather, but it is actually drawing near to the annual carnival time. Plans are being formulated now for the big event this July. The same individuals that shouldered the many burdens last fall are again being asked to put their shoulders to the proverbial wheel and get things rolling along. There is an added interest among committees this year as they prepare for the occasion. Enthusiasm is high and morale good as this lady circulates among them and most of them are well-pleased that they have again been asked to serve. The same organizations which backed the local Chamber in staging its gigantic Old Home Week are reported ready and willing to again do their share. Everything should go off rather smoothly this year as most of the committees are now familiar with the work to be done and some of them already have completed their end of the bargain. The Emmitsburg Municipal Band, which was re-activated last year is expected to be on hand to furnish the brilliant music for which it is noted. The fine organization has already come a long way since last year's event. Weekly rehearsals have been held and the band has increased in size and quality that we can well be proud of. Walter A. Simpson, the conductor, has worked faithfully with the organization and has molded a smooth working combination out of the material at hand.

Speaking of carnivals, let's take first things first. Next week the Veterans of Foreign Wars' annual Block Party is to be held. Annually the proceeds of this affair go to the local ambulance maintenance fund. Committees report that the affair has been enlarged for this year and a fine time is planned. Amusements, good food, games, and good music will be on hand for those attending. Everyone here knows the value and worth of the ambulance to this community. Annually it travels thousands of miles and costs no one a cent. It has taken patients as far as New York and has not charged a cent. All is free and this is only made possible by the good folks who attend these Block Parties and help the cause along. The local band will play music for both Friday and Saturday night. They are donating their services to the cause. I do hope I'll be seeing all you fine people at the Community Field for this charitable event. Few towns in the country can boast of Ralph Ireland New President Of C. of C.

Officers for the new term of 1952-53, of the Chamber of Commerce, were elected to office on Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of that organization held in the Fire Hall, before a large representation.

Selected to head the business group was Ralph Ireland, who was installed as president. Other officers include, first vice president, Bernard H. Boyle; second vice president, Morris A. Zentz; treasurer, Guy A. Baker, Jr., and secretary, John M. Roddy, Jr., an incumbent. Mr. Ireland, who is currently a patient in a Baltimore hospital, is expected home soon.

Retiring President Samuel C. Hays, conducting the meeting, heard reports of various committees and gave a resume of the year's activity, which included the installation of welcome signs to all four entrances to town, erection of street markers, placing of traffic signs, promotion of Old Home Week, safety posts leading to the Emmitsburg High School and producing a minstrel for the benefit of the Memorial Hall Association building fund. Mr. Hays talked at length on the duties of a chamber of commerce and urged the membership not to lose sight of their perspective and duties as a functioning local unit.

Treasurer Louis H. Stoner reported a bank balance of $680 and announced that dues for the new term were now payable. The members will be billed for their dues in the near future.

Secretary Roddy announced that plans were virtually completed for the presentation of the television show on Friday, June 13. Mrs. Helen Daugherty, as chairman of the annual banquet, reported that all was in readiness for the affair, which was held last night.

The Chamber went on record as favoring a new postoffice for the Emmitsburg District, (now totaling more than 4,500 population) the second largest voting district in Frederick County, and instructed the secretary to get in communication with Congressman J. Glenn Beall immediately to ascertain the status of the matter, since the town has all the qualifications for a new office.

Walter A. Simpson was named an honorary member of the association for his excellent work on behalf of the Municipal Band. Harold M. Hoke spoke to the group regarding the coming Block Party and invited all to attend. It was decided to purchase past president's pins for the two preceding presidents and for those in the future. A communication from an out-of-town soldier wishing to locate here, was read and ordered answered.

President Ireland announced that with the assistance of the executive board, the standing committees of the organization will be appointed before the next meeting.

Bernard H. Boyle, general chairman of the annual carnival committee, announced a meeting of these committees will be held on Sunday, June 1, at 1 p. m. in the Fire Hall. It is hoped that the same committees and organizations that served so well last year, will again accept those respective duties again this year.

Fire Destroys Large Barn Here

Fire destroyed a large barn on the farm of John Mort, Route 3, about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. No estimate has been made of the loss. Fire companies from Emmitsburg, Taneytown and Fairfield were called but were unable to prevent the destruction of the building with its entire contents of hay, grain and farm machinery. The barn had recently been remodeled, Mr. Mort said, and repairs to it still were in progress. He could assign no reason for the fire. Two trucks from each of the three fire companies were sent to the scene.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Posey, Mt. St. Mary's College, announce the birth of a son at the Warner Hospital Tuesday.

Glee Club Concert Sunday Night At St. Joseph's High

St. Joseph's Glee Club says, "It's a Grand Night for Singing," Sunday, May 25 at 7:45 p. m. Under the directorship of Rev. David W. Shaum the Glee Club will present its annual Spring Concert. A variety of choruses will be rendered in addition to dances and special numbers. Among the old favorites that will fill the evening with song are: "Glow Worm," "This Is My Country" and "O Lovely World." Paul Camiletti, a member of Mt. St. Mary's Glee Club will be the accompanist. All are cordially invited to attend. During intermission, a silver offering will be appreciated; this will help to purchase necessary equipment for the school auditorium.

Vandals Wreck Valley Church

Intruders entered the historic Eyer's Valley Chapel sometime before noon Monday and destroyed most of the contents, many antiques and did much damage to the interior.

Being charged are two juveniles, aged 16 and 15. One is in custody of the State Police and the other arrest will take place in the near future, according to State Police Troopers Kenneth D. Bond and H. J. Brown, who are investigating.

A member of the church discovered the depredations at noon Monday. Reported damaged beyond repair were the organ, which had been overturned; the altar, hymn books, other church literature, and a book case. It appeared that much of the furniture had been chopped or hit with a hammer or other instruments. Also reported damaged were the windows, most of which had been broken.

Damage could not be estimated due to the variety of some of the items destroyed.

Built in 1859, the chapel was located in Eyer's Valley, near Thurmont, and was used only once a year for a reunion by former church members. It was kept in good repair and the furnishings, including many antiques, were highly prized by the congregations.

Rev. Ivan G. Naugle, of the Thurmont Evangelical United Brethren charge, is pastor.

Attorney's Car Wrecked

James McSherry, Frederick attorney and Mt. St. Mary's College instructor, damaged his car to avoid a collision on Route 32 about one mile and a half west of Frizzellburg about 8:15 o'clock Monday morning, State Police reported.

Corporal James Poteet charged William Richard Sipes, 19, New Windsor, with failing to give a proper signal and operating without regard to restrictions on his operator's card. Sipes was operating without eyeglasses, it was said.

The officer said the McSherry sedan was following a truck belonging to Lantz Bros., New Windsor, and driven by Sipes, when the latter made a left turn into the lane of the property of T. Allen Morelock. To avoid the collision, they said Mr. McSherry drove off the highway into a ditch. No one was injured.

MEMORIAL HALL ASSN.

President Edgar G. Emrich of the Memorial Hall Assn., announces that a meeting of that group will be held in the Fire Hall on Tuesday, May 27, at 8 o'clock. The annual election of officers will be held and all organizations comprising the board of directors are asked to have their respective delegates present.

Permit Required For Resale Of Used Bed Clothing

Auctioneers in this area have been notified to cease selling used bedding unless it has been sterilized according to law, it was reported this week.

J. Davis Donovan, chief of legal administration of the Maryland Health Dept., has informed auctioneers that provisions of the law will be strictly enforced.

In a letter to auctioneers, he explains that his attention has been called to the fact that a number of auctioneers have been offering to give the bedding to the purchasers of other articles and that this bedding is seldom sterilized. Copies of a circular, explaining the provisions of the Maryland bedding and furniture law, have been sent to the auctioneers.

Inspector Gives Warning

An inspector attended a public auction in this vicinity last week and stopped sales of certain articles said to be in violation of the law. A warning was issued but no charges preferred.

It is not unlawful to sell or give away the used articles, it was pointed out, but unlawful to offer them unless properly treated. It has been long a part of Maryland law. The method used in sterilizing must be submitted to the Health Dept. for approval and a permit obtained. The permit is for one year and costs $50.

Mr. Donovan has advised auctioneers that a Carroll County plant has installed a sterilizing plant and has obtained a permit to operate it.

Local auctioneers have indicated a willingness to cooperate with the Health Dept. in seeing that the law is fully complied with. Most of them think it will be to the seller's advantage to have bedding sterilized and offered for sale.

Locals Trowned By New Oxford

Thurmont and Union Bridge chalked up their third victories in as many starts in the Pen-Mar League last Sunday, as the circuit got all its games played despite rains Saturday night.

Thurmont edged Fairfield, 8-7, and Union Bridge won from Westminster, 13-1. Littlestown playing its first game of the campaign turned back Cashtown, 6-1. New Oxford crashed the win column when it downed Emmitsburg, 7-3, although outhit, 9-6.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To Ralph S. Sperry

Ralph S. Sperry, prominent local businessman, died suddenly on Sunday afternoon at about 3:40 p. m. while driving his car in Frederick, Md.

Apparently driving through the city when stricken, Sperry was found slumped under the wheel of his car, which he had managed to get to the side of S. Jefferson St. A fire rescue truck and squad went to the scene but found the 65-year-old garage owner already dead. The county medical examiner pronounced him dead of natural causes.

Although Mr. Sperry had been in failing health in recent years, his death was entirely unexpected and came as a profound shock to his many friends and business associates.

A son of the late Samuel and Emma Freeman Sperry, he was born in Iowa and had resided in Emmitsburg for 40 years. He owned and operated Sperry's Garage since March of 1923 and had been a Ford car dealer for 25 years. Mr. Sperry had been in failing health for the past seven years.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ada H. Hollinger Sperry; two brothers and a sister, F. H. Sperry, Clarinda, Ia.; Howard Sperry, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Mrs. Frederick Whittlesey, Morgantown, Va. He was a member of Tyrian Lodge No. 205, A. F. & A. Masons, Emmitsburg and Ithiel Royal Arch Chapter of Masons No. 27, Hagerstown. The deceased also was a charter member of the Emmitsburg Lions Club.

Funeral services were held yesterday at 10 a. m. with services conducted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Baumgardner, Rev. Philip Bower, officiating. Masonic services were conducted at the graveside in Mountain View Cemetery. S. L. Allison, funeral director.

Soldier Injured In Car Crash

John R. Overholtzer 22, Taneytown, Rt. 2, who is stationed at the McGuire Air Base, Trenton, N. J., received a fracture of the left leg when struck by a car while he and another man were attempting to tow the serviceman's auto from a ditch along the Tract Rd., two miles west of Emmitsburg, early last Saturday morning, May 17.

State police at Gettysburg said they learned that Overholtzer was attempting to back his car into a side road, but misjudged the distance and the wheels of the car dropped into a ditch.

Overholtzer flagged down the car of Simon Kuhn, 29, Gettysburg Rt. 5, and the two men were trying to pull the car from the ditch when the car of Harry Harbaugh, Iron Springs, Pa., approached.

Police said Harbaugh's car struck the cars of Overholtzer and Kuhn, and also both operators. Kuhn, however, was only shaken up. Overholtzer was taken to the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, for treatment. He was later removed to the Carlisle Barracks Hospital.

Damage to the Overholtzer auto was estimated at $200, to the Kuhn vehicle at $25, and to Harbaugh's auto at $350.

Bible School Begins Activity

A meeting of the Emmitsburg Community Vacation Bible School officers and all others interested in the school, has been called by Rev. Philip Bower, dean of the school, for Monday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock at the Parish Hall of the Lutheran Church.

The purpose of this meeting will be to elect officers, appoint teachers, set dates, decide on the literature and set up the organization for this year's school. Approximately 15 teachers and helpers will be needed for the school this year.

Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder who has been visiting in Silver Spring, Md., has returned to her home here.

For the third consecutive year the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Memorial Post No. 6658, Emmitsburg, will stage the gigantic Block Party for the benefit of the local Ambulance Fund. Commander Fern R. Ohler of the local post, announced this week that plans were virtually complete for the affair, which this year is expected to be the best yet. The affair will get under way Friday, May 30, and continue through Saturday night.

Grange Sets Picnic Date

For August 21

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Grange was held Wednesday evening in the Emmitsburg High School with 35 members present and Master Edgar G. Emrich presiding.

The Pomona picnic was scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 21 and will be held at Mt. Tabor Park, Rocky Ridge.

William Baker gave a most interesting report on the Pomona meeting held in Creagerstown on May 3. It was announced the Youth Camp this year will be held at Camp of Rocks, Md., on July 26 and 27.

Catherine Wivell was appointed refreshment chairman for the coming three months.

An open meeting will be held at the next regular meeting at which time the officers of the Juvenile Grange will be installed by Brother Tobias Zimmerman of Ballenger Grange. The public is invited and all members are urged to have their children join the Juvenile Grange as charter members.

Following the business meeting the program was turned over to Catherine Wivell, youth chairman, who presented the following program: piano duet by Helen Martin and Anna Margaret Martin; reading, "A Neighborhood Zoo," by Clara Harner; poem, "Seein' Things at Night," by George Martin; movie, "Arch Against the Sky," presented by the Brosius Engineering Co. the theme being the proper storage of ear corn so as to be able to keep it and market it at a time when prices are at their best. Games and refreshments rounded out the program.

Uncle Bob Writes:

Dear Abigail:

As I sit here by candlelight I have a number of questions that keep coming to my mind.

First: What has happened to honesty? I hear one man received a lot more than one vote in the town election for Commissioner, as a write-in. This may have been a typographical error. Would you please check this up?

Second: I do not believe in child psychology. I agree with the Bible in sparing the rod you spoil the child. But when you start beating children over the head with clubs and running them over fields with ropes and locking them out of the house over night, this is going too far and should be looked into by whoever is in charge of child welfare. This is said to have been going on just three-quarters of a mile from our town on Route 32.

Third—Why do working people have to put money in parking meters, such as carpenters, painters, etc., when one car can come to town and put a cardboard on the windshield advertising their business, parking anywhere in front of a meter even just two meters off a parking alley and set there all day without paying or getting a ticket?

I remain, your old fashioned

Uncle Bob

Editor's Note: In reference to your first accusation, I wish to inform you that the results were officially recorded by the judges of election, not by the candidates. If you care to check the results yourself the ballots are still available under lock and key. You are entitled to see them if you want to. They are kept for 90 days.

Your second question is a matter for the State Police or the juvenile authorities in Frederick. Trying to clarify your third interrogation, I believe the parking meter law grants special privileges to vendors and mechanics, or for that matter, anyone who has equipment in their car and working inside houses or stores, to park free of charge. If you are in this category why not get yourself a cardboard sign?

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell and children, Thomas, Patricia, Therese, Joan and Roy Jr., visited Sunday with Mrs. David H. Guise and Mrs. Colton Sheffield and daughter, Baltimore, Md.

The affair will have a dual purpose inasmuch as the party will be held in conjunction with the dedication of the new Playground, which the VFW has constructed on the Community Field at an expense of nearly $2000.

Dedication ceremonies will get under way at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening, May 30, with a special program arranged for the occasion. Commissioner Wales Right-or will make the dedicatory address and Mayor Rodgers will accept the Playground on behalf of the Corporation of Emmitsburg.

Music for the occasion will be played by the Emmitsburg Municipal Band under the direction of Walter A. Simpson. Mr. Simpson has announced the following selections to be played at the dedicatory services: March, Gate City, by Weldon; Call to Colors, played by Paul Dern; the Star Spangled Banner, and Serenade The Twilight Hour, by Myers.

Some of the arrangements the band has chosen for Friday night's music at the Block Party are: March, National Anthem, by Bagby; overture, Lustpiel, by Keler-Bela; waltz, Don't Be Cross, by Zeller and march, American Bells, by Cramer. The band also will furnish the music for the Saturday night activities and included in the selections are march, We Americans, by Fulton; overture, Mignomette, by Baumann; waltz, Old Times, arranged by Late; fox trot, Sweet Little Girlie, by McFall, and march, Right Forward, by Sousa.

Good food and excellent entertainment, plus music and other novelties, will be highlights of the affair. Contests of all sorts will be staged for the entertainment of those attending.

Cmdr. Ohler said the ambulance was purchased in February of 1948, at a cost of $7500. Since then additional equipment has run another thousand dollars. The local post was the sole purchaser of the entire ambulance and equipment. In the past three years this vehicle has traveled over 27,000 mercy miles, at no cost to those availing themselves of this service. Other nearby communities have also used its facilities free of charge.

Trained personnel operate the ambulance service and to date more than 550 cases, emergency and otherwise, have been handled by volunteer drivers. Officials of the post explained that maintenance costs average above $1000 annually and this Block Party is the only means of raising these funds. One item alone, tires, is said to have cost $375. State police and hospital authorities have frequently availed themselves of the use of this vehicle and its worth.

Drivers explained that calls have taken them as far away as New Jersey at times. All drivers are trained in first aid by the Maryland State Police and work in close harmony with this constabulary, frequently handling accident and other cases in their charge. The local post has been commended on several occasions by the national commander, head of the State Police, and other dignitaries of the state.

Last year a net profit of $1000 was realized from the Block Party and it is the hope of officials in charge of the affair this year that more can be netted.

Seafood, ice cream, french fries, sandwiches, etc., will be available and were a real hit with patronizers of the party last year. Food and candy sales will also be on the agenda. Entertainment, novelties, contests, skill games also will take place during the two-day affair which will be staged on Community Field, Emmitsburg.

FUND TO MEET

The Community Fund of Emmitsburg will hold its regular meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the VFW Home. All members of the Fund are urged to attend.

Discharged this week from the Warner Hospital was Nancy Eyster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Eyster.

DULLES' BILL OF COMPLAINT

It would not be easy to quarrel with the statement of John Foster Dulles, made in his speech at the World Affairs Forum held recently in Pittsburgh, that on the whole our foreign policies since the last war have been "dangerously inadequate." But it can be shown, we think, that much of the fault for this rests with the legislative leaders of Mr. Dulles' own Republican Party.

To be sure, some of those leaders—Senator Taft chief among them—represent a viewpoint far different from Mr. Dulles'. He, after all, has been a key Republican figure in the bipartisan foreign policy. Senator Taft, on the other hand, has been a key legislative figure in sabotaging that policy.

"The trouble," said Mr. Dulles of our postwar foreign record, "is not so much what we have done, but what we have left undone." This is quite true. Yet, in view of the power that Senator Taft has had in recent Congresses, the wonder is that we have done so much.

Take, for example, our lack of a coherent Asian policy—a lack that properly stands high on Mr. Dulles' Bill of Complaint against the Administration. The fact is that Senator Taft and certain of his GOP colleagues have made it all but impossible to develop such a policy. Any official, for example, who might propose a tack even remotely similar to the one the British are taking with regard to Red China—recognizing the regime there, playing for the chance that China will not long permit its tail to be wagged by a foreign (in this case, Soviet) power—any official who so proposed would be hounded from Washington with cries of treason that would be heard as far as Senator Taft's Ohio or Senator McCarthy's Wisconsin.

What with the likelihood of being called a traitor for daring to suggest that maybe the Chinese people had something to do with the Communist revolution in their country or that maybe Chiang Kai-shek is mostly responsible for his own defeat, the prudent State Department official says nothing. And so we stumble on in Asia without a policy.

Mr. Dulles, a wise statesman, undoubtedly knows well what obstacles the isolationist and witch-hunting elements of his party are to forming a meaningful foreign policy. He is right in calling for a more dynamic leadership of the world than this Administration has given. He is right in saying that our foreign spending must be limited to the capacity of our budgets.

But for all his Bill of Complaint, it seems to us the foreign policy approach that Mr. Dulles outlined in his speech here does not differ substantively, as the lawyers say, from that of the Administration.

In large measure, it seems to us, his approach boils down to one of me-too-but-it-can-be-done-better. And that, it seems to us, is a very rational and constructive approach.

YOU and YOUR CONGRESS

(Sponsored By The Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce)

WASHINGTON—The Labor Department is in the middle of a fight in Congress over the establishment and enforcement of minimum wages in companies doing business with the government.

Jabbing fiercely at Secretary of Labor Tobin, Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.), says the Labor Department has gone a lot farther than Congress intended it to when the legislation was enacted and, in fact, actually is violating the intent of Congress.

The most immediate seriousness of this, Fulbright charges, is that the Department is impeding the defense program by applying requirements which prevent or discourage many industrial and other producers—especially small and medium-sized firms—from participating in the defense effort.

Tobin says that Fulbright's suggestions for changing the Labor Department's course are "totally impractical." He further declares they would "contribute to lower wage rates, contrary to the philosophy of recent years."

At issue here is the Walsh-Healy Act which requires, among other things, that producers filling Federal contracts of $10,000 or more pay minimum wages set by the Secretary of Labor and that the Secretary fix those minimums on the basis of prevailing rates in the "locality."

After the Supreme Court plucked the feathers of the old NRA's Blue Eagle back in the 1930's, Congress quickly enacted the Walsh-Healy Act as a stop-gap measure until more comprehensive minimum wage legislation could be passed.

The latter was produced in 1938 as the Fair Labor Standards Act, better known as the Wage-Hour Law. It was decided to retain the Walsh-Healy Act until the Supreme Court had ruled on the Wage-Hour Law (which set a 40-cent hourly minimum wage that since has been increased to 75 cents). The Court upheld the Wage-Hour Law but somehow the Walsh-Healy Act has remained on the statute books.

Through an amendment to the Defense Production Act, extension of which will be debated soon, Fulbright seeks to insure that the Labor Department will follow the original intent of Congress in administering the Walsh-Healy Act.

He charges, for example, that the Department uses the Act to establish nationwide minimum wages for a given industry whereas the Act states that wage studies shall be based on "industries operating in the locality in which the work is to be performed."

The result of the Department's interpreting "locality" as a meaning the whole country, says Fulbright, is to upset economic conditions in local communities by disrupting local wage patterns and to penalize smaller producers. The latter is true, he adds, because the nationwide minimums are based on rates paid by the biggest operators in the field.

Fulbright further charges that the Department has ignored the Act's exemption provisions. He notes that the Act exempts purchases of "such materials, supplies, articles or equipment as may usually be bought in the open market." But the Department, he says, argues that it makes most of its purchases under contract directly with producers and, therefore, those producers are not exempt, even though they may also sell in the open market.

Here again, the Senator says, the effect is to discourage entry into the defense program of smaller producers who fear that their wage rates would be increased mandatorily to levels they could not sustain under competitive conditions after leaving the defense program.

But the Department's newest Walsh-Healy regulation is, as Fulbright and his supporters see it, the pay-off. The contractor would have to agree that (a) he and his sub-contractors would observe all of the Act's labor standards; (b) the contractor would police his sub-contractors for compliance, and (c) he would assume financial responsibility, paying fines and damages, for their failure to comply.

That regulation is due to become effective July 1. By coincidence the Defense Production

TV Requires

Furniture Changes

Television has served to emphasize the need in many homes for a second livingroom. However, if you cannot afford to give up space for a second livingroom, here are a few suggestions.

Act is due to expire June 30. Presumably Congress will have acted on extension if the DPA, including Fulbright's amendment, by then, and, in so doing, will have declared the winner in the Tobin-Fulbright bout.

First of all, a diningroom might be converted to a livingroom with dining facilities. In older farm homes, this change can usually be made with a minimum of effort, because the kitchens are large enough to hold nearly all the diningroom furniture. The table and chairs are the only pieces that need be left in the diningroom, and they could be placed to one side, preferably near a window. In the vacated space a studio couch, easy chairs, and an ottoman or stolls for small children could be added.

A few farm families prefer to use the dining area of a large kitchen for televising.

Another possibility is to make an enclosed porch comfortable enough for a year-round living area. You may find it practical to convert a downstairs bedroom into a bed-livingroom, or to modernize a den so that it could be used as a livingroom.

If space is very limited, or other circumstances make conversion of rooms difficult, a simple solution to the problem is to mount the television set on a wheeled base so that it may be moved from room to room.

New Engine Boosts Tractor Power

Vic Karges, North Dakota wheat farmer, puts his rejuvenated tractor through its paces. Mr. Karges is one of many farmers who have installed more powerful engines in their tractors to speed farm work. The extra power allows him to combine 60 acres in 10 hours, compared with nearly 15 before repowering.

Twenty years ago when old horse couldn't pull a load fast enough, farmers hitched up another horse. Today most farmers need more power have to buy a more powerful tractor, but many farmers have found another way to get their work done faster—and save money at the same time. They have installed more powerful engines in their present tractors with some amazing results.

Forest Osborn of Friona, Texas, recently showed his neighbors what his repowered 1928 tractor would do by pulling a 17-foot chisel plow through 39 acres of dry, hard-packed soil in six hours. Even the skeptics admitted it was a good record for the area.

A Judson, North Dakota, farmer installed a three cylinder Diesel in his tractor and now plows ten more acres a day, pulling a 4-16" plow. The Diesel saved him $1,000 in fuel costs in 1951.

Another farmer in Flagler, Colorado, who also installed a Diesel, boasts nothing on the farm can stall the engine. He can pull three 12-foot plows at six miles per hour in high gear. His fuel bill was $587 lower the year after he repowered with the Diesel.

G. E. Keck of Fairview, Oklahoma, put a 2-cycle Diesel in his tractor two years ago and has since converted two more. The first machine did one-third more work at a quarter of the fuel cost. He says he still has to make his first engine repair.

Most of the conversions have been made with small two and three cylinder 2-cycle Diesels. The engines are equipped with electric starting and start directly on Diesel fuel.

This is the fourth in a series of eight articles telling basic, important facts about indications which should put you on guard against the possible presence of cancer.

By W. R. CADLE, M.D.

There are many mistaken beliefs about the third danger signal which is unusual bleeding or discharge. Many women believe that excessive or irregular bleeding may be an accompaniment of the change of life.

This is not so.

Abnormal bleeding from any natural body opening is always a cause for concern. It is true most often such bleeding will be due to non-cancerous conditions.

However, only a physician can differentiate between a cancerous and a non-cancerous condition and a prompt diagnosis is the key to a cure if cancer should be the cause of the trouble.

Excessive bleeding, whenever it occurs, is abnormal and many lives have been lost in the mistaken belief that the change of life was responsible for this condition.

How important it is for you to have knowledge about excessive bleeding is emphasized by a recent study in Maryland. It showed that approximately 43 per cent of women with cancer did not know that excessive and irregular bleeding might be caused by this disease.

Non-cancerous conditions, such as hemorrhoids, may also cause bleeding. But it is important to be sure that some more serious trouble is not obscured by the simultaneous occurrence of such non-cancerous conditions. Bleeding cancers are quite curable when advice is sought at an early stage. But like other cancers, they may become incurable when neglected.

Arm yourself with accurate information about cancer. So armed you will consider it the wise and sensible thing to do to be checked when you feel that your body has given you a warning. Like your car engine, your body usually gives indications when something is amiss. Parts for your car are replaceable. It is a little more difficult to buy new parts for your body.

Rev. Philip Bower To Address Graduates

QUESTION: I wish to divide my spacious basement into four rooms, and have heard that cement blocks such as are used in offices can be utilized as dividers. These walls would then be plastered. Can you let me know what materials can be used for this purpose?

—R. T., Flushing, N. Y.

ANSWER: Among materials used for this purpose, where no load is carried on the partition, are 4-inch cement blocks, gypsum blocks, hollow tile. These are cemented together and can be plastered over later.

QUESTION: I am purchasing a shell home and wonder if you can tell me if a footing is necessary. Everyone tells me this is needed, but the contractor showed me charts to prove it is not needed.

—E. B., Chicago, Illinois

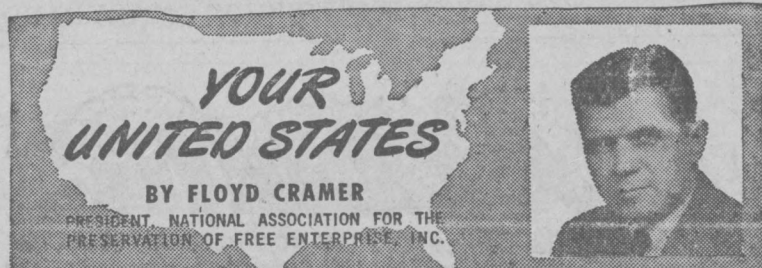

ANSWER: Ordinarily a footing is required to distribute the weight of the building over a larger area where the soil is loose. However, a poured concrete foundation does not always require a footing, especially when reinforcing is used. Such a foundation, as a solid mass, is not apt to crack at any one point, even though a corner or short length may be undermined by rain-action or seepage. This type of foundation distributes its load over the entire bearing surface evenly.

QUESTION: I have two tree stumps 12 inches in diameter in my front yard. Can you tell me how to remove them without breaking my back or tearing up half the lawn with a pick and shovel?

—E. N. K., Pittsburgh, Penna.

ANSWER: Digging and blasting being impractical, there are two possible methods of removal. Bore holes, with a 1/2-inch auger or larger, straight down through the heart of the stump, and angling these holes into the base of the larger roots. Pour in kerosene daily for several days until the stump is saturated. Then, set fire to it. Another way, without smoke, is to pour one of the compost-producing chemicals into similar holes and then let the stump rot rapidly away. Each process requires several weeks.

The world today is witnessing what is probably the biggest "sales drive" in all history. On the one side, we have Russia and its sympathizers selling Communism. And on our side, we have the United States selling Democracy.

A good many people have pointed out that the peddlers of Communism appear to be getting bigger results than we are. I, too, think the Russian campaign is more successful than ours is, and it seems to me that the reason the Reds are out-selling us is fairly obvious.

They have a much more attractive sales talk. While we are urging armaments on the rest of the world, the Russians are talking peace.

Don't misunderstand me. I don't think for a minute that Communism will really bring peace. I'm sure they are lying when they say that.

But where the Reds are shrewd, and successful, is simply in this: They promise something the human heart needs and yearns for, whereas, at this moment we are talking and talking almost exclusively about material things. We keep saying, get more guns and more soldiers so as to have more bathtubs and more cars.

Now, we do have to let the world know how much better off every individual is, under Democracy, compared with how he would have to live under a Red dictatorship. But we are emphasizing the wrong things.

We are making a sad mistake in putting too much emphasis on the productive and materialistic aspects of Democracy. Where we promise merchandise, the Russians promise peace and brotherhood.

I say that our salesmen of democratic free enterprise have a much better product to sell than the salesmen of Communism have. And I maintain that when the inferior product is out-selling the better product, then the sales campaign is all wrong.

We must show the rest of the world more than our wealth. With all our European aid, we haven't yet made one firm and unflinching ally.

America as a nation can't buy friends, any more than any one of us can do it as an individual.

We must sell the ideals of America. We must prove to the world that freedom to act and to believe, and freedom to live according to individual preference is the only decent dignified way for mankind.

When our nation was young and small, it wasn't known in Europe for its wealth. It was known instead as the land of liberty and as long as America continued to be known as the land of liberty, people all over the world gave it their admiration, and, in fact, made it the symbol of what their own governments ought to be.

America the free, America the wonderful land of liberty, can

A Challenge To Bankers

A college in Minnesota recently held a forum on the subject of "Thrift—Basis of the American Economy." On the panel were a member of the college's economics and business administration, a banker, the trustee of a philanthropic foundation, and a college student. The panel was somewhat shocked to find that the students were not too concerned with personal thrift and the habit of saving. In fact, most of the students seemed to be relying on someone else—government, employers or relatives—to provide for their future security.

This tendency toward dependency and away from personal thrift and independence has become widespread in recent years. It is one of the most dangerous diseases in the body of our free nation. No person can be truly free and at the same time be dependent on someone else. The habit of thrift is a great national asset, providing the fountainhead for progress. To an individual, it is an indispensable foundation stone in the building and maintaining of high moral character and real personal security.

School Kid Depositors

In contrast to the attitude of the student body at the Minnesota College is the inspiring story of what is being done about thrift in 135 public schools in New Orleans. More than 75,000 youngsters in those 135 schools have personal bank accounts totalling more than $1 million. They all have begun to learn of the rewards of personal thriftiness and are thus building the fundamental characteristics that will help them achieve personal security and happiness in their adult life.

This pioneering project in thrift was originated by the Progressive Bank and Trust Co. and its progressive president, Billy Fischer, just three years ago. Bill Fischer believes that true progressiveness means, among other things, the improvement and extension of the basic American virtues. He has brought the virtue of thrift into the everyday life of these thousands of youngsters from six to 18 years of age. Some of the results are thrilling.

Many Laughed

When Fischer first suggested that a bank president ought to go into the primary and secondary public school classrooms and solicit depositors from among the small fry, many other bankers laughed. But not for long. Fischer didn't necessarily solicit depositors. He went into the schools primarily to promote thrift. He got the attention of the school administration and teachers, and then began to talk thrift to the pupils.

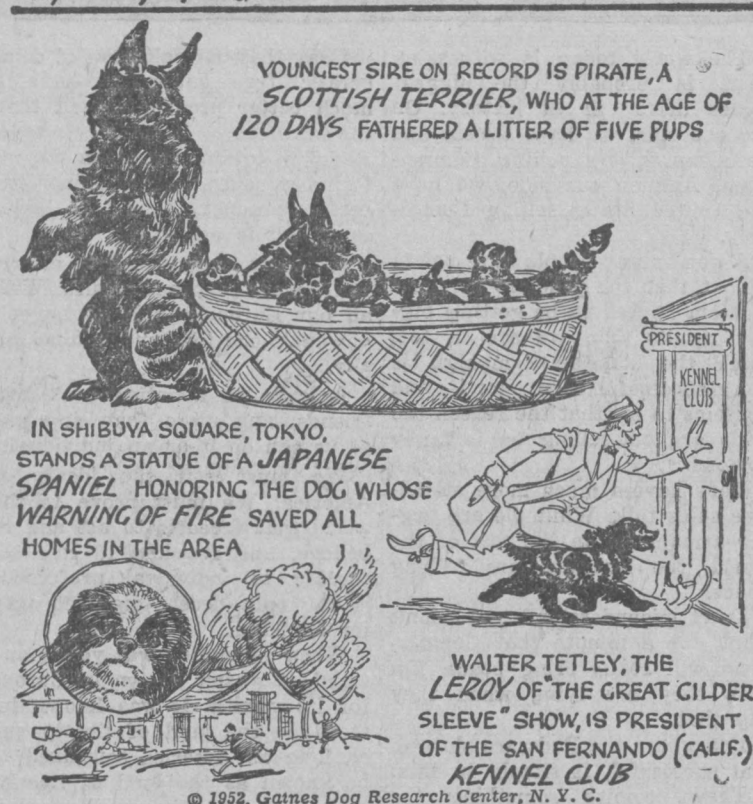

The boys and girls began to save their pennies and nickles. They even began to seek odd jobs around their neighborhood and from their own parents. They learned that money isn't created by pressing a button. They developed an understanding of its value, the responsibility that goes with it, and wholesome respect for work. Fischer encouraged them to save their money by depositing it in his bank. And very soon the bank was being overrun with kiddies hardly tall enough to get a teller's attention. The first year 9000 school-kid depositors banked $37,000 with Fischer's Progressive Bank and Trust Co. The cost of handling the present 75,000 tid-bit account is heavy, but Fischer's board of directors recognizes the project as a valuable public service—and one that some day will pay rich dividends.

Bank Day

He continued to push the idea. In the school classroom he says to the youngsters: "It makes no difference how poor you are or how little you now have. This is the land of opportunity. Hard work and thrift are the ways to get ahead and to gain people's respect. If you start saving it will become a lifetime habit you won't easily lose. Our free enterprise system was made possible through the use of savings and borrowed capital. The money you save is important to you and your country."

The Progressive Bank now has a special department for its young depositors. In the 135 schools participating, Bank Day is observed each week. The children bring their cherished pass books and their coins. Each pass book is placed in an envelope with its deposit, thence into a bank sack which a messenger picks up on Bank Day and returns the next day with the deposits properly recorded.

Encouragement for the Future Farmers

CHICAGO, ILL.—Good progress is being made to increase the operating budget of the Future Farmers of America, largest farm boy organization in the world. Here, Roger M. Kyes (right), Chairman of the Sponsoring Committee of the FFA Foundation and vice president of General Motors, presents checks totaling $25,350 to Dr. W. T. Spanton, national FFA advisor, as a starter for the 1953 FFA budget. Companies in business and industry donate the money, which will go into cash awards for the farm boys in various FFA contests throughout the U. S., Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Local Lassie Is Glee Club Officer

Miss Jean Topper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quinn Topper, of Blue Mountain Orchards, Emmitsburg, was elected vice president of the Glee Club of St. Joseph College for 1952-53. In addition to being an active Glee Club member, Miss Topper, a history major, is also the junior representative of the Cooperative Government Assn., and a member of the Marillac Assn. of Catholic Action. A graduate of St. Joseph High School, Miss Topper will graduate from college in 1953.

Checks are honored from one penny up, when endorsed by the parents. Two per cent interest is paid.

When these youngsters get to college, and later take their place in society, most of them will be self-reliant. They will have faith in themselves and a high degree of respect for the fundamental human virtues and the basic principles that have made this nation great. Billy Fischer's wonderful work ought to be spread throughout the country. It is a challenge to bankers everywhere!

Wiring Modernizers Should Select Outlets for Needs

ARE you planning to spruce up your home, by getting rid of tangled extension cords and messy "octopus" outlets? Then be sure to ask for devices that will serve your needs in each location.

Many different types are available to choose from. There's the familiar double receptacle for general use. Then, there are special switch and outlet plates in any combination desired. You can have several switches and a plug-in receptacle on one plate. Or, you can have a couple of switches, a receptacle and night light like the one shown. Generally, such combinations are used in halls where an outlet is needed for the vacuum, and switches are required for up and downstairs lighting and for a night light to avoid accidents. In spots where many appliances are used, the new outlet strip will come in handy. It looks like wall molding and can be made to fit any wall area with outlets spaced at desired intervals.

Bel Air Track Drawing Well

Racing at Bel Air opened Wednesday with one of the largest crowds ever assembled at the three-quarter mile track on opening day.

Many of the big-name stables, which campaigned at Laurel and Pimlico, joined forces with the regular minor-league outfits to provide the highest caliber thoroughbred sport ever offered on Maryland's fair-track circuit.

The 10-day meet will close on May 31.

The efforts of President G. Ray Bryson to attract the best horses for Harford County's lone race meet through an increase in purses to a $120,000 distribution of prize money.

Racegoers will find many improvements to the up-to-the-minute plant itself. The main roads of the parking areas have been black-topped and widened at many points. Also, these areas have been freshly marked for the convenience of fans who motor to the track.

New turnstiles have been installed at the main entrances to eliminate congestion during the "rush hour" prior to the 2 p. m. post time. A new passageway from the clubhouse to the paddock also has been constructed since last year's meeting.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

Price support on the 1952 wheat crop, already assured by announcement from the Secretary of Agriculture, was detailed further this week by James A. Cottman, acting chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing State Committee.

Moisture, according to Mr. Cottman, may not exceed 14 per cent for wheat to be eligible for loan. Changes made first in 1951 which require the farmer to pay for elevation charges and for storage through April 30, 1953, will be continued. Should loan requests be received in PMA county offices on wheat on which elevation and storage has not been paid, deductions will be made to cover these costs when the loan is approved. Refunds on these charges will be made to the farmer only in the event the government takes over the wheat before the loan maturity date next April 30.

A recent announcement from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics indicates that Maryland's wheat crop is expected to be 4.9 million bushels; 8 per cent under the 1951 crop and 23 per cent under the 1941-50 average. The estimated yield will be 19 bushels per acre.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Attention Ladies!

Cakes lined up—each with a number. Judges looking, breaking off pieces, tasting. The winner? Number 4—a cake with a wonderful, glossy chocolate frosting.

This was at the Women's Club last night. Then Duke Thomas stepped up—his cake was Number 4! Seems his missus was laid up, so Duke took over—and won!

Here's Duke's prize-winning frosting recipe:

Melt 3 squares unsweetened chocolate in double boiler. Remove from heat, add 1½ cups sifted confectioner's sugar and 2½ tbs. hot water and blend. Add 3 egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each. Add

4 tbs. butter, beating thoroughly after each. Fill and frost 8-inch, 2-layer cake.

From where I sit, we all have different abilities and tastes... and these differences are sometimes surprising. Duke bakes prize-winning cakes. My wife, for example, can beat most any man at checkers. Same when it comes to beverages—you may like coffee or tea while I prefer a refreshing glass of beer. But let's not have any "half-baked" ideas that people are all the same—or should be.

Easterners Win "Doggy Youth" Awards

The East made a clean sweep and captured all four of the Gaines Dog Research Center's "Youth Awards" for 1951. The awards, made annually to two boys and two girls under 18 in recognition of "exceptional interest and accomplishment in dog activities," carry a $100 cash prize each in addition to an illuminated scroll. Shown left above: Ramona Albert, 17, Baltimore, who won the "Girl Dog Show Fancier" title for obedience training and showing of dogs; upper right: Cassandra Stewart Cassatt, 13, Philadelphia, named "Girl Field Dog Fancier" for handling Retrievers in field trials; lower left: Theodore C. Hollander, Jr., 16, So. Hamilton, Mass., "Boy Show Dog Fancier," for successful breeding, training, and exhibiting; direct left: David Boyce, 12, Roslyn, N. Y., selected as "Boy Field Dog Fancier." A victim of polio, David used the training of a gift Cocker Spaniel to start walking again and succeeded with the dog's training so well that he since placed high in several field trial events.

New Insecticide Protects Wheat

W. G. Wisecup, Kansas farmer, shown above, applies Pyrenone wheat protectant to surface of grain in truck in preparation to cutting the protectant in with a shovel.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Protection of the nation's wheat crop from attack by weevils and other insects while in storage has been assured by the granting of a patent to Pillsbury Mills, Inc. covering the use of pulverized wheat fractions as a diluent or carrier for powdered insecticides. This new wheat protectant involves the use of Pyrenone and piperonyl butoxide, patented products of the U. S. Industrial Chemicals Co.

Using a mineral-type carrier, this protectant has been widely and successfully used on corn, rice, barley and numerous other grains and seeds. Wheat offered a special problem because of government regulations and commercial practices. The development of this new protectant, known as Pyrenone Wheat Protectant, was necessary to give effective results and yet have no adverse effect on the appearance or feel of the wheat. The Pillsbury investigation demonstrated the suitability of the pulverized wheat fractions and their superiority to other available materials.

The insecticide can be applied to wheat on farms with great ease and simplicity, and is easily removed from wheat before milling by normal cleaning methods. The insecticide is harmless to humans and warm blooded animals. Use of it by all wheat farmers would mean a saving of up to 25 per cent of the wheat crop annually and savings of billions of dollars to farmers.

Pillsbury Mills plans to use this insecticide in wheat it intends to hold in storage over a period of time.

Can Industry Aids State Motorists

The "tin lizzie" may have disappeared from Maryland highways, but the "tin can" is more important than ever in the lives of motorists.

The state's 576,000 car owners are just about as dependent today on canned auto accessories as housewives are on canned foods, according to American Can Co., manufacturer of metal containers. The firm explained, however, that modern cans for automobile supplies are just about as tinless as the "tin lizzie" of yesteryear. Most of the containers are made of attractively lithographed steel plate.

L. M. Goodwin, Maryland district sales manager for the company that has developed special cans for such auto supplies as anti-freeze, motor oil and polishes, said that motorists now regularly buy about 30 different products in cans to keep their cars on the roads. The items, he explained, range all the way from grease to windshield cleaner and among others include radiator additives, carbon removers, tire repair kits, and waxes and cleaners of many kinds.

"Providing the American motorist with canned supplies and accessories has grown into a big business—a business measured in terms of two and one quarter billion cans a year," said Mr. Goodwin. "That averages out to about 50 containers annually for every car in the U. S."

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 22—The man in the street has done as much this year to stop inflation and stabilize our currency as all the government regulations put together. I wonder if the average American realizes how much he has really helped to curb inflation through restraining his urge to spend and by voluntary saving? He has done a job that ought to make the front pages of every paper in the country. I say this because only through a program of natural, voluntary savings can America keep strong.

Politicians Steal The Credit
You can be sure that in this election year the politicians will be taking the credit for what you have done. They will tell you that inflation has been slowed to a standstill by their price and wage controls, their heavy tax program, and their tightening of consumer credit. No one of us is going to be stupid enough to deny that an aspirin or a seltzer may help a headache. But unless we are very stupid indeed, we realize the aspirin is only a sedative, not a cure. A look at the record since the close of the war shows the politician to be a good hawk of patent cures—all but a mighty poor diagnostician.

Sometimes, after awakening from an overdose of drugs, the hangover which follows is worse than the pain one first endured. As a result, the American people have lost confidence in the politician's patent medicines and have decided to try an old-fashioned remedy — THRIFT. This old-fashioned remedy is producing some phenomenal results. It has actually caused a halt in the inflation epidemic. The Real Story About Savings
Through voluntary savings our people more than doubled their 1951 savings over 1950, putting better than $22 billion into the sock. At the same time, consumer debt held steady for 1951; only 34 per cent of disposable income after taxes, and but 32 per cent of savings. Yet, the same potential to spend was there.

More people are earning more money than in any previous postwar year; incomes are better for 25 million families. They could have gone on a spending spree, but they didn't. My guess is that they didn't because the average man has lost faith in the politician and his panaceas. He is wondering if he can keep afloat if prices go much higher. So he is beginning to put a little money aside for harder times. He is less and less inclined to mortgage his future for a TV set or a new car. People everywhere who have good wages ought to continue to save as much as they can while the going is good.

How Is The Money Being Saved?

Bank accounts and savings bonds are still the most popular places to save money. This last year the nation's 529 mutual savings banks reported an all-time high in new savings accounts, with 3 million more accounts. Despite this exceptionally good year for the banks, there is a trend away from the banks, and a trend away from buying U. S. Savings Bonds. The number of families that have become interested in mutual investments trusts and other stocks has trebled in the last couple of years, while the number who have put their savings into real estate has increased about 80 per cent.

I hope that small investors who are now buying stocks for the first time will not be disappointed. The high prices at which most popular stocks are now selling are danger signals. The small saver, especially,

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

The hue and cry over the Presidential seizure of the strike-bound steel industry caused the major issue involved to be overlooked.

Demands for a presidential impeachment, of course, are expected in an election year on any pretext.

However, election year hysteria is a poor excuse for ignoring the basic cause of the steel situation. It is also dangerous for presidential seizure of anything, even a peanut stand, to be tolerated.

C. W. Harder

Yet, on clear analysis, all the furor and fuss has so far failed to outline a solution to a problem that will occur again and again to plague the nation until adequate enforcement of anti-trust laws solves the problem.

Steel numbers among its members, U. S. Steel, which while disclaiming a monopoly, does control an estimated 40% of the nation's production. There are less than 700,000 stockholders in all the nation's steel companies, and the largest number are in U. S. Steel, created a half century ago by J. P. Morgan. The entire steel industry takes its cue from U. S. Steel because it is not considered politic to run contrary to the decisions reached in its august halls.

And on the other side are about 650,000 steel workers, organized in one huge labor monopoly.

Then there are on a third side some 4,000,000 independent businesses, largely dependent on steel in some form, plus about 150 million American consumers.

©National Federation of Independent Business

It seems fantastic that any nation can stand by idly while a steel monopoly and a labor monopoly go into a prolonged stalemate.

So the question that anyone should ask themselves is briefly "If I were President of the United States, just how would I handle a similar situation?"

And thereby is posed the strange paradox of modern American life that can lead to Socialism or Communism by constant government intervention into the disputes between monopoly industry and monopoly labor.

No president seems to have been able to cope with the problems of enforcing the anti-trust laws which would prevent these situations.

Franklin D. Roosevelt attacked the problem of monopoly business by encouraging the organization of monopoly labor organization; comparable to burning down the house to get rid of the mice.

Yet, Herbert Hoover was also ineffectual in solving the problem, and his ineffectiveness is made all the more contrasting by his post-depression statement "Our real depression troubles began with the building up of a kind of economic autocracy."

The entire situation again emphasizes a long neglected fact. The only solution to the greatest of all national problems since the founding of the Republic is adequate anti-trust law enforcement.

This in turn, emphasizes the need for Congressmen who understand and appreciate what vigorous enforcement of these measures means to national freedom and security.

should know that at only one point in history (1929-30) were stocks selling higher than they are today, and he should remember well what happened then!

It's Time To Be Careful!

I am not predicting a stock market crash. I am merely warning that the risk factor of buying stocks increases as the prices of stocks advance. This risk is further accentuated by unstable world conditions and the uncertainties of an election year. It, therefore, might be wise to take profits and put them into savings banks and government bonds. This would enable you to set aside a nest egg now so that it will be ready for use when prices drop. Whatever you do, save. The great need for strengthening our national economy today—and for keeping it strong for years to come—is voluntarily enforced savings. Join the parade of savers, today—even though the political outlook appears better.

Senator O'Connor Is Key Figure In Steel Seizure Controversy

Senator Herbert R. O'Connor, who almost alone of the Democratic senators of the country had vigorously contested the President's seizure of the steel industry, was one of several senators present last week in the U. S. Supreme Court as the arguments over the steel seizure controversy got under way. He is a member of the Senate Judiciary Sub-committee which is studying the constitutionality of the seizure.

The proceedings were particularly interesting to Senator O'Connor because John W. Davis, noted Constitutional authority and former candidate for the Presidency, who represented the steel industry, was most laudatory to the Maryland Senator with regard to the latter's address in the Senate recently in which he termed the President's action as "illegal" and devoid of Constitutional authority.

In a letter to Senator O'Connor Mr. Davis declared "I have read your speech of April 22, which I have read with great interest and high approval. I am delighted that you spoke with such vigor and clarity on the subject."

"To my mind there is not the slightest doubt that the President's action in seizing the steel mills is without legal warrant—constitutional or statutory. It is an act of pure usurpation and I should hope that Congress as well as the courts would so declare. As you so well point out, it will if not rebuked constitute a precedent of the most dangerous and destructive character."

O'Connor Opposes Proposed Tax

Opposition to legislation to impose a three-cent per pound duty on fresh and frozen tuna fish imports, the processing of which is a new industry for Maryland, was vigorously voiced by Senator O'Connor to Senator Walter F. George, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. The Maryland Senator declared it "sectional taxation" which would penalize East Coast packers in favor of other sections.

"Maryland," Senator O'Connor told the Senate Finance Chairman, "has always been among the leaders of the nation in the processing of seafood. Our state has the skills and the facilities for processing and packing tuna. This new industry would be a most desirable one for the Eastern Shore section, which is too far removed from industrial centers to participate in any extent in expanding defense activities."

"The new industry offers a steady employment situation in areas of the State which have been hit hard by the denial of strategic materials to any but defense-connected industries," Senator O'Connor declared.

The Maryland Department of Information announces that 665-McHenry during 1951. The birthplace of the Star Spangled Banner is now a national shrine.

Legion Jrs. Lose To Taneytown

The Emmitsburg Legion Juniors, managed by Richard Yeoman, again took it on the chin Sunday as they lost their second contest of the Penn-Maryland League season to date. The locals fell victims to Taneytown by an 8-1 score played on the Taneytown diamond. While seven misuses were made by the Juniors, Manager Yeoman is convinced that a better brand of ball is being played since the beginning of the season, and he expressed confidence that with all-out backing by the local fans this Sunday when they play Fairfield here, the boys can and will go all out to defeat the Pennsylvanians, currently leading the league and managed by Slim Deatherage.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By J. GLENN BEALL
Sixth Dist. Congressional Rep.

The Congress last week completed action on a bill to give all armed services personnel an increase of 4% in pay and 14% increase in family quarters allowances.

Chairman Doughton of the House Ways and Means Committee last week introduced a bill to amend the Social Security Act so as to increase monthly old age and assistance benefits by $5.00, or 12½%, whichever is the larger. The bill also would increase minimum benefits to a retired person from $20 to $25 a month, and the maximum allowance per month for a family from the present $150 to $168.75. The bill would permit a beneficiary to earn $70 a month without losing benefits, instead of $50 as at present.

By a vote of 247 to 89, the House last week approved a compromise bill which would return control and ownership of tideland areas to the states. State ownership was unquestioned for nearly 150 years, until oil was discovered off the coasts of California and Texas. The Senate is expected to approve the bill promptly and send it to the White House.

The National Production Authority late last week revoked five of its restrictions on the use of four metals—bismuth, cadmium, lead and antimony—and relaxed controls on the use of zinc, carbon steel, copper and aluminum.

The Washington grapevine has it that Regulation X — which places restrictions on real estate credit—soon will be set aside or considerably eased by the Federal Reserve Board. Two weeks ago the Federal Reserve Board suspended Regulation W, which had credit restrictions on installment sales of automobiles, household appliances and similar commodities.

Since the Korean War started, Congress has appropriated $11.8 billion for the purpose of providing arms to allied nations. Up to the first of the month, only $2.8 billion of this amount had been spent. However, the Administration is requesting that Congress appropriate $5.4 billion more for foreign arms aid.

The Air Force is asking Congress for $1.9 billion now, and another $1.6 billion early next year, to expand the Air Force from its present 95 wings to 143 wings. The Dept. of Defense also has requested Congress appropriate $3 billion for a new base building program for the Army, Navy and Air Force.

According to a report recently released, automobile sales are down 17.6% from a year ago; furniture and appliances, 15.2%; hardware and building materials, 9.8%; jewelry stores, 4.2%; general merchandise stores, 4.1%; clothing stores, 2.1% and other durable sales, 2.4%. On the other hand, restaurants and bars are doing 4.9% better than a year ago. Drugstores, 1.9%; gasoline, stations ½% and other nondurable goods, 2.1%.

The Justice Dept. last week cancelled an agreement with the Agriculture Dept. which permitted that department to block criminal prosecutions or irregularities in the farm program. The Justice Dept. agreed in 1949 to let Agriculture screen troubles within its own department by throwing out cases which it felt should not be prosecuted in the criminal courts. This action by the Justice Dept. came after it was disclosed before the Senate Agriculture Committee that some Agriculture officials were seeking to cover up cases. At present 119 cases are being actively investigated with some 366 other cases of suspected irregularities reported. It is estimated that Government losses will run well over $10 million dollars.

HOOKS BIG CARP

One of the largest carp caught from the Monocacy River in some time was displayed Sunday night by Kenneth Fry, Frederick, who landed the 35-pounder after a 15-minute fight. The fish, a female heavy with roe, took a night-crawler bait at the Sweethole. Fry said the carp broke his reel in the battle. The fish measured three feet.

Wheat Crop Still In Good Condition

Wheat still appears to have escaped damage from either continuous wet weather or disease that might follow the rains, but some corn and seed potatoes are rotting in the ground, it was learned this week.

There still hasn't been enough water to hurt the grains of wheat, it was felt. The straw is getting heavy and a good bit of wheat may fall down if the wet weather continues but could well be brought back by sunny days. The grain hasn't headed as yet and it is generally after the heads form that wheat which has fallen does not straighten up.

It will be the last week in June or the first week in July before the quality of the crop can be foretold, one grainman said. Wheat is late this year because of the lack of sun.

Agriculturists said potatoes have rotted in low ground, although some planted in higher ground are showing good progress. Corn was examined over the week-end in several fields. It was very spotty. Seed was found which had started to sprout and then turned brown.

Barley seems to be in excellent shape, according to all reports. It is heading and will be ready for harvest well ahead of wheat.

Homemakers' Corner

Here's a kitchen hint, recommended by the University of Maryland Extension Service, that will help keep the family in good spirits and radiant health. Tack up a check list of the seven basic foods right beside your grocery shopping pad. Then check the grocery list with the list of basic foods to see if you're bringing in the kind of food that will give you and your family the best returns.

Here are the seven basic foods and the number of servings each member of your family needs from each group.

- 1—Green and yellow vegetable—one large serving daily.
- 2—Tomatoes, oranges, grapefruit, or raw cabbage or raw green—one serving.
- 3—Potatoes and other vegetable and fruits—one or more servings of potatoes, two servings of other vegetables and fruits.
- 4—Milk and milk products—to be used as a beverage or in cooked foods—adults should have one pint and children from three-fourths to one quart of milk.

5—Meat, poultry, fish and eggs—one serving of meat, poultry, or fish and one egg, or at least four a week. Other foods in this group are dried beans, peas, nuts, or peanut butter.

6—Bread, flour, and cereals—two slices, or the equivalent, of enriched, whole grain bread at each meal.

7—Butter or fortified margarine—two to three level teaspoons.

Spring Showers and Mud

Spring showers may bring out the grass and the flowers but they also help to bring mud into the house. If you find mud tracked on your rugs here's the best way to remove it. Scrape off as much wet mud as possible with the dull side of a knife. Allow the rest to dry and then brush it off. If a stain remains, sponge it with a damp cloth, that is, if the rug being cleaned can take moisture without removing the twist from the pile of the rug. If you're in doubt about the damp cloth method on your rug, you should first test it in an inconspicuous place.

such a fine thing for their community.

If there is such a thing as getting a new postoffice, Emmitsburg will do its best to get one. The Chamber of Commerce is going to put its best efforts forth and investigate the possibilities. Years ago this town had compiled all the qualifications necessary to acquire a new building and it was placed on a waiting list as Federal expenditures were curtailed before the last war. Apparently sidetracked for some reason or another, the deal never matured. Now the local Chamber intends to find out just what was the fate of our postoffice. With government officials and bureau spending money like drunken sailors, we, like the prudent merchant, want our share . . . a rightful inheritance, I must admit. Anyway, if a new postoffice is to be had, the Chamber will have it.

LIONS TO SEE DEMONSTRATION MONDAY

Members of the Emmitsburg Lions Club will witness a demonstration of fire hazards and their cause Monday night at the regular meeting of the club. The exhibition is sponsored by the nationally known Sparks Club and was invited here by J. Ward Kerrigan, local businessman.

EXHIBITION GAME

Mr. Richard Yeomans, manager of the Emmitsburg Legion Junior baseball team announced this week that an exhibition baseball contest between Emmitsburg Juniors and the Union Bridge Juniors has been scheduled for Community Field, Emmitsburg, Wednesday, May 28 at 6:15 p. m.

Conference Held Here

The monthly meeting of the Blue Ridge Conference was held Thursday, May 15 in the Memorial Gym at Mt. St. Mary's College. With the president, Michael Boyle presiding, the opening prayer was said by Rev. Charles W. Dausch, moderator of the unit. A cordial welcome was accorded the guests by Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, L.L.D., president of the college.

The business meeting focussed its attention on the August convention to be held at Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind. Following the business meeting the hymns Regina Coeli, Adoro Te and Stella Matutina were sung a cappella by the Seminary Choir. After a stirring talk by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Louis C. Vaeth on vocations, the meeting adjourned with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament in the college chapel.

The highest point in Maryland is Backbone Mountain, in Garrett County.

Holiday Postoffice Hours Announced

There will be no rural delivery from the local Postoffice on Memorial Day, Friday, May 30. Mail placed in the door night-drop on Thursday night, May 29, will be dispatched at 7:30 a. m. on Memorial Day. The Postoffice lobby will be open from 9:00 a. m., to 10:00 a. m., at which time the office closes for the day. No business is transacted on that day.

THE STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS

THESE ARE THE WORKERS

* REDDY DOCTOR RAILROADER MINER STEELWORKER FARMER LAWYER GROCER SALESMAN REPORTER

Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair. But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care! Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

Nine little free workers laughed at Reddy's fate Along came federal medicine—then there were eight.

Eight little free workers thought this country heaven But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven.

Seven little free workers—till the miners got in a fix. Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six.

Six little free workers till the day did arrive The steel mills, too, were federalized—then there were five.

Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.

Four little free workers till the government did decree All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

Three little free workers—the number is getting few, But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.

Two little free workers—our story's almost done, With clerks at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.

Ten little workers—but they are no longer free They work when and where ordered, and at a fixed rate you see, And it all could have been prevented if they'd only seen fit to agree And work together instead of saying "It never can happen to me!"
