Most Anything At A Glance

—BY ABIGAIL—

Just to show you how other people feel about Emmitsburg, even though they live out of town, I would like to cite you an example of this public-spiritedness. Most of you know Bill Rosensteel, from Baltimore, a former native of this place. Well, every opportunity Bill gets, he likes to come to Emmitsburg, and above all, to play in the local band. As usual, if at all possible, Bill drove up from Baltimore over the weekend just to get an opportunity to play for the Vets' Block Party. Although he did get to play Friday night, he appeared very dejected and forlorn Saturday evening when the rain forced cancellation of the performance. Even then, he was one of the last to leave the grounds, making doubly certain there was no chance of holding the affair. The party, socially, was a success, but of course financially, it took a beating, due of course to the inclement weather. However, it is believed that several hundred dollars will be cleared, but this is a far cry from the required one thousand dollars that is needed annually for the ambulance maintenance service.

And while on the entertainment theme, plans are being formulated for the annual carnival of the Chamber of Commerce which will be held in July for the benefit of the Memorial Hall building fund. A meeting has been held and a good response of last year's committees was recorded. President Ralph Irelan has appointed experienced individuals to take over the various duties and with the assistance of supporting town organizations, the affair should be a tremendous success. The function will not be as elaborate as that of last year when Old Home Week was staged, but a good collection of amusements, music, good food and entertainment, plus a big parade, are planned. Well, all I can say is that if the parade is as good as last year, which was the best ever held here in this old soul's recollection, we can well be proud of it and I just can't wait to see who will be the Carnival Queen. I wonder if there is any age limit on the selection of a queen? Well, I can dream, can't I?

How can you (Emmitsburg) do it, ask a number of our out-of-town friends? Do what, I interrogated? Why the publicity your town is getting by engaging notable speakers such as Governor McKeldin and Mr. Charles Wilson to come to such a small hamlet. Well I don't know exactly, but I do wish to congratulate the Chamber of Commerce for enticing Governor McKeldin to come here and my hearty congrats to Mt. St. Mary's College in being able to have Mr. Wilson, the former Defense Mobilization Director, address the commencement exercises of that school this week. Last, but not least by any means, Archbishop Keough was here to make the main address at St. Joseph College this week. Three notable figures in less than three weeks have come to Emmitsburg! Name me one other town of equivalent size that can boast of such a record! Honestly, though, I am still in the dark as to how it was accomplished.

Out comes the hammer again. The more you work and try to have something nice for the community, the more some people try to offset the accomplishments that you have struggled for years. Children . . . and adults too, have been desecrating and destroying various articles of equipment on the local Community Field. Every Sunday before game time a group of local sports-minded people have to get shovels, hammers and various equipment to repair the damage done during the week by these vandals. Vandal is really a polite term I use while writing. It certainly wasn't what certain individuals called them when they implored me to "do something about it." Anyway, it is a sin the way the property and equipment is abused and unless it is stopped, someone is going to be prosecuted. Broken beer and soda bottles, tin cans and other miscellaneous junk have to be removed before a ball

Wilson Says We're Prepared

At the annual alumni banquet held at Mt. St. Mary's College following graduation exercises on June 4, Charles E. Wilson, former Director of Defense Mobilization, stressed the fact American arms are better than those of any other nation in the world.

Speaking informally, Wilson commented on the fear complex that has been the steady diet of the American people. He said that as an "ex-bureaucrat, one who has been reasonably close to the mobilization program, I can assure you that industry and the military have acted with great wisdom. They have been charged with delays of all sorts. Those delays were due to the fact that we were trying to turn out weapons that would not be quick to go out of date. Those weapons we have. The word 'fantastic' is the only one which properly describes the power and possibilities of our new armament. Should Uncle Joe decide to fight, it is my opinion," said the ex-mobilization director, "that we have the stuff to make him rue the day."

On Saturday afternoon, May 31, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Woods gave a buffet dinner at their home near Emmitsburg for all out-of-town guests who had attended the wedding of their daughter, Bobbie Jane, to Mr. Charles I. Walker Jr.

Charles E. Wilson Commencement Speaker

Charles E. Wilson, in his first public address since his resignation as Director of Defense Mobilization, discussed labor and in defining the term said it "labor" is something we all understand. It is work." Wilson who is former president of the General Electric Company, was the main speaker at the 144th commencement exercises at Mount St. Mary's College Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

JOSEPH TURNBACH

Valedictorian

Joseph Turnbach was valedictorian for the Class of 1952 at the commencement exercises. He was born in Bethlehem, Pa. and is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth and the late John R. Turnbach.

JOHN P. MCKENNEY

Salutatorian

The salutatorian of this year's graduating class was John P. McKenney, who is 25 years old and a native of Danbury, Conn. Mr. McKenney has attained an average of 93% in his school work.

No Lasting Prosperity

"Organized labor is something else again," Mr. Wilson continued. "If it means an age of men who work, devoted to seeing the best work is well done with the best tools under wholesome and attractive conditions with proper incentive to progress and advancement, with proper safeguard against the change of power by those who direct and lay out the tasks for men to work at, then I don't think there is anyone in America who is not solidly behind such an organization."

"But whenever labor gets off the track and tries to set itself up as a system of education or as a political party, or as an arm of government or as a factor in forcing relations it is losing sight of its true function and is doing itself—and all America—a distinct disservice."

Referring to World War II and the peace we attained the speaker said: "we have named our survival 'victory' but today it is an understatement to say that the term needs a severe editing. We do not have peace, rather loud claims to the contrary. We do not have the basis of a lasting prosperity."

Stressing this point, Wilson said "What strikes me as the biggest headline of all after 20 years of planned campaign and after the expenditure of frightening billions of dollars aimed at providing security for the common man, the individual today is beset with the feeling of total insecurity."

WEEK-END ACCIDENTS

A tremendous increase in traffic accidents on Saturday and Sunday since the end of World War II grimly underscores the fact that these are the most dangerous days for driving.

Quite naturally, week-end outings have grown in popularity as many more families have acquired cars and now also enjoy the extra leisure that is provided by the five-day week. So, more than at any other time except national holidays, most American families are on wheels on week-ends; pleasure bent.

It is especially tragic, therefore, that so many of these happy outings are marred by a fatal or serious accident. Unfortunately, too often the family driver doesn't realize that week-ends are the time when dangerous drivers are out in full numbers—speeding drivers, reckless drivers, drinking drivers, inexperienced drivers and inconsiderate drivers who won't yield an inch—along with a full harvest of law-abiding motorists.

Holidays are notorious for their shockingly long lists of dead and injured. But drivers must also bear in mind that all week-ends, especially in the summer and during the months of good weather, are in effect "little holidays" that claim vast numbers of victims in traffic accidents. Last year nearly 15,000 men, women, and children were killed and 650,000 injured in week-end mishaps on the highways—mishaps that for the most part could have been avoided if the drivers had used a little more care, a little more patience, and much more regard for the traffic laws. Since the end of the war, week-end fatalities are now about 2600 higher and injuries about 200,000 greater annually. As a well-known safety specialist said this very week:

"Are a few minutes or even a few hours of time saved worth a life-time of regret? Let every driver, therefore, consider the extra hazards of week-end travel. The family wheel of fate literally is in each driver's hands. If he isn't level-headed, sober, and conscious of the traffic rules, others in the car should take action. That isn't back-seating driving; it is just self-preservation." To that we say amen.

Accidents

Constantly Rising

The hazards of weekend driving have increased greatly since the end of World War II, the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies warned this week, requiring the utmost caution by motorists to insure a safe journey when they take to the roads with family or friends for Saturday and Sunday trips.

Nearly all of the 15,000 men, women, and children killed in week-end accidents on the highways last year were family groups bent on pleasure trips, according to Thomas N. Boate, acting manager of the Association's accident prevention department. This was 800 above the Saturday and Sunday death toll in 1950—and 2600 higher than in 1946, the first full year after World War II.

Injuries are now about 200,000 greater each year on week-ends than they were in 1946. This reflects the tremendous increase in Saturday and Sunday accidents, Mr. Boate said, and emphasizes the urgent need for particularly safe driving when the family sets forth on week-end outings. Following the last war, the toll of injured and maimed for life in week-end traffic accidents alone increased from 440,000 in 1946 to 644,000 in 1950, he estimated. In 1951, the number went well above the 650,000 mark.

Week-end accidents also cost more than 80,000 lives in the six years following World War II and a total of more than 3 million men, women, and children were injured on Saturdays and Sundays from the beginning of 1946 to the end of 1951, according to studies made by the Association. Four out of every 10 traffic deaths now occur on week-ends, Mr. Boate said. Of every 100 persons injured in automobile accidents, 35 are victims of Saturday and Sunday driving.

Deaths on Friday have also increased about 350 annually and those on Monday have risen about 500 in recent years, he pointed out. This indicates the possibility that the "long week-end" of post-war years may also be taking a still higher toll among families who thus stretch their trips into three or even four-day jaunts. In 1950, the Monday and Friday tolls of injured increased about 100,000 annually over the 1948 total. The rise in Monday injuries was about 4000 higher than it was for Fridays. Many of the thousands killed and injured on these two days, the statistics indicate, were either returning home from "long week-ends" on Monday or were just starting out on Friday.

"The increased hazards of week-end travel these days call for the utmost caution by drivers from the time the family starts its trip until the car brings them safely home," said Mr. Boate. "Speeding drivers, reckless drivers, drinking drivers, inexperienced drivers and inconsiderate drivers who won't yield an inch are out on the roads in full force on those days, along with the millions of good drivers."

"Families that don't want to have their week-end fun marred by tragedy must recognize the growing importance of extra caution when the highways are thus crowded. Racing at high speed to a destination or weaving in and out of traffic lines are two of the surest ways of bringing tragedy to any family. They have brought injury or death to thousands of homes. Are a few minutes or even a few hours of time saved worth a lifetime of regret? Let every driver, therefore, consider the extra hazards of weekend travel. The family wheel of fate literally is in each driver's hands. If he isn't level-headed, sober, and conscious of the traffic rules, others in the car should take action. # HIROSHIMAS!

When the white-hot glare over Hiroshima faded away, the world trembled at the thought—one blast, 78,150 lives!

Yet since the turn of the century one million lives have been wiped out on the highways of our country. It would take the death-dealing power of thirteen Hiroshimas to equal that slaughter. All the American military deaths since Lexington, after 176 years, just equaled at the end of 1951 the toll of automobile deaths since 1900.

And death continues to ride the highways at an increasingly alarming rate. 35,000 killed in 1950! 300,000 in the ten years since Pearl Harbor! Last year more than 100 lives sacrificed to speed and carelessness every day! 5,000 injured every day!

You ask: What can I do about it?

You and 60,000,000 other drivers can do everything about it. You can be a safe driver alert to danger, sensitive to the killing power of speed. You can be a courteous driver considerate of other drivers and pedestrians.

Your contribution toward reducing this wanton waste of life on the highways, this calamitous toll of injuries and destruction of property, is your own effort to drive and walk safely and the common sense you use behind the wheel.

Your Personal Health

This is the sixth in a series of eight articles telling basic, important facts about indications which should put you on guard against the possible presence of cancer.

By W. R. CADLE, M.D.

Many of us are subject to temporary bouts of indigestion due to dietary indiscretions. Of course this type of indigestion is unimportant from the point of view of diagnosing cancer.

However, if indigestion persists for more than a few weeks, it is essential to have a diagnosis of its cause.

Danger Signal No. 5 is persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. The principal cancer which might rise to these symptoms is cancer of the stomach. This occurs slightly more frequently in men than in women and may occur in either. It is a dangerous form of cancer and prompt treatment is especially necessary.

The diagnosis of cancer of the stomach is not easy. Your physician has to differentiate it from many non-cancerous conditions such as gall bladder disease, gastric ulcer, gastritis, or a simple nervous stomach.

Gastric cancer was formerly considered among the most serious of cancers but recent reports from some leading hospitals have indi-

Alumnus Receives Honorary Degree

Rt. Rev. Msgr. William F. Lawlor, superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese of Newark, N. J., was honored by Mount St. Mary's College, at its 144th commencement on Wednesday, June 4, with the honorary degree Doctor of Laws.

Msgr. Lawlor, a native of Paterson, N. J., has spent the last 37 years as the supervisory field of Catholic education. He was originally scheduled to preach the baccalaureate sermon on June 3 but was forced to cancel this engagement because of illness.

The Monsignor was graduated from Seton Hall College in 1908 and received his M.S. in 1910. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1912 and was appointed superintendent of schools. In 1941 Pope Pius XII raised him to the Domestic Prelacy. He is a past president of the Assn. of Catholic School Superintendents as well as the National Catholic Education Assn. He is also the author of two geography texts, a civics text, and editor of a three-volume set of poems. Since 1929, Msgr. Lawlor has been pastor of St. Mary Star of the Sea parish, Bayonne, N. J.

cated that gastric cancer, still confined to the stomach, may be cured in almost half of all cases.

This is an encouraging note and is an example of the fruits of early diagnosis and treatment. Your alertness to the symptoms could still raise the rate of cures.

Senator O'Connor Stresses Revision Of Sound Thinking Policies For Bankers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Senator Herbert R. O'Connor told the Maryland Bankers Assn. in convention here that in the face of present day clamor for revision of American economic and social thinking and policies the early Maryland concept of Americanism continues to be a firm stanchion of democracy.

"Our citizens have kept free of dubious policies of government," the Maryland Senior Senator declared. "They valued their American heritage so keenly that they refused to allow residents of any other section to think for them or to pressure them into agreement with policies or principles alien to Maryland ideals."

Warning against the rising threat of socialization, as a development about which he had a "growing concern," Sen. O'Connor declared that "the increasing role of Washington in the lives of every man, woman, and child in the land is alarming." He traced the rise and development of controls during World War I and II, and noted that today we once more have many of the allocations and controls of the World War periods, with taxes higher than ever, the national debt at a record peak and Federal expenditures still rising.

Among the danger points enumerated by the Senator were:

- (1) That the national debt is twice as great as the assessed value of all property in America;
- (2) that the interest on that debt is twice the entire cost of government of two decades ago;
- (3) that over a 20-year period 15 out of every $4 has been taken by government.

"Present levels of taxation represent the limit to which we can go," he declared emphatically. "Disturbing as the record of spending and taxing has been, the projected spending plans for the future are even more alarming."

Forecasting spending of more than $75 billion annually for the next five years, he warned that dangerously high tax levels must be maintained.

He vigorously disputed claims of government leaders that such conditions were caused "by conditions beyond control." "I tell you that a great deal of it is not beyond control," he emphasized, "and it had better be brought under control quickly or the U. S. and with it the whole free world, may experience a financial jolt which could rock our Republic to its foundations."

As evidence of controlled spending, he cited long-range plans of the Army engineers and the Reclamation Bureau which, in addition to $10 billion already spent or in process of spending, include further projects either definitely planned or for ultimate completion totaling $48 billion.

Sen. O'Connor listed positive steps needed to insure preservation of the American system:

- (1) We must reaffirm our faith in American Constitutional processes and demand that our elected and appointed officials conform to them;
- (2) we must insist upon governmental functioning in accord with sound fiscal policies, based on the principle of living within our income and avoiding costly projects and services unnecessary during this emergency period;
- (3) encroachment by the Federal government into fields of private enterprise must be stopped. Venture capital must be encouraged and not threatened by the specter of governmental competition, with tax free franchise but with indirect support from the public treasury;
- (4) drastic revisions in appropriations must be made to the end that the tax burden shall be lightened. Staggering tax levies of the present not only are to be recognized as deterrents to business progress but they inevitably defeat their very purpose by removing the incentive to legitimate profitable productive effort; (5) socialistic schemes must be vetoed. Whether it be socialized medicine, to govern our health; or the Brannan Farm Plan to govern our food; or subsidized housing to govern the home, these should give way to private professional and individual effort; (6) our Foreign Aid Program must be chartered along courses which are realistic and practicable. Realizing as we must that this nation's wealth is not inexhaustible we must husband our resources and our substance to withstand communistic aggression.

ARRESTED AFTER CRASH

YOUR UNITED STATES

BY FLOYD CRAMER
PRESIDENT, NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE PRESERVATION OF FREE ENTERPRISE, INC.

The low purchasing power of the dollar is the big economic fact of the times.

Cheap money plays a very cruel trick on people. It makes them feel that they have more dollars in hand, when, in truth, they have less purchasing power. As long as our dollar continues to decrease in value, a man earning an increase in wages is not necessarily increasing his buying power. He may be just keeping up with the cost of living.

If we had a stable dollar, we would be able to know from one year to the next just where we stand financially. Then every dollar we put in a savings account today would have the same buying power 10 years later when we took it out.

In recent years we have had before us a vivid example of the cruelty of cheap money. In Germany after World War I the value of the money steadily decreased. Finally it reached a point where the proceeds of an insurance policy would just about buy one good dinner.

On the other hand, Britain's greatest century from 1814 to 1914 was marked by a hundred years of stable money. At the end of that century the pound sterling actually purchased more than it did at the beginning. Here in the United States, however, there has been a constant decrease in the purchasing power of our money.

To you and me, here is what this recent devaluation of the dollar has really meant:

When the old nickel candy bar actually cost five cents, we were glow we experienced when we first got more dollars, fades away entirely as our taxes go up and up, and our purchasing power goes down and down.

Those who administer our national affairs must understand the damage that so-called "cheap money" does to both the government and the individual. It is in the coming election, rather than on the personalities of candidates.

The Congress is particularly important. Our future, our financial security and our life ambitions depend upon sound money.

And by sound money, I mean stable money, money which buys the same amount of goods year after year.

We are too apt to do nothing about affairs of finance, because we think they are complicated. But in truth, it is only you and I who can maintain the dollar's value—by supporting those Congressional candidates who understand sound money.

New Weed Killer Proving Effective

Right half of this strawberry bed was treated with the new weed-killer. Heavy weed growth in the untreated section shows its value to the farmer and home gardener.

A weed killer, that is not actually a weed killer when sprayed, is proving itself effective, especially in areas where strawberries are the principal crop.

Brought out last year as CRAG Herbicide 1, the chemical is so composed that it is not an active weed killer until soil microorganisms work on it and change it chemically. Once this action takes place, the chemical becomes an effective weed killer . . . and a safe one.

By its very nature it can be sprayed on crops with little or no danger of drift damage to the foliage of nearby crops. When such drift occurs, the material is harmless until it reaches the soil where it goes to work on the weeds but not the crops.

Manufactured by Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Company, a Division of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation, of New York, its value to growers has already been proven in commercial operations. For example, at Seabrook Farms, Bridgeton, New Jersey, tests on asparagus plots actually brought a yield increase of 17 per cent, and appreciably decreased weeding costs.

The new weed killer is currently being tested on other crops. Tests already completed indicate that it also has promise for use in sweet corn, and field corn, corn and bulb type crops and nursery stock.

This new weed killer does not kill weeds greater than 1/4 inch high. For that reason, the chemical is applied on ground that is clean-cultivated. In this way the chemical kills germinating weeds and weed seed in the top layer of soil.

Growers should consult their local county agent or state experiment station on the dosages recommended for the use of this remarkable weed killer.

A "TOAST" TO JUNE DAIRY MONTH

20th Century-Fox Star Mitzi Gaynor raises a "toast" to June Dairy Month and the U. S. dairy industry as she drinks a glass of milk between "takes" in her Hollywood dressing room.

Dairy Month, June 1-30, a star in its own right on the American scene, is being staged for the 16th consecutive year. Its purpose is to further an even better understanding of the contribution dairy foods make to the nation's health and the stabilization of our economy.

About 10 million Americans gain livelihood from the production, processing and distribution of foods such as ice cream, milk, butter, cheese, evaporated milk and dry milk. The dairy industry contributes at least 10 billion dollars to national commerce.

Miss Gaynor will soon be seen in the motion picture comedy, "We're Not Married."

Nearly 30 diseases are known to attack soybeans in the United States.

Macaroni and vanilla were introduced into the U. S. by Thomas Jefferson, third president of the U. S.

FARM DOG AT WORK...

German Shepherd Dog
This dog with his great intelligence and ability to learn has distinguished himself during the last years and during the war in watch guard and police work to such an extent that we are listing him as a watchdog first.

The German Shepherd Dog—Size: 23 to 25" at the shoulder. Weight: Males 75 to 80 lbs. Females 60 to 70 lbs.

He is very one-mannish and loves to learn from his master. He is steady and reliable and distrustful of strangers. He is, as his name applies, a very fine dog for sheep and also good for driving cattle.

His physical appearance obviously makes him fit to live on the farm. He has a wooly undercoat and a smooth outer coat of hair which makes him resistant to cold or hot weather. His gait is smooth and graceful which enables him to move about tirelessly and fast.

3000 More Trout Released In Two County Streams

Sixteen tackle-busting rainbow trout were released in Fishing and Big Hunting Creeks on last Thursday as the State Game and Inland Fish Commission made the final stocking of fish for the 1952 season. Three thousand brooks and rainbows, ranging from 10 to 18 inches, were turned loose in the two streams in anticipation of the Memorial Day rush.

The trout were among the best ever released by the State, Regional Game Warden Benjamin F. Phebus said.

Two of the big brood fish stocked weighed eight pounds, Phebus said.

One was turned loose in Big Hunting Creek and another in Fishing Creek. The warden said anglers hooking into the big rainbows would require strong tackle.

Phebus said recently that the professional trappers working in the county have bagged a total of 48 foxes thus far. Gus McKinzie and James Beall, the trappers, expect to continue their trapping activities as long as there is a demand for their services. Farmers knowing of fox dens are requested to contact him. Phebus said.

It Happened To The Indians!

Several fictional books have been written in recent years dramatizing what lies in store for people when their welfare becomes the responsibility of a Welfare State. One of these books, "1984" by George Orwell, was on the best seller lists for several months. Yet it showed the final stages of the Welfare State's "planned society" to be so horrifying that its immediate effectiveness as a warning against the growth of the Welfare State in America was not great. Many Americans simply cannot believe that the enslavement depicted in "1984" could possibly grow out of little acts of government paternalism.

Truth is more powerful than fiction. Something effective against the Welfare State idea of government paternalism is in print. It is not fiction, but truth. It is the printed text of an address made on the Senate floor by Senator George W. Malone of Nevada, appealing for the emancipation of the American Indian. Since he has lived near them, has witnessed the frustration of reservation Indians, and feels keenly their miserable plight as wards of the Federal government, Sen. Malone is qualified to reveal the facts about the Indians' Welfare State.

Once Proud Race

The American Indians have been dependents of the Federal government for 125 years. During this century of dependency most of these people from a once proud, resourceful and ambitious race have lost their best characteristics. Many of the younger Indians of each succeeding generation have sought for their race freedom from the equalizing, paralyzing clutches of Federal Bureau paternalism. They have found, as has Sen. Malone, that once a Federal bureau gets itself well established and develops a program of welfare functions, its political influence apparently is too powerful to overcome.

"The Indian Bureau," said Sen. Malone, "was originally established to bring the advancements of civilization to the Indians. The original objective has long since been discarded, and new, multiple, and unexpected obligations have been assumed by the Bureau instead of providing conditions under which Indians could be educated, assimilated and trained to take their place among the citizens of the United States."

Chattels of Bureaucracy

Here are some important truths about the Indians whose kindly government proposed 125 years ago to briefly help them along and then make them free:

Today a restricted Indian cannot buy, sell, or lease property except with Indian Bureau consent; he cannot have access to his money deposited for him in the Federal Treasury except by act of Congress; he cannot engage in free and unrestricted business enterprise on the reservation because the Indian Bureau has its own specially sponsored corporations to handle business matters for the Indians; he is totally dependent upon the Indian Bureau when he is out of a job, sick, or when incapacitated by old age; he cannot buy, sell, or consume alcoholic beverages either on or off the reservation; if he should happen to be a war veteran he cannot, as a rule, obtain a loan under the GI Bill of Rights because his property is tied up in Indian Bureau trusteeship; for each individual Indian it takes in most cases a special act of Congress to be freed from the restrictions imposed by the Indian Bureau.

The Warning

"Government paternalism at its worst is strikingly exemplified in the Bureau's relationship to the Indian," said Sen. Malone. "It has undermined the confidence of the Indian in himself and in the Indian Bureau. . . . If such supervision and censorship should have been exercised over the people of any other nationality in the United States their growth and individual development would have been retarded in like manner."

Although the demand to abolish the Indian Bureau and emancipate the Indians has been made in Congress year after year and has failed because so few people are acquainted with or care about the Indians' plight, it is being voiced again this year. But Sen. Malone is trying to arouse the public to the danger of any form of government paternalism. "The most difficult thing in the world," he emphasizes, "is to remove a system of any kind which is organized to supervise somebody and handle his money and property, so long as the money and property hold out." Government today is taking an average 32 per cent of the earnings of all American citizens. Its bureaus are proposing all kinds of "social aid" plans in return. Are we suckers enough to fall for more of this? Take another look at what the government has done for the Indians!

YOU and YOUR CONGRESS

(Sponsored by the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce)

Is your child more likely to consider a career in crime as a result of what he sees on television or hears on radio?

There are opinions on both sides of the question in Congress and the House has authorized investigations to try to nail down the answer.

The idea of such investigations was greeted with something less than enthusiasm by some House members who contend that Congress cannot substitute for the American parent in the rearing of children.

The issue, meanwhile, in the view of other members, involves the process of congressional intervention through publicity rather than legislation.

The subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee which is to handle the TV-radio investigation has a ticklish assignment. It is in part, Rep. Gathings (D-Ark) explains, to determine whether radio and television have anything to do with the increase in crime from 1949 to 1950 as expressed in burglaries and automobile thefts.

Gathings told his colleagues that during the one-year period, according to the FBI, burglary offenses increased from 409,400 to 411,980, while auto thefts rose from 163,140 to 170,780.

"Do I understand," asked surprised Rep. Byron G. Rogers, (D-Colo.), "that the objectives of your committee would be to investigate as to whether or not the radio and television had any influence causing an individual to go out and steal an automobile or commit a burglary?"

Gathings said that definitely was one purpose of this investigation to determine whether radio and TV programs "contain immoral or otherwise offensive matter, or place improper emphasis upon crime, violence and corruption . . ."

He also said a recent survey by the Southern California Association for Better Radio and Television, covering six TV channels, for a week from 6 to 9 p. m., showed this total: 91 murders, seven stage holdups, three kidnappings, 10 thefts, four burglaries, two cases each of arson and jailbreak, and one each of murder by explosion, suicide, and blackmail, together with some assault and battery cases.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.), remarked that while he sympathized with the good intentions of those urging the investigation, he doubted that Congress could adequately police the American livingroom.

"I do not believe seriously," Hoffman said, "we should assume the duties and responsibilities that are the duties and responsibilities of parents. Should we attempt to censor all of these things, we could get into a terrible fix. We do not have to buy them for the children. We do not have to permit them to look at the television when we think it is wrong. "Should we not be more inter-

Honeymoon Over?

AFTER THE WEDDING trip it's the smart bride who keeps herself looking as lovely as she did walking up the aisle! With a home to keep spic and span, with meals to prepare, and with the job of keeping the wedding linens and other precious washables looking like new, it's a real challenge to find time to "stay as sweet as you are." And it takes plenty of homemaking short-cuts if you can hope to succeed.

A BIG HELP, where the laundering problem is concerned, is to keep two little laundry aids on the shelf near your washer. One of these is bead-bluing, which protects whites and colors, and in addition, has an ingredient that gives white clothes a beautiful glow . . . makes them whiter than white. A half cup or more in hot wash water does the trick!

THE OTHER laundry friend is an ironing aid—a blue wax-like tablet. Just dissolve one section in each quart of hot starch, and be pleasantly surprised at the way your iron fairly races across the clothes. You'll like the extra-perky, extra soil-resistant finish this special starch mixture gives your starchables. You'll love the "time on your hands" that a little laundry know-how will give you. (ANS) ested in limiting the expenditures in Government and reducing taxes and getting at this foreign situation which is sending so many of our young folks over? I think we should."

Prior to the vote authorizing the investigation, Gathings noted that the subcommittee must report any legislative recommendations not later than January 3, 1953.

But a few days later, in his weekly newsletter to constituents, Rep. Miller (R-Neb.), who supported the investigation move, said that whatever was accomplished would be done through publicity—an avenue not new to Congress—rather than legislation.

"The publicity resulting from these investigations," Miller wrote "will be all to the good if it stimulates organizations at the local and national levels to give more attention to the damage inflicted on the minds of our youth by forced display of evil and crime." He added that "censorship by law is questionable . . ."

Meanwhile, Rep. Brown, (R-Ohio), declared that censorship already exists. He quoted a Washington newspaper article headed: "Horatio at the Bridge" which told how a Federal customs censor at Idlewild Airport, N. Y., impounded and listened to a tape-recorded interview with Bertrand Russell, British philosopher—for broadcast on Lord Russell's 80th birthday—to make sure it contained no embarrassing reference to sex, because Lord Russell once had written a book about sex.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

PRIDE in the JOB

LABOR DAY IS A DAY WHEN ALL OF US WHO WORK WITH HAND AND BRAIN CAN DRAW SATISFACTION FROM THE DIGNITY, FREEDOM AND REWARDS THAT GO WITH A JOB IN OUR DEMOCRACY.

WE CAN RIGHTLY TAKE PRIDE IN AN UNRIVALLED JOB OF PRODUCTION—AND IN THE STANDARD OF LIVING WHICH OUR PRODUCTIVE POWER HAS MADE POSSIBLE.

AND WE CAN BE PROUD, TOO, OF THE THRIFT WITH WHICH WE HAVE USED OUR EARNINGS TO MAKE THE MIGHTY TOTAL OF INDIVIDUAL SAVINGS THAT FORMS THE FINANCIAL BACKBONE OF THE INDUSTRIES THAT SERVE THE NATION.

Spring Brings Mud And Mischief!

When Mr. Mischief tracks home mud, don't despair. Cleaning up after him isn't such a bad job if you follow the right rules. Let mud dry—don't try to rub it off or you rub it in. If, as in this case, a bedspread is involved, determine first if it is washable. If not, take it to the cleaners immediately.

If it is washable, here are the rules to follow, according to Winifred S. Carter of Procter & Gamble's Household Information Service. Shake spread to remove lint and loose dirt. Fill the washing machine as you would for a full load. Use warm water for colored or quilted spreads, hot for white. Make plenty of rich suds with a good all-purpose soap such as Duz or Oxydol. Wash one large spread or two small ones at a time. Don't overload the washer. Place them loosely in the machine to permit plenty of motion. Wash only five to eight minutes, then rinse in warm water.

Put spreads through the wringer at low pressure to help avoid wrinkles. Shake out and hang over a line—two parallel lines are better. Smooth out seams, square the corners and hems. Dry colored spreads out of direct sunlight. Pick a breezy day if possible.

Candlewick, chenille or corduroy spreads do not need ironing, so let them dry thoroughly on the line. A quilted spread may be placed on the bed when still slightly damp, if you have any doubt about its shrinking. Then stretch it to its proper size and press right on the bed to restore it to its original shape.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER BABSON

Babson Discusses Salaried Workers

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 5—I am much concerned about the financial plight of some white-collar workers. I am talking about small business managers, schoolmasters, bookkeepers, sales clerks, doctors and the clergy. These have been our community leaders. They have represented much of what has been best in our communities. To destroy them financially is to destroy an important segment of our American way of life; and that is what is happening.

Middle-Class Living Standards Decline

This is the group of people who from 1935 to 1939 earned salaries ranging from $2,500 to $3,500. Only last week I talked with a salaried executive of one company. In 1939 he was making $3,000 per year. Raises since that time have brought his salary to $4,000. In 1932 he took out insurance policies which would pay $500 per year toward each child's education. The college to which he planned to send his children then cost $950 per year. Today the charges are $1,500.

With inflation and increased taxes, this man cannot afford the education he had planned for his children without going into debt. It is this segment of our population whose bank accounts have shrunk, who have been forced to cash in war bonds and insurance policies—not for television sets and new cars—but to pay the food, clothing and shelter bills. Yet, this executive is probably getting pay above what the average reader of this column receives.

Here's What Happened

The 1935-39 $2,500-a-year male school teacher would need much more today to maintain his 1935-39 living standards. How many school committees have raised their teachers as much as they should? The result is that our teachers have constantly had to pull in their belts for the education of their children, hospitalization, and their old age. This explains why there is a shortage of teachers. Those teachers whose salaries have increased most are the young college instructors, who have had an average rise from $1,900 in 1940 to about $3,000 today—an increase of 58%.

This unfortunate situation is not wholly due to inflation. Some of the troubles are due to the school teachers and parents themselves. They have failed to instill into the youth a love for work and a desire to be of real service. Our communities are now suffering from this neglect of fundamental training. Perhaps the school teachers are themselves partly to blame for their present predicament.

Salaried Workers Versus Wage Earners

Wage earners, on the other hand, through group pressure—namely, labor unions—have gained ground fast. During the 1935-39 period, manufacturing workers earned, as a group, about $23 a week. Today they make about $66 per week. This represents an increase of approximately 187% in wage earnings. Now I don't begrudge these workers this increase—not at all. They're not going to live too riotously even at $66. I am glad they have benefitted. By way of contrast however, the most fortunate college professor in a relatively small number of colleges has received an increase of only 40% during the same period.

What I am concerned about is that those white-collar workers in our community who, by the nature of their training and experience, have been our leaders have not received the same kind of treatment as the production-line worker. Does this mean that the only way to get the problem recognized is through group pressure? If top management does not realize the inequities to this group of workers, I am afraid they are inviting disaster.

Looking Into The Future

Perhaps the one consoling factor for the white-collar worker is that commodity prices and Federal taxes will probably not increase further in 1952. This, however, is small encouragement for a substantial block of our most solid citizens. On the other hand, all should realize that raising wages is not the cure for the disease or the an-

1. HOW MUCH DAMAGE CAN AN H-BOMB DO?

2. WHAT IS THE NEW TECHNIQUE IN HUNTING?

3. SHOULD YOU CHOOSE YOUR CHILD'S TOYS?

(1.) An H-bomb containing one ton of deuterium would create 15,000 lbs. of radioactive cobalt, equivalent to almost 5 million lbs. of radium. If set on a North-South line in the Pacific ocean, 1000 miles west of California, the radioactive dust would reach California in about a day, New York in four or five days, killing most life as it spread. Similarly, as William Lawrence, famous science writer says in his book "The Hell Bomb," a bomb set near Prague would destroy all life within a strip 1500 miles wide, from Lenin grad to Odessa, and 3000 miles deep, from Prague to the Ural mountains.

(2.) Joe Heflin Smith in "Field and Stream" tells about the method a Texas game warden has devised for "calling" coyotes. It could be used for other animals. On a hard-rubber duck call the game warden learned to imitate the squeal of a dying rabbit. Smith went with him to an open field. The warden got his gun ready. He made the call, then waited. Nothing happened. He made the second call.

Mt. St. Mary's College Honors Oldest Living Alumnus With Honorary Degree

John J. Lenney, of Miami, Fla., is a patient and persistent scholar. On June 5 the oldest living Mt. St. Mary's student received his doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia University, just 62 years after he started his pre-legal studies at Mount St. Mary's College.

Blind in one eye and "unable to see out of the other," the sprightly 81-year-old gentleman is otherwise physically fit and participated in Columbia's graduation even though it meant missing the local exercises and the address of Charles L. Wilson, former Director of Defense Mobilization.

Lenney first came to Mt. St. Mary's College in 1890. He carried on his pre-legal studies on the Emmitsburg campus until 1894 when he transferred to George Washington U., where he received his A.B. and A.M. degrees. In 1914 he received his LL.B. from Georgetown University.

Admitted to the bar in Wash., he then entered Columbia University and completed his residence requirements for the Ph.D. in 1916.

The outbreak of the Spanish American War had interrupted Lenney's formal education and served to focus his attention on the status of the enlisted man. Having enlisted in the Army, Lenney served in the Philippines and was decorated by the Secretary of War.

Since then the scholarly gentleman has written many documents about the social status of the enlisted man. Having selected as the title of his doctoral thesis, "Promotion from the Ranks of the Regular Army, 1775-1950," Lenney spent 10 years in Washington doing research on his material.

For many years following his marriage in 1907, Lenney was employed by the Government as deputy collector and inspector of customs at Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va. Later he served with the Veterans Administration in

WEDDINGS

Miss Hilda Deatherage, daughter of Mrs. James Deatherage, and the late James Deatherage, Emmitsburg, was married to Wallace Hemingway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hemingway, Syracuse, N. Y., on Sunday afternoon, June 1, at 3 o'clock in the Elias Ev. Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Philip Bower, pastor of the bride, in a setting of palms, cala lilies and lighted tapers. The traditional wedding marches were played by Jasper Wantz, who also played "Lieberstraum" and "My Hero." Richard Frock sang "O Promise Me," "Because" and "I Love You Truly." During the ceremony, he sang "Lord's Prayer."

The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Donald, wore a white organdy ballerina length coat dress with ruffled taffeta petticoat. Her veil of illusion length was held by a seed pearl cap. She carried a colonial nosegay of white carnations and white gladioli centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. John McMahon, Emmitsburg, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor and was attired in a lavender organdy ballerina length gown with fitted bodice and full skirt, white bonnet and white accessories. She carried a colonial nosegay of lavender gladioli, and carnations framed in Scotch heather. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Livesey and Mrs. Clyde Bowling, sister of the bride. They were attired in gowns of green and yellow respectively, identical to that of the matron of honor, and carried colonial bouquets of green and yellow rosebuds, gladioli, and carnations.

10:45 in the auditorium with the induction of new student government officers, Children of Mary officers, and CSMC officers. Commercial awards were then presented to the students of both fourth and third years.

With the distribution of the yearbook, Annals of 1952, inaugurated by the seniors and published by the commercial department, the Class Day ceremonies were concluded.

Wilson Speaker

Almost every step toward that shining goal has somehow carried us further away from it."

He termed it legalized immorality "where the evils in society are directly traceable to the vices of individual human beings. In the sweet name of human welfare, the government begins to do things that would be gravely offensive if done by individual citizens. We are assured that government should do for the people what they are unable to do for themselves."

In conclusion he said that this definition "is an extremely dangerous definition of the purpose of government. It is radically different from the purpose stated in the Declaration of Independence.

ACP Means Continued Business

This year, approximately 15,000 Maryland farmers will be carrying out soil and water conservation practices on their farms, according to James A. Cottman, acting chairman of the Maryland Production and Market Administration State Committee. Much of the conservation work, he points out, adds to and strengthens the conservation practices carried out in previous years.

To help farmers carry out these practices, Mr. Cottman estimates that at least $1,250,000 will be provided through the Agricultural Conservation Program. The total cost of the practices will be at least twice that amount.

As the acting chairman sees it, the conservation work carried out in the state means far more than a few dollars in circulation. The practices mean that much more grass and legume seed bought and used, that much more dirt-moving equipment in operation, that much more lime and phosphate moving through the channels of trade—all of which means that much more business on Main St., as well as that much more conservation.

But more important, it means a more stable agriculture in the state. According to Mr. Cottman, the soil that is held on Maryland farms by the conservation carried out, will be here to continue to produce in the future. That means additional corn, wheat, hay, meat and milk, as well as more truck crops and tobacco.

In turn, this means the purchase of more farm machinery, more automobiles, more shoes and coats and hats—more business on Main Street.

Instead of the land becoming less and less productive, it will become more productive. Pastures will produce more milk and meat. Cropland will return higher yields. Food crops from land improved by conservation will give added assurance of health.

The contour farming, drainage and other practices you see on the farms of cooperating farmers are working for all the people in Maryland, not just the individual farmers who carry out these practices. And all the people of our state, as well as the people of the country, will continue to share in the returns from the investment in conservation.

Congressman Polk On ACP
Congressman James G. Polk of Ohio elaborated on some of the benefits of the Agricultural Conservation Program as follows:

"In 1949, a total of 24 million tons of lime were applied to our farms through the ACP. As a result, approximately 20 million tons more hay and pasture were produced. Assuming that this increase in hay and pasture is converted into beef, the increase equals about one and one-half billion pounds of beef—live weight. The cost to the Government in payments to farmers for 24 million tons of lime at $2 a ton, amounts to $48,000,000—1,500,000 live weight beef, at 20 cents a pound, amounts to approxi-

Legion Auxiliary
Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Francis X. Elder Unit, No. 121, American Legion Auxiliary, was held Tuesday evening with 30 members present. President Mrs. Louis Rosensteel presided.

The president thanked all those members who participated in the Memorial Day parade held on Sunday, June 1. It was announced that five members attended the district meeting held in Hampstead, Md., on May 18. Those attending were Mrs. Louis Rosensteel, Mrs. Herbert Adams, Mrs. Charles Cinegram, Miss Ruth Gillean and Mrs. Irvin Brown. The next district meeting will be held in Boonsboro, Md., on July 6.

Donations were authorized for several veterans' hospitals for cigarettes, etc.

Letters and cards of thanks were read from several Gold Star mothers. It was announced that the auxiliary would hold a food sale Saturday at 10 a. m. in the Fire Hall. There also will be a bingo party on June 14 in the basement of the Legion home.

Nominations of officers was held and the election will be held next month. Luella Kreitz's name was drawn for the door prize but was absent. Following the business session, refreshments were served.

mately $300,000,000. The $300,000,000 additional income figured in the 20% income bracket comes to $60,000,000 additional income tax, collected by the Government. In other words—in 1949, the Federal Government through an expenditure of $48,000,000 for agricultural lime which was purchased by farmers under the ACP, resulted in a return to the Government in income taxes of $60,000,000—a net profit of $12,000,000."

Veterans Dedicate
New Playground

Emmitsburg's new $2000 playground was formally dedicated by both the adults and the children last Friday evening, May 30.

The local VFW Post presented services marking Memorial Day and dedicating the new playground.

Then Emmitsburg's Mayor Thornton W. Rodgers cut the ribbon opening the play center and the children took over. Before the ribbon was cut, the new playground stood vacant but seconds later every swing was in motion, the sliding board was crowded with kiddies, a "merry-go-round" in the center and a "jungle gym" climbing device disappeared under a sea of children and every seasaw was operating with from four to six children aboard.

The program was opened by a band selection, "Gate City," by the Emmitsburg Municipal Band. Lumen F. Norris, adjutant-quartermaster of the post, followed with the introductory remarks.

The flag was then raised by the color guard of the Francis X. Elder Post, American Legion, drill team while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner." The invocation was given by Rev. Philip Bower, pastor of Elias Ev. Lutheran Church.

Guests of the evening were introduced by Lumen F. Norris as follows: Mayor Rodgers; Rev. Philip Bower; Wales E. Rightnour, commissioner and past commander of the post; Charles Fuss, town commissioner; Harold M. Hoke, immediate past commander of the post; Fern Ohler, commander of the VFW Post; T. Eugene Rodgers, present commander of the local Legion Post; Everett Chrismier, chairman of the committee for the planning and construction of the playground; Mrs. Mary Hoke, first president of the VFW Auxiliary; Mrs. Anna Stoner, second president of the auxiliary; Mrs. Wales Rightnour, third president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Rosalie Bond, present president of the auxiliary.

Harold M. Hoke presented the playground to the community and it was accepted by Mayor Rodgers.

Wales E. Rightnour, town commissioner, in the principal talk of the evening told the audience: "It is the hope of the Veterans of Foreign Wars that this playground will help to provide part of the recreation necessary to mould good citizens for the years ahead."

"As a community and as a nation we have made mistakes in the past," Mr. Rightnour said. "The sadness of Memorial Day stands as mute testimony that there have been mistakes. But we can be sure of living right if we cling to the virtues and ideas for which a million American men have given their lives. This vast silent army of the dead reminds us that we must not break faith with the purpose and resolve for which they struggled and died."

Mr. Norris and others paid tribute to the Vigilant Hose Co. for giving the ground on which

Society Plans
Social Night

The LOYAL group of Elias Lutheran Church will hold a social night at the Parish House on Tuesday, June 17 at 8 o'clock. Due to a conflict with commencement, instead of the regular meeting for June the group is sponsoring the social night and is inviting special guests, all the graduating class and Emmitsburg High School and all the members of the Luther League and the Youth and Chapel Choirs.

Refreshments will be served. Robert E. Daugherty is president of the group and Clarence Hahn is chairman of the social.

The playground is located and to the Emmitsburg Lions Club which for a number of years operated a playground for the community.

The program concluded with a retreat service by the Legion color guard and benediction by Rev. Bower.

It was announced that the playground will be open under the supervision of Mrs. Wales Rightnour each day, except Sunday, from 9 to 11 a. m. and from 2 to 5 p. m. until Sept. 1.
