—BY ABIGAIL—

Well, the big wind has subsided in Chicago and I hope we can all return to normalcy once again. Many of us learned something from the two affairs and some of us don't know now anymore than we ever did. However, one fact remains clear and that is that the American public is being duped into believing that they select the Presidential candidate. How wrong that is. The fact is that we have very little to say about the matter. That was plainly demonstrated in the case of Mr. Stevenson. Although not officially a candidate, many of us were well aware that he would be offered the job as standardbearer for his party. He certainly isn't what you could call "the people's choice" because the people like you and me, had nothing whatever to do with it. He was strictly Mr. Truman's choice. I don't understand how the public has lain so dormant all these years letting slick politicians make their selections for them. Now take the case of Mr. Kefauver. Here was a candidate who served his intentions practically a year ago. He worked hard, entered many state primaries and spent a lot of money in his fight for the nomination. And to what avail? Two days before the balloting comes along, up stepped Mr. Stevenson, previously unlisted, and cops the nomination. Just how much did you or I have in the say so? One might easily ask, what are primaries for? Truthfully, I can't answer that one myself after that demonstration in Chicago last week. The whole thing was the culmination of a plot that was formulated well in advance of the convention. Mr. Kefauver was the choice of Marylanders, having run unopposed in the primary. Do you really think the desires of Marylanders were fulfilled at the convention? In other words, primaries are useless. The whole system calls for revision of our national election laws. We should immediately inform our senators and congressmen that the voting structure is a farce and needs correction mightily bad.

I am deeply grateful for the following contribution concerning a query I made recently to my readers involving the length of national GOP and Democratic conventions. I stated that I believed that none of them ever continued for more than a week. How wrong I was. Mrs. Barbara Hoffman O'Kelly, of Leesburg, Fla., kindly informs me that the 1924 Democratic convention began on June 24 and terminated on July 10-17 days. And to top it off, a total of 103 ballots were cast. Man alive, and to think I became fidgety on the second ballot this year. Must have been the heat wave I guess.

Speaking of heat waves, I am going to stick out my neck again and say that I believe this is the hottest and most sustained heat wave I have ever experienced. Now watch someone come up with statistics to again make Darwin's theory a truth.

Many of the local men sports enthusiasts were somewhat surprised and chagrined last Sunday when the women's baseball team played a contest here on Community Field. The gents were amazed at the prowess of the femmes at the diamond sport and expressed the opinion that what we need on our ball team were a few of the fairer sex. Well, it might boost the attendance, but I seriously doubt that it would elevate the caliber of play among the locals. It is planned to have the gals play a return engagement, I understand.

I am informed of a local gent, who in dire need of a ride during the recent carnival, "hitched" a ride from the carnival ground to centerfield of the ball park. Seems as though his transportation was furnished by a local lady who gave the "lift" begrudgingly. The gent, a local and respected businessman, hardly was in the car, when the lady, accompanied by two others, bemoaned the fact that the car didn't operate on air whereupon the gent offered the taxi driver 25 cents to haul him to centerfield. Fire Levels Tenant House Near Here

Fire completely destroyed a tenant house on the Clairvaux estate near St. Anthony's Shrine early Tuesday morning.

The Vigilant Hose Company of Emmitsburg responded to the call at approximately 7:15 a. m. to find the house a blazing inferno. Only their prompt arrival and the expert work of Chief John Hollinger and his men, prevented the flames from spreading to the main structures of the estate.

During the height of the blaze, a water shortage developed and endangered the entire holdings when a water pipe in the tenant house burst. Prompt action by Fireman Louis Orndorff, who managed to get a passing plumber's assistance, entered the blazing building and capped the broken water pipe to save the supply and possibly all other buildings.

The house, owned by Mrs. Marie Gloninger Rial, was tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Brawner, who at the time of the conflagration, were at work in the Fairfield Shoe Factory. According to witnesses, the fire occurred when two of the Brawner children arose at 6:15 a. m. and began heating water on a kerosene stove. After lighting the stove and setting the flame at "medium" height, the two children, Patricia, 14, and Billy, 11, are said to have gone back to bed to sleep. Awakening later and smelling smoke, the two grabbed their clothing and darted through the fire to safety. They were burned slightly but were not hospitalized.

All possessions in the home were destroyed and Mrs. Rial reported her loss as only partially covered by insurance. After escaping the burning structure, the children summoned Mrs. Rial who immediately called the fire company which responded and was on the scene, three miles away, in approximately 10 minutes.

Investigators stated they believed the stove apparently exploded while the children were sleeping, enveloping the building in flames. Mrs. Rial credits the prompt action of the fire company with saving the balance of her property by their quick response and expertness in handling fires.

Blaze Destroys Wash House

Four fire companies were summoned Monday morning to the Frey Farm about a mile and a half from Fountaine, on Old Route 16, when a large washhouse about 60 feet in length caught fire.

Companies from Blue Ridge Summit, Fairfield, Fountaine, and Ft. Ritchie confined the damage to one end of the washhouse and prevented spread of the flames to the home, about 20 feet away, and the barn, 40 feet distant. Loss was estimated at $1000.

A Mr. Tressler, who resides near the Frey farm, noticed smoke pouring from the building as he was driving by, and stopped a truck which was behind him. He instructed the truck driver to continue to Fountaine and turn in the alarm. Tressler grabbed a garden hose and helped prevent the flames from gaining headway until the arrival of the fire companies.

Church Will Erect New Fencing

Another step in the general program of improving and beautifying the grounds surrounding Elias Ev. Lutheran Church was taken this week with the beginning of work on the project of removing the over 50-year-old wire fence from the front of the church and parish house and the erection of ornamental stone piers to be connected with heavy chain. The piers are to be of Butler quarried stone. Mr. John Lingg has been employed by the church to be the mason foreman.

HARBAUGH REUNION

The 30th annual Harbaugh reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 3, at St. Jacob's Evangelical and Reformed Church, Fountaine, Pa.

An all-day affair is planned with basket lunch, games and prizes.

Ancient Letter Is Believed Written By Christ

The following reprint was presented to this paper by Mrs. Garland Lefter, Fairfield, Route 2, co-proprietor of the Busy-Bee Restaurant, Center Square. The reprint is from the Southwest Virginia Enterprise and concerns an ancient letter originally owned by the late Rev. Sheffey of Wytheville, Va. Mrs. Lefter claims her father, John Davis, of Mumbasburg, Pa., knew the owner well.

The aged printed article, according to Mrs. Lefter was originally owned by the late Rev. Robert S. Sheffey of Wytheville and was found in a trunk belonging to a descendant of the Sheffey family.

Mr. Sheffey, a very well-known and loved Wythe Countian, died in 1902 at the age of 82 years. A copy of a letter from Jesus Christ, and found 18 miles from Iconium, 65 years after our blessed Saviour's Crucifixion. It was transmitted from the Holy City by a converted Jew and faithfully translated from the original Hebrew copy and is now in possession of the Lady Cuba's family at Mesopotamia.

This letter was written by Jesus Christ, and found under a great stone, near the foot of the Cross, 18 miles from Iconium, near a village called Mesopotamia. Upon that stone was written and engraved, "Blessed is he that turns me over." All people who saw it prayed to God earnestly and desired he would make known to them the meaning of this writing that they might not attempt in vain to turn it over.

In the meantime there came a little child, six or seven years old and turned it over without help to the consternation of all the people who stood by. Under this stone was found a letter written by Jesus Christ which was taken to the city of Iconium and was published by a person belonging to the Lady Cuba and on the letter was written—The Ten Commandments of Jesus Christ, and was signed by the Angel Gabriel 28 years after our Saviour's birth.

"A letter of Jesus Christ and whosoever worshippeth on the Sabbath day shall be cursed. I command you to go to church and keep the Lord's day holy without doing any manner of work. You shall not idly misspend your time in bedecking yourselves with superfluities of costly apparel and in dresses. I have ordained it a day of rest. I will have it kept holy that our sins may be forgiven you. You shall not break my commandments, but observe and keep them. Written with my own hand, spoken with my own mouth. You shall not only go to church yourselves but both your man servants and your maid servants shall observe my words and keep my commandments. You shall finish your labor every Saturday afternoon by six of the clock at which hour the preparation for the Sabbath begins. I advise you to fast five Fridays in every year, beginning with Good Friday and to continue the four immediately following in remembrance of the five bloody words received for all mankind, you shall diligently and peaceably labor in your respective vocation wherein it hath pleased God to call you.

"You shall love one another with brotherly love and cause them that are not baptized to come to church and hear the Holy Sacrament—viz—Baptism and the Lord's Supper and be made members in so doing. I will give you long life and many blessings, and your land shall replenish and bring forth abundantly. I will give you many blessings and comfort you in the greatest temptations.

"And surely be he that doth to the contrary—he shall be cursed and unprofitable. I will also send sadness of heart upon them until I have destroyed them, but especially upon the hardened and impenitent unbeliever. He that hath given to the poor shall not be unprofitable. Remember to keep the Sabbath day, for the seventh day I have taken to myself. And he that hath a copy of this letter, written with my own hand, spoken with my own mouth, and keep it without publishing it to others, shall not prosper. But he that shall publish it to others shall be blessed of me and though his sins be in numbers as the stars in the sky, and he that believeth in this shall be pardoned and if he believe not this writing and my commandments, I will send my plagues upon him to consume both him and his children and his cattle. Whoever shall have a copy of this letter

The Blue, scaling 273½ pounds, measured 10 feet and two inches in length, was landed after a three-hour and 10-minute battle ranging in the Gulf Stream off the coast of Ft. Lauderdale for a distance of 10 miles.

The conquest was made on 24 thread 70-pound test line. The Marlin currently is No. 1 in the Ft. Lauderdale Summer Fishing Festival.

Air Spotters Man Station 24 Hours Daily; Volunteers Wanted

Staffed around the clock by volunteer observers, the Emmitsburg Aircraft Spotter Station has been supplying the Baltimore filter center with information on multi-plane formations and jets seen in the Emmitsburg area since the station went on 24-hour duty July 14.

Lumen F. Norris, station supervisor, said this week that about 10 reports have been telephoned to the Baltimore center since the station went on full-time duty.

A jet was reported one evening this week and others have been reported earlier in the observation period, Mr. Norris said. The supervisor and his chief observer, J. Everett Chrismer, are campaigning for more volunteers to man the spotter post which was erected atop the VFW Bldg. as a community service project.

There are now about 65 persons giving their time to the spotter duty on one or two-hour shifts. A staff of at least 100 is being sought so that those who are helping will not have to be called upon so often.

The urgency of the work was impressed upon Mr. Norris in a recent telephone conversation with the Baltimore headquarters. Reporting to Baltimore that some difficulty is being experienced in Emmitsburg in securing a sufficient number of spotters, Mr. Norris was told the spotter work "is very essential and represents real emergency service."

Men and women are serving as volunteers and young people from the age of 14 up will be accepted for spotter duty, Mr. Norris explained.

The station is equipped with a radio and a telephone for prompt reporting of sighted planes of the types requiring record calls.

"We feel this spotter duty offers a practical opportunity for the people of our town to perform a service to their community and to the nation," Mr. Norris said. The fact that many communities have not taken seriously this spotter duty makes it all the more important that those who operate a station do it thoroughly and give our filter center and our alerted defenses the advantage of full, prompt information about planes that appear in our skies. This is an important part of our national preparedness program and we need help of everybody in the community."

Mr. Norris pointed out no one will be given more than a 2-hour period each week after the quota has been reached. Persons interested in doing a valuable community service may contact either Mr. Norris or Mr. Chrismer.

Community Fund Game Successful

The regular monthly meeting of the Community Fund was held Monday night in the VFW Home, President Paul A. Keepers, presiding.

Treasurer Mary Scott reported receipts from the benefit baseball game held last Thursday evening as $32.40, which was less than half that of last year's affair.

It was voted to provide some type of recreation for a shut-in, Mrs. Kugler, who is residing at the State Sanitarium. Several other cases of hardship were discussed and will be investigated before action is taken. President Keepers expressed the appreciation of the organization to all who helped in making the benefit game possible. The next regular meeting will be held on August 25.

Group Studies Swimming Pool Situation

Edgar G. Emrich presided at the regular meeting of the Memorial Hall Assn. held Tuesday night in the Fire Hall. The treasurer announced he had received a $25 donation to the building fund from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion. Mrs. Helen E. Daugherty gave a detailed report on swimming pools and it is felt that in the not too distant future a pool can be erected. The organization unanimously agreed to meet quarterly now instead of monthly. The president will give notice of the meetings.

It was announced that bingo games will be resumed in the Fire Hall during the winter, beginning sometime in September.

Lions Club Appoints Standing Committees

President J. Ward Kerrigan presided over the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club Monday night at the White House Inn, 24 members attending.

Dr. D. L. Beegle, chairman of the picnic committee, reported he was in communication with the Gettysburg Country Club and was negotiating a date for the annual picnic of the Lions. Tentatively, the affair will be held either Aug. 25 or 26.

President Kerrigan announced the standing committees for the ensuing year as follows:

The Lion president is ex-officio a member of all standing committees.

The president also announced the committees for the horse show which will be held Sept. 21: publicity, Charles Elder, Edward G. Stull, Herbert Roger; programs, George L. Wilhide, Charles Fuss, Edward Stull, J. Ward Kerrigan, Prof. B. J. Eckenrode, Dr. D. L. Beegle; admissions, John J. Hollinger; entries, Dr. John Dillon, William Kelz, Robert Daugherty; grounds, Ralph McDonnell and Clarence Hahn, chairmen, Charles Spriggs, Charles Fuss, Charles Troxell, Charles Elder, Wilbur Umbel, and Morris A. Zentz; public address, Ralph McDonnell; refreshments, Mrs. Robert Daugherty, C. A. Harner, F. S. Matthews, and general committee, Robert Daugherty, Dr. John Dillon, Herbert Roger, John Hollinger, and J. Ward Kerrigan.

Soldier Participates In 'Sky Watch'

CHICAGO—Cpl. Carl A. Wetzel, Thurmont Rt. 2, is participating in "Operation Signpost," the exercise geared to put the air defenses of the U. S. on an operational basis.

He is a member of the Army's 51st Anti-Aircraft Artillery Brigade which guards the Chicago-Detroit area.

The brigade is working with Canadian Air Defense forces during the exercise.

Cpl. Wetzel is a gun mechanic in the 711th AAA Gun Battalion. He entered the Army in February 1951.

FAREWELL PARTY

Miss Carrie Hahn was hostess to two German exchange students who have completed a year's stay in this country and attended the Emmitsburg High School for that period. Miss Hahn sponsored a departure party Wednesday evening at her home west of town in honor of Miss Crystal Mohr, who resided with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baumgardner, and Karlheinz Zerk, who lived with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar G. Emrich. A large number of teen-agers enjoyed themselves at the affair. The two students will leave for their homes in Germany in the near future.

Mrs. David Guise and Mrs. Louise Jacobs of Baltimore, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell and family Sunday. Helen Wivell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell, accompanied her grandmother to Baltimore where she will spend a week.

Grange Acts To Assist Destitute Family

Edgar G. Emrich, master of the Emmitsburg Grange has announced a drive for clothing and household furnishings this week, for the Brawner family which was burned out of its home and all possessions early Tuesday morning.

The humanitarian appeal already has brought promising results as members of a special committee of the Grange immediately set to work on the drive. The family lost every possession it had in the world in the conflagration that leveled its home near St. Anthony's Shrine, and the children barely escaped with their lives.

Mr. Brawner has been contemplating building a home of his own on Route 32 west of Emmitsburg near the Pennsylvania state line and already has the foundation excavated. He intends to finish off the basement and live there until the building can be completed.

Mr. Emrich announced that the Grange will issue a call for volunteer workers, in the near future, to begin erection of the new home, material for which already has been ordered.

Donations of all types are being sought, including money, clothing, furniture, cooking utensils, dishes and bedclothing. In fact anything that can be used around a home is wanted by the committee, consisting of Edgar G. Emrich, Morris A. Zentz and Mrs. William G. Baker. All clothing donations are to be deposited with Mrs. Baker, it was reported.

The committee gave the following statistics on the family as to the sizes and type of wearing apparel needed immediately: the mother, size 22½ dress, size 6 shoe; father, size 16 shirt, 34 waist and 33 length trousers, size 9 shoe; daughter, 34 bust, 9 or 11 dress and 7 to 7½ shoe; oldest son, size 30 trousers, 36 T-shirt and 8½ shoe; youngest son, size 12 trousers, 14 shirt and 5½ shoe.

Mr. Emrich, chairman of the drive, stated that while the immediate response was encouraging, that far more material was urgently needed for immediate use of the family and urged citizens to get their contributions in as quickly as is humanly possible. By contacting the committee, any such articles as heavy furniture, etc., pickup arrangements can be made. All members of the committee are listed in the phone directory.

Sasscer Credited With Keeping Political Harmony

Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer was described as one of "the real heroes" of the Democratic National Convention by George P. Mahoney, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, upon his return from Chicago.

Mr. Mahoney, a member of the Maryland delegation to the convention, that was headed by Mr. Sasscer, said:

"The fat was in the fire, and the Democratic Party seemed to be heading straight for a disastrous North-South break, when Mr. Sasscer stepped into the breach, and launched the fight that paved the way for seating the Virginia delegation, and the other Southern states.

"His prompt move, his statesmanlike approach to the problem, coupled with the magnificent support he was given by the rest of the Maryland delegation, saved the convention from a serious split, that might have had possible bad effects in November.

"It was a pleasure to work with Mr. Sasscer at the Convention. No hours were too long for him, no effort too great. As a result of his leadership, the work of the Maryland delegation will long be remembered by those who attended the convention. His motion that saved Virginia its place in the convention, helped make Democratic History."

Mr. Mahoney said that in a conference with Governor Adlai Stevenson, the presidential candidate had indicated that he will include Maryland in his campaign tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ohler returned recently from a 10 days' vacation trip through the New England States.

John Mick, who was inducted into the U. S. Navy, is receiving boot training at Bainbridge.

EFFECTIVE ENFORCEMENT NEEDED

Strong local enforcement measures are being urged as one of the main efforts in the nation's endeavor to reduce the toll of traffic accidents. This should and must include action against violations sometimes regarded as "trivial." Certainly no offense is "minor" when it costs a life or injures someone and in the course of a year these so-called "minor" violations of traffic laws cost hundreds of lives and injure thousands in street and highway accidents.

It makes sense to direct the greater part of our enforcement effort against the more flagrant offenders—the speeders and the drinking drivers who cause far more than half of the fatal and serious accidents. But other traffic law violators should not be overlooked by the police, because their contribution to the grisly record is higher than most people realize.

Consider, for instance, the driver who fails to observe a "stop" sign or to yield the right-of-way to another vehicle or a pedestrian. One death in every 10, and 27 of every 100 injuries, in traffic accidents are caused by this type of driver. Such offenses, regarded as "minor" by millions of motorists, cost 2800 lives and injured 325,000 others last year. At rural intersections alone, the victims of such drivers had tripled and their toll of injured has multiplied 10 times in the last two decades.

"Cutting in" caused another 200 deaths and 30,000 injuries in 1950. Reckless driving cost more than 2300 lives and injured over 100,000 persons, while drivers who passed cars on the wrong side killed nearly 1000 more and injured over 100,000 persons. These losses are colossal rather than "trivial" and the police should treat the drivers who cause them accordingly. A marked reduction in highway casualties may be achieved if the police make examples of all drivers who ignore the rules of common courtesy and safety and let the courts decide how serious they were.

Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, S. Seton Ave., arrived home on Wednesday after a 1,200-mile trip through the Great Smoky Mountains, National Park in Tennessee and North Carolina, and the Cherokee Indian Reservation in North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Reno Eyler and children, Delores, Margaret, Reno, Dorothy, Shirley, Nancy, and Eugene of Emmitsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Krietz and children, David, Rebecca, James, Mary Edna, Lewis Jr. and Michael, and James and Lucille Wivell, all of St. Anthony's, spent Sunday afternoon at LeGores, along the Monocacy, where they enjoyed a picnic and swimming. Later in the evening they enjoyed an outing at Mt. Tabor Park, Rocky Ridge, where they met their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eyler and family, John, Clarence Jr., Michael, and Joseph of Gettysburg, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Edwards spent the week-end with Mrs. Edwards' mother, Mrs. Margaret Topper.

State 4-H Club

Week Begins

About 1200 boys and girls from every county in Maryland will attend the 30th annual State 4-H Club Week, Aug. 4, at the University of Maryland, College Park.

The boys under 15 years of age will be given the opportunity of attending classes in tractor safety, livestock, dairy, and poultry. The girls will also be able to attend classes in clothing, crafts, song leading, personality development, or watch demonstrations.

Special interest groups on various agricultural and homemaking topics will be organized for interested club members over 15 years of age. These older youth may attend discussions on social relationships, grooming, and personality development. In addition, training will be given to those interested in recreation leadership, song leading, choir work, and crafts.

After the busy days of attending classes, the boys and girls may spend their evenings taking part in games, contests, musical activities, and campfires. There will also be several vesper services held on the campus during the week.

Thursday, Aug. 7, is Older Youth Day. Older youths who can not attend the entire week are encouraged to take part in this day's activities. Several tours of Washington have been arranged for the club members during the afternoon. The evening has been set aside as 4-H Friendship Evening, with a party, popular dancing, and square dancing being held in three separate buildings on the campus.

Parents and friends of 4-H Club work will be able to see Club Week in action on Friday, Aug. 8. The Maryland Horse Breeder's Assn. will sponsor a horseback riding demonstration in the morning. This will be followed by an assembly in the Armory which will recognize the contributions of volunteer leaders and friends of 4-H work.

At 2 p. m. on Friday afternoon the dress revue will get underway in the Armory when 4-H girls model clothing which they have made. The winner will get a chance to model her clothes at the National 4-H dress revue in Chicago in November.

The Friday evening program will feature a 4-H musical talent show and the all-star conservation service. As a part of the conservation service, the Maryland 4-H all-stars, an honorary organization, will initiate new members in a special candle-lighting ceremony.

On display for the entire week will be exhibits of homemaking articles entered by 4-H girls. Crafts and art work, carving, painting, and other creative arts will be shown in a rural arts exhibit which is open to both boys and girls.

Sound waves travel about 1100 feet per second.

Traffic Lines are LIFE LINES!

Throw a line to a drowning person and with all his remaining strength he reaches for it—to save his life. Throw one or two solid lines down the length of a highway, and too many drivers ignore it in their hapless hurry to get somewhere fast.

But those, too, are life lines. Road markings at danger points are put there to save lives. Passing on the wrong side of the road, violating right-of-way, cutting in, passing on curves or on the right, failing to signal a turn or intention to pass and other reckless acts are utter disregard for life. Traffic gamblers guilty of these violations cost the lives of 11,000 persons and injured more than half a million others in 1950—and the toll increased last year.

Have you ever been guilty of crossing a traffic line when it wasn't necessary? Have you taken the right-of-way when it wasn't yours to take? How often have you seen a squeeze coming and breathed a sigh of relief when Lady Luck gave you one more chance?

The life line in the palm of your hand doesn't contemplate violent death on the highway. Your future may be written—or written off—in the way you drive. You—and only you—can make your driving life line longer.

Early Peach Pleaser

Luscious early peaches are coming to Maryland tables this week so it's time to fix an extra-special peach dessert for the family. They're sure to enjoy this dessert.

Peach Dumplings

One and one-half cups flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, four tablespoons butter or other fat, one tablespoon sugar, about one-half cup milk.

Sift the salt, baking powder and sugar into a mixing bowl, add the fat. Blend the fat with the flour and when the fat is well mixed, stir the milk quickly into the flour with a fork. Roll the dough one-quarter inch thick and cut into eight squares.

Peaches

Eight peach halves, four tablespoons sugar, four tablespoons water.

Place a peach half in the center of each square of dough and put the sugar in the cavities. Wrap dough around the peach, moistening the edges with water or milk to form a tight seam. Cover the bottom of a greased baking pan with the mixture of sugar and water. Place the dumplings in the syrup with the smooth side uppermost. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 30 to 40 minutes, basting occasionally with syrup in the pan. Test the peaches with a fork to make sure they are sufficiently cooked. Serve warm with whipped cream in four delightful servings.

SLIP COVER COLORS

Rooms have a more restful appearance if only one pattern is used on slip covers and draperies. Other fabrics used in the room should be either plain or textured patterns in self color. The plain color can be shown in the patterned fabrics except for the accent color. This color can be used but should be a darker or greyer tone.

WANTED BY THE FBI BANK ROBBERY

GEORGE ARTHUR HEROUX, with aliases: Joseph Corsey, Joseph Arthur Corsey, Joseph Corsey, William Keegan, Robert C. Walker.

Description.—Age 22, born April 10, 1930, Baltimore, Md. (not verified); height, 5 feet 10 inches; weight, 145 pounds; build, slender; hair, light chestnut; eyes, gray-blue; complexion, medium; race, white; nationality, American; occupations, laborer, weaver; scars and marks, 1/2-inch scar left hand between index and middle fingers.

Caution.—Heroux and Puff are armed and should be considered extremely dangerous.

Heroux and Puff robbed the Johnson County National Bank, Prairie Village, Kans., of over $62,000 in cash, bonds, and travelers checks on the morning of November 23, 1951. The bandits gained entry to the bank at 8:05 a. m. by forcing an employee to open the front door. One thief accosted incoming employees with a carbine, herding them into a reception room, while the other forced the cashier to open the vault.

Any person having information which may assist in locating these individuals is requested to immediately notify the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice, Washington 25, D. C., or the Special Agent in Charge of the Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation listed on the first page of the local telephone directory.

GERHARD ARTHUR PUFF, with aliases: James Cornel, James Cornell, Gilbert Cunningham, Kenneth Hardy, Alvin Shelby, and others.

Description.—Age 38, born February 13, 1914, Dresden, Germany (not verified); height, 5 feet 10 1/4 inches; weight, 150 pounds; build, slender; hair, light chestnut; eyes, brown; complexion, dark; race, white; nationality, American; occupations, laborer, machinist helper, truck driver; scars and marks, 1/2-inch oblique scar right wrist, extreme tip of index finger of right hand amputated, 1/4-inch boil scar on left forearm, below elbow; remarks, walks very erect with chest extended, good dresser, likes large automobiles, likes to gamble.

Writes . . .

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., July 31 — Mother Nature surely smiles on the Democrats by giving the U. S. good crops for 1952. This total crop production now promises to be second only to the record of 1948. Here are a few highlights.

Food Grain Riches

Billion - bushel - plus wheat crops have been almost taken for granted in recent years. With the exception of 1951, they have been the rule since 1943. This year's indicated total output of 1.2 billion bushels is the third largest crop of record. Despite its size, it should not cause any trouble. Farmers have more storage space available this year; and can take advantage of government loans if necessary.

In Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, as well as in California, rice growers are producing an indicated record crop of well over 45 million bags of 100 pounds each. But I guess it will not prove burdensome marketwise. Although a relatively small buckwheat crop is likely, I do not forecast a shortage of pancakes on the American Sunday breakfast table! The smallest rye crop outlook in over 80 years, plus the low carryover, may well mean considerable stringency.

Bumper Corn Crop—If

Barring unfavorable weather from now on, the nation's 1952 corn output may reach the huge figure of 3.3 billion bushels—the second largest corn crop on record. This should be good news to livestock producers, since it points to more favorable feeding ratios this fall and winter. The barley crop probably will be the smallest since 1936, in contrast to an indicated oats crop well above the 10-year average. A large total hay crop, of good quality, also is in the cards.

Bean eaters—and they are by no means all in Boston—will draw on a small total crop of dry edible beans this year than last. The indicated output of 15.7 million bags (100 pounds each) is down materially from 1951 as well as the 10-year average production. The much-loved Irish potato, which recently has been spotlighted because of government maneuverings, will be somewhat more plentiful this year than last. The indicated national potato output of 339 million bushels is four per cent larger than the short crop of 1951, but 18 per cent below the 1941-50 average. It should suffice, although the margin may be none too wide. I expect about an average production of commercial truck crops, and a slightly, below-average output of deciduous fruits in 1952.

Cotton and Oilseed Prospects

Although it is too early to forecast as to the probable size of the 1952 U. S. cotton crop, it is likely to fall short of the 1951 output of 15 million running bales. I base this forecast solely on the fact that indicated acreage now in cultivation is seven per cent under that of a year ago. Weather and insect damage between now and harvest time could further cut yields; but otherwise the cotton crop and the financial returns therefrom will be satisfactory.

Another oilseed crop also promises to be large. I refer to the expected 4.2 per cent indicated increase in acreage. This could result in topping last year's 280 million bushels—the second largest crop on record. Although flaxseed and peanut prospects are materially under 1951, total supplies of oilseeds and their products will again be sufficient.

Another Good Year For Earnings

America—the Bountiful as well as the Beautiful—should thank God and her farmers for the munificence of her harvests—past, present, and currently indicated. There has never been a real famine in the land, and I pray that there never will be. From present prospects, 1952 will be another good year for the farmers, despite the rising trend of production costs. Prices, for the most part, should be well maintained, allowing for the usual seasonal variations. Sales opportunities in the farming areas should continue excellent, provided sellers stress quality and price their goods fairly.

Clip pastures and devise some method of spreading manure droppings in order to conserve pasture space.

Treat pigs for worms. Use one pound of sodium fluoride mixed in 100 pounds of dry feed. Use precautions in administering the drug; it is highly poisonous.

Applesauce will have better color and flavor if the apples are cooked rapidly in a covered pan. Meat flavor is in the meat and removing bones has no effect upon it.

The dark meat of chicken is a little higher in minerals and vitamins than the white meat.

"Who's There?" Moderator

Lovely Arlene Francis is currently being viewed on video channels as the moderator of a new kind of panel show, titled "Who's There?" which is being seen on the CBS television network this summer, as a summer replacement for "Claudia." The unique format presents outstanding personalities in every walk of life, and by means of identifying objects, a panel of three will guess the name of the person—whom the audience, but not the panelists, can see.

Easy Summer Desserts With Fresh Blueberry Sauce

QUICK AND EASY desserts with a cool, refreshing flavor are in demand during hot summer weather. And just in time to answer the demand, come the large, juicy, cultivated blueberries that spell "refreshing." Shortie-shell sponge cakes, bought at your grocer's, filled with ice cream, and topped with luscious blueberry sauce, make a quick dessert—for just folks at home or to top off a company dinner.

INDIVIDUAL BLUEBERRY SHORTCAKES (Makes 4 servings)

1 tablespoon cornstarch
dash salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water

2 cups cultivated blueberries, washed and well-drained
1 tablespoon margarine
1 pint ice cream

4 shortie-shell sponge cakes

Combine cornstarch, salt, sugar and water and blend. Add cultivated blueberries and margarine. Cook over medium heat until thickened and clear, stirring constantly. Divide ice cream into 4 portions on top of sponge cakes. Serve sauce over ice cream.

NOTE: If frozen cultivated blueberries are used, thaw and drain. Proceed as with fresh berries. If canned cultivated blueberries are used, drain and proceed as with fresh berries.

Powder Perfect

FOR LONG-LASTING make-up, it's important to "anchor" powder on. Dip a ready-made cotton ball in powder and press, without rubbing, the powder onto the face. It will take several ballfuls to do the job. When the face looks as though it had been dipped in a flour barrel, take another sterile absorbent cotton ball and whisk the excess powder off, using light downward strokes. Powder actually does "set" if given a second or two. Your complexion veil will look better and last longer if you keep your dressing table stocked with a supply of pure white cotton balls for powdering and make-up artistry. (ANS)

Homemakers' PRICE FACTS

The Maryland OPS today clarified for the consumer public the list of grocery items which have been exempted from price controls by the Congress of the United States.

Common grocery items exempted are as follows: Canned asparagus, canned lima beans, snap beans (green and wax), carrots, sweet corn, beets, all varieties of fresh field peas and fresh shell beans, fresh green peas, tomatoes, succotash, mushrooms, okra, onions, peppers, pimientos, canned sweet potatoes, canned white potatoes, pumpkin, squash, spinach, turnip greens, canned mixtures of vegetables, canned vegetable juices and mixtures of vegetable juices.

Canned apricots, all varieties of sweet cherries, sour cherries, all varieties of berries, cranberries, plums, fresh prunes, figs, all varieties of peaches, all varieties of pears, fruit cocktail, fruits for salads (including canned fruit mixtures), apples, applesauce, canned and bottled fruit and berry juices and mixtures thereof.

All frozen vegetables, including frozen cooked squash and frozen cooked pumpkin; all frozen fresh fruits and berries.

All canned and frozen citrus fruits, juices and concentrates, including mixtures; all dried fruits, including mixtures; all other frozen fruit and berry concentrates; canned pineapple, canned pineapple juices and the following canned baby or junior foods: Spinach, carrots, green beans, beets, peas, squash, sweet potatoes, peaches, applesauce pears and pineapple, apricot-applesauce, pears and prunes.

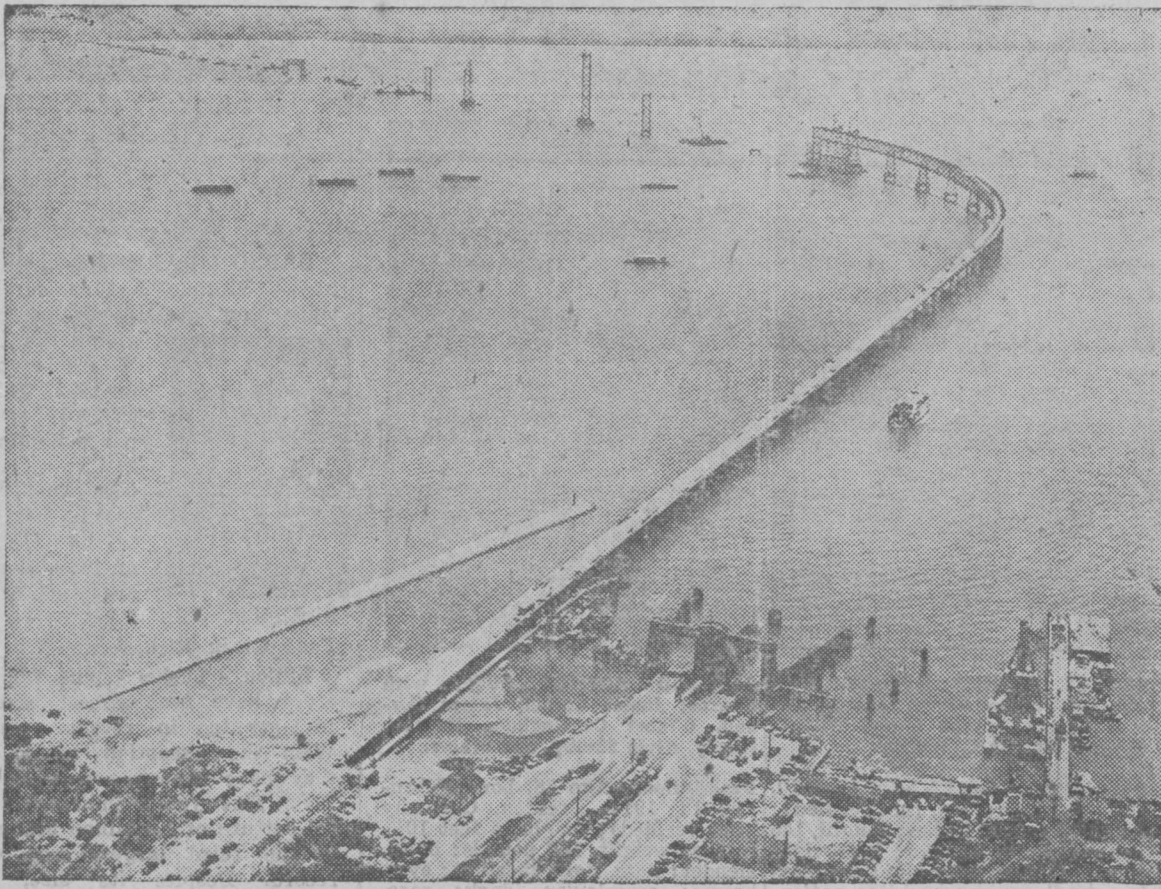

Frozen french fried, diced or whipped white potatoes; shoestring, julienne potatoes and potato chips; peeled, whole or sliced chemically treated white potatoes; sauerkraut juice, cherries in brine and pineapple.

"Several important factors indicate there will be a definite rise in the cost of many canned foods as a result of the exemption of fresh and processed fruits and vegetables from price control by Congress," Hugo R. Hoffman, Maryland OPS director said today. "At least one major commercial daily newspaper has already pointed out that smaller crops of key vegetables, the prolonged steel strike and the heat wave are likely to create a short supply of important canned foods. While not predicting any actual critical shortage, this paper, the New York Journal of Commerce, did point out that continued consumer demand for items in short supply can push prices above the ceiling prices which, until the recent congressional action, were in effect.

"I must say that I hope consumer demand will be moderate for canned goods in short supply, but at the same time I must point out that the removal of any chance for OPS to help hold this important price line is serious," Mr. Hoffman said.

Approval of three additional flat-rate manuals and one supplement for use by auto repairmen in setting charges for work done on 1952 cars was announced by OPS at the end of last week.

The approved manuals are: Consul and Zephyr Six, Nash Flat Rate Schedule, 1952, National Automobile Parts and Labor Manual, 1952 Supplement, and Automotive Digest, second 1952 Edition.

Purple Heart Replica New Incentive To Boost Blood Supply

The Military Order of the Purple Heart, the only official organization of combat wounded veterans recently completed its annual departmental convention in Baltimore.

One of the questions most often asked by these men who already have shed their blood in defense of that for which the Stars and Stripes stands is, "How come so few people hear the cry of the wounded soldier on the battlefield of Korea or the anguished moan of the forgotten former GI languishing in a veterans' hospital as they ask for just a drop of blood to help keep life flowing in his shattered body?"

These combat wounded veterans answered their own question. They didn't criticize the general public and its apparent apathy in donating blood. On the contrary, these men who had been felled by enemy shells, expressed the opinion that not sufficient recognition was being given to the average blood donor. The convention assembled veterans argued among themselves that giving blood was giving blood, whether on the battlefield or in a cozy hospital room. Perhaps the circumstances might be different, but each was giving blood for his country.

With this in mind a committee of outstanding dynamic personalities was created, not only to awaken the citizens of Maryland to the need for more blood donors, but also to set up a system of appropriate rewards.

Through the media of Maryland's excellent county newspapers and radio stations the following plan will be inaugurated:

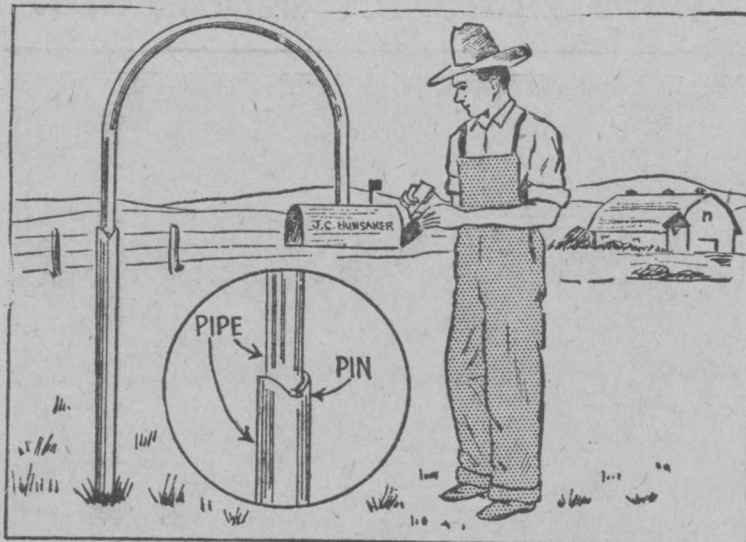

Effective now every person who donates a pint of blood for the use of members of the armed forces through the facilities of the American Red Cross, and who at the time of such donation states that it is being made at the request of the Purple Heart, after sending in their name and address to The Purple Heart Blood Donor Campaign, 8 East Hamilton St., Baltimore 2, Md., will receive a beautiful and suitably engraved citation bearing the official seal and signatures of the Military Order of the Purple Heart. Upon notification of three successive blood donations by any one individual, the Purple Heart will award a magnificent china plaque, designed especially for this campaign by a world famous sculptor.

Cracked eggs should not be frozen, as they may contain bacteria.

Packaged Spaghetti Dinner Makes Thrifty Summer Meal

By BESS BANCROFT—ANS Features
ONE REASON why a spaghetti dinner is such a good summer choice is that so little work is required to prepare it.

The Chef Boy-ar-dee packaged spaghetti dinner contains quick-cooking spaghetti, sauce with meat or mushrooms, and Italian style grated cheese, enough for three servings. The spaghetti cooks in twelve minutes and the sauce can be heated in a twinkling. The cheese is ready to sprinkle over all as soon as you open the can.

The famous chef's sauce, made of ripe, flavorful tomatoes, comes with either meat or mushrooms. The whole spaghetti mainstay costs about fifteen cents a serving. So, if you choose the meat sauce, you can serve a main meat dish at about fifteen cents per serving.

All you need to round out a Chef Boy-ar-dee spaghetti dinner into a satisfactory meal is a loaf of crusty bread, a good salad, fruit and a beverage. And these things, like the spaghetti main dish, can be prepared in a twinkling too.

Lettuce, carefully washed in the morning, can be stored in the refrigerator all ready to put on the table at the last minute as the foundation of a good dinner salad. Serve it with French dressing as a tossed salad, or add sliced tomatoes, cucumbers or green peppers, radish roses, scallops or silvered raw carrots. Or serve it with balls of cottage cheese or cream cheese rolled lightly in very finely minced parsley or chopped nuts.

Fruits for such a summer meal are legion. Any kind of melon can be ready in a matter of two or three minutes—watermelon, canteloupe, honeydew. And, well chilled, they are all ideal desserts for any warm-weather dinner.

There is a good thrift angle to this Chef Boy-ar-dee dinner—save by serving it during the week so that you can have a big roast on the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Norris Sham and daughters, oan, Sara, and Elizabeth, of Walkersville and Mr. Markwood Mcensis, of Frederick, spent Sunday with the Misses Ruth and Rhoda Gillelan. They

Mr. and Mrs. John Britter of Bells, W. Va., spent several days last week visiting the Misses Ruth and Rhoda Gillelan.

Those of us who can drive to lakes across the northern part of this country, and in Canada, always look forward to the time when the ice breaks up in the Spring.

This means that we can once more troll and cast for the large, lively lake trout lurking over the rocky and sandy shoals where minnows abound. These fish offer plenty of sport at this season, and Old Hi knows of a special method that will give you some new thrills.

It's a bet you've never fished for lakers with a spinning outfit. Just give it a try, brother, and you'll come back for more of the same. Snag into a 10 or 15 pounder on such a rig and you'll have a terrific battle in the cold water along the lake shore.

Here's the dope: Take a 7 foot tubular glass spinning rod, fit it with a Brado fixed spool reel and 100 yards of 6 or 8 pound test Skirt nylon spinning line, attach the same test nylon leader 3 feet long, and tie on a small nickel wobbler.

Now, pile your equipment into a rowboat, shove out from the dock, and move along the rocky shoreline until you come to a shoal under 6 or 8 feet of water, and where setbacks or crevices exist. With the boat held in position about 60 yards offshore (according to the depth), you cast inward to all the likely spots.

In fact, you cover the entire water surface in an arc, letting the lure sink fairly close to the bottom before reeling. Set the hook quickly when a laker strikes, lead the fish into deeper water, and let him race over the bottom until his energies are completely spent. Don't try to force a big laker on spinning tackle!

Besides the nickel wobbler, other good baits are the new Get-Fish lure, Baby Devon, and tandem hook streamer fly.

Another form of Spring fishing for lakers that lends exciting sport is to troll one of these bright colored two-hook streamer flies behind an outboard motor. You use a two-piece Woodsman tubular glass fly rod and an automatic reel with 50 yards of size F level Old Gold silk fly line.

When a laker, togue, or Mackinaw trout clamps his jaws over your streamer, he's hooked! And you are in for some ticklish tactics until finally the lunker calls it quits. If you've never taken trout in this manner, be sure to give it a whirl this season. When the lakers are feeding along the shore, it's terrific.

For other tips on sporty ways of catching these fish, be sure to read the chapter on those elusive lakers in Old Hi's illustrated booklet called "Fishing For The Millions." It's free! Just drop a postcard to me, in care of this newspaper, and you'll get a copy pronto. Please print your name and address plainly.

At the same time, for those who plan to do some ocean angling this year, ask for your free copies of "Salt Water Sports Fishing" and "Pacific Coastal Fishing." The latter book also contains a lot of useful facts on taking the five species of Pacific salmon.

YOUR UNITED STATES

BY FLOYD CRAMER
PRESIDENT, NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE PRESERVATION OF FREE ENTERPRISE, INC.

In the political platforms adopted at Chicago, both major parties this year showed that they realize the importance which the American people attach to freedom and fair play. Even if we concede, for argument's sake, that some of the political leaders in both parties are not sincere, one fact still stands out. It is this:

Love of freedom and fair play is so deeply rooted in the hearts of all real Americans that even the most cynical of politicians has to pay tribute to those great ideals.

And since this is true, it follows obviously that the American people, though they are the richest in the world, are not the greedy materialists they are so often—and so wrongly—accused of being.

This is a point which the defenders of the free enterprise system will do well to remember. In our war against the extension of socialism, we who believe in free enterprise often put too much emphasis on our purely material progress as a free enterprise nation. We talk too much about the size of our national production under free enterprise, and not nearly enough about the freedom and fair play which the free enterprise system guarantees.

The American people, thank God, have plenty of bread; more than any other people in the world. But the American people, again more than any other nation, realize fully that man does not live by bread alone.

Effective defense of the free enterprise system must rest chiefly on the fact that such a system is the only one which secures our freedom.

And our great national elections offer us an excellent illustration, because they demonstrate one of the great advantages of our traditional American way. I refer to what I call the division of power.

When the Founding Fathers decreed separation of church and state, they separated political authority from religious authority and thus created an atmosphere in which a man's religious affiliations could not legally be used to limit his political activity.

Similarly, the American tradition of keeping government out of business as much as possible, and of keeping business from dominating government, insured all Americans the right to take and keep jobs regardless of their personal political beliefs.

You and I take spiritual guidance from the church of our choice, vote for the political party of our choice, and no one tells us where to work.

Those are the great guarantees of the system of free enterprise. But in the socialist state, all political power and all economic power are merged in the single authority, and the ministers of religion are crushed, or silenced, and even put to death.

Fascinating Fashions By Judy Seaton

With summer vacations and weekend holidays currently foremost in everyone's plans, the problem of what type of night wear to pack—as well as to wear at home—deserves special attention.

Dinah Shore, lovely co-star of CBS's "Jack Smith-Dinah Shore-Ginny Simms Show," feels that the most satisfactory all-purpose choice for travel is tailored cotton or nylon pajamas, and tailored robe to match. "If both pajamas and robe are non-wrinklable," Dinah points out, "You needn't fear having to fold them to fit into a small area for an overnight case."

The most glamorous of all sleeping apparel, of course, is the long, gracefully-cut gown with matching peignoir, especially dainty and practical in batiste or dotted swiss with a deep lace yoke at the neck of the peignoir.

However, in really warm weather a minimum sleeping garment is often more comfortable to wear either at home or away from home where some privacy is afforded.

Particularly popular this season is the three-piece ensemble of bra top, sleeping shorts and matching coat in seersucker, batiste or rayon. The coat can serve as either a brunch or sleeping coat.

Homemade Jam Combining Berries New Favorite with Teenagers

By Frances Barton

Lots and lots of ripe blackberries and raspberries are in the markets now and this young modern knows one of the best ways to conserve their fruity flavor. She will make them into homemade jams and jellies using the short-boil pectin method. Blackberry and Raspberry Jam made with powdered fruit pectin is truly a blue ribbon jam and is both easy and economical to make. Just select firm, fully ripe fruit, read your recipe carefully, and assemble your jelly making equipment.

BLACKBERRY AND RASPBERRY JAM
Yield: about 11 medium glasses
4½ cups prepared fruit
6½ cups sugar
1 2½-oz. box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare the fruit. Crush thoroughly about 1 quart each fully ripe blackberries and red raspberries. Combine fruits. (If desired, sieve half of pulp to remove some of seeds.) Measure 4½ cups pulp into a large saucepan.

To make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with ½ inch hot paraffin.

Science Appears To Have Solved Summer Egg Production Dilemma

PEARL RIVER, N. Y.—Science may be close to solving the summer slack period in egg production.

At the Pearl Poultry Farms in nearby Montvale, N. J., John and Frank Etcherberry have run tests which indicate that through the use of an antibiotic feed supplement low producing hens can be brought back to near-peak production. It all started last fall when a pen of 78 birds were far behind the rest of the flock in egg production.

The Etcherberrys talk to scientists at Lederle Laboratories and obtained some Aureofac 2-A aureomycin-vitamin B12 feed supplement. (This supplement has been used by commercial feed manufacturers for some time to increase growth and improve health of poultry.)

Disregarding the recommended dosage, they used two and a half pounds of the supplement for each 100 pounds of feed. To their surprise, these 78 apparent culls, which were being fed an inferior laying mash, rose from a production of 26 per cent to 57 per cent, equalling their best birds on a high-cost diet.

At the same time, another pen of hens producing less than the normal pens was given aureomycin supplement with a high-cost feed. Production jumped from 40 to 60 per cent. After six weeks, the supplement was discontinued for one week and production dropped to 50 per cent. When the supplement was reinstated in the diet, production again rose to 60 per cent.

The Etcherberrys had 100 hens of an inferior strain which had proved disappointing in production. They were placed on a low-cost mash containing aureomycin supplement. Production rose from 37 per cent to 80 per cent within 20 days.

Lederle scientists became interested and have started controlled experiments to determine how much Aureofac is actually required to maintain this high production on a low cost feed. They also hope to learn just what effect this super dosage will have on high producing birds.

The amount of Aureofac used in these early tests will make the cost prohibitive for use throughout the flock. However, the amount used may be many times greater than necessary to increase egg production. Thus pellets super-charged with aureomycin supplement possibly will be the answer to overcoming the summer slack period in egg production.

duction since experiments show the summer moult is definitely being delayed.

By C. WILSON HARDER

Despite the humid heat of summertime Washington, a chill wind blows off the Potomac into OPS, the Office of Price Stabilization, better known as the Office Plenty Screw.

In closing up business for the session, Congress handed the Office Plenty Screw a $43 million cut in its budget. $103 million was requested.

More than half of the 17,000 people employed, and it is to be noted the word "employed" is used instead of "working" are in the process of dismissal, it is announced.

But apparently none of the geniuses that have sparked the Office Plenty Screw to the heights of ridiculousness will walk the plank.

A curious situation, but with a cut in funds of 40%, approximately 55% of the OPS employees will be dismissed.

Simple arithmetic indicates dismissals will be among the lower paid clerical workers, leaving intact in seats of upholstered leather chairs, the high paid brains of the Office Plenty Screw.

U. S. taxpayers will still pay plenty to keep over-stuffed chairs in top OPS offices filled.

Consider 95,000 American families with three children and annual incomes of $5,000 each. Each of those families have income for deductions of $632 per year. Thus all income tax paid by 95,000 families will just pay for the Office Plenty Screw.

In the meantime, MSA, Marshall Plan successors continues © National Federation of Independent Business to shovel out American taxes at an unprecedented rate. In three consecutive days, covered by MSA Bulletin Nos. 123, 124 and 125, a total of $22,872,000 was given away, or an average of $7,624,000 per day, about the daily average so far this year.

Every day a whole year's income tax from 12,000 families with three children and incomes of $5,000 are given away.

The excuse given is defense. Yet just one item was $500,000 worth of high priced coffee given to Greece.

The blue print of the job needed from individual citizens to prevent national bankruptcy was fairly well revealed in Chicago. The Democratic party is committed to continuance of futile give-away programs, and the GOP platform also calls for the continuance of "foreign aid" which covers such items as coffee and tobacco.

Here is the crux of the entire situation. A large share of the billions given away are in the form of manufactured goods, produced by just a handful of huge U. S. corporations.

Their "sales" abroad are paid for by every independent businessman, and salaried person in the nation.

So far the only prominent voice heard condemning this waste of U. S. taxes is that of Herbert Hoover. Little, if any, heed is paid to his warnings, in either party.

Thus it becomes apparent that if the American people are to get out of the mire of waste and inflation, they must pull themselves up by the bootstraps.

It does not appear that the leaders of either political party are going to tackle the job.

HOW TO MAKE Traditional Blueberry muffins

Step 1. In a mixing bowl sift together:
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
Cut in 1/4 cup butter or margarine until mixture resembles corn meal.

Step 2. Combine 1 well-beaten egg with 1 cup milk. Add to dry ingredients and mix only until dry ingredients are dampened.

Step 3. Lightly and quickly fold in 1 cup washed and well-drained fresh cultivated blueberries. Fill greased muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake in moderately hot oven 400° F 20 minutes or until done.

Step 4. Serve at any meal—or with coffee, tea or milk for the whole family to enjoy cultivated blueberries in season.

Take Your Choice!

Wherever people gather to discuss the problem of the "isms" there is usually disagreement on which constitutes the worst threat to American liberty—Socialism or Communism. Ex-Communists, and almost invariably all persons who have taken active leadership in fighting Communism head-on, contend that international Communism is by far the greatest threat to our liberties.

Recently I've talked at length with Ted Kirkpatrick, the former FBI special agent who recently edited the anti-Communist publication COUNTERATTACK; with Matthew Cvetcic, who was a Communist nine years for the FBI; Dr. J. B. Matthews, leading American authority on Communist infiltration; Louis Budenz, former member of the American Communist politburo; and Ed Gibbons, editor of ALERT, the Pacific Coast anti-Communist newspaper. All consider international Communism, as represented in the world-girdling organization headquartered in Moscow and its powerful Fifth Column in America, the greatest danger confronting America. Whittaker Chambers, who worked in the Soviet underground here, does too.

Pinpointing the Blame

The tragic loss of our major ally, China, to the Communists, which the bi-partisan Senate Judiciary Committee has traced directly to Communist influence inside our government, strengthens the opinion of these men. Even so, the fact remains that for Communism to conquer our nation our industrial production must first be badly crippled and our people must be weaned away from their acceptance of the basic principles of our way of life. In other words, their will to fight for those principles must be weakened if the Reds hope to win.

It's my conviction that our nation's protective forces have at last been sufficiently alerted against the Fifth Column to prevent wholesale industrial sabotage. The gravest danger from the Communists, therefore, is in the Communist propaganda aimed at the minds of our people and which seeks gradually to swing us, first, into acceptance of socialistic measures, and then into full Communism by evolution or revolution. Therefore, Socialism, which is the first untraceable step of a nation heading downhill, is a menace so serious that its threat cannot be separated from that of Communism itself.

Twin Dangers

For years I've said that Communism and Socialism are Siamese-twins; interrelated, inseparable. Socialism is defined as government ownership or control of the means of production and distribution. In economics, Communism requires exactly the same thing. The social philosophies, or credos, differ at least on the surface. Some self-styled Socialists accept the idea of God. Communists don't. But every Communist intellectual I've ever come across speaks of Socialism as the basic philosophy of Communists.

What are the signs of the growth of the Socialist idea in our own nation? There are many. Earl Browder, Communist leader who was booted out of the party for harboring questioning thought about Stalin, says the following measures are necessary in this nation in order for full State Socialism, or Communism, to eventually take over:

Steps Toward Communism

"Government deficit financing; manipulation of bank reserves requirements; insurance of bank deposits; guarantee of mortgages; control of bank credits; tinkering with the currency system; regulation of installment buying; price controls; price support for farm products; agricultural credits; RFC loans to business corporations; social security systems for workers; various benefits for veterans; government housing; juggling of the tax structure; government-organized foreign loans; stimulated war armament production on a large scale."

Can a nation employ these measures and still not have full Socialism? It certainly can—for a time. Ours has. The grave danger, as Browder and all Socialists gleefully affirm, is that all of these measures are giving the government more and more power and control in the nation's economy. As it takes control, the people lose it—in exact ratio. That's a simple mathematical fact. When the government largely controls the economy it is a Socialist government. That's also a simple fact. And still a third fact is that human liberty has never survived in a Socialist State. Stalin would say to Americans: "Take your choice—Communism or gradual Socialism—we'll get you either way!"

Our choice should obviously be Freedom—a breaking of government's control over our economy.

Make full use of ladino clover for growing pigs and for sows. Fly control will not only allow cleaner milk production; fly-free cows will give more milk.

Succession plantings will fill in the empty places in your garden where early maturing vegetables grew.

To keep nuts from getting rancid, store in airtight containers in a cool, dark place.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

Maryland's wheat goal for 1953 represents 275,000 acres of the national goal of 72 million, James A. Cottman, acting chairman of the State Agricultural Mobilization Committee, said this week. This compares with 280,000 acres planted to wheat for harvest in the state this year.

The national wheat goal is about eight per cent below the big acreage planted for harvest this year. With normal yields, officials estimate that the 1953 goal acreage would result in a crop of about 1080 million bushels of wheat—about 170 million bushels below this year's estimated high production. This production would meet all anticipated requirements for the marketing year, both domestic and export, and probably add some to reserves.

Goals recently set for other crops for which fall seeding is important are: barley, 80,000 acres; oats, 63,000 acres, and rye, 15,000 acres. National goals for these crops are: barley, 12 million acres; rye, 1.7 million, and oats, 5.8 million acres.

Goals for other crops will be determined an announced later in the year—well before planting time next spring, according to Mr. Cottman.

Minor Traffic Violations Cost Hundreds Of Lives

A traffic offense is not "minor" when it costs hundreds of lives and injures thousands of persons, highway safety specialists of the Assn. of Casualty and Surety Companies emphasized this week in urging strong local enforcement measures as one of the main efforts in the nation's endeavor to reduce the toll of traffic accidents.

Strict enforcement of traffic laws against drivers who commit offenses sometimes regarded as "trivial" is as necessary as when obviously serious offenses are committed, according to Thomas N. Boate, public safety director of the Association. He declared "no punches should be pulled" by any community seeking to reduce loss of life and prevent injuries in highway accidents.

"Enforcement efforts," Mr. Boate said, "should be directed primarily against speeders and drinking drivers who cause well over half of all fatal accidents, but other traffic law violators should not be overlooked by the police, because the composite toll of their unsafe driving acts is higher than most people realize."

Failing to yield the right-of-way to other vehicles and to pedestrians and failing to obey a "stop" sign are two of the commonest causes of fatal and serious accidents, ranking next after speeding, drinking-and-driving, and driving on the wrong side of the road. One out of every 10 deaths and nearly 27 per cent of traffic injuries are caused by drivers who ignore right-of-way laws and "stop" signs. Last year's toll from these two violations was 2800 dead and more than 325,000 injured.

A former captain of the Pennsylvania State Police, Mr. Boate learned through experience the importance of law enforcement on the highways in helping to keep the accident toll down. Had thousands of communities backed up their police authorities in enforcing these laws last year, he declared, the toll of death and injury from right-of-way and "stop" sign violations would have been far less.

"Beating" red lights is one of the violations sometimes regarded as "trivial" by motorists," Mr. Boate went on. "Perhaps they don't know that the number of persons killed at rural intersections has tripled in the last 20 years and that the total of injured victims at these intersections in the country have traffic lights, some have 'stop' signs, and some are not controlled in any way at all. It always pays to be on the safe side by taking time to obey the law, whether it is waiting for a traffic light to change, giving right-of-way to traffic on main roads or giving proper signals to signify intention to turn or stop."

Reckless driving cost more than 2300 lives and injured well over 100,000 persons last year. Nearly 1,000 more lives were lost and 33,000 persons injured by drivers who violated the law by passing cars on the wrong side or on a curve or hill. "Cutting in" caused about 200 more deaths and another 30,000 injuries, the records prove.

"All driving violations take their toll," said Mr. Boate. "None of them can be considered minor or trivial. The drivers themselves should obey the laws of the road, which protect everybody, includ-

YourPersonal Health*VITAMINS

Thanks to a constant bombardment of advertisements, we are a vitamin-conscious nation. Not only are laboratory-produced vitamins brought to our attention, but certain food items like bread and cereals are labelled as "enriched" with one or more vitamins.

Vitamins, produced in tablet or capsule form, are frequently prescribed to supplement a person's diet or to help his body make the best use of its food. They should never be considered a substitute for food, however.

As our knowledge of food increased, it was discovered that certain elements in food, now known as "vitamins," were necessary to prevent illness. Where ing themselves. Strict enforcement of traffic laws, however, will do much to bring about a marked reduction in highway casualties by making examples of drivers who do not practice common courtesy and obey the rules of safety. Every community should back up the enforcement efforts of police on the streets and highways, or demand enforcement if it is lacking. Safer streets and highways will be the reward, because violators of traffic laws cause most of the deaths and injuries.

a person's diet did not include sufficient amounts of all of these elements, serious deficiency diseases could result.

On the whole, a person who sticks to a well-balanced, well-chosen diet of nourishing foods gets all the vitamins he needs. But even then, sometimes vitamins are lost in cooking or preparing food and vitamin supplements are necessary. When a person is in doubt, the sensible thing to do is to consult the doctor to find out if vitamin supplements are needed and what kinds may be required.

Several types of vitamins have been discovered so far, some with specific names and others identified by letters. The first vitamins known were named with the letters of the alphabet in the order of their discovery.

As far as we know, each type of vitamin seems to have its own particular use. Vitamin A, for example, found in carrots, sweet potatoes, citrus fruits, butter, and cod liver oil, is necessary for normal growth.

Vitamin B, made up of a number of different elements collectively known as B complex, is in meats, grains, eggs, cheese, spinach, prunes, beans, and whole wheat flour, and is necessary to ward off some nutritional diseases. Lack of Vitamin C, an element found in citrus fruits and other fruits and vegetables, can cause scurvy. Absence of Vitamin D, found largely in milk and fish liver oil, can result in rickets, a bone-deforming disease.

There are many more vitamins—some yet to be discovered and identified—all necessary to adequate nutrition and sound health. The best way of getting all of them is by adhering to a diet of well-balanced meals, rather than wisely depending on pills. Again, if and when additional vitamins in packaged form are needed, the doctor is the one to determine what vitamins and how much of each are needed by the individual.

Timonium Gears For Opening Day

Just one month from now the annual 10-day race meeting at Timonium will get under way and during the final week of the session, the state fair will be offered in all its glory.

John M. Heil, assistant to president William F. Schluderberg, reports that Timonium is in the final stages of a program of improvements, costing $150,000. But the program is expected to make Timonium one of the outstanding courses on the minor circuit in this state.

Much of the money has gone into the race track, with a much wider strip provided on which the horses can run. The new track will be 50 feet instead of 38 and the increase is expected to make racing much safer for horses and riders.

Then too, a seven-furlong chute has been constructed on the back stretch, eliminating the old six and a half furlong events which were started in the middle of the backstretch and gave only a short run to the first turn.

Timonium's grandstand, paddock and secretary's office all have that "fresh look" from several coats of paint and the box section in the stands has been rearranged and enlarged to provide for more patrons.

New roads in the stable area, new tack rooms in the barns, a new telephone system connecting all racing departments, installation of daily double machines and placing of additional wagering facilities in the infield are among the many other items undertaken for the coming meeting.

Additional parking space, with room for 1,000 more cars, has been provided in the rear of the stable area.

From the proceeds of last year's racing, a new dormitory has been constructed on the fair grounds and it will be used to house some 200 boys whose duties in connection with fair exhibits require that they remain close to the scene.

Racing Secretary Colwill is now busy lining up his program of sport, contacting top stables and it appears that everything will be in readiness for the opening on August 27.

written with my own hands and keep it in their houses, nothing shall hurt them—neither pestilence, lightning nor thunder shall do them any hurt. If a woman be with child, and in labor, a copy of this letter be about her and she firmly puts her trust in me, shall softly be delivered of her birth.

"You shall have no news of me but by the Holy Spirit until the day of Judgment."

"All prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found."
