NEW STARS FOR THE FLAG

In calling for statehood for Hawaii in his State of the Union message, President Eisenhower omitted any reference to Alaska. That was done despite the fact that during his campaign, the President advocated the "quick admission" of both territories.

This inconsistency reflects the realities of partisan politics. The Republicans want Hawaii admitted to the Union because it is predominantly Republican. But they are much less enthusiastic about Alaska, because it is Democratic.

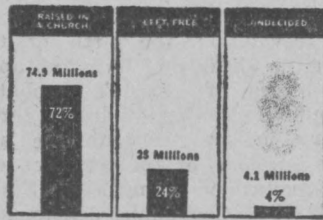

If Hawaii should become a state before the 1954 elections, it would mean two more Senators, whom the Republicans need badly, particularly since the defection of Senator Wayne Morse, who now classes himself as an Independent. Without him, the GOP has a Senate majority of only ONE.

Democrats and Republicans have in the past promised statehood to both territories, and the peoples of the territories have asked to be admitted. In previous sessions, the House has passed bills to admit them, but the Senate has shunted the issue aside.

Thus far in this session three Senate and five House bills have been introduced to give statehood to either Hawaii or Alaska. Both territories meet the requirements of statehood. Now, more than ever before, they are vital to the defense of the United States. They offer this country an opportunity to show the Communist-enslaved peoples how it deals with territorials.

There is no good reason why more than 128,000 Alaskans and 500,000 Hawaiians should continue to be second-class citizens. We urge Congressmen of both parties to settle their differences on this issue, stop politicking and admit both territories to the Union at this session.

Knowledge is Power

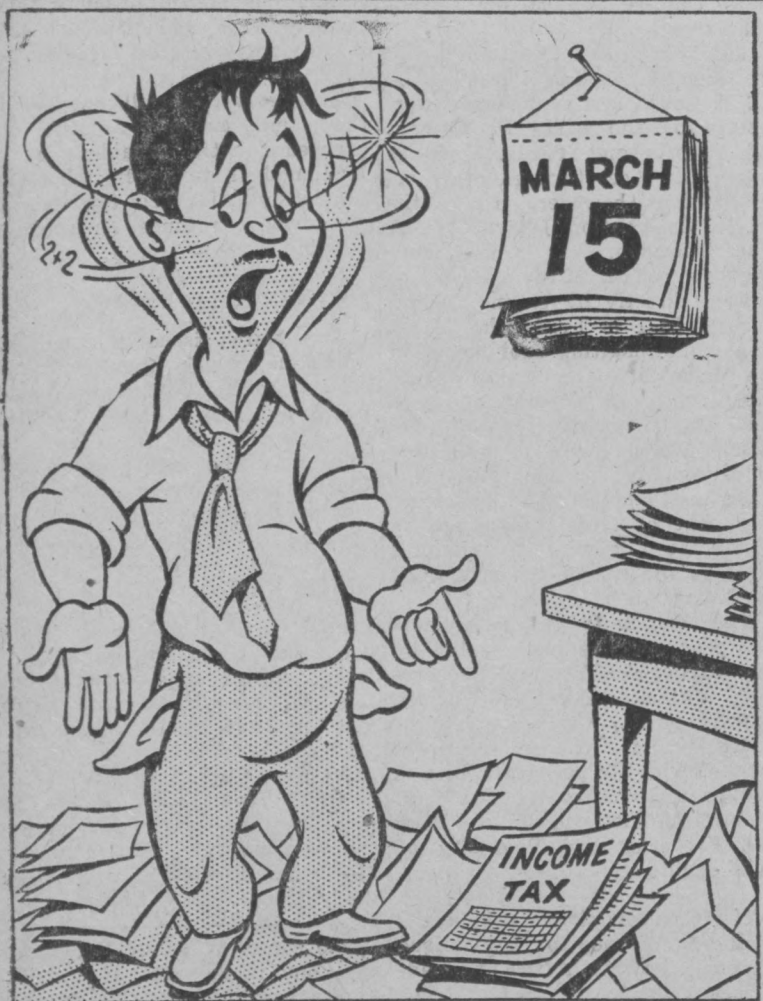

1. DO IMMIGRANTS STILL STOP AT ELLIS ISLAND?

2. SHOULD CHILDREN BE RAISED AS CHURCH MEMBERS?

(1) For years all third-class passengers disembarked at Ellis Island for examination. Now the Immigration bureau processes alien passengers aboard ship. Only those who have not complied with immigration rules are held at Ellis Island. A February Catholic Digest picture story describes the handling of immigrants on Ellis Island. Primarily the island is a processing station where aliens are detained pending investigation.

(2) About 7 of every 10 persons who were asked this question in a nationwide survey of religious beliefs answered Yes. However, almost 25 million adults stated that their children should be free of formal religion until they are old enough to make up their own minds. About four per cent of the adults questioned stated that they were undecided on whether children should be raised as church members. Even if the young are to be left free to choose their own church, it must be admitted that to make a free and intelligent choice, they must be given the means of making a sound judgment.

Thurmont Co-op Holds Annual Stockholders Meeting

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Thurmont Cooperative, Inc., was held last Saturday afternoon, in the cafeteria of the Thurmont High School, 225 members and guests present.

A delicious meal was served by the Room Mothers of the school, after which Miss Mildred Trevett, Thurmont High School music instructor, was introduced. Miss Trevett presented Miss Hildegarde Clauss, German exchange student, who sang two selections before the gathering.

James Fisher of Creagerstown, music instructor in Hancock and Clear Spring, led the assembly in group singing. Mr. Fisher then presented a solo, "April Showers." Miss Trevett introduced an electric guitar trio composed of Jimmy Lynn, Joseph Sweeney and George Kendall, which played and sang several highly-enjoyed selections.

Ernest R. Shriver, president of the Cooperative, called D. Saylor Weybright, manager, to introduce the guests present. They were Benjamin Rosenstock, attorney to the Cooperative; H. K. Stalen, manager of the feed and grain dept., Farmers Cooperative, Assn.; Thomas S. Anderson, secretary, Frederick County Farm Bureau; Harry A. Zentz, president, Frederick County Farm Bureau; Dan J. Thomas, secretary, Farmers Cooperative, Assn., Inc.; Paul Hull, manager, Farmers Cooperative of New Windsor; Henry Shoemaker, county agent; E. A. Bowman, president, Eastern Grain Growers; Wilbert Smith, field service representative, Maryland Farm Bureau; Donald Fangmeyer and George Mix, Mathieson Chemical Corp.; George Martin, chairman, Maryland PMA; William Baker, Vo-Ag instructor of Emmitsburg and Thurmont high schools; Russel Moser, Thurmont FFA; Ray Toms, president Emmitsburg FFA; Ernest Wisner, president Walkersville FFA; Geo. Springer, secretary, Emmitsburg FFA; Glenn Bumbaugh, vice president, Thurmont FFA; Miss Mary Jane Bittner, winner of local Grange contest and only girl enrolled in agriculture in Thurmont school; Miss Juanita Myers, winner of the state of Maryland in the recent Grange highway safety essay contest.

Garnet Wisner, Walkersville, reported on his recent trip to Kansas City as a representative of the FFA, which trip was partially sponsored by the Cooperative.

Mr. Weybright then read and analyzed the auditors' financial report for the year 1952. The report showed an approximate 23% increase of business volume over the preceding year.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Nevin Martin, Mrs. Roy Sorrells, Mrs. George Delphy and Mrs. L. C. Fisher.

A short, educational discussion was then led by Dr. Frank Bentz, extension agronomist of the University of Maryland, on the subject of plant foods.

After the business session, a quartette, composed by John L. Baumgardner, Robert Baumgardner, Raymond Baumgardner and Wilbur Naylor, rendered two musical selections, accompanied by Miss Virginia Baumgardner.

Directors elected to serve for three-year-terms, were Charles A. Lewis, L. B. Wilhide and Harry Trout.

Rev. Gideon Eugene Galambos, pastor of the Emmitsburg, Piney Creek and Taneytown Presbyterian congregations, was the guest speaker. Rev. Galambos, only two years in this country, before which he experienced severe persecution behind the "Iron Curtain," spoke with extreme conviction on the necessity for maintaining the democracy we have in America. He said that the people of Communist-dominated countries cannot be helped by financial aid, but only through the sincere prayers of those of us fortunate enough to be able to realize the difference between democracy and tyranny. Rev. Galambos related some of his personal experiences at the hands of Communist leaders; experiences which showed what can happen when the freedoms we know so well are replaced with brutality and atheism. The audience was invariably impressed with a more pronounced appreciation of America and of the need of prayer for the eventual freedom of our Twentieth Century slaves now under Communist control.

The meeting was adjourned with thanks to all for their assistance. Directors of the Cooperative are Ernest R. Shriver, president; M. H. Ramsburg, vice president; John L. Baumgardner, secretary; Charles A. Lewis, treasurer; Charles Bollinger, Charles F. Myers, Vernon I. Fisher, Lloyd B. Wilhide and Harry Trout.

"Good Old Fashioned" Ways Improved in Modern Days

By ANN GARY—ANS Features
TIME WAS when the man of the house took one look at the Spring housecleaning and ducked out to see the boys until the crises had passed but today there's no need for alarm.

With spring just around the corner—and it really is—you'll soon be hard at work cleaning your home from stem to stern. It can be done smoothly, without upsetting the family comfort and routine if you'll start now by fitting some of the special jobs into your regular cleaning.

In working with women throughout the country, the Stanley Home Service finds that more and more homemakers have given up trying to cram seasonal cleaning into one week or less. By some advance planning they do all sorts of special jobs, gradually leading up to a final spurge of two or three days when curtains come down and rugs get cleaned and rolled up for the summer.

Just take one phase of old seasonal cleaning—cleaning and polishing every piece of furniture in the house takes a couple of days along with all the other heavy cleaning, and you can't possibly do as thorough and good a job. As a result your furniture, for all your effort, still doesn't look as well as it might.

However, if you do one or two pieces at a time now, and then dust them regularly with a soft or treated cloth, both you and your furniture will benefit mightily.

Use either a furniture wash—made by combining three tablespoons of linseed oil and one of turpentine to a quart of hot water—or a furniture cream such as Stanley's, which both cleans and polishes in one operation. If there are layers of old polish, you first may need to use a liquid solvent wax to remove them. If you apply furniture cream, polish immediately to complete dryness. Whatever you use, be sure to use it sparingly.

Every year or so, it's a good idea to unscrew and remove the drawer handles of chests and desks before cleaning and polishing. Dust gathers in these crevices, marring the appearance, no matter how hard and thoroughly you clean and polish the rest.

In cleaning heavily carved furniture, apply furniture cream sparingly with a soft brush moistened, not dripping, with furniture cream. Polish with a stiff brush covered with flannel. Then buff with a regular flannel polishing cloth to be sure it is completely dry.

By beginning now and taking it in easy stages, tempers remain good and the job gets done without even "unseating" friend hubby and family.

State To Raise Fewer Turkeys In Effort To Stabilize Prices

Maryland farmers, like those across the nation, intend to raise fewer turkeys in 1953. It is reported that Maryland turkey growers plan to raise 513,000 turkeys this year, 16,000 less than last year's record.

Nationally, a cutback of nearly five million from the 1952 crop of 59 million birds is expected. Reasons given for the cutback in the 1953 turkey crop are: during the last half of 1952, turkey prices were 10 per cent below the same period in 1951, while feed costs were three per cent higher, and cold storage holdings of turkeys are at a record high. The average weight of turkeys marketed has been going down each year, because growers have been marketing more lightweight birds, such as Beltsville Whites. The smaller sized birds have become increasingly popular with housewives, and are resulting in a shift to year-around marketing, away from the Thanksgiving-Christmas marketing pattern common with heavier birds.

Of the national total, 11 million turkeys will be lightweight birds, compared to 43 million heavyweights.

From France - With Love

Carried away by a friend's enthusiasm, and the wonderful mountains at Auron in the Alpes Maritimes, I have been exhausting myself in an attempt to ski, and so I feel quite justified in promising myself a distinctive vacation in April. I am going to Biarritz on the Atlantic Coast for the Basque Folklore Festival, April 4-11.

A Basque accent is not just a manner of speech in the southwest of France whose seacoast is jeweled by charming resorts such as St. Jean de Luz and Biarritz. Casual fashions borrow the Basque beret, which is much larger than the standard French beret, the comfortable rope-soled Basque espadrilles, and the beautiful Basque shirts with full sleeves and open-collared necklines. Recreation and sports give star billing in this section to the Basque dances and that swift and exciting ball game, pelote, or as it is more familiarly known in the States, jai alai.

The Basque Folklore Festival at Biarritz will have all of these in a brilliant setting. If you plan to visit with me in Biarritz for the April fete you will find reservations are easy to make now, and accommodations vary from the most luxurious to the simplest pension type. Although the Basque coast is rocky, Biarritz has a beautiful sandy beach, plus a casino, golf courses and tennis courts. It is a fashionable and festive resort all year, and dearly loved by the French as one of their own best playgrounds. Close by Biarritz are the smaller beach towns of Ciboure and Hassegar. Ciboure is the birthplace of the great musician Maurice Ravel.

About the same time as the Biarritz festival, April 2-5, to be exact, the regional capital, lovely old Bayonne, will stage its celebrated "Ham Fair." The jambon de Bayonne, a smoky-flavored dark ham, is a gourmet's delicacy. Basque cuisine, by the way, is one of France's most prized regional cooking styles, but a word of caution—the peppers are the zippiest, most innocent-looking and often used vegetable you are likely to encounter in the Pays Basque.

The Basques, like their peppers, are a vibrant, stimulating people with an ancient heritage and a linguistic puzzle in their language. Basque is not related to the Romance languages. If you have a talent for tongues you may pick up a few words. I tried and was completely defeated.

What I will pick up in the Basque country this April are several gifts for friends—the white Basque shorts, the berets, and the espadrilles of course, and the chistera hand packet which the pelote players use. These are beautifully made and very decorative, as baskets, wall decorations or to hold flowers. Marguerite Villars

LET'S USE THE FRONT DOOR!

THE STORY OF "THIS I BELIEVE"

Four men at lunch one day in 1949 were discussing the problems of living in this whirling, exciting modern world. They agreed that moral values were declining, but what could they, radio people all, do about it? Before they finished, they had launched—quite unaware of it at the time—what is now the most listened-to radio program in the world: "This I Believe."

The original idea was simple. Each day, Edward R. Murrow, the noted news analyst, would introduce on a five-minute radio program a successful man or woman who would tell the audience his or her personal beliefs, and give the usable everyday rules by which they ran themselves. The whole program was to be nothing more than that.

The rest is history. Today, three years later, "This I Believe" is broadcast 2,200 times weekly from 196 radio stations in America, and 900 times weekly on 150 stations overseas. As a newspaper column, it appears in 85 dailies, and is available in 97 different countries. And, just issued in book form, it has already become a national best-seller.

As in the radio version, so too in the published edition, successful Americans from actors to bankers, athletes to teachers, have put in writing those beliefs that have carried them through life. Helen Hayes, for instance, tells how she learned the true meaning of "Love thy neighbor" after her daughter's tragic death. Pearl Buck affirms that she enjoys life because she is "endlessly interested in people and their growth," and believes that the human heart is born good.

"eager to be approved and to approve, hungry for simple happiness and the chance to live." General Lewis B. Hershey asserts that "the greatest frontier of our ignorance lies in the relationship of man to man," and urges Americans to seek out the knowledge and understandings that will improve human relationships.

It is such thoughts that continue to attract millions to the radio, newspaper, and book editions of "This I Believe."

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Fla., Feb. 26—Last week I discussed Korea and stated that the Chinese will get sick of it before this year ends.

As we are already tired of the conflict, this means that 1953 will see a Korean peace with home again.

Watch Korea

For the above we all should be thankful; but the question arises as to how this will affect your job. Surely both the railroads and many industries are now profiting greatly by the Korean War. What will happen to them when our boys withdraw?

First let us realize that our boys cannot withdraw until the South Koreans are trained and equipped to take their places. This means that it may be 1954 before our boys get back. However, it may not reduce the number of new draftees. With only about 531,000 men in Korea, over one million new recruits each year are needed to merely provide replacements in our total military forces.

An Analysis of the Situation We must supply the South Korean armies with food, ammunition, and clothing. We assume that our boys will give the South Koreans their guns and other equipment, including airplanes. Hence, by year end, as the South Koreans may be doing mostly only guard and practice work, the demand upon us will be materially cut down. Until a flare-up occurs in Indo-China, Malaya or somewhere else, the traffic of our western railroads will surely be much less.

Peace or war will make little difference to the maintenance expense of our Navy or its men. Many of the ships now patrolling the coast of Korea will be sent to other waters; but their expenses will go on just the same. In a way, this also applies to our air force. We will lose fewer planes to be replaced, but they all must be kept in the air. Certain manufacturing concerns will have fewer orders, but those engaged in processing foods, supplying clothing, shelter, and fuel should continue to give full employment. We must make it popular for South Koreans to serve in their army and replace the Allied troops.

Cold War Preparations Most of the industrial activity today is not due to the Korean conflict, but to preparing for World War III. This will continue to give full employment for from six to 12 months more. Furthermore, the making of military supplies may become a new and permanent industry for some years ahead. If so, no efficient workers need suffer this year from an ending of the Korean War.

Some companies may be affected by President Eisenhower's determination to avoid overlapping military orders and reducing costs. This could mean smaller profits to some, which would make them reduce their labor forces and cause some unemployment in certain communities. But only the latest and least efficient employees need to be laid off.

Business Outlook The above means that several railroads may be hurt by peace in the Pacific; but most industrial plants have nothing now to fear. The new administration will insist on lower costs and no rush work or overtime. This means that manufacturers and wageworkers must be more efficient.

Frankly, I feel that this will be a good thing all around. Our "riding high and handsome" the past few years was leading to a bad fall for us all. Now the new policy could give manufacturers and wageworkers an opportunity to adjust themselves gradually to the new conditions. I visualize slowly declining business, but not panicky. More advertising will be found to be the best cushion.

Use Safety Plugs

Three-pronged electrical grounding plugs can be a lifesaver. In case of a short circuit, they allow the electricity to find a good ground through a special ground wire. The fuse will blow out, rendering the appliance harmless while the short can be located and fixed.

It is advisable to use grounding plugs on electric motors or appliances located where people or livestock can come in contact with them while standing on the ground or concrete floors, or near plumbing fixtures.

Most Widows Are Protected By S. S.

Four out of five of the widows (or wives) and children in this country are protected by old-age and survivors insurance, according to W. S. King, manager of the Hagerstown office of the Social Security Administration.

Mr. King points out that, while the original Social Security Act provided monthly benefits for the wage earner only, the present law provides such a wide variety of insurance benefits that practically everyone dependent upon the wage earner for support is protected by this insurance. The face value of the life insurance protection afforded by social security is approximately $275 billion.

Monthly benefits ranging from $25 to $85 per month are provided for eligible workers who retire at any time after reaching age 65. Benefits are provided for the dependent wife, child, or husband of the retired worker also.

In addition, the law provides for the payment of benefits to survivors of insured workers who die, regardless of the worker's age at the time of death. Mr. King lists the following types of survivors who may qualify for monthly benefits: unmarried children under 18 years of age, widows who have reached the age of 65, widows over 65 who are caring for children and dependent parents. Mr. King says that in some cases the total benefits payable to the family amount to $168.75 per month, which is the maximum permitted under the law. In addition to monthly benefits, lump-sum death payments, ranging from $75 to $255 are also provided.

Your Personal Health

Protect Yourself From TB Anybody can get tuberculosis, at any time, and in any place. The TB germ, the tubercle bacillus, is no respecter of age, season, or climate. About 400,000 persons in this country have active tuberculosis. Tuberculosis strikes 115,000 Americans every year.

Yet tuberculosis can be prevented. True as it is that anybody can get tuberculosis, it is equally true that nobody need get it. No one can guarantee that you won't get tuberculosis, but there are definite steps you can take to protect yourself and your neighbors.

First, you can protect your own general health, because, in good health, your body normally can overcome an occasional small number of germs, even TB germs. Good health habits include three regular and well-balanced meals every day, and regular and sufficient sleep.

Second, you can get a physical checkup by your doctor at regular intervals, at least once a year. An X-ray examination of your chest should be part of your checkup. This is an important part of your protection. If you don't have TB, the X-ray will show it, and that will be good news. If you do have TB, it will be found and treatment can be started at once.

Don't wait for the time for your regular examination to see your doctor if you discover you have been exposed to TB, or if you detect certain signs in yourself like these: a tired, listless feeling most of the time, loss of weight without knowing why, or pains in the chest or coughs which hang on. At such times there is no need for alarm; your doctor will be able to tell you what is wrong. But in fairness to yourself and your family, give the doctor every opportunity to keep you in good health, and, of course, if it's necessary, to treat your illness.

Next, always take precautions to avoid those who fail to cover their coughs and sneezes with a handkerchief or tissue. Not only tuberculosis, but colds, influenza, and other diseases are spread through the spray from a cough or sneeze.

Finally, you can find out what your health department and voluntary tuberculosis association are doing in your area to combat tuberculosis, and offer your cooperation. They need it, for tuberculosis is one of our major health problems.

Insurance company statistics show that carelessly handled 115-volt current can be a killing current. Short circuited appliances are dangerous, especially in damp locations.

Appliances can be made safe with the three-pronged plug-ins, and matching receptacles. All approved methods of grounding have a separate metallic path for short circuited electricity to follow, back to the ground at the service entrance.

Grounding through a water pipe is often not sufficient to blow a fuse. It frequently results in a continuous waste of power with no tipoff to the actual danger.

Air, water and heat can rob cabbage of vitamin C. The less you cook cabbage or expose cut cabbage to air the more vitamin C you hold.

Being poorly nourished might be one reason older people have a constant tired feeling and lose sleep; or are even overweight.

Wrong "Train" of Thought

Most of us knew the streamliner stopped about four miles from town last Thursday -- but we didn't know why...

Seems the train was hurrying along, then came the screeching of brakes -- some fellow had pulled the Emergency Stop cord. When the conductor asked him why he did it, he said, "The train was just going too fast--I wanted to get you to slow down."

From where I sit, that streamliner has been going at that speed for the past seven years with a perfect safety record and the passengers have always been pleased. Now--along comes a fellow who wants the train to go at his speed. Some people are like that. Some still would begrudge another person's right to a temperate glass of beer even though that person wouldn't dream of flashing a "Stop" sign on their preference for, say, milk, coffee or tea. Respecting the rights of others is the only way we can keep "on the right track."

New Phone Books Distributed

The new 1953 red letter telephone directory for Frederick County is being delivered this week, according to an announcement by Roger P. Heck, local manager for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company.

According to Mr. Heck, 20,378 copies of the directory were printed with a red letter cover to feature the new Frederick-Braddock Heights telephone numbers. There have been about 15,200 changes in the listings since the previous issue, he said, and an increase of four pages or 600 additions.

The new MOnument 2, MOnument 3, and SKYline 3 numbers for Frederick and Braddock Heights will become effective at midnight Saturday. Until that time customers are asked to use the old numbers.

The number of telephones served by the new directory has increased over 600 in the past year, it was said. How this increases the value of the service to each customer was explained by citing growth figures for the Emmitsburg telephone office where the number of telephones has more than doubled since 1938. "This means," said Mr. Heck, "that each Emmitsburg customer has twice as many telephones which he may call or receive calls from."

Mr. Heck emphasized that since there have been so many changes in telephone listings since the last issue of the directory, it would be wise for customers to verify all numbers before calling and recommended that personal telephone number lists be checked against the new directory. Personal telephone number booklets are available at the company's business without charge.

Hundreds of millions of barrels of oil and large amounts of natural gas are under the ground in northern Alaska. The wells are generally 150 miles from an ice-free coast and pipe lines easily could be built for this short distance.

Principal application of the rare metal cerium is in sparking flints for cigaret lighters, but it also is used in electronic tubes and its oxide helps to make gas mantles glow.

Servicewomen enroute are grateful for a place of their own where they may shed the grime of travel and get ready to face the world again. Makeup bars in USO clubs have proved popular as one of the special services offered to women in uniform. USO programs for servicewomen are made possible by the United Defense Fund which seeks support through Red Feather and other united community campaigns.

KITCHEN KUES — For A Cheerful Kitchen

SPACE PROBLEM in your kitchen? Take a tip from Peg Riley, stylist for Waverly Fabrics. Using inexpensive plywood, she built a breakfast counter beneath the corner windows, covered the top with new Bonded Glosheen print "Fiesta Plaid" and tacked on a ruffle of the same cloth with a roll-binding along the edge so that it may be removed for washing and easily replaced without disturbing the shirring. The bar stools fit nicely under the counter when not in use. For color, the tier draperies were made of washable Glosheen "Sweet Stuff" pattern in blue and yellow on white, complementing the canary painted walls. This type window treatment is excellent for light control, permitting sunlight to enter from top or bottom.

State Delegation Introduces Trailer Law In Legislature

The Frederick county delegation Friday introduced a measure in the House of Delegates for the regulation, licensing and taxing of trailer coaches and trailer coach parks in Frederick county.

Delegate Melvin H. Derr, chairman of the county delegation, said the measure was introduced at the request of the Health Department and many of its features relate to sanitation and related matters.

Copies of a model bill which is in force in some other states were secured and the local measure prepared following conferences with the Health Department.

The eight-page measure first makes certain definitions, including a "trailer coach" which means any vehicle or similar portable structure having no foundation other than wheels, jacks or skirtings and so designed or constructed as to permit occupancy for dwelling or sleeping purposes. A "trailer catch park" means any plot of ground upon which two or more trailer coaches are located, regardless of whether a charge is made for accommodation.

Under the bill, licenses will be required for trailer coach parks and those in existence would have 90 days after the effective date of the bill—June 1—to obtain such license.

Annual license fee would be $25 for each block of ten trailer coach spaces or fraction thereof, with the maximum fee for one trailer coach park not more than $250.

Additional Tax

In addition, there would be a tax of 50 cents per week or fraction thereof, payable by the proprietor of the park, for each trailer occupying space therein. The tax would be credited to the general fund of Frederick County and the tax would be paid quarterly. The fee for a transfer of license would be $5.

Applications for trailer coach park licenses would be filed with and issued by the Board of Health. They would show name and address of applicant, location of park, complete plan, plans and specifications would have to be filed in triplicate.

The Board of Health and the Board of County Commissioners would investigate and inspect the proposed plans. The applicant must be of good moral character and the commissioners must determine that granting of the license would not be detrimental to the public welfare or safety of persons or property because of pertinent conditions in regard to public roads, schools, churches, public utilities and household services, use of adjacent territory for residential, agricultural or other purposes.

The park would have to be located on a well-drained site, properly graded to insure rapid drainage and freedom from stagnant pools of water. There would be a minimum requirement of 1,000 square feet for each trailer coach space and width would be at least 25 feet. There would be a 15-foot clearance requirement between coaches except those parked end-to-end. Spaces would have to abut on a driveway which would have unobstructed access to a public street or highway. Driveways would have to be hard surfaced with light at night. Walkways would have to provide service buildings to house toilet, bathing, laundry and other sanitary facilities. An electrical outlet, 110-volts would be provided for each trailer space. Parks could be located in any district zoned for trailer parks.

Adequate water supply will be required, with a cold water tap at each trailer coach space. Common drinking cups are banned. There are lengthy requirements concerning sanitation facilities.

Each park shall either discharge waste into a public sewer and disposal plant or septic tank system. Each trailer coach space must have a trapped sewer. Metal garbage cans must be provided for each trailer.

Trailer coach occupants must be registered on records kept by Health Depts. would have the power to revoke any license when the licensee had been guilty by a court, of violating any provision of the act.

Fines for violations would run from $5 to $100 for each offense, with each day that a violation was permitted to exist, constituting a separate offense.

You can count on four cups of grated or diced cheese to a pound.

Currently celebrating his thirty-second birthday — baritone Gordon MacRae is one successful man who really feels that Fortune has smiled on him . . . and even when she hasn't, she has at least been on his side! The handsome, energetic star of NBC's "The Railroad Hour," began his professional career when he won top prize in a magazine talent contest, and sang at the New York World's Fair.

Gordon MacRae

Next, while Gordon was a page boy at NBC, he was discovered by Horace Heidt, and his career steadily advanced, interrupted only by a tour of duty with the Army Air Force. Back in civilian life, Gordon sang the lead in a Broadway hit, "Three To Make Ready," began making records, had a radio show, signed a movie contract and then—in 1948, Fortune really smiled, when he was chosen to star in a new musical program, "The Railroad Hour," a program, which answered all Gordon's dreams of combining his singing and acting.

Gordon, his lovely wife Sheila, and their three lively youngsters live in California's San Fernando Valley, where Gordon divides his time between practicing his golf swings, on his grounds, working on musical scores in his specially designed study, and teaching his youngsters to swim in the family pool.

ORDER FERTILIZER NOW

Supplies of fertilizer for 1953 will probably be adequate, but agronomists advise farmers to order fertilizer now and have it delivered during the winter. This way they will be sure of obtaining the grade they want.

Those who wait until planting time to order may find dealers' stocks depleted, and may have to substitute a less desirable grade.

Farmers taking early delivery on fertilizer should make certain that the fertilizer materials received are in good condition and that a dry protected place is available for storage.

YOU and YOUR CONGRESS

WASHINGTON—What would happen to prices if there were another explosion on the international front like the outbreak of fighting in Korea in June, 1950?

That question is being pondered by many in Congress as the time for decision on the future of economic controls legislation draws near.

April 30 is the expiration date of the Defense Production Act authority for Federal wage, price, rent, and credit controls.

Little thought is being given in Congress to extension of that authority, because most of the controls have been lifted and, also, many members of Congress are disgusted with the way controls have been administered under the Act.

However, while the subject of price control is virtually academic under present-day conditions, many members of Congress are wondering about the future. They realize that the world situation remains volcanic. They remember how prices rose because of scare-buying and loose Federal credit control after the fighting in Korea began.

There are, at the moment, three schools of thought in Congress on the future of controls legislation.

One school, headed by Chairman Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), of the Senate Banking Committee, believes Congress should enact a complete set of standby controls for use by the President in the event of another 1950-style emergency. He has introduced such a bill, which is very much like the Defense Production Act, and his committee will open public hearings on it soon.

Capehart and his followers argue that it was more than two months after the outbreak of the Korean fighting before Congress passed a controls law and the country should not risk finding itself in that position again.

The second school of thought, which includes Chairman Jesse F. Wolcott (R-Mich.), of the House Banking Committee and Senate Majority Leader Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), believes a standby controls program is not necessary.

This school contends that wage and price controls treat merely the symptoms and not the cause (excess of demand over supply) of inflation. Therefore, it is argued, it would be a delusion to give legal sanction on an indefinite basis to wage and price con-

Many States Studying Problem Of Increasing Rabbit Population

The problem of increasing the rabbit population, according to the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, for the benefit of the hunter is one that is not limited to Maryland. Many states have studied the problem and the consensus seems to be that improving the habitat of Brer Rabbit is the best way to provide better shooting; these little animals must have food and shelter from the elements and their enemies. Give them these things and rabbits are so prolific they will take over the job of stocking the cover. Take care of the habitat and Molly Cottontail will do her part.

Many States have tried to propagate wild rabbits in captivity and have decided such a method of increasing the wild stock is a complete washout. Most of the States also reached the conclusion that restocking with imported rabbits also is not the answer. The Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission is not concerned with this question at the moment for it is illegal to import wild rabbits into Maryland at the present time. The problem, therefore, facing the Commission at this time is what to do in ways other than importation. Besides increasing the habitat the Commission has two projects that it believes will go a long way towards providing better rabbit hunting; one is its rabbit trapping program, and the other is its plan to establish a large number of small rabbit refuges throughout the State, one or more in every County; some have already been established and are proving successful. These areas will be supplied with the best food and cover for rabbits and predators will be controlled. After the hunting season the rabbit increase will be trapped and released in suitable places. It is hoped that the number of native rabbits thus raised, trapped and liberated will exceed 500 animals per county. These will be "natives" used to form of cover and weather conditions, and the rate of survival should be excellent, in contrast to the known loss in imported rabbits, not familiar with the terrain, exposed to unfamiliar predators, and perhaps infected with some contagious diseases.

Regarding the trapping program, which has been tried out experimentally during the past several years, the Commission has operated with limited facilities that will be materially increased. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952, a total of 1510 rabbits was trapped and released in suitable cover in hunting areas. As of February 15, 1953 (the trapping program has just started) there have been a total of 870 rabbits trapped, where unwanted and from rabbit refuges, and liberated in good habitat. From this it is clear that the trapping program for 1953 will far exceed, in numbers of animals taken, the previous year.

Incidentally, there are trends or cycles from year to year in rabbit populations as in other wild birds and mammals; and the trend at the present time seem to be at a low level. With these plans and Nature's help, the trend from now on should definitely be on the up-grade, and hunting success should be better in spite of the rapidly increasing hunting pressure.

The Game and Inland Fish Commission requests the cooperation and assistance of every sportsman in carrying out this program to make two rabbits grow where only one previous existed.

controls as effective anti-inflation measures.

Wolcott also says a program of standby controls might interfere with long-range planning by industry to take up the slack in the economy when and if defense spending slackens.

Other arguments of the anti-standby school are that the government's general credit control policy, with which to deal with inflation, is much sounder now than in 1950, and that steadily increasing supplies of goods since mid-1950 have erased public fears of any new emergency causing shortages overnight.

The third school of thought proposes sort of a compromise. For example, Rep. Abraham J. Multer (D-N. Y.), of this school, a member of the House Banking Committee, has introduced a bill that would authorize the President to invoke an enforceable 90-day freeze of prices, wages, and rents in the event of "a threat to the economic stability or security" of the country. During the 90 days, Congress could enact a new controls law if it wished. It also could end the freeze immediately, or extend it or let it expire at the end of 90 days.

"The international situation is still so precarious," Multer says, "that we cannot afford to leave the President without authority to protect the consumers and taxpayers of this country against another crisis which would send prices soaring."

The President himself says he will not ask Congress for a standby controls law but will not reject it if Congress offers one.

LOOKING AHEAD

The Reds' Strategy Here

The change in administration of the U. S. government was anticipated by the American Communists and their masters in Moscow, and a new program of strategy designed to strengthen their hold in our nation is already well under way. Prof. Louis F. Budenz, former Red leader, told our Harding College Freedom Forum audience, the faculty and student body. The one-time Communist Daily Worker editor was invited to the campus to alert us to the new Communist strategy made necessary by the tightening of safeguards against the Reds by the Eisenhower administration.

In his address, Prof. Budenz made two points of paramount importance to all Americans: (1) That while the new president and new Congress would no doubt tighten safeguards, the Reds were cunning enough to hold their own and even strengthen their apparatus. "The Communist conspiracy in America is still on the march," he said. (2) And we can stamp out the menace only when most of our people clearly understand Communism and can recognize the Communist "line" when they hear or see it. By having leaders unable to recognize it, we lost China to the Reds, he said.

Non-Communist Help

The Communist "line" is carried thinly disguised in such Communist publications as the Daily Worker and Political Affairs. The Reds throughout America pick up the line and try to get important, influential non-Communists to unwittingly advocate precisely what they are trying to accomplish. For instance, Prof. Budenz said, the No. 1 Communist strategy objective for a long time had been the achievement of U. S. recognition of Red China.

He named a nationally-known conservative industrialist who had advocated such recognition. "He was unconsciously expressing the Communist line, the dearest design of the Kremlin," Mr. Budenz said. The achievement of such help from conservative individuals and groups is one of the major "strategy goals of the American Communists for 1953, he said.

Concentrate In Education

In 1953 the Communists intend, said Prof. Budenz, "to intensify their efforts to maintain their hold in education." For an understanding of how deeply they have penetrated American education, he cited recent testimony of Dr. Bella Dodd before the McCarran Committee. Dr. Dodd formerly was a member of the Communist national committee and legislative representative of the New York Teachers' Union. The union, she said, had 11,000 members and was at one time under complete domination of the Communist Party. "Teachers," she said, "have always been a very important part of the Communist apparatus."

Louis Budenz said another Communist objective for 1953 is to "smear" our legal processes." The 13 Communists recently convicted of teaching and advocating the violent overthrow of our government will appeal the verdict and use every legal device to postpone their imprisonment. By the time they go to jail, he observed, the 11 leaders convicted in the Foley Square trials will be free again. He said the Smith Act, through which the Communists are tried, wasn't adequate to cope with the conspiracy. He urged that the Communist Party be realistically recognized as a conspiracy, and outlawed. Other Strategy
The Communists in 1953 will try to bring more of their im-

Senator Butler Proposes Amendment

Senator John Marshall Butler of Maryland has today introduced on the floor of the Senate a joint resolution which proposes an amendment to the Constitution of the United States relating to the composition and jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

American admen are reputed to be the world's greatest creators of cliches and slogans designed to sell a bill of goods.

Yet, London slogan makers do very well when the stakes are huge.

London has come up with a new dandy in "Trade-Not Aid".

It's a catchy slogan in the best Churchillian style, condensing this thought "The United States should eliminate import tariffs so British goods can flood the American market, replacing U. S. business output and U. S. employment!"

In the November election returns, the British realized American voters registered a protest against the continuation of vast tax-wasting inflation-causing foreign give-away programs.

Therefore, British policy makers launched this slogan.

Among the first to sound the alarm in Washington was Sen. George W. Malone (Rep., Nev.)

"Workingmen and investors of this nation," he states, "have been alarmed and mystified by the flood of canned editorials, articles in national magazines and one economic world columnist mouthing with surprising similarity the trade, not aid catch phrase. 'It is now clear,' the Senator says, 'that the bombardment for the division of the markets of this nation with the low wage living standard labor of Europe and Asia is being directed by the sterling bloc countries led by England using Marshall Plan Funds.'"

British policy makers consistently refuse to recognize why the American market is by far the world's richest.

In Britain, and all Europe, widespread ownership of automobiles, television and radio sets, mechanical refrigerators, and other conveniences is unthinkable. Vast monopolies, or cartels, control the markets. In doing so, they make it impossible for mass ownership of goods, but at the same time they prevent any independent firms from entering any given industrial field and taking a share of the volume away from the cartel in control of that field, even though new employment and wealth would be created.

In Washington a substantial group takes this attitude. It was thought American dollars would help Britain and Europe to prosper. Despite billions spent the job was a failure. Now Europe wants to flood the American market with cheap, foreign goods. That, too, would fail.

This group believes there is only one solution to the British and European problem. That is for them to adopt the very same American anti-trust laws that they, allied with U. S. internationalists, have been feverishly working to tear down.

Years ago General Douglas MacArthur said "America is a rich storehouse that any nation would like to plunder."

General MacArthur did not distinguish between friendly or enemy nations. Today, so-called friendly nations are engaged in a drive to plunder America, with the excuse their own survival depends upon it. Yet, they have never tried to adopt the free enterprise system that has made America worth plundering. Failing to do so, they are now in the position of saying "Let's all commit suicide together."

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

WHEN IT'S APPLE BLOSSOM TIME

IN THE SPRING OF THE YEAR, THE TATTERED OLD MAN USED TO START WANDERING. THE BIG SWOLLEN RIVER HE FLOATED DOWN BECAME A RAGGED DIRT ROAD AND THEN THE ROAD WIDENED INTO PRAIRIE, YET THE MAN KEPT HOBBLING ON.

EVERYWHERE JOHN CHAPMAN WENT, HE DUSTED THE FRESH GREEN SPRING EARTH WITH SEEDS, APPLE SEEDS, AND SO THEY CALLED HIM JOHNNY APPLESEED.

ALL HIS LIFE, JOHNNY KEPT PLANTING TINY SEEDS FOR THE FUTURE. AND TODAY, AS SPRING BEGINS TO WARM THE BIG BROAD LAND HE LOVED, AMERICANS ARE PLANTING FOR THEIR OWN FUTURE THROUGH INCREASED SAVINGS AND LIFE INSURANCE—WHICH WILL GROW AND RIPEN JUST AS SURELY AS JOHNNY'S APPLE SEEDS.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde

What are your views on Federal rent control?

The subject was debated one day last week in the House of Representatives. We must decide soon whether to let controls die or whether the Federal government should still have authority to let certain communities impose rent ceilings where there isn't enough housing.

Many Congressmen feel it should be up to the legislatures to authorize the controls in the critical areas in their own states. The argument is that they certainly know better what the conditions are.

I rose to point out to the House what happened in Montgomery County not long ago. Rent control was extended in the county because there was supposed to be a housing shortage. But a few days later a request to rezone some land to permit building a new apartment was turned down on the ground there were too many apartments already!

Those who want the Federal law continued—perhaps for political reasons—argued that powerful lobbyists might control the state legislatures and that the people might not get fair protection as a result. But when they were questioned in the debate as to whether this meant they didn't trust their own legislators, they evaded the question.

Republican leaders in both the House and Senate are hoping Congress can adjourn early in July—not to give the members a long vacation, but to let us spend more time in our own states and districts to find out what the people are thinking.

Work is moving along on legislation. A judiciary committee starts hearings on the important tidelands question this week. The education and labor committee has been holding hearings on amendments to the Taft-Hartley law. A joint resolution has been introduced to get a study going on how much the Federal government has been competing with private businesses which pay taxes.

Among visitors to the Capitol last week were 80 Hagerstown high school students who came down with Mrs. Towson. Mrs. Edward W. Koch of Silver Spring, writes to say she agrees "that TV should be excluded from committee hearings. So many able persons appear to disadvantage on TV and there is no opportunity to correct mistakes inadvertently made in the course of debate."

it's true that it may be a little hard to change, but life would be more interesting if you'd at least try. One way is to keep active.

Keep an interest in what's going on—in people and in what they're doing. Look for new ways of doing things, try new recipes, new methods.

Though it's easy to talk only about yourself or the past, guard against making yourself the topic of conversation. Then, keep up your appearance and wear a smile on your face. You'll find that your family and friends will enjoy you a lot more if you take care of yourself and find time to rest and relax.

Having nothing to do is the greatest threat to happiness in old age—or to any age for that matter. If you'll have a hobby, you can get a lot of relaxation and a feeling of inner satisfaction, too. With a hobby you'll never get to the place where you have nothing to do. What your hobby is doesn't matter. It's what it does for you. Life takes on new meaning when you work with your hobby.

Farm Production

Steadily Increasing

Farm production is steadily becoming more efficient in Frederick county, according to an analysis of most recent Maryland crop yield data made by the Committee for Conversation Now.

Average yields per acre of 11 major crops were about 10 per cent higher in 1952 than in the period of 1941-50, records show. A greater volume of farm produced on about 5 per cent less acreage than in the decade of the 1940's. Because figures are averages, they are well below yields on many farms.

Leading the list on yield increases in 1952 were soybeans, with 27.5 per cent higher yield. Production increased from an average of 14.1 bushels per acre in 1941-50 to 18 in 1952. The corn yield increase from 38.5 in 1941-50 to 46 bushels per acre in 1951 amounted to 20 per cent. Other yields for 1952 were:

Buckwheat, 24 bushels per acre, 13 per cent higher than the 1941-50 average; oats, 34.5 bushels per acre, 10 per cent higher; barley, 33 bushels per acre, 9.6 per cent higher; hay, 1.46 tons per acre, 7 per cent higher; rye, 15.5 bushels per acre, 6 per cent higher; wheat, 20.5 bushels per acre, 5.7 per cent higher; tobacco, 800 pounds per acre, 5.5 per cent higher; sweet potatoes, 155 bushels per acre, 4 per cent higher, and Irish potatoes, 122 bushels per acre, 2 per cent higher.

Yields last year generally were greater than in 1951. But, with alternately heavy and then light rainfall, 1952 was not an annually ideal growing year. Individual years are not always certain indicators of production efficiency since weather and other such factors have a big part in determining yields.

The Committee now pointed out that farms are constantly managed better, due to greater knowledge and application of better seeds, better pest and disease control, fertilizer, and conservation practices which save soil, water and fertility.

The Committee added that increasing yields as a means of farm farms is particularly important in a period of declining farm prices.

Homemakers' Corner

Mrs. Moehm suggests that you might be a collector—you might collect poems, pictures, antiques or recipes. Or take a special interest in roses, rock gardens or flower arrangements. Your hobby might be some form of handicraft such as making samplers, needle-point, knitting, crocheting or quilting. Many people choose painting, music, books, or people for their hobbies.

Washing Washable Wool While dry cleaning is a must for most wool clothing, washing is practical and even preferable for many knit wool garments and lightweight flannels and challis.

When it comes to cleanliness and the least damage to woolsens, it is advisable to wash wool before it's deeply soiled.

For less shrinkage, stretching, weakening or color changing from repeated laundering, use detergents—made especially for washing fine fabrics. While these detergents don't remove soil efficiently as all-purpose detergents and soaps, they're less harmful to wool than other types, and do a satisfactory job if the wool hasn't become too grimy.

Wash woolsens gently in lukewarm suds with as little agitation as possible—preferably a soak wash for no longer than 10 minutes. Rinse quickly lifting and squeezing gently to remove moisture.

Red Cross Readies For Drive

The annual drive to support the humanitarian work of the Red Cross will begin next Monday in Frederick County which is to raise $20,000 as part of the national budget of $93,000,000.00.

It will be led by Daniel J. Thomas, general chairman of the local campaign, who has chosen as county chairman Tobias Zimmerman, of Adamstown, and as chairman for Frederick, Austin J. Angleberger.

Both Mr. Thomas and Mr. Zimmerman are widely and popularly known throughout the county and their appointment has been a source of satisfaction and confidence, Charles Main, president of the Frederick County chapter of the organization said.

Churches throughout the area as well as the country at large have designated Sunday as Red Cross Sunday, while the synagogues are drawing attention of their congregations to the campaign at their Friday Sabbath services.

Mr. Zimmerman is now organizing his committee of aides and will start next week a systematic effort to reach every family in the county. "I do not anticipate any difficulty in raising the county's share of the fund," he said. "Certainly when it is understood that this county receives direct benefits of many kinds from the Red Cross, no thinking citizen who can afford it, will fail to support it.

"We are inclined to take the Red Cross for granted and think of it mostly as a great army of neighbors banded together democratically to extend a helping hand to victims of flood, famine, tornado or fire throughout the world and to minister to the needs of our soldiers and sailors wherever they may be. We also know something of its contribution to the strength of the nation through the blood program which saves thousands of lives and combats dreaded diseases," Zimmerman continued. "But we seldom realize what a tremendous force for good the Red Cross is right here in our county. Of course the people in the Thurmont area are grateful to the Red Cross for the gamma globulin which was given free to prevent the spread of hepatitis, the six county families of whom last year were considered disaster cases when their homes and possessions were destroyed by fire, can tell how the Red Cross stepped in with food, clothing, shelter and even money to tide them over; the 208 servicemen who were helped to get emergency leave by the Red Cross when illness or other trouble demanded their attendance at home, and the mothers of servicemen who obtained news of their sons who had failed to write, or the others of the 894 families similarly served, all can tell you that the Red Cross was a real neighbor.

"But there are other benefits such as the hundreds being trained constantly in aid and water safety as an available corps should be, the home nursing courses and nurses' aid training which make the lot of the aged and the invalid in the family a better one, or the groups of women gathered together to make articles of use to the Frederick County Hospital in treating and caring for its patients—these, to name only a few, are benefits the worth of which cannot be estimated in money. We'd be without all that if it were not for the Red Cross which asks only a paltry sum in comparison."

Among services of the motor corps was the taking of children of the county who suffered from cerebral palsy to the Cerebral Palsy School in Frederick and return, four days each school week.

est and quiet, although in recent years commercialism has "inflicted a deep wound in the True Spirit of Christmas." Scores of choirs present "The Messiah" and Carol Programs; young and old go caroling; the churches hold Watchnight Services, Midnight Mass, and Christmas morning services; and finally, the families gather in their homes to eat a Christmas dinner, much like our own, and then quietly exchange presents.

Many Edinburgh citizens wish that Hogmanay would be half so quiet as Christmas! Hogmanay (New Year's Eve) is the relic of an old pagan custom that has been incorporated into the Christian community life. Yet some of its former spirit remains. Thousands of people gathered in the square at Tron Kirk, waiting for the tower clock to strike twelve. When the striking stopped, singing broke out, men shook hands and kissed the ladies; the paper hats and ribbons filled the air accompanied by the tooting of paper horns; the empty bottles fell to the street—and broke.

The crowd disappeared within half-an-hour, for "first-footing" had already started. First-footing is a Scottish custom—a wishing for prosperity in the New Year. The visiting parties traditionally carry gifts symbolic of heat, light, food and for some inexplicable reason, some beverage. The proper greetings are a handshake for the man and a kiss for the lady. (The home is particularly blessed if the first-footer is a dark-haired man.)

There are yet holidays of another kind. Rather than an explanation, let an example suffice. Today in the St. Giles Cathedral the Earl of Dalkeith was married to Miss Jane M'Neill. Queen Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret attended the wedding. Thousands of people spent most of the day waiting at the Cathedral and along the streets just to have a glimpse of their sovereign lady.

Such are the holidays and celebrations of Scotland, which link her to the past and give to her inspiration for the future. However, this list is by no means exhaustive, for the special celebrations of the Scottish Clans alone are a complete story within themselves. Also, it must be remembered that the Scottish and English holidays vary considerably out of the very fact of their different heritages.

The observance of the many holidays answer the questions proposed in Scotland's National Parting Song. "Should auld acquaintance be forgot, and never brought to mind? Should auld acquaintance be forgot, and days o' lang-syne? The value of these holidays to the future lies in the genuine fellowship they offer and the support they give to the Scottish hope "That man to man, the world o'er, Shall brothers be, for a' that."
