Once again the ugly word in difference appears to be the password going about our community as an urgent request for blood donors was issued last week. This fine free humanitarian community service has been in effect for about three years and has been able to take care of all of us who were desperately in need, up until this year. The demand has become so extensive for this brotherly kindness that now it is too great for the American Legion, the sponsoring agent, to meet.

This indifference is deeply regretted. All that is asked is that you have your blood typed, at the expense of the Legion, but apparently that is asking too much of our citizens who, God forbid, may need assistance of this type some day. As urgent as the need is after last week's appeal only ONE response was met. One kindly citizen out of 4500. Ours is the shame that no community would want to mantle it. Officials stated that the donor may never be called and then again he or she might be asked to give in short order. It was the general idea not to use this blood except in emergencies and it was proposed to build up a potential "walking bank" to meet any emergency or disaster that might strike our community. One cheerful donor (God bless him) is all that we can muster here. Suppose YOUR wife or child should happen to meet with some misfortune or catastrophe tomorrow? Where would you get emergency blood? Just think it over folks and then go to the American Legion and register. Let's wipe out this stigma that has settled over our heads. I just can't reason it out. It doesn't make sense. Earlier this year Emmitsburg topped the whole county when the Bloodmobile appeared here. Over 200 gave blood at that time and as you know it was for the Red Cross, yet when we need it here for our own protection, only one comes forth. Can you understand it?

Many of you sports-minded citizens are missing out on some fine baseball these Sunday afternoons. Manager Frank Apichella has moulded together a pretty fine combination and has taken two of its last three contests and are now resting in third place in the league standings. Take a lady's word for it, if you will, they're playing swell ball and my feminine intuition urges me to start dreaming. It's been a long time, about a decade, I believe, since a league flag was unfurled over Community Field. Perhaps I am a bit premature with my dreaming so early in the season, but from all indications things look mighty good. Better come out and lend a little moral support fans.

I promised not to mention trees again but I feel that I might be able to enlighten you a bit about the subject. For those of you who would like to have trees removed but have been hesitating on account of the expense, I am told that the power company will do the job for you free, that is if the tree is in any way endangering wires that might be running through it. At any rate it's worth looking into. Seems a shame that we missed out by not having them removed before the State road resurfacing is started, but now I fear it is too late as I am told that this project will begin Monday a.m.

The local Chamber of Commerce is striving to bring either industry or more people to town and is seeking the cooperation of local property owners. A survey is going to be made through my favorite "rag," the Chronicle, to determine just what accommodations are available for the personnel of Fort Ritchie and the "Pentagon" near here. A heavy influx already has taken place and more are expected, many more, I understand. So far no one has lifted a finger to welcome any of these people to our community. But the Chamber figures first of all, that to bring them here we must have accommodations for them. Many of them are married and have families and need homes. The general idea is to learn what

New Route 15 Definitely Scheduled

U. S. Route 15 will definitely be re-vamped it was revealed this week by information given out in the form of a letter to Edgar G. Emrich, president of the Emmitsburg-Thurmont Route 15 Improvement Assn. from State Road Commission authorities.

While it is doubtful if work will be begun any more this year, the letter stated definitely that bids would be let this fall for the project.

It originally was decided to correct a few of the most dangerous curves in the seven-mile stretch of treacherous, twisting road, but at a later date it was decided to adopt a rehabilitation scheme of old Route 15 with the idea of using it as one lane of a future dual highway.

According to information handed out by Mr. W. Childs, Jr., chief engineer of the State Roads Commission, "Our original plan for the improvement of the existing U. S. Route 15 called for widening and resurfacing sections of this road only with the ultimate improvement to a dual highway on a relocation.

"In order to accomplish the most effective and economical way of improving Route 15, we studied not only the widening and resurfacing as such but with a view to rehabilitating existing Route 15, with such modifications as may be necessary, as one lane of an ultimate dual highway, and the construction of the second lane at such time as traffic warranted. This entailed considerable study as well as the preparation of comparative estimates.

"As a result of these studies, we recommended to the Commission that as an overall plan, the Commission adopt a scheme of rehabilitation of the existing road as one lane of an ultimate dual highway and the construction of the second lane at some future time.

"The Commission could not take definite action on this recommendation until it knew what action the Legislature would take with regard to the proposed 12-Year Road Construction and Reconstruction Program, which, as you know, was approved by the Legislature on April 7.

"The approval of the 12-year program established the financing of this and other projects so that we were able to go ahead with surveys, plans and acquisition of rights of way where additional right of way is required, and consultants were employed to do this work in order to expedite it as much as possible.

I have discussed the matter with the consultants and they advise that they will complete the plans by August 24, and assuming that this date is met, we will be able to advertise the project on September 15."

From all indications then, construction of the new road will not begin until the spring of '54.

Emmitsburg Man In 3-Car Wreck

A total of $2,400 in damages was done in a three-car collision Sunday morning at 11:40 o'clock in Hagerstown.

Hagerstown city police said the three-car collision occurred when a car driven by Floyd C. Manning, Emmitsburg, failed to stop for a red traffic light while proceeding west on Church St., Hagerstown. The Manning car was hit by two others going north on Jonathan St., one driven by Jacob Beard, Jr., Hagerstown, and the other operated by Frank Trite, also of Hagerstown.

MOWER CUTS FOOT

John J. Hollinger, S. Seton Ave., was painfully injured Sunday evening at his home when his right foot became engaged in a power lawn mower. He was treated at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg and released.

BIBLE SCHOOL MEETING

The Rev. Philip Bower, director of the Emmitsburg Community Daily Vacation Bible School, has called a meeting of all pastors and officers and teachers of the school to be held in the Parish House Sunday, May 24, at 7 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to organize and plan for this year's school. Officers for the year will be elected, dates of school decided and text books selected.

Count on a pound of asparagus, as purchased, to make four servings of cut asparagus, of one-half cup per serving.

O'Connor To Be Commencement Speaker

Former United States Senator from Maryland, Herbert R. O'Connor, will deliver the address to the graduating class at the 145th annual commencement of Mount St. Mary's College on Wednesday, June 3, at 10:30 a. m. in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Senator O'Connor also will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the commencement exercises.

A native of Baltimore, Senator O'Connor was graduated from Loyola College with an A.B. degree in 1917 and from the University of Maryland in 1920 with the LL.B. He was admitted to the Maryland bar in 1919 and began the practice of law in Baltimore at that time.

In 1921 he began a long and distinguished career as a public servant serving as assistant state's attorney, 1921-22, state's attorney, 1922-24, people's counsel to the Public Service Commission, 1923-24, Attorney General of Maryland, 1935-39, Governor of Maryland, 1939-47, and as United States Senator, 1939-52. As Attorney General of Maryland, he was chosen chairman of the National Association of Attorneys General, and early took an active part in the fight to maintain the rights of the states to oil in adjoining tidelands.

As wartime governor of Maryland for two terms, Senator O'Connor rescued his state from financial chaos and as chairman of the National Governors' Conference, played an important part as liaison between the States and Federal Government throughout the war years.

He was one of the two Senators in the 82nd Congress to hold membership on five major committees. He was active also in the drafting of the internal security and displaced persons laws. Mr. O'Connor had much to do with stopping the flow of strategic materials from the United States and later from our allies, to Red China.

As chairman of the Senate Crime Investigative Committee, he did much to help expose the stranglehold which syndicated crime had upon localities, law enforcement officials, etc., in many areas. Since his retirement from life in 1952, he has continued the practice of law.

Appreciation Expressed

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle,

Dear Sir:

The goal of 300,000 trees planted in Frederick County this spring has by this time been achieved. More trees have been planted than ever before in any one season. Reaching this goal must be credited to the splendid cooperation among the organizations which participated in this most worthwhile project.

The Frederick County Forestry Board wishes to express appreciation to the Emmitsburg Chronicle for its interest and support which contributed importantly to the success of our county-wide effort.

The spring effort has given us an excellent start on a continuing reforestation program in Frederick County, and we solicit your continued cooperation and support in the coming fall tree planting season and in the years that lie ahead.

Chairman

PICNIC HELD

A very enjoyable day was had by the members of the second year of St. Joseph's High School at a picnic held at Marsh Creek on May 14. Swimming, softball, badminton and other games were thoroughly enjoyed by the students. Mrs. Margaret Wasilifsky, Mrs. Hugh Rocks and Mrs. Edward O'Brien were chaperones of the affair.

Clark Pitches Three-Hitter As Locals Win

Manager Frank Apichella's Pen-Mar Baseball team climbed into third place in that circuit by virtue of a 3-1 win over New Oxford at Community Field last Sunday. A good crowd saw Ward Clark, Mt. St. Mary's mound ace, make his debut with the locals, allowing the opponents only three hits.

In the abbreviated game, halted at the end of five-and-a-half innings due to rain, Emmitsburg was able to muster only three hits also, but were able to make them count at the right time.

With the addition of Paul Clarke on first base, Manager Apichella's squad takes on a more formidable look and appears certain to be in the fight for the league flag in the months to come. All other clubs were rained out Sunday with the exception of the Thurmont-Blue Ridge Summit contest which was postponed after four innings.

Entering Mount St. Mary's in 1904, Fr. Starr was graduated in the centennial class of 1908, being one of the student commencement speakers on that occasion. Following his graduation, he entered the Mount St. Mary's Seminary in September of 1908 but was recalled in June, 1912, to St. John's Seminary, Brighton, Mass. where he was ordained by the late Cardinal O'Connell in Nov., 1912.

Thereafter, Father Starr served at St. John's Church, Peabody, Mass., and Holy Ghost Church, Whitman, Mass., where he was pastor for 29 years.

In 1947 Father Starr became pastor of St. Agatha's Church, Milton and there began the erection of the million-dollar parochial school. In 1950, he was assigned to St. Lawrence Church, Chestnut Hill, Mass.

A close friend of Cardinal Spellman, Rev. Starr was the first priest invited to attend the Cardinal on his journey to Rome to receive the red hat.

Wet grounds cut the South Penn Baseball League schedule in half Sunday afternoon as only two of four scheduled contests were able to be played. Hunterstown shut out Harney, 1-0, in a pitching duel while Bonneauville blanked Emmitsburg, 8-0.

That leaves Hunterstown in front with three straight victories and Emmitsburg in the cellar with three straight defeats.

Ralph Ireland Again Heads Local C. of C.

Ralph Ireland, local businessman, was returned to the presidency of the Chamber of Commerce at its annual election of officers held in the Fire Hall Tuesday night. The president reported that no exemption from paying the Federal amusement tax on tickets sold at the recent minstrel would be permitted by the Internal Revenue Dept. It was at first believed that because the affair was for the benefit of a non-profit organization that perhaps it would be relieved of the obligation. The minstrel netted the group $250 which will be turned over to the Memorial Hall Assn. in the near future.

The Chamber again decided to hold the annual carnival, providing it can get the complete cooperation of other organizations in town. President Ireland will call a meeting in the near future, of all groups in town to feel out the sentiment and to definitely decide whether to promote the affair or not. It is held annually for the benefit of the building fund of the Memorial Hall Assn.

Colonel Thomas J. Frailey reported, as national representative, on the results of the recent election to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, of which the local unit is an affiliate. He stated that Mr. Eshelman of Frederick, whom the Emmitsburg club supported for a national directorship, was elected.

Other officers elected at the meeting included: first vice president, Bernard H. Boyle; second vice president, Morris A. Zentz; secretary, John M. Roddy, Jr., and treasurer, Floyd W. Seiss.

Samuel C. Hays, president of the Emmitsburg Water Co., and a member of the Chamber, discussed the fluoridation of town water. He said that such action was not being considered at this time.

The treasurer's report showed a year-end balance of $300. President Ireland will announce the standing committees at the next meeting of the group. A donation of $25 was authorized to the financial drive of the Vigilant Hose Co.

The Chamber agreed to endorse a housing survey, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Chronicle, to determine just what housing facilities and accommodations are available in Emmitsburg for the influx of personnel at Fort Ritchie and the Junior Pentagon. The Chronicle, as a public service, is publishing a questionnaire coupon elsewhere in this paper with the general idea of accumulating the desired information to be turned over to authorities at the projects. It was pointed out that Emmitsburg should be one of the first to gain from these ventures and it was felt that if the necessary data were compiled and turned over to the officials in charge of these projects, that the town, only six miles away, would be first to reap any forthcoming benefits.

Clarence E. Hahn Elected President Public School PTA

The final meeting of the season of the Emmitsburg Public School PTA was held Wednesday evening in the high school. It was agreed to serve the Alumni banquet on the 13th of June.

Mr. Wood reported the completion of the Sick Room. The room has been painted, a new bed purchased and new linoleum laid. It is now open for inspection and use.

New officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Clarence E. Hahn; vice president, Norman J. Shriver; secretary, Miss Mary Fiery and treasurer, Mrs. Naomi White.

Following the installation, Mr. Glenn Springer, retiring president, expressed his appreciation for the splendid support and cooperation he received during his tenure of office. Mr. Hahn also expressed his appreciation for the trust placed in him by electing him to head the organization. At the close of business the group was joined by the Grange which entertained with a panel discussion led by Helga Wolschlaeger and Gerhard Dulefer, two German exchange students. They spoke briefly concerning their impressions of America, German customs and differences between the two nations. Refreshments were served after adjournment. The attendance banner was won by Miss Martin's room.

SHRIEKS DROWN OUT GOOD REASONING

Unfortunately for both Britain and America, voices of reason are being drowned out by the shrill cries of chauvinists on both sides of the ocean. Senator McCarthy, with his usual disregard of facts, accuses the leader of the British Labor Party, whom he called "Comrade Attlee," of compromises with treason. Tom O'Brien, president of the British Trade Union Congress, dubs the Senator from Wisconsin a greater gift to the Communists than "Judas Iscariot" was to the high priests, the scribes and the Pharisees.

Thus what began as a fairly rational debate in the House of Commons has degenerated into a senseless, name-calling transatlantic feud which could do inestimable damage to the North Atlantic Alliance. The events which touched it off were understandable, even if not wholly palatable to some Americans, and should never have evoked the loud recriminations which have been echoing from the legislative chambers in Washington and London.

Britain's Prime Minister Churchill, reflecting the sentiment of both the Labor opposition and members of his own party, called for a meeting of the heads of state of the big powers to try to negotiate differences between East and West. Opposition Leader Attlee, not to be out-done by Sir Winston in capitalizing on a theme that is popular in Europe, endorsed the idea for a big power meeting and went on to anticipate the cool reception it was expected to receive in Washington. He suggested, that among other things, the American President is closely restricted in international dealings by the Constitution's requirement of Senate ratification of treaties, and expressed a belief that there are some people in the United States who do not want peace in Korea.

Despite the fact that there are elements of truth in these remarks (the Constitution does limit the executive treaty-making power; and there are some in America who don't want peace on terms the British would accept) they were very poorly timed and hardly constituted a statesmanlike reply to the address of the Prime Minister. As a result, Senators McCarthy and Jenner embarked on a verbal war against Britain. And Senator Dirksen called for a spite cut in aid to that country, a threat which completely ignores the fact that American security is involved in foreign aid.

When the clamor has died down, it can only be hoped that the calm words of President Eisenhower and Kentucky Senator John Sherman Cooper will prevail. Responding to a question about Mr. Attlee, the President said he did not criticize the individual opinions or set himself up as an all-wise judge who knew the motives that led people into particular lines of thought. Senator Cooper wisely observed that in the councils of the two allies there is an obligation on the part of responsible spokesmen not to sit by and acquiesce in "rash and immoderate statements."

SHOWING AT MAJESTIC THEATER, GETTYSBURG

Mickey Rooney tells Bob Hope and Marilyn Maxwell that what they're doing is not permissible, in this hilarious scene from Paramount's brand new comedy sensation "Off Limits," which plays at the Majestic Theater, Gettysburg, Pa., three days beginning May 21. Mickey, Bob and Marilyn are starred in the laugh-loaded film, chock-full of humor, song and rollicking romance, with a military police and prize ring background.

Odds And Ends

Since the last large section of my survey of the UN Charter had to be presented in a number of parts on account of its length, a summarizing and unifying word regarding it seems in order here. That was the section which I called the practical climax of the Charter's part in the UN story, in which the founders of United Nations went beyond a statement of the kind of organization it was to be in its purposes, principles and structure, to detailed provisions for the kind of action it was to carry on once it got started. And I felt that in these carefully worked-out instructions as to the activities of each of the main organs in this great cooperative agency for building a better world, we could see an especially impressive illustration of a spirit at work that was truly desirous of peace and truly concerned for human welfare.

And so we pass from the UN Charter, completed, signed, and ratified, as previously reported, to the UN Organization in action. But there is a bridge to cross as we do so. For United Nations, as is so often wrongly implied, did not begin its work the minute the last required ratification of the Charter was secured on October 24, 1945. How could it, with no machinery actually on hand thru which to work and no persons actually on hand to make use of the machinery? (The Charter, we have seen, provided for these essentials in a general or specific way but it did not produce them). The answer is, of course, that United Nations could not, existing as it did so far only on paper except for membership in the General Assembly of all fifty nations that had signed the Charter (to be represented by individuals not yet appointed), the permanent members of two of the Councils when they should be organized (Member-nations that is; namely, "the Big Five," their representatives also to be appointed by the governments in question), and the individuals of the Military Staff Committee. There was in fact need of considerable more planning and much decisive action before United Nations could get going. The story of how the gap was bridged, mainly overlooked by UN historians and naturally overshadowed by what happened afterwards, seems fascinating to me; but I can tell it here only in enough detail to justify a comment I have to make: that here too one who looks with understanding may find good evidence of that good spirit which I first noted in United Nations in what seemed "a suitable Holiday reflection." (Since then I have just had to hope occasionally in print for the reader's agreement that mention of "the Christmas spirit" need not be limited to one particular season).

This story, which may be called "Prolog to Accomplishment: Getting Organized," has two main parts. The first centers around a Preparatory Commission (known as "Preco") that was set up by an agreement on "Interim Arrangements" which had been prepared by leaders of the San Francisco Conference and signed by the delegates the same day they signed the Charter. It was this Commission, consisting of one representative from each nation taking part in the Conference, and its Executive Committee that took all the necessary steps to put United Nations into action in line with Charter provisions, down to the opening act, which was the convening of the First Session, First Part of the General Assembly in London in January and February of '46. The second part of the story centers mainly around this First Session of the Assembly (continued in New York in the fall), for it was its responsibility according to the Charter to elect the Secretary-General, all the Member-nations of the Economic and Social Council, all except the permanent Members of the other two, and, along with the Security Council, the individuals that made up the first membership of the International Court. By the spring of '47, thru the taking of these and other necessary steps by the Assembly or the other organs when activated, the UN had become a practical reality.

JUST A THOUGHT

Our boys are fighting everyday
Over there so far away.
Trying not to bring it here
So that we will have no fear.
Yet as days go by I see
Life means less and less to me.
With our boys so far away
We miss them more and more each day.
Seems the years go by so fast,
Soon another is gone at last.
Wonder why these things must be
It seems so very strange to me.

St. Joseph's High School News

Approximately 30 members are expected to be received into the Children of Mary Assn. with services held in St. Joseph's Catholic Church at 10:45 a. m., Tuesday, May 26. Later in the afternoon there will be a garden party on the school grounds for the newly-received members and the student body.

Twenty-five seniors journeyed Wednesday to Washington, D. C. for the annual class trip. After boarding a bus at 7:00 a. m., the students had a busy day visiting such places of interest as the interior of the White House, Blair House, Dolly Madison House and the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington. At 2:00 o'clock they departed on a boat to Mt. Vernon to visit the birthplace of George Washington. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh N. Rocks, Mrs. Clarence Wachter, Mrs. James Dukehart and Mrs. Harry Kane.

An elimination contest in the form of a spelling bee was held in each classroom in preparation for the final bee to be held later in the week. The two representatives from each class who will participate in the final eliminations are Theodosia Kelly and Gerald Joy, seniors; Geraldine White and Mary Catherine Lingg, juniors; Mary Jane Scott and Thomas O'Brien, sophomores and Nancy Capuano and Margaret Foster, freshmen. The winner will be presented a monetary.

The Order of Gregg Artists has awarded a certificate of honorable mention to the shorthand class of SJHS under the instruction of Sister Sylvia, for the shorthand specimens which received three Superior Merit Certificate and gold pins and 26 Merit Certificates, entered in the recent national OGA contest.

Several scenes from "A Ready Made Family," a comedy in three acts, presented by the Waynesboro CYO, were enacted Tuesday morning by members of the cast, as a preview. Members of the cast from St. Joseph's are Robert Kretz, Ellen Rocks, Thomas O'Brien, Jean Watkins, Joan Watkins, Margaret Foster and Mary Louise Dukehart. The play will be presented at 8 o'clock in St. Andrews auditorium on May 21 and 23.

and besides, the job of making Buddy Poppies for the V.F.W. keeps me occupied, and brings in a little extra spending money. But the important thing to remember is that every Buddy Poppy that is sold as a Buddy Poppy Day helps the V.F.W. carry on its welfare work among disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of those who have died. Most of the Buddy Poppy money contributed by folks in Home-Town stays right there in Home-Town to help needy veterans and their families. Some of it goes to maintain V.F.W. YOU and YOUR CONGRESS

WASHINGTON — One of the most ticklish tasks of a member of Congress is trying to give himself a pay raise. No matter how long it has been since he has had one or how many reasons he can think of for deserving one, there is always the possibility that in the next election his opponent will use it against him.

How can a member of Congress preach government economy and still justify raising Congressional salaries? Not a new question, it has come up again and is troubling many House and Senate members as much as ever before—perhaps more so, because the demand for Federal economy is stronger and more widespread than it has been in quite a while.

Pending before the Senate is a recommendation by its Judiciary Committee that salaries of members of Congress be raised by $10,000 a year. They now get $12,500 a year plus expense allowances of $2500 and the entire $15,000 is taxable. They have the privilege of deducting up to $3,000 a year for business expenses for tax purposes but such deductions must actually be proved. "There is no business bigger than the business of government," the Senate Judiciary Committee said in recommending the Congressional salary increase. "The biggest and greatest government in the world should pay the membership of its directorate—the Congress—salaries bearing some measure of decent relationships to the responsibilities of the office. That principle has long been recognized. False economy in this sense can be dangerous."

The Committee went on to say that while "members of Congress compare with the Cabinet officers," the latter get $22,500 a year and top Civil Service employees in the administrative offices get just $20 less than a member of Congress, $14,800.

The basic financial trouble of members of Congress — aside from the fact that general living costs have risen since they got their last pay increase in 1946—rests in the fact that their work-year has grown. Time was when a session of Congress lasted three months or so, similar to state legislature sessions, and permitted members of Congress to earn money back home most of the rest of the year.

Today the average session is seven months or longer, because the business of government has increased. That means most members must maintain a residence in Washington as well as back home, which raises their living costs sharply. It also means they are in Washington more months to pick up luncheon or dinner checks for visitors from back home.

Consequently there has been an increase in the number of members of Congress who resign to reenter private business because of "the necessity of meeting reasonable personal and family demands without fear or worry," as the Judiciary Committee put it. Others in Congress find it necessary to supplement their salaries with fees for writing or lecturing.

Still others have their wives or grown children, or other relatives, on their office staffs to help bolster the family income—a practice which tends to raise suspicion even though the relatives usually work as hard as anyone else would.

Because the government would get back in income taxes some of the $10,000 increases, the Judiciary Committee said, the net cost of increasing Congressional pay would not exceed $3.6 million a year.

That is not a large sum by today's Federal spending standards, but the pay raise proposal still will be protested in and out of Congress—largely because of the economy trend.

Already, Senate Majority Leader Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) says he is "dubious" about the raises being granted at this time even though he believes they are deserved. Senator Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), a strong Federal economy advocate, says flatly that Congress has no business granting itself a pay increase until the budget is balanced.

However, members of Congress who want a pay increase have a friend in President Eisenhower.

Knowledge is Power

1. HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU GO IN DEBT?
2. IS FLUORIDATION OF DRINKING WATER SAFE?
3. DO WILD HORSES STILL EXIST ON THE EAST COAST?

(1) That depends on your age and income, according to Sylvia Porter. She gives you some important rules of thumb in Good Housekeeping magazine: (a) Don't buy a house that costs more than 2½ times your annual income before taxes. (b) If you buy furniture or appliances, don't let your monthly installments get beyond 10 per cent of your monthly income before taxes. (c) Don't buy a new car unless you can pay one-third down and the balance in 24 months. (d) When you borrow money to buy a major item, borrow exactly the amount you need, no more, no less.

(2) That depends on the community. If tests of the water supply reveal a high concentration of fluorides in the water, steps should be taken to remove some of it from the water. In other communities the addition of one part of fluorine to one million parts of water helps reduce dental decay by as much as 50 per cent in children under 12 years old.

The use of fluoride in controlled amounts is endorsed by the American Medical Association, the American Dental Association and other public medical organizations. O. A. Battista reports these facts in a Catholic Digest article. In some communities, such as Lewiston, Idaho, a 77 per cent reduction in dental decay resulted from fluoridation of drinking water.

(3) Each year residents of Chincoteague island, off the southeast of Virginia, round up wild horses on near-by Assateague island. The horses are supposedly descendants of Moor ponies which swam ashore from a wrecked Spanish galleon. They live on marsh grass and myrtle leaves. Each summer the Chincoteague islanders round up the herd, sell some of the ponies, and return the others to the island for another year of freedom.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

If it is written on the cage, "this is a lion," but your eyes see an ass in the cage, do not trust your eyes—This is an old Russian proverb.

But proverbs are not used in diplomatic relations, regardless of how apt they might be. The wisdom contained in a proverb, however, can be successfully used and our negotiators with the Communists might well keep this one in mind.

All too often the Truman-Acheson administration in their relations with the Communists approached discussions with the knowledge that they were to face what was clearly labelled an aggressor—but their eyes saw instead a "kind-eyed Uncle Joe" or a Picasso peace dove. Russian representatives repeated that they wanted only peace and security for their people, but for our own good we should have believed the sign on the cage, we should have remembered past actions by the Communists. We should not have trusted our eyes.

For a while our government after World War II played a hunch that Stalin wanted peaceful relations with the West and we conducted our foreign affairs on the back of old envelopes at meetings of the foreign ministers. Results of such meetings were totally unsuccessful from our point of view but Stalin built his empire of satellites.

Now it is suggested that the heads of the world powers meet again. Can such meetings bring about a change in world affairs? Do we have anything to gain by having President Eisenhower and Premier Malenkov sit down across the table?

The President has correctly, I believe, stated that nothing could be gained by a Big Three Conference without some assurance by Russia that the conference would result in some sort of a settlement of the differences between the East and the West.

President Eisenhower no doubt had in mind that discussions for an Austrian peace treaty have been going on for eight years—with no results, and the ill fated truce talks in Korea where the Communists have shown complete insincerity.

The American people have been paying in blood and money for Communist aggression. Some of our allies who have not carried so severe a burden seem to be over anxious to accept whatever terms the Communist offer, but they should recall the mistakes they made in handling the aggression of Hitler when to their everlasting shame they entered into the Munich agreement.

The President has assured the world that this country will maintain defenses adequate to oppose any aggression and that our defense policies will not be geared to an anticipated date of attack.

Further he has reorganized the Defense Dept. and appointed new Joint Chiefs of Staff. His selection of a navy man to act as chairman may well prove to be a shrewd piece of strategy. Not only is Adm. Arthur W. Radford well qualified for the post, but his appointment is assurance to the other services that the President, while an army man, will be impartial in his attitude toward the services. Certainly Adm. Radford can do much to bring about greater unification of the armed forces.

But above all we can be assured that this administration recognizes the Soviets representations for what they are and is not fooled by false overtures of peace which are merely a smoke-screen for aggression.

And the loftiness of man shall be bowed down, and the haughtiness of men shall be made low; and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day. —(Isaiah III, 17)

When the present moment and hour may be the last for any one of us, and this day any individual's Day of Judgment, why should we exalt ourselves or anyone else of this earth? Only the truly humble, forgiven of the Lord and living in Him, can count themselves secure today or tomorrow.

Modernization Loans Available to Home-Owner

There are two important ways for a home-owner to get a loan to pay for improvements to his house.

One is a Federal Housing Administration Title I loan. The other is an additional advance on an open-end mortgage. Both have features which enable many home-owners to make improvements that otherwise they couldn't afford.

The FHA does not lend money itself. What it does is to insure loans made by private lending institutions. This makes banks and other lenders more willing to grant loans, because the FHA insurance is a full guarantee of payment.

The maximum amount for a Title I loan is $2,500, and payments can be made over as long a period as three years.

New Authorization

Now handling more loans than ever before in its 19-year history, the Title I program recently received a new $500,000,000 authorization from Congress. This was considered necessary to catch up with a backlog of applications and to facilitate an expected boom in home modernization work.

Low interest rates and a relatively long number of years for payment are the advantages of borrowing money under an open-end mortgage, which includes a provision for an advance of additional money after part of the principal has been amortized.

A typical case would work like this: A home-owner has an open-end mortgage for $12,000 at 4 1/2 percent interest for 20 years. After five years, he has paid back $2,000 of the principal. Then, if he wants to improve his house—for example, reroof with asphalt shingles or finish an expansion attic—he can go to his lending institution and seek an additional advance of $2,000 or less, whatever he needs for materials and application. When the additional advance is made, it becomes part of the same mortgage the home-owner had before. He has 15 years for repayment at 4 1/2 percent interest.

Reroofing "Essential"

An additional advance under an open-end mortgage is available only to home-owners whose mortgages are of the open-end type or to those who can persuade their lending institutions to recast an existing mortgage to include the open-end provision.

Reroofing—often classed as an "essential" improvement—is one of the kinds of work most frequently undertaken with any type of home modernization loan. Department of Commerce records show that about 85 percent of all roofing material used is asphalt roofing. For economy, asphalt shingles can be laid on top of most old roof coverings.

ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS

Q. How can I have the most success with chicks this year?

A. Choose good chicks and raise 'em right. They particularly need a sturdy start, so give Dr. Salsbury's Ren-O-Sal in their drinking water right from the first. Ren-O-Sal aids faster growth and feathering, and promotes earlier laying. Also aids in preventing cecal cocciidiosis. Buy Ren-O-Sal when buying your chicks--use it right from the start!

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO AUTOMOBILE OWNERS

Effective JUNE 1, 1953, the Maryland Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Law will provide that certification of automobile coverage on SR-21 forms (the kind that must be sent to the Department of Motor Vehicles, following an accident in which your car is involved and total damages to both cars amounts to $75.00 or more) must indicate that the Bodily Injury limits be at least $10,000/$20,000, whereas the present requirements are for $5,000/$10,000.

Property Damage requirement is now $5,000 instead of $1,000, but this presents no problem as nearly all policies now carry at least $5,000 Property Damage coverage.

Minimum Damage necessary before provisions of Act apply have been changed from $50.00 to $75.00.

In view of this requirement, all automobile policies should be written for at least $10,000/$20,000 Bodily Injury on and after June 1, 1953. As a service to our clients this office will as routine furnish endorsements, without further notice, on all automobile policies with limits under $10,000/$20,000 Bodily Injury, so that they will comply with the required limit, effective June 1, 1953.

If any further information is desired regarding this change in the Law, please call at our office or telephone 32.

Pimlico Geared For Preakness

This is Preakness Week at Pimlico, always the big event of the Maryland racing year. The lineup for the $100,000 test for three-year-olds over the mile and three-sixteenths distance is about complete and all that remains is the running.

The Preakness, second leg of the Triple Crown which includes the Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes, gives Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Native Dancer a chance to regain his perch as the top man in the sophomore division, a post he relinquished temporarily when beaten a head in the Derby.

Between 35,000 and 40,000 fans are expected to be on hand at the Maryland Jockey Club plant Saturday when Native Dancer again puts his great record on the line and when Cain Hoy Stable's Dark Star, winner of the Derby, seeks to make it two straight in the classics.

Eric Guerin again will be in the saddle on Native Dancer and Henry Moreno will do the honors on Dark Star.

Arrayed against this pair will be Brookfield Farms' Isasmoothie with Conn McCreary up; Bruce Campbell's Ram O'War, ridden by Doug Dodson; Eugene Constantini's Royal Bay Gem, Jimmy Combest; Mrs. Gordon Guiberson's Correspondent, Robert Summers; Rokeby Stable's Magic Lamp, Jack Westrope; Saxon Stable's Invigorator, Dave Gorman; Mrs. G. F. Spear's Real Brother, no boy; Spring Hill Farm's Jamie K, Eddie Arcaro and B. F. Whitaker's Tahitian King, Hedley Woodhouse.

This will be the 77th Preakness and even second, third and fourth money will be important, these spots carrying $25,000, $15,000 and $7,500. The Woodlawn Vase will go to the winner and the stable help will enjoy a case of champagne after the race.

Faith In Prosperity

WASHINGTON—"The prosperity of every American, whatever his station in life, depends on American business and industry producing more wealth through production of more of the goods and services for everyday living," Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks said to me. "Thus," he said, "our prime objective at the Commerce Dept. is to help business to do this better job of production and distribution through the improvement of our various services."

We were driving past the Jefferson Memorial en route to the Washington National Airport, working our way in stops and starts through the heavy five o'clock traffic of government employes hurrying toward the Virginia residential districts. I had visited with Secretary Weeks at the Commerce Dept. and since we both were flying to speaking engagements we continued the interview en route to our planes.

The Secretary had had a busy day with a heavy calendar, writing a speech and shaping up organizational policies with his Under Secretary Walter Williams and other key men in his executive family. A score of newspapermen had followed us to the Secretary's private elevator, calling out questions on personnel matters. Since he was overdue at the airport his replies were given "on the run." It was a typical Washington scene.

The questions I put to Secretary Weeks were designed to bring out his rounded opinion on the nation's economic future—the bread and butter future of all of us. I respect his opinion both as former head of one of America's substantial industries and as the Secretary of Commerce. Though new on the job, he has recently had access to the many business barometers constantly being compiled by the department. Without hesitation he said to me: "Put your faith in the American system, and strongly recommend your readers to do so, too. This magnificent American industrial machine—financed by those who have saved, managed by experts in administration and production, and operated by labor—can do the job in war or peace, if wise government gives encouragement in every possible way.

Picking Up Slack
"Some transitions will occur as, at a later date, defense expenditures taper off and industry is diverted to normal production. But plant and equipment expenditures are today advancing, despite the fact that some defense-supporting programs already have reached their peak. And limitless frontiers are opening in research laboratories which lead to all sorts of new things, new processes and new worlds of progress."

Secretary Weeks, a New Englander and a graduate of Harvard (14), pulled himself up through the business world using his own initiative, enterprise and horse sense. He interrupted his early career in a Massachusetts banking house to serve with the 101st Field Artillery Battalion, 26th Division in the thick of its European campaign in World War I. At war's end, he became interested in manufacturing. He joined the staff of Reed & Barton Corp., famed silversmiths. When called to Washington by President Eisenhower, he was board chairman of this firm and also of United-Carr Fastener Corp., and he was nationally recognized for his knowledge of the business world.

No Pampering
As Secretary of Commerce, tough-minded Sinclair Weeks doesn't seem inclined toward pampering business. "We in the Commerce Dept., and the public as a whole," he said, "expect business to assume statesmanlike responsibilities in its new freedom from government backseat-driving. This requires good management-labor relations, self-discipline and the daring venture spirit. It means also . . . an appreciation of the fact that world trade is a two-way street."

"Businessmen who talk about economy in principle and then act through their lobbies for special benefits, are often to blame for a share of the high cost of government. They must practice what they preach when it comes to special legislation. Assuming their share of the responsibilities, and setting an example in self-reliance and enterprise, businessmen can make our nation much more prosperous. Workers will benefit as will all the consuming public."

He is supremely confident that business will meet the challenge.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde

The Postoffice Department has asked for new bids from private citizens who haul mail over star routes and the move has brought some criticism of the department.

I have checked with postal officials and am assured that this is not a move to deprive experienced star route carriers of their contracts. The law governing these contracts provides for either renewal or rebidding, at the discretion of the Postmaster General, every four years.

Postmaster General Summerfield has found that the cost of these routes has skyrocketed in the last few years, and in order to try to save the taxpayers some money, he wants to make sure the carriers charge a competitive price for their work.

If a present carrier is doing a good job, at a reasonable price, his contract will be renewed. The Postoffice Dept. will, of course, take into account his investment in the equipment and trucks he has been using.

Congressman Canfield of New Jersey pointed out the other day on the House floor that costs under current star route contracts have jumped 300 or 400% since they were awarded—in one case 1800%! Those familiar with these facts know that an economy move is necessary.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

With a record supply of wheat in prospect for the coming harvest season, George J. Martin, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee, advises farmers and warehousemen that ready now for the serious storage problem that lies ahead. "Last week's crop report highlights the big storage problem that faces us this year," Mr. Martin said. "The report indicates a 1953 wheat crop of over a billion bushels for the entire country. In addition, there is better than a half billion bushels stored by the Commodity Credit Corp. Altogether, the supply of wheat in the 1953-54 marketing year may total more than 1600 bushels. This would exceed the previous record set in 1942-43." Mr. Martin said that farmers still have time to provide on the farm storage facilities, and that they can obtain financial assistance from the Commodity Credit Corp. to build farm storage structures. Wheat growers can check with their county PMA office to get details on CCC loans for building additional storage facilities.

The commercial storage industry will have to carry the major responsibility of storing the 1953 wheat crop, the PMA State chairman said. When possible to clear elevators by transferring grain to larger terminal markets, Mr. Martin recommended this procedure to permit the new crop to be stored locally.

Order Pesticides Early
Farmers should estimate their pesticide needs for the present growing season and then let their dealers know what they are going to require. Only limited supplies are in the hands of retailers. For the country as a whole they average about five per cent of the season's requirements. But surveys indicate that there are sufficient supplies in the hands of wholesalers and manufacturers. In order to move these out to points where they will be quickly available, farmers should indicate what their needs may be.

Your Personal Health

Use Your Head, Save Your Feet

Your back aches, or you have a headache. Or you are tired all the time. You may find it hard to believe, but the cause of your woes may be your feet.

Most of us walk without thinking about it. If we drove our cars the same way, we would expect the accident rate to soar. We can save ourselves a lot of grief if we give a little thought to the way we use our feet.

The importance of the foot, on which the whole body structure depends, does not lie in its shape but in the way it is used. If we walk properly, the arch and supporting muscles and bones carry our weight evenly and easily. However, if we walk so that the weight presses off center, on the inner side of the foot for example, the pivot of the foot will shift position and cause severe pain. The pressure may eventually result in weak, painful flat feet, and a shuffling, uncomfortable gait.

The end results are often backache, short temper, and headache. Both prevention and correction of the trouble must begin in the head. If you have flat feet, you must consciously try to stand and to walk with your feet parallel, the toes turning neither in nor out. Think while you walk. Be sure to bring your feet down on the ground with the whole sole touching, instead of banging down the heel first. In this way the muscles will be strengthened to support the arch and maintain the proper position of the foot.

If voluntary exercises do not correct the difficulty, your doctor may prescribe an artificial support for the foot.

Who shall not fear Thee, O Lord, and glorify Thy name? for Thou art holy: for all nations shall come and worship before Thee: for Thy judgments are made manifest. —(Revelation XV, 4.)

We are living in days when there are men and nations who glorify only their material might and mortal leaders, and when there are in the skies frightening things we do not understand. We face great dangers. But if we ourselves, as people, live in the Lord and have faith and strength in His Word, the forces of evil cannot overcome us.

"The reason Cousin Ned is unhappy with his income is because he 'works for all he's worth'!"

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, May 21—Many of my readers fear that if rents are decontrolled in certain areas where they are still under control, rent prices, like the prices of coffee, will skyrocket. I don't believe this will happen today. Here's why.

Rental Trends
Ever since 1940, fewer and fewer rental units have been constructed. Fifty-five per cent of all housing units now in existence are owner occupied, compared with a 45 per cent home ownership just before World War II. This trend has increased even more sharply in the last three years, so that in 1951-52 only 12 per cent of the new housing starts were rental units!

Despite the fact that new rentals have decreased sharply, I believe the supply will be sufficient to satisfy demand and, therefore, keep rental prices down. My reasons for this belief come from the fact that the building market since 1946 has been an ownership market. The desire for ownership is inherent in democracy. It has been stimulated by such factors as (1) the high income levels of the war and post-war years, (2) the accelerated rate of marriages due to war, (3) the desire to "undo" and have a home of one's own after the war, and (4) the threat of atomic warfare and industrial decentralization, causing a shift to suburban living.

Housing Demands And the Business Cycle

Full employment and high wages go hand-in-hand with new housing starts. Barring war, we may have reached the peak of both the employment and the building boom. New household formations, due to marriages and setting up of independent family units, remained far ahead of the residential building rate from 1930 to 1950, with new housing starts about four and one-half million behind family starts. However, since 1946, new housing units have been at an average rate of one million per year, and, for the last three years, there have been more new housing starts than new families.

The demand for new homes could soon taper off because of the low birthrate that prevailed from 1930 to 1938. It is these few depression babies who are now approaching marriageable age. This factor, plus the return to business normalcy (lessened demand for goods, lower wages, and less employment), could ease the housing situation.

Rental Costs and Decontrol
While the earnings of most industrial workers have risen over 200 per cent since 1935-39, rents for moderate-income families have increased only 40 per cent during these years. On the other hand, prices of many other commodities and services have increased about 100 per cent. Monthly middle-class rentals in 14 leading metropolitan areas averaged $93 in 1950. Today the average is $100. With average rentals of $100 and average annual incomes of $5000, renters are paying about 24 per cent of their gross income for housing. This is a fair percentage.

The group that might feel the pinch most if rent controls were lifted in restricted metropolitan areas would be the lower-income city dwellers, who pay about 15 per cent of their gross earnings of $3000 to $4,000 on contract rent. In nine cities, decontrolled in 1950, gross rents increased on an average of 15 per cent by 1952.

City Versus Suburban Rents
Suppose that controls were lifted in presently controlled city areas and rents did go up 15 per cent per month, what then? This would bring rentals for low-income city dwellers up to about $50. Since landlords cannot afford to build houses to rent for even $50 per month, many will move to the suburbs and buy a small house.

Hence, the demand for small suburban ownership homes might remain high, with as many as could afford it moving out of the large cities to live in their own small new houses. This in turn, might leave more rental units available in the cities. As more such rentals became substandard, city rental prices could even decrease and would, therefore, be little affected by decontrol. Suburban rentals could, however, be expected to hold their own and, in some areas, increase slightly, as long as business holds to present levels.

Clean Refrigerator Curbs Food Waste

WHILE YOUR REFRIGERATOR is defrosting, wash interior with warm soapsuds to deodorize it and to remove food stains which feed bacteria and are harmful to the finish. Rinse and polish by buffing with a clean soft cloth.

A weekly defrosting of a gas or electric refrigerator helps you get the most value from your food dollar. Thick frost insulates the refrigerating unit, reducing the flow of coolness which keeps food in prime condition.

Refrigerators will last years longer with proper care. Wipe up spills at once to prevent stains from harming the finish. Acid foods (lemons and milk) "bite" into the finish and strongly colored vegetables leave stubborn stains.

To defrost, empty ice trays into a large pan and place butter, milk and quick-frozen foods among the cubes. Use hands to loosen ice crust, but don't force it off with knife or sharp instrument. Wash ice trays in warm soapsuds; hot water dissolves surface wax that makes trays easy to remove from freezing unit and cubes easy to remove from trays. Remove foods, shelves and crisper covers. Wash all "parts" in pan of warm soapsuds. Wash interior—floor, walls, ceiling and inside of door—with cloth wrung from warm suds. Rinse with damp cloth, then wipe dry. When frost is melted, use warm suds on refrigerating unit and replace trays and shelves. Wipe "dew" from jars, containers, and fresh fruits and vegetables before replacing food in refrigerator. Consolidate leftovers to avoid overcrowding; cover with clean plastic caps to guard against absorbing foreign odors. Use soapy cloth on outside of your refrigerator daily, and wax it occasionally. Wash rubber gasket regularly so grease and soil won't interfere with the airtight insulation it provides. Clean an ice-cooled refrigerator before "icing-up" on market day. Wash both food and ice compartments with hot suds. Remove drainpipe and use a long-handled spiral brush to scrub out inside, then scald with boiling water to help kill bacteria.

Mental Hygiene Directory Available

A directory covering psychiatric facilities of the State is now available through the Mental Hygiene Society of Maryland. For the most part, the clinics listed charge fees in accordance with ability to pay.

Known as PSYCHIATRIC CLINICS and other Resources in the United States, the brochure is compiled by the National Association for Mental Health, Inc., with which the Society is affiliated.

On many of the clinics for the State, however, there are waiting lists. The Mental Hygiene Society, whose fund drive begins May 25 and lasts through June 12, aims to expand such clinic service.

A total of 3,269 new cases were handled by the seven community clinics of Baltimore. Listed are the Medical Service of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore, the Children's Psychiatric Service at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Henry Phipps Psychiatric Clinic, the Mental Hygiene Clinic of the Veterans Administration, Mercy Hospital Outpatient Department Neuropsychiatric Clinic, the Psychiatric Institute of University Hospital, and Seton Institute Outpatient Clinic.

Along with the address of each facility, the names of the psychiatrists in charge and the office hours are indicated. The 20 county clinic services available are recorded as handling some 1368 new cases in the year 1951. A number of the clinics, at the time the survey was made, had just opened and therefore could not indicate number of cases handled.

Only one day a week service is available in the clinics at Annapolis, Catonsville, Chestertown, Dundalk, Elkton, Essex, Frederick, Hagerstown, Havre de Grace, La Plata, Magothy, Pasadena, Pikesville, Salisbury, Towson, and Westminster, according to the survey.

One of the major purposes of such clinic facilities is to aid in preventing serious mental illness by catching it in the earlier stages, when it is so much more easily conquered.

Other facilities of the state listed by the 1952 directory include the State Board of Health as the Mental Health Authority, the State Dept. of Mental Hygiene as the Mental Hospital Authority, the five state mental hospitals, the Veterans' Administration at Ferry Point, and the Society as the mental health association.

Does your dog scratch? Chances are it's fleas. Dust with five or 10% DDT, and clean the dog bed to get rid of flea larvae.

Receives Advertising Award

For the fifth consecutive year, the employe publication of the The Potomac Edison Co. has won a national award in the Better Copy Contest of the Public Utilities Advertising Assn.

The award was received by the utility company's promotional manager C. D. Lyon at the PUAU annual convention held in St. Louis.

Since 1949 The Potomac Edison News, the company's employe newspaper, has won two first, two second and one third place award. This year, it was presented a second place prize. S. E. Remsburg of Taneytown is a staff writer for the P-E news from this area.

This year's Better Copy Contest was the 30th annual competition in the PUAU. More than 2000 entries were screened in the 22 classifications of the contest—the oldest continuous annual advertising competition in the U. S.

The PE News was competing against similar publications from utility companies of approximately the same size as Potomac Edison.
