Up, up rockets the cost of living for the American citizen. This week steel, the basic commodity of our financial structure was on the list and undoubtedly will be reflected by rises in the cost of automobiles, refrigerators and sundry other articles, including the price of building and remodeling. At present, the all-time high for the nation has been reached, and the barometer is still at the bursting point. Just where this thing will end none of us know. Apparently industry hasn't benefited from the lesson of controls which were clamped on it for the past decade and now are proving that they just can't resist the temptation to get back some of what they "lost." That is if any of the businesses did really suffer a loss. There couldn't have been many, for the list of financial failures has been keeping a pretty even keel. And to top it off the government wants to get in on the act. Increases up to 25% are being studied in the postoffice department and before long you probably will be paying four cents to mail your correspondence. Gasoline also joined the rising list along with local postoffice boxes this week. Inflation appears at last to have gained a foothold on the nation and unless the government acts prudently and soon, there may be chaos aplenty among the populace.

Well the big resurfacing project of the town's streets gradually is nearing completion, and I must say that it represents quite a face-lifting for our staid old burg. I venture to estimate that traffic noise has been reduced 50% and you hardly know it is steadily flowing, at the rate of about 8,000 cars daily over the two main arteries. Curbing has been installed on the Square, several old trees removed and other general improvements were on the agenda and have about been completed to wind up a job that was badly needed for a long period. My compliments to the town officials for their genuine interest in civic improvements and this project will go a long way to insure their permanency in office. You just can't vote against men who are producing so well for the benefit of all. Oh yes, the spotlight will be installed one of these days just as soon as the State Roads Commission can be convinced that it is its duty to do so. This spotlight business is getting to be something akin to the Korean truce in the making. All day long the radio and TV contemporaries tell you to stay tuned in or stand by that at any moment now an armistice will be announced. Well this has been going on for several weeks now and I'm really thankful that I didn't take their advice as a lot of precious sleep would have gone down the drain. In just the same manner I have been repeating to you that at any day now the spotlight will be installed. Well, at any rate, I hope you didn't lose any sleep over it because your guess is as good, if not better, than mine.

Don't forget the annual Block Party this year folks. As usual it is being held for the maintenance of the ambulance fund and is sponsored by the local Veterans of Foreign Wars who purchased that fine vehicle for the welfare of this community. The affair has been enlarged this year by the committees and a new feature will be the awarding of valuable prizes listed elsewhere in this issue of the paper. Look them over and get in on the big give-away program. Such a fine activity really deserves the patronage of all us, as someday, the Lord forbid, we may have to avail ourselves of this free service.

Up again comes the atomic bomb discussion as to its effect on the weather. The incessant rain seems to be the favorite topic of conversation among the townsfolk. We don't profess to know the answer to the phenomena but it does appear a little peculiar just why we should be having so much inclement weather. May was one of the wettest months on record and June is acting peculiarly also. Well I don't know

Ball Team Retains Hold On Second Place

Frank Apichella's Pen-Mar baseball team easily out-distanced the New Windsor aggregation in a contest played Sunday at the former's diamond.

While Cashtown was losing to Union Bridge in a tight contest, 2-1, Emmitsburg grabbed off the second slot in the league standing by defeating the Carroll Countians, 7-1.

Sonny Weikert went the distance on the mound for the locals holding the enemy to five blows, while his teammates garnered 11 hits. John McMahon and Herbie Deardorff were the heavy stickmen for Emmitsburg, while the hits were evenly distributed among the opponents with no player making over one.

Cashtown, which handed Emmitsburg one of its two defeats so far this season, opposes the locals here Sunday at Community Field. Game time is set for 2:30 p. m.

Union Bridge's unbeaten league leaders in the Pen-Mar Baseball League edged Cashtown 2-1 in a fine pitcher's battle between "Skip" Fisel of Cashtown and A. Gilbert, Union Bridge last Sunday afternoon.

Cashtown secured five hits while the Marylanders poled six. Poor fielding in the late innings and missed signals with runners on base proved costly to the losers.

Blue Ridge Summit pounded over three runs in the last of the final inning to nip Littlestown, 8-7. Mehring homered for Littlestown while McClellan hit for the circuit for Blue Ridge.

New Oxford came up with 3-run innings in the seventh and eighth to down Thurmont, 7-5, at New Oxford. Joe Bevenour pitched for the winners while Pittinger and Zarill divided the hurling for Thurmont.

Packer Charged With Violating Wage-Hour Laws

J. Austin Fraley of Thurmont, Frederick County, Md., has plead nolo contendere before Judge Chesnut in the U. S. District Court to a six-count criminal information charging willful violation of the minimum wage, overtime, record keeping, and child-labor provisions of the Federal Wage and Hour Law. Fraley has been operating under a Federal Court injunction since May, 1948, when a previous Wage-Hour investigation disclosed similar violations.

Judge Chesnut imposed the fine of $250 and costs on all counts, and Fraley agreed to pay back wages in the amount of $1,282.82 to nine employees employed in his slaughterhouse.

The Wage-Hour investigation was made under the supervision of William Hargadine, Jr., Regional Director of the Wage-Hour and Public Contracts Division, through the Maryland Field Office at Baltimore. Mr. Thomas Gray, assistant U. S. attorney, represented the government.

VFW Benefit Block Party Starts Thursday

Once again that pleasant little community activity, the annual Block Party, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars, is on hand. Beginning next Thursday evening, festivities will get under way on DePaul St., this year instead of Community Field.

The affair has been enlarged by several features this season and under the circumstances a larger gathering is anticipated. Valuable prizes are being awarded to the lucky registrants this year by local generous merchants. Money, luggage, a lawn mower, electric iron, etc. are on the list donated to be awarded some lucky spectators.

The Block Party will operate three nights, starting Thursday, June 25, and continuing through Saturday.

On hand to entertain the gathering will be the usual food stands, amusement stands, bingo, contests, cake walks, and many other games.

The annual affair, headed this year by Harold M. Hoke, is sponsored by the VFW to help along with the expenses of maintaining the local ambulance and service which it provides for the community.

Delicious food will be available and entertaining music will be provided all three nights by the Emmitsburg Municipal Band, under the direction of Walter A. Simpson.

Grange Host To Glade Valley Unit

The regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Grange was held Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium with 47 members and guests present.

The local unit was host to the Glade Valley Grange in observance of Friendship Night with the following program being presented by the visiting lecturer Mrs. Bruce Crumb: opening song, "Be Boosters"; solo, Irish Lullaby and accordion selection by Mrs. Helen Green; comedy number, "Sweet Violets" and impersonations by Ronny and Dicky Smith.

Guest speaker of the evening was Rev. Charles Price of the Walkersville Reformed Church, who chose as his topic, "Classless Society in which We Live." Rev. Rice said that equality before God and our modern production line are the two main factors underlying our American way of life or classless society. Stressing the need for the return of craftsmanship or a work in which an individual can have pride instead of the tiresome routine of an assembly line, pointing out that no matter what line of work one follows, all work has its monotony thus making it necessary for everyone to have a hobby to help overcome monotony instead of seeking entertainment or ways to be entertained.

Pomona Master Bruce Crumb made the following announcements: Rocky Ridge picnic, July 29; Maryland State Fair at Timonium the latter part of August; Pomona meeting in Frederick Elm St. Elementary School on August 1.

Visiting guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Crumb, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Zimmerman, Mrs. Lillian Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hoke, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kaiser, Mrs. Harry O. Smith and sons, Ronny and Dicky, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eaves, Rev. and Mrs. Charles Price. Refreshments were served by the host Grange and the meeting adjourned with the singing of "Till We Meet Again."

Updating Election Law

A long overdue overhauling of Federal election laws would be effected by a bill just introduced in the Senate with bipartisan backing. Sponsored by Democratic Senators Hennings of Missouri and Hayden of Arizona and Republican Senator Hendrickson of New Jersey, all of whom served on a special Senate elections subcommittee last year, the new measure would raise campaign spending limits to a more realistic ceiling and provide for more careful accounting on campaign contributions.

The main provisions of the bill include:

Permission to national committees of political parties to spend up to $10 million for all candidates in any calendar year, instead of $3 million as at present.

Authorization to a senatorial candidate to spend up to $50,000 on his own behalf and to a House candidate to spend up to $12,500, rather than $25,000 and $5000 respectively, as provided by existing law.

Permission to any individual to contribute up to $10,000 to any single candidate or group of candidates, whereas now an individual is limited to $5000 for a single candidate but may give to as many candidates and committees as he wishes.

A requirement that each political committee working for a Federal candidate keep detailed reports of contributions and expenditures and file their reports with the clerk of the House and also with the clerk of the Federal District Court where the group had its principal office.

A requirement that any individual who spent as much as $1,000 a year to influence the election of a candidate file a statement with the House clerk and keep a roster of all political contributions of $1000 or more.

The need for these revisions in the law is clearly shown by the record of last year's election in which between $80 million and $100 million was spent. Widespread evasion of the spending limit in the Federal Corrupt Practices Act was effected simply by forming multiple committees. Thus, while no one group exceeded the $3 million ceiling on national committees, some 34 of them together spent well over $10 million. Senator Hennings revealed that in one state two senatorial candidates reported combined expenditures of $4000, whereas investigation showed that about $1 million was spent in their behalf by various committees.

By its higher ceilings, the proposed legislation takes cognizance of the great increase in population since the passage of the present law in 1925, the decline in the value of the dollar and the increased reliance on such expensive mediums as radio and TV. By its stricter accounting requirements, it would help to deter political contributions for undesirable purposes by focusing the public eye on such donations.

Farmer Gored By Bull

Gored by a young bull on his farm at Mt. Olive, between Mt. Airy and Woodbine, early last Sunday morning, a 35-year-old farmer was found dead along a pasture fence by a farm hand.

Dr. James T. Marsh, Carroll County Medical Examiner, said

Wilson Robert Mitchell died almost instantly of crushed injuries of the chest. He said after examination that the bull had gored and tossed Mitchell and stamped on his body. After killing the man, the bull apparently wandered away from the body.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

Revelations of waste, extravagance, and hints of collusion and conspiracy during the previous administration continue to be exposed by the Congress.

In one of the latest shocking developments the people of this country now learn that the Air Force has been paying one company five times as much per plane as is charged by one of our own Maryland aircraft companies, Fairchild, in Hagerstown. The Air Force itself admitted before a Senate subcommittee that they are paying the Kaiser-Frazer Co. of Willow Run, Mich., $1.3 million for the same plane which Fairchild builds for $265,067.00.

Government officials under the Truman administration knew all this—yet no action was taken. It is difficult to understand how continuation of the present contract with Kaiser-Frazer can be justified, and I have suggested that it be immediately terminated, and Fairchild permitted to complete construction of the 90 or 100 aircraft which remain on order.

The saving in defense dollars would approximate $100 million. The entire operation of the Willow Run plant suggests even more than has been brought to light so far.

Kaiser-Frazer took over the Willow Run plant, which was declared surplus at the end of World War II, by a very complicated series of maneuvers. The government loaned Kaiser-Frazer $35 million, accepted as collateral the Willow Run plant which was still owned by the U. S. Of course, the $35 million was loaned by that unorthodox banking agency, the RFC.

The Air Force later put Kaiser-Frazer into the aircraft business by giving them a contract to build 200 planes at an estimated cost of $840,000. The airplane, the C-119 being constructed at Willow Run, would necessarily cost more than at Hagerstown, the Air Force contended, and a General testified, "I know that any fair-minded person will agree it was only natural for the first planes produced from this new second facility to have cost more than those planes which were coming from the previously established facility."

This same General later admitted that while it was originally estimated that Kaiser-Frazer would produce the planes for $840,000 the actual price finally reached $1,200,000 per plane "with a strong possibility that that figure will be further increased." It was! The Air Force's own auditor finally came up with the new figure of $1,339,140.00.

The Air Force auditor further told the committee that he had discovered Kaiser-Frazer was attempting to add to the cost of the C-119 charges which should have been part of the company's automotive industry, charges for political advertisements in newspapers, interest on the RFC loan, travelling and entertainment expenses for dedicating the first C-119 airplane.

It is not surprising then that the government was paying five times as much per plane as was being charged by Fairchild.

This spring another interesting development occurred in the history of Kaiser-Frazer. Nine days after John W. Snyder was out as Secretary of the United States Treasury he accepted a position as vice-president of Willys-Overland, and in very short time a merger arrangement was worked out between Willys and Kaiser.

Secretary Snyder, of course, had been the key member of the policy Board to the RFC when the big loans were being made and when the RFC approved the merger arrangement was worked out. Senator John J. Williams (R., Del.), summed all this up very nicely when he said: "An examination of this report clearly demonstrates that there are many ways under the newly arranged merger whereby the stockholders of these two companies can gain; however, from every angle there is only one result as far as the Federal Government is concerned and that is, the taxpayers lose."

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 18—It is time for both businessmen and educators to put an end to the reckless overexpansion in the field of engineering education. Many educators and their young student counselors are being misled by the current strong demand and high wages for "physicists, engineers and draftsmen." I predict a lot of disappointments. In just a few years many of these hopeful engineering students may well become mere technicians simply because the supply will far outrun the demand. Business Depends On What People Do

The economic welfare of any nation depends upon two general factors: (1) the development of its material, educational and spiritual resources; and (2) the efficiency and fairness of its distribution methods. In a free economy this is the way the real, lasting welfare of a people is improved—by producing more and distributing same at less cost with less waste. My years of studying business conditions have forced me to conclude that reckless overexpansion in any field can never become permanent.

Our economic history has usually consisted of distinct movements, and these movements have usually consisted of four periods: (1) a period of overexpansion; (2) a period of decline; (3) a period of depression; and (4) a period of improvement. Our history clearly outlines periods of intense activity, high prices, speculation, and borrowing, followed by periods of falling prices, periods of depression and failure. The movement which business follows depends on what people think and do. When people get careless and fail to heed the danger signs—when people become greedy and try to get more than they give—overexpansion usually follows. Following the crowd is usually followed by panic, contraction and readjustment. Remember 1929! Realistic Planning Needed

The trouble with most of our high school and college youths is that they don't remember 1929. I'm glad they don't. But they should know the lesson that 1929 taught. And then teachers—and business—should try to help prevent another such period by avoiding temptation to overexpand and get the last dollar in profits or wages.

Let me be more specific. I read dozens of newspapers and periodicals each week; and I have dozens more digested for me. I read everywhere about the demand for engineers. One recent study of 174 companies indicates companies are hiring about 25 per cent more engineers this June than last year, and at salaries nearly 10 per cent higher than last year—ranging up to $400 per month. Not once in my reading have I yet run across any warnings from company recruitment officers or top management that the demand for engineers is coming perilously near the saturation point. Is this not a responsibility of both business and the school?

Emphasis On Distribution

In the last half century we have succeeded in doubling our manhour output and at the same time in improving our quality of manufacturing. We can now produce in most industries more than we can consume. During the last 10 years, however, we have improved our distribution very little indeed. As a matter of fact, some sales forces have lost ground. They have forgotten what efficiency and service require. I predict the second half of this century will see a belated revolution in our distribution efficiency. This is where the jobs really are! Why aren't our high school and preparatory school counselors calling attention to these opportunities? Why isn't business doing a better job of long-range planning and making those long-range distribution needs known?

Young people, in fairness to them, should be made aware of the fact that no company can guarantee to hold them at the drawing board or on the production line when business declines. As readjustment develops out of our postwar period of overexpansion, only the MOST FIT engineers will survive. Demands for engineers are at a maximum now. Those who will graduate from engineering schools and colleges a few years hence will not have it so good. They should learn it now so that they can plan realistically for a productive job in our economy and avoid being disappointed by present rosy engineering promises.

What is needed most in the modern home is the family.

A dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baumgardner on Saturday in honor of the graduation of both girls.

Those present were Virginia, Martha, Robert, John, Nancy, Paul, David Baumgardner; Helga Wolkschlager, Mrs. George Baumgardner and Chas. Hesson of Baltimore.

At least a few men's success is due to the fact that they got busy and answered some of their own prayers.

Many men are able to make a place in the sun for themselves because they are a shade better than the next fellow.

History proves that very few old-timers actually shot from the hip—but that's where most of the modern shooting originates.

There is nothing much wrong with a government system that is hated by people who hate everything that is good.

Knowledge is Power

1. ARE COMPLIMENTS WORTHWHILE?

2. A MEAL FOR THREE CENTS?

3. WHO IS MIKIMOTO?

(1) Frequently they are. William McDermott cites some examples of compliments which changed persons' lives. A secretary was on the verge of quitting her job because her boss took delight in criticizing her work. She asked a psychologist for help. He ordered her to pay the boss a sincere compliment every day for three months. She did so. Three months later she reported back to the psychologist.

"I found out that the boss is really a nice guy," she said, "and he has asked me to marry him. I'm going to. See my ring?"

(2) Yup. You can buy a meal for three cents. It's called Multi-Purpose Food and you buy it in a 4½-pound can which contains enough for 36 three-cent meals. Thousands of the poor and hungry in Europe and Asia have been saved from starvation by Multi-Purpose Food (MPF for short), writes Bob Senger, in The Catholic Digest.

Cooked in water for 10 minutes, two ounces of dry MPF becomes an eight-ounce porridge. It provides 200 calories and the nutritional value of a quarter pound of meat, a baked potato, a dish of peas, and a glass of milk. It tastes better and gives more calories when it is mixed with some other food.

(3) He is the Pearl King of the world. Kokichi Mikimoto, a Japanese, discovered how to create cultured pearls by inserting a tiny irritant into an oyster. In 1905, he had a million pearl oysters in carefully nurtured beds. About 40% of cultured pearls are so perfect that it requires an X-ray examination to determine whether or not they are natural or cultured pearls. A natural pearl has thousands of layers, a cultured pearl relatively few. Pearl laboratories depend upon X-ray to count the layers.

National Health Cuts Opposed

Senators J. Glenn Beall and John M. Butler received wires last week from Dr. John Walker Powell, president of the Mental Hygiene Society of Maryland, urging them to "use all means" to prevent cuts threatened for the budget of the National Institute of Mental Health in Bethesda.

According to Dr. Powell, the cuts originally restored by the House of Representatives and now threatened by the Senate Finance Committee mean for Maryland a reduction of the county mental health clinic program equivalent to closing the doors of three one-day-a-week clinics. The number of emotionally disturbed children and adults currently receiving psychiatric diagnosis and treatment will be reduced by 600 in the new fiscal year, if the cuts are approved.

The funds involved are grants in aid to the State Health Department, the Mental Health Authority here, expended by the Division of Mental Health, of which Dr. Paul V. Lemkau is chief. During the past year they have amounted to approximately $44,000 to which $65,000 in State funds and some county funds have been added for the support of the preventive mental health program. The proposed reduction from the federal agency amounts to about $12,000.

The clinics threatened by retrenchment serve nearly every county in the state. Plans to expand the service to Garrett, Howard, Somerset and Worcester Counties failed when the General Assembly in its last session refused to grant the Division a $15,000 increase in its state appropriation.

Dr. Powell reports that other programs adversely affected by the Institute cut are research into the causes and treatment of mental illness and the training of psychiatric personnel at the Schools of Medicine of Johns Hopkins and University Hospitals and the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health.

In notifying Senators Beall and Butler of his concern, Dr. Powell states, "This appropriation is needed to protect healthy homes and productive citizens. Economy at their expense is too costly."

The man who follows another never gets ahead.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

Increased space for storing Maryland's 1953 wheat crop was assured through recent action of the Department of Agriculture designed to clear government-owned stocks out of the ports of Baltimore and Philadelphia, according to George J. Martin, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee. Plans call for release of liberty ships from the "moth-ball" fleet for storage of government wheat.

Efforts to clear government stocks from eastern elevators began two years ago with the movement of government grain to liberty ships anchored in the Hudson River. This experiment showed such storage to be practical if ships were equipped for ventilating and cooling grain.

Clearing government-owned stocks from Baltimore and Philadelphia elevators, Mr. Martin pointed out, will increase storage space available to farmers for storing their 1953 wheat crop either for future sale or for price support loan.

Price support loan rates for Baltimore and Philadelphia have already been guaranteed at not less than $2.45 per bushel for No. 3 garlicky wheat. Storage to April 30, 1954, freight, elevation, drying, cleaning and other charges incident to storing and conditioning the grain will be deducted from this figure.

It Began In Egypt

LINEN

By JAMES C. FRENCH, M.A., F.R.C.
Curator, Rosicrucian Egyptian Museum

The manufacture of linen was considered to be one of the most important industries in Ancient Egypt. Linen was the preferred material used for clothing although the lower-class people wore woolen garments. Wraps and cloaks were made of wool also. Wool was looked upon as impure. Garments made of this material could not be worn in the temples, and the dead were never buried in such.

On the wall paintings of the tombs, both men and women are seen weaving linen from flax which was so extensively cultivated. Linen as fine as silk was woven, and the Egyptians were very proud of their skill in its manufacture. The fineness achieved is unbelievable as the threads are found to be quite perfect, without the flaws which are seen today in even our finest work.

The garments of linen of the rich were embroidered. The thread was dyed before the cloth was woven, making it possible to work in patterns.

Immense quantities of linen were used in the mummifying of bodies of people and also animals. In the Rosicrucian Egyptian Museum are to be seen many rare examples of linen mummy wrappings from the tombs of Ancient Egypt. They are inscribed with writings from the Egyptian Book of the Dead, with funeral scenes, gods, and goddesses.

JUST A THOUGHT

By MARY JANE BARTLOW
A Student of Thurmont High
Our boys are fighting every day Over there so far away
Trying not to bring it here,
So that we will have no fear.

Yet as days go by I see
Life means less and less to me;
With our boys so far away,
We miss them more and more each day.

Seems the years go by so fast
Soon another is gone at last.
Wonder why these things must be
It seems so very strange to me.

As you know, we made this land
With many mighty helping hands.
We fight with guns, we fought with swords,
Trying to win the mighty wars.

Soon the wars will be apast
We will all be free at last,
With many loved ones safely home
Hoping never more to roam.

Cheerfulness lubricates the axles of the world—great numbers of people go through life with a continuous squeak.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

George Keith Funston is a man to watch these days.

Not only is he president of the New York Stock Exchange, but he is also selling an idea.

The idea has power, too, because it protects entrenched interests, yet is dramatized as something to benefit the "little man."

Washington observers say it is the greatest razzle dazle promotion since "30 every Thursday."

Funston wants to permit the "little man" to buy, as he terms it, a share in American industry, through installment buying of common stocks.

However, sales of common stocks on same basis as washing machines and autos would be restricted to common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

This qualification is interesting.

Successful public acceptance of this plan would not only siphon off capital used to start new enterprises, but would also entrench firms financially powerful enough to have their common stock listed. Thousands of people who are buying X Gadgets Common on a dollar down, a dollar a week basis, can easily be led to take economic and political measures to keep a new, independent competitive Gadget company from endangering X Gadget in the market place.

Also big profits would accrue to stock traders who would benefit by resulting inflation of common stock prices.

© National Federation of Independent Business

Actually, the plan would supply needed bolstering to common stock trading volume, because "insiders" are turning more to preferred stocks for investment purposes.

There are many reasons for this trend. Among them is concern over management action in some of the bigger corporations. Not only are top executives receiving six figure salaries, they are also being pledged big retirement salaries, which in some cases, are to be handed down to their heirs.

In final analysis, stockholders pay for these elaborate frills, but such is the nature of the business of some corporations, protests by even large segments of stockholders are fruitless.

But in a corporation set up there is usually preferred and common stock with preferred stock ordinarily taking precedence in payment of dividends. This preferred stock is more attractive.

Thus Funston plans, it is felt, to scatter the chaff over the nation, while the good, sound kernels are held by professional investors and traders.

There is also a moral side. Nothing guarantees the price constancy of any common stock. Usually, price fluctuates with the amount of dividends paid.

Thus, Funston's plan would permit people to gamble on the installment plan.

This aspect has led some observers to say that if this plan is approved, there is only one more logical step to be taken.

That would be to legalize racing bookmakers who will advertise "Bets placed on ten per cent down with 36 months to pay, the balance."

HEALTH HORIZONS

NEW ALLERGY CREAM PERMITS SUN-SENSITIVE PEOPLE TO ENJOY THE SUN.

Protection For Over 23,000,000 Sun Victims

There are 23,000,000 adults in this country who are so sensitive to the ultra violet rays of the sun that even a few minutes' exposure will cause a severe reaction. Dangerous—even fatal—burns, disfiguring skin eruptions, pre-cancerous skin conditions . . . these are but a few of the frightening results that may ensue.

Hence heliophobes, as sun-sensitive people are called, have been foregoing even the most casual outdoor activities because no complete protection from the sun's rays has been available to them.

But fortunately, through the scientific efforts of one farsighted firm, a preparation has been developed and perfected that is a total block to ultra violet radiation. First formulated exclusively for the U. S. Army Quartermaster Corps during World War II to protect troops from the blistering sun of the South Pacific and other tropical danger spots, the preparation is now available for civilian use. The name of the product is Skolex, and it is in the form of a greaseless, odorless cream that becomes invisible on application. Approved by over 400 dermatologists, it is sold without prescription at most drug stores.

Even for those who are not sun allergic, Skolex is a valuable discovery. It offers ideal protection for the delicate skin of small children, thin skin areas of the adult body . . . and serves as reliable security against over-exposure for the person who spends an entire day in the sun.

Bean Crop Is Big State Revenue Producer

The popularity of canned snap beans on American dinner tables was responsible in large part for an estimated $1,479,000 of income to rural Maryland last year.

L. M. Goodwin, Maryland representative of a large can company, makers of food containers, said this was the amount paid Free State growers of snap beans by processors last year.

The can-making firm's representative pointed out that Maryland farmers harvested for processors 30,000,000 pounds of the vegetable from 9,400 acres. In 1952 Maryland and Delaware canned 2,764,975 actual cases. Most were packed in Maryland.

"The money paid for snap beans by canners," said Mr. Goodwin, "amounted to 65 per cent of the total income received by Maryland growers of vegetables from both canning and fresh market sources."

"The large quantities of vegetables—of which snap beans are but one—grown for canning by Free State farmers emphasizes the importance of the canner and can-maker to the prosperity of rural Maryland," Mr. Goodwin continued. "In effect, they provide year-round markets for Maryland-grown products in large sections of the nation, bringing millions of dollars annually back into the state."

Tom's Creek Church held the annual Children's Day Service on Thursday evening, June 14, with good attendance.

YOU and YOUR CONGRESS

Sponsored by Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce

WASHINGTON—The Federal government roasts coffee, manufactures clothing and makes ice cream.

It runs bakeries and retail stores, manufactures paint, operates printing and binding shops and makes eye glasses. It builds ships, runs tugboats and barge lines, maintains vast warehousing facilities, makes rope and raises trees and fish and operates trucking fleets, laundries and dry cleaning plants and makes synthetic rubber.

Those are just a few of the 100 or so commercial activities in which the Federal government is engaged.

Many of those commercial activities are bringing to Congress complaints from businessmen throughout the country. The latter contend this amounts to unfair competition because the Federal commercial activities are not taxed, often are subsidized and use out-dated cost systems that do not reflect the true expense of operating them.

The businessmen also, understandably, do not appreciate having to pay taxes that help subsidize Federal commercial operations with which they must compete. Moreover, they say, if many of these services were performed for the government by private business, taxes on the latter's income would add to Federal revenues.

This vast problem is being studied by a subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations. Chairman of the subcommittee is Mrs. Cecil M. Harden (R-Ind.), a former school teacher who is Republican National Committeewoman from Indiana and looks and acts like a successful business executive.

What the subcommittee is looking for primarily is methods that can be used by the Executive Departments of the Federal government to curtail their commercial activities wherever possible. If a formula to that end can be developed, so much the better, Mrs. Harden feels.

The subcommittee wants to determine whether all of the present commercial and industrial activities carried on by the Federal bureaus are necessary. "If we decide otherwise," says Mrs. Harden, "we will recommend that they be abolished and the job turned over to private business."

And early target of criticism in this investigation is the military post exchange and commissaries. Some have been found to be selling goods for as much as 25 per cent below the cost of identical items in retail stores in the same areas. They are subsidized and can sell at or below cost, while the competing merchant must pay all of his overhead costs, plus taxes.

"The situation becomes absurd," says Mrs. Harden, "when you have the Federal government using tax money to drive out of operation businesses which ordinarily would produce tax revenue."

She goes on to say that "some of the activities which we will investigate were begun so long ago that the original reasons for establishing them may no longer exist. Moreover, there has been very little scrutiny of their operations over the years."

"We hope that the result of our probe will be to separate the good from the bad and establish operating rules which will insure annual reviews to justify the programs which are to be continued."

"We also hope to recommend procedures which, if adopted, will make it harder for the government to get into some new activity just because of someone's whim."

The Dept. of Commerce pledges its support of the subcommittee's aims.

"I believe that, as a general rule, business can provide services and goods cheaper than can the government, provided that all costs, direct and indirect, are considered in arriving at the prices to be charged," says Craig R. Sheaffer, Assistant Secretary of Commerce. He also said the Commerce Dept. plans to act as spokesman in the government to believe that government competition in their particular trade and at a particular location is inappropriate.

The matter of cost in Federal commercial activities is of foremost concern to Mrs. Harden's subcommittee. It is urging the General Accounting Office to rush its installation of modern cost system in Federal agencies to replace present ones.

OUT OF GODFREY'S TEABAG

ARCHIE BLEYER inspired the first Miami Beach pop joke—he was walking along the beach wearing red shorts. One pop musician said to another: "Man, dig that crazy thermometer."

I went to Miami Beach to get a little tan on my face, but it's all over now.

Today my mood is best expressed by a little poem I wrote:
The sweetest time of the year
Is when the days are warm and clear;
For summer has come,
Winter has gone,
My wife will have to mow
the lawn.

Down in Miami two birds were sitting on a telephone pole when a jet plane flew by overhead. The first bird said, "Wow! Look at that guy go." Said the second, "You'd go too, if your tail was on fire."

I've noticed that baseball is a pretty good indication of the state of a man's life. When he's young, he plays hard ball; he gets a little older, he plays soft ball; when he gets like me, he watches it on television.

How Goes Niagara?
The five big private electric companies that supply nearly all of the homes, businesses and industries in New York State are doing what the economic planners in this country said could not be done. They are proposing to build a giant $390 million power producing project on the Niagara River using water from three miles above the mighty falls, financing it with their own money! The economic planners, whose goal has been the socialization of the entire U. S. electric power industry, have contended the Federal government must build the big power projects because private companies do not have the necessary financial resources.

It is true that no single private company can match the Federal government's ability to spend multi-million dollar amounts collected from the taxpayers. But groups of private companies operating in a single state or region can finance any feasible project. And that is what they are proposing to do at Niagara. Some of the "Public Power" supporters in Congress nevertheless want the government, and not private enterprise, to build and own and operate the proposed new Niagara power plant. The issue, therefore, is a clearcut choice between government and private ownership.

Taxes and Taxes
Government ownership would mean the spending of $390 million and probably a great deal more of the taxpayers' money. Government construction costs and operating costs are notoriously high. Usually a project estimated by government people to cost $100 million actually costs about twice that amount before the U. S. Treasury gets through paying the bills. With the government doing it, the Niagara project likely would cost $500 million—half a billion. And once in operation, it wouldn't be a taxpayer like the private company.

If the private companies are permitted to build it, the hundreds of millions paid by taxpayers will be available for other heavy expenses of government. And when fully completed the Niagara project, if owned by the private enterprise, would pay an estimated $23 million in new tax money each year!

cently have combined to finance developments which the "Public Power" proponents said couldn't be done by private enterprise. Five private companies in the Paducah, Ky., area pooled resources to build a giant 500,000 kw steam plant to serve a new atomic arsenal now under construction; and approximately 20 companies in the Ohio Valley joined forces to build a power project to serve another huge atomic plant. In both instances, the Public Power advocates had said the job was "too big for private enterprise."

New Gadgets Make the Job Of Building Shelves Easy

A number of devices now on the market have made shelf-building easy. The four below were pictured in Home Modernizing magazine, along with the suggestion that a good grade of one-inch pine be used for the most satisfactory shelves.

Small metal clips with attached dowels are fine for light loads. Dowels fit into holes drilled in the uprights at the end of the shelves. Shelves rest on the clips.
Matching metal strips and clips like these will carry heavy loads. Strips are screwed to the uprights supporting the shelf and clips fit into them at any point.

This bracket is similar to the clips shown above, in that it fits anywhere on a metal strip. In this case, however, strips are screwed to wall or back of shelf unit. Only two are needed.
There are a number of brackets available for erecting single shelves. These are attached to the wall and the shelves rest on them, with no additional support being necessary.

velopment when it installed the Adams station just above the falls. Later other stations were built. These utilized all the water for power permitted under our agreement with Canada. In 1950, a new agreement permitted use of additional water above the falls. Thus the power production can now be raised from 440,000 to 1.5 million kilowatts.

Savings and Safety.

The private companies operating at Niagara over the years have developed, through pilot-plant experimentation, a method of tunneling the water from the river above the falls to generating equipment several miles downstream. The operation will not affect the incomparable scenic beauty of the world famed cataract. But to our millions of long-suffering taxpayers the best thing about the private companies' plan for the Niagara project is that it will save at least $390 million in tax money! It will do something else, too.

First Lady Will

Limit Her Vacations

Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower will limit her summer travels to brief excursions to the family farm near Gettysburg, Pa., it was reported, and perhaps to Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mts.

The first lady is now on vacation, but so far it's just a vacation at home in the White House. With the end of the spring social season, she is taking a breather in her own social and official activities. She intends to spend the summer relaxing and trying to stay out of the public spotlight.

When the Trumans were in the White House, Mrs. Eisenhower's predecessor used to head for Missouri with the first of Washington's hot weather. But as long as the nation's business keeps the President at his desk, Mamie expects to stay in the Capitol with him.

But once Congress recesses, the first family hopes to go to Colorado for a few weeks of real vacation.

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Dear Sir:

I want to congratulate Emmitsburg, through you, in having a Nursery School this Fall. You are especially fortunate in having Miss Edith Long to run it.

Miss Long has been the assistant director and dietitian of the Rockville Nursery School for the past five years. She has been exceptionally conscientious about the welfare, safety and happiness of the children in her care, and a delightful person to work with. Hundreds of parents and their children, the entire staff of the Rockville Nursery School, as well as its Board of Trustees and I think Emmitsburg could have found no finer person than Edith Long to operate a Nursery school.

Very sincerely yours,
CATHERINE C. PACKARD
