BY ABIGAIL

Once more the high cost of living graph has reached a new zenith as the government index revealed this week that for the fifth straight month the figure continued at an unabated pace. The old argument continues that it is the other side, either labor or capital, that is to blame. The fellow in the middle, you and me, just sits complacently by and have to bear the brunt of this squabble between the two factions. As we have said before, nobody liked controls while they were effective during the past decade, but for the good of the country I am afraid that it soon will be mandatory for the government to step in and offer a little protection from the grafters, whoever they may be and who have no mercy on the public whatsoever.

Some local yokels are really asking for trouble if they insist on carrying on their nightly rampages as they have been doing since Halloween. After all, a little fun during Halloween is okay, but when these depredations are carried out this long, it begins to become of a serious nature, especially when town and state property are being destroyed. State route markers have been twisted off as was a parking meter, and several markers belonging to the Corporation of Emmitsburg. This activity may seem to be flourishing at the time, but I venture to say that very shortly there will be some young yokels lamenting their activities. Don't say I didn't warn you boys.

Well, now that turkey day has passed, Christmas shopping will occupy most of the little woman's time and monopolize the old boy's wallet for the next three weeks. The come on boys, spend your money, are at work full force trying to maneuver you into their stores and spending really more than you should. However, to many of the businesses, the trade is a welcome shot in the arm from a financial viewpoint and if everyone is happy I guess there is nothing to squawk about. . . . until the January bills start rolling in and those delightful invitations to buy and pay later take on a more severe attitude until you are really threatened with dire consequences if you don't pay up. Oh well, it all goes with Christmas I suppose.

That little bit of precipitation we had early this week was more than welcome as water reserves were fast dwindling and it is felt we couldn't hold out for many more weeks. A recent visit to the reservoir revealed a startling low supply. Where fishermen formerly tossed their lines in anticipation, you could walk almost to the spot on dry land. The Rainbow Lake has dropped an estimated good eight feet and the end really isn't in sight yet. So, if you want to do your part, conserve on water as much as you can. You know it's a long winter ahead and unless we have several good rains, and soon, we will be in for a dry winter. Snow, as you know, doesn't make much water, in fact, it takes 10 inches of snow to make one inch of water. Therefore, if we have 30 inches of snow this winter we still will have only three inches of rain, which isn't a drop in the bucket. So conserve as much as you possibly can until such time as we get a few steady rains. If the water company hadn't had the foresight to build Rainbow Lake, I guarantee you that you would have had a darn thirsty summer and fall.

LOCAL MAN GIVEN WORKHOUSE TERM

James "Jim" Wills, Emmitsburg, Pa., charged with burglary, robbery with weapons and burglary, was sentenced to from nine to 18 months in the Allegheny County Workhouse Monday by the Adams County Court, Gettysburg, Pa. Wills, charged with several other men in connection with an attempted robbery at Iron Springs, was not sentenced at the time the others were sent to jail because Wills at that time was serving a sentence in another state.

Lions Charter, Ladies' Night Dec. 14

Dr. James Martin, Gettysburg, Pa., was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday evening at Bucher's Restaurant, S. Seton Ave. President Clarence E. Hahn presided at the meeting which was attended by 22 members.

Secretary-treasurer Robert E. Daugherty, also general chairman of the annual horse show, gave a final account of the show and announced that $350 had been held from the affair, which is netted for charity.

Five dollar donations were authorized for the Tuberculosis Assn., Boys Town and the Maryland School for the Blind. Lion George L. Willhide passed cigars on a new baby son.

Philip B. Sharpe, chairman of the Charter and Ladies' Night program, announced the affair would be held in the new annex of the VFW on Dec. 14. A program of entertainment is being planned for the occasion.

A communication from the State Health Dept., county branch was read, asking for assistance in helping two local indigent children procure eyeglasses. Dr. D. L. Beegle, chairman of the sight conservation committee is investigating the cases.

An invitation to attend the Westminster Lions' Charter and Ladies' night on Dec. 3 was received and several of the members plan on attending the affair. Philip B. Sharpe announced that the conversion to dial phone equipment is tentatively set for Jan. 27 at 7 a. m.

The speaker, Dr. Martin, told of his recent service period with the Army in Germany and other parts of Europe. Following his highly interesting discourse the speaker answered questions of the members.

Thurmont PTA Sponsors Smorgasbord-Supper

The Thurmont P-TA will hold its annual bazaar and smorgasbord in the Thurmont High School on Dec. 4 and 5, beginning at 4:00 p. m.

An unusual feature for this year will be a dinner served smorgasbord style in the school cafeteria until 8:00 p. m. each evening. Entrees of turkey and shrimp creole will be flanked by many seasonal dishes and luscious homemade desserts. All of these delectable dishes will be displayed on an attractive, hexagonal table for self-service. Individual capacity is the only limit to servings. Tickets, at a moderate price, for adults and children will be on sale at the door.

The bazaar will not only offer an evening of entertainment for the whole family with its magic show, fortune telling tent, grab bag, rifle range, fishbowl game and dart throw, but it will also present an opportunity for early and leisurely Christmas shopping. There will be no admission charge for the bazaar and each evening three door prizes will be awarded.

Featured at the bazaar will be a book mart. Attractive books for all ages will be displayed; linen books for the toddlers, coloring books for the kindergartners; history, mystery, and romance for the teenagers, and best sellers for the adults will be on sale.

Another feature will be a shadow-box display of modishly dressed dolls complete with matching accessories. These beautiful dolls, dressed by members of the P-TA will draw an admiring audience of young ladies.

In a fancywork booth, there will be stunning aprons, knitted, crocheted and embroidered handwork to solve many gift problems for the wise shopper. As an additional service to homemakers, luscious cakes and candy and other mouth-watering delicacies will be on sale as an answer to the weekend dessert problem. A snack bar will provide adequate refreshments for those not wishing a big dinner.

Under the inspiring leadership of Mrs. Ross Smith, general chairman of the bazaar, all committees are working feverishly for the success of this project. The P-TA hopes that the people of surrounding communities will make a real family-night affair of the bazaar and smorgasbord at the Thurmont High School.

During 1948 there were 284,663 officers and 467,608 enlisted men in the U. S. Army's Organized Reserve Corps.

C. & P. Phone Company Elects New President

JAMES B. MORRISON

James B. Morrison has been elected president and a director of The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore City effective Jan. 1, 1954, it was announced this week following a meeting of the board of directors. He has been president of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. since July, 1948.

Similar action has been taken by The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone companies in Washington, Virginia, and W. Virginia.

Mr. Morrison succeeds H. Randolph Maddox who has been elected vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. effective Jan. 1. In his new post Mr. Maddox will be located in New York City.

A native of Nevada and a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, Mr. Morrison began his telephone career with the C. and P. in Washington, D. C., in 1925 as plant engineering assistant. He moved up through the organization holding the positions of construction superintendent, plant superintendent, district plant manager, and in 1942 was appointed general plant manager. He became vice and general manager of the C. and P. in Washington in January, 1946 and continued in this position until May, 1948, when he joined the Wisconsin Telephone Co. as operating vice president. He was elected president of that company in July of the same year. Mr. Morrison during his years in Washington and Wisconsin was very active in civic affairs.

H. RANDOLPH MADDOX

Mr. Maddox has been president and a director of The C. and P. since Jan. 1, 1947. Under his leadership the company has successfully carried out the greatest expansion program in its history. Telephones in service have increased 70 per cent from 475,000 to 807,000 and the investment in telephone plant has increased 139 per cent from $92 million to $219 million.

Beginning his telephone career as a student engineer in Washington, D. C. in 1921, Mr. Maddox has come up through the ranks. He became general commercial engineer of The C. and P. Telephone Co. of West Virginia in 1929 and general commercial manager in 1936. He was transferred to The C. and P. of Baltimore City in 1938 and became assistant general manager of the Maryland company in 1940. In 1941 he returned to West Virginia as vice president and general manager.

In 1944 he was elected vice president, secretary, and treasurer of the four C. and P. companies and in 1946 vice president public relations. In January, 1947, 26 years after entering the business, he was elected president and director of the four Chesapeake and Potomac companies.

When the U. S. went to war in December 1941, over 77,000 U. S. Army Reserve officers went on duty.

George Mahoney Says Catoctin Area Should Be Restored To People's Use

I know of no area more delightful to visit during these glorious autumn days than Frederick County. It is still as the poet Whittier saw it "fair as the garden of the Lord."

At every turn, the vista is one of prosperous, well-tended farm lands, against the backdrop of glorious mountain foliage.

Possessed of some of the state's most fertile soil, Frederick Countians have been at the forefront of the movement for sound conservation practices. By able farm management, they have made the most of their resources to establish one of the soundest agricultural economies in the State, and indeed, in the entire nation.

The county's mountain areas offer tremendous recreational possibilities. Frederick's mountains are the closest "wild" area to the large population centering around Baltimore and Washington. They lie close to major arteries of eastwest and north-south travel.

Some 20 years ago, the Federal Government set up the "Catoctin Demonstration Area," embracing some 10,000 acres, to demonstrate how land, unsuited for agriculture, could be turned to recreational use, for the benefit of campers, hikers, hunters and trout fishermen.

During World War II, "Shangri-la" was erected on this tract as a retreat for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It was the scene, you will recall, of some historic conferences with the British Prime Minister, Winston Churchill (who was fascinated by that typical American piece of furniture, the jukebox, when he saw it for the first time at a roadside tavern near Thurmont).

The President's use of the "demonstration area" delayed the return of this land to the State of Maryland, as the Federal Government had originally announced it intended to do. Now "Shangri-la" has become "Camp David," set aside for the use of President Eisenhower.

There is no reason why 10,000 acres are necessary for this purpose. Last year, there was an unsuccessful effort made to have 4300 acres, to the west of the Thurmont-Foxville Road, returned to the State, to be administered by the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks for the benefit of the people of Maryland. That effort should be vigorously pushed.

Speaking of the Department of Forests and Parks, did you know that this efficient State agency, with the co-operation of the general public, has achieved an outstanding record among all the states of the northeast in forest

Thirty-eight Lose Lives In State Auto Accidents During October

Thirty eight persons met their death in traffic accidents during the month of October, Colonel Elmer F. Munshower disclosed today in releasing the accident data compiled by the statistics division of the Maryland State Police.

During the past month two thousand seven hundred eleven traffic accidents were investigated by the police in the State of Maryland. Thirty four resulted in death to thirty eight persons, eight hundred twenty three resulted in painful injuries to one thousand one hundred sixty two persons, while one thousand eight hundred fifty four of the collisions resulted in property damage alone. It is estimated by the National Safety Council that these collisions represent an economic loss to the state of three million six hundred ten thousand dollars.

Nine of the persons killed on the streets and highways of Maryland were pedestrians. Twelve persons died when the vehicle in which they were riding collided with another vehicle and ten died as a result of the vehicle in which they were riding collided with a fixed object.

Colonel Munshower pointed out that twenty six of the traffic deaths occurred in rural areas which emphasizes the need for extra caution in these areas

Four Injured In Car Crash

Three Marines and a student at St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, were injured in a two-car collision on the Emmitsburg-Gettysburg Rd., about four miles north of here, when one of the vehicles skidded at 6:40 p. m. last Sunday.

State police of the Gettysburg detail said the injured, all treated at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, were: Cpl. Thomas Henry, 22, a driver, fractured jaw and lacerations of the face and both knees; Sgt. C. L. Bednarek, 20,

New 5 & 10 Store Opens Today

Emmitsburg's newest business opens its doors today in the Harner Bldg. on the Square.

The business, a self-service 5 and 10c store, is owned and operated by Mr. Lawrence B. Phillips, Frederick, who also operates an establishment there.

The new store is located at the former location of Marty's Beauty Salon and will be managed by Mrs. Betty Goulden. The building has been completely remodeled and the concern will feature self-service shopping and carry the usual line of goods found in a business of this type.

Mr. Phillips has had 12 years of experience with the Woolworth chain and operates Phillips 5 & 10c Store on N. Market St., Frederick. A list of opening day specials are listed in an advertisement elsewhere in this paper.

Thurmont Man Is Killed While Walking On Highway

A resident of Blue Mountain, near Thurmont, was killed when struck by a car on Rt. 15 in front of the Shangri La Tourist Cabins, about a mile south of Thurmont, at 7:45 o'clock Monday night, when he apparently walked across the highway into the path of the vehicle.

Charles Martin Carbaugh, 58, was pronounced dead at the scene by the County Medical Examiner of a crushed chest and multiple fractures.

State Trooper 1/c G. L. Bowman, said the car was operated by Arthur Dale Gernand, 20, Thurmont, who was released without charges.

Social Security Rates To Increase First Of Year

The social security tax rate is scheduled to increase on the first of January, W. S. King, manager of the Hagerstown Social Security office, reminded employers, employees, and self-employed people this week.

This scheduled increase in tax contribution is in accordance with the 1950 amendments to the Social Security law, and was enacted by Congress in anticipation of future obligations of the program.

Employees in jobs covered by the law will have two per cent instead of the present one and one-half per cent deducted from their pay beginning with the first of January on earnings up to $3000 a year; their employers will contribute an equal amount.

The new rates will apply to all taxable wages paid after Dec. 31, 1953, regardless of when earned.

The social security tax for the self-employed is scheduled to increase from the present two and one-quarter per cent to three per cent, for the period commencing Jan. 1, 1954. Since the self-employed whose work is covered by the law pay their tax just once yearly at the time of filing their Federal income tax return, they will pay the present two and one-quarter per cent social security tax on their 1953 income that counts toward social security. This will be due not later than Mar. 15, 1954. Their first payments at the increased rate of three per cent will be due Mar. 15, 1955, for the calendar year 1954.

In the meantime the Internal Revenue Service reports that employers will be furnished late this year with income tax withholding tables and Federal Insurance Contributions Act (social security taxes) tables reflecting rates applicable next year.

The next scheduled increase, six years from now, in 1960, will be to two and one-half per cent each for employer and employee, and to three and three-fourths per cent for the self-employed.

Church Installs New Window

A new stained glass window, depicting Our Lord Blessing the children, was installed by the P. J. Reeves Co., Philadelphia, Pa., manufacturers of memorial tablets and church decorations, in the front of the local Trinity Methodist Church on Wednesday. This window was presented to the church by members and friends of the Sunday School and will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies within the next few weeks.

State Police Seek Local Man In Shooting

State police at the Gettysburg barracks Tuesday sent out an alarm for the apprehension of an Emmitsburg area man wanted for questioning in connection with the theft of an auto and gasoline and assault with a gun.

The man, who police allege was Paul Trent, 23, Rt. 1, was said to have stopped at the Blue and Gray Camp, about four miles north of Emmitsburg, at 11:45 p. m. Tuesday and after getting a tank full of gasoline drove away without paying for it.

The station attendant and two boys, police said, gave chase and cornered the man on a dirt road. He abandoned the car, firing two shots at his pursuers. Both shots missed their mark, police said.

The car was returned to the service station and a check of registration records revealed the auto is owned by Myra Sanders, Emmitsburg, who had reported it stolen.

Trent allegedly shot twice at Robert Riley, Gettysburg, Rt. 2, and then ran into a woods and disappeared.

Investigation is continuing.

Seized Slot Machines Destroyed

Eight slot machines were added to the collection of non-burnable garbage in the quarry used as a city dump to the rear of the Frederick Fairground on Monday.

But the machines were not in any sort of operating condition, according to Deputy Sheriff Willard Koogle, who had the task of destroying the slots.

The gambling machines were ordered destroyed by a court order, and Deputy Koogle wielded a 16-pound sledge hammer on the eight machines. Three of the machines were confiscated in a raid made by the Sheriff's office on the Emmitsburg American Legion home earlier this year. The other five had been at the jail since 1947, and were believed to have been taken from a Brunswick establishment.

Assisting Deputy Koogle in destroying the machines were Deputies George Layman and Leslie Fox. All metal, the deputies said, was either broken or bent so much the machines could not possibly be used. The parts were then tossed into the quarry.

New Addresses Wanted Now By Dept. Motor Vehicles

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Thomas E. R. Mudd, wishes to advise owners of motor vehicles that the department is now ready to prepare the applications for new license plates and therefore urges that you notify the department immediately if your address on your registration card or driving license is not correct because you have moved or any other reason. Please send a post card with your name and new address, upon receipt of which a temporary license will be mailed, which may be used 20 days from date of issuance while forwarding your present license and registration card to the department for correction.

Last year over 30,000 applications were returned to this department because of incorrect addresses. In order to avoid inconvenience in securing your application when needed, and delay in obtaining your new license plates, please notify the department today of your correct address, which is required under the law, within 30 days.

GOP Women's Club To Meet Here

The Republican Women's Club of Frederick County will meet at the home of the Misses Ruth and Rhoda Gillean on Thursday evening, Dec. 3 at 6:30 o'clock. This meeting will feature for the first time, a covered dish supper and although the hostesses will provide bread, butter, beverage and dessert, women attending are requested to bring their own choice of food and place setting.

Miss Helen A. Remsburg, head of the club, who will preside, has emphasized that attendance is not limited to members of the Republican Women's Club, but all Republicans, including husbands and other guests, are cordially invited to be present. An interesting program has been prepared and it is anticipated that a large group will be in attendance at this event.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture said today that a previously announced requirement that producers must be in compliance with all basic agricultural commodity acreage allotments established for their farms, in order to be eligible for price support on any one basic commodity, would not be put into effect for crops produced in 1954.

The Department announced on Oct. 8 that a wheat producer would have to be in compliance with all basic crop acreage allotments established on his farm to be eligible for wheat price support on the 1954 crop. This same provision was announced on Oct. 22 for the five other basic commodities — cotton, corn, tobacco, peanuts, and rice.

As announced today, the special "cross-compliance" requirement for basic crops has been withdrawn for 1954 production.

In view of the fact that some fall-seeded crops had already been planted, and that some referenda votes on acreage allotment and marketing quota provisions had already been taken before the announcements were made, it was decided that the broader compliance provisions would not be put into effect for next year. Producers of course will still have to be in compliance with acreage allotments for any one crop in order to be eligible for price supports on that crop.

Maryland farmers will be affected by this change only in commercial corn counties, according to George J. Martin, chairman of State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, since corn and wheat are the only crops which will be under allotments in Maryland in 1954. Commercial corn counties include all counties on the Eastern Shore and Cecil, Harford, Carroll, Frederick, Montgomery, Washington and St. Mary's on the Western Shore. In these counties farmers who are over their allotments in wheat may secure price support on corn if this crop is planted within the allotted acreage and those planting over their allotments on corn can secure price support on wheat if this crop is not planted in excess of the allotted acreage.

Majestic Theater To Show "The Robe" In Cinemascope

The Majestic Theater, Gettysburg, Pa., will spend $11,000 in new equipment to bring to its audience "The Robe," first motion picture filmed in the new Cinemascope process developed by the 20th Century-Fox Studios. Manager Sydney J. Poppay estimated the price of equipping the theater with a new projector, a special lens, and a wide curved screen with multiple speakers for the panoramic type of movies with three-dimension effect will cost at least that much. Lloyd C. Douglas' best selling novel "The Robe" has been booked at the Majestic for one week.

beginning Dec. 9. Equipment will be installed by the Stanley-Warner Co. According to Mr. Poppay, a four-man crew of RCA Sound Engineer will begin the conversion soon.

Cinemascope enables its audience to achieve the illusion of depth without the wearing of polaroid glasses. The special screen, curved and reflectorized, will be two and one-half times as large but smaller in height than the present white screen. Stereophonic sound will permit sound

A patient went to a psychiatrist's office one day and they sat and stared at each other for a half hour. The patient paid his $50 and left. The following week the same thing happened. The patient and the psychiatrist stared silently at one another; the patient paid his $50 and left. The third week they sat and stared for 15 minutes and the patient said, "I have a question to ask." The psychiatrist rubbed his hands together and said, "Now we're getting some place. What's on your mind?" The patient said, "Do you need a partner?"

Around the Studios

Gordon MacRae, star of NBC's "The Railroad Hour," did an "after-show" following last week's broadcast before a most distinguished and private audience.

Gordon's daughter, Heather, was celebrating her birthday with a combination birthday and Halloween costume party at the MacRae home. One of the highlights of the soiree was to be a brief concert, starring "Daddy." So as soon as "The Railroad Hour" was off the air, Gordon leaped into his car and drove home to fulfill his vocal commitment before a packed house of 7-year-old goblins, skeletons, witches, pumpkins and black cats!

Last week Roy Rogers received a telegram from the Mayor of Yellville, Arkansas, who wanted Roy to enter the national wild turkey calling contest there on October 31st. Roy, as busy as ever with his NBC radio and television shows, declined with thanks and jokingly admitted: "Besides, I'm not sure I can call a wild turkey, though I sure can call hogs!"

The outstanding versatility of Loretta Young, charming star of NBC's "Letter To Loretta" television series, has never been given as great an opportunity of dramatic expression than it is currently enjoying in the television medium—for the glamorous Loretta will portray over thirty completely different characters in as many weeks on the video program. As a further accent on variety, Loretta has carefully planned her wardrobe and makeup so that she will not look the same from week to week. This is done by the use of wigs, which will change her hair from blonde to black to her own natural brownette shade, and from short to long... all with the aid of the hairdressers' art. The one element that won't change, however, is the beauty of the star herself, who acts as hostess as well as leading lady in each of the weekly "Letters To Loretta" features.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 26—Panicky readers disturbed by the increasing number of business failures have asked me if business conditions are not likely to take a sharp drop by 1954. Here is what I think.

The months to come will separate the men from the boys in business. Right now, when we are supposed to be booming along, companies are dying at the rate of 700 a month. The approximately 7500 business failures since the first of the year have involved dollar liabilities far in excess of any period since the depression. Too many inefficient business operators have been swept to prosperity by the business currents of strong demand rather than by their own business acumen. I predict that many more of these would-be entrepreneurs will be severely squeezed unless they wake up, cut expenses, and get hard at work. In general, this will be good for our economy, which needs to eliminate those who have given the poorest service, the shoddiest products, and gone after the fast buck.

Study These Figures
Some of my critics say I am too pessimistic. They point out that 67 per cent of our homes are more than 20 years old, that there has been a tremendous shift from farm to suburbs, and that an entirely new way of living and lots of new wants have been created. They remind me that the number of children in our population has increased 65 per cent since 1940, and that we have 80 per cent more high school graduates in our adult population since 1940 who presumably have much more highly developed wants than the non-high school graduates. Some say such factors as these are dynamic enough to hold our economy high.

Against the argument that we have more people with more education and with more discretionary buying power than ever before, are such realities as these: Through the early months of 1953, shoe production was about seven million pairs ahead of potential consumption, and the industry could easily have produced 35 per cent more shoes if they could have been sold. Or, take the automobile industry. At midyear, 47 per cent more cars had been turned out than in the same period in 1952. But sales rose only 33 per cent. Recent cutbacks and intensive selling have temporarily reduced this spread. But let us face the facts: The government has cut defense programs; inventories have been stockpiling; industrial expansion has passed its peak; industrial building is on the decline. What is to happen to private building I will discuss later.

Better Selling and Investing Are Needed
American business cannot stand still. It moves either forward or backward. To move forward, it must sell. When it stops selling, it dies. Sales have slumped because salesmen have become lazy and sales clerks indifferent. Lots of people still need lots of things; but price levels may be too high. I believe the time has come for reappraisal of potential markets and profit margins. A spiritual rebirth by employers and wage-workers is needed. This may mean only "deluxe models" instead of "super-deluxe models!" It will mean much greater manufacturing efficiency, a cut-back in material waste, and an increase in per-man output.

While we are learning to do these things we must expect a readjustment in business activity. Among those industries that will feel the pinch first are automobile, building, steel, and nonferrous metals. But while manufacturers are readjusting to peacetime demands there will be strong sustaining forces that will hold the economy strong, such as the tremendous developing demand of the World War II baby crop, a heavy supply of savings, and a credit base still capable of considerable expansion. The greatest hope of continued good business lies with the 10 or more billion dollars likely to be spent for the defense of our large cities.

Tracks of a bobcat are about the same size as those made by the common house cat, but when extended for fighting, his paws are almost as large as a man's hand.—Sports Afield.

Paydays come and paydays go! But . . . after they're gone how much of your pay has been tucked away where it'll provide paydays for you after you've quit working?
What better time than now to start socking away part of your pay in United States Savings Bonds. The dollars you save in Savings Bonds now earn interest at the rate of three per cent compounded semi-annually when held to maturity. For regular systematic saving, use the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or, if you're your own boss, use the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank. Savings Bonds are now even better.

Alton Y. Bennett Again Heads March Of Dimes

Attorney Alton Y. Bennett, Frederick, was named county chairman for the 1954 March of S. Senator George L. Radcliffe, Diames campaign by former U. state chairman of the March of Dimes.

"This year," Mr. Radcliffe said, "our county chairmen will have a special incentive for fund-raising, as the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis shifts from defense to attack in the fight against polio."

"For 16 years, the National Foundation has fought polio thru its programs of patient care, research, and professional education. In a sense these were defensive, but now we have added an aggressive new fourth program—POLIO PREVENTION."

The former Senator explained that gamma globulin, a temporary deterrent to paralytic polio, was put to use this past summer in man's first attempt to alter the course of a polio epidemic.

"But GG is only a holding action," he said. "Our highest hopes lie in an experimental vaccine which March of Dimes researchers have developed."

Mr. Radcliffe said that extensive tests for this promising new substance are planned to determine if it will provide long-lasting immunity to infantile paralysis.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

(Editor, Sports Afield Magazine)

A distinguished judge once remarked "There are high and low degrees among dogs as well as among men, and while the common coon dog has his value, it is not the same as that of the trained bird dog or the trained bloodhound." Now if someone should kill your dog do you know how to figure his worth and how to collect damages?

Renzo Dee Bowers, an attorney who frequently writes about sportsmen and the law for Sports Afield magazine, explains that you are saddled by law with the burden of proving two things and until you have proved them your antagonist is not required to open his mouth; first, that he killed or injured your dog; and second, that the animal was of a specified money value.

The defendant must then prove that the conditions confronting him when he shot or otherwise killed your dog justified the act; or, that the animal was either without value, or of much less value than you claim.

A man who takes his chances on deliberately killing a hunting dog finds comfort in knowing that statutes exist in nearly all states upon which he can rely for legal justification of his act. That of New Jersey is typical. It reads: "A person may humanely destroy a dog in self-defense, or which is found chasing, worrying, wounding, or destroying any sheep, lamb, poultry, or domestic animal."

This defense is used in 95 per cent of suits prosecuted for wrongfully killing hunting dogs. There are a few, but only a few, other conditions and circumstances recognized by the courts as justification.

The defendant is bound to prove that the animal was actually doing one of the prohibited acts at the moment he was killed. It is not enough for him to say he thought the dog was chasing, worrying, wounding or destroying sheep, lamb, poultry or domestic animal.

Killers of hunting dogs have been judicially declared liable for the value of the animal killed under these circumstances: a dog killed through malice or evil intent; killed through some act of negligence or carelessness; by inexcusable mistake in identity or failure to perceive the exact character of the act the suspected dog is committing at the moment; or merely because the animal is trespassing.

Standards of determining worth are simple. If the dog has a market value in the neighborhood, that value is ordinarily accepted as a measure of damages allowable. If it has no market value its special value to the owner may be proved by showing its qualities, characteristics and pedigree, and by testimony of witnesses familiar with such qualities.

The Missus Keeps Posted

Ever since our electricity was cut off last year on account of me forgetting to mail in the payment, the Missus has been sort of leery about giving me letters to mail.

At first she'd ask if I mailed them, then double-check my coat pocket at night. She stopped that, and I figured she was convinced I'd learned my lesson.

Then yesterday, I got a postcard at the office in a familiar handwriting. I turned it over and by golly it was from the Missus herself! It read: "Thanks, Joe, for mailing my letters." Well!

Looks like she figured I still needed some checking-up and slipped that postcard in the last batch of letters.

From where I sit, an occasional check-up is a good thing. Check-ups on just how tolerant we are of other people's preferences and tastes, for example. I like a glass of beer with supper, you may prefer cider—but if I ever try to switch you to my choice, simply "address" me with a reminder of your rights.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Some odious comparisons are being made in Washington, with the question asked "When is a surplus not a surplus, and who can afford a surplus and who cannot afford one?"

While farm surpluses are plaguing the nation, and farm prices fall because of these surpluses, there is also found to be a big surplus of petroleum. But to meet the situation, although it is done under the name of conservation, domestic petroleum production is curtailed by law, but foreign oil continues to pour into nation.

Curtailment of domestic production is just another way of saying the independent oil producers are cut back on the amount they can produce, although at the same time domestic holdings of the majors are also cut back. But majors continue to operate foreign holdings at high production rate.

Yet while a surplus of domestic food production brings farm prices down rapidly, the flooding of the U. S. market with a surplus of imported petroleum seemingly has no effect on the gasoline price.

For reasons as yet unknown, official Washington has always trod softly when major oil is concerned. Anti-trust action based the report of the FTC that a worldwide oil cartel is being promoted by certain major U. S. oil companies appears to lag.

There are all kinds of excuses floating around Washington why major oil is given the soft treatment.

ment. One is that major oil, by investments abroad, is building goodwill for the U. S., thus combatting Communism spread.

Yet it appears this idea is not shared by the 15,000 native workers of Aramco, the Arabian-American Oil Co.

They seek an increase in their $42 per month wage.

Two points were immediately made in opposition to this request. One was that the leaders of the native workers have been educated. The other point is that the demand for more wages must be Communist inspired.

Thus it could be inferred major oil's viewpoint on foreign relations is that if natives become educated, and seek more money it must be Communism.

But to many it now appears that the old saying should be changed to "it's an ill wind that blows nobody any good".

First of all, importation of cheaply produced foreign oil is not helping the independent domestic producer, either in the operation of present properties, or to encourage searching for new oil fields in America.

Neither does consumer benefit by cheaply produced foreign oil, as gas prices remain same.

And apparently the policy of producing oil in foreign land is not promoting world wide tranquility and harmony.

In addition, importation of cheap residual fuel oil for use as fuel is distressing U. S. coal industry.

The situation poses a question. What happens to U. S. if all tariffs are scrapped?

P-E Again Receives Safety Award

The Potomac Edison System, of which the Potomac Edison Co. is a part, has been named second place winner in the National Fleet Safety Contest sponsored by the National Safety Council.

A part of the continuing program of on-the-job safety, this contest is among utility companies over the entire nation and deals with the operation of company vehicles, cars, and trucks.

The Potomac Edison System is entered in Group I which is composed of 35 other public utilities from coast to coast operating comparable sized fleets.

In winning the second place award, drivers of the Potomac Edison System operated 310 vehicles over a total of 2.8 million miles. During this period the utility company drivers recorded only 19 accidents or .68 accidents for every 100,000 miles operated.

President R. Paul Smith, in accepting the award for his company, stated that it is a tribute to the skills of every company driver that culminate in the winning of such an award. President Smith added further that all communities served by the Potomac Edison System benefit by having safe and courteous drivers operating large vehicles over such a volume of miles with a far below average of accidents.

The winning company in this year's competition was The West Texas Utilities Co. of Abilene, which performs much of its service in far less congested areas than that served the Potomac Edison System.

NO COMMENT

By WALTER CHAMBLIN, Jr.

Charles E. McManus Jr., executive vice president of Crown Cork and Seal Co., Baltimore, said this week that a new study by the National Association of Manufacturers shows that taxes levied against corporations ultimately are paid by individuals. These taxes are particularly burdensome to low-income families, he declared.

Mr. McManus stated that NAM economists showed that the Federal government's tax levies on the income of corporations cost a typical urban family of four persons $167 or more a year, depending on their income level.

For families in the $2500 to $3000 range, he noted, the study showed that taxes on corporation earnings "cause the heaviest single burden of any tax." Mr. McManus explained that the NAM, in its study of the burden resulting from different types of taxes on low and medium income families, emphasized that all taxes, regardless of their kind or from whom they are finally collected, are paid by people either as part of the price of articles or in some other way.

Taxes on corporation income are paid in part by stockholders and in part by customers in the form of higher prices for the company's products, the NAM's researchers held. For the purposes of the study, Mr. McManus said the economists assumed that taxes on corporations' normal earnings bear equally on stockholders and customers and that taxes on so-called "excess" profits are borne entirely by those holding shares in the company.

Using these assumptions, the NAM found that a typical Maryland family of four persons with an income of, say, $4000 a year, or little more than $75 a week, indirectly pays $234 a year as its share of taxes levied by the U. S. government on corporation earnings.

Mr. McManus pointed out that this is only a little less than the $271 which this safe family pays in individual income taxes and that it represents nearly a fourth of the group's total tax bill of $1093 for taxes of all kinds—Federal, state, and local.

For families with both higher and lower incomes, Mr. McManus said the economists estimated the burden resulting from Federal corporation income and excess profits taxes on families in other income groups were as follows: $2500, $167 in taxes; $3000, $190 in taxes; $5000, $388; $7500, $731, and $10,000, $1135 in taxes.

"The lesson to be drawn from these figures is not that corporations should be exempted from paying their fair share of taxes," Mr. McManus emphasized. "But it is important for the public to know," he continued, "that no matter who the taxes are collected from, they are paid by individuals—people with modest incomes as well as people whose higher incomes are subject to far heavier taxes."

Mr. McManus said that the "real lesson" to be drawn from the NAM's study is that "every dollar the government spends must come out of someone's pocketbook or paycheck." While taxing corporations may appear to be a painless way of paying government costs, Mr. McManus declared that such taxes ultimately fall on individuals, including those with low incomes.

JAMES C. SANDERS

James C. Sanders, died at his home near Taneytown last Saturday at eight a. m., aged 65 years. He was a son of the late William and Mary Myers Sanders and was a native of the Taneytown area where he farmed for many years.

He was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Taneytown, and of the Holy Name Society of the church. Mr. Sanders had been in ill health for the past several years.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Marie McMaster Sanders; six children, Mrs. Louis Keepers, Mark A., Anna T., Leo A., and Grace E., all of Taneytown, and William E., Thurmont. Also surviving are seven grandchildren and five sisters, Mrs. Charles Weaver, New Oxford, Pa.; Mrs. Augustus Orndorff, Gettysburg; Mrs. Guy Baker, Emmitsburg; Sister Mary Elizabeth, St. Martin's, Baltimore, and Sister Genevieve, Saginaw, Mich.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at the late residence at 8:30 o'clock, followed by services at the church at nine o'clock. Rev. Charles W. Walker officiated and interment in church cemetery.

Governor Weighs In First Truck

Gov. Theodore McKeldin weighed the first truck at the State Roads Commission's new and modern weighing station on Rt. 301 near Upper Marlboro Tuesday.

State and other officials participated in brief ceremonies at the opening of this facility. The station is the first of five thoroughly modern devices which are under construction or planned for the near future. Trucks will be guided from the highway into the scales on each side of the Route. They will be mechanically weighed by electrical equipment which will record the date, weight, and other information necessary in the enforcement of the truck-weight laws. Trucks which are found to be traveling within the legal limits will be quickly sent on their way. For the truck which is found overweight by the electrically-controlled scales, a new type of summons in triplicate will be issued to the violator and his truck will be directed to adjacent parking areas until duly released. Enforcement officials believe that the new weighing system will greatly increase the speed and efficiency of weighing trucks. The mechanical system of weighing is said to be practically fool-proof.

The four other stations proposed are at the following locations: U. S. Rt. 40; U. S. Rt. 50, near Queenstown; U. S. Rt. 13, north of Salisbury, and U. S. Rt. 40 at Pine Orchard. The cost of scales alone at Foy's Hill is expected to amount at $17,796.

In addition to the five new scales referred to, a sixth in contemplation for the Baltimore-Washington Expressway if it is found that trucks use the Maryland portion of this road in any numbers.

SPORTS FLASHES

from THE SPORTING NEWS

When Tom Ferrick, the big righthanded pitcher, joined Birdie Tebbetts' All-Star squad for a tour of New England in 1950, he looked upon the jaunt only as a means to pick up a few extra dollars. But what he didn't know was that he was helping to insure his future in the sports, says The Sporting News.

Tebbetts sized up the then-Yankee hurler and made a mental note about what he would do if he was ever in a position to use a good man. That came about in a short time when Birdie was named manager of the Indianapolis Indians and needed a coach. When the call to Tebbetts came from Cincinnati to manage the Redlegs, it was only natural that he take Ferrick with him.

"I had a hunch that Tebbetts was too smart a fellow to be kept from a major league job," said Ferrick. Hitching onto the Tebbetts rocket-ship wasn't exactly stupid on Ferrick's part, either.

Pigskin Pete Picks Navy Over Army

It's Navy over Army by seven points, according to Pigskin Pete, football expert for The Sporting News in his Five Star Specials. Notre Dame is expected to take Southern California by the same margin on their Nov. 28 meeting. Mississippi State a narrow one-point winner over Mississippi in another traditional game, while Rice is given a six-point edge over Baylor. Florida gets a 13-point edge over Miami (Fla.)

Rumors Have Robinson Going To Giants

Holding court on trade rumors on the major league scene as reported in The Sporting News: That Jackie Robinson is headed for the New York Giants for Bobby Thomson, since the Dodgers may not want to carry Jackie's $40,000 salary in 1954... that the announcement out of Milwaukee and Pittsburgh, although not naming players they want, may mean a trade in the near future. Milwaukee general manager, John Quinn, declared that his club is ready to give up some of its pitchers for a top outfielder and a front-line infielder, now that Phil Paine and Chet Nichols will be available by service discharge. Branch Rickey of the Pirates is quoted in The Sporting News as saying: "I don't want to trade O'Connell... but if we see a chance to get two or three players who will help, I would trade anyone. The interest seems to be with Murry Dickson, Frank Thomas, and Hal Rice."

Short Stuff

The Sporting News, in noting the use of laminated bats for next season, recalls two other unusual bats: one with a hook on the end to hit a curve ball and a flat bat for bunting. They never were legalized, however.

Recently The Sporting News picked up an item from Dan Parker's column in the New York Daily mirror stating: "Yogi Berra wore out five caps during the past season, which should take care of those kroatneys who persist in saying the Yankee catcher doesn't use his head." This prompted Glenn Gostic of Minneapolis, a reader of the national baseball weekly, to ask the definition of "kroatney." Not knowing the definition, Oscar Ruhl of The Sporting News consulted Dr. Parker and Dan reported: "Kroatney is a half between a schlimmel and a paskudynak and should be pronounced with an umlat." "In plain words," Dan added, "it is a wisecrack meaning 'wise-guy.'"

Dick Burnett, owner of the Dallas Club, who is constantly traveling through Texas in the interest of his oil projects, reports to The Sporting News as having seen the following sign in a Texas restaurant: "Our steaks are so tender we don't understand how the cows stood up."

Did you know that Vince DiMaggio holds two major league records: Most strikeouts, season (134), and most times, four strikeouts, game (5)? Did you know that the New York Giants hit five home runs in an inning in a game with Cincinnati, June 6, 1939?

WASHINGTON, D. C.—November 18th—The 50 millionth telephone in the United States was placed today in service on the desk of President Eisenhower in a brief ceremony in which President Cleo F. Craig of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Warren B. Clay, President of the United States Independent Telephone Association participated. Also at the ceremony were Rosel H. Hyde, Chairman of the FCC and C. L. Doherty, President of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners. Mr. Craig is shown here presenting the telephone to the President with Mr. Hyde in the background. This country is the first nation in the world to reach this level of development and more telephones are in service in the United States than in the rest of the world combined.

LITTLE THINGS about the Stars

TELEVISION - RADIO - HOLLYWOOD

By GEORGE LILLEY

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Perhaps more than all others, the programs of good music have been instrumental in keeping radio very much alive. One of the best shows in this respect is "The Railroad Hour," Monday nights on NBC. This one, with its schedule of famous operettas and top feminine guest artists, is now in its sixth season. Baritone Gordon MacRae, star of the program since 1948, continues as host and leading man. Among the shows and guests on the new season's schedule:

Date	Show	Star
Nov. 2	Rosalinda	Elaine Malbin
Nov. 9	Roberta	Dorothy Kirsten
Nov. 16	Merry Widow	Dorothy Kirsten
Nov. 23	Chocolate Soldier	Virginia Haskins
Nov. 30	State Fair	Lucille Norman
Dec. 7	Sweethearts	Elaine Malbin
Dec. 14	Cat and the Fiddle	Dorothy Kirsten
Dec. 21	Holiday Inn	Dorothy Warenskjold

"I MARRIED JOAN" IN SECOND YEAR

Joan Davis is in her second season on television, star of "I Married Joan," a smartly prepared domestic comedy that is gaining for her in TV the exalted position she previously held as a radio performer. She once signed a radio contract for a million dollars a year, making her probably the highest paid woman ever in that medium.

"I Married Joan" (Wednesdays nights, 8 EST. NBC-TV) wraps domestic humor—and a bit of glamour—around situations that might take place in an ordinary household. Josephine Madonna Davis is the show's star—an amazingly mixed-up wife to patient "Judge Bradley Stevens," played by Jim Backus—and also helps to produce, write and cast it as her own program package. Although she comes from a family of non-professionals, Joan has been in show business since she was five years old. As a fledgling dancer, her audience sat on its hands until she became tangled in her lace costume and took a fall. Then it roared. Joan Davis has been a comedienne since.

Children Of Mary Charity Fair Dec. 5

The Children of Mary of Saint Joseph College will sponsor its annual Charity Fair, Dec. 5, from 2:00 to 9:00 p. m. in the college gym. Proceeds from the Fair will be sent to home and foreign missions. Children of Mary President, Nancy Black, chairman of the affair, has announced the theme to be "Hitch Your Wagon To A Star." Among the features of this year's Fair will be a Christmas gift booth, doll booth, cake sale, bingo, grabs, and games of skill. Refreshments will be sold through out the day. The public is cordially invited to attend.

A Good National Defense

A recent survey of college freshmen throughout the nation revealed that more than 30 per cent of them did not know that Woodrow Wilson was president during World War I, and only six per cent were able to name the 13 original colonies. Many students listed states such as Texas and Oregon as among the original 13. Thirty per cent of the students did not know who was President during the Civil War. Some thought it was George Washington.

This is just an indication of the lack of knowledge about America, not only among college freshmen but among our adult population. It was recently demonstrated at a meeting attended by 100 people from 26 states that only a small percentage of American adults are aware of the fact that a communal economic system was established in the early years at both Plymouth Colony and Jamestown — with all production going into a common storehouse, and equal shares being distributed out of the storehouse for each family. Yet this fact is an important part of American history. The communal system failed, and out of the failure grew our present private ownership, free enterprise system.

Few Study History

Some time ago the New York Times surveyed American high schools and colleges and found that only 34 per cent of our college and universities require students to study American history. And of the total enrollment in colleges and universities at the time the survey was made, only 12 per cent of the students were enrolled in American history courses. In the adult field, there is much evidence throughout the nation indicating that a great many of our grownups either didn't study American history or have forgotten vitally important facts about our country's origin and its progress.

In both the school field and among our adult population improvement is being made. More and more educators are recognizing the need for teaching American history to all high school and college students and are making it a required subject. Industries, civic clubs, fraternal organizations, and many other groups are now working to bring the facts of American history to public attention.

Facts Needed

Citizens need to know the facts in the story of America in order to effectively combat creeping Socialism which has worked its way to power in so many nations of the world. We cannot answer charges made against our American way of life unless we know the facts to repudiate them. We cannot point out the fallacies of Socialism and the advantages of a private enterprise economy unless we know the stories of Plymouth Colony and Jamestown, unless we know how our economic system came into being and can trace its effectiveness against the obstacles it met during its growth.

In a world that has seen Socialism, in some degree, spread throughout nearly all the ma-

By Alex Dreier

(Noted war correspondent, award-winning newscaster)

Man is like a lampwick... trimmed lots of times before he gets the right flame!

The best thing about the future is that it only comes one day at a time.

The problem that baffles Washington is how to dig the country out of the hole without making the hole any bigger.

The easiest way to get into trouble is to be right at the wrong time.

Remember... If your speedometer shows fifty miles an hour or more, you're not driving your car, brother, you're aiming it!

All anyone needs to get ahead is a backbone—and some liniment to rub on it!

Police Chief Kaas Advises Winter Car Check-up

If any motorist in Emmitsburg has failed to get his automobile into condition for winter driving, the arrival of December should shock him into action, Chief of Police Daniel J. Kaas warned this week.

"The season of hazardous driving is here or near, and we might as well face it," the chief said. "The time to make your car winter-safe is before the accident."

Chief Kaas offered the following rules for longevity, supplied by the National Safety Council:

- 1—Don't blame the weatherman for accidents. Be prepared.
  - 2—Get the "feel" of the road when starting out on slippery mornings.
  - 3—Keep the windshield clear of sleet, fog, and frost. And be sure the windshield wiper blades, defrosters, and all lights are in good condition.
  - 4—When streets are covered with snow or ice, use tire chains, which cut stopping distances in half, and increase traction from four to seven times. Remember, drive slow on ice or snow.
  - 5—When you stop on ice, don't jam on your brakes. That is inviting a skid. Pump the brakes until the car comes to a halt.
  - 6—Keep a safe distance between your car and the one ahead. You'll have a hard time explaining why you couldn't stop, if the car ahead was able to.
- Just as an example of added winter safety, Chief Kaas said tests have shown that with reinforced chains, a car going 20 miles an hour can stop in about 77 feet on glare ice, and in 40 feet on hard packed snow. The same car, with so-called "winterized" tires, takes 188 feet to stop on glare ice, and about 60 to 70 feet to stop on hard packed snow.

Quotes on the Good Book

ROY: "There's an answer for everything in the Bible. I finished reading it completely for the first time and I'm about half-way through it again. I read it every night and I found out that no matter where I open it—and no matter what's been on my mind that day or what is on my mind the next day—I come across an answer that applies to the situation."

DALE: "I have always found comfort in the Bible as well as guidance. It's the one book which I can read every day, and every day that I read it I find something new and inspiring."

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

"Christmas Seal Sabbath" November 28 - 29, 1953

The annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association began on November 16, 1953, and

Tuberculosis is one of our major health problems, taking the lives of more than six hundred citizens of our State each year, attacking over twenty-six hundred new victims each year and causing untold physical, economic and domestic suffering to thousands of our citizens, and

Christmas Seals, for nearly fifty years have helped wage war on this dread disease, and

The Maryland Tuberculosis Association, during its nearly half century of service, has helped materially to reduce the number of deaths from tuberculosis each year in our State, through its program of education, tuberculosis detection, medical research, and services to tuberculosis patients, and

I am confident that the people of Maryland will support the work of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, which, in every section of our State, is directed toward the prevention, detection, treatment, and eventual eradication of tuberculosis, and Therefore, I, Theodore R. McKeldin, Governor, do hereby proclaim Saturday, November 28 and Sunday, November 29, 1953 as "Christmas Seal Sabbath" in Maryland, and urge all citizens of Maryland to generously support the 47th annual Christmas Seal Sale.

GIVEN Under My Hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, in the City of Annapolis, this 6th Day of November, in the Year of Our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-three.

Thos. McKeldin

John R. Reeves

COSTLY NEW PARLOR GAME: JUGGLING THE THERMOSTAT

By Your Heating Counselor

Television seems to have done a fairly thorough job of pushing parlor games off into the attic, but along about this time of year it actually encourages an expensive sort of living-room pastime. That some people call "waste the heat." That's the game too many of our friends and neighbors begin to play when we drop in for an evening of TV or just some friendly talk and popcorn. One of their first actions after we settle down in the living-room is to suggest that it's a bit chilly. And, they ask, "Wouldn't a little warm air feel good?"

It sure would in the living room. But to get it, our host turns the central heating system's thermostat way up and heats the entire house, not just the living room. That means a lot of warm air is going to waste in other parts of the house.

One of the best answers to this seasonal problem is a forced-air room heater, either wholly-portable, wall-r-cessed or floor-mounted. Any one of these units provides enough gas or electric heat to take the chill off a good-sized room.

Plugged into an electric socket like a desk fan or radio, the fan-equipped room heater directs warmed air out across the floor. Then it brushes up along the walls and quickly heats every layer of air in the room, blending it to a uniform degree, without wasting fuel dollars by needlessly heating the entire house.

The Question Box

Dear Counselor: Our large, unheated garage is connected to the house only by a breezeway. What is the best permanent heating system to install there?

Mrs. B. F., Tarrytown, N. Y. It's difficult to say that one heating system is the "best" possible one for a good-sized garage. However, certainly one of the better permanent systems that Mrs. B. F. can have installed there is a unit heater. These forced-air systems compactly enclose a heating element, fan and motor into a single, highly-efficient "package" designed for overhead mounting.

NEXT WEEK: Insulation for heating efficiency.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

THERE WAS A TIME, PERHAPS, WHEN "HOLD YOUR HORSES" MEANT PRECISELY THAT—NO MORE, NO LESS. BUT THE EXPRESSION HAS LONG SINCE TAKEN ITS PLACE IN OUR FOLK LANGUAGE AS AN INJUNCTION TO EXERCISE RESTRAINT—NOT TO RUSH HEADLONG, BUT TO TAKE TIME TO CONSIDER.

THE WISDOM OF PRUDENCE, WHICH THIS EXPRESSION COUNSELS, HAS ALWAYS BEEN RECOGNIZED IN AMERICA. COUPLED WITH INITIATIVE AND BACKED BY HARD WORK AND THRIFT, IT HAS HELPED DIRECT THE ENERGIES OF A FREE PEOPLE INTO CONSTRUCTIVE CHANNELS FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF OUR DEMOCRACY.
