

Most Anything At A Glance

—BY ABIGAIL

Well, the grand and glorious holidays are now behind us and we can look forward to what I believe will be a good and prosperous new year. That is for most of us, I hope. Most prophets of the industrial world predict that a few will suffer hardship through unemployment, but then you could hardly expect to continue permanently on the path of boom times which we have experienced the past two decades. I believe that false prosperity is about to depart from our midst and that only the workers and not the drones, will continue to prosper.

A lot of us are prone to yell depression, but then the sage individual has known that all along this bonanza had to terminate some day and from all indications the end is in sight. This false prosperity, mostly the aftermath of wars, undoubtedly is about to meet the ax and the wrecking crew. What will cause the recession is the wholesale layoffs of war material workers. As Mr. Babson, the financial writer says, those who really can and want to work will continue to do so, but those individuals who joined unions for protection from their employer's wrath, are about to be caught up with and the old struggle of the survival of the fittest is about to commence. Well, I know a lot of employers who will be darn glad when qualified help will become available. What some of them have put up with the past 10 to 15 years, has taken years off their span of life. Now don't become frightened and start talking depression. All of you knew that sometime soon we would have to meet this thing face to face and that the ultra-standard of living we were accustomed to just had to be lowered. While I am not in favor of lowering standards by any means, I have come to accept the fact that things will not be as they were and that everybody had jobs and drew big pay. As I said before, if you want to work you can, but you must show some initiative and interest in your job or someone else will!

Winter's frigid breath wrapped up all of us early this week when we were blanketed with about six inches of snow and far below freezing temperatures. While most of us abhor this sort of weather, garagemen and school children were mostly happy and delighted about the whole thing. First of all, the kiddies got a three-day vacation, as buses were unable to traverse the impassable snow-bound rural roads and secondly, the garagemen were extremely busy putting on winter tires and chains, tuning up motors, towing cars and selling anti-freeze by the gallons. A good week, eh boys? Bah, you can have it!

Am extremely happy to see the Postoffice building get a new coat of paint. And watching the painters at their work causes me to wonder if the same undesirable situation that has been a practice, will continue? In years past, a lot of the young folks, and some of the older ones, too, have taken dubious pride in inscribing their names and sometimes other undesirable notations on the surface of the building until this week when I believe there must have been several hundred writings visible. Then there was the occasion several years ago when two school boys were reported to have done a little stenciling of their names on the building. Someone turned them in to the town officer who promptly went to school, brought the boys to the scene of the defacing and humiliated them publicly by ordering them to scrub their inscriptions off. But the unfairness of the deal was that the other numerous individuals, equally as guilty, remained untouched or unreprieved. Now that we have a fresh start it wouldn't be a bad idea to catch the first and also subsequent offenders and have them do a little erasing. It wouldn't take very long to break up this unsavory practice of defacing public, or for that matter, private buildings!

Mounties Will Begin Home Stand Saturday

Coach Bill Clarke's Mountaineers hope to improve their standing - Dixon Conference standing this week at the expense of Hampden-Sydney.

The Wednesday night tilt with Washington College at Chestertown was cancelled because of traveling conditions.

The Mountaineers will be at full strength Saturday for the first time this year with both Bill Stanley and Charley O'Donnell back in full time operation. Freshman Jack Sullivan continues to be the Mountaineer's heavy scorer with 139 points for 10 games, a 13.9 average. Sal Angelo with 131 keeps pace with Sullivan and continues to lead the team in rebounding.

Saturday night's fray with Coach Claude Milam's Hampden-Sydney Bengals shapes up as regular ding-dong affair. In the overall record the Mounties have beaten the Bengals three times and lost twice. All of the games have been decided by less than five points. While Milam has a rebuilding job on his hands, he can offer good height this season in 6'7 Russ Holcomb and in Warren Carter, and Don Humphrey's at 6'4.

In contrast to the past month's play which has seen the Mountaineers play nine of 11 games on the road, the Hampden-Sydney game opens up a long home stay.

Home Must Cooperate With School

Editor's Note: We take great pleasure in reprinting an editorial from the American Sororist magazine, written by a teacher on the faculty of Emmitsburg High School.

By Hazel K. Caldwell
A child, in order to be a well-balanced adult, must develop three ways—mentally, physically, and morally or spiritually. These may be developed by the three most important institutions in the world—the home—the Church—and the school.

Parents who send their children to Church or Sunday School for one hour a week and do not go themselves, cannot expect the moral or spiritual side of a child to be complete with that small amount of training. The home should teach and encourage the ideas of right and wrong, good manners, how to get along with people and inculcate good habits and ideals for life.

The school can teach the rudiments of behavior, the three R's, and good sportsmanship to a certain degree, but the home must augment that instruction, smoothing it down, leveling it out and filling up the chinks where the school leaves off.

Working parents are at a disadvantage because there is so much time between the hour the child returns home from school and the parent returns from work. Unless a household is well-organized and definite tasks to cooperate with the regime are worked out, time will hang heavily on the child's hands and mischievous results. There is where delinquency may start.

If parents are indifferent to the needs of the child aside from food, clothing and shelter, forgetting love, attention, training in attitudes of family life, the school is helpless. It can go just so far. The child is in school just six hours a day, he is home, supposedly, eighteen. Seeds may be planted in school, but must be assisted to grow and develop at home.

A teacher's magazine says, and we quote, "A community-wide program to combat juvenile delinquency can be measured by the extent to which every teacher is aware of the problem and is seeking to understand it and to do something about it." However, can the teacher and community do a good job without the sanction and assistance of the home? If there were the proper attitude and home environment, would there be the need of such a wide community program? Too many parents are so anxious about their own affairs, social and otherwise, that they forget to provide both entertainment and training for the children.

C. & P. Phone Project Here Is Costly

About $158,000 has been spent in providing the Emmitsburg District with dial telephone service, it was disclosed this week by a telephone company representative, Mr. Walter Lanus, commercial manager of Frederick.

The primary allotment for the project was not that high Mr. Lanus explained, but when different items cropped up that would add to better service, they were inserted into the original plans at additional cost.

Under plans confirmed last week by company officials, the local manual exchange will pass out of existence on January 27 and Emmitsburg will be put in line with other cities in improvement in local and long distance service. Two new exchanges have been created, those of Hillcrest, really Emmitsburg, and Hubbard, the old Tract Road line. It was explained that patrons are not to dial the first two letters of the exchange, but to dial only the last five digits. The call will go through, however, if the first two letters are dialed before the numerals, because selectors have been plugged to skip over the letters at the new exchange building which houses the "brain" of the dial equipment. The new building has been constructed and is located at the intersection of Potomac St. and Chesapeake Ave.

Mr. Roger P. Heck, local manager, announced that all outside cable has been installed and that the cut-over to dial service will take place at 7 a. m., on the morning of January 27. Patrons who are about to call at that time, say about 15 minutes to 7 o'clock, are asked to delay the call until after the deadline of 7 o'clock, as all calls will be cut off for a short period at that time for testing.

Following the cut-over customers will pay their phone bills at The Farmers State Bank.

Officials explained that all town patrons would have only one ring—their own, under the new system, and that rural customers, which at times had as many as 12 rings, would now have to contend with only one additional ring besides their own, regardless of the number of subscribers on the line. Local phone operators all have been offered employment by the company.

Emmitsburg now has about 600 phones in use and the old instruments will be taken out just as soon as possible after January 27. Patrons are asked to refrain from using the new dial instrument now in the homes and businesses as it interferes with installation crews at the new exchange building, who are currently installing and testing lines.

Lions Club Hears Phone Official

President Clarence E. Hahn presided at the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday evening in the Lutheran parish hall, 20 members and three guests in attendance.

Guests included officials of the C. & P. Telephone Co., which is currently installing the dial phone system in Emmitsburg. Present were Mr. Ambrose of Gaithersburg; Mr. Walter Lanus of Frederick and the local manager, Roger P. Heck.

President Hahn asked a more concerted effort of the membership committee to meet its quota of three new members during the month of January, which is an annual tribute to the founder of the Lions Club, Melvin Jones.

Capt. Philip B. Sharpe, program director, introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Walter Lanus, commercial manager of the C. & P. Telephone Co., who gave an interesting resume of events to date concerning the installation of dial phones in Emmitsburg. Following the regular business session a directors' meeting was held.

"OF A NUMBER OF THINGS"

(Note: Yes, this is the "Odds and Ends" column of the past two and a half years under a new and I am sure more appropriate title beginning with this New Year. So many things that were neither "Odds" nor "Ends" (which terms, as I explained recently, mean exactly the same thing, that being not much of anything!) have managed to get into the space that I did originally intend to devote to miscellaneous small items partly left over from the travel reports on Arizona, and I have had to apologize for these things as "digressions," which has been something of a strain. The new title, permitting the large and important subject as well as the small and relatively unimportant, or the connected series of reports as well as the unconnected paragraphs (or sentence) will relieve that strain.)

Just now, in this month following the Christmas Season with its rightful emphasis on a Child and so on all children everywhere, it seems especially suitable to go back to the great organization of United Nations for a "close-up" of one of its special service agencies, the one founded and since carried on in the interests of the world's children, the helpless innocent victims of some special disaster or of long-continuing conditions with which their communities could not cope unaided. This is the agency known the world over as UNICEF (one of the few initial names that can be pronounced, with the accent on the first letter; and it is well it can be, for the complete official name until quite recently was a good example of the cumbersome kind: United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund).

The reason for the founding of this special agency has just been noted in a general way, but what a combination of both harrowing and inspiring facts are revealed by specific details! There is the fact most directly leading to its formation, the same old dreadful story, hard to realize for those whose country has not been touched by the devastation of the aftermath of war. In the case of thousands and thousands of children in whatever countries were so stricken there was the sudden and shocking thrust into a completely different way of life, a life without parents in many cases, or other family members, without homes or schools or churches, without decent clothing or food; and there in other and sometimes the same cases was the sickness, physical and mental, brought on or aggravated by such disaster! And in the countries long under privileged which escaped World War II's ravages there were ignorance and superstition, lack of proper health-care facilities and of the means of fighting the diseases rampant among children and adults alike.

So much for the harrowing conditions existing in 1946 that gave a definite reason for establishing an international children's bureau. But who thought of this bureau as a means of relieving such conditions, and who felt the need of it so deeply and expressed it so forcibly as to arouse the interest and cooperation of United Nations' Member - governments, the only organized group thru which such a world-wide project could be undertaken? The answer is one of the inspiring facts. Two men brought together thru their work for an earlier and temporary UN agency which was being liquidated in 1946 (it was called UNRRA, the R's standing for Relief and Rehabilitation) were responsible for the idea and its translation into practical action: for the former, a Polish doctor, Ludwig Raychman, a great internationalist in child welfare; for the latter, the last chief of UNRRA and one-time mayor of New York, Fiorella La Guardia, fearless and fiery fighter for social justice. And the General Assembly of United Nations responded, in the Christmas month of 1946, setting up what was then called an "Emergency" Fund, intended to be directed first to especially acute conditions in post-war Europe.

But this decision by the General Assembly, while the first necessary step in the formation of UNICEF, did not put a new service organization, into action, for there was not as yet any actual working group or any funds to work with. Other inspiring facts enter here. Americans we can be proud of who helped with both of these necessities include both men and women. Among the former were Mrs. Roosevelt, always concerned over problems of human welfare, and the chief of our U. S. Children's Bureau, Katharine Senrost, "veteran administrator of programs and laws for the protection of childhood; among the latter, Republican and Democratic Senators Taft and Lehman, respectively, met on common ground in supporting bills in Congress for financial aid.

As to the problem of supporting funds for UNICEF, it is too bad.

As in the case of some other UN agencies, that some persons insist on saying what is not true, when the truth can so easily be found out—that UNICEF is not a "hand-out" or "give-away" agency and is never forced on countries that may not want its help. On the contrary, it gives aid only on a country's definite request and for a worthwhile project proposed by the country itself, and moreover the requesting country must always match UNICEF's aid "with local goods and services," and its own government has the responsibility of administering the project. It is also a fact that the so-called "matching" contribution from the country being helped is very often far beyond the amount of UNICEF's aid. In Vietnam, for example, last year, UNICEF's allocation of $40,000 worth of equipment for the country's first children's hospital sparked the Vietnam government's investment of $850,000 for building and the first year's operating expenses. The agency sets a "target budget" for itself each year, the lowest with which it feels able to operate under the terrific pressure of the world-need involved, but the UN makes no assessment for this on its Member-nations. Each nation's government decides whether it will contribute and how much.

The other source of UNICEF's income is from voluntary individual contributions. (No, there is one other source that may be called "beautiful" in more ways than one. For the last few years eminent artists of different countries have, on the UN's invitation, contributed striking original designs for a Holiday greeting card or UNICEF personal note card, which the UNICEF has had printed and sold and a good many, but surely not enough, people have bought here and in Canada, Australia, and parts of Europe. The estimated profit from these sales of a year ago was $60,000, a tiny amount in the light of the huge scale of UNICEF's activities but seeming larger when one learns what was done last year with an even smaller sum).

To return briefly to the story of how UNICEF was helped to get under way, there is the fact that the United States Congress voted the first government contribution ($15,000,000) in May, 1947, and that by the end of the first year 13 other governments had pledged contributions. And individual helpers also came from other lands: Dr. Borcic from Yugoslavia, with a background of remarkable accomplishment in public health work in his own land and in Greece and China (he became UNICEF's Chief Consultant); Mrs. Adelaide Sinclair, Canadian Deputy Minister of Welfare, and Mrs. Marguerite Strahler from Switzerland, after long experience with the International Red Cross; and other doctors and workers in social and business fields who abandoned their own specialties to serve UNICEF.

One country must have special mention for the special part it played in establishing UNICEF on a sound foundation. In spite of the terrific strains on her post-war budget, France volunteered to set up an International Children's Center "equipped to do research and training for the vast programs UNICEF was to launch," and did so, housing it in a beautiful chateau in Paris and placing a world-famous pediatrician at its head.

And now with the mention of the appointment of a world director of UNICEF, Maurice Pate, a Nebraskan businessman who gave up business (with which he had combined relief work abroad after both World Wars) to help carry out the UNICEF dream, I close this section of the UNICEF story. In a concluding section I shall try to tell the more enthralling part of it—what the agency has accomplished since the beginning here related with the financial support it has received (something that one concerned commentator has described as "mere chicken-feed" but that most of us will hardly think of under that term).

March Of Dimes Benefit Dance January 30

The March of Dimes drive in the Emmitsburg District is progressing at a fairly satisfactory clip Lumen F. Norris, local chairman said this week. Canisters are receiving a fair "take" it was explained, but to meet the extra high goal this year, results will have to move more rapidly than ever before.

Emmitsburg really owes a debt of gratitude to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and these citizens are asked to increase their contributions. In the past two years the Foundation has spent over $10,000 in this district, Emmitsburg, on the cases resulting from the epidemic experienced here two years ago resulting in seven cases and one fatality.

Mr. Norris asks that anyone individual or organization, interested in sponsoring some type of benefit for the drive, to contact him for additional assistance. Several businessmen have expressed the desire to stage some such promotion and clubs are asked to go all out to help the cause along. Also anyone wishing to make a private contribution can mail same to the local chairman.

Emmitsburg's goal this year, must be met by the end of the month, is $2,000 and Frederick County's quota is $20,000. Mr. Alton Y. Bennett, county chairman said this week.

The VFW Auxiliary is going all out in sponsoring a Mothers' March on January 27 and a doorto-door canvass will take place. Also on the morning of the 27th the Auxiliary will sponsor a benefit food sale in the new VFW annex at 10:30 a. m., the proceeds of which will go to the March of Dimes.

Announcement was made this week that a March of Dimes dance will be held in the Veterans of Foreign Wars annex on Saturday evening, January 30, with music for dancing provided by a local orchestra, Four Hits and a Miss.

Pvt. Peters is being taught the use of pioneer and power tools, construction of fixed and floating bridges and related subjects besides additional combat skills.

At the end of the 16-week training cycle with the famed "Super Sixth" the men completing training here will be sent either to specialist schools or as replacements to other units.

Attorney Tom Glass Appointed To Central Committee

Alton Y. Bennett, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee for Frederick County, has announced the appointment of Attorney Thomas S. Glass to membership on the committee. Mr. Glass succeeds Arthur Potts, elected to the committee, but who resigned some months ago.

Mr. Glass has resided in Frederick since 1947 and has been active in Democratic circles. He also operates a law office in the town of Thurmont and was Democratic campaign manager for Frederick County in 1952 and is a former president of the Young Democratic Club. For six months Attorney Glass served as trial magistrate in Frederick, an appointment made by Governor W. Preston Lane, to fill the unexpired term of Manuel Weinberg, who resigned because of ill health.

Mr. Glass also is chairman of the McCurdy Field Commission and has been interested in athletics.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Glass, Emmitsburg Rt. 2, announce the engagement of their daughter, Inus, to Richard Lohr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Lohr Thurmont. No date has been set for the wedding.

Free Drawing Attracts Large Crowd

Appreciation Day, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce and supporting businesses, rolled into high gear last week when the first of the weekly drawings took place on the local Square in front of Crouse's.

Ralph Irelan, president of the C. of C., reported that results were gratifying and that local merchants were more than pleased with the turnout, estimated at 150 and expressed confidence that better weather would induce an even larger gathering in the next few weeks.

The drawings will take place every Saturday evening until further notice as 22 firms have signed contracts to keep the affair moving for at least several months. Saturday's excellent attendance was construed as an indication that interest is widespread and warrants repeating the event for many months, depending, naturally, on the interest displayed by the general public. As far as increasing business, merchants said it was too early to determine any accurate results, but expressed the belief that it was "a good thing."

Recipient of Saturday's drawings were Miss Marlene Gargene, St. Joseph College, 83, and Clarence Umbel, Emmitsburg, $25.00.

It was understood that this week's jackpot drawing would be for $67. Only 50% of the jackpot can be won at any one drawing and the winner must be present to be eligible for the prize. Contrary to reports circulating about town, children are eligible to win prizes, President Irelan ruled this week.

By way of explanation to those who may have missed the first story concerning this promotion, Appreciation Day is sponsored by Emmitsburg businesses in an effort to show their appreciation for your patronage and each participating store or business will issue you free coupons with every purchase. These coupons are redeemable at any of the member stores or businesses for desired merchandise. Anyone, with the exception of course, of any of the member's families, are eligible to win. It is the intention of the promoters to draw additional business to town by offering coupons to the drawing.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Cong. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—Congress has settled down to work on what may be one of the most extensive legislative programs in history following President Eisenhower's memorable address on the State of the Union.

Hasty comment offered by some of the members of Congress who didn't have time to really study the President's message pretty much followed party lines. But after hearing the message delivered and studying its contents, certain impressions become outstanding.

First, I was pleased with the President's acknowledgment of Mr. and Mrs. Harbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glehn Harbaugh, Rocky Ridge, to Clyde William Topper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Topper, Emmitsburg, Md. 2, has been announced by her parents. No date has been set for the wedding.

Second, the State of the Union address seemed to be one of the most extensive discussions ever given before Congress by a President. He covered dozens of subjects—even discussing Federal responsibilities for interstate highway systems. I noticed this particularly because about three-fourths of our Congressional District is bounded by other states and the congested metropolitan area of Washington.

The President has asked that the Federal gasoline tax remain at its present 2-cent-a-gallon level in order to keep the Federal highway program in high gear. I am in favor of this because I think in our situation in Western Maryland the need for improved highways, particularly our main U. S. Routes 240 and 40, is so great we should be willing to pay this two cents a while longer.

President Eisenhower finished his speech by talking about some of the things a government can not do. Enterprise and ambition in our own people, he declared, as well as peace in the hearts of foreign rulers, must come from the individuals themselves. But, he continued, "a government can try, as ours tries, to sense the deepest aspirations of the people, and to express them in political action at home and abroad. So long as action and aspiration humbly and earnestly seek favor in the sight of the Almighty, there is no end to America's forward road."

which the child returns as a ship to its harbor, where mother is waiting to hear the events, good or bad, of the day, to smooth out the wrinkles, to coordinate the school with the home, to comfort, assuage, and interpret the activities of the day. Often, however, mother is at her bridge club, there is nothing of interest on radio, or TV. Companions, sometimes not of the best, are waiting for the child and out he goes, often to get into trouble. Can the teacher go home with him, amuse him, and keep him out of mischief? The teacher's jurisdiction ends with the limits of the school grounds, that of the home takes up where hers closes.

One thing to remember is that the child who is loved, wanted, trusted and given regular duties from his earliest years will not fall by the wayside. Home, Church and school must work together to show the child the path to love, faith and duty and if one side of the triangle fails, the burden upon the other two sides becomes greater.

Home, where there is understanding, love, cooperation, work and play can never be replaced by the school.

First Good Look at Daughter

Here's how Mrs. Margaret Turner, 26-year-old bulbar polio patient at Springfield, Mo. got the first good look at her new baby daughter, Patricia Irene. Mrs. Turner had been confined to a respirator before the baby was born. After delivery, the child was not permitted in the polio ward so press photographers solved Mrs. Turner's problem this way. March of Dimes aid for polio patients starts at the onset of the disease. More than 66,000 patients from former years will need continued assistance in 1954 in addition to cases stricken this year.

Towns Vie for Record Per Capita Contributions To March of Dimes with Auctions and Socials

The money to fight polio through the March of Dimes comes from all over the country—from small towns and counties as well as the big cities. While several of the largest cities contribute over a million dollars each, it is the small communities that set the records for per capita contributions. With the national contribution averaging 34 cents a person, here are some outstanding achievements of the last March of Dimes.

Melba, Idaho, with a population of less than 200, claimed the national title with raising almost $50 for every man, woman and child in the community. A day-long auction of contributed items ranging from cakes to calves enabled Melba to raise this high amount.

Oregon Town Beat Melba
The spirit that aroused Melba to new heights also worked in Izee, Ore.—population 43—when this village beat Melba's 1952 March of Dimes record of $27 per capita by raising $34 apiece at a basket social held Jan. 10, 1953. Basket socials used to be a way of courting or raising funds to hire a teacher for a new rural school. Now they have joined the fight against polio.

As small towns and villages set community records in the March of Dimes, sparsely populated counties also made per capita contribution records.

Mineral County, Nev. won the national title with a per capita contribution rate of $2.53 a person. Over $14,000 was raised among her 5,560 inhabitants. Jeff Davis County, Texas came in second with contributions averaging $2.21 a person.

Other Leaders
In the 10,000-and-under population class that made outstanding records were: Kiowa, Colo. with $1.75 per person; Mono, Calif. with $1.61; Sioux, Neb. with $1.53; Cameron,

The March of Dimes was $7,600 richer as a result of this Melba, Idaho auction featuring everything from sacks of corn to the kitchen sink.

Pa. with $1.49, and Ida, Iowa with $1.48.

These are just a few of the small counties that raised over a dollar per person to aid in the fight against polio. Whether small communities have bigger hearts or more intimate knowledge of the disaster of polio is not measurable. But their high per capita contributions are vital weapons in the battle to wipe out the disease.

During the 1954 March of Dimes it is a sheer necessity for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to raise 50 per cent more than last year. This increase can come only from greater contributions from everyone, in small communities and big cities alike.

New Prevention Program

In stressing the need for a bigger March of Dimes than ever before, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation said: "The new polio prevention program will be the hardest blow against polio we have ever struck. Wide-scale validity tests of a trial polio vaccine this year and the expanded use of gamma globulin as a stopgap protective measure in 1954 mark a dramatic advance. Like all advances, it is expensive, but the fight dare not be weakened when victory seems almost in sight."

Mr. O'Connor added, "No one knows just which community and county will wind up as 1954 March of Dimes champions in size of per capita contributions. But judging from past heart-warming performances, I predict it will be a town or village under a thousand and a county under ten thousand."

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Senator Joe McCarthy may have inadvertently set theme song of forthcoming Congress.

Recently McCarthy took stand U. S. taxpayers should not pay foreign aid to nations trading with Communists.

Secretary of State Dulles waxed indignant. This nation, he proclaimed, will not attempt to dictate to or coerce friendly nations.

However, a few days later, C.W. Harder in a talk directed specifically to an assembly of the Atlantic Nations Pact in Paris, this same Dulles warned that unless six nation army of European Defense Community is activated soon the U. S. will revise European policies.

Therefore, coercion of allies appears to be largely a matter of who is doing the coercing.

Among many students of the Washington scene, this little round robin is considered as added support for the Bricker amendment to take treaty making powers from the White House and transfer them to Congress to prevent waste of American blood and money on foreign adventures of which the American public does not approve.

From the standpoint of the worldwide boondoggling set, the "off again, on again" switch on coercion of allies came at a bad time as Congressmen are home among their constituents, thoroughly confused by official confusion on international policies.

Constituents are asking "Why so much concern with Timbuctoo when there are problems on Main Street?"

The facts appear that much of the problem besetting independent business is the lack of enforcement of anti trust laws.

The Federal Trade Commission, charged with investigation of anti trust law violations, is operating on a budget of $4 million, 100 thousand dollars, or $2 million, 400 thousand dollars less than the FTC considered necessary to do even a mediocre job. The majority of cuts are in the anti-monopoly branch.

Savings of about $2½ million could help the citizen's tax bill. But at the same time money is slashed from agency charged with protecting free enterprise in America, $345 million is given France to help her maintain colonial rule over Indo China.

FTC had a smaller staff in April 1953 than it had in 1918. Since that time further reductions lopped off 64 more people.

So far as can be determined, this constant whittling down of the FTC is not being protested by newly appointed Chairman Edward H. Rousey who formerly fought FTC rulings as a big rubber attorney.

There appears in the entire FTC situation too many coincidences to be believable.

For example, with complaints of anti trust violations at a high peak FTC strength is slashed.

Yet in a few short years State Department has grown from 900 employees to 42,000.

It is similar to a home owner economizing by cancelling his fire insurance while spending heavily for imported champagne.

In short, the new Congress might take stand their constituents are on Main Street, not in Timbuctoo.

Minute amounts of cobalt in a cow's daily rations help make it possible for the animal to produce its own vitamin B-12 requirements. Such cattle gain faster, have a better appetite and use feed more efficiently.

Despite some earlier opinions to the contrary, veterinary research workers have now proved that dogs can perspire. Only the heavy, hairless skin at the tip of the nose is without sweat glands.

THE INSECT HORDES

Fifteen years ago hordes of grasshoppers invaded the growing fields, the countryside and the communities of an area of Southern California. Crops were a total loss, trees were denuded, shrubbery killed. The hoppers crawled in masses across the land, billions of them moving like a stream of lava, consuming everything in their path. The people of the area were mobilized. They fought the destructive insects with burning oil, garden tools and brooms. It was a modern-day version of the locust plagues and the terrifying marches of the ants out of the pages of history.

But in the span of 15 years science and American industry have almost caught up with the insect scourge. Today such a grasshopper invasion could be blotted out by newly developed insecticides sprayed from low-flying airplanes. In fact, insecticides and techniques for using them have begun to raise farm production — both field crops and livestock — by an astonishing amount. The available new chemicals and those in the process of development, however, still have a big job to do in the control of insects.

Winning Battle Probably few people realize the extent of man's battle against the insect hordes. Man could still lose the battle, although in the past decade, thanks to America's chemical industries, he has definitely gained the upper hand. The insects have been on earth from the beginning. They outnumber man overwhelmingly, they outweigh all the animal life on the globe, and not a single species ever has been eradicated.

There are 82,000 insect species and 2,600 different ticks and mites at work in the U. S. A., multiplying, destroying vegetation and livestock, killing human beings, and generally making a costly nuisance of themselves. In 1952, they destroyed $4 billion worth of crops in the U. S. Their capabilities are almost beyond belief. Du Pont entomologists calculate that the accumulated production springing from a single pair of flies could, in a few months if nothing interfered, cover the earth with a blanket of flies three feet thick!

Key To Plenty Food to nourish the world's growing population is a tremendous world problem. Scientists working in America's great chemical plants believe that chemistry — and chemistry alone — holds the key to plenty for all mankind. In recent years they have produced evidence to bolster their beliefs — fertilizers made from inexhaustible chemical elements, insecticides which further boost farm productivity, and processes and techniques for preserving food stuff which only a few years ago was a perishable value.

The boll weevil has destroyed as much as $1 billion worth of cotton and nutritious cotton seed oil a year in America alone. The Hessian fly, chinch bug and other pests preying on America's wheat crop have been destroying millions of bushels of wheat annually. Corn earworms, borers and other insects have cut drastically into the productivity of the midwestern corn belt. Production of alfalfa, potatoes, fruits, vegetables, grains of all kinds, and livestock, has been crippled by the insect pests. We have the figures for America. For the whole world, the insect inroads on food production are staggering.

Great Vision Regardless of farm policy, of politics, of so-called land reform in the backward areas of the world, the productivity of an acre of land — in America, in China, India, Africa Europe or the Middle East — is of great importance. What ever makes it possible to double the production on each of the two-and-a-half billion acres now growing the world's food is greater boon to human progress than all the governmental economic blueprints ever drafted.

American industry, because it is free, competitive and dynamic, thus becomes a great world social force as it brings forth from its experimental laboratories the mechanical tools, the chemical fertilizers, and insecticides which promise to double and perhaps triple the productivity of the farm acreage around the world. Why can't the world's political leaders all catch the vision which shines from such progress? It is the vision of a free world and a world of plenty. And any nation can

DIAL TELEPHONE SERVICE

Effective 7 A.M., Wednesday, January 27

All numbers change When Emmitsburg gets dial telephone service on January 27, all telephone numbers will start with Hillcrest 7 or Hubbard 7. For example, Emmitsburg 9900 will become Hillcrest 7-3401. A special telephone directory, listing these new numbers, will be mailed to all Emmitsburg telephone users.

Faster, better service The change from manual to dial brings to Emmitsburg the latest type of telephone service. It will make it possible for us to fill those requests for service which we have been holding because of a lack of facilities. It will also enable us to reduce the maximum number of telephone users on rural lines from 12 to 8. Each telephone user on these lines will now hear only one other ring besides his own. If you have 4-party or 2-party service, you'll hear no ring other than your own. We're sure you'll welcome these improvements.

Dialing instructions When dialing local calls (from an Emmitsburg telephone to another Emmitsburg telephone) simply pick up the receiver, wait until you hear the steady hum of the dial tone, then dial all five numerals. For example, to reach Hillcrest 7-3401, dial 73401 — just five pulls of the dial. For all other calls, wait for the dial tone and dial Operator ("O"). However, when anyone calls you by long distance, it will be necessary for them to give the Operator the name and number — such as Hillcrest 7-3401.

IMPORTANT REMINDER Dial service does not become effective until 7 A.M., Wednesday, January 27. Until then, place your calls with the Operator as you have been doing, and continue to use your old telephone directory.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 14—There has been a lot of loose talk about the rise in the cost of living and the ability of people to buy. Many readers have asked for dependable facts. Here are the official government figures:

To a degree, whether people have money to buy depends on what they spend for their daily necessities. Living costs, without question, have been flattening out. From Jan. 1, 1952, to date, consumer prices have risen less than 2 per cent. This compares with a rise of 18 per cent in 1946, a 6 per cent jump in 1950, and a 4.5 per cent in 1951.

What makes these figures even more meaningful is the fact that, while living costs have risen less than 2 per cent since January, 1952, hourly earnings in all manufacturing industries have risen about eight per cent during that time. To have held prices down while wages have gone up is a great achievement on the part of manufacturers and merchants. Fewer Now Employed

If people are to have money to buy, they must have jobs. Although our labor force normally increases by about 700,000 persons a year—for whom jobs must be provided—1953 figures show very little change from those of 1952. This is because new workers (young people) entering the labor market in 1953 just about equaled the number of people who left it.

What is really happening? Some workers have left the ranks of the employed to retire. Some wives who have been holding down full-time jobs have decided to quit working out and to make a real home for their husbands. Many have not been replaced. These people do not swell the ranks of the unemployed; they simply deplete the ranks of the employed to whatever extent they are not replaced. Obviously, in retirement, also, is the fact that when a wife ceases to supplement her husband's income, that couple will have less money to spend.

Savings Beat All Records

There's another angle to our problem: How much money people have hidden away in their socks. It may surprise you to learn that the top 50 per cent of our families have readily convertible savings amounting to a staggering $97 billion. The bottom 50 per cent share $1 billion in liquid savings. Our people have built up a $200-billion equity in their homes, with but a $50-billion mortgage debt. Sixty per cent of our families own $38 billions' worth of automobiles. And 50 per cent of all families have a net worth greater than a year's income.

When the figures are all in, I am pretty sure that 1953 will prove to have broken all peacetime records for savings. People spent much less than they made in 1953. Cash or readily convertible assets saved in 1953 could have soared to better than $16 billions, compared with about $3 billions in 1949 and about 312 billions in 1951. Perhaps the mad rush to buy is over. This is a healthy sign. A Key To Prosperity

I like to see this trend, up to a certain point. However, too much money lying idle is bad for our economy. America, you see, is a country that actually develops its way to prosperity. And the way to keep prosperity is to keep raising our living standards higher and higher by creating more and more wants for more and more goods and services without proportionately increasing what people owe.

There are enough Americans who have money to spend in 1954 to hold business high. If, for example, the top 50 per cent of our families with their $97 billions continue to hold their purchases high, the lower 50 per cent will be kept busy producing. All groups will then have the funds necessary to satisfy their needs. We have a huge backlog of buying power. It's up to the sales and advertising brains of the country to get us to spend it.

Four State Farm Show Set For Hagerstown

The Farmers Committee for the seventh annual Four-State Farmers Meeting has announced as an important part of their program for this year's meeting, a panel of farmers and farm-equipment dealers, who are going to discuss the mutual problems of farmers and dealers in matters relating to farm machinery, repairs, parts and services.

In announcing this topic as a part of the program for the meeting, to be held in Franklin Court auditorium in Hagerstown on January 22, Farmers Committee President Herman Stockslager said that the dealers and the farmers believe that a discussion between them would do much toward helping both groups with their parts and service problems. He stated that with a better understanding made possible through the panel discussion, much could be accomplished in solving these problems.

Members of the panel will be: A. V. Krewatch, University of Maryland, moderator; Fred Ernst, Washington Co.; James Van Meter, Berkeley Co., W. Va., and Maurice Bowen, Clarke Co. Va., representing farmers. Representing farm-equipment dealers will be: Robert Remsburg, the Farm Equipment Center, Thurmont; Clyde Koons, Frederick Farm Store, Frederick and Leary G. Baker, Lupton's Farm Service of Hamilton, Va.

Malcolm H. McVickar, chief agronomist for the National Fertilizer Assn., will be the leadoff speaker in the afternoon program. His subject, "Selecting and Applying Fertilizers," has been selected because of its importance and universal interest to the farmers in the Four-State area.

In discussing this important item Mr. McVickar will give the methods of selecting the right fertilizer and applying correct amounts with proper machines to both grass and cultivated crops.

Among the list of distinguished speakers who will discuss topics are Walter D. Hunnicutt, National Dairy Products Corp.; T. B. Quackenbush, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture; Paul E. Nystrom, University of Maryland; Dr. C. W. Pierce, Penn State College; Harold Briemeyer, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture; Harold Haupt, Washington County farmer. These speakers will lead discussions concerning the subjects listed above, selected by farmers of the Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania areas.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

Last date for Grain Supports

Announced

Farmers holding 1953 crop wheat, barley, rye, oats and soybeans, for possible price support through government loan or purchase agreement were advised today that January 31 is the last day such applications may be filed. George J. Martin, Chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee of Maryland, in making the announcement stated that loan operations in Maryland for 1953 are substantially above the record of a year ago with wheat loans running particularly heavy. Loans to date have been placed on 1,967,022 bushels of wheat compared to 1,289,199 bushels at the same time last year. Dollar volume of loans in 1953 is $4,378,561 compared to $2,833,799 in 1952.

Corn, the other crop normally going under loan in volume, is eligible for loan through April 30. Farmers placing grains under loan receive immediate operating capital and still retain title to the grain until the loan maturity date, in most cases next May 1. If the price of the grain rises above the loan figure, the farmer has the opportunity of paying off the loan, selling the grain and pocketing any profit realized in the transaction.

Applications for price support loans or purchase agreements should be placed at the local ASC office in the county seat.

Rather Not Know?

'I'd rather not know,' said the ostrich, hiding his head in the sand when he saw the hunters.

He was an un-American ostrich. The American way is to want to know. No democracy could survive if everyone preferred not to know about crime and corruption. A good citizen looks the facts in the face, and then does something about them. But sometimes you'll hear a man who is a good citizen in every other way say that he'd rather not know whether he has tuberculosis.

It's a funny thing. You can't imagine his saying he'd rather not know he has mumps or small pox or the plague. Of course, the symptoms of those diseases would soon make him uncomfortable and he would head for the nearest doctor to find out what the trouble was. Our good citizen can have TB for some time without feeling or looking sick. So he is able not to know, until the disease has made serious inroads on his constitution and he is a very sick man indeed.

While his head has been in the sand, he has lengthened the odds on his recovery. It will take him longer to get well when he finally gets around to facing the facts. And, worse, he has endangered the health, the very lives of people near him — his wife and children, his neighbors, the people he works with.

Tuberculosis is contagious. Our ostrich citizen caught the germs from someone without knowing it. He can pass them on just as innocently.

It isn't difficult to find out the truth. If you will go to your doctor for a regular physical exam with a chest x-ray once a year, or as often as he advises, you can be sure that any signs of illness will be found. If TB should strike, it will probably be discovered before it has had a chance to do irreparable damage. In many communities, chest x-ray programs are carried on so that every adult has an opportunity to be x-rayed at little or no cost.

It takes only a few minutes to find out for sure that you don't have tuberculosis. A good citizen is not an ostrich.

from THE SPORTING NEWS

Major Ball for Coast Coastly

If and when the major leagues expand to the West Coast and take in Los Angeles, it will take a millionaire, and not some shoe-string operator to run the club, judging from some figures cited in The Sporting News. The cost of building a new park is estimated at $6,500,000 and the expense of annual operation will exceed $1,700,000, according to a survey by Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs and the Los Angeles Angels.

The rub comes from the fact that a major league club in Los Angeles will not be "an overnight bonanza," unless it develops into an immediate contender. But, as Wrigley pointed out, it is likely the team will have to start out with "culls, mediocre players and undeveloped youngsters," and the process of building up will take "a lot of time and money." Once the novelty of major league ball wears off and civic enthusiasm fades, promotion alone won't spin the turnstiles in Los Angeles, which is accustomed to "the use of flamboyant Hollywood techniques," the report added. "What would be startling and make a big splash in Cleveland would get yawns in Los Angeles."

That means the owner of a Los Angeles major league club can expect some lean years at the gate until he can produce a winner.

Rounding the Bases With Ol' Bobo

Bobo Newsom, one of the most colorful players in major league history, and certainly the most traveled, is the subject of a 3-part story now running in The Sporting News. Here is a humorous bit from the first installment:

When the Athletics traded Roger Wolff to the Senators some years ago for Newsom, Connie Mack described Bobo as "just a boy at heart." Newsom had a quick comeback. "Mr. Mack may be right," he said, "but this boy wants a grown man's wages."

Can Indiana Repeat? The hustling Hoosiers of Indiana, who won the Big Ten and National Collegiate Athletic Assn. basketball championships last season, are rated a good chance to win both titles again this year—unless history repeats itself.

According to The Sporting News the team that compiled a 23-3 record last season is back virtually intact with Dick Farley, Don Schlundt, Charley Kraak, Burke Scott and Bob Leonard as starters and Lou Scott, Paul Poff, Dick White and Jim DeaKvne as reserves. In addition, several "hungry" sophomores are on hand to press the veterans for their jobs.

Dissa and Data.

The Detroit Tigers will take 19 pitchers to spring training and, from this number, Manager Freddie Hutchinson hopes to find some who don't throw a gopher ball. The Bengal's hurlers yielded more home runs last season than any other staff in the American League, serving up 154 of the round-trippers. Ted Williams of the Red Sox, who hit .407 in 37 games after returning from Korea, increased his lifetime batting average to .3478 to pull 2.5 points ahead of Stan Musial of the Cardinals. Musial's career mark dropped to .3453 after The Man compiled an average of .337 last season. The years may be creeping up on Phil Rizzuto, but the Yankees are five-deep behind The Scooter in shortstop possibilities. Manager Casey Stengel's roster includes Willie Miranda, Andy Carey, Jim Brideweser, Jerry Coleman and Billy Martin, not to mention Mickey Mantle, who broke into organized baseball as a shortstop. Eddie Mathews, the home-run king of the majors, also was the error champion, committing 30 miscues at third base. Orestes Minoza, the Whitesox speedster, also is listed in the Dept. of Dubious Distinctions. He led the A. L. in stolen bases and, oddly enough, topped the circuit in grounding into double plays.

New York Fading

Some weeks ago The Sporting News asked: "Is television killing boxing?" The answer—"Yes"—was given in an article which pointed out, among a number of other things, that TV was killing off the small fight clubs all over the country.

Now The Sporting News follows up with another article declaring that New York is no longer the world's boxing capital, but is just a twice-a-week stop on the coaxial cable.

Once upon a time, native New Yorkers and visitors could see a live boxing show every night except Sunday, regardless of the season. Today there are only three fight clubs operating in the Big City—Madison Square Garden, St. Nick's and Eastern Parkway Arena in Brooklyn. And in most cases, they draw no more than a "studio audience" for their fight cards.

Gets Crack at Parker Jinx

Sixty-two of the National Football League's finest players, including seven of Detroit's world championship Lions and as many Cleveland Browns, will close out the long-winded pro season in Los Angeles Sunday. The occasion is the fourth annual Pro Bowl game, and some 40,000 fans are expected to sit in on the duel between the Eastern and Western Conference all-star squads in Memorial Coliseum. Besides presenting a parade of pro football's elite, the contest will afford an exasperated Paul Brown another chance to remove the "Indian sign" now held over his balding noggin' by Buddy Parker.

Never has Brown bested Parker on the field of battle—in seven tries. The Lions have chalked up six straight victories over Cleveland since Parker became boss in 1951 and in last year's Pro Bowl game the Parker-coached Western team won, 27 to 7.

Switch to Outfield Predicted

Gus Bell of the Reds doesn't believe that Milwaukee landed Danny O'Connell from the Pirates for second base, as many think, reports Oscar Ruhl in The Sporting News. "It wouldn't surprise me if the Milwaukee bosses want to switch Ed Mathews from third base to the outfield and use O'Connell on third," Bell says. "Despite the way Mathews socked home runs and drove in runs for the Braves last season, Milwaukee 'wolves' frequently made life miserable for Ed because of his fielding at third base. If Ed can switch to the outfield and make the grade defensively, he'd likely be a more valuable player than at third base, where O'Connell is a real master. That, of course, wouldn't solve the club's so-called problem at second base, but that isn't such a pressing problem. Young Jack Dittmer came along pretty good there last season and should improve."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wastler and son have moved from their apartment on E. Main St. to the house owned by Dr. W. R. Cadle on W. Main St.

Stretch to Health

It takes a lot of skilled care and hours of exercise for young David Payne of Los Angeles to fight his way back from polio. David's physical therapist, Jean Cummins of Orthopedic Hospital is teaching him to re-educate muscles damaged by the disease. Cummins' own training and David's after-care are paid for out of March of Dimes funds. The drive to fight polio is from January 2 to 31. Give generously.

'Hard Luck' Terry

Since he got polio in October, 1952, Terry Pledisalzzi of Madison, Wis., has had measles, pneumonia, influenza and chicken pox. Then he broke his leg. But he can still point to his record on the blackboard at Georgia Warm Springs and smile. The only good luck Terry's had is that there is a March of Dimes to pay for his care. The 1954 March of Dimes is from January 2 to 31.

16 Years of March of Dimes Services

Here's how your March of Dimes contributions were expended during the 16-year history of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. In 1954, there will be a new, costly and epic fourth front opened: Polio Prevention. It will include gamma globulin and trials of a test polio vaccine. Cost of this alone: $26,500,000. The other programs polio vaccine, too. This is why the 1954 March of Dimes must be the most successful ever. Contribute generously through the month of January.

4 Sisters Hit by Polio in 10 Days

Within ten days last May and June these four children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Hartley were stricken by polio at their farm home near Hudson, N. C. All except one were placed in iron lungs when they arrived at Asheville Orthopedic Hospital where March of Dimes funds paid for care for all four. Five-year-old Beth Hartley was stricken first. Then Mary Sue, 7; Doris Kay, 10, and Peggy Ann, 12. This year's March of Dimes will be held during the entire month of January.

SJHS News

The opening games of 1954 have not augured well for the boys' and girls' team alike. On January 6, the girls lost to Frederick High 34-8. Boys and girls alike, lost to St. John's High of Frederick, the boys by a 74-24 score and the girls by 31-10.

The recent blizzard did not prevent between 50 and 60 students from attending classes Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, even though the public school buses did not operate.

The star guard on the basketball team undoubtedly is versatile Dorothy Topper of Emmitsburg. "Dot," a Senior commercial student, is very active in school affairs as can be shown by her offices in various organizations: As vice-president of the Athletic Association, she carries also the position of captain of the team. Dot also is a student council member, CSMC member and a second soprano in the Glee Club. This 5'7" senior likes to bowl and to dance in her spare time. After school hours she is employed at St. Joseph College and after graduation she aspires to a secretarial position.

Standing 6'2", Bill will represent the team's tallest player and according to unofficial reports, he will be a valuable asset to the '53-'54 basketball team. Bill is very likeable, has a quiet and even-tempered disposition. This year he is the president of the Athletic Association and the vice president of the Junior Class. He has been a member of the CSMC for three years and a tenor in the Glee Club for two years.

During his second year Bill acted as president of his class. Along with basketball as an indoor sport, hunting and fishing as outdoor sports. Each afternoon after basketball practice, strains of ukelele music are heard coming from the locker room as Bill teams with Eugene Rosensteel, another ardent lover of ukelele music. Bill participates in many other extracurricular activities, but he will stand firm and maintain that he has no time to be bothered with girls. Being an academic student, he humbly admits that geometry is his favorite subject.

Johne's disease of cattle, which causes an animal loss of about $500,000 annually, is reported to be on the increase. Diagnosis of the disease is possible by means of an agent known as johnin, which is employed in the same way tuberculin is used to spot tuberculosis.

OUT OF GODFREY TEABAG

I'd like to join you in a cup of tea, but YOU get in first.

A fella asked a bartender for a Martini — 3 parts of gin to 1 part vermouth. The bartender said, "A dry Martini, 3 to 1. Do you want a twist of lemon peel in it?" The customer replied, "If I wanted a lemonade, I would've asked for it."

I fell in love with my sixth grade teacher, but it was an ill fated romance. It would never have worked — I was older than she.

Pat was in bed, dying. In his last hour his wife, Bridget, came up and wiping a tear from her eye, asked, "Pat, is there any last request that you'd like to make? Ask anything at all, Pat, and I'll see that you get it." And Pat opened his eyes and sniffed feebly, "Sure, 'n' I'd like a bit of that ham I smell cooking downstairs." "A devil a bit of that ham you'll get," she says, "that's for the wake."

They've got a brand new game over at Murphy's Idle Hour Cafe — three guys go into the back room with three quarts of whiskey and they each drink a quart, and then one of them leaves. The other two guys sit around and try to guess which one of them left.

MAN ON THE GO!

By Alex Dreier
(Noted war correspondent, award-winning newscaster)

The man of the hour is the one whose wife yells, "Wait just a minute."

One advantage of being married is that you don't make a fool out of yourself without knowing it.

News should be presented in the way a good hostess offers a tray of hors d'oeuvres — an attractive arrangement, plenty of variety, then complete freedom of choice.

Jet planes have passed the speed of sound . . . and are fast approaching that of gossip.

The cost of living is not nearly so high as the cost of enjoying living.

Scandal is like an egg—when it is hatched, it has wings!

(Heard on "Man on the Go," NBC radio network, five times a week.)

Cattle raisers should see that supernumerary teats are removed from calves at four to six mos. of age. If done by persons skilled in surgery the operation should produce no complications.

Dogs have tooth troubles, too. The most important diseases of dogs' teeth are pyorrhea, cavities and inflammation of the dental pulp.

Modern surgical advances have now made veterinary surgery possible on many over-age older pets — even serious operations which a few years ago would have been impossible

LADY KILLER OF 1954

IT'S A BUMPER BABY CROP FOR 1954 with the polls indicating the arrival of some 400,000 new glamour boys and girls right after the first of the year. 3½ million babies were born in 1952, 7,000 more in January alone appeared in 1953 than in 1952 and the indications for 1954 look like both those records will be beaten.

Ideal way to say "Merry Christmas" to New Year's mothers and these new arrivals is to fill layettes with Playtex Baby Needs—without neglecting one or two-year oldsters.

Playtex Drypers for infants threaten to scratch the word diaper from the dictionary. This modern panty with disposable, flushaway pad makes baby changes faster, easier, cleaner for mother — cooler, more comfortable, safer for infants. Mother's hands never touch the soiled pad; it's simply shaken out of the soft, nylon webbing of the waterproof Dryper Panty and flushed away. The snug fitting pads help protect baby from diaper rash and chafing heat irritations. Dryper Panty's exclusive waist flaps prevent wetness from spreading—keep clothes and bedding dry. To prove to mother that there is a Santa Claus, include the fabulous Drypers and pads in all Christmas layettes.

You don't have to know the secret word, but you should know that Playtex Baby Oil, Cream and Powder contain a tested, antibacterial wonder drug that stops diaper rash. Older tots love this bland cream and oil, too, because it leaves skin so silky-soft, keeps it chap free. The deodorizing powder is a pleasant, sure way for babies of all ages to stay sweetly fresh, dry, comfortable. (ANS)
