—BY ABIGAIL

While things appear dead here, industrially speaking, another front is about to open up and the fireworks are about to begin! I have in mind the coming gubernatorial election which also sees most of the county offices up for either refilling of old faces or supplanting them by new ones.

For a long period of years now we have been sadly lacking in obtaining local candidates for elective offices. However, there appears on the political horizon possibilities that maybe two Emmitsburgians will toss their hats into the political arena in competition for elective positions.

I was extremely happy to hear that genial Sam Hays was in the running and I personally feel that his aggressive and intelligent type is just what the doctor ordered for a county commissioner to represent the north end of Frederick County. In addition to Sam being in the race, I am told that another local young politician will soon announce his candidacy for a different office, and incidentally from a different party. Well, to get things off to an early start, I am advocating that we wholeheartedly endorse and vote for these two local candidates and work extra hard for their election, regardless of party ties or affiliations. What we are mainly interested in here is getting an Emmitsburgian, a native son, regardless of his affiliations. We have been ignored for too long a period in this section of the county and I feel certain that most of you will agree with me that something can and will be done about it if and when we have our own representatives in office. Let's get behind them 100% folk and put 'em in!

Apparently we have a laundry bandit on the loose here in town. For the second time in a short period, a local family has been stripped of a good deal of its clothing and bedding. The nasty part of the situation is that the man of the house is at present unemployed and it certainly must impose a hardship on the individual. A thief cleaned the washline of most of the family's possessions again last week. The humorous angle of the deal (if there is any) is the fact that the theft occurred both times (of all things) right beside the police department office in the Fire Hall!

The town looks right smart these days. A goodly number of houses has been recently, or are being at the present time, freshly painted, and with the newly-paved highways, presents a neat, spic and span appearance to motorists travelling through. I was deeply sorry to see my favorite entertainment spot, the Gem, close for the summer. Let's hope it gets under way as scheduled in the fall, and does a prosperous business. We certainly don't want to lose our local theater yet! But then I guess that pretty weather, television and drive-in theaters are making tremendous inroads to the boxoffices of small town theaters. Anyway, the management says it will reopen again in the fall. Let's hope so!

My sympathies to the family of affable "Bill" Bollinger. A long-time friend and a fellow who was liked by all, "Bill" left a host of friends this week when the Grim Reaper called him to his eternal reward. We'll certainly miss him on South Seton Avenue.

I am anxiously awaiting the outcome of the parking meter "test." It has been decided to abandon operations on Saturday evenings for a period of 30 days to determine whether the meters are detrimental to local business. Seems as though quite a hulla-balloo occurred a month ago when the meters were put into operation on that evening. Many citizens are about to conduct their own private survey and will watch the cars, how many and who, abuse the privilege of not having to pay for parking space after 6 p. m. on Saturday evening. All kinds of predictions are being offered as to the harmful or beneficial effects of the test. I hope we have the answer at the end of the 30 days, but I am a little leary of the outcome. Oh well, the best of luck fellows. I suppose it is the only fair or democratic way of doing things.

Trout Season Opens Thursday Morning

Ten thousand legal-sized trout will be swimming in Frederick County streams when the season opens on April 15, Regional Game Warden Benjamin F. Phebus said this week.

The stocking of streams already has started in the Frederick-Carroll-Montgomery County area supervised by Phebus. The warden said the trout, mostly rainbows, are larger than average with some running between 14 and 15 inches in length. The average cost of the fish is 75 cents.

As usual Big Hunting and Fishing Creek will receive the heaviest stockings for the season's inaugural. Each stream will be stocked with 3,000 fish.

Two thousand are assigned to Middle Creek, with 1,500 in Friend's Creek and 500 in Little Hunting Creek. Phebus said all the trout allocated to Little Hunting Creek will be released for the opening next Thursday.

Rock Creek in Montgomery Co. is being stocked with 2,000 trout for the opening and will receive two or three more stockings before the end of the season. Phebus said. One thousand trout are assigned to Piney Branch and Beaver Run in Carroll County.

Frederick County will receive about 30,000 trout this year, about the same as last season. Periodic stockings will be made until Memorial Day the warden declared. Big Hunting Creek again is restricted to the use of artificial flies. Any type of bait may be used on other county trout waters. The daily creel limit is five fish, seven or more inches in length.

The fish that are released for the inaugural will have to satisfy anglers over the Easter holidays. There will not be another release of trout until the following week.

Samuel C. Hays Is Candidate For County Commissioner

SAMUEL C. HAYS

An Emmitsburg businessman filed Wednesday morning with the Supervisor of Elections for a county office, subject to the Republican primary election to be held on June 28.

Samuel C. Hays, local popular businessman, officially this week announced his candidacy for the office of County Commissioners and is the fifth candidate to file for the job. For some time now a large number of local residents have been beseeching Mr. Hays to run for the office, and it was not until late this week that he made up his mind to do so.

Other contestants in the race at the present time are Robert R. Rhoderick, incumbent; Claude R. Crum, Walkersville; Samuel Royer, Thurmont; A. Irvin Renn, Frederick, and Mr. Hays.

Mr. Hays has been active in local politics for many years and enjoys a wide circle of loyal supporters and friends.

Mr. Hays was born in Emmitsburg where he attended grade and high school. He was graduated from Lafayette College as an administrative engineer in '31. Returning to his native Emmitsburg, he worked with his father in the plumbing and heating business until the death of Mr. Hays, Sr., in 1934.

A year later, Mr. Hays became president and general manager of the Emmitsburg Water Co., and still is serving in that capacity. He was owner and operator of a 225-acre dairy farm near here and maintained a herd of 70 cows. He has wide experience in ownership and operation of heavy construction equipment.

The candidate is a past president of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce; past president of the high school alumni assn.; past president of the PTA of the public school and is president of the Emmitsburg Municipal Band.

Mr. Hays practices the Presbyterian faith and is now serving as president of the board of trustees of the local Presbyterian Church. His father, Thomas C. Hays, was a life-time resident of Emmitsburg and a very active Republican worker. He was the owner and operator of the firm of J. T. Hays & Son, which served the needs of a large portion of Frederick County for many years, having been established in 1856.

The candidate's wife is the former Mayme S. Eyer of Thurmont and the couple has three children, one at Lafayette College, one in high school and one in grade school.

Three Cars Involved In Saturday Evening Wreck

Three cars and a store front were damaged Saturday night at about 9:40 o'clock in an unusual accident in W. Main St.

State Trooper Donald B. Tucker said a Ford sedan operated by Wilbur Truman Smith, near here, was going east on W. Main St., when it struck the rear of a Fraser sedan operated by Donald Albert Smith of near Fairfield, which was pulling from a parking space along the curb.

The impact caused Wilbur Smith's car to bounce across the street into the front of the Matthews property tenanted by Zurgable Bros. furniture store. A support post in front of the store was knocked down. Damage to the store was estimated at $100 and to the cars about $800.

Mrs. Donald A. Smith, a passenger in her husband's car, was treated by Dr. C. R. Williams for lacerations of the left leg. Trooper Tucker said charges would be filed against both drivers involved.

Parking Meters Go Off At 6 P. M. Saturday

As the result of a divided opinion rendered Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Commissioners of Emmitsburg, parking meters will cease operation in Emmitsburg at 6 o'clock on Saturday evenings.

The decision comes just five weeks after the meters were ordered placed in operation Saturday nights. Appearing before the Council was a group of local businessmen which maintained that the meters were producing harmful effects to business as a result of operating on Saturday evenings.

After a lengthy round-table discussion between the two groups, Council took a vote on the matter. Two commissioners voted for discontinuance of the meter operation, and one commissioner dissented. Mayor Rodgers did not vote, being only able to do so in case of a tie.

As a result, a probationary period was established and for 30 days the meters will not operate on Saturday nights, as a test to determine just what harmful effects were being produced. Following that interim, a final decision will be made either to operate the meters on Saturday evening or to permanently discontinue the operation at that time.

Dr. George Green was the only local citizen to appear in behalf of the meters, citing the disadvantages of shutting them off on Saturday evenings.

Town Clerk Louise Sebald presented the regular monthly reports of the tax collector, treasurer, and secretary, in addition to the annual financial statement (published elsewhere in this paper), all of which were approved as presented. Miss Sebald was highly commended on the excellent financial statement, by the Council. It was announced that a trifle over $3000 was realized from the parking meters during the year.

Requests to provide more in-loading time for local business places and to have the town parking lot improved were discussed, but no action was taken on the matters. Parking meter revenue for March was placed at $374.

Four street lights will be erected in the near future in Alley 14 which runs north of and parallel to W. Main St., and one on Chesapeake Ave. in the vicinity of the Toor Shoe Factory.

Council authorized the following donations, Vigilant Hose Co., $1000; Emmitsburg Baseball Assn., $100, and the Municipal Band, $100. A thank you letter from the Public Library for a recent donation was read.

Council was informed that the fire hydrant in front of the Fire Hall was badly in need of repairing. Workmen were ordered to raise a man-hole cover in the alley back of the James Arnold property. The cover had sunk and was creating a menace to vehicular traffic.

Council announced that a registration of new eligible voters would be held on Tuesday, April 20, from 2 to 7 p. m. in the Fire Hall. Registrants will be Charles D. Gillelan and J. Everett Chrismier. The registration is held annually prior to the town election which will be held on May 3 this year.

Council ordered a quantity of white pine trees to be planted around the town disposal plant on Creamery Rd.

Tree Program

Reaches Goal

Frederick County will observe Arbor Day today with more than 215,000 trees ordered for planting this Spring and success assured for the Spring phase of its 1954 tree planting program.

The County Forestry Board announced that only about 10,000 more trees will be available from its quota for Spring planting. The 1954 tree planting goal is 250,000 trees, of which the Spring quota is 225,000.

Tree planting should be completed by May 1 to avoid hot weather, the Board said. Ten days to two weeks' time must be allowed between the time of order and date of delivery.

Of the 215,000 trees ordered, 190,000 have been delivered and more than half have been planted, Jack Karnig, forester, reported. Trees are obtained from the State Dept. of Forests and Parks nursery at Harmons.

Mr. Karnig urged tree planters to follow planting instructions carefully to assure maximum growth of trees. Instructions are supplied with each order of trees. Foresters recommend that seedlings be put in the ground not over one inch above the first lateral root and be spaced from six by six to eight by eight feet apart.

Trees planted this year will be suitable for use as Christmas trees in six to 10 years, when the stands should be thinned.

In about 15 years, trees are suitable for such purposes as fence posts. When treated with a chemical called pentachlorophenol, commonly known as penta, white pines make hardy, long-lasting posts. The penta treatment is less expensive and easier than the creosote treatment. Other values of trees are for timber purposes after 15 years and to hold soil and moisture.

About 20,000 acres of Frederick County are best suited for growing trees rather than any other crop, the Forestry Board said. The acreage includes cut-over land, slopes too steep for cultivation or pasture, eroded areas, and watersheds subject to rapid surface run-off.

Arbor Day observances throughout the county today will include plantings by youth groups as well as farmers. Individual trees will also be planted in yards and on public grounds. In addition, special programs will take place at school and group meetings.

BURSITIS

"Anyone can do it," the man said. So you painted the living room walls and ceiling yourself. It looked fine, too, but next day you had a painful shoulder that just about ruined all your pride of achievement. You decided, perhaps, that you weren't made for that kind of work, and, in a way, you were right. It's one of the many troubles we made for ourselves when we decided to get up on our hind legs and use our front paws for hands.

Hooked up between your shoulder blade and the big bone of the upper arm is a little muscle with a job that is sometimes too big for it. Its long name—supraspinatus—isn't much help when it has to work all day keeping the arm bone in its socket against the pull of gravity. Holding the arms up and out puts a constant strain on the muscle and its tendon. And every arm movement we make pinches the tendon between the shoulder blade and arm bone.

So you see, it wasn't surprising that the unaccustomed work of painting gave you a painful shoulder. Acute bursitis usually cures itself quickly, but it can develop into a condition that disables its victims for months or years. We tend to baby the sore shoulder, when the best cure, is to keep it moving. Lack of motion may cause adhesions to form, and then the shoulder becomes practically frozen in its socket.

Of course, every painful shoulder does not mean bursitis. The safe course is to consult your doctor if shoulder pain does not clear up quickly.

As an exercise for bursitis doctors frequently suggest bending over with the arm relaxed and then swinging it like a pendulum from front to back, side to side, and round and round. You can do this in a bending position even though, standing straight, you couldn't move the arm because of the pain. You may feel foolish, but in a few weeks your shoulder will probably be as good as new.

Soldier Has Rare Experience

Army I. c. Joseph B. Ohler of Taneytown, recently experienced a moment of gratitude not often realized in the life of a company mail clerk.

During a recent inspection of all mail rooms in the 17th Infantry Regiment, Pvt. Ohler passed with a very high rating.

In addition, Ohler's mail room was cited as an example for the rest of the division mail rooms. Its superiority, neatness, originality, protective measures against theft and overall efficient supervision drew praise from the 7th Division inspection team.

Pvt. Ohler is stationed in Korea and his mother, Mrs. Virgie M. Ohler, lives on Rt. 1, Keymar.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Apr. 8—President Eisenhower and his Cabinet will not be the most important people of 1954. And this same statement can be made regarding bankers and other big shots. Conditions often make presidents, but presidents cannot make conditions. Sales Clerks Determine 1954 Employment The most important people during 1954 will be those now employed as salesmen, and especially the sales clerks in your stores. In previous years these people have not been so important; they served largely as "order takers," wrapping parcels and making change. But, conditions in 1954 will be different. They must create sales.

Fundamentally, prosperity and good times depend upon employment which supplies the money to buy. But manufacturers cannot furnish employment without orders for their goods. The orders depend upon the men and women at the counters of the stores. Prosperity or depression starts with the salesmen and sales clerks.

What About Advertising?

I am a great believer in honest advertising. A merchant's success is very dependent upon his advertising. Advertising bears the same relation to profits for the merchant as fertilizer does for the farmer. Still, the farmer cannot depend solely upon his seed and fertilizer. He must cultivate, spray, and gather his crops.

The same is true of advertising. Although advertising is absolutely necessary and much more of it should be used in 1954, yet merchants cannot expect it to take the place of hard work. Customer need to be cultivated the same as do crops. Advertising will help get people into the store and interest them in certain products; but the sale must be made by a man or woman employee.

My Father Was a Storekeeper My father kept a dry goods, not only, and sort of "variety store" in Gloucester, Mass. I worked in this store on Saturdays and during winter vacations. My father was very successful with this store, starting with nothing and becoming the leading merchant of Gloucester and vicinity.

He used to say to me: "Rogers, when you grow up, either become a merchant or invest your money in good merchandising organizations, rather than in railroads or industrial promotions. A merchant with a fair turnover has nothing to fear and can always make money." But, my father was a good worker, at the store from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m., six days a week.

Knowing Every Customer My father was a deacon in the local church; he had a large Sunday School class. He was very much interested in knowing and helping people. There were no such things as card files in those days; but he kept a book listing the children of each customer and, especially, listing cases of sickness. Then, there were no trained nurses. Neighbors would volunteer to "watch" at night with the sick, accepting, of course, no pay. Every week my father would be away some night watching by the bedside of the husband of some humble customer.

Father trained his clerks to get truly acquainted with everyone who entered his store. He would constantly check on the clerks—not by asking: "Did you make a sale?" but by asking: "How many children has that woman? Is there illness in the family?" He not only was the city's most successful merchant, but at his funeral the church could not hold the people who loved him and who loved all who ever worked for him. He didn't have a private office up a flight of stairs in the back of the store. His desk was by the door so he could say "Good Morning" to all as they came in, and "Good Luck" after they left. Sales are made through feelings rather than through figures.

A Suggestion I forecast that if all the Chambers of Commerce would operate properly led night schools for their local sales clerks, national purchasing would so increase that there need be no unemployment, the Federal budget could be balanced, and taxes could be reduced. America does not need more money, but it needs more confidence and friendliness so that the money we have will circulate more freely and more often.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Cong. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, Apr. 7 — Top news this week is the Administration's bill to admit wiretapping evidence in Federal courts, cleared last week by the Judiciary Committee, of which I am a member, for floor debate.

It only applies to cases involving treason, sedition or subversive activities. Contrary to a widespread impression, wiretapping itself is not now illegal or unconstitutional. The Federal Communications Act does make it illegal to divulge information obtained from wiretapping. The current bill will change that law to make it okay to divulge the information in court.

This is not a new idea. Most states have laws permitting wiretap evidence in criminal cases. The Administration feels it needs such a law as a strong point in its new "get tough" policy regarding subversives.

J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI Director, says there are a number of incomplete espionage and treason cases which could go to grand juries with good results if the wiretap evidence concerning them could be used.

The House debate centers around a procedural matter — whether the Attorney General or a Federal judge should be the one to sign an order permitting the wiretapping. Some have argued that individual rights will be better protected if the permission is sought from a court. But the Attorney General and the FBI feel this might take too long when a quick decision is necessary. They're also afraid too many people would be in on the essential secret if the courts came into the picture. Weighing the arguments, and with slight misgivings, I have concluded that the way to tap wires to obtain evidence is with the express, written approval of the Attorney General.

This gives our law enforcement agencies another important scientific weapon in tracking down crime. We should remember that traitors and subversives use science, too, as shown in Attorney General Brownell's testimony about secret government documents having been microfilmed and processed for transmittal to Russian agents in a laboratory in the basement of a Treasury Dept. employee's home right here in Washington.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Existence of hydrogen bombs capable of devastating the largest cities in the world has now been confirmed.

To those of us who once considered the atom as indestructible, and used the phrase "smashing atoms" only as an exaggerated comparison, the reality of seemingly unlimited power is difficult to accept.

Yet we must not only accept the existence of such power, realizing its potential for war or peace, but also accept the burden of responsibility among the free nations for producing and utilizing this new power.

Military secrecy keeps most of us from learning very much about this new form of energy, and nine years after the first bomb was dropped we still regard the atom as primarily a military weapon and have little concept of its peacetime uses.

Our national security depended on keeping atomic information from the Soviet Union, and after they achieved the capacity of constructing an atomic bomb the government immediately proceeded with research into the possibilities of a hydrogen bomb.

Reports from the test areas in the Pacific, elaborated on at a Presidential press conference by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, are that the new H-Bomb compares to the atomic bomb roughly the way the old TNT explosive did to the atomic bomb.

The most encouraging part of Mr. Strauss' statement was his conclusion, "Finally, I would say that one important result of these hydrogen bomb developments has been the enhancement of our military capability to the point where we should soon be more free to increase our emphasis on the peaceful uses of atomic power—at home and abroad. It will be a tremendous satisfaction to those who have participated in this program that it has hastened that day."

President Eisenhower in his address at the UN pointed the way to peaceful uses of atomic energy and Mr. Strauss' statement shows that, because of the rapid work done in development of the A-Bomb and the H-Bomb, the day when this newly discovered energy can be used for other than warlike purposes is much nearer at hand.

The taxpayers would have been reluctant to finance, and the government hesitant to sponsor, a costly research project which had no promise of success except through the pressure of war—the

The Sporting News
by J. G. Taylor Spink

Which rookies made the best impression in major league camps this spring? Here they are, as revealed by a poll of The Sporting News correspondents:

Bill Tuttle (Detroit Tigers)—Yankee Doodle dandy from Peoria, Ill. Born on July 4 and is 24. Best range in centerfield since Johnny Groth... exceptionally strong throwing arm... troubled by curve ball in spring training, but has good power to both fields... Hit .276 last season at Buffalo with 11 homeruns and 75 fact that we did spend the billions and billions necessary produced a military weapon now vital to our defense, and as President Eisenhower said in his message to Congress, industrial power from atomic energy sources "is clearly in sight—largely a matter of further research and development, and the establishment of conditions in which the spirit of enterprise can flourish."

So far we have considered and used the potential power of the atom as a military weapon. Mr. Strauss has now said that we are approaching the day when our military requirements will be met. Atomic power—developed under the impetus of war—has now been perfected to the stage where we can build a bomb to do any job desired. We must now realize its peacetime potential.

President Eisenhower has submitted recommendations to Congress which would encourage and speed the domestic development of atomic energy. His recommendations will, he said "help make it possible for American atomic energy development, public and private, to play a full and effective part in leading mankind into a new era of progress and peace."

The day we ride on a train driven by power from the atom, or flick a switch and use electricity which comes from an atomic power plant, we will undoubtedly be much better equipped to accept the realities of the atomic age.

ribs. If he can hit .250 for Detroit, Briggs Stadium will have fine new centerfielder.

Frank Bolling (Detroit Tigers)—Kid brother of Milt Bolling, Red Sox shortstop. Frank at 22 is 15 months younger than Milt. Charley Gehring regards Frank as best defensive second baseman to come up to Tigers since World War II, which virtually means since Gehring, says The Sporting News. Frank is 6-1 and weighs 175 pounds. Batted .318 last year in 57 games for Buffalo.

Dick Tomanek (Cleveland Indians)—Nicknamed Bones because he eats and eats and can't put on weight. Is a shade over six feet tall, weighs 178, age 23. Dad said he would walk the 20-odd miles to Cleveland Stadium to see his son pitch if he ever made big leagues. Had to carry out that promise last summer when Dick made his debut against the Tigers and beat them on 6 hits. Southpaw, best pitch a fast ball that sinks.

Curtis Roberts (Pittsburgh Pirates)—24-year-old infielder from Denver (Western League). First Negro player on Pirate roster. Three years in Western, batted .281, .280 and .291 last year. Fine glove man, says The Sporting News and good leadoff batter. Drew 94 passes with Denver in 1953. On small side at 5-8 and 165 pounds.

Ed Bailey (Cincinnati Reds)—Regarded as best catching prospect Reds have had in years and years. At 6-2 and 202 pounds, he's shortest male member of his tribe of Baileys to grow around Strawberry Plains, Tenn., for years, but also the heaviest. Bats left with more power than the .243 average he rang up in 485 swings in 147 games for Tulsa (Texas League) last year indicates. His 118 hits included 26 doubles, four triples, and 21 homers. Voluble talker, says The Sporting News, and rip-snorting man back of bat.

Harry Agganis (Boston Red Sox)—Lefthanded hitting first baseman who is better known as an All-America quarterback from Boston University. Larry played only one season of baseball, that with Louisville (American Assn.) a year ago. He hit lightly under .300 and drove in 100 runs, points out The Sporting News. He's a 6-1, 200-pounder.

Alex Grammas (St. Louis Cardinals)—Trim, pleasant son of Greek ancestry, is a graduate of Mississippi State College. Batted .327 for Muskegon (Central League) in 1949, but at Memphis (Southern) and Tulsa (Texas) next three years he posted averages of only .223, .254, and .243. On option at Kansas City, Golden Greek boosted mark to .307 and was named shortstop on American Assn. all-star team. He's just turned 26, 6 feet tall, weighs 180.

Mickey Micelotta (Philadelphia Phillies)—Rookie infielder from Terra Haute (Three I-League) who found his batting eye when he donned glasses last year. Batted .297, made 15 homeruns and 72 ribs. Can play second, short or third. Is a holler guy and good fielder, says The Sporting News.

Connie Mack forges the White Sox and Indians fighting for the '54 American League pennant, with the Yankees finishing third, says The Sporting News.

Pat Monahan's definition of spring: "When the days get longer and the underwear gets shorter," gets The Sporting News crack-of-the-week award.

When Dusty Rhodes reported to the Giants this spring, reports The Sporting News, he was assigned to room with Bobby Hofman, the team's classiest dresser. Rhodes was the worst, until he began climbing into Hofman's clothes. This was Bobby's com-

Ball and Chain Debt

Debts that hang on are like a ball and chain around anyone's neck. This is true with the individual, the family, the business, and with local, county, state and national governments. As this column is written, the Finance Director of our Arkansas state government has just announced that by 1970 the last $100 million of our state highway debt will be paid off. When the last bond is redeemed on that date there probably will be a state-wide celebration and every man, woman and child will have a great sigh of relief. The state will have broken its chains of debt.

Arkansas' borrowing to build highways would have been all right had it been kept within reasonable bounds and had the money been spent wisely, without political considerations. But it wasn't. The big borrowing started nearly 30 years ago. First one governor and then another discovered the political magic of floating bonds to get things done without having immediately to tax the people for it. The money was spent loosely and sometimes with political design rather than wisdom.

Nose to Grindstone

Quickly our state was $150 million in debt. When unexpected hard times came, Arkansas defaulted—it couldn't meet the terms of its debt contract, and for a short time the bondholders were in serious jeopardy. The temporary injury to the state affected the welfare of every citizen. Then, 15 years ago, Arkansas refunded its highway-bonded debt and began a stiff program of debt liquidation. But under this program our debt service has been so heavy (interest and principal payments) we haven't been able to keep pace with the wear and tear on our highways.

That's why our citizens can look ahead with unbounded gladness to 1970 and the throwing off of the ball and chain of this debt. With our bonded debt out of the way, the tax revenues thus released can be used to improve our highway system, instead of for debt payments, and this return to pay-as-you-go will have a wholesome effect throughout the whole structure of our governmental services.

The Federal Debt

Our debt situation in Arkansas is a microscopic example of some aspects of a truly grave national problem, the rising Federal debt. It has become a ball and chain around our nation's neck. It is affecting the full freedom of every citizen. The national debt now stands at $275 billion. And yet Congress is being asked to raise the statutory limit so that the Federal government can borrow new money and spend it—and postpone the day when taxpayers must pay and pay through the nose.

The $275 billion national debt averages an obligation of $4250 on every job holder in the U. S. And it must be paid in taxes. Not only that, but the interest, the cost of borrowing, must be paid in taxes. The interest now amounts to about $7 billion each 12 months, which is more than the entire Federal government cost us as recently as 1938. Also each 12 months, about $60 billion is needed to redeem the debts coming due; and this must be borrowed. With the debt climbing, it is an endless cycle. It all adds up to frenzied financing.

Must Halt Borrowing

The most sensible thing to do about the national debt is, I think, not to permit it to be raised and to institute a program for gradually cutting it down out of current tax revenue. This would mean reducing the $65 billion 1954-55 budget proposed by the Administration, by just five per cent. Is this too much for the citizenry to ask of Congress—that five per cent be cut from the $65 billion budget? Of course not!

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

(Editor, Sports Afield Magazine)

"One evening on the Siletz I was using a fine rod and line, perfectly balanced. I was using a tapered leader which I had built myself, with what I imagined was great care. I was shooting my line out to rising trout—wary fish, feeding in clear, still water. I simply was not putting my flies down so they'd fool the fish. The fault, I now know, was in the leader. This I have since proven in research and experiment."

That paragraph is from an article by Francis H. Ames in the April issue of Sports Afield magazine, in which Ames claims that cal and hospital services of $200, it hasn't quite as much to spend on necessities for the next few months. Does it run to borrow money? No, usually it tightens its belt. That's what our Federal government should do—tighten its belt on expenditures. The new Administration has cut from our loose-spending government some of the bloated fat, but it hasn't really tightened the belt to cope with the realities of its extremely bad financial position. It should do this, and do it at once.

hundreds of thousands of fly casters who say they are members of the "I can't fly cast worth a hoot" club don't belong in such inept company.

He is convinced that many of those anglers would discover they have undreamed of fly-casting ability if they would pay less attention to rod and line balance, and more to leader construction.

All efforts in fly casting, the balancing of rod and line, the backcast, the forward cast, are aimed at the end result—straightening the leader out over the water so it will drift the fly down naturally. A wary trout in clear water won't take a sloppily laid down fly. All flies are laid down sloppily with sloppily built leaders. Ames thinks that 999 out of 1000 leaders used by the average angler, whether ready-made or homemade, are sloppily constructed. And no angler, however skillful, can lay down a fly decently with a poor leader.

Check these points: Does your leader straighten out to drift gently down, after fly? Or does it land before the fly, with a splash that would send a dim-witted crawdad scuttling? Does your fly curl back toward you as it lands, or does it curl forcibly downward to hit the drink like a tossed stone? Well, don't blame the rod, the line, or yourself until you've checked that leader.

You can't blame yourself for the poor leaders that often cause you trouble. In measuring hun-

What 20 Years Of Repeal Means To The U.S.

...AND OVER 400 OTHER INDUSTRIES

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Whenever the subject of money or credit arises, many profess these subjects are clothed in great mystery.

Yet both money and credit are a basic commodity even more basic than corn, wheat, hogs, iron, or any other commodity, because few individuals, no business, no farm, can long operate without access to money and credit.

This is a basic concept which has long plagued this nation. In early U. S. history President Andrew Jackson recognized the problem when he scuttled the chartered but privately owned Bank of the United States by placing Federal funds in various state banks to bolster falling local economies.

Problem is again approached by pending bills in Congress, known as Caperhart bill in Senate, Multer bill in House.

Under present laws a bank cannot operate branches in more than one state; or operate non-banking business enterprises.

But under a loophole in present law, holding companies own controlling interest in banking institutions and evade that law.

The proposed legislation would stop this.

The proposed law would also make bank holding corporations subject to the same regulation as independent banks which requires permission from appropriate Federal or State authority to acquire another bank either as a branch or as a merger.

Independent banks are also prohibited from acquiring branches across state lines. The proposed new law would place the same regulation in force on bank holding companies. There are several points to bear in mind during coming debates.

One is the subject of fairness. Limitations imposed on independent banks should undoubtedly prevail for all.

There is also need for strong independent local banks to insure local economic health by serving with an understanding of community needs at the grass roots level. This point will be discussed later as most important phase of this issue is this.

Concentration of money and credit in a few hands now under way via bank holding corporation system, can, unless stopped, dominate entire American scene, economically and politically.

With corporations owning vast banking resources, as well as non-banking business operations, there is great temptation to use power of amassed cash and credit to knock out independent competition to holding corporation owned firms.

In addition all banks hold as a substantial part of their assets government securities. Therefore, two or three bank holding corporations could own majority interest in U. S. government.

In addition these few corporations holding bulk of U. S. cash and credit, could, through cartel agreements set up international controls over the world.

Many historians claim that without the House of Rothschild, no nation in Europe would have been able to carry on the long bloody years of the Napoleonic Wars. And today in America, a few vast holding corporations have already acquired more power than the Rothschilds ever held. That is the crux of issue now before Congress.

FARM

Farmers who do not have storage on their farms for this year's grain crop may be in for trouble. Commercial storage space is still heavily loaded with holdover grain and won't be able to handle all of the grain expected to be harvested in 1954.

"In view of the storage situation the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture has outlined a loan program to help farmers throughout the country obtain needed storage," says George J. Martin, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Mr. Martin points out that a decision has been made to extend farm storage loans another year, through June 30, 1955. Loans can be obtained on dryers, air circulators, ventilators, tunnels, and fans as well as buildings.

Under these loan programs any farm owner-operator, tenant, landlord or producer partnership is eligible to borrow a large part of the cost of additional storage space and drying equipment. Application for a loan may be made at the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office. The loan may be made either directly through the county office or through a bank. Loans may be obtained on storage for wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, soybeans, grain sorghums, dry edible beans, rice, peanuts, cottonseed, flaxseed, and winter cover crop seeds.

Farmers in most states can borrow up to 80 per cent of the cost of new storage bins, cribs or other approved storage structures. The structure must meet requirements for storage under the price support program. The loan can be paid off over a four-year period. The first installment is payable 12 months after the loan is disbursed. Interest on the loan is at the rate of four per cent per year.

Up to 75 per cent of the delivered and assembled cost, exclusive of labor costs, may be borrowed on the dryers, circulators, fans, etc. The loan is payable in three annual installments. As in the case of storage structure loans, the first installment is payable 12 months after the equipment loan is disbursed and interest is at the rate of four per cent per year.

Continuation of the storage facility loan programs will enable producers to finance more readily the acquisition of additional storage during the coming crop year, the Maryland ASC chairman explains. Special income, tax features (similar to those authorized for defense plant amortization) under which the cost of new farm or commercial storage facilities can be amortized over a period of five years is an added encouragement for farmers to increase their farm's grain storage capacity.

Other storage plans announced recently include a special resealing program for seven 1953-crop grains under loans and purchase agreements to hold these commodities on farms for another year. This will help relieve commercial storage congestion and keep the grains on farms where they may eventually be needed. The storage facility loan programs will help farmers with grain under loan to obtain the storage to participate in this special resealing operation.

The USDA is encouraging additional commercial storage construction through a "guaranteed occupancy" program. Both USDA-owned bins and emergency ship storage are being used to relieve regular facilities.

P. H. DORSEY, JR.
RUNNING-MATE
WITH MAHONEY

Philip H. Dorsey, Jr., candidate for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General of Maryland on the Mahoney-for-Governor ticket, has had a long career of public service which, George P. Mahoney, his running-mate says, "commends his candidacy to every voter in Maryland."

PHILIP H. DORSEY, JR.

From 1941 to 1951, under Governor O'Connor and Lane, Mr. Dorsey was People's Counsel to the State Public Service Commission, fighting, on behalf of consumers, utility rate increases.

For eleven years previously, he represented St. Mary's County in the House of Delegates and State Senate, serving as Chairman of the important Chesapeake Bay and Tributaries Committees of both Houses of the General Assembly.

From 1926 to 1930, he was State's Attorney of St. Mary's County.

Mr. Dorsey said he had not supported Mr. Mahoney in previous primaries "although my respect for him has always been the highest." He explained his present stand:

"In 1950, as a member of Governor Lane's official family, I felt obliged to support him. In 1952, I supported Mr. Sasser, a personal friend and Southern Maryland neighbor.

"In both those primaries, George P. Mahoney clearly demonstrated that he is the choice of the majority of Democrats.

"Certain members of the State Democratic organization, many of whom have been repudiated by the voters of their own counties, are once again penalizing the party by attempting to deprive it of the services of its best vote-getter—George P. Mahoney who, in 1952, received the largest vote ever given a Democrat in Maryland (406,370)."

Mr. Dorsey said Mr. Mahoney can "bring efficient, businesslike methods to the administration of the State's affairs," adding:

"In this period of business decline, when taxation is weighing more heavily than at any time in the past ten years, there is strong sentiment throughout the State for a Governor who knows the value of a dollar and who will seek to lighten the taxpayers' burden."

Mr. Dorsey is 53 years of age, an Episcopalian and a native of Leonardtown, where he practices law and farms. He and Mrs. Dorsey, the former Dorothy Stewart, have two sons, Walter, an Army lieutenant, and John, a college student.

A-3c Kenneth R. Shoemaker son of Mrs. Ruth E. Shoemaker of East Main Street, Emmitsburg Maryland, has entered the USAF Technical School for Aircraft Mechanics at Sheppard Air Force Base Texas, the largest school of this type in the world.

During his specialized training as a student at Sheppard he will receive intensive training designed to provide him with the thorough knowledge and basic skills required in servicing, inspecting and maintaining aircraft currently used by the United States Air Force.

Upon graduation he will be awarded the rating of Airplane and Engine Mechanic. Along with the majority of graduates in his class, he will enter a course for on-the-job experience with first-line operational aircraft after completion of his schooling here. From where I sit... by Joe Marsh Easy Does It—Again!

Ladies Aid Society had their rummage sale the other night—and as soon as the doors opened, "Easy" Roberts was inside.

Without a word, he headed straight for the coat counter, picked out a shabby old tweed jacket, and paid for it. "Easy" told me a little later that buying his jacket back was getting to be a regular habit.

"That's been my favorite smoking jacket for years," he said. "And my wife talks me into giving it away regularly. Then I get to thinking how much I like it and hurry down to buy that jacket back. This is the third time I've done it!"

From where I sit, everyone's entitled to his own likes—whether it's a sports jacket, a baseball team, or the beverage he likes for dinner. For example, the wife likes coffee along with Saturday night spaghetti while I like a glass of beer. We never try to "sell" each other on our personal preferences.

WHITE SUCKER

(Catostomus commersonii, derivation, "catostomus" from the Greek, below mouth; "commersonii" in honor of Commerson, a French naturalist.)

RANGE: In most all fresh running waters of Maryland; run up brooks in spring to spawn; also found in many lakes and ponds.

DESCRIPTION: Creamy to silver white in color. The mouth is under rather than at end of an elongated head; mouth small and more or less circular, very thick lips; forked tail.

BREEDING: Spawns in spring in small streams or brooks in shallows and riffles which have a gravel bottom; the eggs are buried in loose gravel; hatch when water is above 50°F in about three weeks, then eggs and young left to themselves.

HABITS: Suckers can protrude the lips so as to make a perfect suctioncup, hence name "sucker" which enables it to take food off the bottom; feeds on aquatic plants, insects, worms and small mollusks. MANAGEMENT: Not artificially propagated; needs little legal protection, does not require low water temperatures, hence adaptable to many streams not inhabited by trout; pollution an enemy. VALUE: It is a favorite hook and line fish with many anglers who start fishing for them shortly after New Years Day; a food fish of considerable importance during late winter and spring months when flesh is white and firm.

When steps add up to miles

Someone once said, "The steps you save are often as important as the steps you take." If you live on a farm, you'll probably agree with that. For instance, suppose you are to pick up a piece of equipment in town, but you're not sure it's ready. So you turn to the telephone to avoid an unnecessary trip. Time and trouble saved... by a single telephone call. That's why so many people say, "Telephone service is my biggest bargain."

The right recipe

You probably have a favorite recipe—one that you have had the best success with. And so it is with party-line telephone service. People have found that the best recipe there is good, old-fashioned courtesy—neighborly consideration for the other fellow. This means keeping calls reasonably brief and spaced out so that others may make use of the line in the intervals, and making sure the receiver is replaced properly after each call. Simple things, but they pay off in better, more useful telephone service for all.

CORRECTION

In last week's Chronicle it was erroneously stated that the Vigilant Hose Co. is planning the purchase of a new fire truck just as soon as the recently-purchased one was paid for. It was explained that it was the firemen's intention merely to establish a fund so that when any of their vehicles become obsolete, they would be ready to purchase a new one.

Pvt. Joseph T. Peterson, son of Mrs. R. Peterson, recently arrived in Korea for duty with the 25th Infantry Division.

Rushed to Korea during the early days of the conflict, the "Tropic Lightning" Division took part in some of the most bitter fighting on the peninsula. It is now undergoing intensive post-truce training.

SJHS News

The spring operetta, "A Waltz Dream," will be presented May 2 and 4 at 8:00 p. m. The dates were changed from April 25 and 27 this week by Rev. David W. Shaum, because of unavoidable conflicts with activities in other cities.

Two SJHS alumni returned to the school Thursday afternoon for a brief visit during which time they spoke to the third and fourth year students on a teaching career and the advantages given in this field at Towson State Teachers' College. William Myers, a senior at Towson and a 1950 alumnus and Lillian Bowers, a sophomore and a 1952 alumna, spoke to the students about the life of a Towsonite.

Bill told of the curriculum and sports life offered to the student entering Towson, while Lil told of the social life. "You do not really decide until your third year what grade you would like to teach," said Bill, "but by that time you have observed every class from the first grade up. The third year finds you actually teaching regular class, usually beginning with a spelling lesson, but soon you find you are responsible for conducting an entire class program." Bill also told us of the new boys' dormitory which was constructed in 1950 and which is the most modern in the state.

Lil spoke of the social life which includes sports, dances, plays, glee club and of the girls' life in the dorm. Many thanks to Bill and Lil, for they may have decided a future for some one of us who hadn't fully decided that teaching was to be our chosen career.

Highway Safety Is Paying Off With Fewer Fatalities

With a twenty per cent reduction in highway deaths, for the first quarter of 1954, over 1953, Maryland joins in the Nations Highway Safety Big League. During 1954, Maryland had 105 fatalities resulting from motor vehicle collisions compared with 132 during the same period for last year.

Officials of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission while thanking the Radio, Press, Television and Motion Pictures for helping to remind the driving public of the ever constant dangers, and to be alert to the perils of pedestrians, particularly the very young and the very old who are physically unable to swing and sway while jumping out of the way. The commission thanks and praises the groups throughout the state, for their spirit of cooperation and especially the work of Mr. Henry A. Barnes, the Baltimore City Traffic Engineer and his staff.

Commenting further, officials of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission stated there are 27 less graves in Maryland so far this year, thus having an economic saving of close to three million dollars, according to National figures. The Safety Commission's Director expresses the hope that Maryland will be able to continue this downward trend and remain in the Nation's Highway Safety Big League.
