

Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

With commencement exercises in the offing, I can't help but wonder what's to become of the forty to fifty graduates that will be turned out of our two local high schools. A small percentage, naturally, will seek higher education, but what about the much larger percentage? Just what do they have to look forward to here in Emmitsburg? The picture isn't very rosy . . . in fact it is rather dismal from our viewpoint. Mostly the choice is either the sewing or the shoe factory and these two industries have absorbed about all they can at the present, so where is the next natural place to look? Anywhere in the U.S.A., I suppose. The resultant effect on local business is apparent. Why a certain business friend of mine just last week told me that he had lost three of his best customers in a very short period of time. All three were young men who had to seek elsewhere for their future livelihood and possible prosperity. There is absolutely nothing here to hold our young folks. Is it any wonder then that the town hasn't progressed any in the last 20 years? It just can't.

Just give a minute's thought to how much better it would be if we had an industry or two here to absorb these young grads. I'll guarantee you that in a few short years the old burg would double itself in population. At any rate we are losing ground, hard-won ground. A few of our citizens have tried to induce industry to come here, but I'm afraid it'll take a lot more persuasion than just these few to do the trick with any degree of success. Just why a Chamber of Commerce in a town of this size can only boast of a membership of 35 is beyond me. Surely there are more than a mere 35 interested in the town's welfare, but then the evidence says no! Surely the parents of those to be graduated are interested in the welfare of their offspring and would like to see them earn a livelihood right here at home? Then it's about time they joined the Chamber and did their share. Really there's no reason whatsoever that the Chamber couldn't have a membership of at least 100. Think it over parents, because without your help we will actually slide further into the rut in which we are so deeply mired at the present time. As you know, there has to be some headquarters, a center of information or a spokesman for the town when someone inquires about it and apparently the only salvation is the Chamber. Why don't you inquire about it today? Here are a few bits of data about joining the organization. The annual membership fee is a lowly $10 and you don't have to be a businessman, lawyer, doctor or teacher to join. All that is necessary is that you have the interest of your community at heart. Membership is not restricted to the male gender; we are fortunate in having several of my own female gender members of the group.

From all indications the McCarthy-Army hearings will be resumed after a short recess, perhaps Monday. Many of us were alarmed at the cessation of the investigation created by the President's ultimatum that no discussion or revelation of transactions of a certain meeting of a national security nature, could be openly discussed or pried into by another branch of the Government, viz., the Legislative branch. The established no precedent when he took this action. It also was done previously, by Washington and Truman. Apparently many of us misunderstood the President's intention and immediately branded him a "white-washer." Now we feel that he was perfectly within his rights and he has announced that he will do nothing to stop the hearings, that is until they pry too deeply into national security matters again.

ON FISHING TRIP

Three local fly fishermen, James Cavender, Harold Hoke, and Guy R. McGlaughlin left yesterday for a day's fishing at Fishermen's Paradise, near Bellefonte, Pa. Mr. Hoke annually fishes the paradise while Messrs. Cavender and McGlaughlin will be strangers there.

Baseball Club Still Tied For First Place

The Emmitsburg entry in the Pen-Mar Baseball League continued on its winning way last Sunday by beating New Oxford, 9 to 7, behind the seven-hit pitching of Orner, local twirler.

The win, the third in succession, places the locals in a three-way tie for first place in the league standing, sharing the honor with Fairfield and Union Bridge.

Paul Clarke, sterling first baseman, led the locals in hitting, getting four hits, one being a triple.

The Emmitsburg squad returns to the home diamond this Sunday meeting Blue Ridge Summit.

Fairfield broke its game wide open at Cashtown by tabbing five runs in the eighth after having trailed 1-0 since the fourth frame, the final score being 6-1. It was the third straight victory for Fairfield who outthit their foes, 8-4.

Union Bridge, with one postponement to be made up, shelacked New Windsor 14-0 at New Windsor with Gilbert getting credit for the victory.

Blue Ridge Summit recorded its initial victory by downing Thurmont, 9-4 at Blue Ridge.

Local Student Road-e-o Winner

Thomas Bittle, 18-year-old senior of Middletown High School, won top honors at the Teen-Age Road-e-o at the finals held Sunday afternoon at Frederick High School.

The automobile driving contest for teen-agers was sponsored by the Frederick Junior Chamber of Commerce and the finals on a skill driving course was conducted among 29 students from high schools of the county.

Robert Gelwicks, 16, a junior at St. Joseph's High School, was second place winner. Winner of the third place award was Alexander Gow, III, Frederick High School senior who won first place last year.

Falling Asleep Causes Accident

James W. Eyler, 19, Emmitsburg, was admitted to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa., last Saturday with lacerations of the face and a sprained right ankle suffered when his automobile ran off the Lincoln Highway, three miles east of Gettysburg, Pa.

The mishap occurred about 1:11 a. m. when Eyler fell asleep, state police of the Gettysburg detail said. Damage to the auto was estimated at $750.

New Building Planned By Mount Saint Mary's College

Highlight of the 146th commencement exercises of Mt. St. Mary's College June 2 will be the ground-breaking services for the new student residence, Pangborn Hall, according to an announcement by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, LL.D., president of the college. Pangborn Hall represents the largest single contribution in the history of Mt. St. Mary's College and is the gift of Thomas W. Pangborn and John C. Pangborn, Hagerstown, industrialists, through the Pangborn Foundation.

The new three-story building, on which construction will begin almost immediately, will be fashioned of native mountain stone and trimmed with Indiana limestone, to harmonize with all other campus structures.

Intended as a new senior residence, Pangborn Hall will accommodate 120 students on three floors containing 60 double rooms. In addition each floor will have quarters for priestly members of the faculty, including a study, bedroom, and bath. Bedrooms and quarters will be finished with asphalt tile floors, and the corridors will have acoustical tile ceilings. The wash rooms will be done with terrazo floors and glazed tile walls.

The first floor of the new residence hall will contain a chapel accommodating 84 students. Finish will be rubber tile floors, wood wainscoting, and an acoustical tile ceiling.

Additional features will include a large recreation room with facilities for table tennis, cards, and other games, and an attic floor, and a lounge and reading room in the basement which will be finished with knotty pine walls.

The overall size of the building will be 216 feet in length and 42 feet in width. Estimated cost of the new structure is $400,000.

Pangborn Hall will be situated on the northern side of the campus to the left of the present administration building and will face Rt. 15.

Both Thomas W. and John C. Pangborn have been intimately associated with Mt. St. Mary's College for the past decade. In 1945, on the occasion of his address to the graduates, the College honored Thomas W. Pangborn with an LL.D. degree in recognition of his outstanding services to church and state. This year John C. Pangborn will be the recipient of the LL.D. degree as a mark of his distinction and eminence.

Founders and chief officers of the Pangborn Corp., one of the world's largest manufacturers of blast cleaning and dust control equipment, the Pangborn Brothers established the Pangborn Foundation in 1945 to give aid and encouragement to charitable, religious, educational, and scientific purposes. It is through the Pangborn Foundation that the gift to Mt. St. Mary's College has been made.

Both brothers are the recipients of innumerable honors. Thomas W. Pangborn has twice been honored by His Holiness Pope Pius XII. In 1947 the Holy Father conferred on him membership in the Order of the Knights of Malta, and in 1951 named him a member of the Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre.

In addition to his activity on behalf of Mt. St. Mary's College, he is both a member of the finance committee and of the board of trustees of the Catholic University of America and the advisory council for science and engineering of the University of Notre Dame.

John C. Pangborn is a member of the advisory board of St. Vincent's College, Latrobe, Pa.

John C. Pangborn, Hagerstown, industrialist, will be honored at the 146th commencement exercises of Mt. St. Mary's College Wednesday, June 2, at 10:30 a. m. with the LL.D. degree.

A native of LeRoy, Minnesota, he has been associated since 1905 with his brother, Thomas W. Pangborn, in the foundation and operation of the Pangborn Corp., one of the world's largest manufacturers of blast and dust control equipment. He is at present vice president of the corporation and was for many years its treasurer. In addition he is vice chairman of the Pangborn Foundation, a trust established in 1941 to give aid and encouragement to charitable, religious, educational, and scientific purposes.

Active in church work and numerous religious and youth movements, Pangborn is also a member of the advisory board of St. Vincent's College, Latrobe, Pa.

Following ordination he attended the Catholic University of America between 1922-23 and received both his M.A. and his S.T.L. degrees. He continued graduate studies at Columbia University, Boston College, and Rhode Island College of Education from which he received the D.Ed. He holds the following honorary degrees also: Doctor of Pedagogy, Bryant College, 1940; Doctor of Laws, Providence College, 1947; Doctor of Humane Letters, Rhode Island University, 1952.

Msgr. Cassidy has been continuously the superintendent of Catholic Schools in Providence since 1924 and dean of Catholic Teachers College of Providence since 1929. He has been pastor of St. Agnes Parish, Providence, since 1946.

Guy R. McGlaughlin, local barber, clipped two nice rainbow trout last Thursday from Big Hunting Creek, near Thurmont. The two speckled beauties measured 18 1/2 and 17 inches long.

The molding of parts from powdered metal has become a 300 million dollar a year industry in the past years.

Other tournament dates scheduled for the summer are as follows: June 27, July 25, Aug. 22, Sept. 26, and Oct. 24, the fourth Sunday of each month.

Firemen Elect Officers For New Year's Business

Herbert W. Rodgers was re-elected to the presidency of the Vigilant Hose Co., at the annual election of officers held last week in the Fire Hall. Other officers chosen were: Vice president, J. W. Rowe; treasurer, Guy A. Baker, Sr.; secretary, Edward J. Houck; fire chief, John J. Hollinger; assistant chief, John S. Hollinger; second assistant chief, Sterling White; directors, Guy R. McGlaughlin and Howard Carty.

The meeting was presided over by temporary chairman, Guy A. Baker, acting in absence of the president.

Guy R. McGlaughlin, chairman of the annual financial drive, reported that $2,760.25 had been netted to date. Chief Hollinger reported one fire attended since the last meeting. The Chief also reported there was a movement to equipment county fire trucks with two-way radios.

The firemen disclosed that they planned to attend the following parades: New Windsor on June 9; Gettysburg on July 1; Braddock Heights on June 19; Taneytown on June 17 and Union Bridge on June 3.

The group agreed to allocate $40 to help defray the expenses of the five delegates to the State Convention.

"EQUAL AND INSEPARABLE"

Every fair-minded American will, we believe, applaud the Supreme Court's unanimous decision against racial segregation in the public schools. In reversing its "separate but equal" decision of 1896, the Court has now ruled, in effect, that henceforth public school education in this nation shall be equal and inseparable.

This ruling could hardly have come as a surprise to even the most determined advocates of segregation. The steadily changing social climate in this country since the ruling of 1896, and especially within the last few years, has made an end of segregation in the public schools inevitable.

Gradually we have seen an end of this segregation in the armed services, in institutions of higher learning, in job opportunities, in every field of human relationship in which the Negro has been denied the protection of the laws guaranteed to every citizen under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution. And now the High Court has held that separate educational facilities are inherently unequal. How can they be equal where a sense of inferiority, affecting a child's motivation to learn, is imposed by statute?

While segregation in the public schools had to go, the Court is fully aware of the tremendous and complex problems involved in changing the social pattern of an entire region. In disposing of the constitutional issue, therefore, it has restored the cases to the docket and asked the parties involved to present further argument on two issues.

One involves the question of timing—when can the affected states reasonably be expected to put the ruling into effect?

The other raises the question of whether the Court should appoint a special master to recommend specific terms for its decrees or whether the cases should be remanded to lower Federal courts for enforcement.

The important thing is, however, that a great issue has been resolved in the spirit of the Constitution.

To welcome the decision is not, however, to minimize the problems of those who will bear the responsibility for its implementation in historically hostile climates of public opinion. Much compassion, forbearance and co-operation will be required before the ruling becomes a reality.

Officials of the states affected will not, we hope, resort to ill-advised and fore-doomed subterfuges for evading the Court's decision. If they are wise, and if their hearts and minds are guided by laws higher than those decreed by mere men, they will learn to live with this ruling no matter how great the difficulties.

When the difficulties have been resolved—and we may be sure it is only a question of a very few years at most—those who inherited and struggled with a system of inequality will look back with gratification upon a decision which at last, released them from a great social burden.

SJHS News

Members of the Mother Seton Club made a pilgrimage to St. Joseph's Central House to visit Mother Seton's Shrine on Thursday, May 20, at 1:30 p. m. The pilgrimage began at the Stone House where Mother Seton first lived, from there the students went to her next house, called the White House, where she moved because of her growing school and community members. The tour terminated in the cemetery where the remains of Mother Seton are interred in a private chapel.

A Mother Seton Club social will be held tonight in the high school auditorium in the form of a dance, beginning at 8 o'clock and closing at 11:30.

Third and fourth year students are competing in an essay contest held by the VFW on the theme, Americanism. There will be a prize awarded for the contestant having the best essay.

Sister Mary Edward, SJC, regional chairman of the National Catholic Council of Home Economics Assn., and Sister Madeleine, Home Economics teacher of SJHS, will attend the regional meeting of National Council of Home Economics Assn. in Philadelphia, Saturday, May 22. This is the beginning of an effort to advance Catholic Home Economics.

Theresa Rybikowsky, Year III, won the prize for the essay on "American Way of Life," sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion.

Graduation is only a short time away and the Glee Club is giving intense practice to its graduation numbers. Included in the selections are "Let There Be Song," "Salve Regina" and "America—Our Heritage."

Miss Barbara Rosensteel, sophomore at SJC, and Mr. Peter O'Hagan, senior at MSM, presented varsity letters to team members: Dorothy Topper, Christine Timmerman, Margaret Porter, William Greco, Robert Gelwick, Floyd Miller, Thomas Stoner, Michael Joy, and Eugene Rosensteel. Both coaches thanked students and faculty for the co-operation shown during the year. Mr. O'Hagan gave special commendation to George Arnold for his faithfulness in his duties as team manager. The boys' team regrets to lose "Pete" who, after graduation this year from the Mount, will receive a commission in the U. S. Marine Corps on June 5. He is an economics major and will be married June 12.

The Junior-Senior Prom held Friday, May 14, was a tribute to the 100 per cent class cooperation of the members of the Junior class. Music was supplied by the Cosmopolitans from Hagerstown. Comments overheard were: "Superb, the best yet. The decorations were creative. The orchestra was soft and dreamy."

Tuesday afternoon, May 18, the entire school viewed the movie, "And Then There Were Four." In this film were portrayed five drivers leaving their homes in the morning. All five took chances and practiced unsafe habits. From the title and other hints, it was evident that only four would return that evening. The saying "it was just a minor offense" is not a fitting one because it takes just 1/10th of a second for an accident to occur and then it is too late. The movie stressed the desirability of safety habits and well-kept equipment.

On Sunday, May 16, three drivers from St. Joseph's High School, William Kaas, Robert Gelwick and Joseph Scott, participated in the "Teen-Age Road-E-O" held in Frederick. Over 100 students took the written tests given last April 7. Out of these, only 35 passed. The actual driving ability tests took place on Sunday. The tests consisted of parking, straight - line driving, serpentine driving, and acceleration and smooth stopping.

Forty per cent of the final score was the written test and 60 per cent was accredited to one's actual driving ability. The winner of this event, sponsored by the Frederick Junior Chamber of Commerce, was Thomas Bittle, a senior from Middletown High School, with a grand total of 417 points, following close behind with a total of 416 points was Robert Gelwick, a junior from St. Joseph's High School, who took second honors, and third place went to Alexander Gow II, a senior from Frederick High School. Bittle will represent the county in the state-wide contest to be held in Baltimore.

Elected Grand Knight

Richard C. Clancey of Brooklyn, N. Y., a junior at Mt. St. Mary's College, has been elected Grand Knight of the Mt. St. Mary's College Council of the Knights of Columbus, one of the very few campus councils in the U. S. ## I LIKE MCCARTHY

Hew to the line tho the chips spread wide

Dig out the Reds wherever they hide.

For every Komred is America's foe,

Tho his position be lofty, or one that's low!

I salute you, McCarthy; you're loyal and true,

The atheist Komreds are frightened of you.

They would blot Stars and Stripes in our nobled Flag

And tint it the hue of their gory Red rag.

So stick to your guns, you fight not alone,

Millions of Yanks claim this land as their own;

We believe in our God and all that is true,

So, hew to the line—we're American too!

SPORTS FLASHES

Who's On First Base?

The Cleveland Indians switched Al Rosen from third to first base. Eddie Stanky, St. Louis Cards' manager, instructs Ray Jablonski, not a star at third, to learn first base for protection. Casey Stengel winds up a tough game for the New York Yankees with an outfielder, Irv Noren, at first. It would seem as if anybody can play first, or so the managers indicate, says a feature story in the current issue of The Sporting News. This is rather disturbing to Charlie Grimm, Milwaukee manager and a top first baseman himself back when a first baseman was a first baseman and not anybody with a nodding acquaintance with the guy who ran the team.

'When I played,' Grimm reminisced, 'we had first-class regulars at first base in both leagues and we were loaded with them. Now any Joe seems to get a chance at first. Well, I know it is not any old man's home out there at first, and I think the tipoff on all these experiments is how many of these first baseman stick at the job.'

The Sporting News story says that many of the current first base guardians are not first basemen — they're merely playing there. They catch the throw and then blindly poke to foot the bag. Branch Rickey recently praised the important parts of a ball club, and then ended slurringly with the seeming afterthought, 'and then there is first base.'

According to The Sporting News there is no truth to the report toupes are to be stocked for the benefit of those players, managers, coaches, umpires and reporters who duck out of sight when the National Anthem is being played, rather than bare their shamelessly bald heads to the crowds.

Secrets of success as The Sporting News sees them: Pitchers can't get careless with the Yankees. Yankee pitchers can't get careless and continue being Yankees.

Larry Gilbert, operating the Nashville Club of the Southern Assn., had his eye on a rookie early this year, reports The Sporting News, and wanted to find out what kind of a hitter the lad was... He finally asked one of the rookie's 1953 teammates... 'Well, he hits three ways,' answered the teammate. 'Right hand, left hand and seldom.'

Billy Herman gets a chuckle out of relating this story on Stan Hack, says The Sporting News: Burleigh Grimes was pitching for the Cubs with Stan playing third. Hack made a boo-boo on a grounder and snapped his fingers in disgust. Grimes might have gotten out of the inning except for another error by Hack, who again snapped his fingers to show his chagrin. Charlie Grimm, managing the Cubs, yanked Grimes. But Burleigh, boiling, snarled: 'Why take me out? Why not the guy who is only snapping his fingers at the ball?'

If nothing else, says The Sporting News, the Pirates can claim players who are members of two of the largest families in the major leagues. Pitcher George O'Donnell comes from a healthy, group of eight girls and five boys, and Outfielder Jerry Lynch is one of 12 children.

Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Redlegs comes up with this bit of wisdom: 'The hard part of making good is that you have to do it every day.'

The St. Louis Cardinals might not be leading the National League, but can anybody beat the time it takes them to play the game? asks The Sporting News. Through their first 23 contests the Redbirds had an average playing time of two hours and 58 minutes.

So Jesus had compassion on them, and touched their eyes: and immediately their eyes received sight, and they followed Him. —(Matthew 20, 34.)

So filled completely with God's grace, so perfect in his belief and faith, so pure in his life and motives, Christ Jesus performed miracles through the power of Divine love. Each of us today, in the measure that we strive for the perfection that Jesus attained, may know within ourselves the miracles possible through God's love.

Preakness Saturday

Climaxing the spring meeting at Pimlico will be the 78th running of the Preakness Stakes on Saturday, with $100,000 in added money. This mile and three-sixteenths classic appears likely to have a field of 10 to 12 starters, with the gross of the race being the largest in its long history.

The lineup probably will include six horses from the Kentucky Derby field including Hasty Road, Hasseyampa, Goyamo, Admiral Porter, Correlation and Fisherman. Opposing these Derby survivors will be Staffordshire, Ring King, Gigantic, For Free, Jet Action, High Gun and possibly Artismo.

Pimlico's meeting will not close with the running of the Preakness, four additional days having been assigned the track this spring and the meeting will continue thru Thursday, May 27.

HEALTH and SCIENCE

New Hope for Arthritis

Surveys reveal that more than 10,000,000 men and women over the age of 14 suffer from some form of arthritis and rheumatic disease. Of these, 200,000 are completely disabled, 4,700,000 are disabled part of the time; the remainder are subject to chronic or recurrent pain.

Statisticians estimate that 97% of all persons who live beyond middle life, come down with rheumatic disease. The most severe form of the disease, rheumatoid arthritis, hits women three times as often as men.

More farmers are stricken with arthritis and rheumatism than individuals in any other field or occupation. 930,000 farmers, or 23% of all the farmers in the nation, know the aches and pains of these diseases.

Scientists believe that arthritis cannot be treated; they refer to the "management" of the disease. Researchers have discovered that pain and crippling can be minimized, so that people can function with arthritis in their system.

A group of scientists studying arthritis at a leading Eastern medical college discovered that a drug called methacholine was instrumental in relieving many of the aches and miseries of people who were afflicted with arthritis. Methacholine was combined with other therapeutic agents in a preparation called Surin, and the researchers continued their extensive clinical studies. Results of their tests published in a leading medical journal showed that as many as three out of four of the chronic sufferers from these crippling diseases found quick relief from pain and a number of them were able to move their joints more freely although the drug was only applied to the surface at the point of pain. A number of these patients who found relief with this preparation had also been unable to hold jobs continuously or move about without severe suffering.

LOOKING AHEAD

By Dr. George S. Benson
DIRECTOR - NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Savoy, Arkansas

Science Of Thought-Shaping

The man sitting beside me at lunch remarked sadly on "the atmosphere of fear sweeping the country, fear that we may lose our personal liberties" as a result of anti-Communist activities by certain individuals and organizations. He's a sincere person and on many subjects unusually well-informed. He's a professional journalist. We had quite a lively discussion because in my own experience I haven't encountered a single person who was afraid. The only fear I find is those who fear somebody else may be afraid.

We left the luncheon table and went directly to the Harding College auditorium to hear a lecture by Herbert Philbrick, the quiet, humble Massachusetts church worker who served nine years as an FBI counter-spy deep within the Communist underground. Philbrick now is with the New York Herald Tribune, and what he said on the subject of the "atmosphere of fear" happened to be pointed and potent.

Communist Trickery

"One of the great problems which we have in dealing with Communism," said Philbrick, "is the fact that there seems to be in the minds of the American people certain blind spots. During the past year I've had the opportunity to travel several thousand miles and talk to many thousands of people. According to the Communist Party, and unfortunately according to some prominent politicians and educators, our American people today are alleged to be filled with fear, living in a climate of fear, afraid to express their minds or to express opinions, and constantly looking over their shoulder for a Congressional investigator.

"This claim, I can testify, from my own knowledge in visiting most of the key cities in this country during the past year and speaking to a wide variety of groups, is a complete falsehood. It is an utter lie. Of course the Communists hope, through this propaganda of theirs, to discourage anybody from taking a position against Communism. As for the other people (who pass along the propaganda) the most charitable conclusion I can come to is that they are totally in ignorance of the feeling of the American people."

But when influential people are led to believe and pass along the Communist propaganda it becomes a powerful force in ultimately shaping public opinion. Herbert Philbrick said the Communists are devoting a major effort today to the science of "cybernetics." "Never before," he said, "have we seen such a highly, skillfully organized propaganda machine. Cybernetics, according to the Communists, is the manipulation and control of information" — through the press, radio, television, word-of-mouth; all fields of communications.

"And by this means," said Philbrick, "you can control people as you do puppets. I don't know of a single book on the subject of what the Communists are doing with cybernetics. As a matter of fact my own knowledge is limited to the facts I've gathered from inside the Communist Party. But the Reds have been working at this for many years. And today they are working around the clock in this study of the scientific manipulation and control of information."

Conditioned Reflex
Philbrick said that cybernetics, as used by the Communists, is based on the findings of Pavlov, the Russian scientist who developed the theory of conditioned reflexes in animals. The Reds have found, Philbrick said, that "a man, like an animal, who is conditioned to respond to certain impulses, can be made to respond to words, phrases and symbols. Therefore you pour in the words, phrases and symbols to which he will respond without thinking. And then you withhold other certain words which would cause him to respond in a way you may not desire. It is the scientific control of human beings by means of control of information."

In their practice of cybernetics in America the Communists are aided greatly by the fellow-travelers and the Communist-front dupes. And many loyal non-Communists aid them too, by being victimized by false information cunningly planted by the Red masters of the science.

Next week: Philbrick tells why the American mind is dangerously apathetic toward Communism.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

(Editor, Sports Afield Magazine)

Bottom fishing is the simplest form of ocean fishing net to netting, and corresponds to bait fishing in fresh water for pan fish. It usually is looked down upon by those who angle for big tuna, sailfish, dolphins, marlins and such species. But having done considerable fishing of both kinds, outdoor writer Bill Wolf says he fails to see why bottom fishing should be scorned.

The man who lands a big tuna or sail can credit about 90 per cent to his tackle, his boat and his boat handler, and only 10 per cent to his own skill. The bottom fisherman exercises at least that much skill, and often more. He has more fun for much less money and he certainly catches more fish.

Even novices haul in porgies, sea bass, croakers, tripletails and the like. But I have always noticed that the experienced angler catches more than the beginner and takes bigger and more desirable fish—so skill is involved.

Since knowledge of the tackle used is most important in bottom fishing, I'd like to relay on to you some of Wolf's ideas about rods. He says "If I could influence the average bottom fisherman, I would suggest throwing out 9/10ths of what he owns and buying lighter tackle. He invariably goes out equipped to horse in whales."

Many boat rods weigh 14 to 19 ounces; they are used to catch fish weighing from one-half to three pounds, or approximately what a four to six-ounce fly rod will take in fresh water. Granted, a boat rod must handle heavy lead at the bottom of the line. But this doesn't justify employing a rod big enough to land a 50-pound fish. So buy a boat rod as though you were going to use it as a rod instead of something with which to beat fish to death.

Wolf prefers a rod with a lightweight tip of 4 to 5½ feet, plus the length of the butt, because then you can fish comfortably from a pier or from one of the less desirable spots on a party boat where a longer rod can reach out over the side.

Much as he likes bamboo in most rods, he thinks that glass will become the standard material for salt-water boat rods. And he cannot advise exact weights for rods since conditions vary greatly around our eastern and western coastlines and the Gulf of Mexico. But pick the lightest instead of the heaviest. Actually, there is no objection to using a freshwater bait-casting rod, although the longer butt of a boat rod is more convenient.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture has offered to sell, for feed use only, approximately three million bushels of 1953-crop "garlicky" wheat stored on farms and in country warehouses in 16 Eastern and Southern States on a bid basis but not less than the 1953 support price for corn at the location where the wheat is stored, according to George J. Martin, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

With total U. S. supplies of wheat extremely large, the demand is small for this quality of wheat. In addition, storage space for this year's crops is limited in the area and the USDA is being urged to move the wheat to open more space for the new crop. This action will avoid the need for this movement and eliminate the payment of transportation charges that would be involved. The disposal of this wheat now would also avoid retaining for an indefinite period wheat of this quality for which there are only limited market outlets.

The wheat being offered for sale is located on farms where it has been under 1953-crop support loans prior to Apr. 30, 1954, or in local public warehouses where producers have stored it under loan or delivered it under the 1953 wheat price support program. Purchasers may submit bids on the farm stored wheat to county agricultural stabilization and conservation offices and on warehouse-stored wheat to Commodity Stabilization Service Commodity Offices located in Dallas, Kansas City, Mo., and Chicago. Details concerning this program may be obtained at state and county agricultural stabilization and conservation offices in this state.

USDA officials emphasized that the wheat purchased under this program must be used only for feed purposes, and each buyer will be required to certify that the wheat will be used only for livestock or poultry feeding.

CATCHING

By

*Ray Schalk

From the book "How to Play"

published by The Sporting News

NATURAL EQUIPMENT

Chapter 10

The job of catching, in my estimation, is the toughest assignment on the field of play. It has always been my claim that baseball is played for the benefit of the catcher. By that I mean that he is the one player who has the game squarely in front of him; he faces both the infield and the outfield and also has the base runners in full view. Thus, he is the one player in position to see everything that is going on.

For a young player seeking to make good as a catcher, adequate physical equipment is the first requisite. By that I not only mean a sound body, but a good pair of hands and a strong throwing arm. Also, it is necessary to have a cool head, as well as the ability to think quickly. A catcher must be able to take all the knocks that come with his job, day after day; banged-up and broken fingers; the split and bruised hands; the bumping and the cuts from collisions and spikes on close plays at home plate.

Aside from nature's equipment, the young player aspiring to success as a catcher cannot be too careful about his choice of equipment—mitt, protector, mask and shoes. All should fit him snugly and comfortably. It was always my firm conviction that the catcher and pitcher should have no more than two or three sets of signals, and the simpler these signals, the better. The battery should function as flawlessly as possible, and nothing can prove more costly than for the pitcher and catcher to get crossed up in their signs. From experience I have found that this frequently happens when the battery is working with more than two or three sets of signs.

The catcher can use a glove sign or a knee sign, along with his finger wig-wags. Use of the glove or knee in flashing the sign to the pitcher eliminates the maneuver of going into a squatting position and then standing erect, thus saving plenty of energy over a period of years.

Footwork around the home plate is a most important factor in a catcher's play. Shifting requires alertness, and if a catcher can go to his right as effectively as to his left, that is all in his favor and adds to his value. The catcher should move out in front of the plate when a throw is coming in from the outfield and, whenever possible, receive the ball on the fly. Then the catcher can slide back to the plate with the base runner, keeping ahead of him so as to complete the tag and retire him. In my opinion, this is one of the most effective plays a catcher can make and, from the viewpoint of the fan, one of the best to watch from the stands.

Completing this play requires gameness on the part of the catcher. He does not have a bag to touch with any part of either foot, as the first baseman has when he receives a thrown ball from an infielder, or as one of the other infielders has on a force play. Unless the bases are full, making it a force play, the catcher must charge the base runner, who is coming into the home plate at top speed, hitting the ground in his slide, his spikes flashing and with the one thought of knocking over the catcher and scoring his run. On such plays, the catcher is like the fullback on the gridiron bucking the line. That is why it is advisable for the catcher to move well up in front of the plate whenever it is safe to leave his position after a ball has been hit and base runners are racing around the bags. I repeat—the throw-in to the plate should be received on the fly, when possible, so the catcher will be in position to slide into the plate with the runner attempting to score, keeping ahead of him in order to tag him out.

Learn to go after pop fouls from all angles, the high ones behind, or to either side of, the home plate, and those in the vicinity of first or third base. Learn the trickiness of shadows, for they differ in all ball parks. Allow for the wind. To become adept in this all-important department of catching, one has to practice constantly. I cannot emphasize this too strongly.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Cong. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, May 19—Ever since the start of the Geneva Conference have helped unfold the clearest foreign policy America has had since the end of World War II.

Under our Constitution, the President, with whatever advice he wishes to seek, is solely responsible for making America's policy in foreign affairs. Here, from statements by President Eisenhower and his chief adviser, Secretary of State Dulles, are the main points of our present policy in the Indo-China situation:

(1) Conditions in Indo-China are not suitable for present participation by American forces. There will be no present participation.

(2) Communist Viet Minh forces have conquered a good portion of Viet Nam, including the fortress of Dien Bien Phu. Viet Nam is one of the three nations of Indo-China. Cambodia and Laos are the others. We are now in the process of forming a mutual security alliance with these countries and six others: Australia, New Zealand, Britain, France, Burma and Thailand. All are concerned in the southeast Asian area. The alliance would be similar to our North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Since NATO came into effect, there has been no further Communist aggression attempted in the North Atlantic-European area.

(3) The French, who have been defending Indo-China for eight years because the three countries have been French colonies, are seeking a truce with the Viet Minh forces. If the truce arrangements endanger nobody's freedom, we will regard them as a step toward peace. We also insist that France give independence to its three colonies.

(4) If a forthcoming truce should be unsuitable, or if fighting continues, and if our nine-nation alliance is successful, intervention in Indo-China would become the policy of President Eisenhower.

The fourth point is the key to our immediate future with regard to this latest sample of Communist aggression. Looking back, we see that the international Communist movement has captured (in Asia) North Korea, Manchuria, Tibet, China, and most of Viet Nam. Looking forward, we see no indication that, if left alone, the Reds will stop their march.

America, as the leader of the free world, is therefore taking the initiative in disrupting the Communists' evil plans. For the first time in half a century we have a new and definite policy toward Asia which contemplates no retreat from the enemies of freedom.

Hence we are now able to watch three unfolding events—the Geneva Conference, our efforts to create a southeast Asian alliance and the battle in Indo-China—knowing that regardless of the outcome our policy is already established. There will be no need for hasty and perhaps ill-conceived action. And most important, we have the repeated assurance of President Eisenhower that should intervention become necessary, the case will be laid before Congress and its decision will be binding.

Flies Build Up Chemical Immunity

A few years ago, there were high hopes that a weapon had been developed to end the centuries-old battle against flies. The hopes were based on chemicals which scientists called Chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticides.

Some of the members of this chemical family were DDT, Lindane and BHC. But the hopes that these chemicals would end the war against flies were a bit too optimistic—certain strains of flies had developed resistance to the chlorinated hydrocarbons.

Fortunately, scientists don't give up easily. They developed a new family of chemicals called organic phosphate insecticides. Scientists don't promise that these chemicals are the final solution to the fly problem, but they are effective against flies that can survive spraying with the older insecticides.

Malathion, TEPP (tetraethylpyrophosphate), Bayer compound L 12/59 and Diazinon are some of the chemicals in this group. A new technique of applying the chemicals has also been developed. The technique is to use sweetened baits—sugar or molasses is mixed with insecticide. Flies are attracted by the sweet ingredient, and while they feast on the delicacy they get a fatal dose of poison.

Entomologists at the University of Maryland caution that some of the organic phosphates are poisonous to warm blooded animals, and for that reason should be used with extreme care.

However, other chemicals in the group are quite safe when properly used and are even less toxic to animals than some of the chemicals in the DDT-Lindane-BHC family.

The government takes the toxicity into consideration when approving labels for the use of these insecticides, the entomologists point out. For this reason, those who plan to use organic phosphate insecticides should read the labels carefully to see if they are for use in cattle barns only or for use in both cattle and dairy barns.

"Malathion baits have been approved for use in both dairy and cattle barns," says Dr. George S. Langford, one of the university's entomologists who has experimented with the insecticides. "These baits are easy to apply and they act fast. A liquid bait made by mixing one pound of granulated sugar and one ounce of Malathion (50 per cent emulsifiable) in one gallon of water proved effective in tests on Maryland farms."

"The solution can be sprinkled on concrete floors and the operation usually requires no more than five minutes. It is applied in strips on the floor or other places where flies congregate, but care must be taken not to contaminate animal feed."

"If a barn does not have concrete floor the bait may be applied as a coarse spray with a ion pipes, support beams, window compressed air sprayer to stanchions, door jambs and other areas where flies are normally found during the day."

"Flies begin to drop and die within 10 minutes after the bait is applied, and usually from 80 to 90 per cent of the flies in a barn will be dead and on the floor within one to two hours."

MAHONEY SEEKS STREAMLINED MD. GOVERNMENT

George P. Mahoney, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, last week called for a "streamlining of the sprawling structure of Maryland State Government."

Mahoney compared the organization of Maryland State Government with that of the Federal government, pointing out that under the reorganized Federal structure, "just ten department heads and 48 commissions and heads of independent agencies report directly to the President."

In Maryland, he asserted, 80 department heads or commissions report directly to the Governor.

Mahoney termed the State's organizational structure formless and said it "lacks lines of direction and control, and is full of overlapping and duplication." He recalled a 1950 campaign pledge in which he promised to reorganize "the sprawling structure and bring some business management to it" and added:

"Today, with the State facing a possible deficit of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, we can no longer afford the luxury of inefficiency. I advocated reorganization in 1950 and I continue to advocate it today."

Continuing his "statement-a-day" campaign last week, Mahoney also attacked outmoded State budgetary practices leading to "untouchable surpluses and idle cash balances produced under our present antiquated system of providing for a variety of 'special' funds which renders the Legislature powerless to place a ceiling on spending."

These "special" funds, the candidate declared, allow an individual agency to increase the limit of its spending even though the resulting expenditure is far in excess of the amount voted by the legislature for that particular agency.

Mahoney advocated a budget system "which will find in advance the total of the State's spending, put a ceiling on expenditures and call a halt to the present 'sky-the-limit' fiscal system."

Membership cards in the Mahoney "Tom, Dick and Harry Club" were supplied last week to the Mahoney-for-Governor headquarters in the various counties and were given wide distribution by the State's Mahoney supporters.

The cards bear on the reverse side the quotation of Dr. H. C. Byrd which inspired formation of the club. It is:

"I've got more to offer this job than the job has to offer me. I don't believe it is necessary to run around the State importuning every Tom, Dick and Harry."

The cards also carry Mahoney's answer to that affront to the rank and file voter, namely that I won't come the support of every Tom, Dick and Harry, Joe, Jane and Mary—and all the rest of you because you're the boss!"

Under normal conditions Malathion baits give satisfactory control if used once or twice a week through the season. The cost per application usually runs between 40 and 80 cents, depending on the size of the barn.

Some of the recommendations which have been made for years with other insecticides also apply to Malathion. For example: (1) follow manufacturer's directions, (2) be careful not to contaminate milk, (3) keep the insecticide away from children, (4) eliminate manure and other materials in which flies breed.

KEEP EGGS COLD

Eggs, so plentiful and such good buys this season, need to be kept cold—just as other protein foods do, according to Wade Rice, Extension poultryman, University of Maryland.

Cooling eggs promptly after gathering from the hen's nest is important because the temperature of the egg when laid is around 105 degrees F. But eggs also need to be kept cold right up to the time they are used.

A single steam electric plant near Lexington, Ky., can burn more than a million tons of bituminous coal annually.

Mr. Rice says the best temperature for holding egg quality for short periods is from about 31 to 45 degrees F. If kept at room temperature—that is from 70 to 80 degrees—eggs may drop in quality in a few days. Above 80 degrees they lose quality even faster.

Thus, eggs lose quality during shipping in a hot truck, in unrefrigerated store rooms, or ordinary market counters, or while left in a hot car or out in a hot kitchen.

This is why it pays to buy from markets where eggs are kept under refrigeration and sold from refrigerated display counters. It also saves quality—the quality you pay for—to put eggs in the home refrigerator promptly and keep them there until used.

Mr. Rice says it's important to keep eggs in cartons or tight containers so they won't absorb flavors of other foods stored in the refrigerator. Be sure the eggs are kept small end down in the container so the yolk will stay centered in the egg. Otherwise, the pressure of the yolk will break down the protein quality of the egg white, making a thin, watery white.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 20—Old houses may now be a sale. Women have gone crazy both over one-story houses (ranch type) and over ultra-wide skirts. There is a style in houses, like styles in dresses. Well-built and well-located large houses are now out of style. How long it will be before women get sensible and buy such houses again is anyone's guess.

Fear of World War III
But one thing will always be in style, and that is vacant land—whether small city lots that can be used for parking, or fringe acreage just outside cities and towns. Thus far people have not taken seriously the fear of World War III, but now, with these "Evacuation Days," they are beginning to give up their rented city houses and buy in the suburbs.

If World War III should really look threatening, you will see a big boom in suburban property 20 miles out. Unless the price of land is frozen, it could double in value in a few weeks. Well-drained and well-located vacant land should not now be sold.

Some Things Being Overdone

If World War III threatens, farms outside big cities which cannot now be sold at a fair price may again come into demand. I, however, am not bullish on all commercial farm land. This especially applies to many citrus groves, apple, peach, and other fruit orchards.

With the new big Federal power and irrigation projects, there may be a surplus of high-priced irrigated lands. Irrigation can be overdone, the same as the building of motels and the manufacturing of automobiles. We may be approaching a time when there will be too many filling stations and automobile agencies. More consolidations will be witnessed.

What About Inflation?

In view of what is happening in Indo-China, it now seems as if more inflation is inevitable. This may be hard on the housewife and those with fixed incomes, but it should help well-located vacant land and certain other real estate. In view of the preferred treatment received during World War II by the owners of business property, some vacant business property may now be a good purchase.

Inflation should also help farm/crop prices and aid merchants. I am especially bullish on the market prices of the securities of the drug and variety chains. Many of these stocks now yield from five per cent to 10 per cent and should benefit from mild inflation. Too much inflation can harm everybody except the stock brokers, who are foolishly urging inflation along.

Taft-Hartley and Inflation
I forecast that the proposed legislation to amend the Taft-Hartley Bill will remain buried

HERE'S HOW . . .

TO USE NAILS

The nail is too often taken for granted. There are many different kinds of nails, developed for special purposes. The home craftsman will find common wire nails and finishing nails will suit most of his purposes. Shown half-size in the drawing are the sizes of common nails most used.

Finishing nails have less holding power, but have the advantage of having an extremely small head that may be countersunk by using a nail set.

Most trouble with nailing is encountered in getting started. To start a nail, grasp the middle of the hammer handle (A), and tap lightly until the nail is set. Then grasp the handle at its end, to obtain full leverage (B). Use the other hand to hold the board, not the nail. Common nails have sharp points and tend to force the wood fibers apart as does a wedge. For woods that split easily, a blunt point is best; it breaks through the wood fibers.

TO DEDICATE FLAG

The American Flag, the Christian Flag and the stained glass window, recently installed in the Trinity Methodist Church, will be formally dedicated at the regular Sunday morning services of that church at 9:00 o'clock, May 23, by the pastor, Rev. Byron H. Keesecker.

All species of crocodile lay eggs.

until after the November elections. If it had passed Congress as President Eisenhower wanted, it would have made your dollars worth more. If it had passed amended as certain labor leaders wanted, it would have made your dollar worth less. As any action has now been delayed, its present effect on inflation will be nil.

Considering all other Congressional legislation to date, I forecast the net result will be mildly inflationary. This should help most land values and all producers. The ultimate consumer, however, will suffer from higher prices. Good mining properties should benefit. Hence, if you are selling vacant land, retain the mineral and oil rights.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

This week in Atlantic City more than 2000 people are meeting to study and plan how best to carry on the fight against tuberculosis. They have chosen to meet in Atlantic City because it was there, just 50 years ago, that the first meeting of this kind was held, a meeting where doctors and laymen joined to plot an organized campaign against disease.

There were about 100 at that first meeting—dedicated men, determined that the White Plague could be prevented and cured. In founding the National Tuberculosis Assn., they met apathy and hopelessness with faith in the American people. They knew that a contagious disease like TB could not be defeated without the cooperation of the general public. They believed the American people would give their support.

How right they were is demonstrated by the people attending the 50th anniversary annual meeting of the NTA this week. They come from every state and territory of the U. S. Some are professional workers in tuberculosis associations and health departments. Some are volunteers who give their services in the 3000 associations affiliated with the NTA. There are doctors, nurses, social workers, educators, accountants, specialists in community organization, public relations, fund raising, and personnel, businessmen, lawyers, housewives, artists, writers, bankers—people of many different occupations of all creeds and races—people who represent you and me at this meeting.

These thousands of people are sitting down together to talk about the future. They know that the insidious enemy has given ground steadily, but they also know he is far from defeated. To bring the day of victory closer they will discuss this week all aspects of the TB situation. From these discussions they will bring back to us new inspiration, new ideas which we will use in our community to carry on the fight which will bring about the eventual defeat of tuberculosis.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

During war American people expect great waste.

But American people have never before been confronted with necessity of maintaining large military establishment without hostilities. Today, about 60% of taxes go for military security.

But the question is being asked: how much of this money is actually going for combat efficiency; how much to support armed forces side operations which could be more efficiently handled by trained businessmen?

The military profession does not require business acumen. Military science is as far apart from business as medical practice is from an accountant's work.

The other day the U. S. General Accounting Office had a session with a Congressional subcommittee.

The GAO presented a long list of alleged examples of waste due to mismanagement.

For example, one army post commissary was selling 20 ounce loaves of bread from the Army bakery for six cents. This just about covered the ingredient cost with no allowance made for wages of civilian workers, officers in charge, or cost of the bakery quarters or equipment.

In a study of 52 army commissaries, 1/4 of 288 in continental U. S., the General Accounting Office found that these 52 stores did a $49 1/2 million business in 1952, and that only 8% of the 202,135 persons authorized to use these commissaries lived on the respective army posts. In addition, GAO found they occupied 900,000 square feet of government space, and that approximately $5 1/2 million in wages to 2,268 employees, of which 1,185 were military personnel, came out of appropriated funds.

At the Army Jeffersonville Depot GAO found $14 million worth of Quartermaster property largely household and office furniture, deteriorating in the open at the rate of $1 1/2 million per month.

At the Columbus Depot 523 unused warehouse tractors costing $479,999 were declared salvage on July 20, 1950 and given away. In 1949 and on June 30, 1950 the army bought 103 new tractors at a $244,299.41 cost. In 1951 hundreds of tractors were bought.

In wartime 1952 with 2,867,762 enlisted men the army had 263,137 officers, or a ratio of 14.1 enlisted men per officer including flying officers. In 1953 ratio was 10.5 to 1 even with flying officers moved from army to air force.

So a belief arises that with the necessity for big standing military establishment it is necessary to operate it on business basis.

Unfortunately, at present General Accounting Office has little power to stop waste, before it happens; it can only find where the waste has been. Thus there is quite a bit of sentiment to keep the military men out on tactical problems where they belong, and turn over all business matters affecting the armed forces to qualified businessmen.

Many old timers in Washington recall the administration of Theodore Roosevelt who used to require army officers to accompany him on grueling hikes and horseback rides to remove the fat. Now drastic measures are required to remove the financial fat from defense.

WARTHEN-LIBERTO

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Sarah Marie Liberto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Liberto, New Orleans, La., and George Thomas Warthen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph J. Warthen, Emmitsburg, on Sunday afternoon, April 21, at 3 o'clock in St. Landry's Catholic Church, New Orleans. Rev. Fr. Jude Speyer officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballarina length gown of white lace and net over taffeta and a white flower-shaped hat with a shoulder-length veil. She carried a prayer book topped with a lavender orchid and pink rosebuds.

The bridal attendants were Mrs. Bernie Granger, New Iberia, La., and Miss Grace Terracina, New Orleans, who wore pink and blue gowns respectively. They carried pink gladioli and blue cornflowers.

The ushers were A. J. Terracina, New Orleans, and Adel Carmina, Alexandria, La.

A reception was held following the ceremony after which the couple left on a honeymoon to New York City.

Mrs. Warthen was employed as a secretary in New Orleans. Mr. Warthen spent two years in Japan and Korea with the U. S. Army. He is a plastering and stucco contractor. The couple are now residing at 117 Carlisle St., Gettysburg, Pa.

COMMUNION BREAKFAST

Members of the Emmitsburg Knights of Columbus Council observed their annual communion breakfast Sunday morning following Mass in St. Joseph's Catholic Church with their chaplain, Rev. Fr. Charles F. Stouter, celebrant.

The breakfast was served in the cafeteria of St. Joseph's High School and was prepared by the ladies of the Sodality. Prayer was offered by Father Stouter. About 53 members and guests attended. Mr. Adolph Wasilifsky was the principal speaker. Guests, who were introduced by the grand knight, J. Laurence Orendorff, were John P. Bauernschub, Baltimore, state deputy; Ignatius L. Kennedy, Frederick, district deputy, and John Wilson and Austin Thomas, also of Frederick. Wilson organized the local council back in 1918. Twenty-five year pins were given Paul A. Humerick, Leonard J. Sanders, Blasius Sanders, Harry Kelly and Herbert Sprankle.

The maternal death rate in the United States decreased by four-fifths in the period from 1940 to 1953, from 34 deaths per 10,000 live births to about six per 10,000.

Biological concentration of radio-active materials into sewage sludge that can be dried and burned may leave only a small amount of residue to be stored.

P-E Co. Publication Wins Top Award

For the sixth consecutive year the company publication of the Potomac Edison Co. has received an award from the Public Utilities Advertising Assn. in its annual Better Copy Contest. The company publication this year was presented with a first award in their classification which is made up of other companies having approximately the same number of customers as served by the local utility.

The advertising department of the local utility also received two other awards in the competition which included over 2000 entries. Awards were presented for a direct mailing piece, the calendar enclosed in the monthly bills, and for "Modern Homemakers Live Electrically," which was distributed to the power company's customers.

S. E. Remsburg is a member of the reporting staff of the prize winning publication.

This was the 31st year of the contest which is the oldest continuous advertising competition in the U. S.

Entries in this year's contest represented public utilities over the entire country and a total of 2059 entries were received in the 22 different classifications.

The awards for the local company were received by promotional manager C. D. Lyon at the PUA National Convention held on May 14 in Boston, Mass.

Teachers Honor Late Miss Smith

The passing of Miss Gertrude Smith well reminds one of the words: "Get into the habit of looking for the silver lining of the cloud and, when you have found it, continue to look at it, rather than at the leaden gray in the middle. It will help you over many hard places."—Willitts.

In her passing, the school system of Frederick County has lost a faithful member and a conscientious worker.

Miss Smith was born in Brunswick and received her early education in the schools of that town. She was graduated from Brunswick High School in 1921. From there she went to Maryland State Normal School at Towson and was graduated in 1923. She also continued work in education at Johns Hopkins University, the University of Virginia and Duke and had taken extension courses at the University of Maryland.

She taught in West Brunswick School from 1923-1929. Then she became principal of the East Brunswick School for a year, after which she was appointed to become what is now known as supervisor of pupil personnel of Frederick County. She served in this capacity until her untimely death, May 10, 1954.

Mindful of the long association with Miss Smith and in appreciation of her faithful and untiring work the Frederick County Teachers' Assn., in behalf of its members, gratefully records its appreciation of her by adopting the following resolution:

WHEREAS, Our heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom and love, has removed from earth by death, Miss Gertrude Smith;

THEREFORE, be it resolved, that we, on behalf of the Frederick County Teachers' Assn., attest to the assistance and support which Miss Smith brought to the teaching staffs and schools which she faithfully served.

RESOLVED, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this organization, and that a copy be sent to Miss Smith's family as an expression of deep sympathy and as a testimonial of our sincere appreciation of her usefulness and friendship, not only as a member of the Frederick County Teachers' Assn., but also as a citizen of Frederick County.

Be it further resolved, that copies of these resolutions be sent to all county newspapers and to the Board of Education of Frederick County.

CELEBRATES WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarence Sanders were guests at a surprise dinner May 16 held in honor of their 45th wedding anniversary. They were married on May 12.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Sanders and son, Jimmy, of Washington, D. C.; Allen Sanders and Marianne Sanders, of Washington; Mrs. Owen Sanders and children, Sandra and Jimmy; Mrs. Paul Freshmen, of Thurmont; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Tressler of Blue Ridge Summit, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ditzler and children, Cathy, Vicky, and Melissa. They received many lovely gifts.

Miss Kathleen Wantz is recuperating at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wantz, following a recent operation at South Baltimore General Hospital where she is a student nurse.

Elizabeth Kay Wilhide, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wilhide, celebrated her sixth birthday anniversary Monday at a party in her home.

ALUMNI MEET

The St. Joseph's High School Alumni Assn., met Sunday morning in the senior class room in the high school, President Michael L. Boyle, presiding. Ten members were present and it was voted to present a $5 award to the most deserving senior at the graduation exercises. Mrs. Frances Keilholtz and Michael Boyle were named to a committee for the purchase of new dictionaries or an encyclopedia yearbook for the school.

The annual election of officers of the group was held with these results: President, Charles E. Baker; vice president, Edward J. Houck; vice president, Miss Barbara Rosensteel, secretary; Mrs. Madeline Harner, treasurer and Miss Patricia Lingg, historian. It was decided to hold a reunion on June 27 and Edward Houck and William Sterbinsky were appointed co-chairmen, assisted by Patricia Lingg, Barbara Rosensteel and Kenneth Joy. The place of the affair will be decided by the committee.

A shut-down in drilling on exploratory oil wells costs an average of $1000 per day.

May Procession
Attracts Large Audience

The annual May procession of St. Joseph's Catholic Church was held Sunday evening. Participating were first communicants, children of St. Euphemia's School, members of the Junior Holy Name Society, Children of Mary of St. Joseph's High School, members of the Blessed Virgin Mary Sodality, acolytes, priests of St. Joseph's Rectory and May Queen Christine Timmerman, attended by Dorothy Topper and Mary Jo Joy.

Miss Timmerman, president of the Children of Mary, and a member of the graduating class of the high school, crowned the statue of the Blessed Virgin in the church as the choir and congregation sang, "O, Mary We Crown Thee With Blossoms Today." During the procession hymns were sung. "Devotions to the Blessed Mother" was the theme of the sermon delivered by the Rev. Fr. Hugh O'Donnell of St. Vincent's House. Mass was celebrated by the Rev. John D. Sullivan, pastor, assisted by Rev. Casl, assistant pastor, and Father O'Donnell.

Joseph Priestley, English chemist, discovered that the gum from certain trees would rub out pencil marks, giving rubber its name.

You'll get best results in ironing if you iron each section perfectly dry before going to the next.

If you are buying meat with bone, you'll need one pound for two servings. A pound of lean meat without bone will make four servings.

After a gelatin salad is partially set, you'll need to allow about four more hours of chilling before it will be firm enough to unmold.
