Reports indicate that the "air raid" Monday went off very smoothly, but there's one little item that strangely impresses me. While everyone is asked to turn off lights, electrical appliances and even pull the master switch to insure maximum protection and minimum damage to property and life, the traffic light on the Square kept blinking merrily on. Probably a signal or an indication to "enemy" planes that Emmitsburg is still here, I suppose. Well we weren't the only ones guilty of this bit of carelessness or negligence, I might say, because I understand that Thurmont experienced the same phenomenon, in addition, I was told that a large and well-lighted beer sign remained unextinguished all during the 10-minute "raid." Also some faces in Frederick were reddened as the result of the failure of the raid sirens which failed to respond. No harm meant to anyone, it's just my little way of trying to right wrong matters in the least painful manner.

Those who attended the restoration of a section of the Catoctin Recreational Area last week were amazed at what they viewed. Many expressed astonishment at the excellent picnic and recreational facilities available there. Well, now you know where a good picnic spot can be had and enjoyed. The area is just a short distance past Shangri-La (to the Democrats) or Camp David (to the Republicans). Well anyway, just drive past the entrance and bear left at the fork in the road and in a few short minutes you'll be enjoying one of the best picnic spots in America. See you there!

To those interested in learning just which end of town the new highway by-pass will hit, I have been advised that a State Roads Commission official recently told a Grange meeting that at the present time plans called for the by-pass to go through the East End of town. Just how far away or near to the town the cut will be made is still, of course, a big secret. Now you can still go on guessing.

Well there's certainly no reason for anyone, physically capable and of an employable age to be unemployed in Emmitsburg. The factories have been hiring all the qualified help they can and are now in the process of training those who are inexperienced. We've been hearing squawks about not being able to land jobs here and for a while most of the "beefs" appeared justified, but now I feel certain that when this hiring spree is over and the factories are going at top production, there'll be only a few left to say that work is hard to get. The additional weekly income of these extra employes should be a boon to local businessmen who felt the loss of the "Tunnel" trade when that project was completed some time ago. If my information is correct I believe that one factory alone has or will hire in the near future, 50 men and women. So if you are at the present time unable to obtain employment, be sure and apply at one of these local plants.

A large number of Emmitsburgians are expected to witness the Braddock Heights parade Saturday evening at 7:00 p. m. Those attending will be happy and proud to see the Municipal Band and Fire Company in the line of march. Both outfits will be uniformed and are expected to make a good showing, so try and make it if you can, I know you'll enjoy the occasion.

Democratic Rally Monday Night

The Emmitsburg Democratic Central Committee has announced a big pre-election rally to be held in the VFW annex on Monday evening, June 21, at 8 o'clock.

The affair will be the second of a series of similar events that are planned by the committee.

Lumen F. Norris, chairman of the committee, said that all candidates for office on the Democratic ticket had been invited and that most of them planned to attend the affair in an effort to get better acquainted with members of the group and learn their view concerning the coming primary, June 28. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

Electrical Storm Kills Nine Head Of Livestock

Heavy financial loss was inflicted on four local farmers as a result of Tuesday's violent electrical storm which was accompanied by a heavy downpour.

Nine cows were killed on four separate Emmitsburg farms. A cow was struck by lightning on the J. L. Nester place at the edge of East End, also two more were killed by a bolt of lightning on the Roy Sanders farm about two and a half miles east of town on the Taneytown Road.

In the same vicinity, Mrs. Leo Seiss said that "the two best cows of my husband's herd" were struck and killed outright while standing near a wire fence from which the wire was ripped by the bolt.

Almost simultaneously, she added, four dairy cows belonging to her neighbor, Loy E. Hess, about three and a half miles east of town were lightning-struck and died. These four cattle were killed by a bolt which also struck and badly damaged the tree under which they were standing.

It was learned that eight cows had been electrocuted by lightning in the Frederick City area. Several telephone lines were reported knocked out in Emmitsburg by the phone company manager, Roger E. Heck. Service was quickly restored with a minimum of inconvenience to patrons.

Urges Enlistments In Air Raid And Spotter Work

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: I was very much pleased with the way the people of Emmitsburg responded to the air alert Monday. With a few exceptions, everybody was off the streets and indoors. I wish to thank the men that helped me during the alert. It is a matter of seriousness and we should be proud we have volunteers that are willing to help. What we need is more volunteers. We may someday need automobiles and trucks to evacuate the people in case of a bombing attack. We need more nurses and help to carry litter cases in case of casualties. I know that in World War II a lot of people made fun of anyone that was in the minutemen or spotters. It is no joke. If the ones that poke fun would go through an air raid like I have experienced, they wouldn't think it so funny. Thank God we only have a few of those kind in our midst.

I think it is time we gave some thought about what could happen to our town and ourselves, and avoid another Pearl Harbor. If and when such a thing does occur, God forbid, they aren't going to give us any warning like we had in Monday's "attack." Our good friend Lumen Norris organized a spotter station and now we can't get near enough volunteers to watch for two hours. We are too complacent about our security but by having spotters in the tower we may be able to prevent disaster to us and our neighbors, so let's get back of Lumen's project and man the spotting tower, at least during the night.

Anyone desiring to help in this noble cause as a civilian defense police, just send me your name or contact me and I will be happy to sign you up. We need all the volunteers we can get, both for the tower and other jobs.

Our excellent fire company was standing by during the alert, as was the ambulance crew. We certainly should be proud of them! It is everyone's responsibility to help so let's back the project one hundred per cent. Our town cooperated 100% during the alert according to C. D. reports. I am told the next alert may have no signal or advance warning so volunteers let's be on our toes 24 hours a day from now on.

Likes Baseball Club

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

I want to tell you how much I enjoyed playing for your ball club. I don't think I've ever dealt with a more friendly group of men or played ball with a better bunch of fellows than you have here in Emmitsburg. It was a pleasure to play with your club and I hope that I can be of aid to you in the playoffs in September. Best of luck to the ball team for the rest of the season.

ROAD ROLLER BLAZE

The Vigilant Hose Company responded to an alarm Saturday at the George Kramer farm on the Tract Road where a road roller, doing resurfacing, was afire.

Graduation exercises of Emmitsburg High School were held Wednesday evening in the school auditorium with 13 seniors being awarded diplomas. The presentation of diplomas was made by George J. Martin, vice president of the Board of Education.

Drill Team Wins

The Legion Drill Team of the Francis X. Elder Post received first prize of $15 for the best-appearing unit in the firemen's parade at New Windsor on June 9.

Among those who participated in the parade were Everett Christner, George Danner, Allen Davis, Sterling Goulden, Charles B. Harner, Thomas C. Harbaugh, Paul McGlaughlin, T. E. Rodgers, Joseph E. Rodgers, John Rosensteel, Louis F. Rosensteel, Andrew T. Shorb, William L. Topper, Leo Topper, Donald F. Topper, Carroll Topper, William T. Izer, Edgar Wastler, Eugene Sprankle, William Weidner, Geo. Ashbaugh, Jr., Edward Houck, John S. Hollinger, Clifford Eyley and John Sites.

Other parade engagements are scheduled for Taneytown on June 17, Gettysburg July 1, Thurmont Aug. 5 and Taneytown July 31.

Alumni Banquet

As previously announced, the Emmitsburg High School Alumni reunion-banquet with accompanying program, business meeting, and dance, will take place tomorrow evening, June 19, beginning with the banquet to be served promptly at 6:30 p. m.

Latest word from the banquet committee of the PTA, under the capable co-chairmanship of Mrs. Calvin Maddox and Mrs. Roy Sanders, is that provision is being made, as usual, for those alumni who have been unable to send in acceptance notices but do want to attend the banquet as well as the varied interesting events to follow. So alumni and their guests may be assured of a satisfying welcome if they come unannounced. Better unannounced than sorry!

To Be On TV

The Teen-Age Club of Emmitsburg will appear over Channel 13, Station WAAM Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock from Carlins Park, Baltimore.

The group was auditioned last week by the station for its appearance on the Reward For Talent Show.

Mrs. Helen Daugherty, in charge of the group, announced she has available 500 free tickets for those interested in attending the telecast and park. The tickets are good for chances on valuable items being awarded by park officials. It is the hope of the club to have a large representation at the event as judging will be done by the audience and one appointed judge. Tickets can be obtained free from Mrs. Daugherty or anyone of the cast.

Denounces Mahoney

In a surprise announcement made yesterday by R. Francis Sappington, Frederick County campaign manager for the candidacy of George P. Mahoney for governor, tendered his resignation in that capacity and verbally condemned the activities and actions of the Democratic candidate.

In a bitter denouncement of Mr. Mahoney, Mr. Sappington himself a candidate for the House of Delegates on the Democratic ticket, urged all his supporters and friends to switch their allegiance and support over to Dr. H. C. Byrd who is being backed by the Frederick County Central Committee.

While the facts in the separation were meager at this time, Mr. Sappington stated he would clarify the situation at a Democratic rally to be held in Emmitsburg Monday evening.

C. of C. Lists Standing Committees

President Cloyd W. Seiss presided at the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday evening in the Fire Hall. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary Arthur Elder and were approved.

Organization of a Jaycee association here was discussed but it was felt that the project was too costly, so no action resulted.

A letter from a resident of Miami, Fla., was read, seeking information as to available land or buildings south of town. Also a communication from an Arlington, Va. man interested in opening a barber shop here was received. Both communications were ordered answered.

President Seiss reported that he and Ralph Irelan were present at the ceremonies held Friday when 5,000 acres of the Catoctin Recreational Area were restored by the Federal Government, to the State of Maryland. The president also reported that a site and building for a small factory were available.

The Chamber authorized repainting and refurbishing of the four welcome signs erected by the organization three years ago, situated at the four main entrances to town.

The group went on record as favoring free parking for cars attending future conventions or large gatherings held within the parking meter area, and will ask the Town Council to grant such privileges in the future.

The executive committee announced the following standing committees for the ensuing year:

Advertising and information—Advertising: Arthur Elder, chairman; information, J. Ward Kerrigan and T. W. Rodgers; resources, Samuel C. Hays; labor, Ralph Irelan; transportation, John S. Hollinger; education, John M. Roddy, Jr.; housing, Cloyd W. Seiss; civic improvement and betterment, Col. Thomas J. Frailey, chairman; membership committee, Col. Thomas J. Frailey; civic health committee, Dr. Joseph F. Baldaecchino, Jr., and Dr. Charles R. Williams; special events committee, Bernard H. Boyle; legal committee, Col. T. J. Frailey and safety committee, J. Ward Kerrigan and Police Chief Daniel J. Kaas.

Lions Club

Meeting Held

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club was held in the Lutheran Parish Hall Monday evening, President Clarence E. Hahn presiding.

Reports on the recent district convention held in Atlantic City were given by Lions J. Ralph McDonnell and Clarence E. Hahn, who were delegates to the affair representing the local club. Delegates to the National Convention to be held in New York in July were discussed but none were appointed as yet.

Lion Philip B. Sharpe reported that the two local boys, one each, from Emmitsburg High and St. Joseph's High School, had been selected for the Boys' State school and camp to be held this summer at Annapolis.

Dr. D. L. Beegle, reporting for the sight conservation committee, reported that the club had just recently purchased eyeglasses for a local indigent child and that two more requests for glasses were pending. Secretary Robert E. Daugherty read a communication from the Maryland Traffic Commission urging cooperation in the 24-state "Slow Down and Live" campaign.

Dr. Beegle invited the club to hold its annual picnic at his cottage located at Marsh Creek. Installation of the new president and other officers will take place at the June 28 meeting.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW BOSTON, N. H., June 17—A revolution is going on in merchandising. This will affect shopkeepers in many ways. The change will be due to: (1) the introduction of "self-service"; (2) the congestion of a automobile parking; and (3) the trend toward big stores—super markets, super drug stores, super variety stores and shopping centers. Importance of Parking Space If I had a store, I certainly would immediately buy some adjoining property to enable my customers to park their cars safely and easily, or else I would move to a location near a municipal parking lot. As many merchants will feel likewise before long, every community will witness a large turnover of business property during the next few years. Some of this will sell at higher prices, while other business property will sell at lower prices, according to parking facilities.

Cities which now do not buy or condemn property needed for parking are making a great mistake. The longer they wait, the more the needed property will cost. Municipal governments which are delaying this work because some influential family or obstinate church objects are handicapping most of the merchants and are driving trade away. Owners of all business real estate will suffer. Yet, these merchants are the lifeblood of every city.

What About Shopping Centers? The new shopping centers with big central parking lots, which are being written up with great glee, may be only a stopgap. I hear that one of the largest centers near Boston is already in financial difficulty. They are subject to accidents while customers get in or out of them from the main thoroughfare, so that some women are already becoming afraid of using them. Municipal parking lots in the downtown centers of our communities are not subject to this danger, as speed in these downtown areas does not exceed 25 miles per hour, while cars pass the exits of the shopping centers at 70 miles per hour.

Furthermore, parking lots can become too big. Too many fenders are jammed every day. Power steering is almost necessary for a woman to enjoy a large parking lot. This is especially true as cars are being built longer and fancier every year. Yet, 85 per cent of the cars in the parking lots of the big shopping centers are being driven by women.

Looking Into The Future In place of new shopping centers as now laid out, we will find that four or more large stores will unite to buy some acreage on both sides of a main highway, located midway between two cities which could be about five to eight miles apart. This land will extend about 2000 feet long said main highway, giving angle parking for from 250 to 500 cars.

This angle parking, however, will not be on highway land. The buildings will be 50 feet back of the street line, allowing parking and safe backing out on private property. The buildings will be long and narrow. Instead of being 200 feet square, as at present, they will have the same area, but will be only 40 feet deep and 1000 feet along the street, thus allowing for angle parking of over 500 cars. There will also be extra land for Saturday parking.

I forecast that the two sides of the main highway will be connected by a two-way tunnel or overpass, enabling cars and foot passengers to cross this main highway easily and quickly without accident. Thus, a customer leaving home to travel west, on this main highway, to these super stores would leave the highway at the right and park anglewise directly in front of any super store under a protective canopy.

The customer would then do her shopping and go out by the checking cash register, walking under the canopy directly to her car. She would then back her car out with no fear or being hit by any car traveling on the main highway, would drive to the tunnel and cross under said main highway. If she wished to stop at one of the super stores on the other side of the street she could do so, or she could reverse the above process.

(Unusual laws quoted are from "It's The Law" feature in the American Magazine.)

Maybe you can't do it, but don't try—it'll just get you a vacation in the clink. I mean, whistling under water. It is illegal in the State of Vermont.

In some states you can get into trouble selling most anything on Sunday. But Tennessee—at least the city of Memphis—has a honey of a law. On Sunday in Memphis it's illegal to sell Teddy bears and yo-yo's, believe it or not.

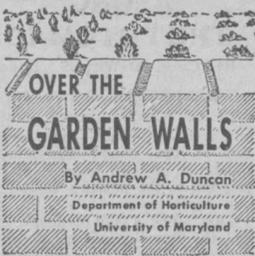

Ever have a yen to march a goose down the village street? Well, better not try it in McDonald, Ohio. In that town an ordinance specifically forbids it.

If you take a drink at a public water fountain in Louisiana you're within the law. But if you want to get into trouble, gargle. That's all . . . just gargle.

Got a parrot you don't want? Well, if you live in Baltimore, Md., you'd better keep it. It's against the law to give away or sell a parrot in that city.

Oh yes, here's one to scare VIP's. Port Jervis, N. Y., forbids any person to spread a runner or carpet on any street of the city.

Every gardener needs to use some form of commercial fertilizer. Gardeners who are still skeptical of the value of fertilizers should buy a small amount of a complete mixture and "experiment" on part of their garden. Fertilizers—if properly handled—can give an amazing boost to any garden.

Fertilizers are sold by their grade, such as 5-10-5 or 5-10-10. It is not necessary to buy a special mixture for each kind of vegetable. A 5-10-10 will give excellent results with most garden vegetables.

The amount to use will vary with the crop grown and the native fertility of the soil. Such vegetables as potatoes and onions need almost twice as much fertilizer as corn, okra, and beans. As a good rule-of-thumb figure on a ton to the acre. That figures out to a little over four pounds per 100 square feet.

Mix half the fertilizer thoroughly with the top soil by broadcasting it over the surface and spading and raking it into the soil. One-fourth of the fertilizer should be placed in furrows, on bands, beside and below the seed. Never let fertilizer come into direct contact with seeds. Use the remaining one-fourth of the fertilizer as topdressing during

Helpful Hints For The Homemaker

Look to fish for good food value. This popular food is now in good supply, and you have a wide variety from which to choose.

From an average serving of fish—three ounces—you get about the same amount of proteins as from a serving of meat. Nutritionist Janet Coblentz, University of Maryland Extension Service, says fish contains small amounts of iron and B-vitamins—thiamine and riboflavin. Seafood also provides some iodine, needed for proper body functioning. Canned and frozen fish are similar to fresh fish in nutritive value.

When buying fish you can count on one pound of whole fish to serve one person; one pound of dressed for two servings, and a pound of steaks or fillets to serve three.

Because fish is delicately flavored and highly perishable, keep it refrigerated at all times. If you buy fresh fish, use it immediately or refrigerate until cooking time. Wrap in moisture proof paper or place in a covered dish and use within a day or two. Keep frozen fish in your freezing unit until time to use it. Thaw before or during cooking, but add a few extra minutes cooking time if you allow the fish to thaw while cooking.

Simmer, steam, broil, bake or fry fish, only long enough to develop flavor, and to the point that it flakes easily with a fork. Use high or low cooking temperatures. However when using a high heat, take care that fat doesn't spatter or that the fish doesn't cook so much that it becomes dry and tough.

Broil or bake such fat fish as mackerel, halibut and salmon. You can broil or bake lean fish—cod, haddock, flounder, ocean perch and whiting—but baste with fat to prevent drying out. Or bake in milk to keep the fish moist.

Cow Proves To Be Good Producer

Zentzvale Lauxmaster Beauty, owned by Morris A. Zentz of Emmitsburg has completed an officially tested lactation through the Herd Improvement Registry program of the Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America.

The test showed 454 pounds of butterfat, 13,712 pounds of milk, milked two times daily for 283 days. She is 5 years, 3 months of age and averaged 22 quarts daily—2½ times average U. S. cow. Testing was supervised by the University of Maryland, in cooperation with the Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

A promotion program aimed at improving the dairy situation during the marketing year was launched recently by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee Chairman George J. Martin said. The department has been assured of the full cooperation of the dairy industry in carrying out the series moves planned.

Chairman Martin pointed out that a hard-hitting program is called for in the light of the fact that Commodity Credit Corp. owned approximately 350 million pounds of butter, 420 million pounds of cheese, and 150 million pounds of dry milk solids, or a total of 1.3 billion pounds of dairy products on Mar. 31, 1954.

"The first part of the program," said State Chairman Martin, "consists of promotion work to push consumption of dairy products. The second part of the program is a nation wide effort to have dairymen increase culling of low-producing cattle. Culling has been far below normal in recent months due to low beef prices and the incentive of excessive production through high rigid price supports."

"When the effect of the support level of 75 per cent of parity which went into effect April 1, is fully reflected, the price of butter and cheese should be reduced in many areas. The lower milk prices to consumers which may result should bring about greater milk consumption." He also pointed out that if the per capita use of dairy products reached the 1945 level, the extra consumption would wipe out in a single year 7.5 billion of the 8 billion pounds of milk equivalent the government holds in storage.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kestig

(Editor, Sports Afield Magazine)

Some people think a compass will point the way back home. It will do no such thing. All a compass will do is tell you what direction north lies—and of course, east, south and west. But if you use your bean along with your compass, you can keep from getting turned around and bewildered.

No man, not even an Indian, has any sense of direction. So claims Col. Townsend Whelen in an article in Sports Afield magazine. Set any man down in country that is strange to him, on a day when he can't see the stars or sun or previously identified landmarks, and he quickly gets hopelessly lost unless he has a magnetic compass in his pocket.

Your compass need not be an expensive one, but choose one in which the north end of the needle is unmistakably marked. Some have one end of the needle bright and the other black, and when you're mixed up you can't remember which is which.

The best maps for any part of the U. S. are the standard topographic maps of the U. S. Geological Survey. They are published in quadrangle sheets covering about 15 minutes latitude and longitude and the scale is half an inch or an inch to the mile. Each quadrangle is designated by the name of some city, town or prominent feature in it.

You can get these maps from the Geological Survey, Washington 25, D. C., for areas east of the Mississippi. And for states west of that river including Louisiana and Minnesota, you can get maps from the Geological Survey, Denver Federal Center, Denver 15, Colo.

Write first for a free index sheet of the state you're concerned with. This shows the quadrangles, their names and locations. Then you order the maps you need, enclosing 20 cents for each by money order or check payable to the Director of the Geological Survey. Stamps are not accepted.

These maps are extremely accurate, but some were made 50 years ago and may not show recent roads, trails, and new small towns. So you'd better get an ordinary auto road map to use with them.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Cong. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, June 16 — Crowded schools, heavy traffic and worn-out roads—these are a few of the things Marylanders must put up with because of the location of the nation's capital on our doorstep.

Last week I felt compelled to call the attention of the House to just one angle of the problem: A $70 million appropriation for aid to schools crowded because of Federal employees swelling local communities will be a big help to our Congressional District. But our share is base only on the number of Federal employees who work in Maryland.

The day is gone, of course, when Washington alone was the capital; in a sense, the entire surrounding area of Maryland and Virginia is very much a part of it because of the streams of Federal workers who live in the state and travel—some of them many miles—to and from their homes each morning and night.

It was my suggestion, therefore, that the appropriations committee make careful study of a different formula for aiding our crowded schools—a formula based at least partly on the number of Federal employees who live in our communities, rather than actually working in them.

Attention High School Boys
Congress made history this year by approving of a third school to take its place beside the Naval and Military Academies at Annapolis and West Point—The Air Force Academy. Air Secretary Talbot is deciding now whether to build it at Lake Geneva, Wis.; Colorado Springs, Colo., or Walton, II. Meantime, I want to hear from the young men who want to compete for appointments to the first class of the Air Force Academy. I'll be glad to send you information about it.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION

SMALLMOUTH BLACK BASS
(Micropterus dolomieu)

RANGE: Is now found in nearly every State including Maryland, where it was introduced in the Potomac River in the year 1854, from West Virginia. By many considered "the gamest fish that swims." Plentiful in the Potomac River and Susquehanna River and tributaries; unlike its near relative the largemouth black bass it is not found in Maryland fresh tidal waters, where the largemouth thrives. It prefers fast, deep waters, with gravelly or rock bottoms, rather than muddy bottoms, and lakes with clear cold water.

DESCRIPTION: A bronzed-green, rarely black, color; usually lighter in color than the largemouth; dark vertical stripes on sides sometimes; color varies with water conditions. The rear end of the jaw is directly under the eye; the cheek has from 12 to 17 rows of scales, while the largemouth has usually 12 or less; the dorsal fin is not deeply notched, while this division in the largemouth often almost divides the dorsal into two separate fins.

BREEDING: The male makes the nest generally on gravelly bottoms by cleaning the debris from the bottom with fins and mouth; he guards the eggs and also the young fish for a day or so, then they are on their own. Nesting generally begins in the spring when the water temperature is 60 to 65 degrees F.; in Maryland this generally is in April, with the month of May covering the greatest spawning period; eggs hatch in from two days to a week, depending on water temperature.

HABITS: Favorable habitats for the smallmouth are cool, clean, clear streams and deep, cold lakes; sandy or rocky bottoms preferred; most anglers consider the smallmouth gamier than the largemouth. MANAGEMENT: Must have clear, well aerated water, free of pollution; food and cover; legal protection necessary in many waters due mainly to ever increasing fishing pressure; needs little stocking except in new or entirely depleted waters; improvement of habitat and cleaning up pollution most essential in good management.

VALUE: Classed strictly as a game fish, for it is more valuable for recreational purposes than commercially; its sale is prohibited in Maryland. It provides recreation and food for millions of sports fishermen throughout the United States and Canada, and is a source of income to many who furnish the necessities for successful angling. The species has been successfully transplanted to Foreign Countries.

Your Personal Health

When you have a headache or a backache, and you go to the medicine cabinet looking for a remedy, are you ever tempted to take a dose of that medicine the doctor prescribed for Aunt Mary that made her feel better so quickly? Resist the temptation!

When the doctor prescribed it for Aunt Mary, it was tailored to fit her particular physical condition and whatever was causing her symptoms. You are quite another case, and the medicine might not fit you—might indeed be harmful to you. Your symptoms may be due to an entirely different ailment. If a simply remedy such as aspirin doesn't help you, take your symptoms to the doctor and let him decide what medicine will fit you.

As a matter of fact, it is a good rule not to keep what is left of any prescription after it is no longer needed. Saving it for the next time or poor economy, since by then you may have changed, the germs you have may have changed, and the medicine itself may have changed while sitting on the bathroom shelf.

The doctor has a wide range of drugs to prescribe these days—drugs that are marvelously effective against many of the diseases that have plagued mankind for centuries. But they must be used with great care or they are worse than useless. In prescribing them, the doctor not only has in mind which drugs are effective against which ills, but he selects the form of the drug most suitable in the circumstances. He considers his patient, as well, and watches for signs of special sensitivity.

So let the doctor decide what medicine you will take, and when you will take it. Follow exactly the directions he gives you. And don't borrow prescribed medicine, or lend yours to anyone else.

LOOKING AHEAD

By Dr. George S. Schinnerer
DIRECTOR - MICHIGAN
EDUCATION PROGRAMS
East Lansing, Michigan

Three Great Cannots

What our children of today are taught will determine the way of life this nation will have in the years ahead. Nothing, therefore, could be more important to the future welfare of the people of America than the substance of the education that will be given to the 35 million youngsters who will enroll in our schools next September. A sound observation regarding one phase of this education has been made by Mark C. Schinnerer, superintendent of the Cleveland (Ohio) schools.

John W. Studebaker, chairman of the Scholastic Magazines' editorial board and former U. S. Commissioner of Education, commends Dr. Schinnerer's statement, and I hope it will be read by all parents and teachers, by everybody. "This is about the teaching of economics," Dr. Schinnerer wrote. "It is not directed just to teachers. It is directed to all teachers because the job that needs to be done cannot be done by just the teachers of economics. 'We Have Failed'."

"There is a colossal oversupply of people in my country who either never discovered some of the basic principles of economics or think that the economic laws have been repealed. We hear much wailing that the schools have failed in this regard and the cry is for required courses in economics. We have failed—in school and out—but the answer is not in required courses.

"The answer, in my opinion, lies in a continuous effort to inculcate in children, from the kindergarten through high school, some basic and very simple facts. There are three things which almost anyone can be brought to understand and if these three are ingrained, we can leave the more complicated principles to the experts.

Nothing for Nothing

"No. 1. You can't get something for nothing. Too many think they can. That is the basis of gambling and most speculation. Giving a higher mark in school than is earned is proving that the student can get something for nothing. That is bad business. When parents urge no homework, they somehow expect something for nothing. One gets out of school work about what he puts into it. Only parasites get something for nothing.

"No. 2. You can't spend more than you have and remain solvent. The longer such a system is followed, the more impossible it becomes to keep afloat. Know anyone who trades in a mortgaged car on a new one and has both a newer car and a bigger mortgage? The woods are full of such people. It is bad economics. It's somewhat like drug addiction. This applies equally to a person, a business, or a government.

Can't Equalize Ability

"No. 3. You cannot equalize ability by a handicap system. It is wrong to expect as much from a youngster with a low I.Q. as is expected from a youngster with a high I.Q. It is also wrong to set up handicaps so that they come out even. Leave that for the exclusive use of the racing stewards. Competition still has a place in America, thank goodness, and I don't want it any other way.

"In every school day, there are numerous incidents in each student's school experience when these three fundamentals are present. Just repeatedly bringing them to the pupil's consciousness will work wonders. If all people accepted these three economic axioms and lived by them, we would live in an economic paradise."

As I have written them down here, it seems to me that Dr. Schinnerer's three fundamentals are lessons on which we all

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Maryland farmers receive 84 per cent of their total cash receipts from crops which are not supported by any government price support program.

The per cent of cash farm receipts from basic commodities enjoying government price supports is only 15 per cent of the total cash receipts of Maryland farmers, and eight per cent of that is in support of tobacco—which, for reasons peculiar to tobacco farming, will continue to be supported at 90 per cent of parity under the Eisenhower-Benson program.

Figures just released by the Dept. of Agriculture show that Marylanders are earning their income by the sweat of their brows and not from government hand-outs.

The farm picture in Maryland turns out to be as follows:

(1) Eight-four per cent of total cash receipts are from non-supported commodities and dairy products.

(2) Sixty-nine per cent of total cash receipts are from meat animals, and dairy and poultry products—for which price supported feeds are an element of cost.

(3) Fifty-eight per cent of total cash receipts are from non-supported commodities, which includes meat animals, poultry and eggs, fruits and other crops.

(4) Eight per cent of total cash receipts are from basic commodities, other than tobacco, which are supported under the government parity program.

An interesting revelation from the figures is that the cash receipts from basic farm commodities supported by the Federal government is only a minor part of the Maryland agricultural economy, and that the income from these basic price support commodities is concentrated in nine southern states, one midwest state, Kansas, and two northern states, North Dakota and Montana.

The farm program worked out by President Eisenhower and Secretary Benson is not a cure-all, and, as Secretary Benson has said, "There is no such medicine, but it (the Benson program) does offer real promise of starting the patient on the road to recovery."

The argument against the flexible support program, which is backed by the National Grange, American Farm Bureau Federation, and other organizations, is kept alive by the controversy over what effect flexible supports would have on six basic commodities—wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, peanuts and rice.

On a national basis these six commodities account for only 23 per cent of the total cash receipts of farmers, and, as stated before, for only 15 per cent of the total cash receipts in Maryland.

The President's recommendations are that the present law, which provides for flexible supports on these crops next year, be permitted to become effective as scheduled; except for tobacco, which would remain at 90 per cent of parity because of the rigid production controls which growers have been willing to accept.

Of the $6.3 billion which this government has tied up in price supports, $5 billion is invested in wheat, corn, cotton, and tobacco.

need to be refreshed—especially in a world in which glittering promises of something for nothing are being made by the Socialists and Communists and their dupes. It is good to see these fundamentals propounded by one of America's top public school educators.

The argument against the flexible support program, which is backed by the National Grange, American Farm Bureau Federation, and other organizations, is kept alive by the controversy over what effect flexible supports would have on six basic commodities—wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, peanuts and rice.

On a national basis these six commodities account for only 23 per cent of the total cash receipts of farmers, and, as stated before, for only 15 per cent of the total cash receipts in Maryland.

The President's recommendations are that the present law, which provides for flexible supports on these crops next year, be permitted to become effective as scheduled; except for tobacco, which would remain at 90 per cent of parity because of the rigid production controls which growers have been willing to accept.

Of the $6.3 billion which this government has tied up in price supports, $5 billion is invested in wheat, corn, cotton, and tobacco.

All evidence points out convincingly that farmers and the government have gotten into difficulty only on commodities which

Danger To State From Boss Rule, Mahoney Warning

Pollack-Byrd Alliance Could Endanger All County's Legislation

George P. Mahoney, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, last week warned of the dangers of political "bossism" not only to the area controlled by the boss but to every individual county and to the entire state.

Addressing the Independent Democrats of Kent County at Chestertown last week Mahoney drew the attention of his listeners to the political alliance of his opponent, Dr. H. C. Byrd, with James H. (Jack) Pollack, boss of Baltimore's Fourth District, who is now seeking to extend his political sway to include other areas of Baltimore.

"Up to now," Mahoney said, "Jack Pollack has been the boss of one Legislative District in Baltimore City. He has one senator and six members of the House at his beck and call.

"But Dr. Byrd has given Jack Pollack his golden opportunity. There is a Pollack ticket in every one of the six Baltimore districts, and every Pollack ticket is also a Byrd ticket. What will happen if Pollack spreads his influence all over Baltimore City? Suppose he elects four of the six city senators? Just four senators could block any Governor's appointments to any city posts."

Involves Entire State

"And that isn't all," Mahoney continued. This involves the entire State of Maryland. If your Kent County legislators oppose the wishes of a boss, they may find that all the legislators under the control of that boss are voting against Kent County bills.

"Your own Kent County bills would require Jack Pollack's approval. This is a situation which would affect every county and the entire State. As you well know, a block of four, five or six senators would hold the balance of power in the Senate. If they should vote with the Republicans, they could block any legislation or any program sponsored by a Governor, and it would not be anything new for Jack Pollack to join forces with the Republicans.

"A vote for Byrd is a vote for Jack Pollack," Mahoney declared. "A vote for the Byrd-Pollack alliance is a vote for the bosses who wreck the party to increase their own prestige. A vote for the bosses is bad for the party, for Kent County and for the State."

Opportunity For Women

Continuing his statement-a-day campaign last week, Mahoney pledged "an opportunity for women to play a more important part in the management of state affairs."

In the past, he said women "have often been passed over when appointments were made to posts of major importance." There are many State boards "upon which women should be better represented, many executive positions which women of intelligence and ability should fill."

In the first of a series of campaign telecasts last week Mahoney said that as Governor he would put an end to the practice of entrusting Maryland highway management to "part-time executives." He advocated a full-time State Roads Commission composed of "highway experts, paid what they're worth."

Mahoney urged Marylanders to support the Mental Hygiene Society's current Mental Health Fund Campaign, saying that mental health "continues to be one of Maryland's major problems, despite the real gains of the recent past."

In another statement, Mahoney suggested that Maryland set up "juvenile conference committees" to aid courts in handling juvenile delinquency cases. He cited the system in New Jersey where these committees, consisting of probation and school authorities, as well as representative private citizens interested in the problems of youth, have been quite successful.

have been supported at 90 per cent of parity. The Eisenhower-Benson program for flexible supports can assist in stabilizing the economy of farmers engaged in production of these basic commodities.

What are kindness, charity, love of neighbor, tolerance, patience, but the noble qualities of bearing (and bearing with) "the infirmities of the weak"? However, if we express those qualities with smug self-satisfaction, they are of small, fleeting worth.

The 90 per cent of parity program has resulted in serious over-production of a few commodities, in only a few states, and Maryland farmers will realize that these highly supported commodities increase their own costs of production.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Small business knowing corrosive effects of heavy taxation, is interested in reduction of government expenses. But while testimony of the General Accounting Office before a Congressional Committee indicates substantial wastage of taxes in the army due to lack of business understanding, further GAO testimony also indicates lack of business management in the State Department may not only be C. W. Harder wasting tax money, but also creating a lack of respect for U. S. abroad.

State Department which once controlled a modest budget now absorbs substantial tax money. Last year State Department spent more than a quarter billion dollars, roughly $30 million more than Treasury Dept. spent operating far flung Coast Guard.

But State Department handling of funds could be partial reason why Europeans resist U. S. plans. General Accounting Office reports in 1949 State Department had one of its young men buy the Baron Rothschild mansion in France for U. S. Embassy.

The fact the then Ambassador did not want to live in the place did not deter Washington thinkers.

For $1,900,000 the Baron agreed to sell mansion to State Dept.

The mansion had carved oak wall panelling, marble bannisters, tapestries, other items of great value, GAO reports.

But young State Dept. man handling deal utterly neglected to get sale terms in writing.

© National Federation of Independent Business

But before deed was issued to U. S. the tapestries, the oak panelling, marble bannisters, other attachments were removed.

State Department officials in France inquiring at the time were told they were being removed for cleaning. Told that was not a U. S. custom, the Frenchmen apparently shrugged shoulders and said something like, "But messieurs, this is custom in La Belle France."

Before U. S. obtained possession mansion was so gutted it was uninhabitable, GAO says.

State Department official who made real estate deal with Baron Rothschild of famous international banking house without reducing terms of sale to writing, is still on job.

So almost $2 million American tax dollars were spent on a real estate deal in France in a manner that any American real estate broker could not use on the sale of a woodshed without risking license loss.

This could be a reason why French have not ratified European Defense plan. Perhaps the Rothschilds have entertained French officials on how they sold a mansion to the Americans.

This could have set French official brains to thinking along these lines. "If those crazy Americans don't know how to handle a $2 million real estate deal, are they precisely the people to trust with the lives and fortunes of 40 million Frenchmen."

Whether one agrees or not with the policies and philosophies currently propounded in Washington one fact is clear.

In the family, on the farm, in business, and in nations, there is no substitute for sound business management for domestic tranquility, for prestige abroad.

Farmers Using New Gas Method Of Adding Nitrogen

Maryland farmers are increasingly using a new gas method of adding nitrogen to their soil to raise the protein content and yields of their crops, according to the Committee for Conservation Now.

This new development in scientific farming is the application of anhydrous ammonia, a high nitrogen content liquid which turns into gas when it is injected into the soil. Nitrogen in this form has been available for agricultural use only since World War II.

More than one-third of the nitrogen applied to the soil in the country is now in the form of anhydrous ammonia, the fertilizer industry estimates. It is most widely used in the Midwest.

The University of Maryland College of Agriculture has reported that in large scale operations the cost per unit of anhydrous ammonia is usually less than that of other nitrogen materials. In smaller operations or on a custom basis, the cost is usually comparable to that of solid nitrogen.

The College also says that best response can be expected from nitrogen on soils of low fertility and low organic matter. It is most effective when no legume or manure is plowed under, when only grass sod or straw mulch is plowed under, when little fertilizer has been used, when the soil has plenty of moisture, and for non-legume crops.

The Committee for Conservation Now added that practices which save soil, fertility and moisture are needed before application of fertilizer in order to get most efficient results.

Anhydrous ammonia is applied with a special applicator consisting of a tank with pipes behind blades extending five to six inches into the ground. Applicators are mounted on or are pulled by tractors.

The more common method of applying nitrogen is spreading a solid form as a side dressing or along with other fertilizers over the surface of the ground. It also is added by turning under grasses and legumes and by the roots of legumes.

The amount of nitrogen in the soil directly affects the protein value of plants, according to chemists. Nitrogen also increases crop yields.

Advice and assistance on the use of fertilizers, including anhydrous ammonia, are available from county agents.

Culling Important To Good Flock

Culling of poultry should begin when the chicks are taken from the incubator and should be continued as long as the flock exists. Huge losses are incurred each year by poultrymen who feed and house layers that don't lay and growing birds that don't grow properly.

Getting rid of birds that are lagging in development not only reduces the feed bill but gives the producer an opportunity to have a uniformly better flock by fall. Culling is one of the most financially rewarding practices that a poultry raiser can observe.

The art of culling is not at all limited to the poultry "expert." An alert poultryman can learn to cull his own birds and, by observing such points as rate of growth, feathering, body shape, fleshing and egg production, will develop into a more efficient poultry producer in the process.

There is a minimum of equipment required for culling. To catch the birds, a hook or net is ordinarily used. Many poultrymen keep these items in the house at all times and immediately remove any bird that shows signs of unthriftiness.

By placing burlap sacks over the windows to darken the house, culling will cause less excitement in the flock. To prevent injury, handle the birds carefully, especially when using a hook to catch them.

Catching crates with sliding doors at the ends are handy for culling. A piece of heavy wire netting is quite satisfactory for driving the birds to the crate. Birds should not be crowded into the catching crate because some may suffocate.

Cockerels should be separated from the pullets as soon as possible, preferably by the time birds are put on the range. Market all cockerels, keeping only those which appear to have the best breeding qualities.

In selecting cockerels are going to keep, pick those birds that had long pinfeathers in their wings at hatching time or tail feathers at 10 days of age. This means marking the promising cockerels early in life.

Usually it is desirable to retain enough cockerels to maintain a proportion of one male to 15 females in medium and heavy breeds. For Leghorns, keep only one rooster for 20 hens.

NO COMMENT
By WALTER CHAMBLIN, Jr.

The General Tax Revision Bill, expected to be before the Senate early in June, contains many changes long sought by business.

There are some provisions that some people don't like, but on the whole it is regarded as beneficial to business.

Many who have followed the bill carefully are of the opinion that this will probably be the last chance in a number of years for business to obtain these changes.

World Situation: There is no reason to be panicky, but there is reason to take a careful appraisal of world developments.

No responsible person in official Washington wants a shooting war . . . or armed intervention. What is going on now is a sparring for both diplomatic and military advantage in the hope that actual conflict can be avoided.

All kinds of rumors are floating around. These should not be taken too seriously. There is probably an essence of truth in many of them but there is also a tremendous amount of misinformation in circulation.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Firor, Thurmont, announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Elizabeth, to George William Greco, son of Prof. and Mrs. Dominic Greco, Emmitsburg.

Miss Firor was graduated from Georgetown Visitation Junior College, Wash., D. C., June 2, receiving an associate of arts degree. Mr. Greco is a student at the University of Maryland Dental and Surgery College, Baltimore. No date has been set for the wedding.

Evidence that the situation is regarded by the administration as tense is further pointed up by the agreement by both House Republican and Democratic leaders to permit a shift . . . without Congressional approval . . . of military funds appropriated for aid to Indo-China to other Far Eastern areas if deemed advisable. Congress seldom leaves much flexibility for such a shift of funds.

Then, too, the situation is complicated by developments in Guatemala. A number in Washington regard these developments as just another part of an over-all war of nerves being waged by the Communists everywhere.

forces in the Panama Canal area are alerted and no ship goes through the canal without thorough inspection. There is a school of thought here that the U. S. may possibly have to move into Honduras and Nicaragua to show the Guatemalans (and the Communists) that the U. S. means business from the long range point of view. Apparently that is the reason for the arms air lift to those two countries.

Master Arthur Elder is spending a two weeks' vacation with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Diffenderfer, New Holland, Pa.

How to "Warm Up" A Party

At your parties, do guests stare blankly, fail to mix? If your parties are jinxed by "warm up" trouble, here's advice from a party expert—serve original refreshments and serve them early. Have plenty of tasty tidbits on hand and unusual drinks to start the conversation rolling.

Latest drink is the Lo-Ball. What a conversation piece! Simple to mix, too. Two ice cubes, a generous jigger of Calvert, a splash of soda, mixer or water, twist of lemon peel. Serve in new Calvert Lo-Ball glasses available from your dealer.

For unusual hot d'oeuvres try a dish of chilled olives, husky hunks of cheese, crisp radishes and celery and carrot with a special dunkin' sauce. Your guests will enjoy dunkin'! Watch that party warm up! Here's the recipe for the dunkin' sauce:

Bible School Opening Monday

According to Rev. Philip Bower, director of the Emmitsburg Community Vacation Bible School for 1954, preparations are about completed for the opening of the school for boys and girls from three to 15 years in the Lutheran Parish Hall on Monday at 9 a. m. This year's officers, teachers and helpers as arranged so far are: Rev. Philip Bower, Rev. Edmund Welker, Rev. Gideon Galambos, Mary Long, Mrs. Andrew Eyster, Mrs. C. C. Combs, Carl Crist, Mrs. Leonard Zimmerman, Mrs. Mary Rohrbaugh, Marjorie Crist, Sue Eyster, Mrs. John Eyer, Mrs. John McLaughlin, Edith Long, Edna Zimmerman, Frances Jane Bollinger, Beulah Glass, Betsy Hays, Kathryn Abell, Nancy Valentine, Mrs. John White, Mrs. Richard Harner, Mrs. Geo. Gartrell, Betty Ann Hollinger and Audrey Baumgardner.

Transportation of boys and girls from the country and more distant areas is always one of the school's major problems. The parents of children and other interested persons are asked to take the initiative in arranging for bringing the students in from their respective areas. Complete community cooperation is solicited for this community project.

Grove Lime Co To Supply District With Ready-Mix Concrete

The establishment of a new service in Thurmont has been announced by the M. J. Grove Lime Co. with the opening for business of the Thurmont Ready-Mix Concrete Division of the M. J. Grove Lime Co., whose main office is at Lime Kiln, near Frederick, Robert B. Crothers, president.

The company has made this investment to provide better and more speedy service to the users of ready-mixed concrete in the Emmitsburg and Thurmont area and it is stated that the more efficient service rendered through local on-the-spot operation will result in economies for individuals, corporations and contractors who use the ready-mix concrete in basements, sidewalks, driveways, curbs and other residential and business building development and maintenance. It was noted also that rural use of ready-mix concrete includes use in dairy barns and other farm areas where efficient, sanitary work space is desired.

The locating of the new service in Thurmont is in recognition of that growing area which the M. J. Grove Lime Co. stated is "deserving of the best service which can be made possible," as they commented on the excellent co-operation received from Thurmont officials and citizenry in developing plans for the plant which is located on the northwest edge of Thurmont.

Experienced management will be given the Thurmont operation by Thomas Humm, who has been associated with the Frederick ready-mix plant, which started ready-mix concrete service in '38. As part of their extensive plan to provide ready-mix concrete service to users in nearby Carroll County and Pennsylvania, in addition to northern Frederick County towns, the Grove Co. has secured Western Maryland Railroad siding to facilitate operations and has installed their own water supply system through a deep well. Among the equipment and related items provided to assure prompt and efficient service are a Blaw-Knox bulk cement bin of 800 barrel capacity; a 120-ton Butler aggregates bin, charged with ¾-yard Koehring crane; and their present fleet of ready-mix concrete equipment, including 12 4½-yard mixers, two 3-yard mixers and one 3½-yard mixer. The plant's new phone number is Thurmont 6381.

Local Graduates of University of Maryland

An Emmitsburg couple had the unique and pleasant experience of having a son and daughter graduate simultaneously from the same schools on June 5. The parents, Prof. and Mrs. Arvin P. Jones, Emmitt Gardens, were present when son Richard A., was awarded the M.D. degree while daughter Shirley M., received her B.S.R.N. The exercises were held at the University of Maryland in Baltimore Saturday, June 5. Richard was graduated from Brunswick

High School in 1946 and received his B.A. from Bridgewater College four years later, 1950, followed by his doctor's degree recently. Shirley, a 1950 Emmitsburg High School graduate, spent two years in pre-nursing at College Park and two years at the University Hospital, Baltimore. Both son and daughter will practice in Baltimore hospitals the coming year. Richard is assigned to the Mercy Hospital and Shirley to the University Hospital.

Presbyterians Are Host To Synod Meeting

Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church was host to the 491st stated meeting of the Baltimore Presbytery Tuesday night, the last meeting of the Presbytery before the Synod meeting at Hood College, June 21-25.

The Presbytery convened Tuesday afternoon and ran through the evening. Dinner was served at 6 p. m. at which the 40th anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. Walter R. Cremeans, D.D., general presbyter and moderator of the presbytery, was observed. The vice moderator, Elder J. Theodore Wolfe, presided at the dinner. The Rev. Gideon E. Galambos is minister of the Emmitsburg church.

A panel discussion of the report of the commissioners to the 165th General Assembly last month was part of the afternoon's program. In the evening, following the service of License and Commissioning, at which the Emmitsburg church choir sang, the Rev. Bela Vassady, D.D. spoke.

Dr. Vassady, a member of the faculty of the Evangelical and Reformed Theological Seminary, Lancaster, Pa., used the subject "Through Ecumenical Glasses." His talk was a presentation of the issues before the Second World Council of Churches, to be held at Evanston, Ill., in August. Dr. Vassady is a delegate to the assembly.

Other officers of the presbytery are stated clerk and treasurer, the Rev. A. Brown Caldwell; recording clerk, the Rev. Theodore F. Kennedy, and enrollment clerk, the Rev. George B. Shultz.

FROCK—SCHULER

Before an altar decorated with vases of blue delphinium and lighted tapers, Miss Dolores J. Schuler, daughter of Mrs. Mary Schuler, Orrtanna, Pa., and the late William Schuler, became the bride of Richard S. Frock, son of Carroll Frock and the late Mrs. Frock, Emmitsburg, on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Elias Ev. Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, the pastor, Rev. Philip Bower, officiating at the single ring ceremony.

The bride wore a white taffeta and net ballerina-length gown and a strapless bodice with a white net stole. The skirt and neckline were embroidered with pearls. She wore a net and pearl-trimmed bandeau to which was attached a face veil. Her bouquet was a colonial arrangement of white carnations with a removable corsage tied with silver ribbon.

Carroll Frock, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The bride's mother wore a navy blue street-length dress with navy and white accessories. The couple left on a honeymoon of unannounced destination after the ceremony. They will live in Orrtanna upon their return.

The bride was graduated from Gettysburg High School. Her husband, who was graduated from Emmitsburg High School in 1953, is employed at a Gettysburg hosiery mill.

Y., last Sunday afternoon. The nuns are Sister Adele Waters, D.C., and Sister Margaret Albert Schroll, D.C.
