While our two candidates who ran for election Monday to county offices were defeated, there is some consolation in the fact that they both ran a wonderful race, one losing by a mere 91 votes. That one must have been a real heart-breaker, being just 91 votes away from victory. I don't know whether the candidate has abandoned any future aspirations to office but I do know this, and that is if I were defeated by such a small margin I would run the third and fourth time if it were necessary. Just a little more backing here and there and victory would have been realized.

Both candidates, Lumen Norris and Sam Hays were in tough competitive fields, especially Mr. Hays who had 10 other candidates absorbing the county vote. I think he was very fortunate indeed, and can be proud of the fact that the first time he ran for a public county office that he wound up fourth, with only a deficit of 390 votes which would have put him in the general election.

Mr. Norris also was involved in stiff competition, stacking up against 11 other opponents and the fact that he wound up in seventh place is a tribute to his energetic campaign. There's an awful amount of expense and work involved in waging an active campaign. Towns must be visited, the farmers engaged in conversation, influential people to meet, rallies to attend, literature to be mailed and passed out and sundry other things. Both our candidates were busy most every night and day canvassing the county and attending meetings, getting acquainted with the populace. Whether we agree with them or not, we must give them credit for waging a very clean and creditable campaign during the primary and with just a little more local backing we might have put at least one of the two into office. My congratulations to both of them for the clean and energetic campaign which they conducted and my advice to both would be if they are still interested four years from now, take another stab at it.

It has been suggested to the now famous Hugo Winterhalter, incidentally now second vice president of the Mt. St. Mary's College National Alumni Assn., that he compose an alma mater song for his college which he attended and was graduated from better than 20 years ago.

A newspaper dispatch gives quite a story of Hugo and his rapid rise to fame in the music world. The account tells of how he led the college orchestra and band and later of his success in writing for strings with Tommy Dorsey. Hugo seems to like his work quite a bit. Besides playing in several bands, he has done quite a bit of arranging for Vaughn Monroe, the Dorseys and Kate Smith. His latest production: the "I Believe" album by Perry Como; the Eddie Fisher album, "May I Sing to You," and the most recent offering of the Ames Bros. Hugo is also recording chief for the RCA transmitted radio program series, "Thesaurus."

I liked the idea a certain Maryland gentleman mentioned on the recent TV shows on which a group of local teenagers appeared in behalf of the Memorial Hall Assn. This gent revealed that his town had a problem similar to our own, that is, lack of a suitable hall to accommodate local social activities both for the adults and the adolescents. He related he licked the dilemma by placing paper canisters in local stores and asking all local families to contribute a nickel or a dime a week. In a few short years $40,000 had been raised by gathering the lowly nickels weekly from the stores. This set my agile mind to wondering if the same thing wouldn't work here. We need a hall badly. Of that there's no question, but at the present rate of raising funds for a memorial hall it will take 100 years or better to realize such a goal. I just thought I'd pass along the idea to someone with initiative enough to get something started as the fund drive already has bogged down and is practically at a standstill. Aside from the limited activity by a teen-age group, nothing has been done to raise money for over two years. Let's get busy again folks.

Civic Association Buys Horse Show Field

Purchase of the Horse Show Field by the Emmitsburg Civic Assn., from the Emmitsburg Development Assn., was announced at the regular meeting of the group held Monday night following the regular meeting of the Lions Club in the Lutheran Parish Hall.

Philip B. Sharpe, president of the Civic Association, announced that a deed for the purchase had been turned over to the group and that it was now the group's property. It was then agreed that to defray expenses of maintaining the grounds, a nominal renting fee, somewhere near $10, would be charged to profit-making organizations using the accommodations. Several shooting matches are being booked at the present time and parties wanting to engage the premises for activities are asked to contact any of the officers of the group.

President Clarence E. Hahn presided at the regular meeting of the Lions Club and extended a welcome to three guests, Singleton Ramsburg and Robert Fezer of Taneytown and Richard Hart, Oakland, Calif.

The annual installation of officers was held and the installing ceremonies were handled by Lion Singleton Ramsburg of the Taneytown chapter.

Taking offices were president, J. Ralph McDonnell; first vice president, Cloyd W. Seiss, second vice president, Clarence G. Frailey; third vice president, Quinn F. Topper; taitwister, John J. Hollinger; liontamer, C. G. Frailey; secretary - treasurer, Robert E. Daugherty and director, C. A. Elder.

C. A. Elder reported that stone for the improvement of St. Euphemia's School yard had been ordered and that it soon would be applied to the yard, expenses to be shared by the Lions Club and the American Legion. President McDonnell then took charge of the meeting and disposed of the remaining business.

Fireworks Are Banned By State Law

The attention of the public is called to the fact that all fireworks within the State are forbidden by the statutes of the State of Maryland unless approval has been obtained from the State Insurance Commissioner.

Under the law, fireworks of every description are banned. It specifically bans the use of firecrackers, squibs, rockets, sparklers, roman candles, torpedoes, bombs, paper caps, grenades, fire balloons, signal lights and any combustible or explosive composition. No section of the State is exempt from operation of this law, and any person violating it by possessing, discharging, or selling fireworks is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Permits for special displays of fireworks will be authorized only where the application has been made at least 10 days in advance, and only after careful investigation that the display will not endanger the safety and health of persons in the locality, or cause damage to the property of others.

The law not only requires this approval, but also requires the filing of a certificate of insurance, made payable to the Insurance Commissioner of Maryland, in an amount prescribed by him, to be held as collateral by the Insurance Dept. in the event of injury to persons or damage to property.

By reason of the enforcement of the Fireworks Act, according to Commissioner Chas. S. Jackson, loss of life has been eliminated, and there now are practically no accidents as a result of burns and explosions incident to the use of fireworks.

The Misses Theresa and Theodora Rybkowsky who have been visiting at Lexington Park, Md., with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Koontz, have returned to their home here.

Locals Lose Ball Game, 8-5; In Third Place

Numerous errors and weak batting spelled defeat for the Emmitsburg baseball team at the hands of New Oxford at the local diamond last Sunday before one of the smallest crowds of the season.

Costly errors by an infielder and the misjudging of two fly balls in the outfield proved to be the undoing of the local's efforts to win the contest.

Despite the loss, Manager Dee Saylor's squad managed to hold on to third position in the league by virtue of Cashtown's defeat by Fairfield in 10 innings.

As a result of a pulled leg muscle the local squad might possibly be deprived of the services of a star outfielder, Tom Saylor for at least several games. The husky ball-hawk pulled a leg muscle when he slid into first base during Sunday's contest which the New Oxford aggregation took by an 8 to 5 score.

A large crowd watched the second-place Fairfield team edge the visiting Cashtown outfit 6-5 in a thrilling 10-inning battle at Fairfield Sunday. Fairfield rallied for three runs in the last of the 8th inning to knot the score at 4-4. In the top of the 10th inning there were two out when Bill Singley, Cashtown shortstop, blasted a 365-foot homerun to put Cashtown on top, 5-4. However in the last half of the frame Cornwell walked after one was out. Dale Sites doubled down the third base line to score both runners to win the contest.

Blue Ridge Summit kept half a game ahead of Fairfield as the league leaders pounded out a 14-8 victory over Thurmont at Thurmont.

Union Bridge handed the so far winless New Windsor its usual whitewashing job by a 6-0 score at the winner's diamond.

Community Fund Helps Local Woman

Twelve delegates were present at the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Community Fund held Monday night in the VFW Annex, President Austin Joy presiding.

The group agreed to pay $50 toward the hospital bill of a local indigent woman incurred by a recent operation. The money will be turned over to a local physician who treated the woman, who in turn will reimburse the hospital for its services.

President Joy appointed C. A. Elder and Capt. Philip B. Sharpe as a committee to make arrangements for the annual benefit baseball game, which is the only means of raising revenue that the group has. The committee plans to ask the Emmitsburg Baseball Assn. once more, for its services in this fund raising affair. In past years the baseball group has responded to the call for assistance very generously. A suitable opponent will be selected soon and the date will be announced. Tickets will go on sale at most local stores.

All arrests were made by Police Chief Daniel J. Kaas and were held before Magistrate Charles D. Gillean.

Byrd Carries County; Local Men Defeated

Apathy on the part of Emmitsburg's eligible voters caused the defeat Monday of two local candidates running for county offices on both the Democratic and Republican tickets.

The fact that only about 30% of the total eligible voters exercised the privilege of casting their ballots caused the downfall of the two candidates, one losing the county office by a mere 91 votes, the other slightly over 300. Had a larger percentage of the local voters cast ballots both candidates could have been elected to represent their parties in the November general election.

Lumen F. Norris, candidate for the House of Delegates from Frederick County just missed being elected by 91 votes. County-wide Norris polled a total of 2,754, placing him seventh in a list of 11 other candidates, six of whom were elected.

Locally Mr. Norris carried the three precincts thusly: Precinct 1, 122; Precinct 2, 145 and Precinct 3, 96 for a total of 363 for the three precincts. Total number of eligible voters in these precincts is nearly 1,500.

Samuel C. Hays, in his first bid for public office, ran exceptionally well county-wide and wound up fourth in a field of 11 candidates, three to be elected. Emmitsburg's Republican voters cast ballots for Mr. Hays thusly: Precinct 1, 105, Precinct 2, 63 and Precinct 3, 29 for a total local vote of 197. County-wide Mr. Hays polled 1,065.

Final unofficial returns from all 60 Democratic precincts in the county showed that Dr. Harry C. Byrd easily pocketed the county's seven unit votes in the Democratic convention, by a margin of 2,812 over George P. Mahoney, Baltimore contractor.

Machine Backed Byrd
The final result, which was not unexpected, since organization leaders had lined up solidly behind Byrd, showed: Byrd, 4,532; Mahoney, 1,720. The former Maryland football coach carried 69 of the precincts, most of them by large margins. He lost only Emmitsburg's Precinct 3 by two votes.

Mr. Mahoney didn't do as well as he did in 1950 when he lost the county to former Governor Preston Lane, Jr. in the Democratic primary. He was beaten then by 1,690.

Commissioner Race Close
Closest Democratic races in the county came in the County Commissioner and House of Delegates races.

A recheck of figures placed Edward F. Holter, prominent Middletown farmer, 106 votes ahead on the unofficial count of A. Irvin Renn, Frederick livestock dealer, for the third place on the ticket.

The commissioner ticket was led by Delbert S. Null of Braddock Heights who piled up a commanding figure of 3,784 in his first bid for public office. He was followed by Mehrl H. Ramsburg, well-known Utica farmer, with 3,188.

Holter's unofficial figure was 2,905 followed by Renn with 2,799. Walter J. Hahn had 1,764 and trailing in order were Claude R. Crum, 1,323; Hubert W. Beachler, 878; Albert Strube, 818.

Norris Is Seventh
Charles E. Collins of near Urbana captured the sixth place on the House of Delegates ticket from Lumen F. Norris by 91 votes. This was the closest race of the primary.

C. Clifton Virts, Frederick, outscored all others in the primary, state and county to lead the House of Delegates ticket with 5,117. Gary L. Utterback, Frederick, a former legislator, was second with 4,273 and Hazel W. Lewis of near Frederick, took third with 3,375.

Henry A. Groff, Jr., of Ijamsville, also making his first bid for office, took over fourth spot with 3,029. Charles H. Smelser, of Unionville, was fifth with 2,925 and Collins, sixth with 2,845. Defeated were Norris, 2,754; George F. Grove, Frederick, 2,641; R. (Continued on Page Six)

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

The 1955 acreage allotment program which has been announced by the Secretary of Agriculture was discussed at College Park recently by George J. Martin, state chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"This program obviously means that farmers will be under tighter production and marketing controls than we now have," Mr. Martin commented. "But under present conditions it appears the Secretary has no choice."

The program will reduce 1955 wheat acreage to the minimum permitted by law. It also contains "cross-compliance" and "total-acreage" provisions which are designed to control or influence the use of acres diverted from crops with acreage allotments.

A national marketing quota for the 1955 wheat crop has been announced, but wheat producers have the right to approve or disapprove of the marketing quota. Two-thirds of the eligible voters who vote in the July 23 referendum must approve marketing quotas before they can be put into effect.

Mr. Martin quoted the Secretary's explanation of why such a drastic program is necessary: "The wheat supply situation, which forces us into these control measures, is the result of a decline in exports, failure to invoke acreage controls in 1952, relatively high yields, an outmoded method of computing parity and long-continued use of rigid price supports."

Marketing Quotas

Legislative provisions require the Secretary to proclaim marketing quotas on the 1955 wheat crop if the supply of wheat available for the 1954-55 marketing year, which begins July 1, is 20 per cent above the calculated normal supply level. Actually, the available supply for 1954-55 is about 79 per cent above the normal supply.

If marketing quotas are approved in the July 23 vote, producers who stay within the wheat acreage allotted for their farms—and also comply with any other established allotments—will be eligible for the full price support which is in effect. Farmers who are not within their allotments are not eligible for price supports and are subject to the marketing quota penalties on excess wheat.

If quotas are not approved by wheat growers, the law provides for a wheat support level at 50 per cent of parity for farmers who stay within their allotments.

Acreage Allotments

The national wheat acreage allotment for 1955 is 55 million acres, the minimum permitted by controlling legislation. State allotments will be determined on the basis of acreage seeded for the production of wheat during the preceding 10 years, and county allotments will be apportioned in much the same manner.

State allotments will be announced soon. "Every effort will be made to see that each producer who is affected receives notice of his wheat allotment before the referendum," Chairman Martin emphasizes.

The State chairman added that farmers who seed between 90 and 100 per cent of their 1955 wheat acreage allotments will not be penalized for such underseeding.

Quotations

The following quotations are more than a year without controls. Predictions that removal of ceilings would ruin us turned out to be wrong.

Hammering the government budget down was another important accomplishment. The advance predictions were for a $10 billion deficit this year. Now it looks like it will be only about $3.5 billion. True, this isn't a balanced budget, but it's going in the right direction, and in spite of record-breaking tax reductions.

Credit should be given to smart managing of the national debt by the Treasury Dept. It was faced with a $267 billion debt, 80 per cent of it due within five years. It was necessary to steer a delicate course between two extremes. Either huge amounts of tax money must be used to pay off government bonds, or regular industrial investment sources would be drained by marketing new bonds to pay off the old. By careful management of interest rates on new bonds, the average maturity date of the government securities has been extended about 18 months.

The story of good government monetary policies is no more exciting than the technical language of a doctor's prescription. But the effect of both is pretty gratifying.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Cong. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, June 30—With the Fourth of July coming up, there are just about three ingredients I can think of for a successful week-end. One is safety—whether it be in driving, swimming or with fireworks. Another is good weather. And the third is that each of us remember the significance of the occasion—that it is the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It had a tremendous impact when it was published in 1776. We should never take it for granted.

Mrs. Hyde and I will be thinking about this Sunday, when we attend the air show put on by the Frederick squadron of the Civil Air Patrol. At another patriotic observance Friday, we will witness the presentation of the Maryland state flag by Gov. McKeldin to the people of Camp Detrick, on behalf of the people of Maryland.

As history goes, it hasn't been very long since the Declaration of Independence. Yet America, in that short time, has become the center of world commerce and industrial development, and of course the center of freedom.

Basically, the country is in good shape on this anniversary. One of the fundamental gains in the past year has been the establishment of an honest dollar. The cost of living has held even, you can buy the same amount with a dollar now that you could a year ago, and it makes a big difference in future planning of expenses.

The Federal government's role in achieving this hasn't been easy. Part of it is due to the free functioning of prices and wages for in the establishment of any future allotments. This same provision was included in the 1954 wheat allotment program.

Diverted Acre Program

When the acreage of a crop is limited by allotments, a farmer ordinarily 'shifts' the acreage to some other crop. The shifting is likely to result in new surpluses.

Mr. Martin points out two requirements of the 1955 program which are designed to prevent the 'shifting of surpluses.' They are: (1) a producer must comply with all acreage allotments established for his farm in order to be eligible for price support on any crop produced on the farm; (2) a total acreage allotment will be established for farms where more than 10 acres must be diverted from allotment crops. Producers must keep within the total acreage allotment, when one is established on their farms, in order to be eligible for price support on any crop. This requirement does not apply on the smaller farms where not more than 10 acres are to be diverted from allotment crops.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., July 1—Readers wonder why I am optimistic as to the balance of the year.

There are many reasons which I gave in my last week's Outlook. I now wish to emphasize the probable 1954 expenditures for new equipment and labor-saving machinery.

Office Workers Getting Scarcer
Although there is some reduction in the total income of wage workers, it is mostly from reduction of hours and loss of overtime. This results in more leisure time and more money being spent on Do-It-Yourself improvements. This will stimulate retail sales.

There is no letup in the demand for office workers. They are becoming harder to get even at higher wages. Probably the demand from the government and from the various engineering sub-contractors is causing most of this; but the desire of present women workers to get married and have babies is a great factor.

Capital Expenditures Increasing
Expenditures for labor-saving devices are increasing, even though wages have stopped advancing. Companies are also enlarging their plants to make working conditions more pleasant and efficient. The attitude of employers is changing. It's not now a question of paying more wages; but of making the work lighter and the working environment more pleasant. I forecast continued large capital expenditures.

The gradual recognition of Cybernetics by manufacturers will cause a further scarcity of bookkeepers, stenographers, and other white-collar help. High school graduates have not heretofore liked to go into factory work because of the necessity of wearing old clothes and being classed as "common labor." But under the Cybernetic system, girls can operate both big and small machines by sitting at a mahogany desk in a silk dress, occasionally pushing a control button. This is easier and more interesting work than hitting a typewriter all day; and has a higher social rating.

Air-Conditioning and Coffee Hours
Expenditures for these and other so-called "benefits" appear unnecessary, if not foolish, to the old-time employer; but we may well have to come to these and other attractions. Some concerns now have music playing all day for their employees, while many have television during the lunch hour. These "extras" are not necessarily supplied by socially-minded employers; but rather by hard-boiled, old-fashioned employers who must "loosen up" to hold their workers.

All these "extras" help general business. Retail sales have fallen off; but I forecast that labor-saving devices and these new expenditures for making working conditions more attractive will increase from now on. Profits in some lines of business will decline; but in other lines profits will increase. The entire picture is changing. People continue to have money to spend; but they are not spending it so freely for the same old things. Live manufacturers and progressive merchants should awake to this. Watch the coming change in advertising copy.

Warning To Wagerworkers
No employer can long spend more than he takes in, whether it is in wages or fringes. Cybernetics appeal to the few fair-haired girls who get the jobs to control a factory by push-buttons, but only a few such people will be needed in some factories and stores. It is okay for waggerworkers to be well dressed; but they must work hard just the same. Business cannot coast much longer. Sooner or later the present "easy days" will be over. Machines can compensate for shorter hours and more pay; but those who tend these machines must give 100 per cent attention and worry in order to hold their new jobs.

The rise in the price of equipment stocks and labor-saving device stocks should be a warning to waggerworkers. These companies are now getting huge orders; but the rising price of their stocks and bonds is a sure sign that many factories and offices are now approaching great changes. The new machines may not be delivered for a year or two; but they are coming. This means that those who now have jobs—whether in offices or factories—had better hold onto them by doing good work. Don't be misled into a

District Race Horses To Be At 'Downs'

Ocean City, Md.—Ichabod Crain and L. T. Eden, which turned in two of the fastest times of the current harness meet at Laurel Raceway in surprise performances recently, will clash in a big $3,000 race at OCEAN DOWNS Raceway, the resort track which opens at Ocean City, Md., for twenty nights of racing starting July 30.

S. Rudy Brittingham, General Manager of the seashore harness track, announced that the two Maryland-owned pacing sensations have been staked in the $3,000 Pennsylvania Pace scheduled for August 7 at Ocean Downs Raceway. He said the event has drawn sixteen top-flight sidewheelers and may result in a shattering of the track record of 2:03 1-5 if most of the nominees start.

Ichabod Crain, a 5-year-old bay horse owned by Marlin and George Shriner of Taneytown, Md. and driven by popular Johnny Amato of Harrington Del., turned in the fastest time of the first week at Laurel by winning the $3,000 Anne Arundel County in a blistering 2:03 1-5. It was a temporary "push job" at higher wages, You will regret it.

new lifetime record for the sidewheeler, and knocked a full second off his old mark of 2:04 1-5. L. T. Eden, the handsome 4-year-old chestnut gelding owned, trained and driven by Joe Eyler of Thurmont, has won his last two races in a row, the most recent in 2:04 3-5, a new personal record and one of the swiftest times of the Laurel competition. He had previously triumphed in 2:06 2-5 at Rosecroft Raceway.

Miss Mabel Wetzel, Fairfield, Route 2, Rev. Fr. Elwood Berry and Mrs. Norman Sheeley, Emmitsburg were admitted as patients this week to the Warner Hospital in Gettysburg.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Elder and family, Pittsburgh, Pa., who were vacationing in Emmitsburg with Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder, returned Saturday to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence Elder and family are vacationing here with Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder.

Dedicates By-Pass

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin snipped yellow and black ribbons opening four and one-half miles of dual-lane highway comprising the by-pass around the city of Westminster in ceremonies last evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The citizens of Westminster staged a public ceremony commemorating the occasion and arranged for the Governor to address them from a bunting-draped farm wagon which was placed on the by-pass where it crosses the Western Maryland Railway tracks. The by-pass and incidental structures, divided into three contracts, were awarded by the State Roads Commission and costing $2.2 million. With the final completion of all work on the three contracts, motorists going north from Reisters-town will have an uninterrupted run to the Pennsylvania Line.

Can Waste Be Stopped?
Here is something every taxpayer needs to know: What happens if Congress does not authorize raising the statutory limit on the national debt? The government will have to cut out wasteful expenses and get by in the 1954-55 fiscal year on its estimated income of 62.6 bil-ions. That's all. Nothing else happens. The national debt would bump up against the $275 billion legal limit, and that would be the end of operating our Federal government on borrowed money—at least until the present $275 billion debt had been whittled down.

What is meant by wasteful expenses? Just what it sounds like. The requested 1955 fiscal year budget is for $65.6 billion. If only $62.6 billion in income is anticipated, that means, to balance the budget, cuts must be made totaling $3 billion. There is more downright waste than that in today's Federal spending. That's actually less than five per cent of the budgeted expenditures. Hundreds of documented incidents could be cited of waste of tax money by loose spending and bad management.

Governor Cuts Waste
Governor Francis Cherry of Arkansas, when he took office 18 months ago, made a thorough study of wasteful spending practices in his state. He went back 18 years and studied the pattern of government spending in Arkansas. He found that in the fourth quarter of each fiscal year the various departments splurged—they spent on an average of 30 per cent more in these fourth quarters than in any other three-month period during the fiscal year. Governor Cherry knew why. It was an "open secret," a tradition in the political management of the government.

If a department had an unspent balance at the end of the fiscal year, the department head could hardly go before the legislature's budget committee and ask for a bigger appropriation for the fiscal year ahead. But if all his money had been used up by the end of the year, he could ask for the bigger appropriation. So in the last three months of each year he "unloaded." Governor Cherry estimated there had been about $500,000 of wasteful, needless spending each year. This was just one small item of waste which now has been stopped. Millions were being wasted in loose-spending highway construction. And there were many other incidents of waste which have been corrected.
Enormous Waste

Perhaps the fourth-quarter squandering practice does not prevail in Washington, but wholesale waste on a grand scale does prevail and can be stopped. It is my feeling, based on considerable study of the Federal government, that more than five per cent of the $65.6 billion budget proposed for 1955 could be saved by eliminating normal political waste.

It is a waste of taxpayers' money for 2.7 million civilians to be employed in the Federal government, as reported this month by Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.). It is a waste of taxpayers' money for 7 million persons to be on Federal, state and local civilian government payrolls, as reported by the U. S. Census Bureau. That's too many people in government. That many are not needed. The official figures mean that one out of every nine of the employed people of the nation are on government payrolls, not counting those in uniform.
Payroll Needs Trimming

Can the national budget be balanced? Of course it can! The 2.7 million civilians on the Federal government payroll include 408,505 "foreign nationals" working for U. S. military agencies abroad. All together these 2.7 million Federal employes have salaries totaling approximately 9 billions. If one-third of these were cut off, that would be a $3 billion reduction in the budget; and at least another billion in overhead would be lopped off which now is being spent for equipping and supplying them. And the Federal payroll is only one spigot on the flowing waste that could be cut off if a genuine hard-headed effort were made.

Some politicians would say that it is "impractical" to talk of cutting the Federal payroll quickly by 30 per cent. Yet it could be done in a year's time, without hindering governmental service, if a payroll reduction plan were drafted and carried out. Without a rigid plan it will not be done. The present Administration began a lopping off process, but it quickly slowed down to a trickle. At the rate of reduction during the last two months it would require exactly 25 years to cut off a third of the 2.7 million jobs. We are not likely to get a balanced budget until the taxpayers demand more speed in cutting out the staggering waste of an overgrown, loose-spending Federal bureaucracy.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

President Eisenhower made some very significant remarks last week while the Senate was considering extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and the House studied the $3.5 billion foreign aid bill.

As guest of my good friend Max Chambers, who publishes a newspaper on the Eastern Shore, I attended a meeting of the National Editorial Assn. and heard the President put in proper perspective the problem of our trade relations with foreign nations.

President Eisenhower proved effectively, one newspaper commented, that 2 and 2 sometimes add up to 22, and ironically the President's statements came at the very time the opposition party began their undercutting and sniping at his trade program.

The President took four main arguments which are used most extensively, and, he said, there is some truth in each of them. They were, he said:

- 1—That we should stop give-away programs.
- 2—That the U. S. should give no help to other nations who trade with the Reds.
- 3—Appeals that this country not get involved in war in Southeast Asia.
- 4—The argument that this country should increase its barriers against foreign trade competition.

In each of these four arguments the President said, there is an element of truth, and each considered by itself appears to be in the general interest of the U. S. However, when you apply them together to a problem like Japan, he explained, you run into an even tougher problem as to what must be done to serve the best interest of the U. S. and its 160 million people.

Japan has a population of 85 million in an area no larger than California, and Japan cannot live and cannot remain in the free world if the U. S. cuts Japan off from both the opportunities for trade and American aid.

"If we will not give her money, if we will not trade with her, if we do not defend Southeast Asia where Japan has some markets, what is to happen to Japan," the President asked.

"It's going to the Reds!" Eisenhower stated, and it is readily evident that this is true.

Japan's fall to Communism would mean that her military and industrial capacity would, as the President said, "be turned against the free world and the Pacific would become a Communist lake." President Eisenhower agreed that this country cannot carry the financial burdens of the world, that we can never be strong enough to defend every trouble spot in the world, that we should not drop our trade barriers completely to foreign goods that would flood our markets and reduce our economy to a subsistence level.

While there are some truths in each of these restrictive arguments, the President said, "Truth comprises more than knowledge; there must also be some understanding."

The President's argument was compelling and I am proud that I am working and cooperating with him. Extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act will assist in meeting the objectives of our foreign policies, and while Eisenhower favors "trade not aid" he is convinced that to reduce foreign assistance below his reduction of 40 per cent under present conditions would be "unjustified and unsafe."

Communism is on the march throughout the world, particularly at this time in Southeast Asia. We cannot defeat Communism by defending the status quo, the U. S. must be moving forward and we must remember "Truth comprises more than knowledge—there must be understanding."

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Oblivious to the general opinion that it isn't even a sport, a contented army of Americans fishes for crabs, oysters and other shellfish. All they get out of it is a lot of fun—and some of the best eating the waters of our continent provide. Let's take a look at just two crabs and two crawfish.

CRABS—Although several edible crabs exist on the East and West Coasts, the No. 1 favorite is the blue crab, which is found from southern New England down to Florida and all around the Gulf Coast. When the tide goes out, you'll find hand nets near the channels and weeded patches in the bays. The crabs are exposed in the shallows and are simply dipped out with a net which has a handle of six feet or so. On the West Coast the Dungeness crab takes the place of the blue crab as the one most likely to be caught as recreation. The told-time crab trap is still used in some places. The other amateur method of catching crabs is to lower a bait on a line which it attached to a pole, as a rule. When it is drawn up, the crabs cling to the bait, and if you're lucky you hand net them at the surface.

In an article on shellfish which recently appeared in Sports Afield magazine, Bill Wolf explains that crab baits lean toward the smelly type because crabs are scavengers. A rich, ripe piece of menhaden (mosbunker or fatback, as it is known in some sections) is good. Professional crabbers use horse meat which has been salted and set in the sun for awhile.

CRAWFISH—Call these crawfish, crayfish, crawdads or mudbugs, they are appreciated only in the Mississippi Delta country. That is the rest of the nation's loss. The crawfish (which is almost strictly a fresh-water crustacean and is not to be confused with the salt-water crawfish known as the spiny, or rock lobster) resembles a small lobster, even to its claws. It is familiar to bass and trout fishermen and a good bait, in its smaller sizes, and is considered a nuisance by everyone who fishes bait on the bottom. It will cling to the bait, eating it even when drawn from the water. In fact, that's one of the simplest ways that you can catch crawfish.

This simplest method consists of taking a piece of string tied to a pole, and baiting with a chunk of meat. The more professional method consists of using a square of net with four wires coming up from the corners. Place the meat bait in the center, lower the trap to the bottom and later collect it by pushing a stick through the wires.

HEALTH COLUMN

IT ISN'T FUNNY

Tripping and falling flat on one's face isn't funny, even if the only hurt is to one's dignity. It is definitely un-funny when skinned knees, bruises, or even broken bones are involved.

"Accidents will happen," we sometimes say, and perhaps this bit of philosophy helps us feel better when one has happened to us. But many accidents wouldn't happen if we were less philosophical and more careful about preventing them.

So often what causes an accident is such a little thing. A little spot of wax on the floor that wasn't thoroughly rubbed—a little tear in the stair carpet—a little toy left in the dark of the upstairs hall—a little nail loose in a board on the porch—little things that should have been taken care of before they could cause trouble.

Most of us are "going to" fix the things around the house that we know are hazards. We are "going to" find a place to put the flower pots that have piled up on the cellar stairs, and we are "going to" fasten the screen in the children's room more securely, and "going to" get a covered metal basket for burning trash in the backyard, and get a non-skid pad for the rug in the front hall.

"I must have a small step-ladder in the kitchen," we say, but we go on using a precarious chair to stand on.

Today is a very good day to do these things we are "going to do." And while we're at it, why not have an electrician check that wiring we've had our doubts about? Why not put a lock on the medicine cabinet, so that the youngsters can't help themselves to the grown-ups pills? And how about a screen to fit clear across the fireplace?

Because accidents aren't funny. Bruises and burns and broken bones are not funny at all.

Ryan Congressional Winner

The total was 3,022 to 1,294 for Byrne Austin of Montgomery County, and 1,074 for Charles M. Ireland, also of Montgomery County. Nikirk Polls Well
