—BY ABIGAIL—

Concern for the welfare of a number of our local youth is felt by older residents of the town lest some of them become involved in some sort of trouble. Complaints have reached my desk about the increasing number of youths, 12 to 18 mostly, who nightly roam the streets, jumping over and thru hedges and yelling at the top of their voices, and otherwise disturbing the peace in the wee hours of the morning. At times they concentrate and loiter beneath windows, talking loudly and even using intolerable language to harass would-be sleepers. Apparently the parents are unaware of their sons' activities or else they just don't give a "hang." At any rate a word of advice to these parents would be to keep a nightly check of their children's whereabouts before someone really becomes involved in serious trouble.

As was mentioned in this column not too long ago, the plans for raising money for a memorial hall for Emmitsburg appear to have become bogged down. However, that ever-faithful organization, the Chamber of Commerce, will undertake another promotion for the benefit of the fund by scheduling a hillbilly show in the near future. It is up to us to support such a noble venture. Money is being raised slowly . . . too slowly, I might add, and when some group has the initiative to lend a hand, we, the public, owe it to our community to wholeheartedly support such a project. The Chamber has been the power behind the fund-raising so far and has been instrumental in raising most of the money to date. Another group that has worked faithfully and has accomplished much, is the Grange. There have been others, but far too few, who have lent a helping hand. What about your organization? Don't you want to own a few bricks in the building? We must get to work right away if we ever are to reach our goal, a town building of which we can be proud! And while on the subject of community welfare, I might add that several individuals are interested in constructing a swimming pool here. Plans are in the investigative state, but at least the idea is taking on momentum and perhaps within the next six months enough interest can be generated to start the ball rolling.

As was expected, an appeal will be made by the losing candidate to date, in the fight to win the Democratic nomination for governor of Maryland. By now you know that Byrd has won the decision over Mahoney in the counting of ballots on the Eastern Shore. Now Mr. Mahoney will appeal to the State Supreme Court for a final and binding ruling. This will take still more weeks before the official winner is announced. Without a doubt this year's Democratic primary is the bitterest ever waged in this state and party leaders are worrying now about healing the "scars."

According to available information concerning the water reserves, we are not yet "over the hump," therefore restrictions still are effective. This week's rains did little to replenish our dwindling reserves in Rainbow Lake. However, car washing is still permissible on a limited scale, Thursday and Saturday afternoons. Let's cooperate folks, it's in the public interest and the dry spell could continue.

It's the little things in life that count and here's what I mean by that . . . We all know the "potato man," George W. Wilhide from Lantz. Long a familiar sight and a welcome visitor to town, George will celebrate his 79th today, and in appreciation of a faithful acquaintance which spans over a 29-year period, Mrs. Charles McNair, proprietress of the Green Parrot, will make the occasion a memorable one for George, by hosting him at dinner and presenting the celebrant with a nice cake. Incidentally, George is currently boasting of raising one of the best crop of spuds in many a year, despite the drought. Many happy returns, Mr. Wilhide.

Hospital's Fate Still In Doubt

The Director of the State Dept. of Health has delayed submitting to the State Board of Health the plan of the Frederick County Commissioners to keep Emergency Hospital open to the public.

In a letter to the Frederick County Commissioners, Dr. Robert H. Riley, state director, has asked for more positive statements from them that proper action would be taken.

After receipt of a more positive letter, the state director said he would submit the plan of the county commissioners to the state board in an attempt to get reconsideration of their order closing the county operated hospital.

The state board has ordered the hospital be closed as of November 30. The commissioners wrote their letter asking reconsideration of the closure after a conference in July with Dr. Riley.

Following that conference, the commissioners sent a letter to Dr. Riley concerning the three points discussed. They are that the commissioners agree to make improvements to the hospital; that the county adequately staff the hospital, and that the county medical society be consulted in efforts to secure a doctor to be on call at the county hospital.

In the letter to the commissioners, Dr. Riley states that the letter sent to him is not sufficiently positive to change the minds of the State Board.

In his letter, the state director asks for some specific statement from the Frederick County Medical Society concerning an agreement to see the county hospital is adequately staffed. The letter sent by the Frederick County Commissioners stated "We will seek to help the Medical Society of Frederick County in efforts to secure a doctor to be on call."

The state directors had agreed on submitting the problem to the state board by contacting the members directly prior to the regularly scheduled meeting. The next regular meeting of the board is scheduled for Sept. 13.

Church Has Interesting History; Planning For Fiftieth Anniversary

By JOHN M. FUSS, JR.

The present church at Tom's Creek has been built only 50 years, but no one need think that this building is the only one that has served the community. It was in 1757 that the first church was built near Tom's Creek.

We do not realize how many years have elapsed since that first log church was built until we consider the events that were taking place during that period. On May 17 of that year, Samuel Emmitt, the founder of Emmitsburg, took out a patent for 2250 acres of land. As time passed he sold off parcels of the land to new settlers, and established the town of Emmitsburg. Actually the Tom's Creek community is much older than Emmitsburg.

In 1757 our great nation consisted of only 13 scattered colonies along the Atlantic Coast. Only 123 years before the Ark and Dove with about 300 persons had arrived off Blackiston Island St. Mary's County, and the first English settlement in Maryland had been made. By 1757 the city of Baltimore had only about 2 houses and 100 inhabitants. The first house in Frederick had been built only 13 years. Two years prior to this time General Braddock and George Washington had been defeated by the French and Indians in western Pennsylvania. This defeat left the frontier settlements of Maryland open to attack by hostile Indians. The famous survey of Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, which established the boundary between Maryland and Pennsylvania, did not start until six years after the first log church at Tom's Creek. Nineteen years were to pass before our patriotic forefathers were to declare themselves independent of the King of England.

We also should consider the people who built the first church. Most of the early settlers in central and western Maryland were Germans. Many of them had previously settled in southern Pennsylvania, but as the area became more settled, they pushed southward into Frederick County. They preserved their native customs and in some parts of western Maryland the only language spoken for years was German. These rugged pioneers often found it necessary to fight off bands of hostile Indians. A few families had settled in this area during the 1730's, but it was not until 1740 that the principal migration began.

Many of these German families had come to this country to escape religious persecution. They were mostly Lutherans and Reforms. In 1757 a Lutheran Church was organized at Tom's Creek with the Rev. John George Bager as pastor. One acre of land was purchased to be used as a cemetery and church grounds. A log church was erected on the west end of the lot. The Lutheran and Reforms continued to use the church until 1797.

During this period a number of Scottish emigrants came to the Tom's Creek community. They formed a Presbyterian congregation. Their organized worship was probably irregular, as records indicate that they had no permanent pastor, but depended upon traveling ministers who were sent to them from time to time. There are many who claim that the Presbyterians also worshipped in the old Lutheran and Reform Church for a time before their first church by the Gettysburg Rd. was built, but there are no written records to prove this belief.

In the meantime, a new Protestant group, the Methodist Church was being established in England and America. About 1767 Robert Strawbridge, the third Methodist preacher in America settled in Frederick County. He did not confine his efforts to any one community, but instead roamed around the countryside, organizing congregations wherever he went. He would leave these groups under the guidance of a local preacher, who would conduct the services during the absence of Rev. Strawbridge. With so many scattered churches and the slow means of transportation in those days, Mr. Strawbridge could not have been with any one congregation more than four or five Sundays a year.

There are no actual records to prove that Robert Strawbridge actually founded the Tom's Creek Methodist congregation, but it is safe to assume that it was through his efforts that the congregation was formed. According to tradition, the first Methodist services in this vicinity were held on a barn floor on a farm near Four Points. William Moreland was the Christian pioneer who established Methodism in this community. There are records that as early as 1786 he was holding worship services in his home every Sunday and Wednesday evening.

In 1797 the Lutheran and Reform congregation at Tom's Creek built the present Lutheran Church in Emmitsburg. The Methodist congregation under William Moreland purchased the old log church near Tom's Creek from them. They continued to worship in this same building until 1904.

The Lutheran cemetery was not transferred to the Methodists. It is the oldest burial ground in the northern part of the county. During the period of the first settlers in this area, many were buried there in unmarked graves. Many had been buried on that plot of ground prior to its purchase in 1757 for use as a cemetery and church ground. There are headstones dating back to the Revolutionary period. We must remember that there were no stone-cutters in the frontier settlements, and therefore, only the very rich could afford tombstones. For this reason most graves were unmarked.

When the Methodists under William Moreland purchased the old log church from the Lutherans and Reforms, they established a cemetery of their own on the west side of the church. This cemetery is the one located on the west side of the road leading from Rt. 32 to Four Points. The Lutheran Cemetery lays on the east side of the mentioned road. The ancestors of many of the present congregation are buried in the old Methodist cemetery.

Rev. William Moreland was the leader of the Tom's Creek Methodist Church until his death in 1833. He owned and worked the land which is now owned by Mr. George Riffe. Both he and his wife were linen weavers. He held services in his home and beginning in 1797 also at Tom's Creek. His intentions were to build a Methodist Church in the growing town of Emmitsburg. This is evidenced by the fact that on April 1, 1805 he and Joseph Harvey purchased Lot No. 53 from William Shields for the sum of $24. However, the building of the church was not accomplished until 1833, when he and others purchased two more lots (Nos. 51 and 52). A brick church was built during the summer of that year, but Rev. Moreland did not live to see his new church dedicated. One Sunday morning in the autumn of 1833, while on his way to preach at Tom's Creek, this devout Christian passed on to his eternal reward. Reverend Charles B. Young, the Methodist preacher at Gettysburg, conducted the funeral services and William Moreland was laid to rest beside his newly-erected church.

Since its erection in 1833, the Methodist Church in Emmitsburg and Tom's Creek have been on the same circuit. For a short while they were member churches of the Gettysburg circuit and the ministers were served from that locality. The ministers were: 1833, Charles B. Young; 1835, Richard Bond; 1837, Amos Smith; 1839, Henry Furlong; 1840, Josiah Forrest; 1842, Thomas McKee; 1844, Solomon McMullen; 1846, Thomas Tanyhill; 1848, Horace Holland; 1852, Rev. Smith; 1853, Jonathan Monroe. In those days each circuit consisted of a number of churches and so when possible assistant pastors were provided. Those serving Tom's Creek included: John L. Pitts, J. M. Richardson, Joseph H. Went, James Brads, Joseph J. Brown, John M. Jones, Wesley Howe, Henry Hoffman, Thomas Reese, Thomas Switzer, R. S. McClay, John Thouch and Beverley Waugh.

During the year 1856, there being so many Methodist Churches in this area, the Emmitsburg Circuit was formed. Initially it consisted of six churches. By 1865, five additional congregations had been added. Tom's Creek apparently was the largest church, for its apportionment of the circuit budget was greater than any other church. For the year 1857 the total budget of the circuit was $510, of which $328 was the pastor's salary. A rented house near the Emmitsburg Methodist Church was the circuit's parsonage. The minutes of the Second Quarterly Conference held July, 1876, at Tom's Creek, called attention to the Centenary of American Methodism.

Three years later the East Baltimore Conference was reorganized and Tom's Creek became a member of the Mechanicstown (now Thurmont) circuit. It has remained in this charge until this present day.

Pastors during the period of the Emmitsburg Circuit were: 1856, J. H. Monroe; 1858, Elias Welty; 1859, L. D. Herron; 1861, P. B. Reese; 1863, John Munroe; 1864, R. C. Haslup; 1865, W. H. Keith and 1867, J. D. Moore.

Mt. St. Mary's Professor Is Author Of Book

Four Washington Catholics are among 15 university-educated converts who have described their intellectual odyssey into the Catholic Church in a new book. They are Josephine Hughes, wife of Riley Hughes, Georgetown University professor and critic; Audrey E. Baird, English "war bride"; Prof. Dorothy Dawe who teaches at the Academy of the Holy Name in Silver Spring, and Dr. John A. Lacy, now teaching classical languages at the Catholic University.

Their accounts are published this week in "These Came Home," a collection compiled and edited by Gilbert L. Oddo, associate professor of history at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg. It dramatizes the spiritual struggle of intelligent and learned converts who fought long and hard but finally yielded to the successor St. Peter.

Many of the people hold important positions in their elected professions. Several were forced to give up their own careers when they became Catholics. Two had been Anglican ministers, including the former rector of St. James the Less Church in Scarsdale, N. Y., and two were ministers of the Baptist Church.

Another, Alexander Wells Peck, sacrificed a future as an accomplished artist to become a Trappist. Faith Petra Eymann is known through her countless roles in opera, operetta, musical comedy. Dr. Eva-Maria Jung, member of a renowned Prussian family whose efforts to know more of the Catholic Church were constantly blocked, is a consultant for the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The stories of all these people, Oddo says, reveal one common bond, a devotion to truth. Not satisfied with the eclectic philosophies of the day, they demanded a systematic body of truths that took in all reality. They were and are intellectuals in the sense that every man who things rightly and deeply is an intellectual. Their response to the gift of faith was acceptance, and they found that in accepting the invitation, they had at last "come home."

Doctor Oddo means the book as an attempt to reach the intellectual non-Catholic with the conversion accounts of intellectuals. The idea came to him that there was enough apostolic work among his own personal friends to test his ability.

The problem, he says, came to a head after he had counted noses at a post-Christmas party given by him and his wife several years ago. Of the 40 guests, all close personal friends and belonging to what might be called a young intellectual aristoi, all university trained, only four were Roman Catholics.

"This," Dr. Oddo writes, "was the impetus which led to 'These Came Home'—why not a collection written with an appeal to the mind, to logic, to reason, by people who before their conversions were much like themselves."

Formerly assistant director of the Bureau of Information and a staff writer for the NCWC, Dr. Oddo is married and the father of two children. He was born in New York City and received his higher education at Union College, Schenectady, and Georgetown University where he received his Masters and Doctorate. He is the author of an "Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge" and free lance articles to Catholic magazines and newspapers.

C. of C. Will Sponsor Benefit Show

Plans for the promotion of a benefit show were discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday evening in the Fire Hall, Secretary Arthur Elder presiding in the absence of the president.

It was unanimously decided to hold a hillbilly show in the Emmitt Gardens on Saturday night, Sept. 25 and that all net proceeds would be donated to the Memorial Hall Assn. Just what show will be booked is undecided but officials are dickering with several, it is understood.

The secretary reported that a congratulatory telegram had been sent the Taneytown Bi-centennial Committee prior to its recent celebration and that it was publicly acknowledged.

The Chamber agreed to change the location of the regular Saturday night drawing for Saturday, Aug. 28, from the Square to St. Joseph's Rectory where the Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold a festival for the benefit of the ambulance fund on that evening. The change is for one night only, and the time has been announced as 9:30 instead of the usual 9:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Robert Daugherty asked the group for assistance in publicizing the coming Teen-Age Community Concert to be held on Sunday, Aug. 29 on the steps of the public school.

Mrs. Robert E. Daugherty was commissioned by the Chamber, to conduct a survey of existing sentiment, if any, in the interest of promoting a bi-centennial observance for Emmitsburg in 1957. All organizations will be contacted to determine whether or not they are interested in such a promotion and a report will be made to the Chamber sometime in the near future.

Appointed as chairman to head the hillbilly show committee was Cloyd W. Seiss. He will be assisted by Ralph Irelan, Daniel J. Kaas, C. A. Elder and Kermit Lowe.

Poultry Losses Minimized By Coolness

The hot summer days can mean poultry death losses and a drop in egg production unless some effort is made to help the flock "beat the heat." By observing a few simple management rules you can do much to help keep chickens cool.

One of the most important practices is to give the chicks plenty of water. Since chickens cannot sweat, most of the moisture they give off is in their breath. The more water they can drink, the cooler they will be.

Birds not only need more water but should have more places to drink. Some producers set out extra tubs and buckets of water since birds will pile up around regular fountains, making it difficult for others to drink.

Everything possible should be done to help ventilate the poultry house. Doors and windows should be kept open. It may be wise to remove the windows. Air should be let in from all sides of the building to provide cross ventilation.

Some poultry houses have openings along the sides which are covered with wire netting and can be covered with feed sacks on cold nights. A panel hinged to the wall can be used to close openings.

Insulation keeps out winter cold and will also keep out summer heat. For hot weather, insulation underneath the roof is more valuable than in the walls.

Light colors reflect light and heat whereas dark colors absorb them. So it is a good idea to paint your hen house or range shelter a light color. Aluminum paint, white paint or whitewash makes a good covering for poultry houses.

Some poultrymen sprinkle the roof of the building with water on hot days. An old garden hose or plastic pipe in which holes are punched can be placed along the top of the roof to provide a handy sprinkler.

The type of floor and litter makes a difference in keeping a building cool. Concrete floors are good if insulated so as not to conduct heat. Dirt floors should be six inches higher than outside ground level. Old, built-up litter has a tendency to generate heat. Many poultrymen favor new litter in summer.

Birds on the range should have plenty of shade. Take advantage of available shade by placing shelters near trees. Overhanging roofs on range shelters give extra shade. It may be necessary to stick some posts in the ground and stretch wire netting across the top. Branches, straw or grass on top of the netting will give good protection from the sun.

The Three Great Factors

The American way of life rests upon three fundamental factors, three aspects of spiritual, political and economic life that are distinctly our own. These three American fundamentals are responsible for our freedom, our economic well-being, and our peace of mind. Of all the blessings which these three factors give the American people, however, personal freedom is the most priceless. Freedom has been the ambition of mankind throughout human history. We have the greatest degree of freedom that any people ever enjoyed.

The three great pillars in our American way of life are: (1) faith in God; (2) constitutional government, and (3) a private enterprise economy. Let's take them one by one and briefly examine how they fit into the fabric and the strength of our nation and way of life.

Factor No. 1

1. Faith in God. During all my years of educational crusading on the basic principles, I have been restating this fundamental as the basis on which freedom is built. I've had perhaps a half-dozen letters from atheists protesting that faith in God is not a fundamental in the structure of American freedom. I have always said, in reply: men cannot really be free unless they are controlled from within, and the Christian religion is the most effective means of controlling people from within.

When our founding fathers came to America the desire for religious freedom was their great driving force. They were godly people. The first buildings erected as the Pilgrims worked their way gradually westward from Plymouth and Jamestown were crudely constructed church buildings. The people prayed to God for guidance and they placed their faith in God. Basic principles growing out of this great faith were written into every governmental document which went into the formation of our United States of America. The political structure gave people the right to be atheists, if they chose, but the structure itself was built on faith in God and upon Christian principles.

2. Constitutional government. This is the second great fundamental factor in the American way of life. Our founding fathers did not use one time the word "democracy" in either the Constitution or the Bill of Rights. They were building something far better, a Constitutional Republic. The Constitution guarantees certain rights for all people, minorities or majorities. They all have the same rights in America.

Under a democracy the majority decides each issue and the minorities may find themselves terribly neglected, ignored or steam-rolled. When the guillotine was taking heads off hundreds and hundreds of people in Europe, many innocent people were victims. Why? There was no constitutional safeguard, no constitution giving a lone citizen the right to challenge his government. The majority was in control. When someone in the majority said, "Off with his head," off it came. In our country one man standing on his constitutional rights can challenge his government, even sue it. Minority protection is not a principle of "democracy" but of a constitutional Republic.

3. Private enterprise economy. There are two distinct types of economic systems which people may have. One is a government-owned economy, and the other is an economy owned by private individuals. There might be a combination of the two for a short time but a combination could not last long. Ultimately the government must own the property, the factories, the farms, the businesses, and the homes; or the private citizens must own these things.

As a result of our private ownership economy we have competition in a free market, we have dreamers who invent and develop, we have producers who astonish the world; and we have the greatest outpouring of material wealth the world has ever seen—and most important, its distribution throughout the whole population is the most equitable yet attained in any country.

In a world of chaos, Americans must strengthen these three great factors in our way of life through understanding, dedication and hard work.

Condition Car Before Vacationing

"We Marylanders are fortunate indeed to live within a State that offers every facility for clean outdoor recreation. Its topography and its temperate, yet wide climatic range, affords a variety of recreational facilities, where folks can relax and enjoy nature's beautiful countryside in every way," said Thomas B. R. Mudd, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. "It might be possible that next Sunday you are planning an all-day outing. Naturally, the family automobile will play an important part in the success of the trip. Whether you head for the north, east, south or west in this great State of ours, there is a big treat in pleasant recreation awaiting for you. To safeguard against unpleasant interruptions while you are traveling along the highways, I strongly urge every motor vehicle owner to have his car safely checked for mechanical defects before taking either long or short driving trips."

"Let's call this plan a voluntary motor vehicle inspection program. The check-up would include examining the brakes, steering mechanism, all lights, windshield wipers, horn and tires."

I am certain that your automobile dealer, garage or service man will gladly cooperate with the Dept. of Motor Vehicles in this campaign for voluntary safety inspection. If, after the check-up is completed and adjustments or the replacement of worn parts of the car are required, these things will be done as economically as possible.

I again would like to remind the public that this is a strictly voluntary motor vehicle inspection. It is a safety measure in which each and every one of us should be most willing to participate. The slight inconvenience of driving your car in for a safety check-up may be the means of preventing a serious accident that could bring about permanent injury to some member of your family.

So let's start tomorrow.

SENATE
CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

United States Senator from Maryland

The Senate last Thursday unanimously passed a bill outlawing the Communist Party and making it a crime to knowingly belong to the party or any other organization intent on overthrowing the American government.

The first bill ever introduced outlawing the Communist Party was by Republican Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, and she has reintroduced the bill in every Congress for the last several years.

Under the bill passed by the Senate the maximum penalty for such membership would be a fine of $10,000 and five years in prison.

Written into the bill was the findings of fact that read, "The Congress hereby finds and declares that the Communist Party of the United States, although purportedly a political party, is in fact an instrumentality of a conspiracy to overthrow the government of the United States."

The findings of fact continues by pointing out that the Communists are dedicated to overthrowing our government "by any available means, including resort to force and violence. Holding that doctrine, its role as the agency of a hostile foreign power renders its existence a clear present and continuing danger to the security of the United States."

The key section of the bill states, "Whoever knowingly and willfully and intentionally becomes or remains a member of (1) the Communist Party, or (2) any other organization having for one of its purposes or objectives the establishment, control, conduct, seizure or overthrow of the government of the United States, or the government of any state or political subdivision thereof, by the use of force or violence, with knowledge of the purpose or objective of such organization, and commits any act designed to carry into effect the purpose of such Communist party or organization shall upon conviction be punished as provided by Section 15 of the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950."

This action by the Senate sends the word out to the entire world that we in America will have no part of Communism, that we will not live with it, and we do not want it under any guise whatever.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 19—I am disturbed by the recent trend in our foreign relations. Despite the expenditure of billions of dollars abroad in military aid, we have not been having much success in selling American and American ideals to other peoples.

Our foreign relief and rehabilitation programs, including the great Marshall Plan which, together with Point Four, did so much to put Western Europe back on its feet, were good ideas. They stimulated economic activity here at home and they aided countless millions of people in Europe and Asia. But they served also to antagonize some people abroad and to create mistrust.

Poor Sales Work

In other words, our government spent much time, effort, and money on a big promotional campaign that almost fizzled. Why? I think we failed because our official personnel abroad—our salesmen, if you will—did not know exactly what they were selling and did not trouble to ascertain the real needs of the foreign countries which were their "customers." That was not good diplomacy, or good politics, or good business. Although we are a mighty nation, we cannot afford such poor "sales performance."

Our foreign policy has been directed by a number of very capable men. I do not blame them for the fact that it has backfired so often in recent years. They have had hard sledding, with crisis following upon crisis. They improvised, and perhaps did the best they could. Meanwhile, the State Department has provided good berths for generous contributors to political party "war chests." More Efficient Foreign Service Needed.

We need more efficiency and ability in the State Dept., and particularly in the conduct of its overseas operations. Next year, Congress should give careful study to effecting improvements. It could provide for recruiting foreign service personnel by establishing scholarship training programs somewhat like the one which has worked so well for the Navy's Reserve Officer Training Corps.

An alternate measure would be the founding of a Foreign Service Academy to train men and women especially for overseas service in the diplomatic field. This new academy would be supervised carefully by the government itself. Its standards would be comparable to those of West Point or Annapolis, which have had great success in their respective fields. Money will not secure promotion in either of these institutions. Incentives Are Lacking.

While we are waiting for Congress to decide how best to recruit and train Foreign Service officers, something should be done about improving the morale and performance of those who now represent our interests abroad. I am told that the Foreign Service Officer Corps is at the lowest numerical strength in five years—and this at a time when world tensions are very high. Promotions among these men are too uncommon. Few incentives for doing a better job are offered to them.

Men have served in the Foreign Service for as long as 20 years without having passed more than two years of that service in the United States itself. Such a condition of exile is poor policy. These men cannot be effective exponents of the American way of life unless they are given frequent opportunities to come back home. How else are they to obtain really first-hand knowledge of the needs which should shape our national policy? Let's Face Reality.

We have developed a dynamic economy which has met many challenges. We should also have a dynamic foreign policy. Our frontiers now lie well beyond our shores. There must be a way to attract our best men to work for our interests abroad. We must find that way if we are to preserve our own freedom and get our share of the world's raw materials, of which we stand so much in need. Our national security itself lies in the balance and depends upon more friendly allies.

I forecast that the State Dept. will be reorganized and operated as carefully as the Army, Navy, or Air Force departments. No one can become a recognized general or admiral by making a monetary contri-

Timonium

Fair Dates

Announced

In just about two weeks, starting on Wednesday, Sept. 1, racing will return to Timonium for its annual 10-day stand and during the final six days of the sport the Maryland State Fair will be a companion piece on the grounds. Thoroughbred horses not only furnish an integral part of the overall entertainment program at Timonium but add to the size and renown of the state fair, since revenue derived from racing forms a large part of the sums tribution to a political party. Some day, I forecast, the State Dept. will cease being used to pay off political debts to large party contributors, or to help support lame-duck politicians.

Church Planning 50th Anniversary

In reviewing the list of pastors who have served this church, one must admire the courage and fortitude that they exhibited. It required men with faith to travel miles and miles by horseback, over muddy roads in all types of weather in order to take the word of God to the people of the circuit. Great physical effort was required. Statistics reveal that the average life of the early circuit rider was a little over 40 years.

Many of our pastors were later promoted to positions of presiding elders, or the position as we now know it, district superintendent. Beverly Waugh, who served Tom's Creek as an assistant pastor in 1849, later was ordained a bishop of the Methodist Church.

The following served the pastorate until the end of the last century: 1870, John Montgomery; 1817, Thomas Cross; 1874, Geo. E. Maydwell; 1877, H. P. West; 1880, E. O. Eldridge; 1882, Daniel Haskell; 1884, George M. Berry; 1885, Osburn Belt; 1888, D. Davis; 1890, J. F. Gray, J. C. Starr; 1893, Henry Mann and 1896, M. H. Courtney.

Articles of incorporation of the trustees of the Tom's Creek Methodist Episcopal Church were received for record at the Frederick County Courthouse on Sept. 26, 1888. As far as can be determined this was the first legal incorporation for the church.

From the pastor's reports that were given at the Quarterly Conference meetings, Tom's Creek was a progressive church during the latter half of the Nineteenth Century. Attendance was better than any other church on the circuit. A Missionary Society had been holding regular meetings prior to 1880. Sunday School was well attended except during the winter months.

But the church lacked a good location. The Sunday School was closed from November until April and often worship services had to be cancelled because the road leading to the church was knee-deep with mud or closed by snow drifts.

By 1890 a majority of the congregation wanted to tear down the old church which had been built in 1757 and erect a new church at a more central location. However, some of the members objected. It was then decided that the building should be remodeled. New pews were installed and carpet was placed in the aisles. The small windows were enlarged. An organ was donated by William Gilson. Trustees of the church at the time of these improvements were N. Stansberry, William J. Troxell, William Fuss, J. A. Ohler, Meade Fuss, John Moser, Philip Stansberry, William J. Gilson, and William Devilbiss.

As the nineteenth century was replaced by the 20th, the leaders of the church realized that just as surely the old log church would have to be replaced by a better edifice. But we must never forget that old church which for 147 years was the place of worship for our forefathers.

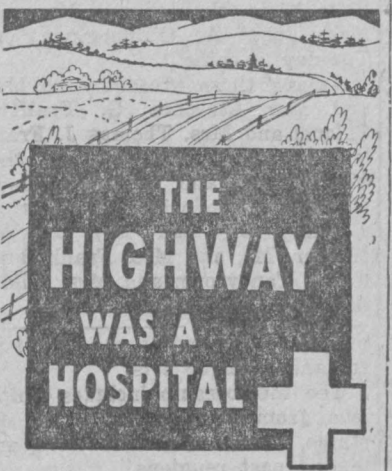

MEN'S CLASS IS PLANNING OUTING

The annual men's outing, sponsored by the Men's Class of Elias Ev. Lutheran Sunday School, will be held Thursday afternoon. The outing will be held at the Norman Shriver farm along Middle Creek, near Tom's Creek. Suppers will be served from 6 p. m. on.

The activities will include horse shoes, swimming, boating, baseball game between the oldsters and youngsters. This will mark the 20th observance of the outing sponsored by the Lutheran Sunday School. Rev. Philip Bowler, pastor, Robert Saylor, superintendent and Weldon B. Shank, president of the men's group, are serving as the executive committee with a number of special committees appointed by President Shank.

LOCAL GOP TO MEET

Col. Thomas J. Frailey, chairman of the Republican Committee of Emmitsburg, has announced that there will be a meeting of the local Republican Central Committee at Republican headquarters, the home of the Misses Ruth and Rhoda Gillelan, 103 W. Main St., Saturday evening, Aug. 21 at 8 p. m. All members of the Central Committee are urged to be present.

THE HIGHWAY WAS A HOSPITAL

Ancient Chaldeans put sick people on open highways hoping that passersby might be able to suggest a cure.

Today, we leave diagnosis and prescribing to the skilled men of the medical profession. And when they prescribe medicines, we are wise to bring the prescription to a thoroughly trained pharmacist.
