It strikes me as mighty peculiar as to why we don't appreciate what we have here at home. Was talking to an out-of-town couple the other day, living not far from here and all they did was rave about the things we have here in Emmitsburg that they don't have in their home town. They are so keenly interested in us that they might possibly locate here while conducting a business in their own town.

One of the first assets they discussed was the local Chamber of Commerce, all the while bemoaning the fact that their town had none. As they pointed out, that town must have a representative group to represent it, and this shouldn't be just any service club or individual. The group must be a responsible body with the answers at its fingertips. Emmitsburg used to be like their town, they lamented. When anyone interested in either living there or wanting to locate industry there, all they could do was ask someone on the street about the potentialities of making a living or a going concern there. You can well imagine the maze of different responses they received.

Well, there's no doubt about the necessity or importance of having a Chamber of Commerce, but for the life of me I can't see why a town the size of Emmitsburg shouldn't have a Chamber membership of only 25. Why the apathy? To tell you the truth, having a C. of C. is the first indication that a town is on its toes. If outsiders can see our advantages why can't we ourselves? Let's boost that membership, folks.

Another progressive step has been taken by our fire company. In a few short years the group has come from a hand-drawn outfit to a modern and well-equipped fire-fighting machine, second to none, of comparable size, in the state. I was pleased to learn this week that now the '51 truck will be equipped with a two-way radio in the near future. This means that immediate contact can be made with neighboring communities keeping them posted of any serious conflagration which might perhaps require outside assistance. The radios really are invaluable in event of any enemy attack when messages from our Federal government and police can be gotten in rapid time, perhaps saving untold number of lives. Congratulations boys, you're really a credit to the community.

Residents of the east end section of town are appreciative of the action taken recently when the Mayor and Commissioners had Flat Rung dredged, thereby eliminating a pungent stench from that end of the community. The project cost in the neighborhood of $500, but that is a small sum compared to the happiness created by the work and the protection received as regarding better health conditions in the community. Many thanks. And while we are on this subject I don't think it will be too much longer when we will have a complete sewerage system adequate to take care of the needs of the whole town. A survey is being made of the needs, and I wouldn't be surprised if by spring work on the project can be commenced.

Interest in Emmitsburg's largest entertainment is rapidly being generated. What I am referring to, of course, is the annual Lions Club Horse Show. Without a doubt this event dwarfs any other in attendance in this section. A lot of hard work goes into the production of this event and your presence will be greatly appreciated. The admission is only 60 cents for adults and 25c for children. Where else could you get a whole day's entertainment for such a small sum? And the proceeds go to a good cause, you know—the children's welfare fund. So why not make plans right now to attend the sixth annual Horse Show on Sunday, Sept. 26 at Emmitt Gardens?

As long as Americans have the freedom to buy what they want and also not to buy things, steady production and steady employment are not entirely deliverable. — K. R. Miller, senior vice president, NAM.

Playoff Game Scheduled Here Sunday

An eleventh-hour decision by the board of arbitration made Emmitsburg eligible for the Shaughnessy Playoffs in the Penn-Mar Baseball League. The decision arrived to late for last Friday's issue of the Chronicle.

The board decided that New Oxford must play the locals Saturday to decide the fourth standing club of the league eligible for the playoffs. The Pennsylvanians forfeited the game by their refusal to play the contest, thereby placing Emmitsburg in the playoffs.

Fairfield was the opponent in the first round of the playoffs last Sunday, and the locals went down to a close defeat in a thrilling 10-inning contest. J. Deardorff collected four hits in as many trips to the plate for Fairfield, and Tom Saylor and Paul Clarke got two each for the locals. Fairfield won the contest 6 to 5.

A large turnout is expected Sunday when Emmitsburg meets Fairfield once more in the best-of-a-three series at the Community Field at 2:30 p. m. In order to avoid a date conflict that might be harmful to the attendance of both affairs, the Vigilant Hose Co. has postponed its scheduled shooting match until Sunday afternoon, Oct. 10.

A homerun by I. Herring with two runners aboard got Cash-town off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning at Blue Ridge Summit and they never lost the lead in their best-of-a-three-game series in the Shaughnessy playoffs. G. Herring accounted for the final Cashtown run with another homer in the ninth. Blubaugh pounded out a circuit blow with the bases bare for Blue Ridge Summit, the pennant winners, in the fifth. W. Singley led Cash-town's attack with three singles. J. Spence, Cashtown hurler, and his mound opponent, Null, each gave up eight hits.

Church Wedding

Before an altar decorated with white and yellow gladioli and lighted tapers, Miss Mary Marguerite Wachter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wachter, N. Seton Ave., became the bride of William Gene Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hopkins of Taneytown, in a double ring ceremony performed in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg, at 2 p. m. last Saturday. Rev. John Sullivan, C.M., pastor of the bride, officiated.

The Sacred Heart Altar was decorated with red gladioli and the Blessed Mother's Altar with pink and blue gladioli. A 15-minute recital preceded the ceremony with Mrs. Euphemia Rotering, church organist, accompanying Prof. William Sterbinsky violinist. Mrs. Rotering played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied the soloist, George Greco, who sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" and as the bride presented her bouquet to the Blessed Mother, "Mother At Your Feet We're Kneeling."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white embroidered nylon tulle gown, redingote front effect over bridal satin, with leg-o-mutton sleeves pointed over the fingers, Peter Pan collar with white satin buttons to the waistline in front, tight bodice and full skirt, accentuated by a hoop both extending into a scalloped cathedral train. She wore a tiara crown of satin, lace and white sequins from which fell a three-quarter length nylon veil. She carried a bouquet of white mums centered with a white orchid.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Sterling Goulden, was matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown of yellow iridescent chrome spun taffeta with matching hat and mits and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of yellow and white mums.

The bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Wachter, sister of the bride, Miss Rita Ann Topper, Emmitsburg; Miss Selby Bixler and Mrs. Ethel Hunt, both of Westminster. Miss Wachter and Miss Topper wore rose gowns and Miss Bixler and Mrs. Hunt wore blue gowns. Their gowns were all identical to the matron of honor. They wore matching hats and mits and carried old-fashioned bouquets of pink and white mums and blue and white mums respectively.

The best man was the bridegroom's father and the ushers were Sterling Goulden, Paul Harner, David Willhide and Nevin Ohler, Taneytown.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a navy blue lace street length dress with pink accessories and a pink rosebud corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a cotton blue lace dress with navy blue accessories and a pink rosebud corsage.

The ringbearers were George Sonon Jr. and Glen Geeseman, both of Reading, Pa., cousins of the bride.

The flower girls were Adona and Alona Geeseman, both of Reading, also cousins of the bride. They wore rose and blue gowns made of the same material and fashioned like the bridesmaids' gowns with matching hats and mits and carried miniature bouquets like the bridesmaids.

Following the ceremony a reception for approximately 200 relatives and friends was held in the Rowe Annex of the YFW after which the couple left on a wedding trip through the New England states. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue suit with pink accessories and a white orchid corsage. Upon their return they will reside on George St., Taneytown.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg, class of '50, and has been employed at Crouse's Store, Emmitsburg. The bridegroom graduated from the Taneytown High School and Bliss Electrical School, Washington, and is employed by Paul E. Shoemaker, Taneytown.

Out-of-town guests were from Taneytown, Reading, Waynesboro, Pa., Baltimore, Blue Ridge Summit, Gettysburg Westminster, and York, Pa.

Thurmont Has Heavy Field Registration

Registration of voters in their home districts reached a high of 280 last week with the largest single registration occurring Friday in Thurmont.

A total of 86 new names were placed on the election books in the Thurmont Fire Hall. The Republicans led the Democrats in registration there 2 to 1, with 59 Republicans and 27 Democrats being put on the books.

Of the total registered in the county so far, 141 are Democrats and 136 are Republicans with three persons declining to affiliate with either major party.

The board again emphasized that any one who is not registered may register at the times assigned, whether or not he resides in the district where the registration is being held.

In addition to the district-by-district registration the Board of Registry office in the Court House is open from 9 a. m. until noon daily except Sundays and holidays.

Last day for registration is Oct. 4, and the Registry office will be open all day until 9 p. m. that night.

Interest in the county-wide registration has not been widespread except in Emmitsburg and Thurmont. In Emmitsburg, a total of 52 persons were registered when the board sat in this district.

Last Friday, the board was in Woodsboro when 19 Democrats and 9 Republicans were registered. On Tuesday, nine Democrats and two Republicans were registered at Petersville.

Fire Trucks To Be Radio Equipped

Twenty-eight members were present Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. held in the Fire Hall, President Herbert W. Roger presiding.

According to information received from the Civil Defense Dept., the Emmitsburg fire truck will be equipped with a two-way radio equipment within the next 30 days. The project has been in progress for sometime and it was not until this week that the plans became definite. Some consideration was given by the local group of installing, at their own expense, a two-way set in the older fire truck too.

Guy R. McGlaughlin, chairman of the annual financial drive, announced that to date a total of $3013.50 has been received. This amount is $13.50 over last year's subscriptions.

Both the National and State flags were displayed for the first time during Tuesday's meeting. These flags were just recently acquired after being on order for some time.

A complete report on the fire convention held at the University of Maryland was given by second assistant fire chief, Sterling White, who attended the affair.

Plans for a shooting match to be held this Sunday have been cancelled due to a baseball game. The match will take place on Oct. 10, at 1 p. m., it was announced by Franklin Carty, in charge of the match.

Lions Donate To Memorial Hall Fund

Final plans for the annual horse show were discussed at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday night in the Lutheran Parish Hall, President J. Ralph McDonnell presiding.

Three guests were present from New York City and Union Bridge.

Robert E. Daugherty, general chairman of the horse show committee, called a special meeting of that group following the regular meeting, and it was disclosed that plans were in the final state of preparation for the annual show to be held on Sunday, Sept. 26 at 11 a. m. at the Emmitt Gardens, along the Emmitt-Taneytown Rd.

C. A. Elder thanked the club in behalf of St. Euphemia's School for the club's offer to have the school playground stoned. Later plans were made by the school, and the yard was blacktopped making the stone donation unnecessary.

Captain Philip B. Sharpe reported on the progress of the Lion's 25th Charter Night celebration which will take place the latter part of November.

Treasurer Robert E. Daugherty announced that $35' had been netted from the recent Teen-Age Community Chorus concert which the Lions Club sponsored. A check for that amount will be turned over to the Memorial Hall Assn. in the near future.

School Board Defends Action; Cites Shortage

Defending the action of the Board of Education in hiring 17 high school graduates as school teachers in the county school system, George C. Rhoderick, president of the school board said this week that the public must wake up to the fact that there just aren't enough students in teachers' colleges to supply the public school needs.

Mr. Rhoderick said "The school board has known of this situation for years and knew it was coming. We've tried to warn the public."

This is just the first year of the crisis, the president said and he indicated there appeared to be little or no relief through 1960. There just aren't enough teachers in the country, he added, and the problem facing Frederick County is the same one that is facing other counties in Maryland and all states in the nation.

"Admittedly the policy is not satisfactory," Mr. Rhoderick said, "but we did what was our best under the circumstances."

Praises Novice Teachers

The president had high praise for some of the high school graduates who were hired last year to teach. The girls were selected on the recommendation of their school principals and supervisors because of their scholarship, for their personalities which indicated teaching ability and their indication of a desire to teach.

"We anticipate that some of these girls will make good teachers. Several of the girls hired in previous years proved so outstanding that they have been kept in the school system," Mr. Rhoderick asserted.

The untrained teachers will receive the assistance of the supervisors to an extraordinary degree and a training program for them has been instituted.

In addition to the 17 girls there are a number not fully qualified and are teaching under the emergency certifications which were instituted during war years.

Defends Action

Mr. Rhoderick said, in answer to a published statement calling for employment of retired teachers, there are many difficulties surrounding the retirement law of the state, including the forfeiture of all retirement rights of a retired teacher who goes into the school system again.

In response to statements that qualified teachers are available, Mr. Rhoderick said that "no capable teacher living in Frederick County who wanted to teach was turned down." He added that there have been some persons who have been qualified but were found to be unsuitable as instructors.

The president of the board said that students who have completed several years in state teachers' colleges "generally are unwilling to delay their graduation for four or five years to teach, and generally wouldn't be inclined to come to this county."

"The public must awaken to the teacher shortage in the nation. There just aren't enough students in qualified colleges to fill vacancies existing and there appears no indication there will be for some time," the board president emphasized.

Admitting that a higher salary scale is part of the problem, Mr. Rhoderick said that if Frederick County raised its salaries, it would be taking qualified teachers from some other section of the county or country and would be "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Other reasons advanced by the board spokesman for persons not desiring to teach included the statement that discipline is hard to maintain, and the life of a teacher is not an easy one. Mr. Rhoderick said he regretted that a large segment of the public is so ready to criticize when they do not understand the problem. "The people just aren't informed, and I have been surprised at the number of people who approached me who were completely unaware of the serious nature of the teacher shortage which affects the entire country, not just Frederick County."

WISHES AND FACTS

In his first State of the Union address, in February, 1953, President Eisenhower made a dramatic announcement. "I am, therefore," he declared, "issuing instructions that the Seventh Fleet no longer be employed to shield Communist China."

The President had been reviewing how, at the start of the Korean War, our Seventh Fleet was ordered to prevent Formosa from attacking or being attacked by the Red Chinese on the mainland. "This," he said, "has meant, in effect, that the United States Navy was required to serve as a defensive arm of Communist China . . . (But) there is no longer any logic or sense in a condition that required the United States Navy to assume defensive responsibilities on behalf of the Chinese Communists. . . ."

Then came the dramatic announcement to Congress, followed by cheers, especially from the Knowland bloc of Republicans. The way was now clear for an all-out invasion of Red China by Chiang's Nationalist Army on Formosa. Presumably, that army had been straining at the leash—a leash, presumably again put on it by Harry Truman and assorted "cookie pushers" in the State Dept.

But, leash slipped and all, the ferocious dog didn't budge from his kennel. Meantime, the Red Chinese kept up the fighting in Korea and also successfully supported an adventure in Indo-China. Still, not a growl from the dog.

Now what has happened? The Seventh Fleet is very active in the Formosa area—to the joy of Chiang's Nationalists—protecting that island from the mainland. And Secretary Dulles is telling the President that yes, in his opinion, we can prevent the Red Chinese from capturing Formosa.

Thus, in 19 months, a ferocious dog has become a defenseless puppy. This turnaround indicates that 19 months ago the Administration was being kidded, or was kidding itself, or was kidding the American public.

Snaith To Ride Queen's Horse In Laurel Classic

Willie Snaith, veteran 26-year-old English jokey, has been assigned to ride Queen Elizabeth's Landau in the third Washington D. C. International invitation race at Laurel Race Course on Nov. 3.

Snaith, described as a miniature Mickey Rooney, will be riding Landau for the third time when the speedy black three-year-old by Dante-Sun Chariot parades to the post in the Laurel classic. A slight injury to Sir Gordon Richards, Landau's regular rider, just prior to the English Derby at Epsom, gave Snaith his first chance astride the colt. The pair finished out of the money after leading in mid-stretch.

When Richards was hurt a second time later in the summer,

Snaith again was given the opportunity to handle Landau this time in the Sussex Stakes at Goodwood. The stocky reinsman, who employs a style similar to Richards, made good this time to record his first victory in the Royal silks of purple, scarlet and gold. Since Richards, the idol of British racing fans, had ridden Landau in all of his prior starts as a two and three-year-old, it was a foregone conclusion that he would be at Laurel to ride Landau, but his second injury and his subsequent retirement gives Snaith his big opportunity.

St. Joseph's High School

St. Joseph's High School re-opened Wednesday morning, Sept. 8 for all students, with an enrollment of 126 students. Orientation day was held on Tuesday morning, Sept. 7 with 38 first-year students present—the highest class enrollment. The faculty for the new year is unchanged.

On Wednesday at 9:00 a. m., Rev. Fr. John D. Sullivan, C.M., celebrated the opening Mass for the pupils of St. Joseph's High School and St. Euphemia's grade school.

French classes will have monthly programs provided by the Franco-American Audio - Visual Distribution Center. The programs will include films, slides, film strips, books and bulletin board displays designed to increase knowledge of French culture, civilization, art, science and social problems.

The Cultural Services of the French Embassy will provide other materials for the French classes, such as maps, charts, posters and documented material on modern France. Undoubtedly, the greatest asset for the French classes will be derived from the summer experience of Mrs. Wasilifsky's attendance at Laval University, Quebec. Not only Mrs. Wasilifsky, but her entire family enrolled together at the university. This was the first time in the experience of the university that an entire family enrolled together.

Students were pleasantly surprised as they noted the new equipment which the school had acquired since June. The entire school will benefit from the new slide film projector on the market which was donated by the Class of '54. The class also gave a Bioscope which will greatly aid the science students. The bioscope is a new method of teaching in the microscopic field. An entire class can, at one time, view a preserved or live specimen under magnification, whereas previously with the microscope, the teacher could not be certain that the individual student was using the microscope effectively and efficiently.

In the Commercial Dept. students were greeted by six manual and one electric typewriters. The new electric typewriter will be used in office practice and the manual typewriters will be a great aid to many who are typing for the first time as they are the same type used in most offices today. This year, not only commercial students, but academic students as well, will have the advantages of a typing class.

Second year Home Economics clothing class students were amazed as they gazed at the newest member in class. The member proved to be "Judy," a half-size 14 mannequin which is to be used for demonstration purposes and to help solve fitting problems.

Another "addition" to the high school equipment was the gift of the Alumni Association in the form of an unabridged Webster's New International Dictionary, copyright, 1953. This is very useful for library use as students may now find definitions and derivations of latest coined words which could not be found in older editions.

CSMC President Robert Gelwicks presided over a short meeting Tuesday. This was a preliminary meeting concerning the regional meeting for the election of officers which was held yesterday at St. Mary's High School in Hagerstown.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION

YELLOW PERCH

(Perca flavescens)

Also called Yellow Ned and Ring Perch.

RANGE: A native from South Canada to South Carolina, not found in lower Mississippi Valley and bordering States except where introduced; has been successfully planted as far west as Pacific Coast and in many large water impoundments where in some instances it has supplanted other desirable species; found throughout most all of Maryland's fresh waters and brackish tidal waters.

DESCRIPTION: Humpbacked, mostly yellow in color, generally with from 6 to 8 vertical black stripes; two distinct dorsal fins, average size less than a pound.

BREEDING: Spawns in the spring when the temperature of the water is about 50 degrees F.; does not build nest but lays tiny eggs in long strings contained in a jelly-like mass that expands on contact with water, and become lodged in water grasses, and on logs and roots; eggs can be collected and hatched, the fry or young being stocked in suitable waters; perhaps you are familiar with the spring run of yellow perch up the Severn River at the Crain Highway (Route 301) where a yellow perch hatchery is operated by the Department of Tidewater Fisheries.

HABITS: Travels mostly in schools; voracious, hence a predator in some waters; feeds principally on small fish, shrimp, peeler or shedder crabs, and worms.

MANAGEMENT: Requires little protection; there is no closed season on yellow perch in Maryland waters; pollution an enemy.

VALUE: In great demand as a food fish and has a large economic value as such in Maryland; furnishes both sport and food to an army of anglers from spring through summer and fall.

Ships sailing from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean via the Panama Canal travel from north to south.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

Wheat acreage allotments for 1955 do not prevent a farmer from planting excess acres of the crop for feed and soil protection, providing the excess is disposed of before harvest.

George J. Martin, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, says that farmers can follow this procedure and still be eligible for price supports on their 1955 crop and they will also avoid the marketing quota penalty.

Chairman Martin adds that this leaves the program pretty much as it was for the '54 crop, when Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson also lifted the restrictions on overplanting to permit the seeding of wheat to protect the land and to permit the use of wheat for pasture and hay.

"The important points," Mr. Martin explains, "is that any wheat planted in excess of the farm allotment may not be harvested for wheat and that by a time to be announced next spring the excess wheat must be disposed of so that it cannot be harvested for grain."

Farmers taking advantage of this provision will be asked to designate the excess plantings and farms will be checked after the announced closing date to determine whether or not the disposal requirements have been complied with.

This point is also covered in the law recently passed by Congress which provides that: "Any person who knowingly harvests any basic agricultural commodity on his farm which has been determined by the Secretary to be in excess of the farm acreage allotment for such commodity for the farm for such year under this title shall not be eligible for any payment for such year under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended."

The law also states: "If the acreage determined to be planted to any basic agricultural commodity on the farm is in excess of the farm acreage allotment, the Secretary shall by appropriate regulations provide for a reasonable time prior to harvest within which such planted acreage may be adjusted to the farm acreage allotment."

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Sept. 16.—I believe in insurance—fire, life, and casualty—yes; and I scribe to these.

Practice Christianity

Apart from being a business, insurance is also a form of good sound Christianity in which every church member should enthusiastically join. Insurance is really all of us contributing to help ourselves and others who are in trouble. Instead of waiting for fire, death, or accident, and then "passing the hat," insurance companies collect the money first.

To interest people in taking out insurance consumes time and costs the insurance companies much money; also, book-keeping, and other expenses are high. But in a free nation I see no way of avoiding this expense. Even compulsory insurance costs something to 'service,' and it is very easy for politics and even corruption to creep in. Therefore, I believe the present plan is best. Buy Enough Different Kinds Of Insurance

A week or two ago, Greater Boston and Eastern New England were swept by a hurricane. Within about one hour $100 million of property values were wiped out. A portion of this—such as beautiful trees—can be insured only at very high premium rates, but damage to buildings, life, etc., can be protected at reasonable insurance costs. (Incidentally, uninsured loss of trees can be deducted from your income tax.)

Since this hurricane I learn that very few people carry hurricane insurance. In fact, most people do not know what their insurance covers. For instance, manufacturers insure their fob goods until delivered to the merchant's nearest railroad station. The merchant insures these goods after they arrive at his store; but very few carry policies which protect the goods while being trucked between station and store. Be sure you have the right insurance, and enough of it.

Read Your Policies

Whether you are a manufacturer, or a storekeeper, or a humble citizen, you should read your policies. Get them all out tonight and read them. Anything not plainly covered will not be covered. Especially read what is in fine print. This advice strongly applies to accident and health insurance sold at low rates. An executor may try to collect on a $10,000 accident policy and find that the accident must be in a train wreck—in order to collect. In fact, one company which sells accident insurance at very low rates insists you must be seated in a train when killed in order for your executors to collect.

Sickness insurance should be checked. A long list of diseases of which you have never heard are mentioned; but you may find no mention of heart disease, cancer, or some very common causes of death. I forecast that the time is coming when these accident and sickness policies will be compelled by law to state in large type what they DO NOT cover. In the meantime I beg that all my friends read their policies. If these policies do not cover every reasonable hazard which you can think of, get covered. For instance, if your wife should put a person's eye out with an open umbrella, are you insured against its costing you $20,000?

Get Letter From Your Agent

Your insurance agent wants to be one of your best friends. He is truly interested in your welfare. Tell him you want everything covered and get a letter from him stating that everything, unless he mentions it in this letter to you, is covered. One other thought. In most states only perfectly sound insurance companies are allowed by law to operate; but this is not true in all states. Furthermore, some unscrupulous companies get around the law by operating by mail from a careless state.

You cannot be expected to study the financial strength of each company; but you can insist upon selecting only well-known companies which have been in business a long time. Any company which had advertised consistently in your local paper should be safe. This is a good test, especially if the advertisement reads that the com-lived, he was judged to be innocent but if he died the conclusion was that he was guilty. Such practice is obviously fraught with peril to the accused. In Maryland today we are using almost equally unscientific methods to cope with the problem of the drinking driver," said Dr. Henry C. Freimuth, toxicologist in the Maryland Chief Medical Examiner's Office. He pointed out that the usual evidence introduced in court in the trial of a person charged with driving under the influence of liquor consists of testimony of the arresting officer concerning alcoholic odor of the breath, staggering gait, thick speech and other signs of gross drunkenness, all of which may either mislead to the conviction of an innocent person or result in the acquittal of a guilty person.

"There has been a net increase of 1,100,000 new business concerns from 1945 to 1953 alone."—Better Living.

"The odor of liquor in the breath is a very unfair test of intoxication," Dr. Freimuth said, "since this odor is not due to alcohol but to the flavoring matter of the liquor which varies enormously from one beverage to another and hence can provide no accurate index of the degree of intoxication. The other signs such as thickened speech, flushed face and staggering gait are also not characteristic of alcoholic intoxication since they may be produced by many other conditions. There is, however, a scientific way of demonstrating whether a person is under the influence of alcohol to an extent which impairs his judgment and makes him unfit to operate a motor vehicle safely. This involves chemical analysis of the blood to determine how much, if any, alcohol is present. From a practical standpoint, it must be conceded that it is difficult to obtain blood samples within a reasonable time in driving under the influence cases. To circumvent this difficulty the blood alcohol concentration may be determined indirectly by analysis of a sample of breath obtained by the arresting police officer. This analysis is done by a trained chemist and the results are then introduced in court. If the concentration of alcohol in the blood exceeds 0.15 per cent, the person from whom the sample was taken is under the influence of alcohol. This has been decided as the result of tests conducted on thousands of persons by many workers in this field."

Under present Maryland law, there is no definition of what constitutes "under the influence of intoxicants." Hence, the Maryland Law Enforcement Officers, Inc. and other organizations are striving to have legislation passed in the next session of the General Assembly which makes chemical test results admissible as evidence in these cases. The proposed law establishes three blood alcohol zones, i.e., up to 0.05 per cent, not under the influence; 0.05-0.15 per cent, possi-

by J. G. Taylor Spink

There has got to be a showdown—and soon—on the troublesome issue of baseball broadcasts. That's the feeling of Clark Griffith, 84-year-old president of the Washington Senators. If there is no showdown, he told J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of The Sporting News, radio and television broadcasting of games may lead to the destruction of the minor leagues and perhaps to the nably under the influence; above 0.15 per cent, under the influence.

It is only by use of such scientific techniques that we can get away from our present primitive method of dealing with the serious menace of the drinking driver. Such procedures will unerringly reveal the guilty and protect the innocent from unjust charges in the opinion of Dr. Freimuth.

"We must," Griffith told Spink, "confine radio and television to our own immediate territory, and stay out of the minor league regions. The biggest hill we have to climb is the justice department. Right now the justice department has us stopped, because it insists that any curtailment of radio or TV is a violation of the anti-trust laws. It rules, Griffith went on, that it is monopolistic if we prevent radio and TV stations or networks from going into whatever territory they want to. It's our job to make them change the laws so we can forbid it."

Griffith went on to say that it's natural, from the standpoint of the fans, to argue that a man in San Francisco should have the same privilege of listening to the broadcast of a big league game as the fellow in New York, on the theory that the air is free. "But," Griffith asked, "what about the people who are in minor league baseball—the owners, officials and players? They should have some protection under the laws, too. To give everybody a fair deal, the justice department should begin thinking of the fellow down there in the minors and the entire baseball picture."

Griffith believes that each club should have the privilege of broadcasting and telecasting games over a 50-mile radius. After all, he said, 98 per cent of a club's fans come from that area. Broadcasting beyond that limit, he believes, hurts not only the team itself but also minor leagues that may operate in the territory covered.

The Sporting News points out, for example, the situation in Albany, New York, which has a team in the Eastern League. Albany television sets not only get games telecast from Fenway Park in Boston, but also pick up Yankee, Giant and Dodger games. During a recent "American Legion Night" at Albany, when Albany played Elmira, the Red Sox-Indian and Yankee-White Sox games could be seen on TV screens there. The Albany game drew 3600 fans, but Legion officials said that without the big league games on television a crowd of more than 5000 probably would have turned out.

For the Young and Hearty

With a little imagination, mothers of lunch-toting school tots can pep up the looks of the usually drab lunch box. Since youngsters are always attracted by color, the sandwich placed on a gay colored six-inch paper plate or a small tray shaped plate with waxed paper wrapped round and about both sandwich and plate makes the sandwich appear more appetizing. It also gives a little "at home" dignity to the meal which may slow down the gulp - and - run type eater to a more digestible chewing pace.

Many mothers with home freezers make a week's supply of sandwiches at one time. Each day's dose is placed on a different colored plate with plate and sandwich wrapped in one of the vapor-proof materials especially designed for home freezing. The sandwich is then stored away in the freezer until the day it's due for the lunchbox.

For a well rounded lunchbox menu, mothers might try the following recipe, adding of course the all important thermos of milk and a vegetable such as easy-to-pack carrot sticks.

CHOPPED TURKEY AND BACON SANDWICH

People, Spots In The News

HOME BUYING record was set at Coral City, Fla., when some $3,750,000 worth of new "at cost" homes—442 of them—were sold in six hours for early-fall occupancy. Crowd of 48,000 braved all-day rain.

KOLLEGE KWADS—Hijab quadruplets, 9 months old, are children of Mr. and Mrs. Wasfi Hijab, Moslems from Jordan attending University of Florida at Gainesville.

That's the kind of condition Griffith is concerned about. And he says that if baseball does the right kind of selling, it can convince the people in government that curtailment of radio and TV rights should be permitted. But radio and TV curtailment, he says, isn't the only thing necessary to return prosperity to the minors. He wants the majors to abandon the farm system and let the minor leagues return to private ownership. It would force some of the minors out, he admits, but within a couple years he says minor league baseball would come back stronger than ever.

BROOKLYN, N.Y.—Captain William Callis of the Kathryn was feted and rewarded out of a record 400,000-bottle cargo of 3,300,000 drinks of rum, which he raced from Puerto Rico ahead of six other rum-laden freighters, all speeding to avert an acute shortage after a seven-week Puerto Rican dock strike. SPORTS
AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

The skunk has the distinction of being the only four-footed American that can return the fire of hunters. His weapon has made him feared by all animals, including most of mankind. In an article in Sports Afield, outdoor writer George Heindorf describes him as the Master of Chemical Warfare. But, despite the efficiency of his ordnance, the skunk is not militant, either in looks or disposition.

The average skunk—he would be of the striped species—is some 28 inches long and weighs about five pounds. But longevity and good hunting may increase his bulk to a hefty eight or more pounds.

He never fires without plenty of warning. First signal is stamping with the forefeet. Second, the tail is hoisted with the tip hanging down. If this ultimatum fails, the white tip rises, spreads out, and he fires. The skunk can fire fore, aft and sidewise. Skunk musk can be smelled for a mile. Golden yellow in color, it burns human skin on contact. It is reported to have blinded Indian trappers. However, I've seen it score in the eyes of men, boys and dogs without more than temporary ill effect.

The skunk has been cited by biologists as the carnivore that ranks highest as a destroyer of insects. In addition, he will eat mice, rats, leaves, buds, grass, carrion, grains, garbage, any kind of fruit and berry within reach, and, when's able to catch it small game. On occasion, he eats eggs and fledglings of ground-nesting birds. But he squares himself, repaying with compound interest: he digs out and dines upon the eggs of snapping turtles—ruthless predators of waterfowl and game fish.

Unlike his cousins the weasel and otter, the skunk has no wanderlust. Only during mating time will he muster enough energy to waddle more than 500 yards from home. Most of his hunting is done after dark, for nocturnal foraging suits his lack of cunning, his sluggishness and his tastes in diet.

Decidedly incautious and heavy-footed the skunk not only travels where angels fear to tread but also burns his bridges behind him. As a result, he frequently tumbles into cellars, barrels, manholes—not to mention odder places. It is safe to say that fire departments move a million dollars' worth of equipment each year to rescue blundering skunks.

The day when people used to prescribe for themselves for every known ailment from the patent medicine ads are long gone. Most people are too well informed to be deceived by something that promises to cure everything from tuberculosis to ingrown toenails, and such remedies are seldom advertised. But many people will doctor themselves with cough remedies which may be excellent in their place—which is temporary relief of a cough—but which may simply delay necessary medical attention.

This kind of self-deception is especially tragic if tuberculosis is the cause of the cough. In its early, most easily curable stages, TB usually has no noticeable symptoms. By the time a persistent cough appears, the disease may have a strong foothold. It can be cured, but any delay may mean that the cure will be long and difficult. A long delay may be fatal.

Elderly people sometimes put up with a cough for years, treating it with various soothing preparations, because they think it's just another annoyance of old age. If it should be TB, they may have few other symptoms which cause special discomfort at the moment, but may cause serious trouble later. Another danger lies in the fact that they can be spreading the disease to those about them, loved ones whom they would not purposely harm for the world.

A persistent cough should always be called to the doctor's attention. Only he can say that it is not important. If you'll read the label on that bottle of cough medicine, you'll find the makes gives you the same caution.

Decentralization Of Postoffices Will Ease Burdens Of Postmasters

Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde of the Sixth District of Maryland this week announced that under the decentralization program of the Postoffice Dept., postmasters in the five counties of his district will report directly to a district manager nearer their communities, rather than to Washington.

When the plan was made effective Sept. 15, postmasters in Allegany, Frederick, Garrett and Washington counties reported to the Baltimore district office, while postmasters in Montgomery County reported to the Washington district office.

Plans call for six district managers in the three-state region of Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia, operating under a regional manager in Washington. "This will eliminate one of the major bottlenecks in the postal service and will enable our own local personnel to solve problems at the local level," Congressman Hyde said. "The result will be better service, greater economy, and quicker solution to problems."

The success of the operations in the six regions already opened has prompted the decision to move ahead on the decentralization program. Additional regional offices will soon be established to cover the remainder of the nation. Mr. Hyde pointed out that in decentralizing its operations, the Postoffice Dept. was following the lead of business organizations in the country, as well as the recommendation of the Hoover Commission on the reorganization of government. Under this plan field personnel will be delegated authority equal to their responsibility.

"The ability of small business to do much more than merely survive has persisted in the face of the vast changes of the past 100 years as the nation was being transformed from a mainly agricultural society to the world's most highly industrialized economy."—Nation's Business.

HERE'S HOW . . .

A partition, either open, or covered with paneling, adds an extra room to the house. The open partition provides shelf space for knickknacks or flowers. For an open partition use 2 by 6-inch lumber for studs, base and ceiling plate, and 1 by 6-inch lumber for the shelves. For a paneled partition the frame is all of 2 by 4-inch lumber. Before starting the job, the craftsman should see his local lumber dealer for assistance in drawing up a bill of materials that will use stock lumber to best advantage.

Fascinating Fashions

By Judy Seaton

Pick your color and stick to it, says Louise Allbritton, star of the NBC-TV daytime serial "Concerning Miss Marlowe" (seen Mondays through Fridays at 3:45-4:00 P.M., E.D.T.).

The dramatic innovation in this Fall's fashions is the one-color theme . . . shoes, handbags, belts, gloves and all accessories will match your dresses and suits. To be sure, there are varying, yet blending shades of heathery blues, rich browns, herb-shaded greens, charcoal greys and of course, the ever-popular autumn leaf red.

Belts are most unusual, for, though they are narrow, they combine the light and the dark of the same color with each shade having its own fastening in a single buckle and ending on either side. Or perhaps a two-buckle knitted number would be your dish.

Still large and roomy, handbags have changed in shape somewhat and are inclined to be rather deep, but narrow. The uncolored idea is carried out in a brown on brown paisley design. Another is a deep blue wool fashioned after the famous carpet bag. There are many others of luxurious sueded accentuated with leather.

Shoes, like belts, link the contrasting shades. For example, scarlet trimming blends beautifully with mulberry calf. Or, perhaps the court jester style of calf and lizard (evenly divided from heel to toe) would match your costume better. Another smart model is a slate grey suede spliced from instep to toe . . . and bound with . . . grey calf.

Other monochromatic items are gloves . . . bright blue knitted cashmeres for warmth . . . soft grey pigskins . . . bright crimson sueded with brass buttons around the cuffs . . . brick colored trimmed with dark brown leather. Of course, these are only some of the styles, but you can find them all in whichever hue you wish.

The gal with a singleness of purpose always succeeds, but, reminds Louise, the gal with a single-colored wardrobe will be one of the best-dressed this coming autumn.

Plan Surprise Alert Soon

Maryland will join other states in this area in a surprise alert to be held sometime between Nov. 8-10, Shirley Ewing, State Civil Defense Director, said this week. When the sirens sound 'at an unannounced time during this three-day period, the public will be expected to "take the usual Civil Defense precautions," he said.

The alert, dubbed "Operation

Quick Kick," is intended to test the reactions of Civil Defense personnel as well as the public to "attack warning signals sounded without prior notice of exact times."

Other participants will include Delaware, Kentucky, Ohio, Virginia, W. Virginia, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia.

The exact time of the alert is to be a complete secret to everyone in the State with the exception of the director and his deputy.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There are indications many are puzzled by some campaign oratory being released in November election warm up.

Most confusing appears to be commonly used assertion to justify anything and everything that "we must not forget we are now THE world power."

Yet many people are analyzing this oft-repeated claim. Since days of the Caesars there have been many world powers. Yet in each era, the world power represented a bastion which was accorded world-wide respect. But never in history has any nation become the world power, or maintained that position by playing Santa Claus every day of the year, year after year.

From the Napoleonic Wars until 1914, England was the world power. And with the exception of a little brawl with the Boers, England maintained that position without fighting anybody. In addition, she maintained it without charity, for the sun has yet to set on day England gives away as much as a shilling.

So today's peculiar happenings provoke many questions.

As example there is recent transaction of Foreign Operations Administration, chief dispenser of American billions to practically every country, Communist Yugoslavia included. In this particular transaction, it was decided U. S. taxpayers would give the railroad system of India 100 locomotives.

Two things meet the eye immediately.

Dirt in the Face
Makes Dramatic Shot

"EXPLOSION AT THIRD" by Paul Siegel of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune. This prize winner was made with 4X5 Pacemaker Speed Graphic, 1/1000th at f8, with fast panchromatic film.

The dramatic intensity of this action shot is due largely to a simple element—dirt. You can feel the dirt coming at you, driven by the force of the player sliding into third. As a matter of fact, photographer Siegel did get a faceful of mud, a split second after he clicked the shutter. He didn't mind, though. He had his picture.

This photograph, which has already won four prizes, is unusual in many respects, but in one way it is a real rarity. Dirt "made" this picture. More often, in the history of photography, dirt has ruined a once-in-a-lifetime shot like this.

If he had clicked the shutter a split-second later, newsmen Siegel would not have had this exciting record of a third base play. His lens was showered with mud. But he took the chance and won.

The Most Important Facts

There are two facts in our world today which, I feel, must be given high priority in the minds of every American, young and old. Our survival depends upon it. The facts are: (1) The world-wide Communist conspiracy, whose primary objective is to conquer the world, IS conquering the world. (2) Communism's Fifth Column Force in America is more powerful and a greater menace to-day than ever before. During the next few weeks this column will discuss these two facts and what American citizens can do about them.

First, let's document our facts. FACT NO. 1—Communism IS conquering the world:

A special subcommittee of the U. S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee has officially charted the world-wide growth of Communism, from a handful of Bolsheviks in 1917 to the enslavement today of more than 800 million people in 11 countries, and the perfection of a Fifth Column of 5 million hardened, disciplined conspirators working inside the 60 non-Communist nations.

Indo-China Added

In the few months since the Senate Committee published its report, Communism, aided by its Fifth Column inside the government of France, has taken over half of Indo-China and is expected to gobble up the remaining half as it consolidates its newest conquest.

With the vast manpower of Red China and with a Red Indo-China flanking southeast Asia, the huge nation of India, with its millions, becomes vulnerable, and with it the whole of Asia.

In Europe, meantime, the major nations show definite signs of weakening before the rising might of the Communist giant. This weakening has been achieved by infiltration of Reds in the European nations, their cunning propaganda, and their insidious seizure of political power. The U. S. Senate committee reports there are 450,000 Communist conspirators in France, with 100 Reds actually holding seats in the French Assembly; that in Italy there are 1.7 million card-carrying Reds, with 218 occupying seats in the Senate and Chamber of Deputies. As this column is written, the leaders of England's Socialist-Labor Party—Atlee, Bevan and others—are on a good will visit to Communist China, now-towing to Communism's new strong-man, Red Dictator Mao Tze-tung.

Now let's examine FACT NO. 2—the Communist Fifth Column in America is more powerful and a greater menace today than ever before:

Attorney General Herbert Brownell was interviewed by editors of the U. S. New & World Report. They asked: "Is the Communist Party (within our country) more or less active, Mr. Attorney General, than it was, say, a year ago? What does the FBI find on that?" The Attorney General replied: "They think it is a greater menace now than at any time... they (Communist conspirators) are better organized and detection is more difficult."

And Attorney General Brownell could have added a fact which Herbert Philbrick, who was an FBI counterspy in the Communist underground for nine years, always emphasizes whenever and wherever he can get people to listen: "The truth of the matter is, and the Communists know this, we have not yet begun to win. We have not turned the tide. We are still losing."

Surrounding Us

Making preparations for the signal for internal revolution or for the big Soviet strike against the USA, are the Fifth Columns in South and Central America, right on our doorstep. The Senate Committee reports the following statistics: Argentina, 40,000 Reds (more, incidentally, than Lenin had with him when he seized control of Russia); Brazil, 60,000; Chile, 40,000; Uruguay, 15,000; Venezuela 20,000. Mexico, the Central American countries, and Canada have comparable numbers.

Communists in our own country continue to widen their effectiveness with propaganda calculated to subtly undermine our people's faith in the American political and economic institutions. Philbrick and all the authorities on Communism say the Reds are masters of subtle thought control, and that thru infiltration and a vast army of unwitting dupes, they are effectively reaching the minds of many citizens.

So the actual facts do show that the strength of Communism is growing, expanding, and that it is a menace to

How To Save Gas

Gasoline mileage is largely a matter of a light foot and good driving practices, according to Ford Motor Co.'s engineering staff.

For example, they advise that a light foot on the accelerator when pulling away from stop lights really pays off. "Jackrabbit" starts use up to 15 per cent more gasoline than does partial-throttle acceleration.

The automobile driver should use the choke as little as possible, and should release the choke as soon as the car's engine operates smoothly.

Tests by the engineering research department, Ford engineering staff at Dearborn, Mich., show that at 40 miles an hour, gasoline mileage averages 20 miles per gallon when the choke is out 15 per cent. It drops sharply to only nine miles when the choke is extended 40 per cent.

Warming up the engine on cold mornings is good practice, Ford engineers say. During the first five miles of driving, "cold-started" cars consume 30 per cent more fuel than "hot-started" ones.

During long trips, test show, the best drivers maintain a steady middle-range speed. Ford tests reveal a 12 per cent gas economy when highly speed is reduced from 60 down to 50 miles an hour.

A driver should anticipate stops and use some of the car's wind and rolling resistance in bringing it to a halt. If he waits until the last second to jam on his brakes, he not only wears out tires and brake linings, but also uses twice the fuel he would in braking gently and letting the car drift to a stop.

Mechanical maintenance also will add to mileage. Ford engineers advise keeping the air cleaner free from dirt and exhaust system free of obstructions. They say a dirty air cleaner can cause loss of one and one-half miles per gallon and a partially-plugged muffler or tailpipe can reduce mileage five per cent.

Good roads also are to avoid long periods of engine idling and to keep proper air pressure in tires. Extended idling is a gas-waster; under-inflated tires are a drag on the engine and cause substantial power and fuel losses.

Ford research men recall a classic example of non-economical driving habits, involving a woman motorist who complained of poor gasoline mileage.

Investigation showed that her first act each time she entered her auto was to pull out the choke—so she could hang her purse on it!

BOND SALES LAGGING

August sales of Series E and H savings bonds reported by the Treasury Dept. for the state of Maryland amounted to $4,345,000 according to Mr. Luetkemeyer, savings bonds chairman. This is $77,000 below Maryland sales in August 1953.

It is anticipated, however, that sales for the remainder of 1954 will show a marked increase, Mr. Luetkemeyer said. The intensified service club-bank program and stimulation of school and bond programs, along with current campaigns being conducted in the wage-salary market among Maryland industries, are expected to produce gratifying results.

Mr. Luetkemeyer, in urging local volunteer supporters of the savings bonds program to increase their efforts, stated that Frederick County is now in 5th place among state counties with 54.9% achieved in reaching the 1954 goal of $1,521,100.

America from within as well as from without. What can a citizen do? A part of the answer will be found in next week's column.

Bird Season

Divided

The rail bird season opened Sept. 1, closing Oct. 20, and the next game on which there is an opening date are the mourning doves. After careful consideration, and consultation with many dove hunters, and the Fish and Wildlife Service, a split season was decided upon for this year, the same as last year, namely Sept. 15 to Oct. 4, and Dec. 1 to Dec. 20. That gives the hunter a chance at the locally bred birds, and another opportunity at mourning doves that breed to the north of Maryland and migrate to this State after the close of the first part of the split season. All dates mentioned are included in the open seasons. It is believed this is satisfactory not only from the hunter's view point, but also will cause no permanent injury to these fine game birds as a species.

The shooting hours for mourning doves are from noon to sunset each and every day of both open seasons. The daily and possession limits are eight. No open season on doves in Garrett County.

Auxiliary Plans Dance

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Memorial Post No. 6658, VFW, Emmitsburg, held its regular meeting recently in the annex at the Post home. There were 27 members present and the meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Helen Daugherty. It was in charge of the losing team in the quilt contest which entertained the winning team at a buffet supper.

During the business meeting the chairman of the food stand at the recent picnic held for the ambulance fund announced that more than $136 had been cleared at the food stand. Reports were also given on the recent banquets that were held for the benefit of the auxiliary.

It was decided that a square dance will be held in the annex on the evening of Oct. 29. This dance will be open to the public with a small admission being charged.

It was also decided to hold the yearly benefit card party in November.

Mrs. Beecher Ohler, one of the unit's Gold Star Mothers, gave the unit another quilt top. A quilting will be held later in the fall and the quilt will be disposed of for the benefit of the auxiliary.

Grange To Have Fair Booth

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Grange was held Wednesday evening in the public school, 23 members attending with Master Edgar G. Emrich presiding.

The local Grange visited the New Market chapter for friendship night with a very good attendance. Rev. Paul McCauley was the speaker of the evening.

A committee from the Grange investigated conditions regarding the straightening of a curve on the new road leading from Tom's Creek bridge connecting to the Keysville road, finding it impassable because of refusal to grant a right-of-way by the property owner.

The Grange once again will retain a booth at the Frederick Fair and the committee in charge is composed of Richard Florence, chairman, William Wivell, and George Gartrell. Display committees are: green vegetables and canned goods, Mrs. Rachel Emrich, chairman; needlework, Mrs. William Wivell; fresh fruits, Mrs. Morris A. Zentz; small grain, Edgar G. Emrich; field crops, Raymond Baumgardner; hay, Harry Swomley; eggs, Morris A. Zentz; cookies, Mrs. Six and Mrs. Ethel Baumgardner.

William Baker, chairman of the Community Show, discussed his plans for the coming event on October 22 and 23.

A film on anhydrous ammonia was shown and greatly enjoyed by the group. The juvenile unit joined the parent group for refreshments served by the hostesses, Mrs. Edgar G. Emrich and Mrs. George Gartrell.

Americans may some day travel across the country on rolling roads—super-conveyor belts powered by the energy of the sun—Roy Fruehauf, President of the Fruehauf Trailer Company, predicts.

The 44-year-old head of the $200-million-a-year freight trailer firm envisions a day when "Starting from 30-mile-an-hour strips, these rolling roads might become a complex network of strips of varying speeds up to 100 miles an hour, each shielded by glass windbreaks, lined with stores, theatres and restaurants."

While admitting that this is a "science fiction-like" approach to today's traffic and highway problems, Mr. Fruehauf said that it is impossible to say that "this will never really come to pass."

"For one thing, many of science-fiction's seemingly impossible predictions have already come true: The splitting of atoms, the hydrogen bomb, rockets climbing beyond Earth's atmosphere, guided missiles, robot brains—even television!"

HYDE GREETS G.O.P. WOMEN

Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde, Republican of Maryland's Sixth District, is shown with his wife Mildred (right) as they greet the "G.O.P. ELECTION EXPRESS" and its corps representing the National Federation of Republican Women. The G.O.P. women are enroute to Los Angeles, and along the way, they are going to sample "backporch" sentiment concerning the Eisenhower record, and urge the election of a strong Republican Congress.

HEALTH HORIZONS

Migraine Headache

If you've ever suffered from migraine, you probably can't think of anything good to say about it. But, according to Dr. Sol Hirsch in the New York State Journal of Medicine, migraine is a protective mechanism that "may be likened to the popping of a safety valve." Stated very simply, he believes that migraine occurs when you have used up all the energy you can afford to, without serious danger. The attack, by "laying you low," forces you to stop, and gives you a chance to "wipe out the energy debt."

"Mental Overtime"

"Prevention of migraine would be a relatively simple matter if we had tape recorders to measure total energy input and output," says Dr. Hirsch. Most people have no idea how much effort they expend each day. There's the man, for example, who keeps nine-to-five office hours — but takes his business problems home to worry about; "he is constantly paying time and a half for mental overtime." There was the young bookkeeper, good at her job but anxious to improve herself culturally. In her spare time "she devoured books" — and developed migraine. Eye tests showed nothing organically wrong but, comments Dr. Hirsch, "overuse of eyes, combined with mental effort, must result in energy depletion... 25% of our energy intake goes to the brain when the body is at rest." When "reading steals time from sleep," matters are even worse.

People don't even realize how much energy they are expending physically, either. One girl with migraine seemed, according to her story to the doctor, to indulge in no excessive activity — but when his telephone rang, she promptly picked up her knitting. Inquiry showed that she actually knit hours a day, even while waiting her turn shopping or in the movies — "a good try at perpetual motion!" exclaims the doctor.

What's Your Record?

As a first step in treating a person with migraine, Dr. Hirsch recommends keeping a notebook called "My Twenty-Four Hours" in which to record "as many details as possible of what he or she does the clock round." This includes what you eat (after all, energy comes from food) as well as what you do. If you suffer from migraine, that may be a good tip: find out how much you really do in a day, see where you might cut corners to eliminate unnecessary energy expenditure — and possibly your migraine!
