

Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

A reader has brought up a question which I feel deserves repetition and I am passing it along to you, the public, in the hope that maybe something concrete can be gained from it. The inquiry, in the form of a letter, is as follows:

Dear Abigail:

Have you noticed that in recent years, neighboring towns have had night school for the people of their communities? I for one, wish this town would do the same. I heard several men saying they like to brush up on their math, typing and speedwriting. These would interest me. Sewing, shopwork and automobile driving would interest a lot of others, too.

Abigail, you seem to get things done so why not try a hand at this? I understand the state sponsored the courses in a nearby town. The only thing that really costs much money was the license for the automobile course. Isn't there some way you could find out whether anything of this sort was wanted by enough people? If so, then a committee could find out the necessary details and we could all go to school, if we wanted to for a while again. How about it, Abigail?

INTERESTED

I am dead sorry that I have no data on the above inquiry at the present time, but I would be very happy to seek information on the subject. Frankly, I haven't given the matter too much consideration as I didn't think too many would be interested in such post-graduate work. But then, on second thought, I think it would be a darned good idea and most certainly would be a big help to most of us in learning the advanced methods of typing, bookkeeping, shorthand or other phases of the business world. It certainly would help one in filing income tax forms. I underwent such training way back in the early thirties when the Federal Government had such a training program under way. I remember distinctly the typing and shorthand classes held several nights a week at the Emmitsburg Public School, under the tutelage of Federal instructors. Maybe this revival wouldn't be so bad at that. Many a mother or housewife who has been kept too busy during the day could have the opportunity of learning to drive a car by night instruction, or for that matter, learning or brushing up on business methods, health care, home first aid, etc.

Right now I am at a loss as to the proper course that should be taken to institute such schooling, but if the letter-writer will give me the name of the town where these classes were recently held, I would be glad to investigate. At least it would be a start in the right direction. How about it, dear writer? And I want to thank you for the kind remarks.

Despite the appointment of a new county dog-catcher and the repeated warnings to local dog-owners to keep their animals confined, the creatures continue, more so than ever, to roam at will over the community. It is not an uncommon sight to see several trash containers capsize any day of the week with paper and garbage strewn about as a result of these dogs rooting in search of food. The cold weather seems to have increased the intensity of their activities and the matter is becoming increasingly irritating to housewives who find their trash cars overturned in the mornings. I'm not issuing any more warnings because they go unheeded, but someone is going to suffer if this matter is not cleared up shortly.

Bingo Saturday

Plans have been completed for the penny bingo game to be held Saturday, Feb. 12, in the Firemen's Hall, for the benefit of the Mount St. Mary's College Glee Club.

William Fanelli, president of the choral society, has announced many lovely prizes will be offered in addition to the valuable door prize. Refreshments and soft drinks will be on sale. Mr. and Mrs. Guy A. Baker, Sr., Mrs. Marie C. Rosensteel and Miss Agnes Case will assist the gleemen in their holiday party, to which the public is most cordially invited.

Will Show World Series Films Sunday

Plans for the reorganization of the Emmitsburg Baseball Club are progressing, it was claimed this week by a group of local businessmen who have undertaken the reorganization. A public meeting has been called for Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the VFW Post Home on the Square.

At the meeting it is planned to have a free discussion as to the running of the club and ironing out past problems which have confronted the group. A trifle late in getting organized this year, it is the hope of those sponsoring the project to get off on a sound foot Sunday by electing officers, directors, and committees.

Form letters have been mailed to a great number of local businessmen and fans and the general public is invited to attend the meeting. Special entertainment in the form of motion pictures will be provided, and it is hoped that a large attendance will be attained.

It is imperative, officials point out, that the club be organized as the league meeting which requires all clubs to be entered and post entry fees, will be held the following Sunday.

If possible, the team manager will be elected at Sunday's meeting, and team prospects will be discussed.

Hosemen Complete Recreation Room

Thirty-eight members were present at the regular monthly meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. held Tuesday evening in the Fire Hall, President Herbert W. Roger presiding.

The treasurer's report disclosed a bank balance of $592.53. Announcement was made that the organization's recreation room was now completed. A pool table has been installed, and it is planned to have a Coke and candy machine installed in the recently constructed room.

Fire Chief John J. Hollinger gave a report on the recent County Firemen's Assn. meeting which he attended and reported also that the company had been summoned to eight fires during January. The Chief stated that the firemen had extinguished the following types of fires during the month: three chimney, two cars, one field, one house, and one telephone pole.

President Roger announced that the membership roster now contained the names of 76 active firemen and 27 social members. The following applications for membership were received: Vincent Topper, Ernest Rosensteel, and Charles D. Gillelan.

Miss Mary Shuff Retires From School System

Miss Mary J. Shuff, long-time teacher of English at Frederick High School, retired from the Frederick County school system last week and was succeeded by Mrs. Isabella E. Welsh.

Miss Shuff, a graduate of Emmitsburg High School, and daughter of M. F. Shuff Sr., Emmitsburg banker, graduated from the old Maryland State Normal School and received her A.B. degree at Hood College. She later earned her Master's degree at Columbia University, specializing in curriculum, especially English.

After teaching one year in New Jersey in the early part of her teaching career, she was at Emmitsburg High and elementary school for about six years and for the latter part of that time was principal. For several years she taught at the old Girls' High School in Frederick. She has been in the English department at Frederick High School since 1925.

Conscientious and faithful in her teaching duties, Miss Shuff is highly regarded in the county teaching profession. She has made substantial contributions to the maintenance and development of the English curriculum in the high schools of the county, Supt. of Schools Eugene W. Pruitt said. Recently she has taught the senior class of the high school in English, and she was particularly active in county workshops in curriculum work.

BAPTIZED

Children members receiving the Sacrament of Baptism last Sunday in the Lutheran Church were Randall David McNair, son of Carolyn McNair and Ronald Barry Hewitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald B. Hewitt.

CARS CRASH CAUSING TWO FATALITIES

Two young men, one a returned veteran of Korean duty from Cashtown, were fatally injured last Sunday afternoon when their cars collided at 3:10 o'clock 3½ miles north of Emmitsburg on the Gettysburg Rd. Five others were also injured in the crash.

Pfc. Frederick Eugene Landis, 20, who was instantly killed, was believed to be enroute to the home of his parents, Jesse C. and Kathrine (Biesecker) Landis, who reside on the Orrtanna Rd. at Cashtown. He returned in December from 16 months' service in Korea and currently was stationed with Battery A, 601st AAA Bn., at Andrew Air Force Base, Md.

The driver of the other car, Charles Edward Moore, 20, of Richmond, Va., died about four hours later, at 7:20 o'clock Sunday night at the Warner Hospital. An emergency operation had been begun in a gamble to save his life. He had a badly depressed fracture of the skull in addition to other injuries.

Dr. C. G. Crist, Adams County coroner, said the young soldier's death was caused by a crushed chest, a fractured skull, internal injuries, a fractured right leg and a fractured left knee cap.

Moore, Dr. Crist said, suffered a depressed fracture of the skull, which caused his death, lacerations of the face and a dislocated left hip.

Pennsylvania state police said the accident occurred near the home of Mrs. Donald T. Imler, night nurse at the Warner Hospital, a short distance north of Spriggs' Garage. The road at that spot, they said, curves on a slight upgrade.

Pfc. Landis, who had visited his parents the last two weekends, was driving north, apparently enroute home, and was alone in his car. Moore, who had five other young people in his auto, was traveling south toward Mt. St. Mary's College, where one of the passengers of his car was a student.

The others injured in the crash included Mary Christian, 15, who suffered a contused forehead and a cerebral concussion; Patricia Ford, 16, who had a laceration of the forehead and contusions of both legs; Robert D. Padgett, 21, who had a contused chest, abrasions of the scalp and lacerations of the left foot and knee, and Sue Benton, 16, who suffered a broken nose, a fracture of the left arm, fracture of the left hand and lacerations of the scalp. All of the group were from Richmond.

Also a passenger in the car was Cicero Tennant, 19, formerly of Richmond, now of Akron, O., and a student at Mt. St. Mary's College.

Police said the young people, other than Tennant, in Moore's car, had left Richmond at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning to visit Tennant, whom they knew from his residence in Richmond, at the Mount.

The group dined at Emmitsburg and then at Tennant's suggestion, police said, decided to see Gettysburg while they were in the vicinity.

They were returning Tennant to the Mount when the crash occurred. The car had had a flat tire, police said, near the antique shop along the Emmitsburg Rd., and had had to change the tire before continuing on to the fatal meeting with the Landis car.

Police found the Moore car, a 1952 Mercury convertible, on its own lane and so badly demolished that they listed its damage as $1150, the list price for the convertible. The greatest amount of damage was to the left front.

The Landis sedan was damaged mostly in its front and side, and police listed the damage to it, 1954 Ford sedan at $1800, its total value. The car had swung sideways with the front on the southbound lane and the back on the northbound lane angled across the highway.

A native of Lemoine, Pfc. Landis had resided in Cashtown for 17 years and attended Gettysburg High School. He had been employed as a truck driver for the few months between leaving high school and enlisting in the army Mar. 5, 1953, at Chambersburg. He received his first training at Indiantown Gap.

MEETING DATE CHANGED

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Public School will hold its February meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 22, instead of the 23, due to Lenten services being held in the various churches. Col. Thomas Frailey, the guest speaker, will deliver a very appropriate talk on George Washington.

A son was born Wednesday at the Warner Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Long.

"CITIZENS OF TOMORROW" ENTRIES

Pictured above are the new entries of the recently announced "Citizens of Tomorrow" contest which is being sponsored by the Emmitsburg Chronicle and the Allen Studios of Detroit, Michigan. The contest is limited to the area east of the Mississippi and the winners will receive monetary awards.

Miss Constance Kerschner

Miss Constance Kerschner, librarian and long-time Washington, D. C. resident, died at the Warner Hospital last Saturday as a result of a stroke and fall at her home in Emmitsburg on Jan. 17.

Miss Kerschner was born on Aug. 17, 1885, in Mercersburg, Pa., daughter of Jacob Brewer and Anna Motter Kerschner. She was privately educated and taught school in Frederick County. She entered library work after graduating from the Southern Library School in Atlanta, Ga. Prior to her retirement in 1943 from the Library of Congress, she had been associated with the libraries of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and the Army War College. She had also served with the Yale University Library and the Carnegie Library in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Miss Kerschner was a member of the choir of the St. Thomas' Episcopal Church in Washington for over 25 years. She was 79.

She is survived by two brothers, Robert L. Kerschner, Washington, and Edward Kerschner, Norristown, Pa.

Funeral services were held on Monday at 2:00 p. m., at the Church of the Incarnation, Emmitsburg, with interment in Emmitsburg.

Mrs. Lulu May Welch

Mrs. Lulu May Welch, Tilghman, Md., died at the Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, Monday at 8:30 p. m. after a long illness.

Born at Front Royal, Va., Mrs. Welch had resided at Tilghman for the last 25 years.

Surviving are these children, Charles E., of Downville; Vergil J., Bedington, W. Va.; William, Williamsport; Mrs. Virginia Griffith, Bedington; Mrs. Dorothy Cavender, Big Pool; Mrs. Mary Manning, Emmitsburg; Miss Hilda Welch of Tilghman; these sisters and brothers, Mrs. Bertha Weber and Mrs. Ida Durham, both of Front Royal; Isaac Miller, Smithsburg; John, Aliquippa, Pa., and Jack, James, and George, all of Front Royal.

Thurmont Thieves Sentenced

Two Thurmont District men who tried stealing valuable worms from one storage place and trying to sell it to another, each received five-year sentences in Circuit Court last Friday, it was learned.

Thomas Bernard Birks, 32, Rt. 1, Thurmont, convicted on one count of breaking and entering, was sent to the House of Correction for five years.

Dewey Arthur Hess, Jr., 25, Rt. 1, Thurmont, and a former resident of near Mt. Airy, received five-year sentences on each of two convictions for breaking and entering. Chief Judge James E. Boylan said the terms would run concurrently.

Birks and Hess were arrested at Thurmont on Jan. 25 by Troopers Donald Tucker, J. W. Trout, and Samuel R. Dorsey, following investigation of two worm-robberies at Morgan Station near Mt. Airy.

Lenten Services

Elias Ev. Lutheran Church will enter into the 1955 Lenten season with the observance of Holy Communion on Ash Wednesday night, February 23, at 7:30 p. m.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Hays at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Monday.

Celebrating 80th Birthday

Mr. Charles H. Myers, familiarly known as "Charley" to his many friends, is celebrating his 80th birthday today. Charley, puffing incessantly on his favorite pipe, still keeps busily engaged at "Shep's" and continues to enjoy excellent health.

MORRIS A. ZENTZ, LOCAL FARMER DIES AT 55

Morris A. Zentz, well-known and highly-respected farmer of Emmitsburg, died suddenly Wednesday morning, Feb. 9, at the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa., aged 55 years. Mr. Zentz was stricken on the street here with a cerebral hemorrhage around 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The deceased was widely known as a progressive dairy farmer and in church, business and fraternal circles. He was a member of Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church, holding office of deacon at the time of his death. A past master of the Emmitsburg Grange, he also was active in Pomona and State Grange affairs.

Mr. Zentz was a member of the Tyrian Lodge 205, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, the Enoch Royal Arch Chapter 23 of Frederick, Grand Chapter R.A.M. of Maryland, Jacques De M.O.M. Commanders 4, Knights Templar of Frederick and Tall Cedar of Lebanon of Hagerstown. He also was a member of the Farm Bureau, National Holstein-Friesian Assn., the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Thurmont and the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce.

The deceased was born at Thurmont, Md., Aug. 1, 1899 and was a son of the late George E. and Edna C. Martin Zentz. He is survived by his widow, Estella Everett Zentz, and step-mother, Mrs. Minnie Zentz, Thurmont. Three daughters and a son, Mrs. George Delphey, Thurmont, Mrs. James Bowers, Emmitsburg, Mrs. Edward Meadows, Detour; Morris A. Zentz, Jr., at home, and a foster son, Charles Long of Emmitsburg, in addition to six grandchildren.

Also surviving are these sisters and brothers: Mrs. Raymond Cutsall of Sykesville; J. Raymond Zentz of Baltimore; Chester T. Zentz, Thurmont; G. Franklin Zentz, Baltimore; Mrs. Mary Fisher, Westminster, and M. Luther Zentz of Baltimore.

Friends may view the body this afternoon at the late home in Emmitsburg. The body will lie in state in the church from 1 to 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon after which funeral services will be held from the Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church, Rev. Philip Bower, pastor, officiating. Interment will be made in the Blue Ridge Cemetery, Thurmont. M. L. Creager and son, funeral director.

HARDMAN—McCLAIN

Miss Sandra Amelia McClain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. McClain, Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., and Richard Walter Hardman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hardman, Fairfield Rt. 1, were united in marriage last Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in St. John's Episcopal Church, Hagerstown. The Rev. Kenneth M. Gearhart, rector, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hardman, rother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, were the attendants. A wedding dinner was served at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Hardman, a graduate of the Washington Twp. High School in the class of 1952, attended the York School of Nursing. Mr. Hardman, a graduate of the Emmitsburg High School, is employed at the Landis Tool Co., Waynesboro, Pa.

A daughter was born last Friday at the Warner Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Waybright, Emmitsburg Rt. 2.

Council Will Get Sewer Estimate Soon

The Town Council reported Monday night that it anticipates an estimate as to the cost of additional sewerage requirements needed for the completion of the local sewer system, at a special meeting to be held Monday night with company officials representing a Baltimore contracting firm.

The project was discussed at the regular meeting of the Town Solons held Monday night in the Fire Hall, President of the Board of Commissioners Thomas J. Frailey presiding over a full board.

Town Clerk Louise Sebald presented the reports of the tax collector, secretary and treasurer, all of which were approved as presented. Delinquent taxpayers were discussed and it was revealed that warnings had been issued in the form of tax notices on several occasions. These notices have been repeatedly ignored and as a result Council decreed that they be turned over to the county treasurer for collection, several of the delinquents representing a sizeable sum.

Council reviewed the sewer tax ordinance, about which there seems to be some misunderstanding, and explained that for each toilet in a residence, an annual fee is to be levied. This fee is $5 per unit. It was explained further, that if a residence has two toilets it would be assessed a $10 fee, $5 for each unit, etc. It was explained that some property-owners who had installed extra toilet facilities during recent years, had never recorded them with the tax collector and were in need of recent billings for the additional units. A recent checkup by the town authorities disclosed that about 45 of these owners had been using the extra accommodations and had not been paying taxes on them.

The question of free parking time for patrons of the Post-office was discussed and a request received for such a privilege was denied by Council on the grounds that to date the Police Dept. had not been tagging mail patrons and did not plan to do so in the future, unless the privilege were abused.

Parking meter revenue was reported for January as $302.70; overtime parking violations increased this total to $335.70. In addition to this sum there was $11.45 for other traffic ordinance fines.

The tax collector reported annual income from the sewer tax amounted to $1,993 while maintenance costs, on the average, were $1,763. However, it was pointed out, that any major maintenance work which is needed every now and then, often runs the town in the "red" as far as operating the sewer system and disposal plant are concerned. No parking signs were ordered placed in a portion of the alley which runs parallel north and south to the Leonard Zimmerman property on W. Main St. It was pointed out that parked cars there often blocked the entrance to several private garages.

The Police Dept. filed its monthly report with Council which revealed that eight out-of-town motorists were fined on a total of 11 counts and three Emmitsburgians on three counts. The total of fines was $432.50. Arrested and fined for vehicular infractions were:

Herman LeRoy West, Thurmont, speed greater than reasonable or proper, $11.45; Robert K. Cearfoss, Hagerstown, exceeding 25 m.p.h., $11.45; Margaret M. Hess, Emmitsburg, exceeding 25 m.p.h., $6.45; Charles Richard Lewis, Baltimore, operating under the influence of liquor, six months in jail and $200.75 fine, also reckless driving, 70 days in jail and $10.75 fine; in default of fine and costs an additional six months in the House of Correction was meted out for a second offense; Ray Andrew Roberts, Cando, N. D., speed greater than reasonable or proper, $11.45 and operating without a license, $11.45; Francis M. Chrisher, Gettysburg, reckless driving, $11.45; Charles Glen Koontz, Baltimore, exceeding 25 m.p.h., $11.45; Chas. T. Ridenour, Thurmont, operating under the influence of liquor, $100.75 and for reckless driving, $10.75; Robert M. Ligenfelter, Jr. of Baltimore, exceeding 25 miles per hour, $11.45; Robert Carroll Gelwicks, Emmitsburg, speed greater than reasonable or proper, $11.45; Leslie Marshall Cregger, Emmitsburg, making illegal U-turn, $11.45. All cases were tried before Magistrate Charles D. Gillelan, Emmitsburg. Thirty-five warnings were issued during the month.

Corporate Citizenship Pays Off

Men of unusual abilities and unusual attributes have built America into the nation which provides the present generation of people the greatest measure of welfare in the history of the human race. These individual prime movers must be recognized as citizen benefactors. There is another kind of benefactor bringing progress to America, the corporate benefactors, the companies which have utilized unusual abilities and unusual attributes—for the good of mankind.

In the heart of Arkansas's pine timber belt, a sawmill began operations 50 years ago. It was called the Crossett Lumber Co. Its lifetime was limited. It would cut out the available timber and leave. One day one of the owners stood watching a log being snaked up out of the mill pond into the sawmill. As the butt of the log went by he absent-mindedly counted the concentric growth rings in the structure of the wood. Then he had a flash. He exclaimed, "Why, that log has grown from a twig since we built our mill! Why not grow our timber and harvest it—as a crop? We could stay here forever!"

Crossett Progresses
The Crossett Co. built a model town, brought in some of America's foremost foresters and began to revolutionize this nation's concept of its timber resources. Today, its scientifically controlled forests grow enough timber each year to supply its needs—and this can go on, indeed, forever! Today, every family in Crossett, Arkansas, owns its home. Through the enlightened management and civic leadership of the company, the little town has become a city preparing itself for a population of 25,000, following a plan prepared by one of America's noted city planners.

A visit to this wonderful community refuels one's reservoir of faith in America and especially in the business leadership of America. Its streets are broad and tree-lined. Its churches are among the most beautiful in the nation. Its schools are the last word in modern facilities and in faculty standards. Its hospitals, parks, swimming pools and playgrounds would make any city envious. The Crossett Co., now boasting huge paper mills and chemical plants, has insisted that the citizens do these things for themselves. It has supplied the vision, the push and a sizeable share of the financial cost. That's corporate citizenship.

State-Wide Citizenship
In Little Rock 14 years ago, a man and his company decided to expand their corporate citizenship. The man was C. Hamilton Moses; the company was the Arkansas Power & Light Co. which he headed. At the time, Arkansas's per capita income was $252 a year. Its economy was based on raw material production, with little processing and manufacturing within the state. Mr. Moses called together 1000 Arkansas businessmen and they devised "The Arkansas Plan."

The primary objective of "The Arkansas Plan" was to bring new industry to Arkansas and stimulate establishment of locally-financed processing and manufacturing plants. The new payrolls would enrich the economy of the state. Largely through the dynamic leadership of Mr. Moses and the use of the resources of his company, Arkansas has obtained thousands of new industries in the last 14 years. The per capita income of the state has hit $1000 a year. Another phase of this great civic work was the "Build Your Own Home Town" clinics. Mr. Moses traveled the state, holding the clinics in 75 counties. As a result, many Arkansas communities have long-range civic improvement plans such as Crossett's. Mr. Moses and his company have demonstrated a high calibre of corporate citizenship.

For the Nation
One other example, this one on a national scale, should be noted: In June, 1954, the U. S. government knew that Soviet Russia had obtained, through espionage, our secrets on the H-bomb possibilities, and perhaps already had begun manufacturing the bombs. The Du Pont Co. officials were called in. Would they, the government asked, throw all their unique engineering resources and chemistry know-how into the building of the gigantic billion dollar Savannah River plant to make the materials for H-bombs? The answer was, yes. Du Pont built the plant in record time. As a result, our government recently announced that we were far ahead of Communist Russia in this field of decisive nuclear weapons. For all the know-how, and lending the hundreds of technical engineers to the government for the Savannah River plant construction, Du Pont charged the government $1, in addition to actual expenses. Its best men were employed over a long period without the company's profiting. This is the kind of corporate citizenship that builds our nation and keeps it strong.

Homemakers' Corner

Curtain and drapery length is an all-important factor in styling windows, says Vivian L. Curnutt, home furnishings specialist, University of Maryland Extension Service.

And with spring just around the corner, you may be thinking of new curtain or draperies for your home. Keep in mind that length is a primary concern, whether you are styling new ones or remodeling ones you have on hand.

Miss Curnutt points out that there are three curtain or drapery lengths which are good. A most popular one is the full length. It should come to within one inch of the floor, and the effect—formal or informal, depends upon your fabric choice and its treatment.

Then there is the length which ends on an exact level with the lower edge of the apron—the portion of the window just below the sill. This length gives a perky informal air to a room. It is adaptable to many types of windows and makes it possible to use many fabrics which could not be used in the full length treatment.

The third length is sill length. This one is especially good for casement and recessed windows. There are few exceptions when one of these three lengths would not make the best choice. One might be where long radiators are directly under the window, their height coming to within six to eight inches of the window apron. This might also apply to the window which has a window-seat or built-in shelves just under the window.

The length you choose depends entirely upon the effect you want to create in the room, not upon fashion or style, says Miss Curnutt. Longer lengths, of course, add height to a short window, while shorter lengths cut a long, narrow window.

The "Cafe" or "Double Dutch" style so popular today creates a horizontal interest which adds width. You need to take one precaution in choosing cafe or double Dutch curtains. When selecting the lengths, be sure that the upper curtain extends far enough over the top of the lower curtain for good proportion at the window. The exposed part of the lower curtain should be about a third shorter than the upper curtain.

Governor Makes County Appointments

No important changes in Republican appointments were recommended to Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin by the State Central Committee for Frederick County, it was learned last week.

The committee met last Saturday at Hotel Frederick with Emmert R. Bowls, chairman, presiding. The full membership was present.

Magistrate Edgar B. Palmer, who has been trial magistrate in Thurmont for the past four years, expressed his desire to the committee not to be renamed. Recommended for appointment for trial magistrate in that community was Paul M. Little Jr.

Other appointments for trial magistrates in the county remain the same: Wilbur F. Sheffield and H. Reese Shoemaker, with Edward J. Smith, substitute, Frederick; Charles L. Moats, Brunswick, and Charles D. Gillean, Emmitsburg.

Gail L. Cutshall, present county license commissioner, was recommended for reappointment.

Gov. McKeldin requested the committee to make four recommendations for the two majority members of the Board of Election Supervisors. Those recommended were Howard E. Damuth, Thurmont; Charles U. Price and G. Hunter Bowers, both of Frederick, and Joseph R. Harp, Myersville.

Four names for the two majority positions as alternate board to the election supervisors were also requested. Recommendations there were Mrs. Grace Duvall, near Frederick; Mrs. Della Albaugh, Unionville, and Mrs. Catherine Crum and Albert C. Palmer, both of Frederick.

These two persons, along with a third appointed by the minority party, have the job of transporting the absentee ballots from Annapolis to Frederick on election day.

It is understood the Democratic State Central Committee has been requested to submit two names for both the Election Supervisors Board and alternates to the board.

Present membership on the board is Ierce H. Gaver, Mr. Damuth, and Lumen Norris, Emmitsburg, the Democratic member.

The permanent registrars to the board will be selected by the new board after it organizes. One will be named from each party.

A recommendation by the Thurmont Republican committee of James Eyer as permanent rural mail carrier out of the Thurmont Postoffice was certified by the State Central Committee and was forwarded to Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde. The appointment will be subject to an examination by the Postoffice Dept.

Eyer has been substitute carrier replacing Emory F. Stottlemyer, who retired last year.

Farmer Pinned Under Tractor

Despite minor injuries and being pinned under a tractor in an icy stream Wednesday morning for about half an hour, Lloyd C. Bollinger, 38, Taneytown R.D., was reported in a satisfactory condition at the Warner Hospital yesterday.

Bollinger was operating a tractor at 10:30 a. m. along the bank of a stream which flows through his property when it toppled over, throwing him into the creek. The tractor rolled on top of Bollinger and he was pinned in the frigid water up to his neck for nearly a half hour before he was able to attract the attention of his wife. Mrs. Bollinger called neighbors who extracted her husband and rushed him to the hospital. He suffered a puncture wound of his left leg and other bruises.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

This is an unusual story. A story that is little known, but one that is particularly appropriate at this time as we observe the anniversary of the birth of one of the world's great humanitarians—Abraham Lincoln.

In 1847 two men were elected to Congress. Although they were of the same political faith, both were Whigs, they seemed to have little else in common.

One was from the North, the other from the South. One was far above average height, the other was a small, almost diminutive man. One was opposed to slavery, the other opposed secession.

When the formal talks were ended, Stephens mentioned that he had a nephew who was a prisoner at Johnsons Island in Lake Erie. His family had heard nothing from him. Could Lincoln get word to him that his people at home were well?

Two days later Lt. John Stephens of the Confederate Army arose in 20-degree below zero weather to begin the depressing daily routine of a prisoner.

But there was a break in the routine this morning—he was summoned before the commanding officer. There he was showing a telegram which read:

"Washington, D. C., Feb. 4, 1865. Officer in command at Johnsons Island, Ohio: Parole Lt. John A. Stephens, prisoner of war, to report to me here in person, and send him to me. It is in pursuance of an arrangement I made yesterday with his uncle, Hon. A. H. Stephens. Acknowledge receipt. (Signed) A. Lincoln."

The bewildered young officer was delivered to Lincoln, cordially received and, after a brief parole, carried through the lines bearing a letter to his uncle. The letter read:

"According to our agreement, your nephew, Lt. Stephens, goes to you bearing this note. Please, in return, to select and send to me that officer of the same rank imprisoned at Richmond whose physical condition most urgently requires his release. Respectfully, A. Lincoln."

Young Stephens arrived at his Georgia home in May, 1865. By then the war was over. Lincoln was in his grave. Alexander Stephens became a fugitive, was arrested and carried a political prisoner to Fort Warren in Boston harbor.

Now it is 13 years later. Alexander H. Stephens has been re-elected to Congress from Georgia. On Feb. 12, 1878, during an address in Washington, Stephens said of Lincoln:

"He was warm-hearted; he was generous; he was magnanimous. Every fountain of his heart was overflowing with the milk of human kindness."

That was the tribute of Alexander H. Stephens, one-time Vice President of the Confederacy, to the President whom even the turn of Civil War could not turn against an old friend.

The District of Columbia was named in honor of Columbus.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Insects and disease destroy at least half again as much timber every year as do forest fires. Great quantities of time, effort, and money are spent to combat forest fires, but the massive damage inflicted by insects and disease is grossly overlooked.

This estimate of damage by the little forest killers includes only saw timber killed in epidemic areas. It does not include the small trees of future forests that are killed, or the crippling and sickening of other trees, or the lost wildlife habitat or the damage to watersheds and to scenic qualities. In fact, the American Forestry Assn. declares that the total is three times the loss by forest fires!

Because of the spruce bark beetle, forests in some of the best big-game country in Colorado are dead. In this one epidemic, four billion board feet of timber were destroyed. That's enough to build 400,000 five-room houses. When processed, that volume of timber would have a market value of $200 million.

That's what happened in Colorado. Maybe it's far from where you live. Perhaps you don't fish and hunt there, so why should you get excited? Because right now there isn't a forest area in North America that's safe from insects and disease. They are enemies of every outdoorsman in the nation. They're a potential threat to game and fish resources and to essential natural wildlife environment, right in your hunting and fishing territory.

Here, according to an article in Sports Afield magazine by Arthur Carhart, are some clues on how much damage the tree killers have caused:

From 1910 to 1920 the spruce budworm destroyed timber in New England, Canada and Minnesota that would have supplied enough pulp wood to keep U. S. newspapers in newsprint for 25 years. The oak wilt is loose right now in the forests of the Midwest and Atlantic Coast states. The pine bark beetle tore through forests of California, killing all trees on the Laguna Recreational Area; it blasted the Black Hills forests a few years ago. The gypsy moth, in 1952 alone, defoliated trees on 1 1/2 million acres of hardwood forests in New England. The chestnut blight has practically wiped out that tree species. The white pine blister rust has spread across the continent. A fungus is attacking pine seedlings in southern forests.

What should you do about it? You might try to discuss your state and Federal senators and representatives that they're falling short in their part of the battle against the bugs. Not only must there be money to deal with the killers after they reach the epidemic stage, but money must also be allotted for research so we will know when and where and how to attack and suppress insect and disease invasions at the earliest possible moment.

How far will two dollars go?

By Long Distance, they'll go anywhere in the United States! Because after 6 p.m. or on Sundays you can call station-to-station anywhere in the country for two dollars or less. (This minimum charge doesn't include federal tax.) We've found many folks think Long Distance costs much more than it really does. How about you?

Couldn't run it alone, could you?

You wouldn't want to try. Who knows better than you how much co-operation it takes to keep a farm running smoothly? All hands working together—that's what makes profitable farming possible. And co-operation works wonders other places, too. On your party-line telephone, for instance. Everybody working together, thinking of the other fellow's needs, being thoughtful and courteous—that's what makes service better and faster for everyone.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Feb. 10—Four hundred years ago, my ancestor, the Rev. John Rogers, was burned at the stake in London, England, on Feb. 4, 1556. To commemorate him and to add some current comments is my desire today.

Bibles Were Smuggled Into England
The Rev. John Rogers was martyred for his work of translating the Bible into the English language and circulating this complete Bible in England. Tyndale, with the help of Coverdale, translated the New Testament and a portion of the Old Testament, as far as II Chronicles, when he was martyred therefor. Then John Rogers—under the assumed name of "Matthews"—completed the Bible in its entirety for readers in England. This was in 1537; and he did most of the work in Holland.

From Holland, the English imported flour, cheeses, and other foods. My ancestor arranged with the packers of the barrels and crates containing these food products to hide a Bible among the contents and thereby smuggled these Bibles into England. When he returned to England, about 10 years later, he was arrested and imprisoned in the Tower of London. Finally, he was martyred at "Smithfield," where I have seen a bronze marker telling this story of his martyrdom.

Importance of Sacrifice
There are many lessons for us from the above experience. First, is the consecration of the priests and preachers of that day and their willingness to make any sacrifice, including their lives. Our unwillingness to sacrifice for our Church and Faith is a basic difficulty of the U. S. today. It is good to see church membership and attendance increase; but these figures mean little unless accompanied by a willingness to sacrifice.

Jesus never quoted statistics—He demanded that His followers be judged by their works of righteousness. I would go even further and say that the greatness of every powerful nation has been made possible by the people's sacrifice. When the willingness to sacrifice declined, the nation's economic strength declined along with its spiritual strength. In fact, the best U. S. barometer of our spiritual strength is the value of our dollar. It increases or decreases according to our willingness to sacrifice for what is right.

We Must Again Teach Bible To Our Children

The Second lesson applies to the great need of more Bible reading today. When I was a boy, most New England families were Bible-reading families with daily family prayers. We were all taught to obey Bible Teachings and to memorize them. I believe that we must again install the Bible as a family guide and as our national guide.

Atomic bombs will not save us, any more than the Chinese Wall saved China, or the Maginot Line saved France. This nation is depending too much on material defense. The more wealth we have, the better target we are and, through jealousy, the more enemies we will have. Only as we practice the Bible's Golden Rule, both in national and international affairs, can we hope to survive. The Bible is the only "Bomb" which can save America. Read Isaiah, Chapter 31.

What About China and Formosa?
The Chinese leaders of today were largely educated in colleges founded by missionaries sent to China by the Christian churches of the U. S., England, and our other Western Allies. I have visited some of these Chinese colleges and have seen the Bible being taught there to the brightest young men of China. These students were greatly impressed by Jesus' teachings, especially by the Sermon on the Mount.

As these students matured and became acquainted with the way our businessmen and politicians acted, they truly wondered if we are a Christian nation. Students who came to New York, Chicago, and other large American cities for post-graduate work concluded that we are hypocrites. They returned to China saying that the Bible is a forgotten book with us. The Russian Communists told them that our missionaries used our Bible only to "put the Chinese to sleep" while we robbed China. President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles—both Bible-reading men—are handicapped by this unfortunate situation. Fighting alone will not save Formosa. Formosa and the entire East can be saved only if we stop worshipping material success and atomic power and return to the Teachings of the Bible.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Cong. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—Although the international situation has kept our economic progress out of the headlines lately, there is solid evidence that our general prosperity is increasing.

Unemployment, though it is a crucial problem for the individuals who want work and can't get it, has dropped a great deal. Last March it hit a peak of 3.7 million but by December it declined to 2.8 million. Of these, 700,000 were people who had been out of work 15 weeks or more.

Not all of the blame for high unemployment could be placed on the government, and all of the credit for improved conditions should not go to the government. But increased attention to public works, such as the President's proposals of funds for the C&O Canal parkway and flood control at Cumberland, has made a difference. Also, in our own district the Administration's tax policies and program to aid distressed areas made possible the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.'s new plant in Cumberland which will employ many people in construction and about 1000 people permanently.

A study by the President's top economic advisers shows that 10 big public works projects and programs of the Federal government will create more than the equivalent of nine million new, year-long jobs.

While space is lacking here for me to list the new jobs in each case, I have the list before me which shows the tremendous boost in employment which will be provided. Included are the construction of the new Air Force Academy in Colorado; the lease-purchase program for government buildings; the St. Lawrence Seaway and power projects; new airports; shipbuilding; school construction; new medical facilities; a new Senate Office building and social security headquarters in Washington; regular Federal public works, and a 10-year highway program.

All of these have been proposed or authorized in the past two years. Work on some of them has begun. Jobs to be created include those in the industries which supply tools and materials for these projects. But the survey does not include possible new jobs in the retail and service establishments which may expand because of these new activities in many localities.

Business activity is on the upgrade today. Production is rising. Industrial wages are the highest ever. So is our personal income after taxes. Construction is at a record level. Credit is easy to get. Savings are high. Over most of the country, in the words of President Eisenhower, "The economic outlook is good."

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

The 14 Maryland counties which have been designated as part of the Nation's commercial corn-producing area will have an allotment of 333,647 acres for the 1955 crop.

George B. Reeves, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, says the Maryland allotment was announced recently by the Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson along with allotments for 20 other states.

The Maryland allotment under the 1955 program compares with 309,670 acres in 1954. The number of Maryland counties included in the commercial corn-producing area has not changed from last year.

Farmers in the commercial counties will receive notice of individual allotments between Feb. 15 and Mar. 1, according to Chairman Reeves. He reminds farmers that when corn acreage allotments are in effect, compliance with farm allotments is a condition of eligibility in the commercial corn-producing area for price supports. The law exempts the non-com-

TIRED TEENS

Does your teen-ager sleep till noon on Saturday to the tune of the vacuum cleaner and other assorted bedlam? Does he (including she, of course) do his geometry stretched out on his bed? Does he carry on his telephoning sprawled on the floor? Is he always too tired to help with the dishes?

He may be ill, but he's more likely to be normal. And he isn't faking either. Teen-agers tire easily for one or more of a dozen reasons, doctors tell us. It's just natural for them to need extra sleep and rest. Fortunately, it's one more of those periods of life about which parents can say hopefully, "They'll grow out of it." Wise parents can help them get through this period with the least fatigue.

First, of course, it is important to be sure that there is no illness causing your teen-ager's tiredness. He should have a thorough physical examination and chest X-ray as often as the doctor advises. Unhappiness and worry also can cause fatigue. It isn't always easy for parents to commercial corn area from allotments but provides that when corn acreage allotments are in effect, county loan and purchase agreement rates in the non-commercial area to be three-fourths of the rates in the commercial area.

Price support rates for the 1955 crop of corn will be announced before planting time, Mr. Reeves says. He also points out that compliance with corn acreage allotments is a condition of eligibility of Agricultural Conservation Program payments in the commercial corn area.

On the National level, the allotment on the 1955 crop is 49.8 million acres in 805 counties. This compares with an allotment of 4,995,504 acres in the 22-state and 834-county commercial area last year.

get to the bottom of the anxieties from which adolescents sometimes suffer seriously. The family doctor can often be of great assistance.

The major reasons for normal fatigue are rapid growth, too little sunshine and outdoor exercise, an overloaded schedule of social and school activities, poor diet, and overweight. You can't slow up your teen-ager's growth, but you can make sure that he gets plenty of outdoor exercise and a proper diet with the extra protein he needs. You can help him budget his time so that he can get his work done, have fun, and still get to bed at a reasonable hour. And let him sleep late on Saturday morning.

Rev. Philip Bower To Attend Pastors' Conference

Rev. Philip Bower, pastor of Elias Ev. Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, will attend the pastors' pre-Lenten Retreat of the Maryland Lutheran Synod at the Frederick Ev. Lutheran Church, Tuesday. The synodical committee in charge of the retreat is Pastor Bower, Rev. Charles Corbett, Thurmont, and Rev. Donald Warrenfeltz of Uniontown, Md. The retreat will open at 10:30 a. m., and Holy Communion will be celebrated with the Rev. Chas. F. Trunk, Frederick, and Rev. Frank Fife, president of the Synod serving as liturgists and Rev. Walter Freed, Washington, giving the sermon. During the afternoon Dr. Abel Ross Wentz of Gettysburg and Dr. Boyd Hamm, pastor of St. John's, of Hagerstown, will address the retreat. Lunch will be served to the attending pastors by the women of the Frederick Lutheran congregation.

Colored Photos of Historical Hager House Available Free

The Hager House, built by Jonathan Hager, founder of Hagerstown, was recently photographed by A. Aubrey Bodine, one of the country's foremost photographers. Mr. Bodine, photographic director of the Baltimore Sunday Sun Magazine, is noted for his unusual camera technique, and this old abode, just outside the City Park, made a most picturesque subject for his lens. It is one of a series of pictures he had made for the Baltimore Life Insurance Co., which is saluting Hagerstown in its national advertising campaign this month. The original Hager House was first inhabited by the builder and his wife, Elizabeth. In 1762, Hager laid out the settlement of "Elizabeth-Town," adjacent to his home, and in but a few years, it became the thriving community of Hagerstown. The old house is now being restored. For his outstanding work in bringing a new concept of artistic expression to newspaper photography, Mr. Bodine has been awarded Fellowships in both the Photographic Society of America and the National Press Photographers Assn. The first photographer to achieve both honors, his work has been widely exhibited. Mr. Bodine gained nation-wide recognition when his photo-history of this state was published under the title, "My Maryland." It is now in its third edition. Mr. Bodine has recently published a new book, entitled "Chesapeake Bay and Tidewater," which has also attained the "best-seller" lists. The Baltimore Life Insurance Co. office in Hagerstown is offering a sepia gravure print of this photograph free of charge during the month of February. The print, size 10 1/2 x 13 1/2, is designed for framing. Reprints may be obtained free of charge in Frederick at the Baltimore Life Office, 1 W. Church St.

By WALTER CHAMBLIN, Jr.

WASHINGTON — A message flashed through the air recently which in 50 years may be as famous as Samuel Morse's renowned "What hath God wrought?"

It came from the atomic submarine, Nautilus, and tersely said "under way on nuclear power." Morse's message, you will recall, was tapped out on a clumsy instrument in what was then the old Senate Chamber of the Congress. There have been vast changes since then in methods of transmission. There have been equally vast changes in the thinking that prevailed in the days of Morse and the thinking that prevails in the era of the Nautilus.

Congress had appropriated $30,000 to enable the practically poverty-stricken Morse to build a telegraph line from Washington to Baltimore. Morse wanted the government to buy the patents on his instrument and develop telegraphy. But the Congress of that day would have no part of it and left the development to Morse and private enterprise.

Now 101 years later, with the advent of atomic power, there is a major sentiment in the Congress favoring government development, rather than private development, in the atomic field. Consequently, one of the big controversies to come at this session will be the fight over public-vs.-private development not only of atomic energy but also of electrical power.

The new Congress hardly had assembled on Capitol Hill before the public power group stepped boldly into the picture to strengthen its position for the coming fray. Without the consultation of any of its members, the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Mr. Cannon of Missouri, reshuffled the subcommittee of this important committee.

He created a new Public Works Subcommittee and designated himself as its Chairman. This new subcommittee will handle appropriations for the Atomic Energy Commission, the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Army civilian functions (which includes the building of dams), the Bonneville Power Administration, the Southeastern Power Administration, and the Southwestern Power Administration.

The make-up of the Democratic membership of this new subcommittee was weighted heavily with friends of public power. Mr. Cannon is quoted as saying that the purpose of this change was to distribute the work of the committee more evenly, adding:

"There was no motive except to regroup and readjust the subcommittees. We've been going along since 1921 without substantial change. There has not been a complete revision and scientific realignment of committees since then."

Friends of private power development nevertheless observed that it was odd how so many public power advocates just happened to get on the subcommittee.

The core of the public-private power fight will center around the Dixon - Yates contract and atomic power development.

In fact, Washington has become so atomic-minded that a middle-aged woman, applying for a job with the government recently, filled out her application blank and opposite the word "age" she wrote in "Atomic."

MANIAC SHOTS FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT

Earl F. Green, 58, Tucson, Ariz., who formerly lived along the Emmitsburg Rd., near Greenmount, Pa., is reported in a satisfactory condition in the Tucson County Hospital with three bullet wounds in the head after being hit by a fusillade fired into his car by a "maniac" near Tucson last Saturday morning.

His wife, struck by one shot at the same time, was described as suffering from a minor head wound and shock. She also is in the hospital.

Green, who had been in Tucson for the last three years doing secret work for the government, is a mechanical engineer who worked in York during World War II as a firearms designer. The Greens left this area seven years ago and went to Florida. They moved from there to Tucson.

Fred Green, Greenmount, a brother of Earl, learned of the shooting in a telephone conversation last Saturday night with Mrs. Miriam Thomas, a sister of Mrs. Earl Green. Mrs. Thomas was in the rear seat of the Green car when the shots were fired and was unhurt by the slugs which ripped through the right front window of the car.

She said the assailant parked his pickup truck across the highway near Tucson and walked toward the right side of the Green car when Mr. Green was forced to stop. The man whipped out a .32 caliber pistol and fired five shots into the Green car. Green and Mrs. Thomas leaped out of the car, grabbed their assailant and when he was pinned to the ground, Mrs. Thomas wrenched the gun from his hand with one unfired cartridge remaining in it.

The sheriff of Pima County, Ariz., described the man as a "maniac" who had been a problem to authorities. He was described as owning a "filthy, junk-littered" property in a new housing development where Green lives. He had been in difficulties with the health officer, also named Green, in that connection.

The sheriff said the shooting of Green may have been a case of mistaken identity and the bullets may have been intended for the health officer.

The gunman, described as a Polish immigrant, was taken into custody at the scene of the shooting by the Pima County authorities. He is being held in jail pending outcome of the shooting.

One bullet entered the top of Green's skull, another lodged beneath his right eye, and a third slug inflicted a wound in one of his arms.

Mrs. Green was hit in the temple by one of the bullets but it was only a glancing wound and was not regarded as serious.

The Greens have two sons, Maurice, who lives in Columbia, S. C., and William, Fayetteville, N. C. Fred Green, Greenmount, is a brother of Mr. Green.

Power Utility Home Service Dept. Changes Effectuated

Miss Margaret L. Ewald, home service director of the Potomac Edison System since 1936, has retired from active service with the local utility company, effective February 1.

MARGARET L. EWALD

The announcement of her retirement was made by the power company's promotional manager, C. D. Lyon, who also announced the appointment of Mrs. Catharine T. Mutchner to the post formerly held by Miss Ewald.

A native of Mt. Savage, Md., Miss Ewald received her education at the University of West Virginia, the University of Maryland and at Western Reserve U., in Cleveland. Prior to her association with Potomac Edison she taught home ec at Beall High School in Frostburg from 1914 to 1926.

She joined the local utility company in 1929 as home service representative in Keyser, W. Va. She subsequently worked in this capacity in Winchester, Cumberland, Martinsburg and Waynesboro and in 1935 she was transferred to Hagerstown as director of the home lighting department and the home service department. In 1936 when these two departments were merged, Miss Ewald assumed the duties of home service director.

CATHARINE MUTCHNER

Miss Ewald's successor, Mrs. Catharine T. Mutchner, has been associated with Potomac Edison since 1953 and served as home service advisor for the Taneytown and Mt. Airy Sections of the Frederick District. She is a native of Frederick County and a graduate of the University of Maryland. Prior to her association with Potomac Edison, she held the post of home economist for nine years with the Gas and Electric Co., in Baltimore.

Mrs. Mutchner took over the duties of home service director on February 1 and is planning to take up residence in Hagerstown.

Miss Ewald will continue to reside at 1010 Oak Hill Ave., in Hagerstown.

Church Inaugurates "Hymn Month"

Elias Ev. Lutheran Church has inaugurated a hymn-a-month plan. A hymn is being selected for each month of the year and the congregation is asked to memorize this hymn during the month. The first line of the February hymn is: "My dear Redeemer and my Lord, I read my duty in Thy Word." The tune is Federal Street by H. K. Oliver and the author, Isaac Watts, 1709. The hymn for March will be: "When I survey the Wondrous Cross." These memory hymns will follow the church year and will include the really great hymns of the church. The hymn will be used at every service of the church during the month and the hymn tune will be used by the organist at the prelude, offertory or meditation during the Service. A check will be made each Sunday on the members of the congregation that have memorized the hymn. This plan, in the interest of more and better congregational hymn singing, is being promoted in many churches all over the nation. The words of the hymn and its brief history will be published in one issue of the Sunday bulletin each month.

FIRE DESTROYS 12-ROOM HOUSE ON TRACT ROAD

An untenanted 12-room frame and log farm house, about 5 1/2 miles from Emmitsburg on the Upper Tract Rd., was completely destroyed by fire early last Friday morning. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Emmitsburg firemen were called when the blaze was seen from the Tract Inn, near Emmitsburg, at about 1:30 o'clock in the morning. The owner of the property, Alton W. Snyder, Gettysburg Rt. 2, who had been remodeling the building, did not know of its destruction until he arrived later that morning to feed the cattle in the barn about 100 yards from the destroyed home.

Firemen notified the prior owner of the farm, Lillian Pryor, Waynesboro, but she had sold the property recently through Luther Martin, a real estate agent at Blue Ridge Summit, and did not know the name of the new owner, firemen said.

Mr. Snyder told Chief John J. Hollinger of the Emmitsburg Fire Co. that he had been in the house until 6 o'clock last Thursday evening engaged in making renovations prior to moving there. He said that he had had a small fire in a fire place and in the oil heater throughout the day. Hollinger said Snyder estimated his loss at $20,000.

When the fire was first seen from the Tract Inn it was believed to be only about a mile away. Firemen drove toward the billowing flames in the sky until they came upon the scene. Twenty-four firemen in two fire trucks made up the contingent. They found upon their arrival that the roof had collapsed as had two of the four walls of the large building. Shortly after firemen arrived, the remaining walls collapsed and all that remained was a chimney and the blazing heap of timbers and logs.

A frame garage stood less than 25 feet from the house, about 100 feet from the house was a small barn and beyond that the large barn in which a number of cattle were quartered.

Only the fact that "what breeze was there, was blowing the fire directly away from it saved the garage and possibly other structures, the firemen said.

Persons residing in the vicinity of the structure apparently were not awakened until the firemen arrived. Firemen said that when they passed the former Liberty School House, now converted to a dwelling, "it was dark but later lights came on." The former school house was described as among the homes nearest the untenanted house.

Two Emmitsburg firemen, Charles Hartdagen and Brooke Dammuth, both of whom were discharged from the Army, within the last six weeks, volunteered to remain on duty when the re-
