As was promised here in this column several weeks ago, I am happy to be able to report that investigation and research reveals just how adult education classes were organized in a neighboring community.

Having received several requests to determine if something of a similar nature could be arranged here in Emmitsburg, I decided to accept the detail and have come up with the answer as to how our neighbors got the project, even though it appears highly improbable that we would be fortunate enough to get classes organized here.

Adult educational classes were held in the Fairfield Joint High School system last year. The program was instituted by the teachers of that school and backed up financially by the extension service of the Pennsylvania State Board of Education. The classes consisted of typing, home economics and automobile driving. I am told the venture was highly popular in that little town, so much so that 60 adults signed up and stuck it out for 18 weeks. The school was open to the public and a $3 registration fee was charged. This fee was returned at the end of the classes to all those who completed the semester. In other words, it did not cost the students a dime, except possibly for materials in the home ec classes. The teachers were compensated for their services by the Board of Education.

So popular was this type of education to the older folks that it is planned to have other classes this year. Some new courses will be incorporated into the curriculum and once more the school will be of 18 weeks' duration. The public is urged to take advantage of the schooling. I understand that one of the new courses to be instituted is dancing. Other classes will be held in home ec, car driving, typing and industrial art.

Now then just how we could put such a program under way locally is not for me to say. I have no knowledge whether the State or County Boards of Education offer such classes to the public. Whether or not funds are available from the Federal Government, I don't know. If there are no funds accessible, I'm certain that something could be worked out on a local level by perhaps charging a nominal tuition fee, which would go toward paying the salaries of the teachers. Or perhaps the extension service of the University of Maryland offers such public educational facilities? I do know that they sent instructors in fire-fighting here to teach several classes of our local firemen.

Now then, you who are interested, can you take it from here? Thanks a lot for the kind remarks in your letters to me. I really do appreciate them.

Baseball dead in Emmitsburg? Well if it is soon will be given a life-giving injection simply by organizing Little League baseball here. All-out cooperation of the parents and the general public is needed though, to insure any measure of success for the project. If successful the "big team" should be getting new blood in it within the next four or five years. Four teams will occupy the time of at least 60 local boys and they will be taught the rudiments and fundamentals of good sportsmanship and good baseball playing which should work wonders with our Pen-Mar team in the next few years. Now then, Dad, or Mother, as the case may be, won't you kindly bring your child, should he be eligible, to the Emmitsburg Public School Sunday afternoon and sign him up? The committee wants your permission and cooperation. It won't cost you any money, your support is all that is needed. There's nothing to be afraid of. The kiddies will be insured against any injury by a group insurance policy and the likelihood that a boy could be seriously injured playing the great national pastime, is practically nil. Already $150 worth of equipment has been purchased and much more has been placed on order. It is hoped to obtain the funds from the public by the sale of booster tickets and donations, so don't worry about the money. All the committee wants is your boy. Could be that some big-leaguers might be developed

Coach Phelan May Leave Mt. St. Mary's

Jim Phelan, Mt. St. Mary's College successful young mentor, is Ken Loeffler's No. 1 choice as his successor to tutor next winter's LaSalle basketballers. Loeffler, who long has boomed Phelan's coaching attributes, quit last week to take over at Texas A. and M. Loeffler many times has expressed the hope his former pupil would replace him whenever he left LaSalle. Phelan sparked as Loeffler's key playmaker four years ago and last winter served as assistant pilot after leaving the service. It is not known, however, if Loeffler's advice will be sought.

Jim Henry, LaSalle's athletic director, declared he did not intend to think about a new coach until late next week. Br. Eminus Stanislaus, LaSalle's president, is in Miami, Fla., and no action is likely to be taken until he returns the first week in April. Other applicants are Charles O'Brien, who guided LaSalle from 1940-42 before stepping down at his own request to tutor LaSalle High where he taught Tom Gola; and two more former LaSalle stars — Bob Walters, freshman coach two seasons ago, and Buddy Donnelly, who made his debut at Father Judge High in Philadelphia this campaign.

Phelan's 1954-55 Mount St. Mary's crew was the winningest one in the school's history. It swept both the Mason-Dixon Conference title and the prized post-season playoffs.

Throw-away Beer Bottles To Be Banned In County

The sale or distribution of beer in throw-away bottles in Frederick County only was prohibited by a vote of the Maryland Senate Monday night.

The bill is now before the House.

Senator Jacob R. Ramsburg, author of the measure, told the Senate that throw-away bottles are a "nuisance" in his agricultural county.

They are thrown out along pastures. They get broken and mixed up in machinery. They get into the hay and the cows hurt themselves while eating. The farmers just don't want them around.

Most of the mild debate was on whether the bill against throw-aways should be a statewide measure instead of for Frederick County. Only one voted against it in the end, however.

Senator Della (D-Baltimore 6), although voting for the bill, asked:

"Why is this just against throw-away bottles? Why not milk or whisky bottles? They get broken, too."

Majority Leader Turnbull (D-Baltimore County), wound it up:

"It just may be that Frederick cows don't like whisky or milk."

April Fool Dance

Another of those delightful Friday night dances, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held tonight. Post Adjutant Lumen F. Norris has announced that tonight the Post will feature the music of the Les Mischener Trio, which has appeared here before and was very favorably received. Dancing will begin at 8:30, and the general public is cordially invited. No admission is charged to these affairs.

The Post also announced that another of those popular shrimp feeds will be held on Apr. 15, and the public also is invited to this affair. A fee of $1 will be charged to the shrimp feed. Tickets are on sale at the Post Home.

SPORTSMEN TO BUILD MORE DAMS SUNDAY

Members of the Indian Look-out Conservation Club will once more assemble Sunday, Apr. 3, at 1 p. m. at Big Hunting Creek, near Thurmont. The purpose of the meeting will be to erect more small dams in this well-known trout stream.

A similar project two weeks ago has paid off handsomely, members report after visits to the stream. At that time a series of 20 dams was constructed and has done much to contain the "running off" of water of Big Hunting Creek, thereby affording even better conditions for trout fishing which opens on April 15.

The project received much favorable publicity by Tom McNally, sports writer for the Baltimore Sun, and also was highly praised by county game wardens.

Homemakers Name Delegates To County Council

Emmitsburg Homemakers have appointed Mrs. Estelle Watkins and Mrs. Charles B. Curtin official delegates to the annual County Council at Hood College. Many other club members also plan to attend the April 1 meeting. All will wear Emmitsburg identification boutonnieres designed by Mrs. Kenneth Wagaman.

The Homemakers met for their regular monthly meeting on the 24th of March at the home of Mrs. Charles Harner. Mrs. Harner reported on furniture selection, stressing the importance of comfort, of considering the needs of the entire family, of reflecting personal tastes and habits. Her discussion was amply illustrated by mounted pictures.

Mrs. Robert G. Fite, president, recapped her recent trip to Victor Cullen Sanatorium, Sabillasville, where she, Mrs. John M. Roddy, Sr., Mrs. Charles Fuss and Mrs. B. P. Ogle are preparing to serve as library-helpers. The reports of secretary, Mrs. George Eyster, and treasurer, Mrs. Lewis Higbee, were read and approved. Miss Louise Sebold, director, brought club members news of the executive board meeting in Frederick. With the help of those present, Mrs. Paul Beale, completed a questionnaire on home clothing construction.

Co-hostesses, Mrs. Carrie Hartzel and Mrs. Charles Fuss, served delicious refreshments. For the first time the club enjoyed the use of colorful plastic dishes contributed by Mr. and Mrs. John D. White.

The next afternoon of games will be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Stinson on Thursday, April 14.

Special Meeting Of Vigilant Hose Co. This Sunday

A special meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. has been called by the president, Herbert W. Roger, for Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Fire Hall.

It is hoped to be able to appoint a canvassing squad at the meeting to gather in donations by door-to-door solicitation, and also to appoint crews to canvass the rural routes.

It is the hope of the committee to raise at least $3000, which is the annual goal of the drive.

Mount Glee Club To Chant Sacred Tenebrae

The Schola Cantorum of Mount St. Mary's Seminary, the Rev. David W. Schaum, director, will chant Tenebrae on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of Holy Week at 8 p. m., in Saint John's Catholic Church, Westminster. The Rev. John J. Murphy, pastor, will preside and chant the Miserere.

Tenebrae signifies the darkness that covered the earth upon the death of Jesus Christ on the first Good Friday. It is but a part of the Divine Office chanted or recited daily in monasteries and religious houses throughout the world.

Lamentations on Wednesday will be sung by Robert Gardalza, Joseph Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Young, Westminster, and Anthony Dranginis, Messrs. Rosser Muir, John Butler and Jerome Leary will chant the lamentations on Thursday night. Thomas Caroluzza, J. Donald Keating and Joseph Devlin will be the chanters at the concluding service on Good Friday evening.

Each evening after the Tenebrae a sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Charles Schreuer, C.S.S.R., of St. Michael's Church, Baltimore. The choir will conclude each evening's devotions with "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy," arranged by Selner; and Vittoria's, O Vos Omnes. The public is cordially invited to attend all of these services.

Baltimore City To Get Meters

Mayor D'Alesandro has signed the parking-meter bill, which authorizes the installation of approximately 3000 meters on 40 streets in business areas around Baltimore City. Henry A. Barne traffic director, expects that the first meters may be ready for use by May 1. Most areas will have a two-hour limit, with the charge set at one cent for 12 minutes.

Those united in marriage were Miss Anna Mae Myers, of York, granddaughter of Jonas Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell, Emmitsburg. The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Casey.

The bride was attired in a blue knitted dress with white hat and a white orchid corsage. The maid of honor was Miss Helen Wivell, sister of the bridegroom and was attired in a light blue suit with a corsage of red roses.

During the business session, with Mrs. Charles R. Fuss, president, in charge, reports of committees were received with approval and a motion was subsequently adopted donating $10 to the Vigilant Hose Co. now engaged in its annual solicitation of funds.

During the program of entertainment, presented by the hostesses, prizes were awarded to Mrs. Estelle Watkins and Eugene Hardman as winners in the games and contests. Delicious refreshments were served. The next meeting of the group will be held at the church parsonage in Thurmont on April 29 when the members will be guests of the pastor and Mrs. McCauley.

All of the rooms on the first floor north wing have been wired for TV and sets are available to patients in these rooms at a nominal fee per day or week.

Lions Club Host At Zone Meeting

President J. Ralph McDonnell presided at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday evening in the Lutheran Parish Hall.

The progress of the plans for organizing Little League baseball here was reported on by Paul Claypool, general chairman of a committee in charge. Lion Claypool had as his guest James McKeon, soccer coach of Mt. St. Mary's College, who is going to coach one of the teams when organized. Mr. McKeon made brief remarks about the project and cited its value to the community as a moral builder for our youth.

Lion guests were present from Walkersville, Woodsboro, Thurmont, Taneytown, and Union Bridge. Following the regular meeting a zone meeting took place with the out-of-town guests representing their districts.

CARD PARTY PLANS PROGRESS

Plans for the annual card party, sponsored by St. Joseph's High School P-TA to be held Tuesday, Apr. 12, are shaping up nicely, it was reported by the general chairman, Earle R. Gelwicks, this week.

The chairman said that an excellent selection of prizes will be gathered up for the affair, and that well over 100 will be awarded the lucky winners.

The affair will be held at St. Joseph's High School auditorium and tables will be available for bridge, "500," and pinocle players. Play will begin at 8 o'clock sharp, and delicious refreshments will be available.

Baseball Practice Sunday Afternoon

Weather permitting, the initial baseball practice of the Emmitsburg Pen-Mar baseball team will be held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock on the Community Field. Manager Norman Flax requests that all those interested in playing for Emmitsburg this year be present at Sunday's workout.

Clarke Acquitted Of False Swearing To Affidavit

A charge of swearing to a false affidavit against Charles H. Clarke Jr., Thurmont, ended when State's Attorney Samuel W. Barrick confessed a plea of not guilty in Circuit Court last Friday. Testimony in the case had been taken the previous day.

The agreed set of facts indicated that when Clarke presented a form to a notary public to secure a driver's license for his daughter, who was 15 at the time, he did not take the prescribed oath and the notary didn't administer it.

Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer conferred in Rockville with other members of the Sixth Judicial Circuit on the matter, and it was agreed that a man could not be found guilty of something that he did not do and in this case, Clarke didn't take the oath.

The judge said the notary in question is not the only one who has not been administering the proper oath to required affidavits. He said he believed there are many cases of this kind and he cautioned notaries to be more careful in administering the oath to be taken. Some seem to think that the seal, stamped on a document, is sufficient, but the person desiring the paper should signify that it is his act by taking the oath.

Choir To Present Popular Cantata

The senior choir of Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, will present the well-known cantata, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace" by J. H. Maunders on the evening of Palm Sunday, Apr. 3, at 7:30 o'clock. The soloists will include Jane Gilda, Phyllis Smith and Henry Reindollar. Other choir members singing the cantata will be: sopranos, Pearl Bollinger, Naomi Dodder, Mary Ellen Feesser, Eleanor Kiser, Waneta Reese, Ethel Wilhide, Maxine Bowers, Shirley Koons, Melba Fair, and Charlotte Bollinger; tenors, Herbert Bowers, Loy Hess, Wallace Reindollar, George Naylor, and Elbert Crum; basses, James Fair, Elwood Harner, Wilbert Hess, Daniel Nail, and John Skiles.

The choir director is Estella Yingling, and organist, Hazel Hess. The public is cordially invited.

Fund To Cheer Local Shut-Ins

Eleven members of the board of directors of the Community Fund of Emmitsburg met in regular session Monday night in the VFW Bldg., Mrs. O. H. Stinson president, presiding. No new cases came before the board and routine business was transacted.

As is the usual custom, the Fund will distribute baskets of flowers and fruit to local shut-ins. Miss Rhoda Gillean heads the committee for this project. Secretary Charlotte Sanders read the minutes of the previous meeting, and Mrs. Leonard Sanders gave the regular monthly financial report, as treasurer.

St. Anthony's PTA Holds Successful Food-Rummage Sale

Over-the-top went the rummage-bake sale sponsored last Saturday by the Parent-Teachers Assn. of St. Anthony's School.

The fund-raising event was projected in order to purchase educational film strips for school use. Under the able chairmanship of Mrs. William Sanders, St. Anthony's, and Mrs. Virginia Trout, Thurmont, the sale substantially exceeded its monetary goal. Hard-working committee members included Mrs. John Boley, Mrs. Raymond Etheridge, Mrs. Allen Knott, Mrs. Harvey Michaels, Mrs. John Orndorff and Mrs. Albert Wivell.

Sister Agnes, principal of St. Anthony's, expressed herself as "vastly pleased" and commended especially "the interest and co-operation which the parents of both Emmitsburg and Thurmont show in regard to the work of the school."

The PTA, organized during the current school year, voted at its March meeting to award a number of prizes to outstanding eighth grade students. The group also will sponsor Communion Breakfasts at St. Anthony's and Thurmont, for members of the First Communion Class. The breakfasts will be held in the respective rectories and are in the charge of Mrs. Albert Wivell, for Emmitsburg, and Mrs. George Campbell for Thurmont.

At present Mrs. Robert Marshall and Mrs. Raymond Felix, president, and vice-president, in consultation with Sister Agnes, are drawing up a constitution for the PTA. It will be presented for correction and approval at the May meeting.

Little League Meeting Set For Sunday

A major step in organizing Little League baseball in Emmitsburg will be taken Sunday afternoon when the committees in charge of the project will assemble in Emmitsburg High School with the parents and friends of the future players.

Paul Claypool, general chairman of the movement to organize the teams, has extended an invitation to the parents and to the general public to attend this meeting, as many problems remain to be solved.

Parents who have boys between the ages of 8 and 13 are urged to be present to grant permission for the boys to join the teams. The meeting is scheduled for 2 p. m., and all those boys interested in playing are asked to attend.

Under the present plan it is hoped to organize at least four teams. The committee reports that it has the names of about 175 boys from St. Anthony's School, Emmitsburg Public School and St. Euphemia's, who are eligible for competition. This number will be reduced to about 60 after trial workouts and will remain at about that figure during the season. At the present time it is planned to hold practice sessions on St. Joseph's High School athletic grounds until their regular season, when it is hoped a diamond can be constructed on the Civic Grounds, east of town.

The project is being sponsored by the Emmitsburg Lions Club, Grange, American Legion, and the VFW, and the following have volunteered to act as coaches of the teams: "Tip" Harbaugh, Jack Rosensteel, Paul Claypool, James McKeon, Chick Topper, and Carlos Englar.

The committee met Tuesday evening, and it was disclosed that equipment ordered recently at a cost of $150 had arrived. Cannisters have been placed in most business houses and booster tickets are now on sale by members of the four sponsoring organizations. It is the hope of the committee to raise at least $1000 to pay for complete equipping of teams and other maintenance costs which will occur throughout the season.

SAFETY IN YOUR HOME

Make this a cardinal, inflexible rule for safety in the home: Drugs and medicines of all kinds are to be kept well out of reach of young children.

Many serious accidents, some of them resulting fatally, occur every year because someone in the family thoughtlessly and carelessly leave pills, tablets, capsules or other forms of medication on tables, chairs or other places accessible to eager, venturesome little hands. From now on, let's all be more mindful of our duty to the young children in our homes!

Educational Good News

Back in the 1930's when our nation was wallowing in one of the several depressions that have occurred in our upward march to constantly better living conditions, some important people among the educational forces felt that the American private enterprise system had proved to be a failure and should be changed. They joined with other forces—some sincere people and some scheming Communist conspirators—to reorient education in the United States, to prepare a coming generation for some form of collectivism.

Their efforts showed up in many textbooks, in classrooms, lectures, and in a mushrooming propaganda program, beamed to adults, which pointed up and over-emphasized the defects in our system of capitalism and claimed great advantages for various forms of collectivism. Communist Russia had just been recognized with approval by President Roosevelt, and in the cultural and literary groups in the East, where the concentration of Communist agents was heaviest, the collectivism envisioned by Karl Marx and championed by the Russian Reds attracted many influential intellectuals.

Frowned on Patriotism

At the end of World War II, the conspirators who were by then manipulating propaganda in every field of American life needed to break down the American citizens' love of country and their will to safe-guard its system, and thus prepare the way for a take-over by the Communists. "Patriotism" became a word used only by "reactionaries." Loyalty to the "world" under "world government" became an aspiration toward which many school children were directed. "World citizenship" was a slogan on many campuses.

It has taken a number of years for the insidious aims of the conspirators behind this collectivist, world-government scheme to be recognized by important people in education. Some were duped by the conspirators. In fact, in some cases loyal Americans were so confused they lent their talents to formulating educational materials and techniques subordinating patriotism, subordinating the value of our national sovereignty, subordinating even the religious aspects of character building, and plugging for socialistic enterprises and an international government superseding our own.

A Tide Turning?

A striking example of the beginning of what seems hopefully to be an educational swing back toward love of God and country and respect for our American economic system is to be found in the transformation wrought in the controversial high school civics textbook, Magruder's "American Government," a national scholastic "best seller" for 38 years. In last week's column I mentioned that the whole atmosphere of the book had been changed during a rewriting period begun when heavy criticism was voiced by parents over the 1946 edition.

Here is a paragraph from the opening chapter of the 1946 textbook: "When we have definite international laws and an army to enforce them we should have international peace. For instance, when atomic bombs are made only by a world government and used only by a world army, who could resist? The UN formed by the Allies is a step in that direction." In championing the surrender of "some" of our national sovereignty, the book quotes writer E. Stanley Jones: "Center yourself on yourself and make yourself sovereign, and that self will go to pieces. That is true of the individual, and it is true of the group or nation." Spirit of America

In the 1955 edition these passages do not appear. Here is an excerpt typical of the orientation of the rewritten 1955 book: "As the leader of the free nations of the world, the United States is working for a lasting peace among all nations. But at the same time we know that the only sure guarantee of peace in today's strife-torn world lies 'in our own strength' and in that of our allies. We oppose the Soviet-led communist dictatorships because we love liberty even more than we prize peace. We agree with Patrick Henry that peace is not to be bought at the price of chains and slavery." The 1946 textbook, in discussing our economic system, said: "Capitalism gives economic freedom and incentive to do one's best; but it does not give as regular employment as a socialistic system of government." This was bulwarked by a long section stressing "advantages" of "full employment." It doesn't appear in the 1955 edition. Next week's column will present further examples of the textbook's transformation.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

You may never have heard of Grandma Karpuk, but I think you will be interested in her story.

Mrs. Matrona G. Karpuk, now 61, was born under the Russian flag in what is now Poland. She came to the U. S. as a young woman and her two children, a son and a daughter, were born in Baltimore. The son, Anton, Jr., graduated from Johns Hopkins University and fought in World War II.

Her husband, Anton, became a naturalized citizen, but she never took this step. In the early 1930's she joined the International Workers Order in order to get an insurance policy costing 93 cents a month. This was long before the IWO was placed on the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations.

One June 9, 1954, she was ordered deported.

Grandma Karpuk was not a citizen of our country, but neither was she a stranger to our way of life. She had made her contributions to that way of life, and it seemed to me that she deserved more consideration from her adopted land.

After an investigation I moved to block the deportation order. The Attorney General agreed to review the case and I introduced a private bill in the Senate, which, if passed, would have ended the deportation proceedings for all time.

Recently, Attorney General

Brownell informed me that he had made a ruling in a case similar to Grandma Karpuk's that unwitting membership in the IWO for the purpose of getting insurance and fraternal benefits did not constitute sufficient grounds for deportation.

I have reintroduced my bill, (the last version expired with the last Congress), just to make sure, but it appears that Grandma Karpuk will be staying right here—just where she wants to be.

We Marylanders are right neighborly and I think Grandma Karpuk will be the first to agree.

Craftsmanship in Wool

This portrait of Sir Winston Churchill, made entirely from wool carpet, has been presented to the Prime Minister by British carpet-makers. It was hand-woven by J. C. S. Varney of London in honor of Sir Winston's 80th birthday. By using high quality worsted carpet yarns in a wide range of colors, Mr. Varney was able to create the wool portrait without resorting to dyeing or tinting.

PHYLLIS AVERY, WHO PLAYS the wife of Ray Miland in his television show, in real life is Mrs. Don Taylor. The Taylors were amazed recently when their 6-year-old daughter, Avery, switched her interest from dolls and skipping ropes to learning to write. After spending hours teaching her little fingers to manipulate a pencil, Don and Phyllis came to the conclusion that she had an ulterior motive behind all this cramming, so they asked her why she was so intent on the project. They were delighted by her answer:

"I have to learn to write my name to get a library card."

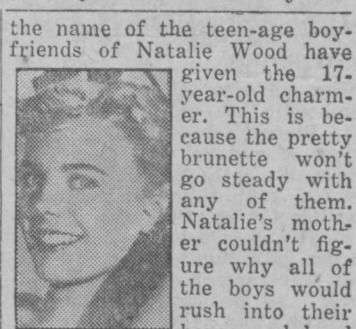

Needless to say, little Avery now belongs to the neighborhood library.

Ivy's Charm

The Quick Switch from blank verse to the vernacular on "The Halls of Ivy" TV show is what gives the series much of its charm. For instance here is a sample of some of the gem-studded dialogue Ronald Colman handed to Benita Hume the other day in his role as Dr. Todhunter Hall:

"I have a the-Ronald Colman ory that music started with the first man who ever said to the woman he loved: 'There are no words to tell you how much I love you.' So he hollowed out a reed, or fashioned a lute, or perhaps he simply made a drum to tell her how he felt... and she probably told him to beat it!"

Natalie Wood for the den. Finally, she learned the reason. Natalie keeps a picture of her favorite "dreamboat" in a frame on her study desk. She won't tell who has the inside track with her from week to week, so the kids dash to the desk to see which glad lad is thick with the chick. Natalie is seen in "Four Star Playhouse," CBS television, appearing with Charles Boyer in a teleplay titled, "The Wild Bunch."

TELEVISION'S SCHOOL MA'AM, Eve Arden says TV fails in the same department the movies used to.

No provision is made to train newcomers. "Television should set aside certain programs to fill the need of training young actors. The repertory theater where I first studied acting is dead."

Eve Arden said Eve. "Good dramatic schools are few and far between and where many of our current stars learned their stuff? Actually, where can a clever kid go nowadays to get experience?"

INCOME TAX FACTS No. 6

Don't Forget Job Expenses, Home and Car Deductions

(This is one of a series of articles on income tax changes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

What difference does it make whether you take a federal income tax deduction before or after determining your adjusted gross income? Plenty. Certain deductions can be taken before you arrive at your adjusted gross income, from which you can still deduct 10% as a standard deduction instead of itemizing any other deductions.

For example, a business man can deduct his reasonable and necessary expenses for travel that keeps him away from his home city overnight before arriving at his adjusted gross income. So can an employee when traveling for his employer. This was true under the old law and remains in effect.

The employee was at a disadvantage, however, when deducting other expenses in connection with his work. These could not be treated the same way—unless they were reimbursed by his employer (in which case, the reimbursement would be counted as income). Otherwise, he could only deduct such expenses among his itemized deductions. If he used the 10% standard deduction he would lose them entirely.

Transportation Expenses

The new law allows the employee to deduct before determining adjusted gross income all his transportation expenses in connection with his employer's business. These include fares, automobile expenses, and (if in connection with overnight travel) meals and lodging.

Employee's expenses other than these can only be deducted if the standard deduction or tax table is not used. The expense of commuting between home and place of work is not deductible at all.

An "outside salesman" (one who usually works away from his employer's place of business) can deduct all his business expenses before arriving at adjusted gross income, just as if he were in business for himself.

Automobile Deductions

To deduct automobile expenses in connection with business travel you should first add up the total cost of maintaining your car, including depreciation, gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent, etc. Divide this total by the number of miles you drove in 1954 to find the average cost per mile, then multiply this by the number of miles you drove your car for business travel only. This will give you the amount you should

NO COMMENT

By WALTER CHAMBLIN, JR.

WASHINGTON — The poet Thomas Campbell, whose life bridged the 18th and 19th centuries, is the author of this often quoted line—"Coming events cast their shadows before." This seems appropriate to keep in mind in appraising the merger of the AFL and CIO and pending developments on Capitol Hill.

The farm group in Congress, which advocates rigid price supports at 90 per cent of parity for basic agricultural commodities, has picked up support from a new source—organized labor, especially the CIO. This is a political development which bears watching.

In the last Congress President Eisenhower vigorously supported his Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Benson, in successfully opposing the continuation of 90 per cent of parity. The Administration took the position that the 90 per cent rigid price supports build up large surpluses. Since there is no market for these surpluses, the government must borrow money to pay the farmer for that which he cannot sell. The borrowing of this money increases the national debt—which sparks an inflationary spiral—which in turn increases the cost of food to the

To prevent this—the Administration favored and succeeded in passing a new farm law providing for flexible price supports down to 82½ per cent. This new law does not become effective until the current crops, that is, the 1955 crops, are harvested. Consequently, its effect is yet to be tested and farm price conditions today are therefore in no way attributable to the Eisenhower-Benson program.

Nevertheless, the 90 per cent of parity group has pushed vigorously to restore the old parity formula. A bill has been reported by the House Agricultural Committee. Its sponsors are optimistic of passage and the story at the Capitol is that a deal is in the making between the 90 per cent of parity group and big union bosses. The pending deal is to be this—labor members of Congress will support the 90 per cent of parity group—and the 90 per cent of parity group in turn will support the labor members of Congress in seeking an increase in the minimum wage to $1.25 per hour. (Mr. Eisenhower has recommended an increase from 75 cents to 90 cents).

It has been expected that the 90 per cent of parity bill would be brought to a vote in the House late this week or the first of next week. Now, however, the 90 per cent group is not sure of the votes—but, regardless of that, the political importance of the pending deal is in no way diminished. If the farm-labor groups combine in support of economic policy, this would forecast measures tending to increase the inflationary spiral over and over again.

A year ago more than 40 New Dealers who usually support legislation favored by big union bosses voted against 90 per cent of parity on the basis that it would increase consumer prices—but under the pending deal union leadership figures a $1.25 minimum wage would more than compensate for the increase that a 90 per cent of farm price parity would give to consumer prices.

NOTE: Who pays for such a deal? Well, it is you—unless you are a parity farmer or under the minimum wage.

Governor Proclaims "Youth Temperance, Education Week"

Apr. 3 to 9 has been proclaimed by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin as "Youth's Temperance Education Week" in Maryland.

Copies of the Governor's proclamation, posters, and educational leaflets will be distributed throughout the state. In some areas alcohol education films will be shown in the schools, and public meetings emphasizing the importance of knowledge about beverage alcohol will be held.

Speaks On Rheumatic Fever

Dr. Milton Markowitz spoke to the Frederick County Medical Society last Wednesday evening at a dinner at the Hotel Frederick. Dr. Markowitz talked on "Modern Methods of Rheumatic Fever Control" in connection with the Heart Assn. of Maryland's statewide program to eliminate rheumatic fever.

Rheumatic fever is a disease that may affect any part of the body—particularly the heart, joints, blood vessels, skin or brain. Recurring attacks of rheumatic fever can damage the heart muscle and valves. When rheumatic fever strikes, it usually follows nose and throat infections that are caused by a germ of the streptococcus family.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30—Matters of importance to the Sixth Maryland District are being pressed by me before the proper Congressional committees. I am happy to report that I have made arrangements to take up with the House Appropriations Committee the granting of funds approved by the Bureau of the Budget to carry on the Cumberland-Ridgely Flood Control project. Bids on current phases of the project who already have had rheumatic fever, future rheumatic fever attacks can be prevented. This was the purpose of Dr. Markowitz's visit—to tell of the latest methods for prevention and treatment of rheumatic fever. Dr. Markowitz is instructor in pediatrics at Johns Hopkins and chairman of the Prophylaxis Committee of the Heart Assn. of Maryland.

Rheumatic fever is one of the leading causes of death among children, ages 10 to 14 years. One quarter of a million new cases of rheumatic fever are reported every year in the U. S. Altogether about one million Americans of all ages are affected by the disease.

The Heart Assn. of Maryland and the State Dept. of Health have initiated a program consisting of education and supplying drugs to needy patients to combat this problem.

Beall Seeks To Amend 1938 Natural Gas Act

No Need for Dual Control By FPC, Cites Able Md. Utilities Commission

Washington, D. C. — Sen. J. Glenn Beall, (R-Md.) has introduced a bill amending Sec. 1 of the Natural Gas Act to the effect that the sale of natural gas by Maryland gas producers and gatherers will be exempt from the jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission.

"This bill," Sen. Beall commented, "follows the traditional Maryland legislation of protecting States Rights."

"It will make certain that the Natural Gas Act of 1938 is administered in the manner that was intended at the time it was enacted."

"Maryland already has an adequate Public Utilities Commission of able men whose duty it is to administer state laws which regulate and protect not only its natural resources but its people as well. There is no foreseeable need for dual regulation."

PROVISIONS

The bill introduced by Sen. Beall will:

1—Protect the ultimate consumer of natural gas from unreasonable costs by allowing the law of supply and demand to regulate the price of natural gas.

2—It will relieve the onus and burden of regulation by the Federal Government from the producer and gatherer of natural gas and their sales which is already controlled by the highly competitive nature of their operations.

3—It would carry out the recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Energy Supplies and Resources Policy established by President Eisenhower last year. This committee, generally known as the President's Fuel Policy Committee on February 27 made public its recommendations.

RECOMMENDATIONS

"The Federal Government should not control the production, gathering, processing or sale of natural gas prior to its entry into an interstate transmission line."

This recommendation follows the original intent of the Natural Gas Act which, according to Sen. Beall, specifically states in Sec. 1 (b) that "shall not apply . . . to the production or gathering of natural gas."

COURT OPPOSES

Despite exemption by the Act, the Supreme Court last June handed down a decision which ordered the FPC to fix prices on all wholesales of natural gas in interstate commerce, whether or not it occurs before, during, or after transmission by an interstate pipeline company.

This rather strange interpretation of the plain language of the Natural Gas Act, Sen. Beall said, at one stroke makes every gas producer in the state of Maryland a public utility be he big or little producer, an integrated company or an independent wild-catter.

Allow this policy and strange interpretation to stand, he added, and there is a grave possibility that the incentive to explore and develop new natural gas reserves will be destroyed. This would ultimately deprive consumers of an adequate supply of this important fuel. Dwindling supplies, according to Sen. Beall, can only result in higher prices as supplies diminish.

PRICE CONTROLS

Far more important however, according to Sen. Beall, is the fact that a policy based on the Supreme Court's decision can only open the door to a wider range of Federal price controls over every other commodity in the American economy.

An adequate natural gas reserve is necessary, he added, for the ultimate strength of our national security. By encouraging the development of new reserves, we not only strengthen our security, but also give assurance of an adequate supply of natural gas to meet growing consumer demands at a continued low price.

will be opened on Apr. 13.

Major legislation considered by the House of Representatives last week included two items of interest to us—pay increases and rubber. The postal pay increase bill was before the House under a proposed suspension of the rules. I voted against the proposal which would have meant no floor discussion on this important measure. My vote was not against the measure, but against the limitation placed on debate. The bill, itself, is a good one. It embodies the best of the proposals made by the Post Office Dept. and those presented to the Committee during extensive hearings. There are safeguards in it for the protection of the individual employee. There is a guaranty against reduction in salary, and there are excellent provisions for appeal.

The bill, as prepared by the House Post Office committee, provides for an average annual salary for postal service employees of $4243. This represents an average increase since 1945 of over $2000 per employee, or 96.6%. During this same period the increase in the cost of living was 48.7%.

I might also point out that on July 1, 1951, the effective date of the last salary increase, the cost of living was 110.9; in February of 1955 the index stood at 114.3. This represents an increase of only 3.4 points, or 3.07%. The bill now under consideration grants a minimum salary increase of 7.6%.

Of interest to all of us who use products made of rubber, but especially to the business and manufacturing interest in our District, is the Congressional approval of the sale of the Federally-owned synthetic rubber plants to private industry. I voted to approve the sale of the 2 plants, but I did vote against the sale of three of these plants to a single company.

The entire floor discussion clearly indicated that there are sufficient safeguards in each contract to prevent discrimination against the small rubber-using firms - and manufacturing plants. I have been assured that the small user of rubber will continue to receive the product at a fair price.

Easter Greetings Carry Message of Resurrection

With more Americans taking an active part in church work than at anytime in history, it is expected that religious Easter cards will be exchanged this year in greater numbers than ever before. Demand for Easter cards with reverent themes, always high, is keeping pace with increased church membership and Sunday church school enrollment, which stand at a record 100,000,000 and 35,000,000 respectively this year, according to Hallmark Cards.

Senders of Easter cards have a wide variety of religious designs from which to choose. Among the most popular are those that portray Christ and the Resurrection, stained glass church windows, angels, the Bible, and parchment booklets handsomely illuminated in the style of ancient religious masterpieces.

New and especially striking is Hallmark's "The Easter Story," a large greeting that traces the events of Holy Week in pictures and story based on Biblical passages. The card features 10 numbered scenes to be lifted in sequence, each telling the story of the event in verse. The first Easter greeting cards, in the form we know them today, were sent in northern Germany around the middle of the 19th Century. Most of the early Easter greetings were religious scenes.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

An interesting event happened in Congress the other day. Through means of a "privileged resolution" Rep. Clare Hoffman (R-Mich.) got information from Pentagon.

A "privileged resolution" provides information requested by seven days, or Congressional action forces revelation of information.

Rep. Hoffman wanted to know how many military posts U. S. has abroad, how G. W. Harder, many men involved, the cost. He was told promptly U. S. has about 950 overseas installations manned by about half present U. S. combat force, or 1,370,000 men. He also learned there are about 167,000 U. S. civilian employees in armed forces plus 218,000 civilians working for foreign governments under contract to U. S. plus 124,000 German civilians. Altogether, wages to civilian employees runs over $4½ billion per year.

Rep. Hoffman is reported planning to use same method to force some information out of State Department. Thus, he invoked a Congressional weapon that had all but been forgotten.

Revival of this weapon may even embolden some Congressmen to get curious about Foreign Operations Administration which continues to soak up billions in American taxes to give away around world.

It is held doubtful that one Congressman in 20 knows how these billions are being thrown around, yet so far no investigations have been made.

For example, FOA announces gifts to Israel.

FOA announced among other items it has given Israel $900,000 worth of fruit wrapping tissue.

Some representatives of U. S. citrus industry on questioning refused to hazard guess on how many oranges could be wrapped with almost a million dollars worth of tissue.

But average monthly exports of Israel of all products is far less than amount of fruit wrapping tissue FOA has just given nation. And it is held pretty certain no Congressmen has any idea how many years supply $900,000 worth of fruit wrapping tissue is for Israel.

Nor probably can any Congressmen explain how tissue wrapping Israel fruit contributes to U. S. defense. If tissue wrapped fruit is vital to defense, then fact majority of U. S. grown fruit is sold naked indicates U. S. home defense is in woefully weak condition.

Thus it appears in Washington Rep. Hoffman has hit upon method whereby Congress if so minded, could learn many interesting facts about way U. S. billions are tossed away while U. S. schools and roads suffer.

Of course, some say GOP will not investigate vigorously a situation it is permitting; neither will Democrats investigate a situation they started.

But on other hand, it is pointed out, Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, undoubtedly a democrat just as undoubtedly as is fact FOA was started by democrats, pulled out rug from under FOA scandals. So Washington feels it is not impossible for a vigorous probe of FOA to be launched during present Congressional session.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Mar. 31—This time of year I get many letters as to the best place to live from people about to be pensioned. They seem to favor Florida, California, Arizona, and other Southern States. They appear to be tiring of cold winters.

Where To Go?

Localities which are attractive and have good business during the winter months may be unpleasant and unprofitable during the summer. The reverse is also true. Certainly no state or county or community has all the advantages or disadvantages. The birds learned this after millions of years' experience! I selected summer headquarters in New England and winter headquarters in Florida—even before man had joined the birds in air transportation.

A warm climate would doubtless be desirable for an older couple; but it may not be wise for a young couple with children. There is something debilitating and enervating in climates that are too warm, especially when the heat is of long duration. Statistics published by Yale University show that the most energetic and intelligent people develop under marked contrasts of climate. The "terrible weather changes" of New England may have created the energy which financed so many farms and cities and built railroads across the United States.

Importance of Income

The much-advertised growth of such states as Florida, California, and Arizona does not stem from new babies, or agricultural producers. "Newcomers" are moving in to retire and take it easy. They must be sure a check will come from the North each month to use as a nest egg or backlog. I refer to pension money, insurance, rents on northern property—or dividends on stocks or interest on bonds or mortgages. Social Security checks are a help, but they will not pay all the bills in any state to which people are now flocking.

Don't expect a big dip in the living costs in these delightful winter climates. You may not need so much fuel or electricity or clothing, but food and rents cost as much, considering what you get. There is no reduction in doctors' or dentists' or hospital bills; while beauty-parlor bills are reported to be higher! Florida does give homestead tax exemption on property up to $5000. Different states and cities have different way of collecting taxes, but in the end they add up to about the same.

A Job or A Business?

Many retired men get restless after a while. If you want a job, get work in something in which you are trained. If considering a business of your own, work on salary before buying. Caretakers' Service, Collection Agencies, Tree Nurseries, Diaper Services, Frozen Food Deliveries, Clothes Repairing and Pressing, Manufacturers' Representatives, Spraying, Shopping, Typing, and Real Estate look best to me.

What about buying a home? This is not a bad idea but there are certain qualifications you should consider: Near stores and churches; with land for a vegetable garden and possible future sale of an extra lot; and in a section which is improving and not declining. Better live in a community a year before buying real estate, to get the feeling! Real estate values are determined by feelings and not figures.

Final Advice

You can select a state to which to move by studying maps, real estate booklets, and other propaganda. Then write to the state chamber of commerce located at the capital of the state you are thinking of moving to. Tell them you would appreciate information regarding different localities, climate, and opportunities. But do not select any locality of that state without first visiting it, even if you need a leave-of-absence from your job in order to do this. In closing, just a word of financial advice: If you are looking for acreage, buy land adjoining some owned by the U. S. agricultural department and used as an experiment station. This should be good land and easy to dispose of if you ever wish to sell at a profit. This applies to all states.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

The national average support price for 1955-crop soybeans has been set at $2.04 per bushel, according to George B. Reeves, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. This price amounts to 70 per cent of the Feb. 15, 1955 parity price of $2.91 per bushel.

Chairman Reeves explains that price support on 1955-crop soybeans will be carried out as in the past through farm and warehouse-stored loans and through purchase agreements. The loans and purchase agreements will be available from harvest time through Jan. 31, 1956 and the maturity date for the loans will be May 31, 1956.

Soybeans, to be eligible for price support under the 1955 operation, must be produced in 1955, must grade No. 4 or better, and contain not more than 14 per cent moisture.

"County support rates for soybeans with premiums and discounts by classes and grade for different quality will be announced later," Mr. Reeves says.

In a change from provisions of the 1954 soybean support program, both and warehouse-stored loans will be made at the support rates for the county where the soybeans are produced rather than the rate for the specific county where the soybeans are stored. This will facilitate storage and also assist in take-over of soybeans when county lines are crossed.

Soybeans under support from the 1954 crop are at record levels. Although only small quantities of soybeans have been taken into CCC inventories in recent years, CCC has accumulated large quantities of other oilseeds and edible oils, particularly cottonseed oil and flaxseed. The soybean level at $2.04 per bushel for 1955 is designed to continue the good balance that has existed between soybean production and consumption in prior years.

Director Explains Farm Deferments

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, State Director of the Maryland Selective Service, said this week that there appears to be a continuing and quite widespread misunderstanding among farmers and their employees regarding the meaning and effect of II-C "Agricultural Occupational Deferments." These II-C deferments are given only in cases where a local draft board has determined that the production of a given farm is "necessary to the national health, safety or interest." They are not given for the reason alone, that a registrant owns a farm, is a good farm hand, or has never done anything else in his life except to farm. When a farm deferment is given, it must not be considered in any sense as an exemption from military service. In fact, almost every registrant who is deferred now, or who will be deferred in the future, will remain liable for military service until he becomes 35 years of age. Because of this provision of the law, some local boards are now requesting authority to send older II-C registrants in for physical examinations without changing their present classifications. This authority will be granted in certain individual cases in order that those registrants who fail to pass their physical examina-her husband is actually the stronger of the two.

When the germs of tuberculosis, for example, enter the human body there is always the possibility that they may cause disease. Whether they do so or not depends to a large extent on the ability of the body to resist infection. Apparently the female of the species has more of the strength needed to fight off disease. She also seems better able to defeat the disease when it does take hold.

Even among babies this seems to be true. Deaths from miliary TB and tuberculous meningitis, which attack children under three with special virulence, are more frequent among boy babies than among girls. There seems to be a short period during adolescence when girls are the weaker sex, possibly because they are dieting for slim figures and the boys are living by training rules in hopes of becoming athletic champions. Soon, however, the boys give up their dreams of glory. In middle and late life the picture changes. More men than women die of tuberculosis. Partly, this may be due to the special pressures of modern life upon men. But they do seem to lack a special resistance that women have.

Members of the stronger sex must make an effort to keep their husbands in good health, to get that they eat properly, get enough exercise, rest, and relaxation, and have a regular medical check-up. He may be a Samson when it comes to moving pianos, but he needs to be put to bed when he has a cold.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

"Weight for weight, bluegills are the most consistently good fighter of any fish, at least in our fresh water." So insists Jason Lucas, angling editor of Sports Afield magazine. Another thing that he likes about bluegills is that there is no other fish which shows such a decided preference for artificial flies. Except in very late fall, when they're down in 30 feet of water, flies will invariably get a lot more bluegills than will live bait.

Using flies for bluegills doesn't call for the long study that some other types of fishing do. Any fly rod is OK. Lucas suggests a dry-fly trout rod between 7 and 8 feet, moderately powerful. It is important to have the line heavy enough to bring out the action of the rod. Here are the lines that work best on such a rod:

The C level is much the least expensive, and is perhaps the easiest to learn with. Considering the tapered lines, you'll find that an HCH double-taper casts fine with this type of rod. A double-taper is intended for dry flies, works fine with smaller wet flies, but is not suitable for bugs or large streamers. A GFB line gives the most distance after you learn to "shoot" line.

With bluegill flies you should use a tapered leader. Try one of 7½ feet. The point or tippet—the front part—should be about the lightest that you can find.

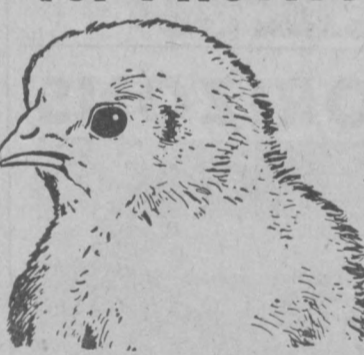

There are only three "secrets" to catching bluegills on flies: (1) Use a small fly; (2) fish it deep; (3) fish it slowly. For really big fish, the rule is: Fish deep.

Many fishermen make the mistake of using too large a fly. Lucas never uses larger than No. 10 for blue gills. Sometimes smaller ones are more productive, even down to No. 18. Not only should the hook be small but, usually, the dressing too—remember that a bluegill has a very small mouth. Wet-fly wings, lying back along the body, do no harm; but erect dry-fly wings, except in the smallest sizes, aren't so good. Dry flies work well for bluegills only in the late evening. Nymphs sometimes work fine on them.

Don't fret about patterns, but the general color of a fly is often rather important. Get some that are mainly black, white, medium gray and medium brown.

Sows can become infected with leptospirosis at breeding or during pregnancy and may lose their pigs during the two weeks prior to farrowing.

Homemakers' Corner

"When the time comes to replace worn-out sheets and pillow cases, two things confront most homemakers," states Vivian L. Curnutt, home furnishings specialist of the University of Maryland Extension Service. One problem is whether to buy the heavier muslin sheets and pillow cases or the softer, smoother, finer muslins and percales; second, whether to buy or not to buy the new-type fitted sheets.

Miss Curnutt points out that the wise choice depends always on the qualities that meet the specific needs of the family. Both the heavier and finer muslin, and the smoother percales have advantages. The heavy muslin with 140-thread count per square inch is a good buy for durability. These sheets are suited to sturdy wear such as is needed for boys' beds. Because the fabric is heavy, the sheets tend to wrinkle less in use than the finer, softer types; but Miss Curnutt claims "we can't overlook the fact that their weight adds to laundering costs if they are sent to laundries that charge by the pound."

On the other hand, finer muslins with a 180-thread count per square inch and the percales with 200-thread count are good buys for smoothness and softness. However, they can't take such hard wear as the heavy muslins.

The length of sheets for full-length beds should be at least 108 inches. The 113-inch length will provide greater protection from soil to the mattress, blankets and quilts. The width should be 54 inches for the cot; 63 inches, single bed; 72 inches, twin-size bed, and 81-90 inches, full size bed.

When the homemaker is confronted with the question of whether or not to invest in the contour sheet, she may want to purchase one and give it a try. The specialist observes that fitted sheets save ironing and give greater comfort if the fit is close enough so they can't wrinkle.

It is important that they fit the mattress on which they are going to be used. If the contour of the sheet is, too deep or the sheet is too long for the mattress,

PIMLICO CLASSIC SET FOR MAY 14

Scheduled to be Pimlico's principal stakes race for three-year-old fillies in 1955, the Black-Eyed Susan will be run at the Baltimore track on Saturday, May 14. The owner of the eventual winner will receive a handsome silver trophy and the Maryland Jockey Club has added $20,000 to the purse for this annual spring feature.

The Black-Eyed Susan always a top attraction at Pimlico, race meetings, was inaugurated in 1919

the sheet loses its anti-wrinkle advantage. If the contour should be too narrow for the mattress, the sheet may be hard to pull in place. The extra pull may cause extra wear, warns the specialist.

As an over-all guide, Miss Curnutt suggests a good buying plan is to purchase each year and keep "new and old sheets" rotated in use.

when Earl Sande piloted Milkmaid to victory. A number of famous fillies including Twilight Tear, Nellie Morse, Vagrancy and Gallor-ette, have won this stakes. The coming renewal during the Pimlico meeting, which opens on May 10, will be the 31st for the Black-Eyed Susan.

NO. 222 EQUITY ADOPTIONS IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, MARYLAND.

EZ PARTE IN THE MATTER OF FREDERICK MILTON BIGGS AND EILEEN ELIZABETH BIGGS, HIS WIFE.

The object of this Bill is to procure the adoption of a minor child by the Petitioner, Frederick Milton Biggs. The Bill states in substance that the Petitioner, Eileen Elizabeth Biggs, is the natural mother of said minor child; that said child was born as a result of the marriage of Eileen Elizabeth Biggs and Arthur G. Wulfenstein; that said marriage was terminated by a Decree of Divorce of the District Court of the Third Judicial District, Salt Lake County, State of Utah in which said decree the custody of said minor child was granted to said Petitioner; that the present address of said Arthur G. Wulfenstein is unknown but that he is a non-resident of the State of Maryland; that the said Eileen Elizabeth Biggs is now married to the Petitioner Frederick Milton Biggs; that both Petitioners are residents of Frederick County, State of Maryland; that said minor child has been in the care and custody of said Eileen Elizabeth Biggs since birth; that the Petitioners believe that the best interest and future welfare of said child will be promoted by said adoption; that the name of said minor child be changed from Richard James Wulfenstein to Richard James Biggs.

It is thereupon this 29th day of March, 1955 by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Petitioner give notice to the said non-resident of the object and substance of this Bill by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 30th day of April, 1955, commanding him to be and appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 16th day of May, 1955, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree shall not be passed as prayed.

Senator LeBlanc of Hadacol Fame Has A Brand New Product

Lafayette, La. (SPECIAL)—Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc of Lafayette, La., who successfully promoted Hadacol from scratch to a multi-million dollar business, is now manufacturing another Vitamin and Mineral tonic called KARY-ON.

This week, however, the Senator announced that he has bought the machinery and equipment to manufacture a hand fire extinguisher. It is a cylindrical can (similar to a large salt shaker) about 9 inches high and 3 inches in diameter and pours out a dry powder which extinguishes a flame instantly.

"This QUIKIE Extinguisher is a must on the farm where fire departments are often too far to help and where water is often scarce with little or no pressure. Every automobile and truck" he said, "should be equipped with a QUIKIE and every boat certainly should have one or more. In school buildings every school room should be so equipped. Children and women may not be able to handle large and heavy fire extinguishers".

"The QUIKIE chemical will not deteriorate with age, will not cake, pack or freeze, is not poisonous and will not damage even the finest fabrics. The QUIKIE Fire Extinguisher needs no inspecting, recharging or periodical changes as is often necessary in other extinguishers", he said.

"The fact that the QUIKIE chemical is so effective and is as harmless as talcum powder makes the QUIKIE an extinguisher invaluable for fire protection in cars and trucks, kitchen, stores, gasoline stations, homes, offices, schools, warehouses or any place in industry where work in progress or materials might be ruined by water or by liquid types of extinguishers", LeBlanc said.

Senator LeBlanc was emphatic in saying that the QUIKIE Extinguisher would be highly advertised in daily and weekly newspapers and magazines throughout the nation.

There were approximately 1,899,400 fires of all types in the United States in 1953 causing a loss of $1,021,720,000 according to estimates compiled by the National Fire Protection Association.

Putting out an automobile fire with QUIKIE.

Realizing that loss of life and injury by fire is a major cause of human suffering, Senator LeBlanc said that he hoped through advertising to interest the public in the necessity of using QUIKIE so that loss of life and injury as well as the needless destruction of property by fire may be reduced. That is one of the reasons why the price of QUIKIE has been made so reasonable, only $5.00, he said.

QUIKIE, therefore, seems to be the answer to America's serious need for a Small, Effective, Economical Fire Extinguisher.
